KLEMME TIMES

. W. J. Bars 1 0

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER 18 KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, January 2 1919 $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

LOYD LAWHORN PASSED AWAY WEDNESDAY MORNING

Cloyd Lawhorn passed away at 2:45 ednesday morning after an illness f pneumonia for about ten days.

Mr. Lawhorn had an attack of in- enza which later turned into pneu- onia, causing his untimely death. He as reported to be better the other ay and his many friends had hoped or his speedy recovery and the news his death brought to them a shock. he funeral services will be held to- ay at the house.

Further particulars and obituary ill be published next week as the ecessary information is unavailable t this time.

The sympathy of the entire com- unity is extended to the bereaved ife and relatives.

JOSEPH M. ELDRIDGE

Joseph M. Eldridge was born in Ja- aica, Iowa, some 28 years ago and at Madison, Wisconsin, while in hemical Warfare Service, Wednes- ay, December 4th, 1918. His death ame very suddenly, even to his most intimate friends, and was presumably due to influenza.

His college education was obtained at Iowa State College, Ames, Iowa, where he graduated from the Dairy Husbandry Course in June, 1916. Be- hind this bare statement of fact is a tory of persistent striving for an ed- cation against ill health and other ifficulties of which the average tudent does not know. He was a ember of the Kappa Sigma frater- ty and counted his friends by the mber who knew him. "Joe" as he as known by all, was loved for his igh ideals, manly character, and last ut not least, his cheerful disposition is many friends will miss him great- y and his nearest and most intimate riends mourn his loss deeply.

During his residence in Brookings ince September, 1916, he has been mployed as a Professor in the Dairy Department of the college where he as performed his work faithfully and well and has been especially well liked by students and faculty. Last July, after having been placed in deferred classification on account of a consti- tutional physical disability, he finally succeeded in passing the physical ex amination for limited service and was sent with the July draft to Camp Dodge. From there he was transferred to Chemical Warfare Service at Mad ison, Wisconsin, where he had re mained doing his part in the service of his country. Just as it seemed that he had arrived at the time of his life to which every young person looks forward, his difficulties overcome and soon to be returned honorably to pri- vate life, where he could live peace- fully and happily, "taps" are without warning sounded and another one of our best young men is called to his reward.

Funeral services and interment were at his former home, Ames, Iowa, to which place, from Madison, Prof. Earl Series acted as escort.

He leaves a mother, two sisters, and a brother in France. He was to have been married Christmas to Miss Laura Jones, a sister of Mrs. R. L. Patty, of Brookings.

The above clipping is taken from the Brookings County (South Dako- ta) Press and was given to us for publication by Mrs. Eldridge, mother of Mr. Joseph Eldridge. Mr. Eldridge is also a brother of Mrs. R. M. Thomas of this city.

Watch Me For Coming Events

IDLE HOUR
Weekly Program

Marguerite Clark in
"The Goose Girl"
Saturday, January 4

Franklin Farnum in
"The Fighting Grin"
A Blue Bird Production
Wednesday, Jan. 1

Dance Every Friday Night

HUNGER DRAWS THE MAP

A food map of Europe today shows not a single country in which the future does not hold threat of serious difficulties and only a small part which is not rapidly approaching the famine point. With the exception of the Ukraine only those countries which have maintained marine commerce have sufficient food supplies to meet actual needs until next harvest, and even in the Ukraine, with stores accumulated on the farms, there is famine in the large centers of population.

Belgium and northern France, as well as Serbia, appear on the hunger map distinct from the rest of Europe because they stand in a different relation from the other nations to the people of the United States. America has for four years maintained the small war rations of Belgium and northern France and is already making special efforts to care for their increased after-the-war needs, which, with those of Serbia, must be included in this plan, are urgent in the extreme and must have immediate relief.

The gratitude of the Belgian nation for the help America has extended to her during the war constitutes the strongest appeal for us to continue our work there. The moment the German armies withdrew from her soil and she was established once more in her own seat of government the little nation's first thought was to express her gratitude to the Commission for Relief in Belgium for preserving the lives of millions of her citizens.

Germany, on the other hand, need not figure in such a map for Americans because there is no present indication that we shall be called on at all to take thought for the food needs of Germany. Germany probably can care for her own food problem if she is given access to shipping and is enabled to distribute food to the cities with dense populations, which are the trouble centers.

England, France, the Netherlands and Portugal, all of which have been maintained from American supplies, have sufficient food to meet immediate needs, but their fututre presents serious difficulties. The same is true of Spain and the northern neutral countries—Norway, Sweden and Denmark—whose ports have been open and who have been able to draw to some degree upon foreign supplies.

Most of Russia is already in the throes of famine, and 40,000,000 people there are beyond the possibility of help. Before another spring thousands of them inevitably must die. This applies as well to Poland and practically throughout the Baltic regions, with conditions most serious in Finland.

Bohemia, Serbia, Roumania and Montenegro have already reached the famine point and are suffering a heavy toll of death. The Armenian population is falling each week as hunger takes its toll, and in Greece, Albania and Roumania so serious are the food shortages that famine is near. Although starvation is not yet imminent, Italy, Switzerland, Bulgaria and Turkey are in the throes of serious stringencies.

In order to fulfill America's pledge for world relief we will have to export [illegible] which can be handled through our ports. This means at the very least a minimum of 20,000,000 tons compared with 6,000,000 tons pre-war exports and 11,820,000 tons exported last year, when we were bound by the ties of war to the European allies.

If we fail to lighten the black spots on the hunger map or if we allow any portions to become darker the very peace for which we fought and bled will be threatened. Revolt and anarchy inevitably follow famine. Should this happen we will see in other parts of Europe a repetition of the Russian debacle and our fight for world peace will have been in vain.

Big Drive For War Sufferers Starts Jan. 12.

The People of Iowa Asked to Give $1,479,000 to Aid Starving People of Near East

Iowa is all set for the big united campaign for relief funds to be put on January 12 to 19, by the American and Syrian Relief committee and the Jewish War Sufferers relief board. During that week the people of Iowa will be asked to give $1,479,000 to be used in supplying food and other supplies to the ten million or more starving people in the Near East.

The people of Armenia and Syria have been persecuted and driven from their homes by the Turks, and thousands of them have starved to death.

In Russia, Poland, Lithuania, Palestine and Asia Minor there are millions of Jews who have been driven from their homes during the war. The Jewish War Sufferers Relief board of America is putting on a national campaign for funds to be used for their relief.

In Iowa it has been thought best, by the executive boards of both organizations that the drives be united. The work done by them is so similar that it makes a United Relief Drive especially fitting. Both organizations minister to any needy people who come within their territory, without regard to race or creed.

The cause is one that challenges the interest and support of every person in the broad, wealthy state of Iowa. Hon. Geo. Cosson, state chairman of the campaign, is confident the drive will be a success and that the people of the state will raise in a week's time more than the quota assigned to them, which, roughly speaking, is one per cent of the last Liberty Loan quota.

Red Cross Favors Relief Drive For Near East Needy

Approves Work Being Done for Armenians, Syrians and Jewish War Sufferers

The Red Cross is heartily in sympathy with the relief work being done by the American committee on Armenian and Syrian relief, and is lending financial aid to the cause, according to a telegram received recently by George Cosson of Des Moines, from H. P. Davison, National director of the Red Cross.

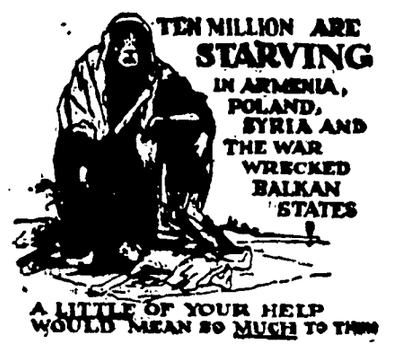
Mr. Cosson is state chairman of the drive for funds which will be put on in Iowa January 12 to 19 by the American committee on Armenian and Syrian relief and the Jewish War Sufferers relief board, and Mr. Davison's message assures him that the Red Cross is backing the drive.

Davison Gives O. K.

The telegram is as follows: "The American Red Cross during the last eighteen months has contributed $4,500,000 to this committee for relief in the Near East. We have been working in closest co-operation with that committee and have every faith in their work. The Red Cross relief does not overlap on that of this committee, as we have kept out of their field on the basis that relief work in this territory had already been well handled by them, and therefore co-operated with them by contributions mentioned above instead of organizing new units for this field.

H. P. Davison,
Director American Red Cross."

The question as to why the Red Cross did not take charge of the relief work among the ten million starving people in Armenia, Syria, Palestine, Poland, Lithuania, and the other countries whose inhabitants have been left destitute by the war, is definitely answered by this communication from the Red Cross headquarters. That organization has recognized the fact that the machinery for relief work has already been set up, and that it is better to utilize this machinery.



The Old Fashioned New Year Dance at the Idle Hour Theatre on Tuesday evening was well enjoyed by all. All the old time dances were given. The old year was danced out and the New Year danced in with an old fashioned quadrille and the merry makers did not leave for their homes until three o'clock, when the dance finally broke up. There will be another old time dance on January 28th and all are cordially invited to attend and have another big time.

Dr. W. M. Brackett is again back at Garner after a stay of nearly two years in New Mexico. "Doc" is the old time Editor of the Garner Democrat and has a host of friends in Klemme. We had a mighty fine visit with "Doc" Monday afternoon when he related his experiences in the west. "Doc" says Iowa is the only real State in the Union and that he has come back to stay. Sure he looks younger than ever and says he feels like a spring chicken.

WHIZBANGS

Germany in accordance with her spirit of Kultur now would have us believe that she protected her borders from invasion by sheer force of arms, thus saving her cities and towns from destruction and with characteristic naivete congratulates herself that such was the case, totally forgetting that only her pusilanimous surrender made it possible for her to do so. Her attack on Belgium and France in 1914 before they had an opportunity to defend themselves clearly shows the malevolent spirit of Kultur in that "the end justifies the means" which animated her, and to accomplish this she threw to the winds solemn treaties and employed methods that would put savages to the blush and although the Allies have brought her to her knees and are now in the ascendency, they scorn to retaliate by using like tactics against her, and have only occupied part of her territory for protection and as a matter of precaution. It would seem that Germany ought to be grateful enough to acknowledge the fact, and to be thankful that she is treated with so much lenience by the Allies. But that probably is more than one could expect from the vagaries of the Hunish mind.

There has been considerable discussion pro and con between those in favor of universal training for the young men and boys of this country in case of another war taking place, and those against the scheme. Our private opinion publicly expressed is that as long as human nature is what it is, jealousies and disputes between nations will arise and unless total disarmament is enforced and the manufacture and sale of the implements of war is strictly prohibited by all nations, war will ensue. And even in case of disarmament mankind being true to form probably would revert to the customs of the stone age and settle disputes with fists and clubs as formerly. However, this mode would be preferable to the one now in vogue as being more humane and less dangerous to life and limb. Throwing all jokes aside we are in favor of preparedness as being the part of wisdom to meet any contingency that might arise in the years to come.

If the late Kaiser is as crazy as some of his former generals would have us believe, he should be confined in an asylum for the criminally insane, and the generals who carried out his insane orders of rapine and murder receive the punishment he deserves.

If Germany's supply of efficiency has run out the Allies can be depended upon to supply the deficiency with enough of sufficiency to meet the demand.

The German "watch on the Rhine" having busted it's main spring and lost it's hands, has been taken over by the Allies and put in thorough repair and will be run by them hereafter on the daylight safety plan.

Of all the silly roorbacks put out by the mendacious newspaper correspondents, about the silliest is the report that Hindenburg is running another one of his famous lines six miles back from the position held by the Allies on the east side of the River Rhine. This undoubtedly must be an imaginary line without length, or breadth or thickness with its Hind-end towards the Allies front. As Misther Dooley remarks, "You mustn't belave all you see be the paypers."

It seems as if the people of Germany not having killings enough in their wars with the Allies is now engaged in killing off each other. This puts usi n mind of the story of the fabled serpent who, bent on suicide, swallowed itself, tail first until nothing was left but the head. However, if Germany keeps on she won't leave even her head; but if she finds pleasure in so doing, let her go to it. It's not our funeral.

While, on every side we hear the praises sung of the glorious deeds of our army and navy in this late war, we have yet to hear of any tribute being paid to the equally brave men who composed the working force of our merchant marine, the jack tars who braved the terrors of the submarines and faced death manfully day and night to keep the fighting men at the front fully supplied with food and munitions, those sinews of war without which our boys could not have won glorious victories and placed their names high upon the roll of honor for all the world to see. Therefore we sing the praises of the h[illegible] jacktar of the Merchant Mar[illegible] the tune of one of his old time dee[illegible] sea "chanties:"

"A wet sheet and a flowing sail,"
Yo! Ho! And a tot o' rum;
A rising wind and a steady gale,
Yo! Ho! And our work's begun.
A clearing sky with the rising sun,
Yo! Ho! And a tot o' rum;
The Boss's whistle and a lively run
Yo Ho! And our job is done.
Mere Man.

RED CROSS NEWS

Join the Red Cross now fo[illegible] and let Klemme be a 100 [illegible] town and also vicinity. [illegible] have not been asked to jo[illegible] who want to join may do [illegible] $1.00 for each adult and [illegible] child at the First [illegible] Please respond.

Shipment of December [illegible] Garner Saturday was 6 [illegible] pair pajamas, 1 swe[illegible]

All knitting ar[illegible] brought in by no[illegible]

KLEMME [illegible]

Evidently some of the High [illegible] pupils enjoyed their Christmas [illegible] tion too strenuously for s[illegible] found to be among the mi[illegible] oll call Monday morn[illegible]

Mabel Larsen left [illegible] Iowa, December 23rd, [illegible] spent her Christmas vacation.

Miss Shaver and Miss Wa[illegible] spent the past week at Cedar [illegible] but have returned to sh[illegible] burdens once more.

Mr. Tompkins and bri[illegible] his m[illegible] vacation with his [illegible] t Miller

GOOD.

Father Ea[illegible] of Belm[illegible] hurs[illegible]

Lawyer Blis[illegible] here Thursday.

****

Mrs. Cashman and daugh[illegible] went to Iowa City Saturda[illegible]

****

Allie White and fam[illegible] spent Christmas at the [illegible] home here.

****

Dr. and Mrs. Sn[illegible] home Thursday. The doc[illegible] kept busy ever since he ca[illegible]

****

Rabbit hunting is the [illegible] days.

****

Ina Ahrenkiel is clerki[illegible] store as Iva Christie is on th[illegible]

***

Arthur Savogue returned [illegible] City Thursday.

****

The dance was well attended mas night. All report a [illegible]

****

There will be a Mann[illegible] here Friday, January 3rd.

***

Mr. and Mrs. G[illegible] spending a few days w[illegible] ter and family at Renw[illegible]

****

Tauge and Alva [illegible] home from Washi[illegible] where they have been f[illegible]

****

Walter Beier went to Tek[illegible]

****

Mrs. Erickson an[illegible] home Thursday.

****

Mr. and Mrs. Diemer from Dakota are visiting here.

***

Mrs. Conlan and the M[illegible] Avery, Sullivan, and Bro[illegible] Belmond callers Friday.

****

Amos Hansen went to [illegible] Tuesday to spend Christma[illegible] parents.

Friendship is Not Blind

In friendship we see only [illegible] faults which may be prejudic[illegible] our friends, while in love we discern no faults but those by which we ourselves suffer.—La Bruyere.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH
A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday mor[illegible] at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close o[illegible] preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7:30 p. m.

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

Experiments undertaken by the navy department at the navy public health service hospital on Gallups Island, to ascertain the cause and spread of influenza, have had merely negative results. One hundred volunteers who have been under observation for several weeks have had influenza germs placed in their nostrils and throats and have eaten them with their food and some have been inoculated with serums, but no cases of the disease have developed thus far Increased appetite and more vigorous health have been the only noticeable results of the experiment. The tests will be continued.

"The arrival of Scotch infantry in Cologne caused the greatest excitement among the sightseers as the kilties swung through the streets behind their wailing bagpipes. Thousands of folk hastily collected to see the strange soldiers in skirts of whom Cologne had heard with unbelieving ears. So eagerly did the people press forward that at times traffic was practically halted. Certainly for a moment the crowds came as near forgetting their hatred of the allies as they had at any time in four years, for the highlanders made a hit and drew a smile to many a hard face," wires a correspondent.

The late King Edward VII of England, according to the London Globe, thus sized up Kaiser Wilhelm: "That fellow is foolish enough and insane enough to fight for the mastery of Europe and to involve England among his enemies in the conflict, because he suffers from the delusion that he understands the English people better than anyone else in Europe He is obsessed with the notion that, should he lose, he will always find apologists and supporters among the leaders of English opinion"

Mayor Charles E Thomas, of Colorado Springs Colo notified the 38 members of the fire department whose resignations were in his hands that their services were no longer needed The messages were taken to the fire stations by men who have been engaged by the city council to fill the vacancies The fire department is recruited mainly from other branches of city service Refusal of the council to include a wage increase for the firemen in the 1919 budget led to the resignations

Pro-soviet teachers appear to be losing upon the Berger trial in Chicago as an opportunity to spread their doctrines before the world Seymour Steadman counsel for the defense, says the newspapers have been lying about bolshevism "There were no massacres in Russia," he declared "No more than 500 persons have been killed on either side The bolshevists dethroned the czar

John D Rockefeller has filed an affidavit swearing off half of the $10,000,000 personal property assessment levied on him by the New York tax commission The affidavit says Mr Rockefeller's personal property in the city does not exceed $3,500,000, but that he was willing to accept an assessment of $5,000,000 the figure which has stood for several years

In order to protect returning soldiers from marrying hastily but not too well, 'questionnaires' are being sent to marriage license bureaus at the principal debarkation points, which must be satisfactorily answered by soldiers and their prospective brides before licenses will be issued

Another invention perfected by the Americans too late to be used is just reported It is a star shell operating at long range, under all conditions at sea. The shell will illuminate naval units of an enemy without disclosing the position of the craft using it

Asked for a statement relative to the facts collecting him being brought to light by the Senate committee's investigation of German propaganda William R Hearst said: "The investigation is not bothering me in the least You see, after all, it is not very important at least it is not for us Germany succeeded"

The Red Cross has sent 2,000,000 Christmas cards to France for the boys to send back home to friends It is often difficult for the soldiers to get cards or gifts to send The designs of the cards are especially American and have been contributed by some of the best known artists of the country

Philip Scheidemann thinks William Hohenzollern has already been punished enough Maximilian Harden is also appealing for his former master saying that William Hohenzollern had no personal part in the war but was merely a tool of the ministry party

Officials of the Brooklyn trolley lines say "The women have come to stay on our lines as long as they want to. We are taking on all who apply who are capable They prove to be steady, honest and courteous" The women are getting $27 to $33 a week

The organization of a federal department of health and the combining of various governmental and private associations devoted to various phases of public health movements is urged by Dr Geo E Vincent head of the Rockefeller Foundation

"Anti-French Feeling in Germany" "Alsatia and Lorraine and the Occupation of Paris" These headlines are from the Ox Row Banner and Oracle of 1859, and reported by Dr Holmes in 1867

Admiral Badger says the United States has agreed to pay $.0 for each American soldier transported overseas in British vessels England frequently had asked for a larger sum, he says, but no agreement as to an increase had been reached.

A Britain day cable from Lord Northcliffe is, "Alas, owing to our cast iron censorship, our American friends know little of our part in war Forty thousand land and sea officers and 900,000 men dead."

Roger O'Mara, one of the best known detectives of the country, especially in his work for and as guardian of Harry Thaw, died in his Pittsburgh home Thursday.

Before the war the German emperor was in the enjoyment of an annual income of over $1,000,000 derived from private possessions valued at approximately $100,000,000.

David R. Francis, American ambassador to Russia, is leaving for Paris for the purpose of reporting on Russian affairs to President Wilson and Secretary of State Lansing.

It is announced that approximately 200 German submarines were destroyed during the war. The total number of all types built by the Germans is estimated to have been 750

IDA COUNTY JAIL HAS NEW RECORD

Meal Furnished to But One Prisoner During the Entire Twelve Months of 1918.

Ida Grove, Ia., Dec. 28.—The Ida county jail has a record for 1918 that will probably not be equaled by any other Hawkeye county for the past 12 months. Sheriff McLeod, whose time expires January 1, and who holds the record for the longest continuous service of any Iowa sheriff—17 years—earned the munificent sum of 25 cents for feeding prisoners during the past year. The mayor of Ida Grove turned a drunk from Sac county over to the sheriff to serve a three-day sentence, but after being in jail only a few hours he made up his mind to pay his fine and was released after getting one meal from the county. During the 17 years Mr. McLeod has been in office he has never lost a prisoner, although on two or three occasions they have made their escape temporarily.

DEATH REVEALS A REAL LIFE TRAGEDY

Marshalltown, Ia., Dec. 28.—An interesting life's history came to a tragic end at the soldiers' home in this city Tuesday night, when Edward Padelford, aged 96, a member of the home from this city, either fell or jumped out of the second story window of the soldiers' home hospital His dead body was found at 10 o'clock, when an orderly discovered that Padelford's room was empty, and that a window was open Ten minutes before Padelford was seen by the orderly sitting on the edge of his bed.

Estranged from his family over 50 years ago and believed dead by his New England relatives, Padelford proved to be very much alive at 93, and the claimant to an estate of $20,000 left by a niece in Fall River, Mass.

Padelford's family was one of the best known and most prominent in Bristol county, Mass As a man past 40, believing that the west held a brighter future, Padelford left Bristol county in 1860 for Tama county, Ia., where he bought a farm He wrote for his wife and three children to join him in his new home, but Mrs. Padelford decided she did not care to go west. The result was an estrangement that was never healed For years the New England relatives of Padelford supposed him dead In 1915 a niece of Padelford, living at Fall River, Mass., died The Massachusetts law provides that in the event that there is no will the estate of a deceased goes to the oldest near relative In order to get the property of the estate, valued at $20,000 it became necessary for the New England relatives to prove that Edward Padelford was dead This was found hard to do Padelford claimed the estate and got it

As the man was very old and infirm a guardian in the person of H C. Lounsberry, a local attorney, was named by the court Before the guardian was appointed Padelford gave to P E. Wangberg, of this city, who for many years had befriended him, the sum of $4 600 Padelford's estate is all in Liberty bonds and cash in bank It is considered not unlikely that a contest of some kind will be commenced among the heirs in Massachusetts to get the estate

FINE IOWA FARM AS A CHRISTMAS GIFT

Hamburg Ia., Dec. 28.—A Christmas present of a valuable 400-acre farm is what Mr and Mrs Byron Hill received in their stockings this year

Mr and Mrs Hill are young married people Since shortly after the United States got into the war they have been living at Davenport, where Mr Hill has been employed in the government arsenal He had just graduated from the engineering department of the Iowa State University and the position which he was given at Rock Island was one of considerable responsibility and carried with it a good salary The work appealed to him strongly and Mr Hill believes that it holds great possibilities and his experience in the factory convinces him that there is a great future for industrial engineering but now, there is that farm

Mr and Mrs Hill came home to visit during the holidays, and the gift of the farm, which was made by Mrs Hill's father, G F. Carpenter, who is one of the biggest and most successful of Iowa's farmers and live stock men has put a new face on things for the young people

IOWA CONGRESSMAN HAS NEW MILITARY IDEA

Washington, Dec 28.—The House committee on military affairs is giving serious consideration to the bill of Representative Green, of Iowa, for an army of occupation made up of volunteers and regulars Under the bill there would be a volunteer force of not over 400,000 in the army of occupation, in addition to regulars. Judge Green estimates it would save $2,000,000, besides allowing men needed at home or wanting to go home to get discharges.

FORT DODGE—Damage to the amount of $30,000, partially covered by insurance, was done to River Lodge farm, John Rutledge, proprietor, when fire destroyed eight barns containing 3 years' harvest.

LEMARS—A Hormold has bought the Royal theater in this city from Eish & Berry, of Cherokee, former owners, and will reopen the house December 30

LEMARS BANKER HAS SUDDEN DEATH

LeMars, Ia., Dec. 28.—On the day he was to sit up, recuperating from an attack of influenza John Tentinger, cashier of the American Trust and Savings bank, suffered a relapse and suddenly expired

Mr. Tentinger was a prominent young business man, and had been a tower of strength in war work. He was 36 years of age and leaves a wife and two children.

LARGE QUANTITY OF HAY DESTROYED

Ida Grove, Ia., Concern Loses Heavily as No Insurance Was Carried on the Stock.

Ida Grove, Ia., Dec. 26.—Fire Saturday night destroyed 280 tons of hay for Meentz & Johnston, of this city, which they had stored in a vacated feed and tie barn. This hay Messrs. Meents & Johnston had cut from lands they had leased in western Iowa and Nebraska and was valued at $30 per ton. They had no insurance. The building was owned by C. C. Crawford, grain buyer of this city, and had been empty until rented by the men who owned the hay. The fact that the building was covered by sheet iron and no wind prevailed at the time it was burning no doubt prevented the destruction of many other buildings as there were a number of frame structures just across the alley.

MERLE HAY'S COMRADE HAS RETURNED HOME

Glidden, Ia., Dec. 26.—Glidden welcomes its first returning overseas man. Walter D. Brown, of Company L, 16th infantry, arrived home on a 15-days' furlough from the hospital at West Baden, Ind., and was given a royal welcome by his friends and neighbors.

He was one of the first eight volunteers from this place and is thought to be the only one of this number who is still alive, but there is still some uncertainty in regard to one or two others. They entered the service in May, 1917. Merle Hay was one of the number.

Walter Brown was wounded three times, the first time in May, then again on July 19 and last and most seriously on September 12. This was caused by a fragment of high explosive shell which lodged in his hip. After some time he was rescued by a comrade, himself also seriously wounded in the arm, who held a gun over four Hun prisoners and compelled them to carry him from the field.

INSTITUTION INMATES HELP IN WAR WORK

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 26.—How inmates in the various state institutions in Iowa have contributed to war work is revealed in the biennial report issued at the capitol by Forrest S. Treat, secretary of the board of control.

In the 13 institutions 7,500 garments were made in cooperation with local Red Cross chapters. They consisted of surgical supplies, bandages, handkerchiefs, tray cloths and various other articles of knitted wear. The largest number made at any institution was at Eldora, where the inmates of the training school for boys turned out 263 pieces. The next largest number were made at the soldiers' orphans' home at Davenport, with a total of 135.

War subscriptions at the state institutions totaled $206,395 35. Of this amount $152,785 went into Liberty bonds and $44,440.45 with the balance divided between the Red Cross, the Y M C. A., and others

SERVED IN GERMAN ARMY UNDER COUNT ZEPPELIN

Marcus, Ia., Dec 26.—While assisting in the care of influenza patients in his daughter's family, Jacob Mayer, aged 73 years, dropped dead from heart disease Mr Mayer came to this community over 43 years ago from Germany. He left his native land because he thought they were preparing for more wars and during the present war he has had little time for either the kaiser or Prussianism Mr Mayer served his time in military life and the captain of his company was none other than Count Zeppelin, now famous for the Zeppelin monsters which he invented Mr Mayer has a son, Ervin with the American expeditionary forces and his name appeared as "wounded" in the casualty list the day after his father's death

WIFE OF DOCTOR IS VICTIM OF INFLUENZA

Marcus Ia., Dec. 26.—One of the deaths due to influenza which has caused gloom in Marcus, occurred on Sunday afternoon in a Sioux City hospital when Mrs T C Knox, wife of Dr Knox, a young physician of this city, died Mrs Knox was about 33 years of age and is survived by her husband and two young sons. A few weeks ago Dr Knox's sisterinlaw, Mrs. Ralph Knox a young matron, died of influenza in the same hospital

Carl Weink aged 20 years, succumbed to pneumonia following influenza He was a successful young farmer of this locality

SIOUX RAPIDS SOLDIER IS REPORTED MISSING

Sioux Rapids Ia., Dec 26.—George Graber has been notified by the war department that his son Frank, serving with the American expeditionary forces in France, has been officially reported missing in action since November 5

PARENTS NOTIFIED SON KILLED IN ACTION

Sioux Rapids Ia., Dec 26.—Lieut. Perry Dyram, who enlisted at the outbreak of the war, is reported killed in action. This intelligence was brought to the parents of the soldier in a letter from an army officer in France.

NEW WAVE OF "FLU" SWEEPS MARCUS, IA.

Marcus, Ia., Dec 26. A second wave of the influenza is sweeping this locality. It hit the telephone exchange hard and the four operators are down with the disease. Miss Mina Hully, who was a former operator, and F. E. Paine, manager, are operating the board on the day and night shift. Schools which have been closed for two months will likely not reopen December 30, as the number of cases is increasing as they have in the past week.

IOWA K. C. WORKER WRITES FROM FRONT

Asserts German Soldiers Greatly Pleased Over End of War —Hopes to Be Back Home Soon.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dec. 25.—That some of the Germans were a mighty tickled lot over the signing of the armistice is the word conveyed in a letter just received from Al J. Thorpe, of Manchester, Ia., by Joe McCormick, of this city, state secretary of the Knights of Columbus. Mr. Thorpe has been in France since last May as a K. of C. secretary. The letter is dated: "K. of C. hut, near the line, November 26." The writer says he has been with the 28th national guard of Pennsylvania, a division that has received several citations for the work its members did at Chateau Thierry and Argonne forest.

"Two Knights of Columbus secretaries, Edward F. Hayes of New York city and Tom Quirk of Philadelphia, assigned to the 28th division, on the morning of November 12, the day after the armistice was signed, while carrying supplies and comforts to the men of their division were suddenly surprised to find themselves over in the German lines," writes Mr. Thorpe. "They were quickly surrounded by German soldiers and welcomed by them as long lost friends.

"The joy of the boches at the conclusion of the war was manifest in numerous ways and they insisted on the two secretaries accompanying them to the village of D——, where they saw unquestionable evidence of the great work of the American artillery. After staying a little while the two secretaries, accompanied by a number of German soldiers, came back across the line, carrying with them the best wishes of the enemy."

Mr. Thorpe was general secretary in charge of the K. C. welfare work in the 28th division and has several assistants under his direction. He recently had a chance to go through to Germany with another division, but the staff officers of the 28th brought considerable pressure to bear to keep him with them.

"I am quite positive I will be in Germany soon," says one paragraph in his letter, "although I sure would like to see that good old statue of Liberty at an early date. I just lost one of my hardest workers. He was from Brooklyn and has one lung badly affected with phosgene gas and he is also suffering from shell shock. I took him to Paris and the K. C. officials there have sent him back to the states. I mention this only to show that our work over here is not all a bed of roses as some may think. Another one of my men was hit by a piece of shrapnel but he is still carrying the K. C. banner among the boys."

Mr. Thorpe formerly was proprietor of the Plaza moving picture theater in Manchester and he is also well known in Davenport and Waterloo, having lived in these places for some time.

TWO SHELDON SOLDIERS WOUNDED IN LAST DAYS

Sheldon, Ia., Dec. 25.—Peter William Vogel, of near Sheldon, was wounded in action on September 27 and remained in the hospital until November 11, at which time he again joined his company His wound consisted of injury to the left hip with two machine gun bullets, striking him four inches apart. The wound was received during the drive in the St. Mihiel salient He is a member of Company L, 47th infantry. A letter written November 18 by him has just been received.

Henry Reekers, of this city, was wounded in action in France by shrapnel striking him in the leg. The wound was received just before the armistice was signed, in the Argonne drive. He is a member of Company B, Ninth infantry. Word just received from him says that he is using crutches and was then on his way to the coast.

SON OF QUAKER WEARS THE FRENCH WAR CROSS

Spencer, Ia., Dec. 25.—Sergt. Ernest M. Bantz, of the United States marine corps, reached his home in Clay county today. Sergeant Bantz is the son of a Quaker preacher, yet he wears the coveted cross de guerre, given him by the French commander for gallantry in action. He was a member of the 17th Company, Fifth regiment, and was at Verdon, Chateau-Thierry and Belleau wood. He fell wounded at Soissons, when a high explosive shell wounded him in three places. His right hand is useless and his right leg is still too stiff to bend. He is home on a short sick leave and will return after Christmas to a naval hospital at Great Lakes, where he is convalescing. Sergeant Bantz is 23 years of age. He enlisted at Detroit three days after war broke out. He also wears the red cord of the legion of honor.

ADVISED SON IN FRANCE IS FULLY RECOVERED

Lake View, Ia., Dec. 25.—This will be a happy Christmas for Matt Drilling and family. They have had three sons in the U. S. army. Arnold, who was with the overseas forces, died of influenza, and Leonard was seriously wounded in the battle of the Marne last July. About three weeks ago they got a message from the war department saying that Leonard was seriously wounded again and this news came as a hard blow to them so soon after the death of Arnold. Yesterday they got a letter from Leonard informing them that he was well. The report was a mistake and there is rejoicing in the home.

"BLUE SKY" STOCK SALESMEN TO SUFFER

Des Moines, Ia., Dec. 25.—The legislative committee of the Iowa State Bankers' Association, in session here, discussed the draft of a bill to be presented to the coming legislature designed to "clip the wings" of blue sky stock salesmen. Too many corporations with fake capitalizations designed purely to sell stock are getting a foothold in this state, the bankers declare.

Urges Owners Register Bonds

Washington (by mail)—To insure against loss or theft of Liberty bonds, owners are being urged by the treasury to have their coupon bonds registered, although the procedure results in a great amount of work and expense for the government now that the number of bond owners runs above 20,000,000. The registration can be arranged at most banks, and is done without cost to the owner. After registration, if a bond is accidentally lost, stolen, or destroyed, the government will pay it at maturity just the same, and interest checks will be mailed to the bond owner twice a year without requiring him to go to the trouble of clipping coupons and presenting them at a bank.

"The fact that bonds of the first Liberty loan or bonds of the second Liberty loan are converted into bonds bearing higher rate of interest does not affect the dates on which interest is payable," explains a treasury announcement.

Interest is paid on bonds of the first loan, regardless of whether they have been converted, on June 15 and December 15; on bonds of the second loan, May 15 and November 15; third loan, March 15 and September 15; fourth loan, April 15 and October 15.

The treasury also explains that, owing to the mechanical difficulties of preparing millions of interest checks on registered bonds, coupon bonds will not be exchanged for registered bonds or registered bonds transferred on the books from one owner to another, during a month before an interest paying date of each particular loan.

FREE REIGN FOR MEXICAN LEADER

Carranza Given Unlimited Financial Powers—May Remove Food Import Duties.

By Associated Press.

Mexico City, Dec. 27.—Extraordinary powers in financial matters have been extended to President Carranza by the chamber of deputies.

Under the new authority President Carranza is expected soon to issue decrees removing, until June 30, 1919, import duties on foodstuffs, articles of primary necessity to the country and on agricultural implements and irrigation machinery. It is expected that duties on automobiles will be removed for a period of three months.

Constitutional reforms have been proposed by which the force of several sections of the constitution will be mitigated. These refer principally to sections governing the power of state legislatures to fix the maximum number of clergy participating in religious rites and require that all members of the clergy be native born Mexicans. Clauses dealing with the nationalization of church property would be brought into agreement by another proposed amendment.

URGE HUNGARY TO WAR ON SLOVAKS

Strong Influence at Work In Budapest, Seeking Hostilities Against New Government.

By United Press.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 27.—Strong factions at Budapest are urging Hungary to war upon the Poles and Czecho-Slovaks, according to diplomatic advices received here today.

The report is that a new Hungarian cabinet will be formed with a policy committed to the absolute protection of the former Hungarian frontiers in the east and north.

It wts indicated that Hungarian representatives at Paris will refer to the peace conference, the Polish occupation of Austro-Hungarian Galicia, and the Czecho-Slovak seizure of certain territory within recognized Hungarian borders, as a violation of the armistice.

The Hungarians put little opposition to the advance of Polish legions in Galicia, retiring from Lemberg and permitting the Poles and Ukranians to struggle over ther counter-claims to the territory. In Slovakia they relinquished their position only after strong Czecho-Slovak forces were ordered into the field.

The advices announce the retirement of Louis Biro, as Hungarian foreign secretary.

HORSE AND MULE AUCTION

Government Will Sell Surplus at Big Public Sales.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Dec. 26.—Forty-five thousand mules and horses, part of the army's surplus supply, will be sold at auction at camps throughout the country next month. The sales will be held January 7, 14, 21 and 28; and stock to be disposed of includes cavalry, artillery and draft horses, mules and pack animals.

MORE TROOPS TO RETURN

General Pershing Orders Soldier Boys Home.

By Associated Press.

Washington Dec 27.—Lists of units of the expeditionary forces assigned for early convoy home cabled today by General Pershing comprised 600 officers and nearly 20,000 men. They included the 44th, 60th and 64th coast artillery regiments and the 49th and 51st infantry.

"FLU" VISITS GUATEMALA

A Number of Deaths Reported as Epidemic Spreads

By Associated Press

San Salvador, Dec 27.—Advices received here from Guatemala report Spanish influenza prevalent there and say that it has caused the death of a number of persons. The sanitary arrangements for the cities have been taken over by doctors from the United States.

WHEAT PRICES FOR 1919 PLAN

Houston Recommends Congressional Action In Memorandum—Also Asks For Purchasing Agency.

Washington, Dec. 27.—Estimating a possible wheat crop of more than 1,000,000,000 bushels for 1919 the department of agriculture recommended to congress today legislation to insure payment of the $2.26 a bushel guaranteed price to the wheat producers.

A memorandum sent to Representative Lever, of South Carolina, chairman of the house agriculture committee, made the following recommendations:

1. Extension by congress beyond June 1, 1920, of the date for the government purchase of the 1919 crop.

2. Continuance of the food administration's grain corporation or creation of a new agency to buy, store and sell 1919 wheat that may be offered to the government.

3. Possible legislative provisions to protect the government against wheat or flour brought in from other countries during the period of effectiveness of the guaranteed price and also to protect buyers of such wheat as long as the wheat is in this country and not consumed.

Approval of Wilson.

The memorandum was compiled with the approval of President Wilson and Secretary Houston, in submitting it said: "The government had made a guarantee, and it goes without saying that it must be made effective."

Regarding the extension of government purchase, the memorandum said: "It will be impossible to carry out the guarantee as it is intended by June 1, 1920, and if producers cannot sell their wheat to the United States before that date and are left with wheat on hand, it will be felt that the obligation of the United States has not been carried out in good faith."

Must Have Funds.

"The government purchasing agency," the memorandum sets forth, "must have ample funds to at all times purchase throughout the United States the guarantee price such wheat of the 1919 crop as may be offered to it, and also to provide storage facilities to take care of the same by lease or purchase of facilities now in existence or by building additional facilities, or both.

"The appropriation will have to be on a basis to enable the guarantee price to be maintained at all times by purchases of wheat with funds provided by the government and without reliance on outside credit."

The food administration grain corporation is maintining the price for the 1918 crop with its capital of $150,000,000, and its credits, combined with the export demand for wheat. The 1918 crop is estimated at 917,100,000 bushels, and on November 29 last the movement from the farms amounted to 588,000,000, of which 254,000,000 was in storage.

Much on Farms.

"It will be observed," said the memorandum, "that there is a very large amount of the 1918 crop yet to be moved from the farms, and it will take all the resources of the grain corporation and the most careful attention to every detail to carry out the guaranteed price for the crop of 1918. In fact if the export demand should diminish it may be necessary that there be further appropriation by congress."

The carrying of the guaranteed price for the 1919 crop presents a much more difficult situation, it was pointed out, because the winter wheat acreage is about 9,000,000,000 acres larger than that of 1918, and if an increase in spring wheat is planted the harvest of 1919 may be in excess of the 1918 crop.

Trade Conditions.

Export of 1918 spring wheat is estimated at about 310,000,000 bushels, a larger amount than can be expected for the 1919 crop, because of shipments from Canada, Australia, India and Argentina. Domestic consumption of the 1919 crop, including the seed wheat reserve, the memorandum stated, cannot exceed 640,000,000 bushels as a maximum. The possible 1919 crop was fixed at 1,114,400,000 bushels, of which 90,000,000 would be for seed requirements, 550,000,000 bushels for domestic consumption, leaving 474,500,000 for export.

The 1919 crop for export, it was pointed out, might sell in competition with that from other countries at a price considerably lower than the guaranteed price, which probably would result in similar reductions at home

MAY REOPEN ENLISTMENT

Baker Urges Army Legislation in Letter to Chairman Dent.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Dec. 26.—Immediate legislation authorizing resumption of voluntary enlistment in the army and the repeal of provision of the selective service act limiting enlistments to the period of the war, was urged by Secretary Baker in a letter to Chairman Dent, of the House military committee.

JAP ENVOY ARRIVES.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 26.—Baron Nobuaki Makino head of the Japanese delegation enroute to the Versailles peace conference arrived here today from Japan on the steamer Tenyo Maru. The party, which includes several high government officials of Japan, will continue tomorrow for New York.

ONDON GRASPS WILSON'S HAND

menious Welcome Given to resident as He Proceeds long Gaily Decorated Streets -Ovation at Every Point.

By United Press.

ndon, Dec. 27.—Amid booming of and cheers of enormous crowds, ent Wilson was welcomed to this afternoon. King George ueen Mary met him at the train. left his car a band played the Spangled Banner.

King quickly stepped forward Wilson appeared and they shook with great cordiality. Both d and exchanged apparent pleas-es.

n Mrs. Wilson advanced, bear- huge bouquet. The queen and Mary came up, smiling and introduced.

heartily welcome you to England," the king to the president.

greatly appreciate it, I assure replied Wilson.

Review King's Guard.

ile the bands switched to the and Stripes Forever, the presi- and the king reviewed the king's in the train shed. The troops stiffly at attention. The king President Wilson engaged in a talk as they walked, but the drowned out their voices.

King next introduced Premier George who was waiting hesi- ly for the signal to come for- He advanced and shook hands cordially and lingeringly.

Notable Gathering.

ere was an impressive gathering tables at the station including Marshal Haig, Admiral Beatty, ellor Bonar Law, Foreign Min- Balfour, Premier Hughes, of Aus- Premier Borden of Canada, the rajah of Bikanir, Lord Cecil, Curzon, Sir Eric Geddes and They waited on the platform mo time before the train pulled 2:20. Then the crowd of dis- hed personages surged forward s youngsters.

Shakes Hands With Boys.

A number of them had been y introduced the king suggested Wilson step into his carriage.

You will excuse me I'll just shake with these men," said the presi- He walked to a group of Ameri- ficers and shook hands with them, rejoined the king and entered the ge.

The royal conveyance reached the on exit the first roar of welcome the people went up. It increased olume, tumultous seas of noise ng upon the ear drums while the ge moved toward the palace. gback by troops, hundreds of nds of Britishers, flourishing waving their hats and handker- cheered themselves hoarse.

Continuous Ovation.

ere was not a break in the shout- not once did it diminish as the rican president, bowing, smiling doffing his hat in acknowledgment m the royal coach along the two- route to Buckingham palace.

e procession in which President on traversed the streets of London uckingham palace was a short one. e were intervals of 100 feet be- n the units. First came a detach- of police and then a general and staff with the troops of the house- cavalry four abreast in khaki drawn swords. Next came the carriage in which the president on the right of King George. The of Connaught sat opposite them her troop of cavalry followed and came the carriage with Queen with Mrs. Wilson on the right Princess Mary facing them. Then a third cavalry troop and after it three remaining carriages of the sion.

Bows to Royalty.

gleaming coats of the outriders ered along the procession gave a of color. The king was dressed e service uniform of a British field hal. He remained covered through- the journey permitting President on to accept the demonstration. Wilson carried a large boquet of rs and wore black. Queen Mary dressed in a dark costume with a colored hat.

The procession passed through Pall Dowager Queen Alexandria, n Maud of Norway, Princess Vic- and Prince Olaf unceremoniously out of Marlborough house and on the pavement. The crowd fell As the president's carriage ed he leaned forward to salute the group who waved a welcome to The same act of welcome was ated when the carriage with Queen and Mrs. Wilson passed.

Forced to Appear.

soon as President Wilson and his y entered Buckingham palace the rds outside, including several nded soldiers in the palace yard, n, cheering. Then came shouts of want Wilson! We want Wilson!" esponse the President and Mrs. on, together with King George and n Mary, appeared on the second balcony.

resident Wilson waved his hand, in- ting that he would rather not k. Mrs. Wilson waved a small ut Jack. The crowd, however, in- d on a speech so the president d the chorus of voices to silence then addressed himself especially he wounded soldiers:

do not want to make a speech," he "but I do want to tell you how h I honor you men who have been nded in this fight for freedom and thank you all for the welcome you so generously given I hope every of you will come through safely to y the fruits of the victory for h you so courageously fought."

n the Strand the masses of people nd lines of British troops caught first glimpse of the president. route all the way to Buckingham ce was a mass of color, the red, e and blue of Britain and France ominating in the general scheme the red, white and green of Italy red, yellow and black of Belgium ent. But the stars and stripes everywhere

Eagles and Lions.

COFFEE TRADE RESUMED

Unrestricted Trading Opens Today on Stock Markets.

By Associated Press.

New York, Dec 27.—Unrestricted trading in coffee futures was resumed today on the New York coffee and sugar exchange for the first time since October 18, when it was ordered stopped by the food administration. The first sale was in May contracts at 17.50 cents compared with 9.55 cents, the maximum price ruling on the day the exchange closed. Spot coffee was quoted at 10⅞c on the day the exchange shut its doors; today it was nominally 17¼c.

The great facade of the national museum was hidden by flags, banners, pennants and enormous gilded eagles and lions. Forces of decorators were busy all day Christmas and all last night. Christmas crowds and early arriving spectators were dodging step-ladders. All along the two-mile route from the railway station to the palace the way is lined with lights to blaze forth tonight.

Pall Mall and St. James streets are lined with famous clubs, the windows of which were filled with members and their wives. Crossing Haymarket, the carriage with the president and King George passed close by the statue of King George III.

The greatest color effect was at Hyde Park corner Thousands of Waacs in khiki, Wrens in navy blue, convalescent sailors in light blue trimmed with red and white, and members of the royal force in sky blue, were massed on the park slope.

Met By Admiral.

The steamer Brighton on which the president crossed the channel, had a quick and smooth passage and arrived at Dover just about midday She was met at Calais by Sir Charles Cust, the king's equerry, and Vice Admiral Sir Rodver Keyes, who accompanied the party to Dover. Four French destroyers escorted the Brighton to mid-channel, where British destroyers and a dozen airplanes took over the duty.

As the Brighton entered the harbor the salute in honor of the president was fired from Dover castle. This was the first time since the beginning of the war that this honor had been accorded any visitor. The Brighton's path was along the line of ships of the famous Dover patrol, all of which were flying American flags and their crews lining the rails. The bands, which when the Brighton was sighted, had played "God Save the King," now took up the "Star Spangled Banner," each ship's company standing at attention

The Brighton was flying the president's flag Admiral Keyes' pennant and the British naval ensign. Mrs. Wilson, who was on deck, took the greatest interest in the evolutions of the British destroyers.

The president who appeared in splendid spirits when he stepped ashore, was immediately greeted by the Duke of Connaught and the other members of the welcoming party.

FLAG MUST FLY IN WORLD PORTS

Chairman of Shipping Boards Points to Need of Great Merchant Marine.

By United Press.

Paris Dec 27.—The American merchant marine flag must fly in every port in the world, Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the shipping board, declared in an interview with the United Press today. He announced that the United States will soon be able to build ships as cheaply as England.

In this connection, it was learden from other sources, that the help of America's vast new system of shipyards in constructing merchantmen for England, France and the other allied nations, is expected to depend absolutely upon solution of the problem of freedom of the seas. If it is not solved and the lid on cooperation is taken off, America is believed already to throw all its resources into building the world's greatest fleet, thus becoming predominant in world trade.

"It is intended that the American flag shall fly into every port in the world," said Hurley. "There is no intention, however, to utilize American ships only for American cargoes. We want our vessels to carry the cargoes of other nations and we also want the ships of other nations to carry our cargoes.

Fine Living Quarters.

"Every American ship will have fine living quarters. Seamen of the merchant marine will be uniformed. The whole service is to be so attractive that all seamen will be enthusiastic to get into it and become salesmen of American products throughout the the world."

Hurley was not worried about America's ability to compete with any nation in world trade after the war. He said there would be plenty of trade for all and that wages would be similar in all the nations. While England can produce ships at slightly less cost than required for the new American merchant fleet, this discrepancy will be overcome later, Hurley said.

Before the president started for England, he conferred with Hurley. It is believed this conference developed information which the president desired to have ready bfor his metings with British statesmen in London. It was pointed out that a ship shortage will not be felt for six or eight months yet. Thereafter shipbuilding will naturally be much increased.

And, with the increase in shipbuilding, if the lid is off, Uncle Sam, will be ready to play for the pot.

TOSSES BOMB IN THEATER

General Semenoff and Others Injured at Chita.

By Associated Press.

Harbin, Dec. 27.—General Semenoff was wounded in the legs and 10 other persons were injured when a man wearing a uniform threw a bomb in a theater in Chita recently, according to advices from that city.

SHOWER HONORS ON GREAT FLEET

Victorious Squadron of American Dreadnaughts Given Magnificent Welcome as It Enters New York Harbor.

By United Press.

New York, Dec 27.—America's battle fleet, returning victorious from the war, was welcomed home today by cheering thousands, who watched the impressive spectacle from boats and sky-scrapers and every point of vantage.

A whirling snowstorm at times blotted out the majestic fighting ships as they moved slowly up the bay past the statue of Liberty, where Secretary Daniels reviewed them from the deck of the presidential yacht Mayflower. Preceding the fleet came a swarm of small craft and submarine chasers, clearing the way. The islands in the harbor, the docks and tops of tall buildings were thronged with spectators despite a cutting wind.

"It was the greatest naval review in American history and it marked the day when the United States formally assumed its place as the second naval power of the world. The biggest sea fighting force the United States ever boasted today had its first being as a single unit, a veritable American armada, as Secretary Daniels reviewed the combined American battle fleets.

Official Welcome.

The review was the official welcome to the Atlantic fleet, which for nearly two years has kept the United States flag flying in European waters. The 10 long, gray craft steamed up the bay this morning to the music of cheers and sirens, and in the Hudson river joined the home squadron which has remained on this side.

The homecoming fleet comprised Admiral Mayo's flagship, the Pennsylvania, and nine other dreadnaughts—the Arizona, Oklahoma, Nevada, Florida, Utah, New York, Texas, Wyoming and Arkansas.

Each mammoth fighter flew from her masts streamers of ribbon almost 100 feet long When the column came into view of the crowds in lower Manhattan showers of torn paper began pouring down from the windows of the skyscrapers. As the vessels went into the Hudson they came quite close to the New York shore, so the people had a good view of them

The cheering was not continuous. After each outburst the crowds stood silent, watching.

Snow Bothers Aircraft.

Aircraft assigned to the task of escorting the fleet had considerable trouble on account of the snow One naval hydroairplane was forced to land in Gravesend Bay, near Brighton Beach. Coast guard cutters were sent out to look for it. Secretary Daniels greeted Admiral Mayo by wireless telephone after the dreadnaught Pennsylvania had opened the conversation by asking

"How do you do, Mayflower."

After Daniels' official radio words of welcome and Mayo's reply the ships engaged in a general talk, one message from the fleet being descriptive of the Christmas dinner all hands enjoyed

Under Statue of Liberty.

All the official welcoming craft were anchored around the Mayflower off the statue of liberty. They included the Aztec, with the assistant secretary of the navy, the press boat Yarifa and a number of others

As each of the home coming ships drew abreast of the Mayflower the secretarial salute of 19 guns roared from its batteries. The toy cannon of the yacht zipped out an acknowledgement of the Pennsylvania's greeting—17 guns in honor of Admiral Mayo

The Atlantic fleet, with sightseeing and freight craft keeping at a respectful distance, steamed majestically into its anchorage in the Hudson, forming in conjunction with the home fleet double line more than six miles long. The dreadnaughts and battleships were moored along the New York side of the river, the destroyers, auxiliary and supply ships swung at anchor off the New Jersey shore.

Powerful Home Fleet.

The home fleet, whose base was in the York river during the war, consisted of the super-dreadnaughts New Mexico and Mississippi—the most powerful ships in the world—the battleships Maine, Wisconsin, Kearsage, Illinois, Alabama, Iowa and Indiana, the repair ships Bridge, Prairie and Vestal; the hospital ship Solace and a great fleet of destroyers, including the newly commissioned Breeze, Dent, Radford Lamberton, Mahan and Ringgold

As soon as the ships dropped anchor the flag officers and captains came aboard the Mayflower which had followed the fleet into the Hudson, to pay their respects to Secretary Daniels They were piped over the side with the true nautical ceremony. These formalities were brief and immediately afterward the secretary began his review of the combined fleets.

The Mayflower proceeded slowly along the Jersey shore to Fort Washington point. Each ship's band played "The Star Spangled Banner," as the yacht steamed past. The crews manned the rails, their blue clad figures standing out in bold relief against the grey background of their ships and the varicolored flags and pennants that flew in fluttering lines from stem to stern.

Jackies Parade.

Ten thousand jackies left the ships when they came to anchorages in the Hudson, and were taken aboard tugs to the shore, where they formed in a column and marched down town through Broadway and Fifth avenue. As the men passed, the huge apartment houses along Riverside drive and upper Broadway residents, leaning from their windows, showered them with cigarets, Christmas candies and other delicacies. The men wore leggins and some of them wore heavy overcoats. Some carried rifles and some were unarmed, depending upon the desire of the ship commander.

The reviewing stand was built at Fifth avenue and Forty-second streets, where Secretary of the Navy Daniels watched the passing column.

EBERT REGAINS BERLIN CONTROL

Serious Rioting Occurs as Troops Capture Palaces and One Hundred Die—Sailors Hoist the White Flag.

Berlin Wednesday Dec 25.—The editorial rooms and the publishing plant of the socialist Vorwaerts were seized and occupied at 10 o'clock tonight by members of the Spartacus group

---

London, Dec 27 The mutinous sailors who had been holding out in the red palace at Berlin have hoisted the white flag and have been allowed to leave under guard according to advices from Berlin sent by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Amsterdam Government troops the correspondent adds, now occupy the palace and the royal stables

By United Press

Copenhagen Dec 27.—Troops and civilians are joining the revolting sailors in Berlin according to a dispatch from the German capital received here today The dispatch, sent Christmas night, said the government's position was becoming more dangerous

Details of the rioting received here tell of considerable destruction in the course of a hard fight.

Palace Badly Damaged.

The sailors arrived in Berlin at 7 p m Monday The commander of Berlin and his adjutant and other authorities turned artillery on the sailors who were holding the royal palace, and began an intense bombardment. The walls were shot full holes and the great porches were destroyed. The balcony from which the kaiser made his famous speech at the beginning of the war was smashed and windows were broken.

The government's republican guard finally captured the palace, and the sailors then took refuge in a large building near by, which they are reported to be still holding

---

By Associated Press.

London, Dec 27.—Dr Rudolph Havenstein president of the Imperial Bank of Germany (the Reichsbank), has resigned, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen

---

By Associated Press.

London Dec 27.—The Alexander and Franzer regiments have openly joined the revolting sailors in Berlin, and it is predicted in advices sent from Berlin late Christmas night that nearly the entire Berlin garrison will support them, leaving the government without troops.

MANY ARE KILLED.

London, Dec. 27.—Nearly 100 persons were killed in the street fighting which began in Berlin on Tuesday morning, according to the latest reports from the German capital, transmitted by the Exchange Telegraph correspondent at Copenhagen. The republican guards tried several times to take the royal stables and the headquarters of the revolting sailors, but were repulsed

Many soldiers belonging to the Berlin guard and a few of the republican guards joined the sailors, Vorwaerts reports.

Demand Resignation.

When these reports were sent a large number of armed civilians was continuing to join the sailors, not only at the royal stables but in the Koenigstrasse. This street, with all its houses was reported in the hands of the sailors, who were supported by the Spartacans. They demanded Premier Ebert and Secretary Haase resign and be replaced by George Ledebour and Dr Karl Liebknecht.

Dr Liebknecht, the advices add, went to the chancellor's palace and had a long conference with the ministers, the result of which was unknown

Further fighting was anticipated, it was added, as the Spartacans and the sailors had decided to attempt to force the guards to return to Potsdam. The guards were stationed in Unter Den Linden and Werderschen platz.

According to an Exchange telegraph from Copenhagen, a force of 800 sailors on Monday formed a guard and seized the red castle, one of the former royal palaces They blocked the main street and entered the public buildings and arrested Herr Weis, the military commander of Berlin, Herr Fischer, his adjutant and Dr Bongard.

The republican guard with machine guns and artillery bombarded the castle. Holes were made in the walls, the porches were destroyed and all the windows smashed.

The balcony from which Former Emperor William once made a speech in which he declared: "I know no parties," was partly smashed. The guard eventually occupied the castle, but the sailors were still holding another large building at the time the dispatch was filed. The square in front of the castle was littered with stones and missles.

COMMANDER RELEASED.

Berlin, Tuesday, Dec. 24.—Herr Weis, the military commander of Berlin, whom was arerated Monday by revolting sailors during the fighting in which many sailors and the republican guards were killed and wounded, was released shortly before noon today. He spent the night in the basement of the former royal stables.

Some of the sailors were in favor of his immediate execution, but cooler heads opposed the plan. Some proposed that he be locked up in a small chamber with the bodies of sailors and other victims of Monday's fighting That he escaped violence was due to the intercession of socialist leaders.

REFUSE SAILOR REQUEST.

Berlin, Wednesday, Dec. 25.—The organization of sailors proposed to the government 10 days ago that it be authorized to organize a sailors' guard of 5,000 men, the Lokal Anzeiger says it is informed. The suggestion was coupled with a demand for greatly increased wages and back pay to November 9 The government, the paper adds, declined to entertain the proposal.

AERIAL MEN'S NEW PLAN

Convert Zeppelins to Play Between Gotham and Hamburg.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Dec. 26.—Disarmed German Zeppelins will be converted into aerial merchantmen to ply between New York and Hamburg, according to the Echo De Paris, which says that it has received its information from reliable sources.

WILHELM'S FATHER KNEW SON'S FAULT

In a Letter to Bismarck Emperor Frederick Told of the Ex-Kaiser's Conceit.

London Times cable service [Copyright 1918 by Public Ledger Co.] to The Sioux City Tribune.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—The Berliner Tageblatt publishes on authority of a certain Herr Ernst Goetz, of Liepzig, a remarkable letter which is said to have been written to Bismarck by Emperor Frederick, then crown prince. Goetz says he got a copy of the letter from Busch, Bismarck's well known biographer.

The letter is dated from Porifino, September 28, 1886 The reader will remember that this was less than two years before Wilhem became kaiser, and only three and one-half years before he dismissed Bismarck and proceeded to altar the whole course of German foreign policy The letter runs

"My son, Prince William without my knowing about it, has expressed to his majesty, the Emperor William, a desire, during the coming winter, to make closer acquaintance with the activity of our ministry and consequently, as I hear, the plan has already been contemplated of employing him in the foreign office. As I have not yet received official information about it from any quarter, I consider it necessary in the first place to address myself confidentially to you, in order to learn what has already been settled and also in order to say that, although I agree in principle with the initiation of my eldest son into questions of higher administration, I am decidedly opposed to his beginning in the foreign office For, in view of the importance of the duties which will fall to the prince, I hold it necessary above all things that he shall obtain knowledge of the internal conditions in his own country and feel himself fully informed about them, before he concerns himself, even in a minor degree, with politics, and especially as he is inclined to exaggeration and arrives at very rapid conclusions His real knowledge is still defective and he lacks the necessary foundations For this reason it is extremely necessary that his knowledge should be raised to a higher plane and made more complete

"This purpose would be met by giving him a civilian instructor, while, at the same time or later on, he might be employed in one of the administrative ministries

"In view of the immaturity of my eldest son, combined with his tendency to conceit, I must describe it as positively dangerous to bring him at once in contact with foreign questions. While I beg you to regard this letter as for yourself alone and as strictly confidential, I count upon your support in this matter, which is a very serious concern to me."

BACK TO PRIVATE LIFE FOR CREEL

Chairman of Committee on Public Information Resigns—Friends Declare Work Completed.

By United Press.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—Persons in touch with relations between President Wilson and Chairman George Creel, of the committee on public information, said today they doubted Creel had quit that post for any reason other than the one assigned in published reports, namely, that his work is finished Creel went to Paris to assist in publicity work there with the president but it is believed here that the system has been so arranged that Creel's services can be spared He is anxious to get back to private life as soon as his publicity work for the government should be finished President Wilson is understood to be giving his personal attention to publicity at present

Object of Criticism.

Creel has long been a target for congressional and other criticism, but the friendship between him and the president was so intimate that the chief executive never heeded the complaints against Creel On the other hand, Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and others acquainted with Creel's plans and purposes steadfastly praised him despite opposition

---

IOWAN IS FROZEN TO DEATH IN KANSAS

Cottonwood Falls, Kan., Dec. 26.—The body of Harley Crocker, an attorney of Cedar Rapids, Ia., was found in a pasture near Cottonwood Falls Monday afternoon, according to belated information reaching here tonight. Crocker, who had been visiting at the home of his brother, was frozen to death while searching for cattle during a blizzard in that locality.

The Frankfurt Zeitung asserts that it is certain Luxemburg will denounce its commercial treaty with Germany on account of the violation of Luxemburg territory by the German forces. The belief is expressed by the German newspapers that Luxemburg in the future will look to Belgium or France for assistance.

A "seventh sense"—the "motion sense"—second in importance only to vision in aviators, has been discovered by scientists in successful aviators. An examiner at the Mineola flying field says it is located in the ears and enables a flier to maintain equilibrium without the aid of vision. Deaf persons do not have it.

LENINE'S TROOPS CUTTHROAT GANG

Ranks of Army 700,000 Strong Filled By Chinamen Executioners, Austrian and German Deserters and Criminals.

London Times cable service [Copyright 1918, by Public Ledger Co.] to The Sioux City Tribune.

LONDON, Dec. 26.—In the course of a meeting of the Tanalyk Mining Corporation, Limited, its chairman, Leslie Urquhart, made the following comments on conditions in Russia:

"While I do not wish in any way to belittle the numbers or the danger to civilization of the bolshevist army, I have the highest authority for saying that the total does not exceed 700,000 men. The army is kept together by the greatest difficulty and only obtains among famished men The private soldiers are paid 500 rubles (normally $250) per month and are given two pounds of bread per day, one pound of which they can sell for 25 rubles.

"Discipline is kept by terrorism. A company of 150 Chinamen is attached to each regiment to act as executioners.

A Mixed Band.

"When I was in Russia, at the end of this summer, I saw this wonderfully disciplined army formed of Chinamen, Letts, Austrian and German prisoners of war, Russian criminals, and men who joined either to escape death or hunger, a bedraggled, unkempt lot, walking in any sort of formation, while their officers are from among themselves. How in a couple of months this army, which is largely dependent upon foreign hirelings, should suddenly become highly disciplined and well equipped, passes my comprehension.

"Industries in European Russia, that part of the country which is dominated by the bolshevists, are absolutely at a standstill. There is no production of munitions and no food provisioning is possible, except when taken by force from the peasant and accompanied by murder Only a few days ago there was reported an attack by these undisciplined troops on Reval. These guerrilla bands, accompanied by their women and children, with their loot and with deserters from the German army, straggling along narrow lanes and byroads, were repulsed by a few hundred disciplined soldiers who drove 7,000 in front of them like sheep.

"The recent defeats reported in the last few days as inflicted on them by Admiral Koltchak in the Urales, and by the Don Cossacks in the south, are themselves sufficient evidence of the inaccuracy of the reports coming from Moscow

Reds' Power Slips.

"To my mind, these are circulated for the purpose of intimidating allied public opinion into a policy of forgetting moral obligations and refusing their assistance for the regeneration of European Russia.

"Consider the boundaries of the bolshevist power in the empire today and you will see it hemmed in by Siberia, by the Urals, by the Ukraine and the Don Cossacks country Allied influence for law and order prodominates in the Caucasus. Central Asia, the northern territories of Poland and the Baltic provinces have repudiated it separated themselves from it. The area under bolshevist control, it is true, is important and was the former seat of government in the heart of the country but covers roughly some 1,700,000 square miles but 8,600,000 which go to make Russia, or in other words, one-fifth of European Russia and only one-seventeenth of the whole empire. The process has been granted, but signs are not wanting that a healthy reaction is taking place.

"With the opening of the ports on the Black Sea and the Baltic, apart from Archangel, and Murman, and the far east, the influence of civilization and trade must make itself felt before very long."

"VICTORY" FLEET NEARING SHORES

Secretary Daniels Leaves For New York to Review the Great American Squadron.

By United Press.

Washington, D C., Dec 26.—Tomorrow part of the fleet that helped keep the seas safe will pass in grand review at New York. Secretary of the Navy Daniels was to leave here this afternoon to participate in it. With him will be Chief of Staff March

The ships are due in tonight from overseas but will lay outside the harbor until tomorrow.

Before leaving Daniels declared that the ships come back as victors.

"In welcoming home the powerful dreadnaughts," he said, "the American people will greet the officers and men with pride and congratulations.

"These powerful ships, the equal of any in the world, in cooperation with the powerful British fleet, gave such predominance of sea power in the North sea that the German fleet dared not invite suicide by coming out and offering battle."

WAR CHRISTMAS STILL

Mid-Night Revelry of Former Years, Barred in Paris.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Dec. 25.—The victory Christmas celebration in Paris varied little from that of the Christmas days during the war. The authorities maintained the ban on the traditional midnight supper on the ground that it was a mere waste of food and lighting.

There were scores of promenaders along the bulevards, among them many American soldiers and British colonial men on leave, but such revelry as developed was of the most subdued order.

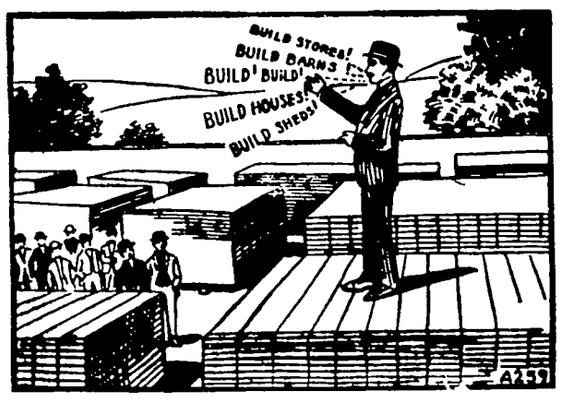
Some Banks solicit only large accounts

This Bank is equally the bank of the laboring man, the mechanic the business man the house-wife, the child or the man of leisure. All accounts, large or small, will be given the same treatment. We are a bank for the people and extend to you a WELCOME.

State Savings Bank

WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE YOU LIKE AND LIKE THE SERVICE YOU GET

KLEMME, IA.



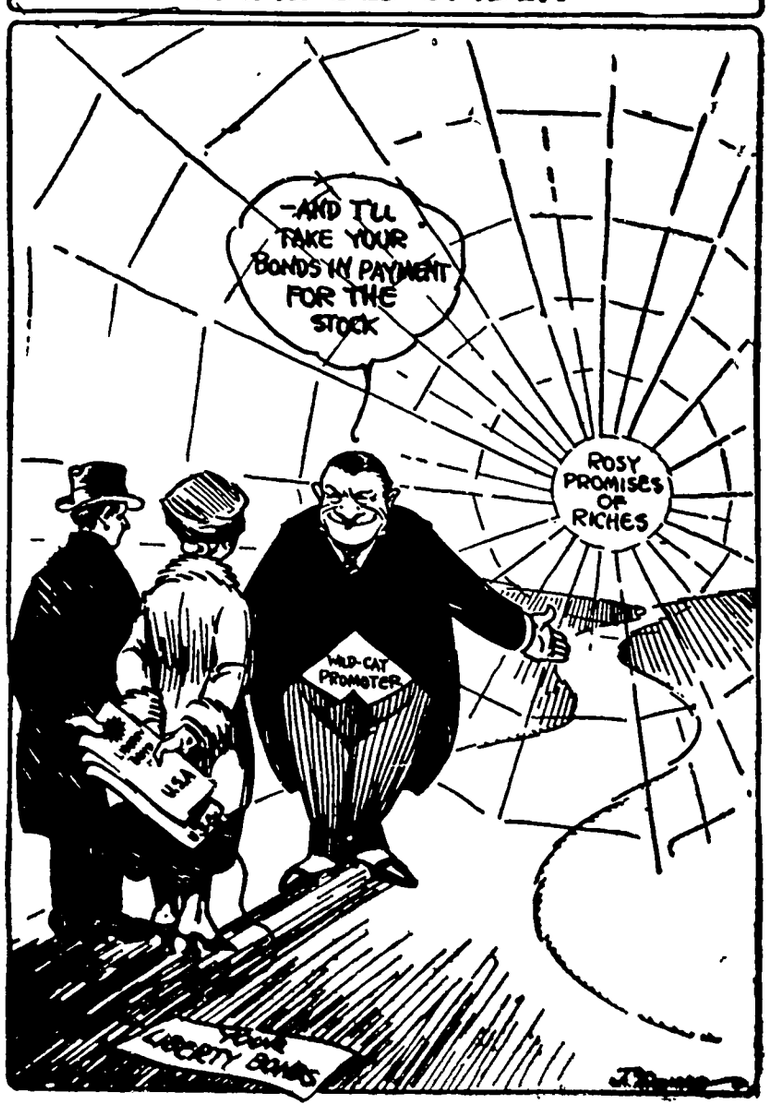
BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc, or you who move to town can now build a new house.

NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

"SAME OLD SPIDER"



FIRST NEWSPAPER IN BERLIN

In the Year 1661 a Weekly Journal Was Published, Edited by the Elector's Physician.

The first Berlin newspaper was printed in 1661 in the reign of the Elector of Brandenburg. The paper was edited by Cornelius Bontekoe, a Hollander, physician to the Elector. Robert Voelker and Elias Locker, booksellers, were privileged to sell the paper. It was a weekly and appeared Sunday morning; the clerks of the booksellers would sell the papers, in winter before, and in summer after church, which was held in the open from May to September. Those of the young men who could not get a seat were allowed to climb in the trees to listen to the sermon.

With his wife, Louise, and the children and the household, the elector went regularly to church. He would, as a rule, remain standing, while the electress and children would occupy seats under the trees. After the closing prayer the newspaper sale commenced at the entrance gate. Rupert Voelker, the first bookseller of Berlin, was allowed to give the elector a copy. After church the electress and children would return to the palace, while the elector would enter a palanquin and be carried to the Lustgarden. There he would read the paper, and then give audience to artists and other learned men.

One Sunday a man was introduced who entertained the elector (who believed in the appearance of the devil in some form or another) with a story which had happened to a farmer at the Berlin gate.

"At the Berlin gate," he said, "the farmer's horses stopped suddenly. He left his wagon to coax them to go, but coaxing and cursing would not take them a step farther. The farmer turned his head and saw an ugly woman on his wagon, blaspheming God and promising the farmer wealth. Then the farmer said: 'All good spirits.' The woman did not move. The farmer got angry and said: 'Will you ride? Then ride in Jesus' name,' and the woman, the devil, vanished from the wagon."

The elector was greatly interested in the story and ordered the physician-editor to have the story published in the next issue of the paper as a lesson to others not to be tempted by riches. Current news was not allowed to be published. Court functions and fables would find more favor with the Berliners. A bookseller from Leipzig came to Berlin to publish another paper, which was promptly forbidden by the elector, who considered one newspaper sufficient for Berlin.

Wells Doesn't See It Through.

An edifying little wrangle between Messrs. Wells and Jerome has been adorning the correspondence columns of the London Daily News. Mr. Jerome wrote something about a "League of Reason." Mr. Wells then saddled Mr. Jerome with the elegant reproach of "slobbering with love and forgiveness about the neck of the kaiser, the crown prince, Reventlow and the Krupp family." Mr. Jerome, very naturally, retorted that he had done nothing of the sort, whereupon Mr. Wells criticised Mr. Jerome for holding opinions which Mr. Jerome subsequently stated he did not hold. After a few more interchanges of compliments the editor of our contemporary has printed a further letter of Mr. Jerome's, despite a pressing invitation of his for further remarks by Mr. Wells, with the intimation, "This correspondence is now closed." This embargo places Mr. Wells in the unusual position of being unable to have the last word.

Mix Wood and Coal in Making Gas.

At various points in Switzerland and France wood and sawdust are being mixed with coal in making gas, because of the coal shortage. For example, 10 per cent of sawdust is added to the coal in the vertical-bulb retorts in Geneva, while as an alternative for the sawdust, logs are sometimes used. In such cases the retorts contain about 260 pounds of coal instead of 1,240 pounds. The acid products from the wood have caused some trouble because of corrosion, but this has been largely overcome by alternating charges of wood with charges of coal. In another Swiss city, 375 pounds of sawdust is mixed with 66 pounds of coal in retorts that usually take 990 pounds of coal.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

British Geological Pictures.

A committee of the British Association for the Advancement of Science has been engaged for many years in forming a national collection of photographs illustrating the geology of the British isles. According to the last report the collection now includes upward of 5,600 pictures. More than a thousand of these were taken in Yorkshire. A collection of the same character has been made by the geological survey of Great Britain, which has recently published a list of its Scottish pictures. Both the B. A. committee and the geological survey offer prints and lantern slides for sale, and printed lists of them are available. The Tunbridge Wells Natural History society offers prizes for photographs of scenery illustrating geological features.—Scientific American.

Perfectly Normal.

"How does prohibition work in this town?"

"Like a charm, some of the brethren say."

"That's fine."

"Yes. A great many of our prominent citizens now get up with the same kind of heads they go to bed with."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

SAW REAL TRAGEDY

Movie Spectators Were Treated to Two Shows.

One Among the Audience Might Almost Be Called a Comedy, Unless One Had to Pay for Crushed Headgear.

My seat was directly behind those occupied by the trio who figured in a serio-comic accident that convulsed nearby spectators in a Broadway moving picture theater the other afternoon. I therefore am able to tell just what happened and give details that must have puzzled persons sitting a little farther away.

The two women were loaded down with parcels and small packages when, right in the middle of a thrilling drama they slowly and cautiously fitted themselves into two orchestra chairs near the middle aisle.

It was a tight fit, for neither of the ladies could be described as sylphlike in form, and the armfuls of purchased bundles contributed in no way to facilitate adjustment of the generous cargo nature previously entrusted to each. Parcels of various sizes slid from their knees into recesses under the seats in front and slopped into the aisle from the lap of one who sat nearest to it.

The theater was in semidarkness, and it was only by the groping of many hands, in response to whispered appeals, that the troubles of diligent hours spent in shopping were returned to them. They then apparently for the first time discovered that the adjoining seat—third from the side—was unoccupied, and into it they dumped their bundles and their hats.

Quiet in the immediate vicinity had scarcely been restored when a stout, middle-aged man arrived with coupon calling for the seat they had just converted into a sort of family catch-all.

Regardless of their exclamations of despair he inched his way in, while they with frantic haste struggled to clear off the place upon which he was to sit.

Peace finally descended again upon the neighborhood, and we had given ourselves up to undisturbed wonder concerning the fate of the film heroine should the villain penetrate her disguise as a French artillery officer, when one of the package-laden women said to the other:

"Mercy! I promised to be home by five o'clock. Lucy is going out and I forgot all about it."

While the speaker, who sat nearest the aisle, arranged her hat and pierced it with a couple of pins, her companion struggled to convert the fruits of their shopping into two portable pyramids. Suddenly she uttered a little scream, and then whispered to her friend in awe-stricken tones, "I can't find my hat. I believe that man is sitting on it."

"Gracious goodness," said the other. "Ask him."

"I can't do it," said her friend. "You ask him."

Thus appealed to, the bolder of the two turned to the man, who appeared to have heard nothing of their conversation, and said:

"I think you are sitting on this lady's hat."

"I am not doing anything of the sort; why should I?" was the amazing reply she received.

"Sit down," cried several voices to the hatted and hatless ones, from whose arms bundles again began to leak.

"I am not sitting on your hat, ma'am," said the suspected male, "but if it will do you any good, I'll prove it."

Then he arose and from under his ponderous body the hatless woman removed what had once been a towering millinery creation, with twin pinnacles soaring aloft, but which was now only a pancake of cloth and feathers.

A wave of mingled applause and protestation swept that part of the theater, as the shoppers departed, passing every few feet to recapture some meandering parcel.—Madge Arthur, in Buffalo Courier

B. C. 55.

"The next morning, as treacherous and hypocritical as ever a large company of Germans which included all the principal and senior men, came to his quarters, with a double object—to clear themselves (so they alleged) for engaging in a battle the day before contrary to the agreement and to their own request thereon, and also by deceit to get what they could in respect of the truce." This is not an extract from an account of current happenings in Russia between that country and Germany. It is from Caesar's history of his dealings with certain German tribes in the year 55 B. C. Replying to the spokesman of these Germans (who had crossed the Rhine to invade Gaul) the narrative reads: "To this Caesar replied as seemed good; but the conclusion of his speech was as follows: He could have no friendship with them if they remained in Gaul." These extracts from a famous book are commended to the attention of powers that be.—From the Outlook.

Famous London Meeting Place.

Before the war Trafalgar square, London, was the favorite meeting place of the suffragettes. The lions at the column's foot were frequently the platform from which Mrs. Pankhurst and her daughters addressed the London crowd. The shops along the Strand were often given the attention of militant women, with the result that for a long while most of their windows were boarded and barred.

You can't afford to keep a good car in an unfit place.

We can provide safe, clean and convenient storage for a limited number of machines.

Right now, is the time to see about it so you will be sure to get a place.

Or if you want

a cover for your car we will serve you best.

Willys PHONE 30

C. M. Wiles Garage

YOU HAVE TRIED THE REST, NOW TRY THE BEST

KLEMME, IA.

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16. Residence Phone No. 52

KLEMME DRAY-LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Telephone No. 14

All Called On to Show Courage.

Whatever your sex or position, life is a battle in which you are to show your pluck; and woe be to the coward! Whether passed on a bed of sickness or a tented field, it is ever the same fair play and admits no foolish distinctions. Despair and postponement are cowardice and defeat. Men were born to succeed, not to fail.—Thoreau.

Unpalatable Ship "Bread."

In grandfather's day a ship took on her supply of bread for a voyage in casks before leaving home. This supply had to last until the end of the voyage, though that might be a year or two. The bread was in the form of hard biscuit. It kept fairly well when dry, but often it got damp and moldy, or wormy.

Got Drinking Water From Dew.

On the rock of Gibraltar and in some parts of England drinking water is obtained by condensation of the abundant dew in especially prepared "pans," which are pits in the earth filled with straw and covered with clay.

Pudding in History.

Pudding in its early form was made of minced meat of some sort, well seasoned and stuffed into an intestine, and then cooked by boiling. There are words in many early languages meaning pudding, but it seems originally to have come from some word meaning a short body or inflated skin.

More Pleasant to His Ear.

"Lemme see one o' dem cuckoo clocks," said Mr. Erastus. "Here you are." "Could you kind o' change de tune a little?" "What's the idea?" "I wants an alarm clock. I don't take to dese hasty an' excited alarm clock. If you could train one o' dese to cackle like a chicken I could wake up spry an' hopeful every time."

The Kangaroo Industry.

In Australia kangaroo farming is an important industry. The hides are valuable and the tendons extremely fine; indeed, they are the best known to surgeons for sewing up wounds, and especially for holding broken bones together, being much finer and tougher than catgut, which is used extensively

The Supreme Test.

To retain our faith in our ideals when broken and trodden beneath men's feet in the dust, to know how to lay aside our inward sadness, to dismiss our enervating doubts and struggle on, to continue our march, sustained only by the thought of duty and an unyielding will, to make the most of life as it is given us—that is the supreme test of all great souls. That is the real victory of faith that overcometh the world.—Elwood Worcester.

Nets for Smugglers.

A curious method of preventing smuggling instituted by the Italian government is the fixing of a metal net along the length of the Swiss frontier. The net is of five-mesh steel wire about nine feet high, and there are gateways at different points.

To The Public!

On account of high prices, shortage of credit and because all Auto, Accessory and Tire Companies are insisting either on cash or credit check for 30 days, we the undersigned have decided to put our business on a Cash basis with a limit of

60 DAYS

If account is not paid at the end of 60 days credit will be refused customer until bill is paid

This not a reflection on your credit but an effort on our part to get our business as near to a cash basis as possible.

Respectfully

W. F. Pavey F. H. Ridder

C. W. Wiles E. G. Ell

Christmas Gifts

We have a full line of Christmas Gifts to choose from,

Perculators, Roasters, Aluminun Ware, Cookers,

Cultery, Silver-ware, Pyrex Baking-ware, etc.

STOVES and Ranges

GREUTZMACHER BROS.

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited
Charges Reasonable.

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

KNO-SOPE

(Pronounced "no soap")

What is it? Something New!

Ask Ryan the Barber about it.

Ask some of the ladies who Ryan has shampooed what they think of it. Every user a SATISFIED customer.
Along with our other class of work

We Feature Ladies' Shampooing

J. F. RYAN

Don't forget that Ryan's Laundry Agency pleases, basket goes every Tuesday, back every Friday.

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price

Successor to W. R. Bloom

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDER

Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing

Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

Col. B. A. Reemtsma

General Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA

Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty

Call or write either Bank or Times Office for Dates.

...Satisfaction Guaranteed..

Geo. ZINN

Physician & Surgeon

Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA:

Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.

Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

DR. L. R. PARSONS, DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48.
Klemme - Iowa

J. S. WESSON, D. V. M.

GARNER, IOWA

CALLS ATTENDED DAY OR NIGHT

Office Phone 196 Residence 137

IDEAL PLACE FOR SOLITUDE

Bird Island, in Gulf of St. Lawrence, One of World's Most Desolate Spots.

Bird Island, most northerly of the Magdalen islands, holds the world's record for wrecks. The whole group, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, is exceedingly dangerous, but Bird island stands first. More like a huge rock than an island its walls rise grim and gray in the path of the mariner. The island has no beach or coast, only a steep irregular cliff rising abruptly from the water. The top is a barren plateau of about five acres.

The principal inhabitants are birds. Gulls, gannets and murres come in thousands to nest and rear their young. The roar of their thousands of wings drowns the noise of the waters. The Indians say that they are the souls of shipwrecked sailors.

The human tenants of the plateau are the lighthouse keeper and his wife, doomed to solitary existence except about once or twice a year when a ship brings provisions. Sometimes, perhaps in about every three or four years, an enterprising naturalist comes to study the bird life on the island.

Ships can approach Bird island only in the calmest weather. The slightest ripple and the craft keeps a respectful distance. The lighthouse is reached by a rope and windlass. The hardiest mountain climber would hesitate before attempting to scale its rough gray walls.

The keepers of the light have been singularly unfortunate. The first went insane and had to be kept confined by his wife and assistant until the provision boat arrived. The second was borne away by a floating piece of ice when seal hunting in the early spring. His wife maintained the lighthouse alone until help came from a neighboring island.

FAD WELCOMED BY ARTISTS

Painted Designs on Lingerie Give Opportunity for Unlimited Display of Originality.

Now that the hard-hearted hosiery manufacturers have decided to reduce their manufacturing costs by cutting out the fancy colors and startling designs of the ladies' lines and limiting the output to plain somber shades that cannot be heard coming, that portion of femininity that demands novelties in dress that fairly scream will have to fall back on the new fad in underwear.

Oil paintings, done to suit the individual taste, on the lingerie, each piece to follow the same design and make up the set, and a mosquito net overdress will put a spiderweb stocking in the shade when it comes to startling scenic effects.

Imagine a set with a lifelike representation of the execution of Marie Antoinette on the back of the corset cover and a panoramic sketch of the taking of the Bastile running around the bottom of the underskirt, with other sidelights of the French Revolution sandwiched in where opportunity presents.

Possibilities? Why! A pair of silk ones never began to offer the possibilities for effective display of the artistic temperament that this new fad does. All struggling artists whose productions are not in demand since the war economics have put a quietus on the picture market will rise en masse and call the originator of the new idea blessed.—Brockton Times.

French Labor Shortage.

The lack of labor has become more acute in almost all the vital industries of France. There are many soldiers of the old classes in the French army, men 40 years of age or more, whose usefulness at the front is a question open to debate. Agitation has been going on since the time when American participation in the war made the demand for men less acute at the battle front to relieve the old Poilus. Early in 1917 the doubtful privilege of an honorable discharge was granted to carefree fathers of six or more children. The real problem before the chamber of deputies is whether to take up the question of the old classes in a large spirit or whether to continue to make slight concessions to the demands of their constituents.

Adjustable Support for Broken Limbs.

"Tests of a new limb support which have been made in a hospital in this country have proved so satisfactory that a Red Cross unit will take one of the devices to France, together with specifications for making others, if desired," says Popular Mechanics Magazine. As described and illustrated, it consists of "a hammocklike sling suspended from a steel arm that can be attached either to a bed or a wheel chair. Its special feature is the freedom of movement that is affords the patient. By means of a rope and pulleys the sling can be raised or lowered, while the supporting arm permits it to swing from side to side."

A New London Drink.

An American in a public bar in London was mystified recently when a customer entered and sang out: "1,035 hop, please." At first the man from the States believed the newcomer was seeking to telephone, but the bar maid put out a drink, the thirsty one drank and paid for it and then left without saying another word. Of course, American inquisitiveness had to be satisfied.

Investigation developed that the latest beer price order in England fixes the maximum price of beer at lower gravity than 1,036 at eight cents a pint and beer at gravity of from 1.036 to 1.042 at ten cents a pint.—Montreal Star.

RECOGNIZE VALUE OF WHEAT

Shortage Has Shown Us the Wonderful and Unique Qualities Contained in the Grain.

As absence makes the heart grow fonder, so does scarcity of wheat invite attention to its wonderful and unique qualities as food. We have been eating wheat products all these years as a matter of course, and it never occurred to us that we might ever be called on to go without them. Now that it is necessary to use wheat substitutes, we have discovered that useful as they are there is nothing that really takes the place of wheat flour.

The magic of the wheat lies in its gluten—what the baker refers to as the "binder." He must have a certain proportion of wheat flour to furnish the binder, or his oatmeal bread or his rice pastry crumbles. The substitutes have the same nourishment as the wheat. But they lack the quality of the wheat flour crust. There is nothing in them to imprison the gases liberated by yeast, and so they refuse to rise like wheat dough. Bread made of the substitutes is heavy and soggy unless there is enough wheat dough mixed in to give it life.

Without wheat we go without bread, without cake, without pie, without strawberry shortcake. No affection for corn pone can make it a substitute for all these stand-bys of the table. If it is necessary for the sake of the war, we shall cheerfully go without. Any deprivation we may feel is as nothing to what our associates in arms already have undergone. But we shall look forward to the happy days when there will be an abundance of wheat once more.—Kansas City Star.

RECORD BELONGS TO SIRIUS

Small Vessel Was the First to Cross the Atlantic Wholly Under Its Own Steam.

This spring marks the eightieth anniversary of an important event in modern history—the voyage from Cork to New York of the Sirius, the first vessel to cross the Atlantic wholly under its own steam. All that remains of that stanch little craft is a number of brass paper-weights made from the metal work after it was wrecked in Ballycotton bay in 1847. Captain Roberts, commander of the 412-ton Sirius on its maiden trip, was later transferred to the President, which went down with all on board. Thus both the Sirius and her master met with a tragic end.

The Sirius made the voyage from Cork in 19 days, reaching New York only a few hours before the Great Western, another steamship which had sailed from Bristol. The latter made the best time, crossing the ocean in 15 days. The Sirius had a passenger list of seven on its initial voyage, the youngest of whom was Vincent E. Ransome, then four years old, who was reported living a few years ago in Wiltshire, England, where he was long the rector of a parish church.

The Sirius was a schooner-rigged ship and was 178 feet over all, with a beam of 25 feet and a depth of 18 feet.

Electricity on the Farm.

It is apparent from the fact that 200,000 horse power in electric motors is now actually being used on the farm that the phrase "Electricity on the Farm" does not constitute an idle dream any longer, remarks the General Electric Review. Although 160,000 horse power of this is used for irrigation and reclamation purposes (a peculiarity of semiarid sections), the remainder, or 40,000 horse power, is actually being used for miscellaneous farm purposes, such as driving the cream separator, butter churn, and so on. The only thing that we are not doing with electricity on any scale is plowing and cultivating, and this now bids fair to be a commercial reality in the very near future.—Scientific American.

London's Tea Houses.

The death of Sir Joseph Lyons reminds us what a modern institution the teashop is. You need not be very old to remember the time when practically the only places where a cup of tea could be obtained in London were the old fashioned coffee houses, with their boxed-in compartments and narrow, uncomfortable seats.

The customers were exclusively men, and if a woman required light refreshment she had to search for a confectioner's shop, where tea and coffee were sometimes grudgingly served, at famine prices, at little round marble tables tucked away in dark corners.—London Chronicle.

Used Stamps Valueless.

The Red Cross wishes to make it known, as widely as possible, that the report that used postage stamps have any value through the extraction of the dyes contained in them is absolutely false. This false report has already resulted in the receipt by the post office department of many stamps collected by misguided patriots who sought thus to do something to help win the war.—The Outlook.

Boy's Remark Got Results.

Bob had been downtown with his mother shopping and was tired when they boarded a homeward bound street car. Every seat was occupied. After a few minutes' silent survey Bob leaned up against his mother with a tired sigh and said: "Well, mother, I guess this is seatless day for us." Even newspaper camouflage couldn't resist this. Several seats were quickly vacated.

PICTURE OF GERMAN VAMPIRE

Kaiser's Possession Embraces Many Miles, but No Square Meals, Says This Writer.

The German empire, better known as the German vampire, embraces 208,830 square miles, but not a single square meal, says the Brooklyn Eagle. It comprises four kingdoms, six grand duchies and 3,876,531 grand goosesteps.

In outline and inclination it is likely irregular. On the east it bounds Lenine. On the north it is bounded by the allied fleets and on the west by General Haig.

The principal waterways of Germany are the seize and the Kiel canal. The high C's now under its control are confined to the opera house. The Kiel canal is used for exercise by the bottled ships on pleasant Sundays.

The seaboard, greatly restricted, like all other kinds of board, is known for the high cost of living. The country is not entirely on the level. It has in the interior a large table land, nearly empty. There are also depressions in all parts of the map.

Berlin, the capital, was founded in the thirteenth century on the Spree river. It has not yet recovered. The inhabitants are divided into two main classes—junkers and junked.

The present footer is Kaiser Pipers II. His principal occupation is looking for a place in the sun. It is something warmer than that in store for him. It sounds something like Helgoland. The crown prince is the barely apparent.

The national motto is "Spurios versenkt."

CAPITAL WELL WORTH VISIT

Merida, Chief City of Yucatan, Is by No Means Lacking in Attractions for Tourist.

A capital which most tourists never visit and of whose very existence many people are ignorant is Merida, the chief city of Yucatan. Yucatan is one of the richest Mexican provinces and, to go further into the intricacies of geography, forms the right arm of the Gulf of Mexico. Merida, its show city, officially began to exist in 1542, when the Spaniards laid the corner stone with much ceremony and proclaimed grandly that the very loyal and noble city of Merida, chartered by his most Catholic majesty, Philip II, was now on the map.

Since then Merida has grown considerably, acquired a plaza, cathedral, university, hotels and a goodly number of millionaires, and considers itself a city of some importance.

One governor of Yucatan, with a well-developed sense of civic and national pride tried to separate the wealthy citizens of the capital from some of their surplus change for improvement of the city. The millionaire element could not see how it would gain anything by installing the beautifully paved boulevards described so graphically by their promoter and refused to contribute. But the governor placed a tax on the henequen, the chief source of Merida's wealth, and with the proceeds, which ran into millions of dollars, he laid pavements which made walking and driving in the city a joyous affair, instead of the unpleasant necessity which it had been.

Thracians Used "Tanks."

The modern tank had its precursor, however, in crude, says the Christian Science Monitor. One can read all about it in Alexander the Great's exploits. Just to show their dislike of Alexander in particular, and of Pan Hellenism in general, the Thracians invented war machines in the shape of loaded wagons and conveyed them to Mount Haemus, so as to command the pass through which Alexander's soldiers must march. At the critical moment, the big, lumbering wagons, loaded with rock, were launched straight on the helpless men below. Alexander, however, met this onslaught by ordering his men to lie down, and to interlock their shields above them, so that the vehicles could roll over a road of shields. By this maneuver, we are told, he saved his army from annihilation.

Misunderstood.

Santo Domingo—A few evenings ago our warden, Sweet (who, by the way, doesn't deserve his name at all), was dining at a "Fonda" with one of our doe-eyed damsels and was looking over the menu when he asked her whether she would have a little shrimp. She blushed deeply and answered in subdued tones: "Oh, Mr. Dulce, you are so sudden." Sweet, of course, denies this; but you perhaps don't know him like we do.—"Slim Jim," 44th Co., U. S. M. C., in the Marines Magazines.

Wasn't Doing It for Fun.

A London banker was disturbed during an air raid because a British three-inch gun, mounted on an automobile truck, took up a position directly in front of his house. He went out and asked the officer in charge to move the gun farther down the street, as the racket was too much for his nerves, and got this reply: "Look here, do you take this for a blooming hurdy-gurdy?"

Here's German Efficiency.

German industrial efficiency is so nearly a fetich in the popular mind that it is a distinct shock to hear it challenged by competent authority.

"In my young days," said a contractor at a recent trade gathering, "we awarded a contract to bridge one of the swift western streams to a firm of German engineers. Guess what they did? Blamed if they didn't build the cutwater of the piers downstream."

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc

[illegible] TWO [illegible]

'Eight? Now, will you get? You are most exasperating! Why do you stand there like a gib[illegible]ing idol?"

"To give you, mad mosell[illegible], the pearls? Shall I now put them in safety?"

"Yes, I will put them in the safe myself. Where is the key?"

"In mademoiselle on your dresser. But if I might—"

"[illegible] don't do anything except [illegible] and leave me. Do you hear? Shall I never be obeyed?"

"[illegible] mademoiselle good night."

The soft tone was full of, belied by the evil glare of the French girl's eyes, but that was not seen by Miss Lucy Carrington.

III.

THE TRAGEDY

The house faced the east and, built on an English model, was far wider than deep. A broad hall ran through the center from front to back and on either side there were successive rooms whose windows looked out on equally beautiful scenes, both front and back. On the right of the hall as one entered was the long drawing room, and beyond it the library and music room. The other side of the hall was a reception room opening into the dining room and on to the conservatory and back of these the breakfast room.

Breakfast was served at 9 and the members of the family were usually all present. Miss Carrington herself, made a point of being on time partly from habit and also because it gave her opportunity to chide those who were late.

When she was not in her place on the morning after the stormy bridge game, Pauline expressed surprise and Haviland voiced her words.

But Anita said scornfully: "She went to bed in an awful tantrum and probably didn't sleep well."

Miss Frayne was looking her prettiest, and her roseleaf face, with its fluffy golden halo, was like a Greuze picture. She wore a frivolous little house gown of blue crepe de chine that just matched her forget me not eyes. Not especially appropriate garb for a secretary, but Miss Carrington preferred her household to be well dressed, and really commanded pretty tints and fabrics for the two girls. Pauline was in white serge, of rather severe cut, but which suited her as no frills and furbelows could. Her black hair was smoothly parted and coiled low over her ears, and her clear ivory tinted skin was faintly pink from the glow of the big, crackling wood fire.

Lucy, most unusual, went on. Pauline after a few moments more had passed and the Lady Lucy had not appeared. "I'm going to see if she is ill or—"

"Or merely in a tantrum ex[illegible]traordinary," said Anita, her blue eyes full of laughing disrespect for her employer.

"Anita," said Haviland, as Pauline disappeared, "hold your breakfast napkin up in front of your face, quick!"

"Why?" said the girl, wonderingly, as she did his bidding.

"Because, if you hadn't, I should have flown at you and kissed you! And I mustn't now, for Haskins is approaching with muffins."

Down came the shielding napkin and only the arrival of the muffin laden Haskins saved the lovely laughing face from Haviland's impetuous caress.

The old butler fussed about, and several minutes passed, when Pauline called from above stairs: "Gray! Come here, at once!"

"Desperate case!" and Haviland rose, and unhurriedly left the room, pinching Anita's little ear as he passed her.

Another moment and Miss Frayne heard an exclamation from Haviland that made her rise from the table and go flying upstairs herself.

The door of Miss Lucy's boudoir was open and, entering, she saw Pauline and Haviland, with horror stricken faces, gazing at a terrible sight.

Miss Lucy Carrington, seated before her dressing table, her face white and ghastly, her large eyes staring wide staring horribly—but, without doubt, unseeing. Nor was this all of the strangeness of the sight. She was robed in an embroidered Oriental looking gown, and wore many jewels. Her red gold hair, dressed elaborately, as she had worn it the night before, was still crowned with the enormous comb of carved tortoise shell, but the comb was broken to bits. One portion still standing upright rose above the disordered coiffure, but the rest, in broken scraps, lay scattered over the puffs of hair, over the white hands clasped in her lap, and on the floor at her feet.

"What does it mean?" whispered Anita, shuddering, "is she is she dead?"

"Yes," answered Haviland, briefly. He stood, hands in pockets, gazing at the startling figure.

"Who? What?——" Anita's eyes riveted themselves on something else.

Around the neck of Miss Lucy was—yes, it was a snake!

With a low scream, Anita flung herself into Haviland's arms, but he put her gently away from him.

Aghast at this repulse, Anita put her hand across her eyes and turned to leave the room.

"Don't leave the room, Nita," called out Haviland, and the girl stopped just in time to save herself from stepping into a mass of debris.

"Why!" she cried, "why, it's Miss Lucy's tray!"

It was. The silver tray that had held the breakfast tea was on the floor and near it a jumbled heap of silver and broken china that had once been a costly Sevres set. Dainty white serviettes were stained with the spilled tea and a huge wet spot was near the overturned silver teapot.

Hastily Anita ran from the room but she sank down on a couch in the hall just outside the door, utterly unable to go further.

Fascinated by the beady eyes of the green snake, Pauline stared at it with clenched hands. Haviland stepped nearer and lightly touched it.

"Is it is it alive?" gasped Pauline.

"It' paper," replied Haviland quietly. "A paper snake, a toy, you know."

"But who put it there? Aunt Lucy is deathly afraid of snakes! Did fright kill her? Gray, is she murdered?"

"Yes, Pauline, she has been killed. But could it be fright? Impossible!"

"Not for her! You don't know her horror of snakes. Why, going through the Japanese department of a shop, I've seen her turn white and fairly fly from the counter where those paper things were displayed."

"But what else killed her? There is no wound, no shot, no blood."

"Get the doctor, Gray! Don't wait a minute. Telephone at once."

"He can do nothing, Pauline. She is dead." Haviland spoke like a man in a daze.

"But, no matter, we must call him. Shall I?"

"No, I will."

"Go into her bedroom. Use that telephone by her bedside."

Obediently, Haviland went on to the adjoining room, the soft rugs giving forth no sound of his footfalls.

The door was ajar and, as he opened it, he called: "Come here, Pauline, look, the night lights are burning, and the bed untouched. She hadn't been to bed at all."

"Of course she hadn't. She has her hair as it was last evening. But her comb is broken."

"Broken! It's smashed! It's in tiny bits! She has been hit on the head. Don't touch her, Pauline! You mustn't! I'll call Dr. Stanton. You go out of the room. Go and find Anita."

But Pauline stayed. Turning her back to the still figure in the chair she gazed curiously at the upset tray on the floor. She stooped, when Haviland's voice came sharply from the next room. "Don't touch a thing, Pauline!" he cried as he held his hand over the transmitter.

She looked up and then, as she saw him turn back to speak into the instrument, she stooped swiftly and, picking up something from the floor, she hurried from the room.

She found Anita on the couch in the hall and, speaking somewhat sharply, Pauline said: "Where's Estelle?"

"Mercy! I don't know!" and Anita's blue eyes stared coldly. "How should I know anything about Estelle?"

"But she must have brought that tray an hour ago. Did she upset it, or who?"

"Pauline, why do you act as if I knew anything about this matter. Is it because you do?"

The blue eyes, cold like steel, and the dark ones, flashing fire from their shadows, looked steadily at each other.

Gray Haviland came hurriedly out to the hall.

"The doctor will be here at once," he said, "and he will call the coroner."

"Coroner!" screamed Anita, and ran away to her own room.

"Let her alone," said Pauline, contemptuously, "but, Gray, we must nerve ourselves up to this thing. Don't you think we ought to—to put away the jewels? It's wrong to let any one come into a room where a fortune in jewels is displayed like that."

"But Dr. Stanton said to touch nothing—nothing at all. You see, Pauline, in a murder case—"

"Oh, I know; 'nothing disturbed till the coroner comes,' and all that. But this is different, Gray. Dr. Stanton didn't know there are $200,000 worth of jewelry on that—that on her."

"How do you know so exactly?"

"I'm not exact, but she has told me times enough that the rope of pearls cost $100,000, and that corsage ornament she is wearing and her rings and ear rings are easily worth the same sum. I tell you there will be policemen here, and it isn't right to throw temptation in their way."

"Besides," and Anita's voice spoke again as she reappeared in the doorway, "besides, Pauline, they are all yours now, and you should be careful of them!"

The tone more than the words conveyed a veiled insolence, and Pauline accepted it for such. With a sudden determined movement she went swiftly to her aunt's side and unfastened the long rope of pearls, the wonderful glittering sunburst, and a large diamond and emerald crescent that held together the glistening silk folds. The rings and ear rings she could not bring herself to touch.

"It is only right," she contended, as if trying to persuade herself. "These are too valuable to risk, no one could fail to be tempted by them."

"Why don't you finish your task?" said Anita, smiling unpleasantly. "Why leave so much?"

"No one would attempt to take the rings or ear rings," said Pauline steadily, "and that scarab bracelet is not of great value."

"I thought that was a most valuable antique that her nephew sent her."

"She thought so, too," said Pauline, carelessly, "but Carr told me it was an imitation. Not one expert in 100 can tell the difference, anyway."

As Pauline placed the mass of gems in the safe the doctor came. "What does it mean?" cried the bewildered man, coming into the room. "Miss Carrington—"

Words failed him as he saw the astounding sight. For, surely, no one had ever before seen a murdered woman, sitting before her dressing table, staring but smiling, and garbed as for a fancy dress ball!

Dr. Stanton touched the icy cold hand, felt for the silent heart and then turned his attention to the disheveled hair and broken comb.

"Fractured skull," he said, as his skilled fingers thridded the auburn tresses. "Killed by a sudden, swift blow on the head with a heavy, blunt—no, with a soft weapon; a blackjack or sandbag."

"A burglar!" Pauline cried.

"Of course. Who else would deal such a blow? It was powerful, dealt by a strong arm; it has driven bits of this broken shell stuff into the brain. But it was the force of the concussion that killed her. Here is a deep dent, and yet—— Tell me the circumstances. Why is she rigged out like this?"

"I've no idea," answered Pauline, taking the initiative. "When I left her, last night, she had on an evening gown. But this negligee is not unusual; it is one of her favorites. Though why she has on that spangled scarf I can't imagine."

"She seems to have been posing before the mirror rather than engaged in making a toilet." Dr. Stanton was a pompous, middle aged man of fussy manner. He did not again touch the body, but he stepped about, noting the strange conditions and commenting on them. "This paper snake, tight 'round her neck! What does that mean?"

"What can it mean?" returned Pauline. "She had an intense hatred—even fear—of snakes; I've never seen it before. Could it have been placed there to frighten her to death?"

"No, she didn't die of fright. See, her expression is placid—even smiling. But the shattered comb and dented skull have but one explanation— a stunning blow. Did she have on the comb last evening?"

"Yes, it is a favorite one with her. An heirloom from a colonial ancestor. It encircled the entire back of her head when whole."

"At what time was she killed?" asked Gray Haviland. He had stood, till now, a silent listener to the conversation between Pauline and the doctor.

"Oh, many hours ago," returned Stanton. "six or eight at least. Evidently she was preparing for bed, and trying the effect of some new finery."

"Those things are not new," put in Anita, "she has had them all a long time. But she must have been admiring herself, for when we found her she had on all her finest jewels."

"What?" cried Dr. Stanton; "where are they?"

"I took most of them off," replied Pauline quietly, "and put them in the safe. If the police people must come, I am not willing to have a fortune in jewels here to tempt their cupidity. And I have a right. It is no secret that my cousin Carrington and I are her heirs. But that snake perplexes me beyond all else. If you knew her aversion to them, even pictured ones——"

"I do know it," returned the doctor; "I have often heard her say so. Ah," as he stepped carefully about, "she was adorning herself; see, here is powder scattered on the floor. She used this powder puff, shaking it over the rug and floor."

"I saw that the first thing!" cried Pauline, excitedly, "and there was a ——" she stopped, looking in amazement at the white dust on the floor. For where she had seen a distinct footprint, as of a stockinged foot, there was now merely a blurred whirl! Some one had obliterated that footprint!

"A what?" asked the doctor, sharply.

"Nothing. A—a lot of powder spilled—I was going to say."

Gray Haviland looked at her. "Tell the truth, Pauline," he said.

"I have," she replied with a calm quite equalling his own. "Must we have the coroner, Dr. Stanton?"

"Yes, yes, of course; I will telephone at once. There will be police and detectives. Oh! it is a terrible case! Nothing must be touched, nothing! If there is any clue to this mystery, do not let it be disturbed!"

"But you say it was without doubt a burglar who did it," said Anita, her wide eyes gleaming blue.

"It must have been."

"Then why were none of her jewels stolen?"

"Bless my soul!" and Dr. Stanton looked as if a bomb had exploded at his feet. "Sure enough! It cannot have been a burglar! Who, then? What other motive than robbery——"

"It was a burglar," declared Pauline, "and he was—he was frightened away by—by a noise—or something——"

"Not likely!" said Anita, "with all those gems in easy reach!"

"The coroner and the police must get here at once!" and the doctor wiped his perspiring brow. "Never have I seen such an inexplicable state of affairs! Was—was Miss Carrington indisposed at all last evening? Did she say or do anything unusual?"

"Not at all," began Pauline, but Anita interrupted: "Yes, she did! She said: 'You little know what's going to happen to me! Tomorrow you may sing another tune!'"

"What did she mean by that?"

"I've no idea. Could it mean suicide?"

(Continued Next Week.)

One hundred and forty-nine Yale men died in the war.

FRANCE SAFE FROM RED FLAG; TRIED IT

Bolshevist Doctrines Once Made the Streets of Paris Red With Blood

From the Kansas City Star.

There is one country where it is safe to assume, the doctrines of bolshevism will never find lodgment nor the red flag ever muster again the human wolf packs that prey upon social disorder. That country is France. It had its day of bolshevism, and 50 years have not wiped out the memories of it.

It was not called bolshevism in that day. It was known by a more euphonic, a more attractive title. It was called "The Commune"—a name associated with ideal schemes of government, based upon social justice, "liberty, fraternity, equality," for which the names of Plato, More, Saint-Simon and Robert Owen stand as distinguished sponsors.

But the reign of the "Commune of Paris," whose deeds sent a wave of horror over the world in 1871, had nothing in common with the theories of these honest dreamers of fine dreams. It was not an economic movement. It was a political movement of an origin whose mystery has never been satisfactorily solved by history. Very closely in its development it paralleled the more modern evolution of bolshevism.

Very similar, too, was the framework of its organization—a system of committees and subcommittees nucleating the political flotsam of many nations under the red flag of anarchy.

After the surrender of Napoleon III. at Sedan, the empire, which was his creation, fell to pieces, and upon its ruins was created the third republic, proclaimed September 4, 1870, when the republican deputies of Paris, at the Hotel de Ville, constituted a provisional government under the presidency of General Trochu, military governor of the capital. Following Sedan, Paris was invested by the Germans, and for five months stood siege, bombardment and famine. While this was in progress, Bazaine surrendered the last remnant of the regular French army at Metz. Paris, defended by the National Guard, under the authority of the provisional government, held out until January 29, 1871, when it capitulated. The same day the preliminaries of peace were signed at Versailles.

History of Revolt.

In March the Germans marched through the streets of Paris and occupied the city under the terms of the peace, for forty-eight hours. Scarcely had they withdrawn, when insurrectionary mobs began to throw up barricades in different parts of Paris.

The National Guard, with the exception of a few loyal officers and companies, soon joined the mobs, and the movement began to assume the shape of an organized revolution, directed from some unknown source by a secret "committee." Mobs of frenzied women paraded the streets wearing red caps and flaunting red flags.

Guns and ammunition were seized, the streets were barricaded and the heights of Montmartre and Pere Lachaise fortified by the insurgents. March 18 "The Commune" was proclaimed and the reign of terror began. At the outset there was no formal declaration of principles or purposes for which the insurgents proposed to fight. There was no visible head to the movement. It broke out like an incendiary conflagration whose essential spirit was destruction.

The economic theory of the Communards, as it was later advanced by the "central committee," was that Paris was to be a "free town," recognizing no government except that of a federation of self governing communes acknowledging no central organization. Later they formulated a more definite platform—the abolition of all religions, the abolition of all property, the abolition of all family, the abolition of inheritance and the abolition of nationality. And all this was to be accomplished in the name of "liberty, fraternity and equality," with the red flag as its symbol.

Each day Paris was placarded with grandiloquent proclamations issued by "The Central Committee" or "The Committee of Public Safety." The following is a fair sample of their tenor:

"Parisians! The struggle we have commenced cannot be abandoned, for it is a struggle between the past and the future, between liberty and despotism, between equality and monopoly, fraternity and servitude. To arms! Let Paris bristle with barricades and from behind these improvised ramparts let her shout the cry of war. Let the pavements of the streets be torn up. The paving stones, serving as a new means of defense, can be carried to the higher floors where there are balconies. Let revolutionary Paris, the Paris of great deeds, do her duty. The Communards will do theirs."

Reds Defeated.

But finally the day came when the tide turned. After long delays and a policy of temporizing, Thiers, the head of the government of the republic at Versailles, had mustered at Versailles a strong army, made up of the prisoners of Sedan and Metz, released by the Germans, and the remnants of the regular troops of the line. He placed General MacMahon at the head of the troops and the second siege of Paris began, in sight of the German army, which still occupied the heights around the city, passive, awaiting the issue.

The Reds fought with the desperation of despair. Their last stand was made upon the heights of Pere Lachaise and of Montmartre, where the Red revolution had first started. These strongholds were captured after a bloody fight and 1,000 prisoners were taken. Most of the leaders were either slain in the street battles or captured and summarily put to death. Many of them, however, escaped in various disguises into foreign lands. And on the red ruins of the Commune, the Third republic, the strongest and most enduring government that France has had since the first revolution, was built.

A league of nations, supported not only by the governmental but also by the moral forces of the world, is favored as a means of attaining permanent peace by Mgr. Signourney Fay, domestic prelate to the pope.

CANADA'S NEW DEVELOPMENT

After the War a Period of Prosperity.

It is evident that the Government of the Dominion in its programme of reconstruction and development is undertaking a work of tremendous importance. There will be available the labor for work that has been kept out since 1914, and the rehabilitation of this labor will entail the thought and energy of many capable heads. The transition period from war to peace will be rapid and thorough, and, instead of Canada sinking into a state of lethargy, there will be a continued period of wakefulness that will give employment to the unemployed, and render to the capitalist and producer ample return for his money, effort and enterprise.

The agricultural potentialities of the great Canadian West possess illimitable acres of the best of soil, capable of producing millions of bushels of the best of grain. The cost of growing this is lower than any place on the continent. There will be a greater demand than ever for these lands, the consequent production will be heavier and the profits attractive. Cattle industry will be one of the chief developments, and the encouragement of it will lie in the continued high prices that beef products will bring. European countries have been depleted of cattle, and the demand for beef, cattle and dairy products will tax the efforts of the producer for years to come.

Western Canada offers unequaled opportunities for development in this line.

In the Canadian West plans are being laid for the development of electrical power which can be produced cheaply. There is an abundance of coal and water power that could be used in developing this useful energy. What cheap power produced in this way will mean to the farmer and development of industrial enterprises cannot be estimated in figures.

More extensive development of the water power at Niagara, on the St. Lawrence and at waterfalls all over the country, is ready to be launched.

Peace will see new mine fields opened up, and it is equally certain that shipbuilding, railway equipment, steel production, and many of the industries will go forward with a bound.

Canadian industries will be required in the reconstruction of Europe, and already the Canadian Government has sent across the seas a commission for the purpose of securing orders. Canada took an early and [illegible] part in the war, and in the days of peace will be found equally active. She feels that by the valor and loyalty of her people she has earned a large share of the business and prosperity that will follow the war period, and she proposes to get it.—Advertisement.

Crushed.

Artist—Just a little daub of mine you see, madam.

Lady—You are entirely too modest. I call that quite a big daub.

The prices of cotton and linen have been doubled by the war. Lengthen their service by using Red Cross Ball Blue in the laundry. All grocers, 5c.

A locomotive engineer has to whistle for his pay.

Many of our American women were unable to take up the duties of nursing at the front, but they should know how to take care of their own at home, and for this purpose no better book was ever printed than the Medical Adviser—a book containing 1,008 pages, and bound in cloth, with chapters on First Aid, Bandaging and care of Fractures, Taking care of the Sick, Physiology, Hygiene, Sex Problems, Mother and Baby, which can be had at most drug stores, or send 50 cents to the publishers, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y.

The women of India, who have written out, who suffer from pain at regular or irregular intervals, who are nervous or dizzy at times, should take that reliable, temperance, herbal tonic which a doctor in active practice prescribed many years ago. Now sold by druggists, in tablets and liquid, as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free of charge. All correspondence is held as sacredly private and confidential.

Colds Grew Better

[illegible] PISO'S

Half a Century Ago

Half a Century Ago, every community could be supplied to some extent with locally dressed meat, drawing on live stock raised nearby.

Now two-thirds of the consuming centers, with millions of people, are one to two thousand miles away from the principal live-stock producing sections, which are sparsely settled.

The American meat packing industry of today is the development of the best way to perform a national service.

The function of providing meat had to develop accordingly. Those men who first grasped the elements of the changing problem created the best facilities to meet it—large packing plants and branch houses at strategic points, refrigerating equipment (including cars), car routes, trained organization, profitable outlets for former waste — which became the natural, inevitable channels for the vast flow of meat across the country.

If there were a better way to perform this necessary service, American ingenuity and enterprise would have discovered it, and others would now be using it.

During 1918, Swift & Company has earned a profit on meats (and meat by-products) of less than 2½ cents per dollar of sales—too small a profit to have any appreciable effect on prices.

Swift & Company,
U. S. A.

Calf Enemies

WHITE SCOURS BLACKLEG

Your Veterinarian can stamp them out with Cutter's Anti-Calf Scour Serum and Cutter's Germ Free Blackleg Filtrate and Aggressin, or Cutter's Blackleg Pills.

Ask him about them. If he hasn't our literature, write to us for information on these products.

The Cutter Laboratory
Berkeley, Cal., or Chicago, Ill.
"The Laboratory That Knows How"

O. A. Bliss, President
J. J. Donahue, Vice Pres., in charge of Hog Dept.
W. J. Mooney, Sec.-Treas., in charge Cattle Dept.

"Service That Serves"

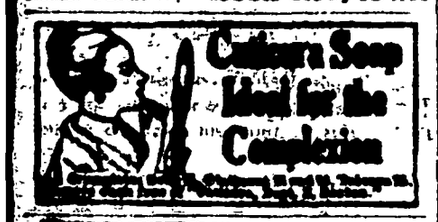
A Guarantee of Satisfaction

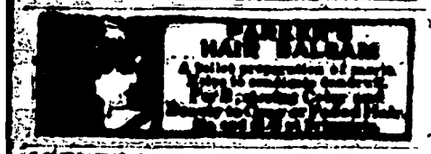
RICE BROTHERS

Live Stock Commission Merchants

Ship us your cattle, hogs and sheep for best results

Stock Yards . . . SIOUX CITY, IOWA





AGENTS Any one, Harper's Pipes Screens and Auto Dry Brush Set combined. Never needs sharpening, lightens housework, any pocket knife sharpens. Money back guarantee. Write for terms.

Do You Want Auto Money? Here you are. Write you how. DIFFORD CO., 311 Dearborn Bldg., Chicago.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 52-1918.

Insisted on His Rights.

Mr. Arthur Bourchier once had an amusing experience with his dresser. It was on a first night, and when the performance was over the dresser was nowhere to be seen. Mr. Bourchier sent some one to look for him, and he was discovered up in the gallery—hissing!

His explanation was that he was an old gallery first-nighter, and that while he would serve Mr. Bourchier faithfully behind the scenes, he reserved the right to do as he liked in the auditorium and hiss or clap according to his unbiased opinion.

Mr. Bourchier did not dismiss the man. A frank critic is a valued friend.

Get New Kidneys!

The kidneys are the most overworked organs of the human body, and when they fail in their work of filtering out and throwing off the poisons developed in the system, things begin to happen.

One of the first warnings is pain or stiffness in the lower part of the back; highly colored urine; loss of appetite; indigestion; irritation, or even stone in the bladder. These symptoms indicate a condition that may lead to that dreaded and fatal malady, Bright's disease, for which there is said to be no cure.

Do not delay a minute. At the first indication of trouble in the kidney, liver, bladder or urinary organs start taking Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules, and save yourself before it is too late. Instant treatment is necessary in kidney and bladder troubles. A delay is often fatal.

You can almost certainly find immediate relief in Gold Medal Haarlem Oil Capsules. For more than 200 years this famous preparation has been an unfailing remedy for all kidney, bladder and urinary troubles.

It is the pure, original Haarlem Oil your great-grandmother used. About two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling fine. Get it at any drug store, and if it does not give you almost immediate relief, your money will be refunded. Be sure you get the GOLD MEDAL brand. None other genuine. In boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

As a Pledge.

"That messenger boy came back in a hurry."

"I held his dime novel."

Your Eyes A Wholesome, Cleansing, Refreshing and Healing Lotion—Murine for Redness, Soreness, Granulation, Itching and Burning of the Eyes or Eyelids; "Drops" After the Movies, Motoring or Golf will win your confidence. Ask Your Druggist for Murine when your Eyes Need Care. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Production Fixes Wages.

From Commerce and Finance.

We live on the wages we earn. It is highly important that wages be better understood than they are, for on this understanding hangs the proper settlement of the labor question. And though we were recently the innocent victims of a labor dispute to which we were not a party, which nevertheless tied up our publication, the reader may rest assured that the economic commonplaces which follow are not inspired by the smallest degree of malice.

Most men look at wages from the individual or group standpoint. This is most natural, but leads to confused reasoning on the subject if they be unable to widen their view. The formulation of general rules from observation of particular instances is dangerous. We all know that by doubling the number of dollars which a man, a group or an entire industry receives as wages we may double such wages, but not all of us realize that the wages of all the workers in the country cannot be thus increased, but that, on the contrary, real wages should remain about what they were before. Such procedure would not increase production, prices would be doubled, and labor would have about what it had before. That is all.

Yet trades unions persist in seeking to raise wages by increasing the number of dollars earned and neglect the true way. While unions were few this could be done. The increased wage was largely at the expense of those who bought the products of the organized trades. With the widening of the field of organization this advantage lessened. If the trade unionist Utopia of universal and complete organization of all industries is ever realized, this advantage will be completely neutralized and lost.

This is no empty theory. It is a thing which has been plainly seen during the past quarter of a century by those who kept their eyes open. This period has been marked by the organization of labor on an unprecedented scale, by a very considerable increase of wages (in dollars) even before the great war broke out, and by an equal or greater increase in general commodity price levels. Those whose wages had kept pace with prices up to 1914 were few and fortunate, and at the present time they are fewer still.

There is really no cost of production other than labor cost. The rawest of raw materials is the finished product of some one. To increase the number of dollars earned without increasing production in corresponding degree can only increase cost of production, which is carried on to the consumer in higher prices.

That country in which the necessities and comforts of life are plentiful, and cheap, is rich. That one in which they are scarce and dear is poor, regardless of vast bank clearings and great trade balances measured in money. The war has checked the production of things for civilian needs, which are therefore scarce and dear. It is futile to raise wages to meet the added cost, for this but makes them dearer. Nothing can restore the balance save the turning of production from the implements of war to the requirements of peace, that these may be made plentiful and therefore cheap.

We do not wish to discourage our trade union friends as to their objects, but to show them they are taking the wrong way to achieve those objects. We agree with them that things are very unevenly and oft times unjustly distributed in this world, but until they widen their view to take in the needs of the nation—even of the world—and comprehend the really simple natural law of production and distribution of goods which we have pointed out, this condition will continue to exist.

The problem for organized labor, employers and captains of industry, now that the voracious maw of war is filled, is to make abundant the things we all need, to remember that wages are derived from the product of labor, and can in no wise exceed the value of that product. Wages cannot be raised generally by any restriction of economic freedom, as our trade union friends believe. The true way lies in the opposite direction. They must change their tactics or fail.

Enormous Crops Raised During Past Year Shown in Detail

Washington, D C (Special)—American farmers raised a combined wheat and corn crop this year worth $5,402,936,000 in their efforts to feed the world, government crop experts estimated today.

Under a guaranteed price, wheat acreage increased 14,021,000, while the corn acreage and yield decreased. The wheat crop alone, at war prices, showed an increase in value over the five-year average of $1,073,352,000.

Forecasts of production of the principal crops have been made from month to month throughout the season and preliminary estimates already have been announced for most crops. Today's report, however, makes final estimates of production. They follow:

Winter wheat, 588,449,000 bushels.
Spring wheat, 358,651,000 bushels.
Oats, 1,538,359,000 bushels.
Barley, 256,375,000 bushels.
Rye, 89,103,000 bushels.
Buckwheat, 17,182,000 bushels.
Flaxseed, 14,658,000 bushels.
Rice, 40,424,000 bushels.
White potatoes, 397,676,000 bushels.
Sweet potatoes, 86,334,000 bushels.
Hay (tame), 75,459,000 tons.
Hay (wild), 14,374,000 tons.
Tobacco, 1,340,019,000 pounds.
Sugar beets, 5,822,600 tons.
Beet sugar, 1,480,200,000 pounds.
Maple sugar and syrup (as sugar), 53,512,500 pounds.
Sugar beet seed, 6,384,000 pounds.
Sorghum syrup, 29,224,000 gallons.
Beans (six states), 17,733,000 bushels.
Peanuts, 53,497,000 bushels.
Kafirs (six states), 66,396,000 bushels.
Broom corn (five states), 58,000 tons.
Onions (14 states), 13,438,200 bushels.
Cabbage (nine states), 565,200 tons.
Hops (four states), 20,193,000 pounds.
Cranberries (three states), 350,100 barrels.
Apples (total), 173,632,000 bushels.
Apples (commercial), 25,404,000 barrels.
Peaches, 40,185,000 bushels.
Pears, 10,342,000 bushels.
Oranges (two states), 19,587,000 boxes.

Lloyd George on Peace.

From the Kansas City Star.

"One of the principal issues at the forthcoming general election will be the nature of the peace settlement. It will mean the settlement of the world." Premier Lloyd George made this statement in an announcement to his liberal supporters on November 11.

"What are the principles of which that settlement is to be effected?" he asked. "Are we to lapse back into the old national rivalries, animosities and competitive armaments, or are we to initiate the reign on earth of the Prince of Peace? It is the duty of liberalism to use its influence to insure that it shall be a reign of peace.

"What are conditions of peace? They must lead to a settlement which will be fundamentally just. No settlement that contravenes the principles of eternal justice will be a permanent one. The peace of 1871 imposed by Germany on France outraged all the principles of justice and fair play. Let us be warned by that example.

"We must not allow any sense of revenge, any spirit of greed, any grasping desire, override the fundamental principles of righteousness. Rigorous attempts will be made to hector and bully the government in an endeavor to make them depart from the strict principles of right and to satisfy some base, sordid, squalid ideas of vengeance and of avarice. We must relentlessly set our faces against that.

"The mandate of this government at the forthcoming election will mean that the British delegation to the peace congress will be in favor of a just peace."

Discussing the question of a league of nations the premier said that such a league was more necessary now than ever. He pointed out that the conditions which prevailed in the Balkans before the war were now affecting practically two-thirds of Europe.

"A large number of small nations have been reborn in Europe," he continued, "and these will require a league of nations to protect them against the covetousness of ambitious and grasping neighbors. In my judgment a league of nations is absolutely essential to permanent peace.

"We (Great Britain) shall go to the peace conference to guarantee that a league of nations is a reality. I am one of those who believe that without peace we cannot have progress. A league of nations guarantees peace, and guarantees also an all around reduction of armaments, and that reduction of armaments is a guarantee that you can get rid of conscription here.

"Of course, we must have in this country an efficient army to police the empire, but I am looking forward to a condition of things, with the existence of a league of nations, under which conscription will not be necessary in any country."

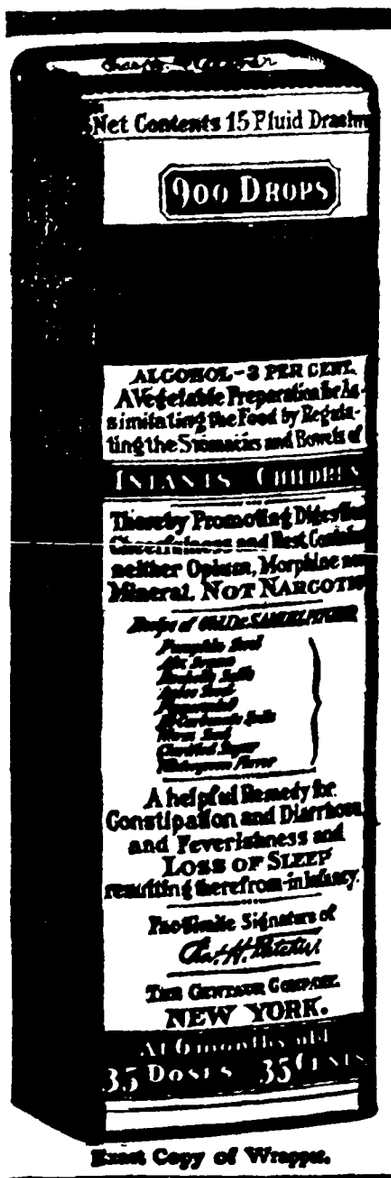
Negotiations for aerial postal service have been completed between the British and Dutch governments, and Holland is very busy making final arrangements. The journey from Amsterdam to London would take but one and one-half to two hours. The Dutch military airmen, who have been in training since the beginning of the war, are to act as pilots, and the ministry of war is lending full cooperation to the scheme. On the same lines an air service between Amsterdam and Groigen is also being arranged. Ground for large airdromes is being prepared near the Dutch metropolis.

London to Sydney by Air.

From the London Mail.

A meeting of some of the prominent business men in Sydney, Australia, the other day decided that it is practicable to bring Australia within 150 flying hours of London by an aerial mail service. Capital to finance the scheme was subscribed at the meeting. The promoter is Reginald Lloyd, an Australian widely known in London and a member of the Constitutional Club.

The crown prince is reported to have fired three cooks and the fourth is "Acht Himmel!"



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

Mothers Know That Genuine Castoria Always Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The Last Word.

The sweet young thing thought she was making a huge success.

"There is only one thing I can't understand," he started to say.

"Only one?" she asked, without letting him finish.

"There was one. Now there are two. The second is why some girls never learn that it is only the pretty ones who can afford to be impertinent."—Ottawa Citizen.

Cuticura for Sore Hands.

Soak hands on retiring in the hot suds of Cuticura Soap, dry and rub in Cuticura Ointment. Remove surplus Ointment with soft tissue paper. For free samples address, "Cuticura, Dept. X, Boston." At druggists and by mail. Soap 25, Ointment 25 and 50.—Adv.

To Water Hanging Plant.

Place a small funnel in the center of the basket, leaving the cup part above the soil, but hidden by the foliage. Fill this with water daily. The water will soak into the soil gradually and will not run through onto the floor below, spoiling carpets or waxed floors.

How's This?

We offer $100.00 for any case of catarrh that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System.

Sold by druggists for over forty years. Price 75c. Testimonials free.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

The Rate.

She—What interest is it, anyway, a dog takes in chasing a cat?

He—I guess it is one purr cent.

Keep your liver active, your bowels clean by taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and you'll keep healthy, wealthy and wise. Adv.

Cheese is one of the very best substitutes for meat.

No Charmer, This!

Furthermore, why do they call an ear-splitting whistle a "siren?" One understanding of a siren is that people don't try to get away from her.—Galveston News.

A true friend is one who never reminds you of your best traits.

Look out for Spanish Influenza.

At the first sign of a cold take

HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form—safe, sure, no opiates—breaks up a cold in 24 hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine box has a Red top with Mr. Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.

Stop Losing Calves

You can Stamp Abortion Out of YOUR HERD and Keep It Out

By the use of
DR. DAVID ROBERTS'
"Anti-Abortion"
Small Expense
Easily Applied. Sure Results.
Used successfully for 30 years.
Consult DR. DAVID ROBERTS about all animal ailments. Information free. Send for FREE copy of "The Cattle Specialist" with full information on Abortion in Cows. DR. DAVID ROBERTS VETERINARY CO., 160 Grand Ave., Waukesha, Wis.

Complete History of World's War Illustrated with scenes of stirring photographic battle scenes, maps, etc. Big commissions. Agents' outfit free. Send 10c for postage. P. D. Thompson & Co., Pullerton Bldg., St. Louis, Mo.

Acid-Stomach Makes Millions Suffer

Indigestion—dyspepsia—sour stomachs—bloated, gassy stomachs—belchy, miserable-feeling stomachs—these are Acid-Stomachs.

What a lot of misery they cause! How Acid-Stomach, with its day-after-day sufferings, does take the joy out of life! Not only that—Acid-Stomach is always undermining one's health. Think of what acid does to the teeth—how the acid eats through the enamel, causing them to decay. Is it any wonder, then, that Acid-Stomach saps the strength of the strongest bodies and wrecks the health of so many people?

You see, ACID-STOMACH victims everywhere always ailing. They can't tell exactly what is the matter; all they say is, "I don't feel well"—"I'm all in; tired, sickly." If they only knew it, nine times out of ten it is Acid-Stomach that is ailing them. It surely makes good digestion difficult, causes food to sour and ferment in the bowels, weakens the blood and fills the system with poisons. It prevents one from getting the full strength out of their food.

Take EATONIC and get rid of your Acid-Stomach. This wonderful modern remedy actually takes the excess acid out of the stomach. It quickly and positively relieves bloat, heartburn, belching, food repeating, sour, gassy stomach, and the pains of indigestion. Makes the stomach cool and comfortable—keeps it sweet and strong. Banishes all stomach troubles so completely that you forget you have a stomach. You can eat what you like and digest your food in comfort, without fear of distressing after-effects. EATONIC helps you get full strength out of every mouthful you eat—and that is what you must have to be well and strong—full strength from your food.

Get a big box of EATONIC from your druggist TODAY. We authorize him to guarantee EATONIC to please you. If it fails in any way, take it back; he will refund your money. If your druggist does not keep EATONIC, write to us and we will send you a big 50c box. You can send us the 50c after you receive it. Address H. L. Kramer, President, Eatonic Remedy Company, South Wabash, Chicago, Ill.

TAKE EATONIC TODAY

FOR YOUR ACID-STOMACH

SUITS

$6.50

They are an opportunity for parents to outfit their "young man boy" in his "long-pant suit" and save some real money.

Opportunity deso not knock.

Opportunity is no knocker.

Opportunity is the same thing yesterday —today and tomorrow—

Opportunity is of no use to you unless you use it.

We're offering a big opportunity for saving in these "long pant suits" for the big boys and young fellows.

The price is $6.50. See them and know that you can not do as well elsewhere for $15.00 to $20.00.

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

Where "duty is duty"

The Crystal Cafe is -:- -:-

The Place To Eat!

Come in and get a box of Our Holly Brand Chocalats in Beautiful Boxes!

Always a Full, Fresh Line of Candy Cigars and Tobacco,

CRYSTAL CAFE

"A Good Place To Eat"

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105

RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments

Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

Greetings

We wish to extend to our customers and friends best wishes for

A Happy New Year

Also thanking you for your patronage of the past year and soliciting your 1919 business,

J. W. WATERMAN

Little Progress Made

My nephew on returning the first day was asked what he learned. He replied: "I learned how to stand up and sit down. I thought I knew that before I went to school."—Chicago Tribune.

A Billion Silver Dollars.

One billion silver dollars, laid in a row, says Gas Logic, each coin just touching the one before it and the one following, would form a line that would reach practically around the entire world.

Miss Edna Francis, of Goodell, was calling on friends here Saturday.

Mrs. Clark Bredbenner was taken to the hospital at Mason City Monday.

CLOVER SEED for sae. Ask J. A. Young, Garner, Iowa.

Mrs. A. H. Meyer left for Dows last Thursday for a visit with her sister.

Howard Doyle spent Christmas with his folks at Alta Vista.

Harold Gruetzmacher of Iowa Falls spent Christmas with his parents here.

Miss Emma Wille was on the sick list a few days the past week.

Prof. Thomkins and family spent Christmas with his parents near Miller.

Dona Baumgartner and Walter Nissen visited with Garner friends last Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Ed. Wenck, of Garner, visited at the F. J. Wenck home a few days the fore part of this week.

Oscar Schuldt came from Iowa Falls last week, having received his discharge from military duties.

Chas. White returned from Lu-Verne Monday where he has been working the past few months.

Mr and Mrs Ben Daniels, of Belmond, were visitors at the Wm. Milligan home Christmas.

Miss Edna Howdeshell, of Armstrong, spent a few days with Miss Ella Ridder the past week

Mrs. Fronie Davis, of Iowa Falls, came up for a visit with relatives on Tuesday.

Mr and Mrs. Elmer Yohn, and son Ronald, are away on a Holiday vacation

Dr and Mrs Missman entertained for a Christmas dinner Mrs Missman's parents of Belmond.

The new 1919 Ingersoll watches are being built with wooden wheels so Wallace Pavey can repair them. Ask him about it

Last week Charles Dowager shot a red fox out in Liberty township. This is the first fox we have heard of being shot in this vicinity this year.

Miss Laura Jones, of Ames, Iowa returned to her home Monday after a visit with Mrs R M Thomas and Mrs Eldridge

C G Waterman is moving into his house recently vacated by the Wm Keraus family who left Monday for Minnesota

Mr and Mrs Lew Lewis entertained to a Christmas dinner Henry Yahnke and family, and Mr and Mrs Henry Lewis

Mr and Mrs C Quandt and daughter of Belmond, had Christmas dinner at the home of her parents, Mr and Mrs. Tom Blank

Mr and Mrs Walter Berggren and daughter, Barbara, and Miss Elleanor Duffy, returned Monday evening from Swea City, where they spent Christmas with Mr Berggren's folks.

The Fred Kluckhohn and Wm. Keraus families left Monday for Austin, Minnesota, where they will locate on a farm for the coming year. They also shipped their household and other goods Monday.

Owing to bad roads I will have to change my dates in Klemme. Those desiring osteopathic treatment may come to the Hotel Klemme on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Treatment will be given in your home when necessary. Dr. R. W. Schultz.

Notice to Pay Up!

All those who owe us must call and settle, this is the last notice, you can save yourself a lot of trouble by paying us now. Henry Lau & Son.

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed	1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger	3:03 p. m.
435, Passenger	8:44 a. m.

South

436, Passenger	6:17 p. m.
1068, Passenger	11:25 a. m.
820, Freight	12:15 p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Wenck were visiting Garner folks Monday.

P. M. Greisemer spent Christmas Day with his parents at Garner.

Henry Suckow was a Garner caller last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Wenck were Garner visitors last Thursday.

Harry Roberts spent Christmas with his family at Mason City.

Dr. Geo. Zinn and Wesley Lau were Mason City callers Monday.

Bert Gram is spending a few days at Goodell this week.

Clarence Bashman is on the sick list this week.

The Clarence Kluckhohn family ate New Year dinner at the W. F. Pavey home.

No, you can't get your sale bills printed at the Ryan Barber Shop, Pavey does that now.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Reemtsma spent the Christmas holidays with relatives and friends at Applington, Iowa.

Billy Baack returned from camp Monday, having received his discharge from the army.

J. F. Ryan spent Christmas with his family at Garner, returning to Klemme Thursday evening

Charles Gibbs and Howard Wiles went to Garner last Thursday afternoon between trains.

Leonard Sampson and family are spending the holidays visiting relatives and friends in Illinois.

Mr John Coobs left Monday for McGregor, Iowa, where he intends to spend the winter.

J B Mack has been doing a lot of painting over at Meservey the past week.

FOR SALE--Some full blood White Leghorn Cockerels. Also registered Short-Horn bull, 2 years old last April. 2-w.

Horace Merrill, of Garner, spent Christmas at the Fred Gates home near Klemme, returning to Garner Tuesday.

Ye Editor ate New Year's dinner with Mr and Mrs. Elmer Fuller We say it was a fine dinner and we will receive an invitation at any time

Miss Blanche Lilljenberg, who is visiting with her sister at Garner, attended the dance here last Friday evening.

Joe Starnes has sold out his cream route business to Clifford Swartz. Mr. Starnes is now working in the Wellemeyer Store.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wenck, and daughter Maude, of Garner, were guests to a Christmas dinner at the F. J. Wenck home.

Walter and Donald Nissen returned to their home at Milford last Saturday after a short visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

There wll be another old time dance at the Idle Hour Theatre on Tuesday evening, January 28th. We want to see "Bill" Johnson here at that dance. All the "old timers" were present at the old fashioned dance here Tuesday evening, all but Bill.

Ye Editor returned Monday evening from a week's vacation spent with friends at Lincoln, Nebraska. Even an Editor is entitled to a vacation at Christmas time, and Lincoln, Nebr., is a good place to go. We simply give this information to our friends who thought the Editor went to Minneapolis.

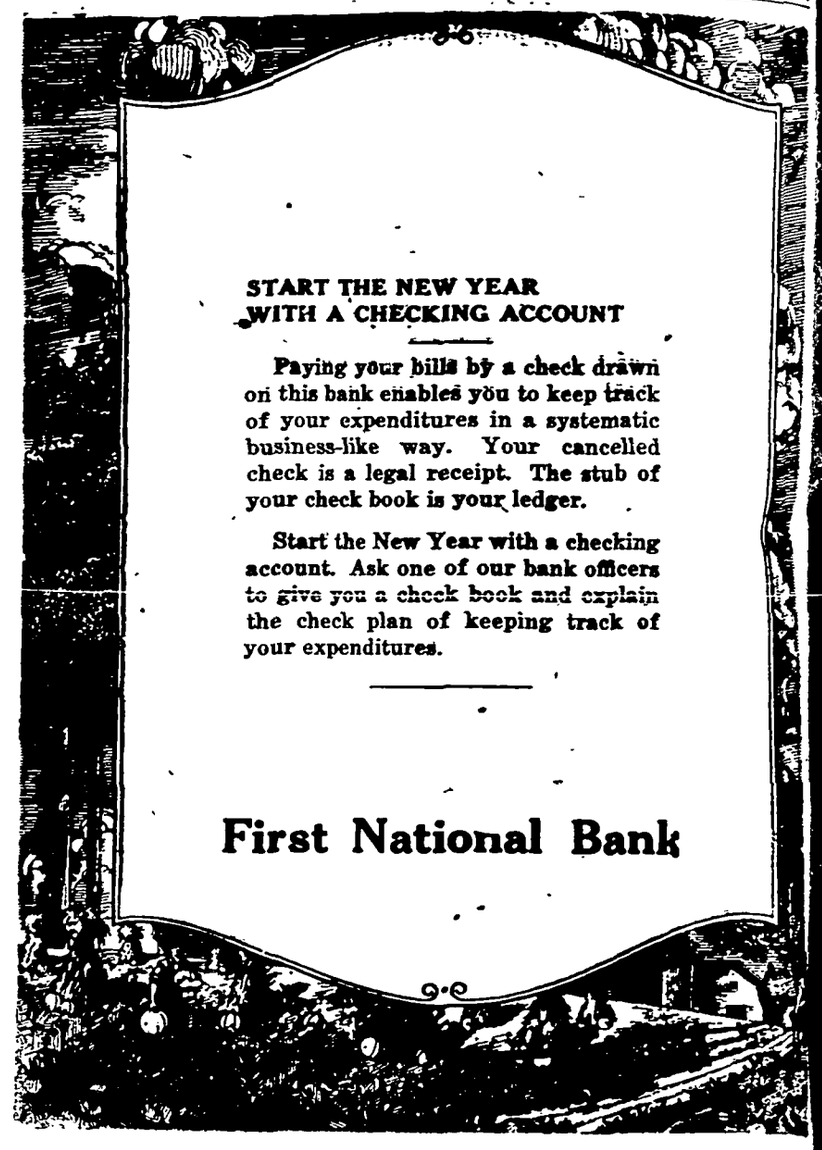
Don't miss the Clearance Sale on Trimmed Hats at almost half price. Children's hats at half price. Reduced prices on Velvets, Silks and Ribbons. Mrs. John Josten.

John Messel, of the U. S. Naval Training Camp at Detroit, was here on a six day furlough to spend Christmas with his folks, Dick Messel and family.

Mrs. Walter B. Yahnke is enjoying a visit from her sister of Buffalo Center.

Don't forget that there is a dance at the Idle Hour Theatre in Klemme on every Friday night. Come and have a good time.

Ryan's Laundry Basket goes every Tuesday evening, back every Friday. adv.



START THE NEW YEAR WITH A CHECKING ACCOUNT

Paying your bills by a check drawn on this bank enables you to keep track of your expenditures in a systematic business-like way. Your cancelled check is a legal receipt. The stub of your check book is your ledger.

Start the New Year with a checking account. Ask one of our bank officers to give you a check book and explain the check plan of keeping track of your expenditures.

First National Bank

L. H. YOST

General Auctioneer

--not a new auctioneer but an old auctioneer in a new locality, having had years of experience and have cried hundreds of successful sales. See me befora you date your sale, it will cost you nothing and may save you money. Write or phone me at my expense or see State Savings Bank.

L. H. YOST, Auctioneer

Phone 3602 Klemme, Iowa

MEAT PRODUCERS DID FULL DUTY

Increase in American Hogs Will Help to Meet World Fat Shortage.

FARMERS SAVE SITUATION.

Government Justified in Stimulation of Pork Production—Sevenfold Increase Over Pre-War Exports.

Through increased production and conservation we will be able this year to export seven times our pre-war average exports of pork products. With the heavy demands added in caring for the millions who have been freed from German oppression, the Department of Agriculture and the Food Administration are justified today in our every action of stimulation of hog production. In the coming year the greatest world shortage will be in fats, and pork will help to save this situation. The efficacy of the policy of stimulated production has built up in this country supplies which will enable us to supply a very large part of the fat deficiency of the world. In beef there must be a shortage in Europe, due largely to limited refrigerator ship capacity. All freezer ships available, however, will be filled by America, Argentine and Australia.

The contribution made by the producers of this country to the war program as applying particularly to animal food products is illustrated by the following:

Reports compiled by the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicate an increase in cattle of 10,238,000 head and 12,441,000 hogs. These figures were compiled to January 1 last.

In this period there was a decrease in sheep of 819,000 head. The indications are that this decrease will show an increase, according to recent reports.

Since January 1 unofficial information indicates an increase in hogs of not less than 8 per cent. and not more than 15 per cent. as compared with one year ago, with an increase in the average weight.

Following the request of the U. S. Food Administration for an increase in hog production for marketing in the fall of 1918 and the spring of 1919 the increase may yield not less than 1,600,000,000 pounds more of pork products than were available last year. Without this increase the shipping program arranged by Mr. Hoover regarding animal food products would have been impossible.

The dressed hog products during the three months ending September 30, 1917, amounted to 903,172,000 pounds, while for the corresponding months of 1918 the dressed hog products totaled 1,277,589,000, an increase of over 374,000,000 pounds for the quarter.

During the same period for 1917 the records of inspected slaughter of dressed beef showed 1,263,000,000 pounds as against 1,454,000,000 pounds for the three month period ending September 1, this year.

Our Food Gospel

eat less serve less waste nothing

America's Pledge of Food Gave Heart to the Allies In Their Darkest Hour

Whatever is necessary America will send. That was America's pledge to the Interallied food council. And because the American food army had hitherto made good they took heart and went forward.

Farm enterprise and much soft corn increased pork supplies, food conservation increased exports—total shipments doubled.

FAITH JUSTIFIED BY EVENTS.

I do not believe that drastic force need be applied to maintain economic distribution and sane use of supplies by the great majority of American people, and I have learned a deep and abiding faith in the intelligence of the average American business man, whose aid we anticipate and depend on to remedy the evils developed by the war.—Herbert Hoover, August 10, 1917.

NO ONE SUFFERED HERE.

The marvel of our voluntary food saving, now that we are "getting results," is that no one ever actually suffered any hardship from it; that we all are better in health and spirit and better satisfied with ourselves because of our friendly self-denial.

KLEMME TIMES

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER 19 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, January 9 1919 | $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

OBITUARY

oyd Lawhorn, son of Mr. and Joe Lawhorn, was born at Lena, is, Stephens county, October 7, and died in his home in Klem- wa, January 1st, 1919. He was in marriage to Lydia Frei on r 2, 1909. To this union one ter was born. Mr. Lawhorn was oyed in the Ell garage for a num- f years, and while there he won himself many a warm friend. He a man of whom it truly could be he attended to his own business. was a hard worker and loved his daughter out of the depths of heart. He was stricken with the enza which later developed into monia. All that doctor and e could do was done to save his but all efforts proved futile. He s to mourn his death his wife and daughter, father and mother, sister and brother, 4 uncles, 5 , besides many other relatives friends.

CARD OF THANKS

e wish to express ouf sincere ks and appreciation to those who kindly assisted us in our recent avement. Also we extend thanks he beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. Cloyd Lawhorn
Joe Lawhorn and family.

December 5th, 1918.
Latracey, France.

friend Helen:—

ll, I received your letter yester- nd will answer and let you know still alive. How are the folks? they are all well. I suppose it is y cold over there by this time. I get very cold here; it is nice and here today. Yes, I am glad the s over and I guess everybody else oo. Well, I hope to get back s the pond soon. Are you going ove this year? Guess I will get to Iowa some time. I am learn- to talk French pretty good. We staying in town now. I suppose y is a bigger sport than ever. him I said not to get married be- fore I get back. Ha!

Well, as news is scarce I will close. Hoping to hear from you soon,

Your friend,
W P Dore
302 San. Train,
A. E F. via New York

Watch Me For Coming Events

DLE HOUR
Weekly Program

aramount Program

Saturday, January 11

Monroe Sallisbury in "HANDS DOWN"
A Blue Bird Production
Wednesday, Jan. 15

ance Every Fri- day Night
ery Third dance will be a
SQUARE DANCE

A Busy Man

The following is a brief summary of the County Agent work for the period of Feb. 1st, 1918, to Nov. 1st. 1918:

Number of farm visits made	267
Number of farmers calling at the office	2061
Number of farmers securing seed corn	378
Number of bushels of seed corn sold	1400
Number of bushels of seed corn tested	300
Number of bushels of other seed supplied	489
Number of farmers getting this seed	32
Number of farm hands placed through the office	210
Number of meetings held where agent took part	57
Total Attendance	2588
Number of letters written	3109
Number of articles written for papers	14
Number of orchards where assistance was given in spraying	16
Total value of things bought and sold through the office	$20,000

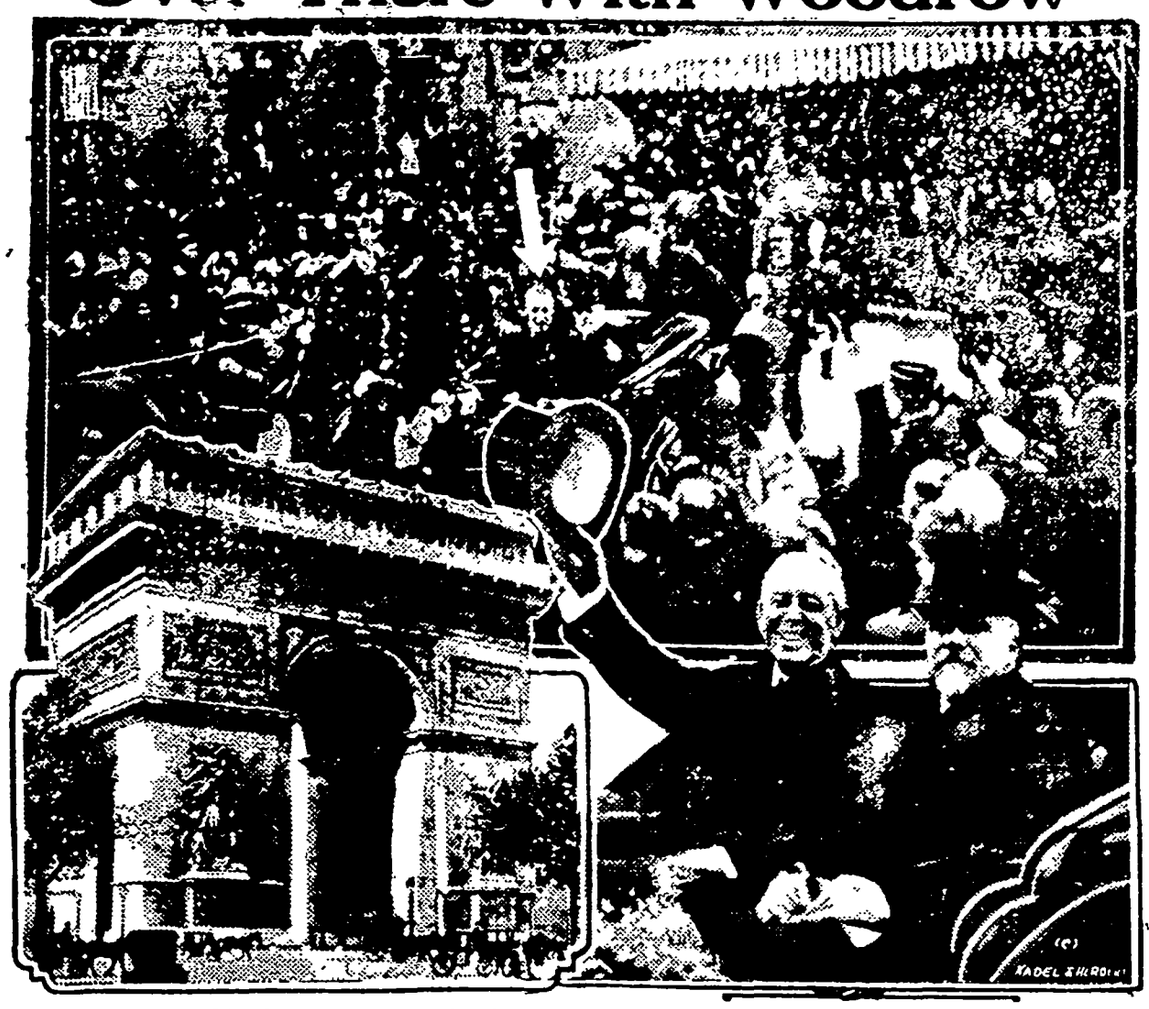
Some of the other work is as follows:

Junior club work
Plant disease control
Hog cholera control
Exchange Bureau
Distribution of Govt. Bulletins
Collecting and compiling information for food administration and Bureau of markets.

DAUGHTER OF MARK HANNA LEADER.

Intimate friends say she is a "chip of the old block" when it comes to leadership. It is Mrs. Medill McCormick, wife of Illinois' new senator-elect and daughter of the great political leader, the late Mark Hanna. Mrs. McCormick is chairman of the Republican Women's National Executive Committee, with headquarters at Washington.

Over There With Woodrow



Welcoming Woodrow in Europe has been one of the most "Americanized" stunts our allies have ever indulged in. It has been in a two-fisted whoop'er up way which has thrilled all who witnessed the demonstrations in France and England Here are the first pictures of Wilson in Europe. Upper shows President Wilson, with President Poincare, receiving the wild cheers of the people as their carriage leaves the railroad station of Boulogne Woods The "close-up" shows the two driving along the Champ Elysees, in Paris The insert of the Arc de Triumph is the historic structure through which President Wilson has just driven, vindicating RIGHT—reopening it after having been closed since defiled by the Prussians who passed under it in 1817

The following is a list of persons in Hancock county who have failed to pay their allotment to the United War Work Campaign:

Dan Webner
Wm. Greimann, Sr.
Wm. Stille
Mrs Fred Schlei
R. B. Orr
Albert Nonnweiler
Gabe Paulson
A. H. Halverson
E. E Vaage
[illegible] Waldow
John Nesbit
[illegible] Kopschke
Lan Sutton
[illegible] Dvorak
[illegible]nard Steiff
L. C. Bakken
E. C. Howland
Mrs. E. G. Howland
[illegible]hos Homes
Vera Steiff
Benj King
Mrs. Virginia King.
Plumb King
J. C. Prescott
L. W. Cunningham
W Cunningham
G. V. Geddes
Nonnweiler Estate
F. J. Sedlaska
[illegible]as Nonnweiler
Nelle Tjaden
Conrad Geisking
Wm Baack
Emil Baack
[illegible]n Korte
Rasmus Christensen
Theo. Freerksen
Henry Groh
Geo. Hendricks
John L. Larson
F. C. Paine
Harry Peters
Hans Sampson
W. D Schroeder
J. C Walker
Mrs. Axel Johnson
James O Shaw
L. T. Swelland
Albert Capek
Geo Hejlik
Fred Jakoubek
Henry Janson
Wm. Kolar
Anton Lukas
B Mrax
Geo. Thistlethwaite
Henry Schieusner
Chas. Urich
Jos. Hejlik, Sr.
(Signed) Bureau of [illegible]

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A. H. Meyer, Past.

Preaching service [illegible] Sunday morning at 11 o'clock

Sunday school at noon. Preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7.30 p m

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

PAYING VISITS TO NATIONS, HIS JOB

Prince Yorihito Higashi Fushima, cousin of the Japanese emperor, is one of the best visitors any nation ever had Most of the prince's life has been spent in making official visits for his government. He is now being entertained at Washington, having come here from England, where he was entertained by King George. He presented the British king with a sword and badge of field marshal of the Japanese army, as a gift from his emperor.

Friendship Is Not Blind

In friendship we see only those faults which may be prejudicial to our friends, while in love we discern no faults but those by which we ourselves suffer.—La Bruyere.

THEIR SOULS IN THEIR PURSE

That Is, if It May Be Admitted That "War Profiteers" Are Possessed of Souls.

An inquiring correspondent asks us to define a "war profiteer," [illegible] the Milwaukee Sentinel.

Now, as the soul of a man is [illegible] the essential and distinguishing [illegible] of him we may reach the required definition by turning to a little story in the preface to that ingenious picaresque romance, "Gil Blas" by worshipful Master Alain-Rene Le one of the first of French story t a true improvisatore, and the fir progenitor of the English Smol Balzac and Flaubert.

Once upon a time (that is the old way to begin) there [illegible] students of Spain journeying [illegible] to Salamanca, the Madison of [illegible]

At a halt by the roadside th covered what appeared to be a stone, with this curious inscript

"Here lies interred the soul of licentiate, Pedro Garcias."

Whereat they marveled greatly while the body or corporeal shell man is the frequent subject of ment and of the offices of the p sician's shadow, the undertaker who ever before heard of the soul of a man being thus disposed of by the grave-digger!

One of the students being of an inquiring mind and doubtless destined for what in our day is elastically called "research work," determined to into the mystery and exhume w ever lay beneath the stone. A little digging and prying sufficed to get it up.

"Under it he found a purse of leather, containing a hundred ducats!"

And that was the "soul of the licentiate Pedro Garcias." His soul was in his purse. And the same may be said of the "war profiteer," who coins the necessities of the government and the nation into the extortioner's or the grafter's dirty profit.

Made Brave Rescue of Boy.

With a line tied about him and a lantern in his hand, M. Chiavetta a driller employed in the New York navy yard, descended into a twenty foot tank and located a heater boy who was lying on a stage in a semi-conscious condition. This act of heroism occurred on the United States steamship Standard Arrow Although nearly overcome himself Chiavetta managed to secure the youth O'Neil and, assisted by another heater boy J. Goodlich brought him up. O'Neill was revived and Chiavetta and Goodlich were given treatment by the ship's company and later by the sary attendants. In a report of occurrence the assistant navigation structor in charge writes [illegible] to call attention to the conspicuous heroism of Chiavetta He entered an unlit, choking and difficult tank and exhibited the most praiseworthy determination, judgment and bravery in finding and bringing out O'Neill. Chiavetta was himself under treatment for about an hour afterward and then further distinguished himself by returning to work inside the tank, being the only driller who so remained on the job." He has been commended by Secretary Daniels.

Speakin' of Boys.

"Yes," said the almost-philosopher, "there's a heap of difference in the attitude parents take in raisin' boys. Some folks are content to bring 'em up to be good men for the boys' own sakes. Others selfishly harp about wantin' the boys to be a credit to their parents. This may be all right, but it seems to me the only thing the old folks can borrow on that kind of credit is trouble."

The First Authentic War Film

"Crashing thru to Berlin"

It shows the cause and declaration of war, how it was fought and won and shows our own

YANKS IN ACTION

Idle Hour, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 17 and 18

Matinee Saturday at 2:30 P. M. Prices 25c and 50c

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

In November is the festival of St. Brice, who may be called the patron saint of football players, not alone because his feast day comes during the season for the gridiron game, but for quite another reason St. Brice's day was long generally observed in England, and in the year 1002 the celebration took the form of a general massacre of Danes. It was on that day, according to tradition, that the English game of football was invented, with the head of a Dane as the ball. St. Brice, of course, was not responsible for either the massacre or the football game, having died some six centuries before He was a bishop of Tours and lived in the Fifth century.

The albatross spends its life, with the exception of a few weeks given each year to nesting, entirely at sea, and is on the wing practically all the time. Furthermore, it does not progress by flapping its wings as most birds do, but seems to soar at will, rarely if ever, giving a stroke to the wing, seeming to need no impetus. At nesting time, which is early in the year the albatross repairs to an isolated island such as one of the Crozet islands in the southern Indian ocean, or Tristan da Cunha in the south Atlantic ocean

George Washington had only five cabinet officers a secretary of state, a secretary of the treasury a secretary of war a postmaster general and an attorney general A secretary of the navy was added under John Adams a secretary of the interior under Taylor and a secretary of agriculture under Cleveland The department of commerce and labor was created in 1903, under Roosevelt, and the department of labor was made separate under Wilson, in 1913

It is a widespread belief both in Scotland and in Ulster, that Seagull, seagull, sit on the sand It's never good weather while you're on the land" alludes to the fact that when the birds fly out early and far to seaward, or remain on the sand, fair weather may be looked for while, if they take a contrary course, storms most frequently follow

Under the constitution of the United States every state, small and large alike, is entitled to two senators, but representatives are apportioned among them according to their respective numbers of population, including men, women and children There are now 48 states The basis of representation is one representative for every 211,877 population

Gaza has played a rather more important part than Beersheba in the history of Palestine With it are prominently associated the life works of many of the prophets, while Samson's connection with it is well known. Destroyed in 634 by the Arabs it was restored by the crusaders and passed into the hands of Saladin in 1470 It has come into the hands of the allies during the last year

The chief occupation of the St Kilda men is fowling The St Kildans eat vast numbers of the eggs of the sea birds which frequent the islands, in addition to the birds themselves, which are not only eaten fresh, but dried and salted for winter supplies. The cliffs are equally divided among the inhabitants and a man seldom or never poaches on his neighbor's property

A committee in the District of Columbia has been adapting for band music 31 of the well known hymns, familiar to all denominations, so that they can be sung at the camps Until now it has been difficult to sing hymns with a band accompaniment The instruments are so high in pitch that the human voice was strained in following them

General Grant was nicknamed "Old Unconditional Surrender" because of his reply to General Buckner at Fort Donelson on Feb 16 when Buckner asked what terms of surrender would be allowed No terms except an unconditional surrender and immediate surrender. He replied immediately upon receiving it

A drink described by the addition therein of [illegible] renders it unfit to drink and which may not be removed from the spot by any process short of destruction. The term arose as a convenient designation of alcohol whose nature had been altered and its selling was made official by legislation in congress

The bat instead of being useless and worthless, as is generally thought, is really most valuable as it is the devourer of swarms of insects that fly at night [illegible] operations as shown by [illegible] after flying for 2 hours were found with stomachs gorged with moths and [illegible] and cast flies

The countries of the world in which earthquakes are most frequent are Italy, Japan, Greece, South America the Pacific coast Java Sicily and Asia Minor [illegible] is most free from these convulsions are Africa Australia, Russia, Siberia Scandinavia and Canada

Using bean straw as a basis a concern in Japan has long made the manufacture of an imitation celluloid that also can be used as a substitute for lacquer, artificial leather and rubber and as a water and heat resisting building material

For the use of shipbuilders a pneumatic driven strapping saw has been invented that enables two men to do as much work as 20 men could do with hand tools

Norwegian engineers have invented an automatic spillway gate for dams which is claimed to work perfectly under the most extreme conditions of ice or cold.

The Isle of Pine promises to become an important producer of iron, copper and other ores as 11 mines have been located

Sweden has areas of peat deposits that are estimated to cover 9,960,000 acres

Hundreds of [illegible] the Netherlands [illegible] to the [illegible]

[illegible] state legislature eats from September to

KENYON OPPOSED TO PROPOSED BILL

Licensing Plan to Control Packers Does Not Reach Point Desired By Live Stock Men.

Washington, Jas. 4.—The Senate committee on agriculture will soon begin inquiry into possible legislation to control the packers. Senator Kenyon is on this committee, and he and Senator Norris are urging action. While Senator Kenyon introduced the same licensing bill as Sims introduced in the House, the administration measure, he is not for it, but presented it in order to give the committee a basis or reason for hearings. It is learned there will be strong opposition from farmers and live stock men to the administration licensing plan It is feared it would be weakly administered by the department of agriculture and would simply legalize objectionable pratices.

SOMETHING OF MEN IN IOWA LEGISLATURE

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 4.—The semi-annual book of the Iowa state legislature, compiled by Secretary of State W. S. Allen, shows that from a standpoint of experience at least the coming general assembly ought to be able to handle its duties without hesitation.

Of the 50 senators, 39 have served in previous sessions of the general assembly, and of the 108 members of the House 59 have had experience in prior sessions.

Only one member of the house has ever served in the Senate, George A. Allyn, of Ringgold county, having served in four general assemblies some years ago as a member of the higher body, but a large number of the senators have graduated from the lower branch.

The House has the distinction of including both the oldest and the youngest members of the assembly, Representative W J. Sayers, of Marengo, Iowa county, who is 71, being the oldest and Will L. King, of Hubbard, Hardin county, aged 21, being the youngest.

MOVILLE COMMERCIAL CLUB LAYS ITS PLANS

Moville, Ia., Jan 4—On New Year's eve occurred the annual banquet of the Moville Commercial Club. Plates were laid for 40 members and their wives A splendid five-course dinner was admirably served under the direction of Mrs Andrew Anderson Mrs Myrtle Hanson furnished music during the dinner hour

J C Larkin in his usual entertaining and tactful manner, acted as toastmaster W H Rockefeller, M E Southwick, W L. Sanborn and G. C. Conaway responded

At the business session the following officers were chosen W L. Sanborn, president, G C Conaway, secretary, R I Payne, treasurer

An enthusiastic discussion of the possibilities of the organization followed the election of officers. Some of the projects of the club for this year are Opening of the highway straight west to the Sioux City road, a sewage system, a new hotel, and a branch of the federal loan bank

IOWA MEN AWARDED DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS

Washington, Jan. 4.—The commander-in-chief, in the name of the president, has awarded the distinguished service cross to the following named officers and soldiers for the acts of extraordinary heroism described after their names.

Private George A Bushing Company G, 118th infantry (A S. No 2149481) For extraordinary heroism in action near Brancourt, France, October 8 1918 Private Bushing observed a severely wounded soldier about 100 yards from his post on a sunken road, heavily shelled by artillery and machine gun enfilade fire. Private Bushing voluntarily went out and carried this soldier to a place of safety Home address, Dick Bushing, Plainfield, Ia.

Private Otis Turner Company M Fifth infantry (A S No. 2154626) For extraordinary heroism in action near Busigny France, October 18, 1918. When his platoon was held up by an enemy machine gun post, Private Turner with another soldier, taking their automatic rifle, rushed 50 yards through intense fire, skillfully placed the rifle in positions, and opened an effective fire. Home address James Turner father, Albia, Ia.

DEPENDENTS CLAIM THEY ARE BADLY TREATED

Webster City, Ia, Jan 4—A number of widows and dependent parents of soldiers in and about Webster City are just in receipt of notices from the treasury department at Washington, D C, notifying them that their government allowances have been reduced, and in some instances cut off entirely Not only this, but in other instances the actual return of money alleged to have been overpaid is asked

The notices have been sent by C F Nesbit a commissioner in the treasury department They have been sent to families who have been given an allowance by the government in addition to the allotment made them by sons in the army The statement is made by Mr Nesbit that investigations have been made in all cases and that allowances have been cut and refunds ordered only in cases where the government believed the facts had not warranted the allowance in the first place

An official series of British photographs of the grand fleet was recently exhibited in London It included some of the United States fleet, showing the drill and inspection of the American warships

PLYMOUTH COUNTY GRAND JURY NAMED

LeMars, Ia, Jan 4—The grand jury for Plymouth county for the year 1919 was drawn as follows

Garfield township, F W Kehrberg; Lincoln, Julius Mincke, Hungerford, Philip Winter Union, James Gibbons Stanton William Janssen Plymouth, Joseph Beller; Remsen, C W Brollier-lon; Marion J B Wolf America Fred Remer Preston, Fred Gronemeyer; LeMars, Jacob Brandstetter, John Trautfer

IOWA STATE NEWS

FRENCH BLOOD FLOWS IN SOLDIER'S VEINS

Cedar Falls, Ia., Jan. 2.—"I'm part French, for French blood flows in my veins—a pint of it," declared Ulrich Janssen, a 20-year-old Cedar Falls boy who has just returned from overseas. Janssen lost a leg as the result of a wound from a high explosive shell while fighting in the Champagne sector, and is still a natient in the reconstruction hospital at Fort Snelling. He was given a furlough and is going about the streets on crutches.

Janssen, who was a machinist before he enlisted, can no longer follow that trade, but will learn in one of Uncle Sam's schools some other way of earning his living.

The young soldier spent four months in the trenches and had just stopped off for two weeks in the Champagne sector before going to Chateau-Thierry when he went into the engagement that cost him a leg. He was stationed back of the front trenches, but in range of the German, heavy artillery, when a 77 came along and burst 100 yards from him sending over a fragment that struck him in the leg.

"I lay for more than 10 minutes on the ground before the stretcher bearers found me and took me to a trench dressing station," he said. "I was sent on back from there and finally landed in a French hospital. Grangrene set in and the leg had to be amputated within a few inches of the body. At the hospital blood from a pollu was transfused into my veins."

SEIZED LIQUOR IS RETURNED TO OWNERS

Iowa City, Ia., Jan 2.—A number of gallons of liquor were turned back to the owners here last evening, but not until after a sharp encounter between various officers of the law The liquor in question had been seized from persons who brought it in a few days ago from Illinois Justice Ewing held that the amounts were not illegal and dismissed the cases against the defendants, issuing a writ of replevin for the liquor, directing it to be turned over to the former owners.

Police officers, who had the goods under lock and key, claimed orders from United States Marshal Reed to hold it for federal prosecution. Constable Matthew, acting under order of the justice of the peace, arrested Officer Eggleston, of the city police force on a charge of contempt, taking him before the justice of the peace. In the end the police turned over the liquor.

HOLIDAY SEASON AT HOSPITAL FOR INSANE

Cherokee, Ia. Jan 2—The holiday season is on at the Cherokee state hospital for the insane commencing Christmas eve and lasting until the new year comes in The festivities include dancing moving pictures and religious services The menu for Christmas diner was as follows Oyster soup, crisp crackers pickles olives, plum jelly roast chicken, dressing, giblet gravy, mashed potatoes, rutabagas, cabbage salad, bread, butter, mince pie, coffee, cheese nuts, candy, spice cake, oranges, bananas, apples.

The holiday week includes dances, a masquerade ball motion pictures and will culminate in a dancing party this evening to dance the old year outt

RETURNING SOLDIERS CARRYING LIQUORS

Council Bluffs Ia Jan 2—Federal authorities here are experiencing trouble with discharged soldiers who are taking advantage of their uniforms to carry booze illegally The officers know that the boys are bringing home full suitcases of trinkets from camps, and hesitate to stop them And it is now believed by some that in addition civilians are donning khaki to secure the advantage enjoyed by the soldier Of course there are laws against selling booze to a soldier, but it's an accepted fact that its pretty easy for the khaki clad lads to get the liq or in some states since the signing of the armistice

COUNCIL BLUFFS MAN JUMPED TO DEATH

Council Bluffs Ia Jan 2—Harry M Brown, a prominent druggist and for two terms clerk of the district court and well known throughout Iowa fell or leaped from a second story window of Mercy Hospital He lingered several hours before he died He was suffering from pneumonia and was delirious The nurse, who had many other patients to care for, was absent only a moment The hospital authorities today stated Brown was found lying in the snow by a boy who reported to the hospital office

IOWA FLYER GETS MEDAL FROM AERO CLUB OF AMERICA

Paris, Jan 2—The Aero Club of America has awarded its war medal and diploma to 44 French aviators according to an announcement made here tonight and also to the following among American fliers

Lieut. William Erwin, of Chicago, Lieut. Ralph O'Neill, of Denver, Colo., Capt. Normal Hall, of Colfax, Ia., Capt C. J. Vasconcelle, of Denver, Colo.; Maj. Harold E. Hartney, of Pasadena, Cal.

DUBUQUE—Two hundred and sixteen fatherless children of France were "adopted" by Dubuquers, and $300 additional was collected by the committee in charge of the campaign here, final figures show. The $500 will be used by the committee to adopt more orphans, the money having been collected from those who could not afford to give the full amount —$27—for the care of a child for a year

COUNCIL BLUFFS—Captain Shafer and a squad of policemen raided a hall at Tenth street and Twentieth avenue after 1 o'clock Sunday morning and broke up a dance arresting 12 men and 11 women. All of the men and nine of the women were locked up until morning. Two of the women who were married were allowed to go home when they insisted that their families needed the attention

WAUKON—The Red Cross chapter of Waukon has presented each mother whose son made the supreme sacrifice in the world war with a black velvet brassard on which is a gold star, which is worn on the left arm

WESTERN SHIPPERS TO BE REPRESENTED

Clifford Thorne Is to Appear Before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee This Week.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 1.—Clifford Thorne, representing a large number of western shippers and prominent men, will be one of those who will appear before the Senate interstate commerce committee and discuss the future of the railroads. The hearings open Friday.

Senator Cummins expects strong pressure to force through the McAdoo five-year plan but predicts it will not go through at the same time. He doubts whether the president will carry out the threat to restore the roads soon to their owners.

Many of the railroad officials and owners support the McAdoo plan to extend the government control five years. Cummins says in view of the enormous guarantee of compensation to the roads it is quite natural they should form it.

PIONEER PHYSICIAN RECALLS FAMOUS STORM

Rock Rapids, Ia., Jan. 1.—Dr. G. C. Wallace, pioneer physician of Lyon county, has good reason to recall the blizzard of 1888, the anniversary of which will occur on January 12. John Langfeldt, then about 14 years of age, was caught in the storm a few miles southwest of Rock Rapids and had both feet and both hands so badly frozen that all had to be amputated. Dr. Wallace performed the operation, and the boy survived the shock and got well. It was said to have been the first time up to that time that such an operation had been successfully performed in this country It had been performed once in the old country. Mr. Langfeldt is still in good health, living at Davenport. Dr. Wallace is still in active practice in Rock Rapids.

ROCK RAPIDS EDUCATOR LAID UP FOR REPAIRS

Rock Rapids, Ia., Jan. 1.—Prof. Wilson S. Wilson, superintendent of the Rock Rapids schools, is in the Cram Hospital at Sheldon. He was operated on for some sort of an internal inflammation on the day after Christmas. For a time his condition was serious, but later reports are encouraging, and it is confidently hoped that he soon will be back at his duties. He has the somewhat remarkable record of having been superintendent of Rock Rapids' schools for a quarter of a century. Previous to coming to Rock Rapids he served at Sheldon. At one time he was deputy state superintendent of public instruction Early in his teaching career he was located at Dakota City, Neb.

MANY IOWA TROOPS SOON TO BE OUT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 30.—By the middle of January upwards of 2,000 Iowa national guardsmen and conscripts will arrive at Camp Dodge for demobilization, war department officials declared today in estimating the speed with which troops on board the transport Pocahontas, which is due to arrive at Newport News, Va., January 5, will be sent to Iowa for return to civil life. The Pocahontas carries 450 officers and 900 men of the 338th field artillery outfit of the 88th division, trained at Camp Dodge, with the 126th field artillery, comprising 25 officers and 1,076 men, and the 109th ammunition train, horse battalion of three officers and 494 men, made up of Iowa and Minnesota state guardsmen.

MORE GUARD COMPANIES TO BE MUSTERED IN

Des Moines, Ia., Jan 1.—Word has been received at the office of Adjt. Gen. Louis G. Lasher saying that Maj. John N. Robinson, 20th United States infantry, now at Fort Sheridan, Ill., will arrive soon to inspect companies of the Fourth United States National Guard regiment, located at Fairfield, Cedar Rapids, Eagle Grove, Cherokee, Waterloo and Ottumwa, with a view to mustering them into the organization. The band at Fairfield also will be inspected.

Thus far six companies have been inspected and mustered in.

"BLACK HANDER" TOO WISE FOR DETECTIVES

LeMars, Ia., Jan. 1.—An attempt to extort $10,000 from J. W. Bettendorf, a millionaire manufacture, failed last night, when one of the blackmailers or an agent snatched a suitcase filled with paper in lieu of money from a messenger boy, who eluded private detectives who had set a trap. Mr. Bettendorf, several days ago, received a "black hand" letter threatening his life unless he gave up $10,000. Detectives were waiting at an address designated in the letter, but the messenger was pounced upon some distance from the

PREACHERS FAVOR LEGALIZED BOXING

Burlington, Ia., Jan. 1.—A canvass of the ministers of Burlington show four out of every five interviewed in favor of a bill to legalize boxing under the state commission plan.

LEMARS—S. L. Plath, in business in LeMars for 27 years, has traded his store and business to M. E. Hendricks, of Milan, Mich. Mr. Plath will move to Milan and engage in farming.

PLYMOUTH COUNTY DEMOCRAT IS WINNER

LeMars, Ia., Dec. 30.—The election contest over the office of treasurer for Plymouth county has been finished Andrew Laughout, of LeMars, democrat, won over Job Kennedy, of Brunsville, republican.

On the face of the returns canvassed by the board of supervisors, Langhout had a lead of two votes. In the contest he gained 34 votes in the recount, giving him a majority of 34 votes over his opponent

BERLIN WORRIED AS POLES COME

Advance to Within 50 Miles of Capital and Capture Six Important Cities—Situation In Posen Serious.

By United Press.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—The Polish army advancing along the railways toward Berlin has captured six German cities, acccording to information received here today.

The Polish mobilization and advance has alarmed the German government.

Herr Noske, newly appointed minister of the army and navy, has ordered the arming of large German forces to oppose the Polish invasion of German territory.

"I was unexpectedly called to the cabinet and am in no position to outline my whole program," Noske told the United Press today. "But my first action will be to suppress Polish violence."

The Polish force consists of infantry, cavalry and artillery, all well armed, the report said. Cavalry moving rapidly ahead of the main body, was reported to have entered Posen, and Frankfort-On-The-Oder. The important railway stations at Bauthen, Guessen and Bromberg, it was said, were occupied with but slight resistance.

SITUATION GRAVE.

Copenhagen, Jan. 3.—Events in Posen are assuming a grave character, according to advices from Berlin. Large parts of the province are in the hands of the Poles and Polish troops have crossed the frontier at Skalmieryce, a town southeast of Posen and 62 miles northeast of Breslau. German troops there must, it is stated, retreat in the face of a superior force of the Poles.

It is also reported that the Polish ultimatum to Germany, demanding government has ordered the mobilization of all Poles.

A TEARING RAID.

Geneva, Jan. 3.—The Polish army marching toward Berlin has as its objective "a tearing raid into Germany," according to the Polish agency at Lausanne.

The Germans are re-arming demobilized soldiers and fighting is expected although some of the demobilized troops are refusing to serve.

WOMEN IN ARMY.

By Associated Press.

Warsaw, Tuesday, Dec. 31.—Fighting has continued at various points in Posen, between Polish and German troops in the last few days. The fortress of the city has been occupied by the Poles, while more than 20,000 German soldiers have been disarmed.

The Sixth German grenadier regiment has refused to surrender and now is surrounded in a barracks within the city. The entire Polish population is reported to be aiding the Polish troops. They include boy scouts and young women.

The fighting is of a house-to-house nature and there is no accurate estimate of the number killed and wounded.

Ignace Jan Paderewski, who arrived in Posen several days ago, is delaying his departure for Warsaw in order to have a conference with German delegates from Berlin.

BOMBARD KOLKO.

Berlin, Jan. 3.—Allied warships have bombarded Kolko and Vakko, it was officially announced today. Esthonian troops have occupied the Juminda and Perispea peninsula.

The Poles in Posen have issued an immediate surrender of the airmen who bombarded the barracks at Reval.

POLAND IN DESPAIR.

London, Jan 3—Poland is in despair owing to the invasion of bolshevist troops and apparent indifference of the western powers to the plight of the country, according to a Warsaw dispatch to the Mail. "Telegrams are sent begging intervention by the allies," the dispatch states, "but no reply comes. The Poles admit the immensity of the numerous problems absorbing the allies, but complain that they do not receive the least signs of attention or a word of guidance."

The correspondent says the situation is made worse by internal disorder in Poland. Factories in all the industrial towns have been destroyed by the Germans and thousands of Poles were sent to Germany during the war are returning and there is no employment for them. They are taking the law into their own hands and terrorizing their former employers, compelling them to give them money.

Lodz is in the hands of the red guard, which has shot some of the officers of the regular troops. The government headed by Joseph Pilsudski is weak, the correspondent says

CHURCH WORKERS STARVE

Methodists at Petrograd Suffer—Situation is Alarming.

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 2—Members of the American Methodist Episcopal Church in Petrograd are dying of starvation, according to a cable message from Madame Eklund, the deaconess, received here tonight by the Methodist board of foreign missions.

"Food question terrible, hopeless," said the message. "Owing to want of food many of our members died. Nothing received so far. Can we hope to be helped soon?"

Dr. G. A. Simons, pastor of the church and now in this city, expressed little hope for his congregation.

"The bolshevists," he said, "made four classes for food distribution Laborers, who get food; minor clerical help, who get a little food, professional classes, who get no food, and aristocrats, who are to starve. Some belong to the second and third classes.

CREEL WITH PRESIDENT.

Paris, Jan. 2 George Creel, chairman of the committee on public information, is accompanying President Wilson to Italy.

STRIKE REAR OF LENINE'S ARMY

British Squadron Lands Esthonian Troops on Battle Coast as Reinforcements March to Relieve the Bolshevists.

London Times cable service [Copyright 1919, by Public Ledger Co.] to The Sioux City Tribune.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 3 (by wireless)—Esthonia troops shipped to Reval under cover of a British squadron have been landed on Portakunda, on the east coast between Narva and Rakvere, to take the invading bolshevist forces in the rear. The latter retired eastward in the inner part of the country after skirmishing. The Russian cruiser Partak, under bolshevist command and with a bolshevist crew, bombarded Fort Lighthouse, Weelf Island, when a detachment of the British squadron came to the rescue. The Partak took flight and was pursued and surrendered after a few shots. Six officers and 120 men weretaken prisoners and brought back with the captured ship to Reval.

Bolshevist Reinforcements

It is generally expected in the Baltic provinces that the invading bolshevist forces soon will receive large reinforcements from Russia. Supports, with heavy artillery, are said to be on the march from Petrograd. The bolshevist detachment which took Dorpal is only the vanguard, chiefly consisting of native bolshevists and Lettish soldiers sent ahead to revolutionize the country and levy blackmail from the bourgeois, which they have conscientiously done wherever they passed, preaching violent bolshevism and sacking every village and farm yard. They are strongly supported and provided with artillery arms and ammunition by the government.

Interest is taken in Finland, the sister republic across the gulf, in its desperate struggle against bolshevism both foreign and native, which is increasing. A corps of volunteers is being organized to go to the assistance of the Esthonians. It will consist of 2,000 men in two divisions, one under a Swedish officer, Major Ekstroom, the other under a Finnish officer, Colonel Kalm, formerly of the Russian army

Meantime Finland is aiding the Esthonian government financially with Finnish currency and coin, which has been declared legal tender in Esthonia and is circulating equally with the Esthonian rouble at a fixed rate of exchange, while the Russian paper ruble and bolshevist currency is increasing in depreciation, and is accepted only as a speculative value

"Annexes" Lithuania.

The Lithuanian telegraph agency advises that the leader of the Lithuanian bolshevists, Kapsuka, arrived at Vilna from Russia with a large staff of assistants and a well furnished treasury of rubles. He has declared to the nation through the press that the Lithuanian republic shall be declared an integral part of the soviet republic. The soviet government will supply the Lithuanian treasury with money to carry on the administration, but Lithuania must supply Russia with some provisions she requires.—In the presence of this danger a delegation from the Lithuanian government at Libau obtained an interview with the admiral commanding the British squadron in the Baltic, who assured him the allies would lend the Lithuanians every assistance in organizing their defenses to resist the bolshevists invasion.

A soviet telegram from Tsarsko-Selo dated December 25, states that the soviet government has formally recognized the independence of the Lithuanian soviet and that the republic has been promised every assistance in asserting the national freedom. On the other hand, the soviet central executive committee in Petrograd sent brotherly greetings to the free people of Lithuania, Esthonia and Lettland, congratulating them on having attained freedom from foreign occupation as well as from the tyrannical czarism, offering every help in organizing the defense against all other foreign oppressors.

HINTS MINISTRY AGAINST WILSON

Italian's Resignation Forecasts Another Peace Parley Under the Old Discredited "Diplomatic" Scheme.

London Times cable service [Copyright 1919, by Public Ledger Co.] to The Sioux City Tribune.

PARIS, Jan. 3.—A Rome telegram states that the principal reason for Bissolati's resignation from the cabinet was the "Wilson question." That is, the feeling of those who feel a war like this cannot end without bringing about radical changes in international relations and that blood has been shed in vain if the old diplomatic methods are perpetuated.

MANY SAILORS DROWNED

Loss Is Heavy In the Sinking of British Vessel.

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 3.—Two hundred and seventy sailors were drowned today as the result of the loss of the British steam yacht Iolaire off Stornoway Scotland

BLAME MIDDLEMEN.

New York, Jan. 2.—The Dairymen's League issued a statement today placing on middlemen the blame for the milk situation which, in relation to high prices, is under investigation here.

"The farmer receives too little for his product and the consumer pays too much," the statement declared.

Dairymen today are making no profit, it says.

A representative of the labor party will be included in the British peace delegation.

START REMOVING BOYS FROM SHIP

Trolley Line Attached to Hospital Ship Driven Aground Yesterday Morning—All Will Be Transferred By Night.

Fire Island, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Destroying gale today spread oil around the hospital transport Northern Pacific, before here, so the work of rescue could go ahead in spite of a heavy sea. The roughness of the water put a stop to transferring men to relief ships. The trolley boat, attached to cables, connected its trips from the transport to the beach, landing the slightly wounded troops and the other units aboard. This may go on all night.

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 3.—A lifeboat loaded with troops from the Transport Northern Pacific was capsized this afternoon by the heavy surface, throwing 8 soldiers and life savers into the water. All were saved.

One soldier and three of the life savers were caught under the boat. Life guards on shore rushed into the surf, and after rescuing the others dragged the boat to the beach, where the four, who were unconscious, were revived.

By United Press.

Fire Island, N. Y., Jan. 3.—With a calmer sea making the work of rescue less hazardous, 600 wounded men from the stranded transport Northern Pacific were landed safely this afternoon by means of a trolley boat.

Some of the 2,545 troops aboard the ill fated ship were transferred to relief vessels standing by. All probably will be taken off the vessel by nightfall.

The trolley boat, fastened by pully wheels to double cables extending from the Northern Pacific to the beach, made frequent trips, bringing 12 to 15 men to safety each time. This life saving device was rigged this morning by Capt. Joseph Tuttle, of the coast guard, who rowed through a dangerous surf to the stricken steamer, carrying the lines. On his return he brought back four soldiers who volunteered to help him back through the breakers.

Rushed to New York.

Red Cross workers from Bay Shore and other towns along the Long Island shore, together with army medical corps men under command of Col. F. I. Pierce, received the men as they landed. They were all taken to Bay Shore, where a railroad train and a great number of privately owned automobiles were waiting to convey them to New York.

The weather continued rainy and dark, but the wind and sea subsided considerably, making it possible to start removing the soldiers sooner than had been expected.

By United Press.

Fire Island, L. I., Jan. 3.—Four soldiers were brought ashore from the stranded transport Northern Pacific by post guards this morning. They were

Private Albert Lichner, Buffalo, N. Y., Company G, 30th Infantry

Lieutenants Joe A. Logan, Milton, Pa., 111th Infantry; Robert J Thorpe, Washington, Ind., Robert M Wilson, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Lichner was the first to step ashore.

Capt. Joseph Tuttle, of the coast guard, brought these men ashore in a small boat, after a perilous trip through the surf to the transport.

"All the boys are happy and feeling fine," declared Litchner.

This was the first word brought directly from the vessel since the coast guards boarded her yesterday.

There was no panic or excitement when the transport struck, he said

"We were all asleep. When the shock came the boys thought they had reached the dock."

Tugs Work Hard.

Destroyers and tugs standing by the stranded transport Northern Pacific tried to move closer in shore this morning to launch some small boats for removal of some of the 2,454 soldiers aboard. But the heavy sea prevented. The little vessels jockeyed with the tide, approaching the transport and then backing out as the waves swept them toward the treacherous sands. There was a pelting rain and a brisk wind, with a northeaster predicted by unofficial weather forecasters.

Weather Continues Bad.

The stricken transport, 300 yards off the beach, was at times but dimly discernible through the mist which shrouded everything in a bleak grayness. The sea pounded the Northern Pacific all night, but still the ship showed no signs of going to pieces. Before dawn a staff of the army medical corps with nurses and supplies, arrived.

Whenever the weather lightened a bit, the transport talked to the shore by means of wig-wag signals. During the night, the wife, mother and sister of Lieut. Averell Broughton, Brooklyn, reached the beach and when it became light enough, a signal man wig-wagged their message to the ship. The reply was:

"All's well," and an admonition for them not to worry.

At 9 o'clock Captain Connelly of the Northern Pacific sent this message:

"Who is in charge of the beach?"

Captain Levine from the Port of embarkation, replied that he and Col. F. L Peace, of the medical corps were in command.

Supplies Are Ample.

"We have ample food, blankets and litters in case you land any men here," they signaled.

The rescue of the 1,744 sick and wounded, 710 other troops, and 466 crew of the Northern Pacific, will be made just as soon as wind and sea permit. If conditions are right, they will be taken off in small boats and transferred to the vessels standing by.

MOVIES ON HAND.

Movie picture squads and photographers were arriving in steadily increasing numbers this morning. The beach was becoming crowded. Small boats plying between Bay Shore and Fire Island were at a premium.

THE THIRD RED ARMY CAPTURED

Lenine Himself Barely Escapes as British Make 31,000 Bolshevists Prisoners — Take Great Quantities of Supplies.

By Associated Press.

Copenhagen Jan. 3 Owing to the advance of "superior forces of bolshevists," says a dispatch from Berlin, the German troops have been compelled to evacuate Riga, the Livonian port at the head of the Gulf of Riga.

By Associated Press.

Valadivostok, Monday, Dec. 30.—In capturing Perm, in the Ural mountains, General Gaida, at the head of Czecho-Slovak and Siberian forces, virtually destroyed the bolshevist third army, from which he took 31,000 prisoners. General Gaida's troops captured an armoured train from which Nikolai Lenine, the bolshevist premier was directing operations in the region of Perm Lenine himself escaped, but several members of his party were taken prisoners.

The exploit of General Gaida in capturing Perm parallels his success in the campaign of last summer. His superiors opposed his plan of attack against Perm and he carried out the operation at the risk of removal from his command. The bulk of his forces was made up of Siberian troops, but he had two regiments of Czechs in his army Capture Railroad.

In addition to the 31,000 prisoners reported, General Gaida captured 5,000 railway cars, 120 field guns, 1,000 machine guns, 30 automobiles, an entire wagon transport, several armoured trains and several thousand horses. His maneuvers were a complete surprise to the bolshevists as proved by the fact that he captured several prominent soviet leaders at the headquarters of the third bloshevist army. Ten bolshevist regiments are declared to have been annihilated and the rest of the enemy army was driven across the Kaima river.

Semenoff Successful.

Troops of General Semenoff, the anti-bolshevist leader in the Chita district have occupied Verkhni Udinsk, on the Siberian railway east of Lake Baikal.

Two hundred thousand Russian soldiers released from German prisons are expected to pass through Omak within a fortnight. The Russians are destitute and in a serious condition from exposure and lack of food Buying Soldiers.

Washington, Jan. 3—Advices to the state department today announce that returning Russian prisoners of war on coming out of Austria Hungary and Germany are being offered 300 rubles monthly, clothing and food to join the bolshevist red army. According to this information few of the prisoners accepted this offer, and popular feeling in Russia is strongly against the bolshevists.

Nevertheless the power of the bolshevists is reported on the increase since the recapture of Kazan and Samara from the Czechs. Their forces are now said to be concentrating on the Ukrainian front.

One prisoner declared that when typhus struck the Russian camps in Germany his comrades died at the rate of 500 a day. It was reported that 750,000 died in prison.

Make Vodka Again.

Transportation conditions in bolshevist contralled Russia are much worse than in Siberia, no passenger cars being run except as freight cars, and service above third class is infrequent.

Other advices reaching the state department today say the Kolchak government at Omsk has abolished government control of prices with a resultant increase It is also stated that Vodka again is being manufactured by the government, and is selling for 6 rubles a pint.

By United Press.

London, Jan 3.—Bolshevist forces captured Ufa, capital of the white guards, Tuesday, a wireless dispatch from Moscow reported today. They also captured Stilitan.

The Lithuanian government, because of the bolshevist successes in western Russia, has been removed from Vilna to Kovno.

Ufa is an important city 200 miles north of Orenburg and 750 miles east of Moscow.

BUY LOWER CALIFORNIA

Ashurst Would Purchase Strip of Land From Mexico.

By United Press.

Washington, Jan. 3.—President Wilson is requested to begin negotiations for the purchase from Mexico of the peninsula of lower California, in a resolution introduced today by Senator Ashurst, Arizona.

Ashurst also introduced a resolution directing the war department to investigate claims of American citizens growing out of damage to property by Mexican bandits since December 1, 1912.

THE MID-WEST SHIVERS

Ten Below Temperatures Are Reported In Many Cities.

By United Press.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 3.—Mid-America tingled today in its first spell o' weather this winter. Temperatures ranging from 10 below to a few degrees above zero prevailed in western and mid-western states.

Aside from the cold there was little inconvenience. Low temperatures checked the snowfall and traffic was unimpeded. Relief from the chill will come Friday, weather men predicted. Freakiness of the cold wave was shown in the near-zero conditions of southern and comparative warmth in the Dakotas and other northern states.

During the war 40 Victoria crosses were awarded to Canadian soldiers

HUN A STRANGE INDIVIDUAL

"He Adores Today What He Detested Yesterday" Says Barth.

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 2.—Richard Barth, secretary of the German independent socialist party, regards General Groener, the successor of General Ludendorff, as the leader of a militaristic counter revolutionary movement, according to the Express, which prints an interview that its Berlin correspondent secured with Barth.

General Groener, it is stated in the interview, is thought to have been given secret orders by the military leaders with the intention to restore the monarchy, but Herr Barth could not say whether, after the former emperor's "cowardly flight," it would aim at restoring the Hohenzollerns to power.

Asked by the correspondent whether the people were likely to support a monarchist government Herr Barth is quoted as saying:

"The German Michael is a strange individual. He adores today what he detested yesterday."

RAILWAY LOSSES TO BE MILLIONS

Government Operation of the Roads Will Cost Big Sum, the Figures Indicate.

Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 2.—The government's loss in operating the railroads in 1918 is calculated by railroad administration officials at less than $150,000,000. This represents the difference between the amount the government will be compelled to pay railroad companies as rental for the use of their properties—the socalled guaranteed return—and the net income which the government will receive from the railroads.

It will take six months more of receipts from the increased freight rates to permit the government to recoup its losses, officials believe. If congress does not approve the proposed five-year extension of federal control, and as a consequence President Wilson carries out his announced intention of returning the roads to private management at an early date, the government's loss will not be made up.

This deficit does not include the big sums—between $150,000,000 and $200,000,000—which have been loaned to railroads to help them pay for the extensive program of improvements and purchase of new cars and locomotives. These loans will be repaid eventually

The government's loss cannot be stated exactly until the compensation of each road is finally determined, and until the Interstate Commerce commission compiles figures on earnings and expenses for November and December. Officials believe, however, that the aggregate government compensation for all roads will be about $950,000,000, and that the net income from railroad operations credited to the government will be a little more than $800,000,000. For the 10 months up to November 1, the government's net income from the railroads, as reported by the Interstate Commerce commission was $605,000,000.

MILWAUKEE STRIKE OFF

Railway Workers Given Guarantee Pending Adjustments.

By Associated Press.

Milwaukee, Jan. 2.—The strike of the employes of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company was called off last night pending results of efforts of a committee of business men to have the Wisconsin railroad commission settle the controversy over the company right to increase its street car fares. The committee has maintained it could not raise the pay of its employes from 4½ to 5 cents an hour out of its present earnings, as the men ask the company to do.

RUSSIA CAUSES TROUBLE

British Foreign Office Worried Over the Situation.

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 2.—Russian affairs are causing the British foreign office considerable anxiety, says the Mail. The necessity of formulating a definite allied policy as to Russia is extremely urgent and it has been decided that the Russian question will be the first to be discussed at the peace conference

"It is presumed that all of the allied nations are overwhelmingly against armed intervention by an expeditionary force," says the newspaper, "preferring to encourage the creation of a stable government in Russia In the meantime, there is no likelihood of the allied forces on the Russian coast being withdrawn."

THREATEN THE RADICALS

Report Armistice Commission May Cut Off Peace.

By United Press.

Copenhagen, Jan 2.—The allied armistice commission has threatened to break off preliminary peace negotiations if the radicals seize the German government, according to a Berlin dispatch received by the Politiken today.

The University of Minnesota has added a new course to its curriculum. It is called "Democracy and the Peace Congress."

CITRUS FRUIT FROSTED

Cold Snap In California Does Damage to Fruit.

San Francisco, Jan. 2.—Citrus fruits were damaged by frost at Pomona, according to the weather bureau which reported that the lowest temperature in the state last night was at Paso Robles where the thermometers registered 16 degrees above zero. Heavy to killing frost is predicted for the state tomorrow.

Kaiser Is Ill And the Crown Prince Weary

Frederick Wilhelm Makes Effort to Escape—Wants Job With New Government.

By United Press.

Wierengen, Holland, Jan 3.—Friedrich Wilhelm Hohenzollern made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from his exile here, it was reported today. No details could be obtained

Baron von Sod Bildiz a friend of the former crown prince was also reported to have gone to Germany to ask the government's permission for Friedrich Wilhelm to return to that country. The baron, it is understood, will ask the German authorities to assign the former crown prince to a residence where he can live with his wife and children under a guard if necessary

Friederich [illegible], it was further reported is willing to do any work the government thinks him fitted for

KAISER VERY ILL.

Amsterdam Jan 3 -William Hohenzollern, the former emperor of Germany, is very ill, according to advices from Amerongen He cannot leave his room, it is said, and is suffering from a bad cold. It is stated that he has a high fever An eminent specialist from Utrecht is in constant attendance

PACKER INTERESTS COVER THE GLOBE

Net Touches Hundreds of Concerns Says Colver—Could Destroy the Wholesale Grocers.

By United Press.

Washington, D C, Jan 3 -Five leading packers have interests in 750 concerns, Chairman Colver, of the federal trade commission declared before the House interstate commerce committee today. The "big five" actually control 655 of these concerns dealing in meats and other food commodities, while they hold minor interests which would lead to control eventually, Colver said

Large packers have extended their activity until they now trade in 9,000 commodities, according to a statement by a wholesale grocer, which Colver submitted Few of these are directly related to the meat trade, Colver stated

"Questionnaires sent to wholesale grocers by the federal trade commission revealed a widespread feeling that the large packing concerns are threatening the wholesale grocery trade," Colver said. "One wholesaler declared to the commission that the big packers had power enough to destroy all United States wholesalers within five to 10 days."

Even in Coal.

Investigations by the commission showed packers dealing in canned goods, breakfast foods, fruits, groceries and one branch house was even dealing in coal, Colver said

Testimony of wholesale grocery salesmen to the trade commission was to the effect that packers had gone into communities and cut prices from 10 to 25 per cent to kill competition. Colver also referred to a resolution adopted by the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association, attacking the packers' "menace."

JOHNSON MESSAGE STARTS THE BALL

Complaint of South Dakota Soldier-Congressman Sets Congress to Investigation of Treatment of Wounded.

Washington, Jan 3.—The House military affairs committee tomorrow will hold an informal probe into the charge by Representative Royal Johnson, soldier-congressman from South Dakota, that wounded soldiers returning to this country are ill treated aboard ships and after landing.

General McIntyre will be questioned, the committee members said today, concerning Johnson's statement to Chairman Dent that no adequate provisions were made for the care of the sick men aboard ship, and that returning officers, of whom Johnson was one, were denied their freedom and insulted by officers in charge of them.

Art Treasures of The Kaiser Rescued From Berlin Mobs

Associated Press.

Berlin, Jan. 2.—The damage to the imperial palace in Berlin during the recent excesses, by theft or vandalism, is estimated to exceed $1,500,000 Five hundred persons implicated in the plundering which is said to have been going on for the past six weeks, have been apprehended and much of the stolen property recovered.

The former emperor's warden succeeded in getting the bulk of the imperial art treasures to a place of safety after the flight of the emperor. The wardrobes of the former emperor and wife were almost entirely denuded of their contents. In one of the former imperial dressing rooms the old uniform of a soldier was found. Its owner had exchanged his uniform for imperial raiment and disappeared.

The damage to the palace as a result of the bombardment was comparatively slight. The marines now have vacated the castle and taken up their headquarters in the former royal stables.

A giant German gun, captured by a Philadelphia regiment on the last day of the war, is to be presented to that city.

WIRE PROBE SUGGESTED

Senator Kellogg Would Investigate the Cable Situation.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Investigation by the Senate interstate commerce commission of the wire and cable situation with a view to recommending a future policy was proposed in a resolution today by Senator Kellogg, of Minnesota, republican. Consideration went over until tomorrow

Senator Kellogg said it was his purpose to have congress advise legislative to control and the extension of both the marine cables and the telegraph lines

Senator Kellogg declared that the question surrounding government control of the wire systems was practically identical with those surrounding control of the railroads He said that American cable systems should be extended, not only to Europe, but especially to Brazil and Argentina, in South America, adding that at present "we are entirely dependent upon Great Britain for the manufacture of cables," and plans for extension should be made at once instead of waiting until the lines are turned back to private ownership.

BREAK THE COAL RECORDS IN 1918

Production of the Bituminous Variety During the Past Year Exceeds All Others.

By Associated Press.

Washington Jan 3—With an estimated output of 587,500,000 tons of all records for the production of bituminous coal in the United States were broken during 1918, said a statement issued yesterday by the National Coal Association. This total was approximately 36,000,000 tons in excess of the 1917 record.

"The nation's wartime demand for coal, the heaviest in the country's history, has been met in full," said the statement.

"The mining of this banner tonnage during 1918 also virtually insures the country against a repetition of the distressing shortage of bituminous coal expenditure compared with last winter

"With fair operating conditions and intelligent distribution of the product, it is likely that there will be sufficient bituminous coal for the nation during the winter

"The year's record tonnage has been mined, under the spur of wartime necessity, with fewer men, generally, in the coal mining of the country than during 1917, when the output was materially lower Reports from virtually every producing field in the nation to the National Coal Association indicate that not less than 100,000 mine employes entered the military and naval service during the year, approximately 80,000 through the operation of the draft law alone.

"Increased efficiency of the management, the patriotic desire of operators and employes to support the government in prosecuting the war to the maximum of their ability, and a better car supply and movement under the operation of the United States railroad administration are chiefly responsible for the increase in production.

A Sufficient Supply.

"A year ago the country faced an unprecedented coal shortage; today, it faces the prospect of a sufficient bituminous coal supply to meet its requirements. The change has been brought about by a year of the utmost activity, vigorous action and close co-operation with the United States fuel administration"

BOLSHEVISM IN GERMANY SPREADS

Agent Sent Into Berlin By Trotzky No Longer Working Under Cover.

London Times cable service [Copyright 1918 by Public Ledger Co.] to The Sioux City Tribune.

THE HAGUE, Jan 3 —Spartacus activities continue throughout Germany, where every effort is being made by this party to promote sabotage against society A Leipzig telegram says the Spartacus band there has decided to establish its own wireless plants. A Berlin telegram says the strike in upper Silesia has assumed a completely bolhevist character In one mine the strikers seized the manager and two inspectors, in order to compel the mine owners to concede their demands. Some officials were maltreated and seriously injured. According to the Vossische Zeitung, Nadek's presence in Berlin has caused no trouble yet. The paper says Nadek's presence is a challenge more impudent than any ever yet experienced Bolshevism has grown so fast Nadek considers he has no further reason for working in secret If his presence is tolerated it means subjection to Russian dictatorship and a further step towards reopening war against the entente, the paper states.

Nadek is one of the agents Russian bolshevists have sent into Germany to spread their teachings.

GERMANS INJURE BRITISH

In Charge of Train That Crashes Into Enemy Cars.

By Associated Press.

Basel, Switzerland, Jan. 2.—Thirty British soldiers were injured when a locomotive in charge of German railway men ran into a train of British troops on the Namur-Charelroi line in Belgium recently. The three Germans in charge of the locomotive were arrested.

More than $10,000,000,000 worth of minerals were mined in the United States in 1917 and 1918.

Wilson Pleased When He Hears "Hello Woodie"

London Times cable service [Copyright 1918, by Public Ledger Co.] to The Sioux City Tribune.

By Raymond G. Carroll.

With President Wilson's Party in England, Dec. 31.—President Wilson's address in the free trade hall, Manchester, the center of an area of weaving and spinning industry where 55,000,000 spindles turn to benefit American cotton growers, was the climax of an extraordinary day in the heart of England, which is Lancashire after a trip along the ship canal that connects Manchester with the estuary of the Mersey, some 36 miles in length We did not go the entire distance along the bank of the canal, but for the interval traversed it by the good ship Magnetic, really a White Star liner, borrowed from Liverpool for the occasion.

Picture in your mind the president attired in fur coat and soft traveling cap, standing upon the bridge with officials of the ship canal- plain people, many of them former operatives in the mills—bowing and smiling to employes of warehouses and factories—girls, boys and aged men cheering him

I saw a girl in bloomers from a flour mill leading a chorus in "Rule Britannia," ending with "The Star Spangled Banner" All wore clothing covered with flour

We passed soap factories, lumber yards, coal chutes and steel mills, all getting their raw materials from the United States, and paying for it in good British money When we passed the ship City of Exeter, which brought American trops to England, President Wilson was particularly interested in the cheering He said to the lord mayor of Manchester Sir Thomas Shann:

"I know there are still good Americans aboard."

Shann, puzzled, asked why the president was so sure. Said the president: "Listen, hear that voice shouting, 'Hello Woodie.' 'He is an American.'"

ARREST LEADING MUNICH PEOPLE

Seventeen Taken Into Custody Charged With Conspiracy —Seek to Form an Army

By Associated Press.

Munich, Monday, Dec 30. — Seventeen prominent men including one non-Bavarian duke were arrested here last evening by the police assisted by 20 members of the local soldiers' council. The arrests caused the greatest sensation experienced by this city since the revolution. The men were at one of the largest hotels in Munich and were engaged in a conference when the officers arrived. They say they were arranging for the recruiting of citizen soldiery, but the police accuse them of aiming an attack at existing institutions"

They apparently attempted to destroy a number of incriminating documents which the police seized All but two of the men were later released. These were a publisher who is accused of distributing arms and a banker who is considered the ringleader in the alleged plot.

The incident occupied the attention today of the Bavarian soldiers and workmen's council, which began meeting yesterday. Herr Auer, minister of the interior, who was himself trying to form a force of citizen soldiers, says he had information that mob violence was threatened for New Year's eve. Herr Auer, speaking today before the soldiers' and workmen's council, defended the plan to raise citizen soldiers and reminded the delegates that on the night of December 8, when he was attacked and forced to resign he received no protection from the police or any existing military organization. Herr Auer's resignation was later declared void by the Bavarian cabinet, and he continued in office During his speech he declared that he had definite proof of a conspiracy to destroy voting lists so that the election fixed for January 12 would be impossible. The ministerial council has discussed a resolution by the soldiers' and workmen's council demanding the resignation of Herr Auer from office. Some decision may be reached in the matter today.

CONTROL BLACK SEA COAST

Allied Forces Gain Important Oil Center of Russia.

Constantinople, Dec. 31.—Allied forces now control the Black sea, coast and the British have occupied Batoum, which is connected by pipe line with the oil center of Baku, on the Caspian sea, according to an announcement made here.

"FAINTING BERTHA" AGAIN

Woman Famed For Her Nimble Fingers Quickly Caught.

Lincoln, Neb, Dec. 31.—"Fainting Bertha" Liebke, well known throughout the country as a police character, was caught by the police at Havelock, Neb., today, following her escape here last night from the state hospital for the insane. She had been a prisoner in the state penitentiary wher she was serving a term of from one to seven years after conviction on a charge of larceny from the person, but was transferred to the state hospital some time ago.

BALFOUR MEETS MR. HOUSE

British Leader Confers With President's Representative.

Paris, Dec. 31.—Arthur J Balfour, the British foreign secretary had a conference today with Col. E. M. House. The talk was a sequel to the discussions which President Wilson had in England with Premier Lloyd George and Secretary Balfour, and had to do with the taking up of practical details of the peace conference.

You are determining

Now

the sort of Old Age you will have. A Bank Account started now may mean

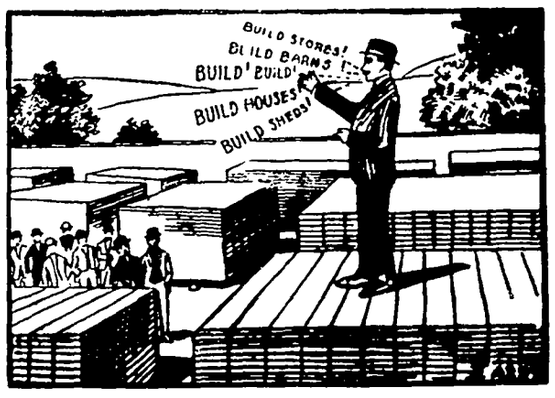
the Difference between later years of influence, comfort, pleasure and poverty, discouragement, misery.

State Savings Bank

WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE AND LIKE THE SERVICE

KLEMME, IA.



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc, or you who move to town can now build a new house.

NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

Favored by Nature.

The largest tongue in the world in proportion to its owner's size is that owned by the North Queensland hawk-moth, which sports a length of six and a half inches, although there is a long-horn beetle a little higher up, in New Guinea, which has horns measuring 17 inches.

Had Had an "Explain."

Kenneth and his cousin were especially fond of playing in the barn, and when told by his sister to be careful and to play only where there was no danger of being hurt Kenneth said, with a grownup air, "Oh, yes, we'll be careful, 'cause daddy just gave us an explain all about that."

LITTLE ONES WOULD INVENT

Might Be a Good Thing for Children If No Toys Could Be Bought for Them.

"No toys!" exclaims the fond and sympathetic mother, tragically, at the mere mention of the toy business being one of those in danger of being abolished as unnecessary during wartime. Oh, yes, little mother, there would be toys—but they would not be store toys. In fact, the children would invent and make a great many of them themselves. Dame Nature would lend a hand, and you could help a bit, too! There is no doubt that children must have toys of some sort—it is the very cry of their little souls. "Necessity is the mother of invention," so with dire necessity staring them in the face—a pressing demand with no supply—they would begin to invent. Moreover, being the work of their own little brains and hands, such toys would more easily please. Simple-minded and contented types of children would once again be the rule, not the exception. What has the nursery piled high with the latest and most expensive toys produced? Nothing but that contradiction of nature—the child with nothing left to wish for! What is there to stimulate his brains or his imagination? Everything has been thought out and imagined for him. No wonder at the age of seven or eight he finds life "stupid." But with nothing to play with would come the wonderful idea of making something.—Chicago News.

MYSTERY HOVERS OVER LAKE

Body of Water in Central Africa Has Most Curious Effect on Minds of Travelers.

Cold and gray are the waters which Lake Tchad spreads over the lowlands of central Africa. The traveler in Africa finds the mystery of the dark continent more haunting and unfathomable here than in the baffling mazes of the jungle or in the silent smile of the sphinx. Heavy winds toss the shallow waters about and whisper their secrets through the reeds. But the lake makes no answering confidences. It stretches on and on, measuring its miles of surface in sweeping wave lengths.

As far as the eye can see ahead are the reeds and rushes reaching up through the water in tangled masses. Here and there the line of the gray expanse is broken by slender islands bearing up a few round-topped native huts, outlined dimly against the skyline. The effect is that of a painting seen through gray glasses, reducing the whole to a low key. It is in the grayness that the lake's effect of mystery lies, the grayness that hovers dull and cheerless over waving reeds.

The traveler gazing across Lake Tchad for the first time feels the thrill of discovery. The knowledge that he is not the first to stand upon the banks does not dispel the feeling of entering the most shut-off place in central Africa.

Another "Scrap of Paper."

Twenty-seven years ago settlers at Olympia, Wash., made a treaty with the Indians allowing them to fish anywhere and at any time, says Commerce and Finance. Now the state game laws prohibit them from the sport during the closed season.

Saluskin, big chief of the Yakimas, with a number of other Indians, after protesting in vain to the local game wardens, went to the city to protest against the violation of their rights.

Imagine a chieftain, 90 years old, straight as an arrow, yet half blind and enfeebled, entering a court room in a modern city. This man had seen the victory of civilization in its struggle against the wilderness. He had seen his race pass control of the land to the white race. Still believing in the honor of the white man, he came to protest against the infringement of a treaty made a quarter of a century before.

Saluskin was informed by an interpreter that the district attorney could not change the state game laws.

"Hoh!" was his only comment.

Can't Even Have "Near-Beer."

Germany's brewers hoped this year to produce a beer substitute that should really resemble beer, but the Prussian minister of finance has issued a decree that puts an end to the dream of the foaming stein.

A new process has been patented by which near-beer was to be made from beetroot, hops, yeast and water. Many breweries had already installed machinery required under the patent.

The minister of finance has decided that the sugar of the beetroot, upon which the substitute depends for alcohol, cannot be spared for beer. Beets, he says, are badly needed for manufacture of sugar, dilution of jam and making of coffee substitutes.

Woman Frozen to Ground.

During a cold snap last winter Mrs. John Baker of Downsville took a bucket of hot water and went into the yard to clean the concrete pavement. She splashed the water around and used the broom vigorously, when suddenly she realized she could not move. She made determined efforts to move her feet, and experienced a fearful cold chill as thoughts of paralysis flashed into her mind. She screamed loudly for help, and her husband, who came running, found her shoes were frozen to the pavement.

With a vigorous jerk he yanked her loose almost pulling her out of her shoes. It was a thankful wife he led into the house to warm her feet.

Salesmen Must Be Healthy.

"The vital action of the brain depends on the physical being and the mental attributes of salesfolk are the results of health. Every man should have a fad or a hobby, something that will give him exercise to prevent that drowsy feeling that inactive men invariably have. If a man gains weight after he is thirty-five years old he should become alarmed. The first requisites to make a real man is to give the boy a good physical heredity."

These were some of the statements made by Dr. M. J. Bliem at the Salesmanship club at their noon luncheon in San Antonio.

"We ride today when we should walk for the exercise," Doctor Bliem said. "A short system of exercise every morning will keep one active in business and enhance his prospects of success."—San Antonio Express.

Cheap Gas Scheme.

Two poorly clad women were proceeding homeward after the mothers' meeting, and naturally they discussed domestic economy.

"Dae ye ken," said Mrs. Brown, "I'm due $5 for gas this month, and I dinna ken how I'll get it paid."

"Why not be like me," said Mrs. Green, "and use the nickel-in-the-slot meter?"

"But they say it's the dearest in the end. Ye get less gas for your nickel, ye ken, than I get for mine."

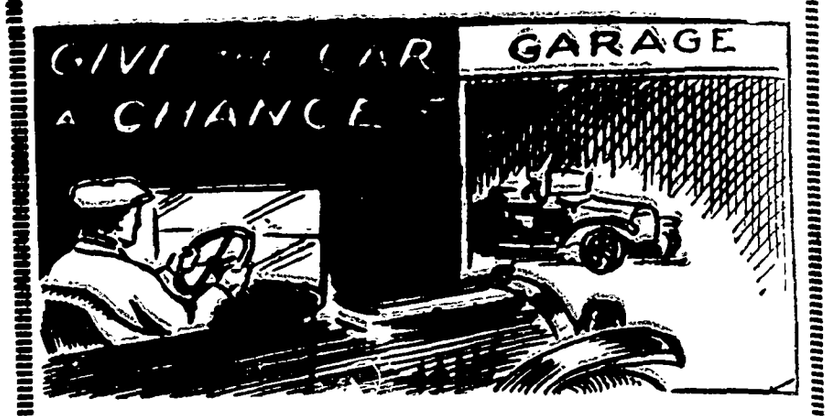
"Aye, but ye see, it's just this way wi me—I never put in nae mair than a nickel at a time, and, ye see, a lot o' folk comes tae my hoose at night, and whenever the gas begins to go down I just let on I hinna got a nickel! An' there is aye somebody ready to stump one up. Oh, yes, it's far cheaper in the end."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

October.

October is so called from being the eighth in the year, according to the old Latin calendar. It was styled "wine month" by our Saxon ancestors. The festival of the Rosary is celebrated Oct. 1 in honor of the Virgin, who is especially invoked in the devotions for success, believed to have been obtained through her intercession in the battle of Lepanto, in 1571, when the Turks were defeated.

Art in Coins.

To the general student of art and history the greatest interest of coins arises from the fact that they form the earliest portrait gallery of royal personages. The oldest authentic portraits of English kings are those of Edward IV and Richard III.



A man can't do good work with his windpipe full of dust, his leg dislocated and his arm in a sling.

Neither can you expect your car to work properly with the cylinders full of carbon and various parts out of adjustment.

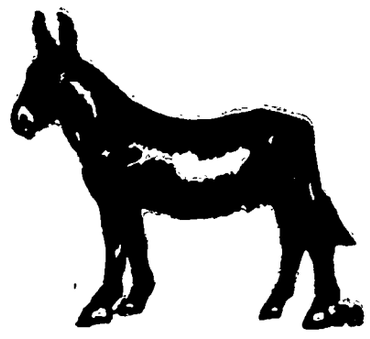
To insure satisfactory service the car should be gone over thoroughly twice a season.

We are specialists in that line.

Willys Knight

Miles Garage

KLEMME, IA



WANTED

BY

South Carolina Horse & Mule Co.

All the Mares and Mules They Can Buy for Our Southern Trade

Ages from 3 to 9 Years

Weight from 900 to 1300

Will buy 3-year-old Mares in good flesh if broke to lead.

These animals must be in good shape to ship,

Bring in your horses and receive the highest market price

Will Be There Rain or Shine-One Day Only

Livery Barn Klemme January 16

W. D. BALOW, Agent

Our Biggest January Clearance Sale

Started on last Thursday. We have made prices so low, compared to the market of today, that the merchandise will sell quick. There is a big stock to select from, owing to the unseasonable weather and bad roads before Christmas. On account of this we are drawing the lines closely around the cost to us and many of the goods are offered at less than cost.

Ready to wear and Millinery Departments are included in this sacrifice sale Many garments will be offered at less than Production Prices

First Floor

Real Bargains will be found in Blankets, Linens, Silks, Domestics, Dress Goods, Bedding, Outings, Flanneletts, Hosiery, Underwear, Notions and Cotton Piece Goods.

Second Floor

You will find the Suits, Coats, Dresses, Skirts, Waists and Muslin Garments marked at a reduction that will be sufficiently large to pay you to investigate. Rugs, Curtains, Draperies and all Floor coverings have a part in this January Reduction Price.

Mason City DAMON-IGOU CO. Mason City

Public Sale

ill move to a small farm and having a surplus of stock, will offer it at Public my residence 7 miles south and 1 mile east of Ventura, 11 miles southwest of Lake, and 7 miles east and 1 mile north of Klemme, and 1 mile north of Lin-anch, on

Tuesday, Jan. 14

The Following Property

8--Head of Horses

ncluding 3 weanling colts. These horses are Good Farm Horses.

HOLSTEIN CATTLE

21 Head of High Grade Heifers and Registered Male Calves

High Grade Holstein cows. They were the second and third highest in the Klemow Testing Association last year. One will give over 12,000 pounds of milk this 4 2-year old heifers that have averaged $20 a head per month in butterfat since ening; 5 heifer calves; 3 fall calves; 1 spring calf; 4 registered Holstein Male es from A. R. O., and cow testing association cows.

80-Duroc Jersey Hogs-80

f these are pure bred and are eligible to registry. They are all good high class hogs

Farm Machinery, Etc.

-foot McCormick Binder; Mower; Overshot Hay Stacker; Hay Bucker; Disc; 2
ivators; 2 sets Harness.

About 20 Tons Tame Hay; About 15 Tons of Threshed Timothy Hay

BIG FREE LUNCH AT TWELVE O'CLOCK
SALE WILL START AT ELEVEN O'CLOCK

MS:—On all sums of $10.00 and under cash; on sums over that amount a t of 10 months will be given on approved notes bearing 8 per cent interest. No ds to be removed until settled for.

J. T. GALFORD

S. GRIMM & MILLER, Auctioneers — P. M. GREISEMER Clerk

Reason for Mirth.

"Did you notice how your wife laughed at all my jokes. She's got a keen sense of humor." "No, she's got a dimple."—Judge.

Armageddon.

Palestine's great fertile plain appealed to the strategists of the ancient world as an ideal battle ground. Here Gideon triumphed over the Midianites and the Philistines over Saul. The frequent wars between Assyria and Egypt were fought out on the field of Armageddon. The name has become figurative in modern usage.

Didn't Like That Kind.

We had fried mush for breakfast and my little girl asked to be [illegible] to some. I, selecting a [illegible] piece, laid it on her [illegible] said, "Mother I don't [illegible] mush."—Chicago T[illegible]

Silk-Producing Insects.

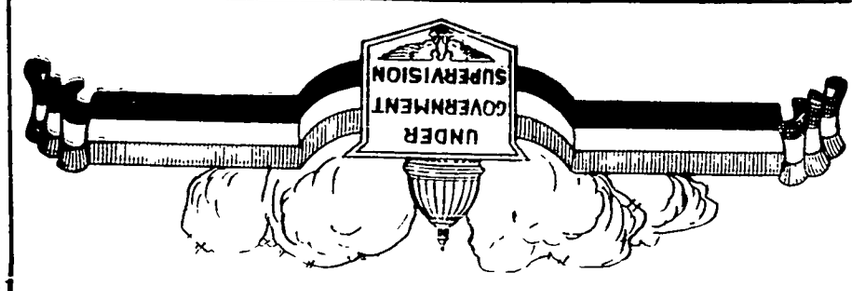
The number of species of silk-producing insects is very large, probably more than 200, very few of which are of any practical value to mankind.

"What Matters the Road?"

Now and then in Brittany one sees an East Indian, lithe as a panther, peering in at the open door of a cathedral with wistful interest. As Krishna said many hundreds of years ago: "What matters the road if it leads to God?"—Nina Larrey Duryea in Harper's Magazine.

Mender on the Mend.

"I understood you to say the other day that your wife was ill, but I suppose she is better. I saw her this morning sitting by the window sewing," said one man to another. "Quite right!" replied the other. "As you observed today she is on the mend!"



PLANS FOR THE NEW YEAR

No matter what your plans for the coming year may be, your personal finances must be reckoned with in carrying them out.

Your financial problems can be greatly simplified if not entirely solved by making a permanent connection with this institution.

If you are in debt or need capital for any particular purpose tell your story, in confidence, to one of our officers.

You are sure to get helpful, unbiased advice. And their help costs nothing.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme — Iowa

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Rugby School.

The famous English school at Rugby to which "Tom Brown" went and at which he had so many adventures, was founded in the year 1567. Or, at least, it was in that year that one Lawrence Sheriffe of London, grocer, started a free school at Rugby, which afterward became the Rugby which we know today.

The People's Might.

The feudal system, like other stupendous fabrics of past ages, is known only by the rubbish it has left behind it. Crowned heads have been compelled to submit to the restraints of law, and the people, with that intelligence which makes the voice resistless, have been able to say to the prerogative: "Thus far shalt thou come and no farther."—Daniel Webster.

Fair Warning.

Bob's brother, seeking revenge, had put grass in his sister's slippers after they had been cleaned. Later in the afternoon Bob discovered the mischief and as his sister was about to put on the slippers he came swiftly running toward her, crying out as he did so: "Don't put them on. There's a bird's nest inside and you'll kill the young ones!"

Briefly Answered.

The English manner of today, of what are called the classes, is the growth of only a century or so, John Galsworthy writes in the Yale Review. There was probably nothing at all like it in the days of Elizabeth or even of Charles II. The English manner was still racy when the inhabitants of Virginia, as we are told, sent over to ask that there might be dispatched to them some hierarchical assistance for the good of their souls, and were answered "D—n your souls, grow tobacco."

Parcel Post in the Arctic.

The Eskimos, who live on the shores of Bering sea and the Arctic ocean, are now making use of the parcel post, to the discomfiture of the local traders, who often took advantage of them in the early days. They send their furs, ivory and whalebone by parcel post to the bureau of education at Seattle, where the agents dispose of the goods by auction, and with the proceeds buy at wholesale prices such supplies as the natives want.

Oh, for a Samson!

This country is plentifully supplied with the jawbones of asses, but the trouble seems to be that we don't seem to have a Samson who can wield them.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Christmas Gifts

ave a full line of Christmas Gifts to choose from,

lators, Roasters, Aluminun Ware, Cookers, y, Silver-ware, Pyrex Baking-ware, etc.
STOVES and Ranges

EUTZMACHER BROS.

The City Dray Line

s prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited
Charges Reasonable.

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.
Coal Hauling Done

KNO-SOPE

(Pronounced "no soap")

What is it? Something New!

Ask Ryan the Barber about it.

ome of the ladies who Ryan has shampooed what think of it. Every user a SATISFIED customer.
Along with our other class of work

We Feature Ladies' Shampooing

J. F. RYAN

t forget that Ryan's Laundry Agency pleases, bas-oes every Tuesday, back every Friday.

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price

Successor to W. R. Bloom

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith
OXY-ACETYLENE WELDER
Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing
Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

Col. B. A. Reemtsma

General Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA

Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty
Call or write either Bank or Times Office for Dates.
...Satisfaction Guaranteed...

Geo. ZINN

Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA.
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested. Glasses Fitted

DR. L. R. PARSONS, DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48.
Klemme - Iowa

J. S. WESSON, D. V. M.

GARNER, IOWA
CALLS ATTENDED DAY OR NIGHT
Office Phone 196 Residence 137

CLOSING OUT
Sale Shorthorn Cattle

At the farm 2½ miles southeast of Klemme, on

Saturday, January 18

40 — Scotch and Scotch Topped Cows, Heifers and Bulls — 40

20 Cows, 10 Heifers, 10 Bulls

These cattle would not be for sale at this time but I am unable to get help to take care of them

One Pure Bred Red Polled Cow

And two heifers. This cow has proven to be a very good milker, and very gentle. There will also be 1 Holstein and 2 Ayrshire cows, all fresh or soon will be.

The big attraction will be my herd bull

Hilldale Marshall 539683

This is a beautiful roan Scotch bull just past two years old. This bull should go to one of the best herds in the country. There will be some fine calves selling at foot sired by this bull which means bragains for somebody

There will be Five Shetland Ponies sold after the cattle sale. These ponies will be sold regardless of price.

FREE HOT LUNCH AT NOON

Terms, Cash, or Any Arrangements You Can Make With the Clerk

Sale starts at 12:30 and be held in a tent. No postponement on account of weather.

H. R. GIBBS, Prop.

Cols. J. L. McIlroth, L. A. Matern, Young & Kester, Auctioneers — F. A. Arnold Clerk

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

CHAPTER THREE. (Continued.)

"No!" thundered the doctor; "her skull was fractured by some one bent on wilful murder. As there is no robbery we must look for a deeper motive and a cleverer villain than any professional burglar!"

IV

A PAPER SNAKE

On the third floor was the bedroom of the maid, Estelle, and before its locked door stood Pauline and Anita demanding admittance. There was no response from inside until Pauline said sternly: "Unless you open this door at once, Estelle, the police will force it open."

The key turned, the door moved slowly ajar, and Estelle's face appeared wearing an expression of amazement.

"What is it, I say, Miss Pauline? The police? Why?"

The maid was making a very evident effort to appear composed, and was succeeding wonderfully well. Her eyes were red and swollen with weeping, a condition which a hasty dabbing of powder had not concealed. She was nervously trembling, but her air of injured innocence, if assumed, was admirable.

Estelle and Pauline loomed tall and magnificent as an accusing angel. "What do you know of Miss Carrington's death?"

Estelle gave a shriek and threw herself on the bed in apparent hysterics.

"Don't begin that!" ordered Pauline. "Sit up here and tell the truth."

"But," and the maid sat up, sobbing, "I know nothing. How can I?"

"Nonsense! You took the tea tray to her at 8 o'clock. What did you see?"

Estelle shrugged her shoulders. "I saw Miss Carrington sitting before her mirror. She, I assumed, was engrossed in reverie, so I set down the tray on a taboret and departed."

"You noticed nothing amiss?" said Anita, staring at the girl.

"No, I scarce looked at the lady. She reproved me harshly last night, and I had no wish to annoy her. I set down the tray with haste and silently departed."

"You set it down? Who, then, overturned it?"

"Overturned? Is it then upset?" Estelle's manner was the impersonal one of the trained servant, who must show surprise at nothing, but it was a trifle overdone.

"Estelle, stop posing. Wake up to realities. Miss Carrington is dead! Do you hear? Dead!"

"Ah! Mon Dieu! Did it then kill her?" and Estelle's calm gave way and she screamed and moaned in wild hysterics.

"What can we do with her?" asked Anita, helplessly; "she must know all about the—the—"

"The murder," said Pauline calmly. "But she will tell us nothing. It is useless to question her. The coroner will attend to it, anyway."

"The coroner," and Anita looked frightened. "Will he question all of us?"

"Of course he will. And, Anita," Pauline whirled on her suddenly, "what are you going to say was the errand that took you to Aunt Lucy's room after 1 o'clock last night?"

"I! Nothing of the sort! I was not in her room after we left it together."

"I saw you. Don't trouble to deny it," and Pauline dropped her eyelids as one bored by a conversation.

"You did!" and Anita's flower face turned rosy pink and her blue eyes blazed with an intensity that Pauline's dark ones could never match. "Be careful, Pauline Stuart, or I shall tell what I know! You dare to make up such a story! It was I who saw you come from your aunt's room at a late hour! What have you to say now?"

"Nothing—to you," and Pauline swept from the room and returned slowly down the stairway to the second floor.

The sight of two police officers in the hall gave her a sudden start. How had they appeared so soon? And how dreadful to see them in the palatial home that had heretofore housed only gentle mannered aristocrats and obsequious liveried servants! The men looked ill at ease as they stood against the rich background of tapestry hangings and tropical palms, but their faces showed a stern appreciation of their duty, and they looked at Pauline with deferential but acute scrutiny.

Not noticing them in any way, the girl, her head held high, went straight to her aunt's room. Sergeant Flake was in charge, and he refused her admission.

"Coroner's orders, ma'am," he said. "He'll be here himself shortly, and then you can see him."

"Come away, Pauline," and Haviland appeared and took her by the arm, "where's Anita?"

"I left her in Estelle's room. Oh, Gray, that girl——"

"Hush!" and, gripping her firmly, Haviland led her to a small sitting room and shut the door. "Now listen, Pauline, mind what I say. Don't give the least bit of information or express the slightest notion of opinion except to the chief authorities. And not to them until they ask you. This is a terrible affair, and a mighty strange one."

"Who did it, Gray?"

"Never you mind. Don't even ask questions. The very walls have ears!"

"Who upset that breakfast tray?"

"Estelle, of course."

"She says she didn't."

"She lies. Everybody will lie; why, Pauline, you must lie yourself."

"I won't do it! I have no reason to!"

"You may find that you have. But, at least, Pauline, I beg of you, that your will keep your mouth shut. There will be developments soon—there must be—and then we will know what to do."

The two returned to the boudoir. At first glance it seemed to be full of men. The beautiful room, with its ornate but harmonious furnishings and appointments of the Marie Antoinette period, was occupied with eager representatives of law and justice, hunting for any indication of the ruthless hand that had felled the owner of all that elegance.

Coroner Scofield was receiving the report of Dr. Moore, who had arrived with him.

Dr. Moore agreed with Dr. Stanton that the deceased had been struck with with a heavy weapon that had fractured the skull, but he admitted the wounds showed some strange conditions which could be explained only by further investigation.

The coroner was deep in thought as he studied the face of the dead woman.

"It is most mysterious," he declared; "that face is almost smiling! It is the face of a happy woman. Clearly, she did not know of her approaching fate."

"The blow was struck from behind," informed Dr. Moore.

"Even so, why didn't she see the approach of the assailant in the mirror? She is looking straight into the large glass—must have been looking in it at the moment of her death. Why receive that death blow without a tremor of fear or even a glance of startled inquiry?"

Inspector Brunt stood by, gravely, and for the most part silently, watching and listening.

"That might imply," he said, slowly, "that, if she did see the assailant, it was some one she knew and of whom she had no fear."

Gray Haviland looked up suddenly. A deep red spread over his face and then, seeing himself narrowly watched by the detectives present, he set his lips firmly together and said no word.

Pauline turned white and trembled, but she, too, said nothing.

"Why is she sitting in this large easy chair?" went on the coroner. "Is it not customary for ladies at their dressing tables to use a light side chair?"

This showed decidedly astute perception, and the inspector looked interestedly at the chair in question, which he had not especially noticed before.

Being tacitly appealed to by the coroner's inquiring eyes, Pauline replied: "It is true that my aunt usually sat at her dressing table in a small chair—that one, in fact," and she pointed to a dainty chair of gilded cane. "I have no idea why she should choose the heavy, cushioned one."

"It would seem," the coroner mused, "as if she might have sat down there to admire the effect of her belongings rather than to arrange her hair or toilet."

Absorbedly, all present watched Coroner Scofield's movements.

It was true, the quietly reposeful attitude of the still figure leaning back against the brocaded upholstery, and so evidently looking in the great gold framed mirror, was that of one admiring or criticizing her own appearance. Added to this the fact of her bizarre costume and strange adornments it seemed certain that Miss Carrington had come to her death while innocently happy in the feminine employment of dressing up in the elaborate finery that she loved.

But the snake!

Carefully Coroner Scofield removed the inexplicable thing. He held it up that all might see. A Japanese paper snake, a cheap toy, such as is found together with fans and lanterns in the Oriental department of large shops.

"Could this have been placed 'round her neck after death?" Scofield inquired of the doctors.

The two physicians agreed that, though that was possible, yet the appearance of the flesh beneath it seemed to indicate its having encircled the throat during life.

"Never!" cried Pauline excitedly. "Aunt Lucy couldn't have sat there and smiled with a snake anywhere near her!"

"That would seem so," and Dr. Stanton nodded his head. "I well know of my late patient's aversion to snakes. It amounted almost to a mania! It is not an uncommon one; many women feel the same, though seldom to so great an extent."

"That deepens the mystery," said Coroner Scofield, "unless, indeed, the snake was put on after the crime. But that is even more mysterious. I shall now remove these valuable jewels and give them to——"

He looked inquiringly at Haviland and Pauline, and the latter immediately responded: "Give them to me, I am now mistress here."

Haviland said nothing, but he looked at Pauline as if in disapproval.

"Is this of great worth?" inquired Scofield, as he carefully removed the scarf from the shoulders it surrounded.

"Only moderately so," returned Pauline. "It is a Syrian scarf and was sent to her by her nephew who lives in Egypt. It is not new; he sent several to us about a year ago."

She took the long, heavy, white and silver drapery, and laid it in a nearby wardrobe. Then the coroner unfastened the large pearls from their place as eardrops and, taking up one lifeless hand, removed its rings. All these he handed to Pauline without a word.

"What is this?" he exclaimed suddenly; and, opening the curled up fingers of the other hand, he drew forth a crumpled gray object. It was a glove, of soft suede, and so tightly had it been held that it was deeply creased.

"A man's glove!" said the coroner, smoothing it out. "Will the wonders of this case never cease?"

He scrutinized it; but, remarking only that it was of medium size and superior quality, he laid it carefully aside for the time.

From the same arm he removed the scarab bracelet, also handing that to Pauline.

"The lady was fond of Oriental jewelry," he observed.

"Yes," returned Haviland before Pauline could speak. Her nephew sent or brought home much of it. But, as we informed you, Miss Carrington was also wearing pearls and diamonds of enormous value, compared to which these trinkets are as nothing."

"But scarabs, I am told, are of great price."

"Some are," returned Haviland. "That bracelet, however, is not genuine, nor of great value."

Then the coroner, with delicate touch, removed the bits of broken tortoise shell from the puffs of hair, and carefully laid them together on a small silver tray, he appropriated from the dressing table litter.

"I think," said Inspector Brunt, in his grave, slow way, "that it will be wise to photograph the whole picture from several points of view before the autopsy is performed."

Arrangements had been made for this, and Detective Hardy, a young man from headquarters, stepped forward with his camera.

As those who were asked to left the room, Pauline and Gray went out together, and met Anita just outside in the hall.

"Oh, tell me, Gray! Who did it? What does it all mean?" she cried, and grasped him by the arm.

"Tell her about it, Gray," said Pauline; and, leaving the two together, she went swiftly along the hall to her own room.

The alert eyes of the guarding policemen followed her, but also they followed the movements of every one else, and if they had, as yet, any suspicions no one knew of them.

Meantime, the grewsome work of photography went on.

Surely never was such a strange subject for the camera! Denuded of her jewels, but still robed in her gorgeous dressing gown and still leaning back in her luxurious arm chair with that strange smile of happy expectancy, Miss Lucy Carrington presented the same air of regal authority she had always worn in life. Her eyes were widely staring, but there was no trace or hint of fear in her peaceful attitude of repose.

"There's no solution!" said Inspector Brunt, deeply thoughtful. "No one could or would crack a skull like that but an experienced and professional burglar and housebreaker. And such a one could have but one motive—robbery— and the jewels were not stolen!"

"Inside job," observed Scofield, briefly, his eyes on his work.

"Maybe the burglar was frightened away at the critical moment."

"No. Whatever frightened him would be known to some member of the family."

"Maybe it is."

"Hey? Have you a theory?" and the coroner looked up suddenly.

"Anything but! There's no possible theory that will fit the facts."

"Except the truth."

"Yes, except the truth. But it will be long before we find that, I'm afraid. It strikes me it's at the bottom of an unusually deep well."

"Well, you'd better find it. It'd be a nice how d' y' do for you to fall down on this case!"

"There's no falling down been done yet. And it may well be that the very fact of there being such strange and irreconcilable conditions shall prove a help rather than a hindrance."

And then, all being in readiness, the lifeless form of Miss Carrington, once the proud domineering autocrat, now laid low, was borne to a distant room for the autopsy that might cast a further light on the mystery of her tragic death.

V.

A MAN'S GLOVE.

Inspector Brunt and the young detective, Hardy, were interviewing the members of the household in the library, and the task was not an easy one. The two girls were distinctly at odds, and Gray Haviland, whether authoritatively or not, persisted in assuming a major role.

"It seems to me," Haviland said, "that it is the most remarkable mystery that has ever occurred in the experience of you police people. Now, I think the wisest plan is to call in a big detective—no offense, Mr. Hardy—but I mean a noted fellow, like Stone, say, and let him get at the root of the crime."

"I think, Gray," and Pauline looked very haughty, "that any such suggestion would come better from me. I am now mistress of the place, and it is for me to say what we shall do."

"I know it," and Haviland looked no whit abashed, "but you know Carr Loria is equally in authority, even if he isn't here, and you see——"

"I don't see that. Carr's absence gives you any authority!"

"But it does, in a way. As Miss Lucy's man of affairs I ought to look out for the interests of her heirs, at least for the absent one. I'm sure Loria would want to do everything possible to find the murderer."

"Has this nephew been notified yet?" asked Inspector Brunt.

(Continued Next Week.)

There has been no general discharge of British munitions workers as yet.

SAFE, GENTLE REMEDY CLEANSES YOUR KIDNE

For centuries GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been a standard household remedy for kidney, liver, bladder and stomach trouble, and all diseases connected with the urinary organs. The kidneys and bladder are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers of your blood. If the poisons which enter your system through the blood and stomach are not entirely thrown out by the kidneys and bladder, you are doomed.

Weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, headache, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, difficulty when urinating, cloudy and bloody urine, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago, all warn you to look after your kidneys and bladder. All these indicate some weakness of the kidneys or other organs or that the enemy microbes which are always present in your system have attacked your weak spots. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are what you need.

They are not a "patent medicine," nor a "new discovery." For 200 years they have been a standard household [illegible] They are the pure, original imported Haarlem Oil your great-grandmother used. They are perfectly harmless. The healing oil soaks into the cells and tissues of the kidneys and through the bladder, driving out the poisonous germs. Then fresh strength and health will come if you continue the treatment. When completely restored to your usual vigor, by taking a capsule or two each day, you will keep you in condition and prevent return of the disease.

Do not delay a minute. Delay is especially dangerous in kidney and bladder trouble. All druggists sell GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They will refund the money if not as represented. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They are prepared in convenient quantity and convenient form, are easy to take and are positively guaranteed to give prompt relief. In three sizes, sealed packages. Ask for the original GOLD MEDAL. Accept no substitute. Adv.

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER COMPOUND

Fall Run of Distemper

MAY BE WHOLLY AVOIDED BY USING

"SPOHN'S" A small outlay of money brings very satisfactory results. It is a sure cure and a preventive if you use it as per directions. Simple, safe and sure. The bottle is twice the quantity and an ounce more than the small size. Keeps your horses in best condition for late fall and winter. At druggists, harness dealers or manufacturers.

Spohn Medical Co. Goshen, Ind., U. S. A.

Stock Raising in Western Canada is as profitable as Grain Growing

In Western Canada Grain Growing is a profit maker. Raising Cattle, Sheep and Hogs brings certain success. It's easy to prosper where you can raise 20 to 45 bu. of wheat to the acre and buy on easy terms.

Land at $15 to $30 Per Acre —Good Grazing Land at Much Less

Railway and Land Co's. are offering unusual inducements to home seekers to settle in Western Canada and enjoy her prosperity. Loans for the purchase of stock or other farming requirements can be had at low interest.

The Governments of the Dominion and Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta extend every encouragement to the farmer and rancher.

You can obtain excellent land at low prices on easy terms, and get high prices for your grain, cattle, sheep and hogs—low taxes (none on improvements), good markets and shipping facilities, free schools, churches, splendid climate and sure crops.

For illustrated literature, maps, descriptions of lands for sale in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, reduced railroad rates, etc., apply to Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

C. A. Cook, Drawer 197, Watertown, S. D.; W. V. Bennett, Room 4, Bee Bldg., Omaha, Neb., and R. A. Carroll, 311 Jackson Street, St. Paul, Minn. Canadian Government Agents

MAKING BAD MATTER WORSE

Grocer's Remedy Aptly Compared With Many So-Called "Cures" for the Influenza.

Discussing the influenza epidemic and the many so-called influenza cures, Dr. Horace Whitney Williams said in a lecture at the University of Chicago:

"Isolation, warmth and perfect care are the only treatment. The so-called cures remind me of a story about a grocer. To this grocer a patron brought back a pound of butter.

"'I want to complain about this butter. It's awful,' the patron said.

"The grocer sniffed it, 'Smells sweet enough to me,' he observed.

"'But it's full of hair,' said the patron, 'I counted eight or nine hairs in it. Yes, sir, this butter's full of hair, and I want to know what you're going to do about it.'

"'Why, make it right, of course,' said the grocer genially, and he reached up and took a tiny packet from the shelf. 'Here. Here's a packet of hairpins. You can pin it back with 'em as you go along.'"

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use for Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

How True, Ah, How True!

The children at school were telling their ambitions and reasons for them. Finally Frances, who came from a home in which peace is supposed to exist, became spokesman. "I want to be married," she told them. "I wish a husband to scold all the time."—Indianapolis Star.

Authority.

"Santa Claus is only a myth."

"Yes, replied the man with an armful of bundles. "And isn't it wonderful how people who pay no attention to a human boss will hustle for a mere myth?"

Watch Cuticura Improve Your Skin. On rising and retiring gently smear the face with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. It is wonderful sometimes what Cuticura will do for poor complexions, dandruff, itching and red rough hands.—Adv.

Which They Did.

"There's that haughty Mrs. Flubdub. I hate that woman."

"Me, too, girlie. Well, there's nothing we can do about it except kiss her viciously."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets put an end to sick and bilious headaches, constipation, dizziness and indigestion. "Clean house." Adv.

Harmony is all right if it is harmony of your kind.

When Your Eyes Need Care Try Murine Eye Remedy

No Smarting—Just Eye Comfort

Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

Forced to Say "No."

Herman Hulman, the father of the county's war fund, has made it a rule never to say "No" to the women when they come on a charitable errand down goes his hand into his pocket and out comes a substantial gift. Petitions are signed with alacrity.

Recently a citizens' meeting was held at which Mr. Hulman presided. A young school teacher arose to speak. She was telling of the many duties in her profession, but she feared she was not impressing as she wished and turned to the chairman for help. "Mr. Hulman," she asked, "did you ever teach school?"

With an expression that told how he hated to break a habit of long standing Mr. Hulman answered "No."—Indianapolis News.

How's This?

We offer $100.00 for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Sold by druggists for over forty years. Price 75c. Testimonials free.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

A Paradox.

"Anything that goes wrong makes a pessimist with glee." "How could it fill a pessimist with glee?"

The use of soft coal will make dry work heavier this winter. Cross Bull Blue will help to keep that grimy look. At all grocers.

Some circulars are so called because they are not on the square.

The average weight of a bale is 1,000 pounds.

Influenza and kindred diseases start with a cold

Don't trifle with a cold. At the first shiver or sneeze, take

HILL'S CASCARA QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 30 years—in tablet form, easy to take, no nauseating effects, breaks up a cold in 24 hours, relieves grippe in 3 days. Price 30c. The genuine box has a portrait of Mr. Hill on it. At All Druggists.

An Exceptional Opportunity for Some Live Man

WANTED—Live, honest, energetic young man to represent us in this county. Splendid opportunity for the right party. Must have good character and reference. Permanent position. Liberal proposition to the right man. Write for full particulars. Address, Manager, Box 1, Care of this paper.

Farms for SALE. Some big bargains. Missouri and Kansas. Write A. Ballard, Ballard Building, St. Louis, Mo.

Coughing

is annoying and painful. Relieve the irritation and get rid of the cough by using ical Service Says Bad and Bad Advice ualifies Them.

PISO'S

FUE WHAT U WRITE AIRMEN

D. C.—Be careful of rite to an airman! emphatic advice sent out families and friends of the United States air ser- While at first glance it somewhat strange that hould attempt to dictate uld and what should not a flier, a moment's eveal the fact that let- point in helping to win aintain army morale. It for any soldier to receive type of letter from home ng about grandpa and all being sick, the landlord the rent, and how sweet- eiving marked attention aker who has not been uch worse for a flier to re- ews from home for the his highly specialized work in the air keeps him of high tension and often susceptible to unpleasant home than the man on the eans avoid writing that vice, 'be careful and don't hances while in the air,' any people write!' admon- Col. Isaac H. Jones, of the es air medical service. 'If is to become an air fighter e chances and take them He understands that and willing. But when he re- ter from one of the folks, she dreamed the night be- had crashed to the ground e, it is quite liable to have hological effect upon the get to thinking too much this combined with home- ay spoil his mental condi- n make him 'ship shy,' ren- unfit for flying for a day or Field, Dallas, Tex., there g cadet whose wife used to s that failed to cheer, and ged him to be careful. He ut his wife and smoked ci- ess, even before and after probably because smokes m somewhat. He did not h, and this combined with no doubt dulled his brain- ent that at a crucial mo- not sufficiently alert and when his ship got into a s cadets worry over the sweethearts and others so getting eight hours t they obtain only three or ily in Texas in summer ights are very hot. Then re in the air in the morning ecome drowsy and fall half at crash is quite likely to eaths if they were suf- ted to remain alert so that of the motor and the vi- ng of the wires would not n to drowsiness they would safe. The flight surgeons l directors are doing won- to counteract 'air trances' roubles of the flier, and ome must cooperate with m-cheerful news, even if it to avoid telling the whole your part to keep up the ur air service."

Mecca for Soldiers.

the International Studio. ge and interesting to ponder pulse that brings—in these ays of 1918—so many young d sailors in the uniform of States to the galleries and of that glorious and erudite the Metropolitan Museum of Yet it is more than probable ur curiosity is aroused and in the wake of the majority l clad figures you will notice eful drift toward the great , where in wonderful se- nstalled the Pierpont Morgan reconstructed French rooms. our of the day that you do re groups of two and three d composed young men, utinizing these remarkable of the Gallic temperament. languor in the grave air they go through the rooms— at evasion in the conscien- tion they devote to the d distressingly elliptical ake so much knowledge for pire," is the curt announce- air; a statement that plainly y awakens incredulity in a Cockney member of the Corps,' who is being es- d by two gently blushing rom Mineola:

u, I 'aven't got nothin' Frenchman," he elaborately 's all right as a fightin' 'asn't got no empire, and none."

hanksgiving of Song.

the New York World. ighter Thanksgiving day in an even a short month ago ible to many minds, there representatives of the Na- l of Women a suggestion the day into one of splendid ote. The proposition is that all not only feast and give hall also mightily and unit- There are 7,000,000 women in How many million voices the chorus which they plan there is none to calculate. mbers the fabled scheme of brain according to which e were to gather at a certain shout each person at his the end that the plain folks ght hear and perchance find mpass. The hour for this ictory Sing" has been fixed 4 o'clock in the afternoon, The glorious concord of hould reach and search the n. At least nobody should nce by holding back his every one in the fable held r to hear his neighbor's.

r Alsace-Lorraine.

the London Times. r Bellot, Croix de Guerre, attached to the French em- ndon, lecturing at the Ris- titute on Alsace-Lorraine, had led Frenchmen at Ver- Somme, and on the Chemin and everywhere found them ve their last drop of blood ce-Lorraine from the grasp . He was in a shell hole rman prisoners, one of whom at fools you are to go on r. Don't they know we are all in the trenches till we might have told him, 'You there so long,' but he re- 'Trenchers would sit there n G. The future of Alsace France should be the sane- ...ld be the final

Our Own Immigration.

From the Chicago Tribune.

There is some suggestion from Washington that emigration is to be discouraged until there is a suitable regulation and return to our own normal pursuits. This seems a wise provision in prospect, especially in view of the returning armies whose arrival will have the economic effect of emigration. Not only this, but there will be an economic niche for each soldier, a niche into which he automatically will adjust himself by reason of his previous fitness, his certain traditions, and abundant sympathy. These things cannot be expected of the newcomer.

Comparatively, America has little or no great economic problem to solve. There has been no emigration in the last three years, and some 3,000,000 of our best men are under arms. The demand for industrial man power is obvious. There seems no doubt that American industry will swiftly absorb every man taken from its ranks. If emigration is halted for a period, it will have the effect of permitting American industry to settle back into the normal from which it was unexpectedly forced; and then will be sufficient time to let down the bars of emigration as new industrial problems arise.

Americans must not exaggerate the possibilities of speedy return to peace. The transfer of millions of men to Europe required prodigious effort; their return entails likewise enormous provision. Again, there are involved certain principles of not only military but industrial organization. It is regarded as just and fair that those longest in the service should be brought home first. This follows with as much reason as underlies the principle of retirement of depleted units and their replacement with fresh troops in actual battle.

But, once more, it would hardly be expedient to bring home 100,000 workers in a certain craft not yet ready to resume labor while there is instant need for a like number of men in a craft for whose product there is universal need. There is compensation in this; for, while one branch of craftsmen can be returned to industrial pursuits with adequate compensation, the others, remaining in military service, will be assured of a good living and maintenance in healthy conditions, whereas they might, if inopportunely discharged, find themselves temporarily without occupation.

The Returned Hero.

From the New York Sun.

"Once he was a captain, now he's just an ordinary business man," says a discontented wife in the London Daily Mail. That paper questions whether women will be satisfied, after the war, to view in civilian clothes what was so beauteous in khaki. Having once been an officer's wife and seen those along the way bow down before his leather leggings, it is a good deal to ask of mortal woman that she resume her status of bookkeeper's consort. The worst of it is that the husband is often glad enough to become his former uninteresting self. Though he charged as knightlike as any, he will confess that he never knew there was so much happiness in a peaceful ledger. He embraces oblivion. He has had all the war he wants. He has tracked the glamor of battle to its burrow, and all he asks now is to forget the muddy end of that chase. He has been inoculated for restlessness, and feels that he will not need another treatment as long as he lives. Will the adventurous spirit, then, be kept alive by women, and since we are to have no more wars, will they find some other way of gratifying their craving which hurried the world's manhood to the fields of France? War has been, and when it goes something must take its place.

THE DOOM OF AUSTRIA.

In an excellent written article on "The Ramshackle Empire" in extremis, by Sir Valentine Chirol, which appeared in the October 24 issue of Land and Water, Eng., appears the appended paragraph on President Wilson's reply to the Austrian peace note. He was considering Austria's reply to the president's last note to that government, and said:

Too late! Too late by four years, if not by four decades, as far as his own "loyal" peoples are concerned. Too late, also, as far as the verdict of the allied powers is concerned, for, by a fateful coincidence, on the very day on which his apostolic majesty issued that manifesto, President Wilson penned his reply to the Austro-Hungarian peace note. In cold, judicial terms he reminded the Austro-Hungarian government that since the delivery of his address of January 8, with the famous 14 points, "certain events of the utmost importance" had occurred. The United States had recognised the Czecho-Slovak national council "as a de facto belligerent government clothed with proper authority to conduct the political and military affairs of the Czecho-Slovaks," and it had equally recognised the justice of the nationalistic "aspirations of the Jugo-Slavs for freedom." The president was therefore "no longer at liberty to accept a mere autonomy of these peoples as a basis of peace." They themselves "must be the judges of what action on the part of the Austro-Hungarian government will satisfy their aspirations and their conception of their rights and destiny as members of the family of nations."

This is the doom of the "ramshackle" empire, for we know what the judgment of these people must necessarily be; and by the time it has been carried into effect under the guarantee of the allied powers there will be nothing left of Austria but a German rump, which will probably gravitate towards whatever form of German state emerges from the ruins of the Hohenzollern edifice; and, even if the Hapsburg dynasty survives the cataclysm, Hungary, shorn of all its alien fringes, will scarcely care to retain even the fragile tie of personal union to which the Magyars already threaten to reduce their connection with a diminished and humiliated Austria, whose malignant influence has been equally disastrous to them in false friendship and in open enmity.

Tell Worn Bonds.

From the Kansas City Star

"It isn't the clean bonds of high denominations that interest me," said one of the women who sort the Liberty bonds in a vault of the federal reserve bank, as she snapped a rubber band around $1,000,000 worth, more or less.

"It's the worn and soiled ones—the bonds that look as if they had been sweated for, maybe carried around in a greasy denim pocket all through the heat and work of summer, probably taken to bed by the owners, and treasured night and day until they were exchanged for bonds bearing a higher rate of interest."

The woman stood at the head of a long table beside which girls were piling bonds into neat packages—mostly the brown $50 ones. Lit with occasional gleams of gold on the $100 ones, the dark blue of the $500, the green of the $1,000, the red of the $5,000, the purple of the $10,000, the charcoal of the $50,000 and the light blue of the $100,000. The bonds, some of them "gilts" uncanceled and some of them "dead" after their visit to the canceling machine at the foot of the stairway, were handled by the smiling girl workers with as much unconcern as if they were penny car fare coupons.

"Just paper," said one of the girls. "And you get so sick of them you'd rather sort pickles or pills or pillow slips for a change."

"Just think," put in a blond creature, whose fingers flew as she talked, "they say a young fellow working at the other bank stole some of the bonds he was sorting. What I can't understand is why he didn't find something else to steal."

"Here," called the woman at the head of the table, "is one of those I spoke of, only this one is stained with tobacco juice as well as sweat."

She held up a bond that barely held together at the creases, worn to roundness at the corners—a paper that had been wet many times and handled with dirty fingers.

"I always feel that a bond like that is worth more than its face value," said the contemplative woman at the head of the table. "No telling how much it has contributed to the owner's patriotism or to his habit of thrift. And when I think of all the $50 ones that have similar histories, it makes these $1,000 green bonds look a little cheap and snobbish by comparison," and the woman snapped a band around two dozen clean ones from a large corporation and the priceless soiled one with its unwritten history.

Colonel House.

From the Nebraska State Journal.

Lord Northcliffe tells the British people something that is not fully appreciated on either side of the water. He says that Colonel House is "well known to European statesmen. His great wisdom commands universal respect." The truth is that Colonel House has the entree into more great houses in Europe than any other American. This relation was established years ago, through his father's close acquaintance with many titled Europeans who were entertained on his ranch in Texas in a way that left a lasting impression on their minds. The colonel's place in international politics is unique. He undoubtedly became the confidant and chief adviser of President Wilson because of the information he was able to bring him of international relations as well as of American politics. The fact that he has never held office and never wants anything for himself, of course, adds enormously to his value to the president.

Feeding the Foe.

From the New York World.

Secretary Lansing's dispatch concerning the sending of food to German is an answer directly to Chancellor Ebert's appeal, indirectly it meets Foreign Secretary Solf's earlier protest against "fearful conditions," 'intensified by the seizure of German ships, that might disincline his people to "the reconstruction of a community of nations."

As an old school statesman of Germany, Dr. Solf was, or seemed, more apprehensive than Herr Ebert lest we might plan after war frightfulness. That is not our way. "If public order is maintained in Germany"—the condition is Chancellor Ebert's own; upon any other, relief is impossible—the president is "ready to consider favorably the supplying of foodstuffs" and to make the necessary arrangements with the allies.

There need have been no anxiety. Mr. Lansing reminds Herr Ebert that the members of the supreme council in Versailles unanimously assured the people of the central empires that everything possible in the circumstances will be done. Both the original and the final forms of the terms of armistice contemplate the need of relief. The men who have fought so gallantly will do everything in their power to aid a beaten foe.

German U-boats have sunk many ships that might now be bringing grain from Australia. But "by the use of the idle tonnage of the central empires," it may be possible to feed the hungry. To meet earlier local emergencies American army rations may be employed.

That the late central empires may turn their best minds to "the great and hazardous tasks of political construction," food relief as "in the case of Belgium" must be furnished. It is thus that the American people, cordially seconded by the allies, make a peace that shall "lift the fear of utter misery from oppressed populations."

A Lesson.

From the Outlook.

A lesson to teachers that the "sullen" pupil may, after all, be anything but indifferent or unwilling is contained in an incident related in the National Geographic Magazine by a teacher in Camp Kearny. The recruit was a "typical Mexican," and was trying to learn English. "With each lesson he grew more silent, less responsive, more ill at ease. And then one day, when a question too many had been hurled at him, suddenly and without warning . . . his head went down into his arms. And, in the silence which followed, as pupils and teacher looked away from his shaking shoulders, there rose a dreadful accusation." That accusation, interpreted, is that the teacher is at fault who does not use infinite patience in trying to bring the alien into sympathy with his new environment.

WORLD NEEDS FOOD

Demand Makes Opportunity for Returning Soldiers.

Thousands Will See Glorious Possibilities in Settlement of Available Farm Land in This Country and in Canada.

The war is over, peace will soon be signed, the fighting nations have sheathed their swords, and the day of reconstruction has come.

What of it?

Hundreds of thousands of men, taken from the fields of husbandry, from the ranks of labor, from the four walls of the counting house, and the confines of the workshop, taken from them to do their part, their large part, in the prevention of the spoliation of the world, and in the meantime removed from the gear of common everyday life, will be returning, only to find in many cases old positions filled, the machinery with which they were formerly attached dislocated.

Are they to become aimless wanderers, with the ultimate possibility of augmenting an army of menacing loafers? If they do it is because their ability to assist in laying new foundations, in building up much-required structures, is underestimated. Men who fought as they fought, who risked and faced dangers as they did, are not of the caliber likely to flinch when it comes to the restoration of what the enemy partially destroyed, when it comes to the reconstruction of the world, the ideals of which they had in view when they took part in the great struggle whose divine purpose was to bring about this reconstruction.

Inured to toil, thoughtless of fatigue, trained in initiative and hardened by their outdoor existence, they will return better and stronger men, boys will have matured and young men will have developed.

They will decide for themselves lines of action and thought, and what their future should and will be. On the field of battle they developed alertness and wisdom, and they will return with both shedding from every pore.

Action was their watchword, and it will stand them in good stead now that the din of the battle no longer rings in their ears, or the zero hour signals them to the fray, and it will continue during their entire existence.

But if they return to find their old avocations gone, their places filled, the institutions with which they were connected no longer existing, new walks of life and employment must be opened to them. It may be that the counting house, the factory, the workshop will have lost their attraction. The returned soldier will look elsewhere for employment; within his reach there is always the "Forward-to-the-Land" necessity. In this lies the remedy that will not only take care of a multitude of those who may not be able to return to their former occupations, whose desires are not to do so, whose health prohibits them from indoor life or whose outdoor habits from the past one, two, three or four years have given them such a taste and desire for it that confinement would be unbearable. Farm life will thus appeal to them, and the indications are that it will be taken advantage of by thousands. It means much to them as well as to the continent of America that provides the opportunity to the world at large, and to the stricken and famished nations of Europe, who, not only today, but for years to come, will require the sustenance that can only largely be supplied by the United States and Canada. By following the pursuit of agriculture the returned soldier will continue the cause he so greatly advanced when fighting on the field of battle. Both countries have undeveloped areas yet open to settlement.

There is little need here to direct attention to the wealth that has come to the farmers of Canada within the past few years. It is not only in grain growing that unqualified and almost unequaled success has followed honest effort, but the raising of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs has been a large source of profit. These are facts that are well known to the many friends and acquaintances of the thousands of farmers from the United States who have acquired wealth on the prairies of Western Canada. Farms of from one hundred and sixty to six hundred and forty acres of the richest soil may be secured on reasonable terms, and with an excellent climate, with a school system equal to any in the world, and desirable social conditions, little else could be asked.

Canadian statesmen are today busily engaged planning for the future of the returned soldier with a view to making him independent of state help after the immediate necessary assistance has been granted, the main idea being to show in the fullest degree the country's appreciation of the services he has rendered.

But now that the war is ended, and the fact apparent that of all avocations the most profitable and independent is that of the farmer, there will be a strong desire to secure farm lands for cultivation. Canada offers the opportunity to those seeking, not as speculation but as production. The deepest interest is taken by Federal and Provincial authorities to further the welfare of the farmer and secure a maximum return for his efforts. Large sums of money are spent in educational and experimental work. Engaged on experimental and demonstration farms, and in the agricultural colleges, are men of the highest technics knowledge and practical experience, some being professors of international reputation. The results of experiments and tests are free and available to all. Educational opportunities for farmers are the concern of the government and appreciation is shown by the number of farmers who attend the free courses.

Agriculture in Canada has reached a high standard, notwithstanding which lands are low in price.

Thus upon the United States and Canada for many years will rest the great burden of feeding the world. With free interchange of travel, difficulties of crossing and recrossing removed, Canada may look for a speedy resumption of the large influx of settlers from the United States which prevailed previous to the war. During the war period there was a dread of something, no one seemed to know what. If the American went to Canada he might be conscripted, put in prison, or in his attempt to cross the border he would meet with innumerable difficulties, most of which, of course, was untrue. These untruths were circulated for a purpose by an element, which, it was discovered, had an interest in fomenting and creating trouble and distrust between two peoples whose language and aims in life should be anything but of an unfriendly character. The draft law of the United States, adopted for the carrying out of the high purposes had in view by the United States, kept many from going to Canada during the period of the war. The citizen army of the United States was quickly mobilized, and contained a large percentage of the young men from the farms. In this way many were prevented from going to Canada.

That is all over now. There are no real or imaginary restrictions; there is no draft law to interfere. On the contrary, there is an unfathomable depth of good feeling, and the long-existing friendship is stronger than ever. This has been brought about by the knowledge of what has been done in the recent great struggle, each vying with the other in giving credit for what was accomplished. In thought and feeling, in language, in aims in life, in work, in desire to build up a new world, there has been bred a kinship which is as indissoluble as time itself.—Advertisement.

ONLY ONE ANSWER TO THAT

Chaplain Well Knew the Spirit of the "Boys" When He Put Such a Question.

"Holy Joe," which at the front is the synonym for chaplain, thrust his head into the emergency ward of a United States evacuation hospital just back of the lines. On a bed near the door was a sergeant with a leg and an arm missing. The rest of the ward was made up of badly gassed men, fighting with that suffocating, tearing cough which no one who has heard can forget.

"Boys," said the chaplain, "I am going back to the division that's now on its way to replace you. What shall I tell them for you? Are we downhearted?"

There was a flourish of a leg and an arm above the bed near the door. Said the sergeant:

"H——, no!"

And from the torn and burning throats there broke a whispered cheer.

Heard in Court.

Judge—Six months in jail with hard labor.

Hobo—Say, judge—can't yer double the time an' cut out de labor?—Boston Transcript.

Where Wealth Concentrates.

"Crocesus was the richest man."

"Can't believe it. Never saw his name among the moving picture stars."

Those of us who are past middle age are prone to eat too much meat and in consequence deposit lime-salts in the arteries, veins and joints. We often suffer from twinges of rheumatism or lumbago, sometimes from gout, swollen hands or feet. There is no longer the slightest need of this, however, as the new prescription, "Anuric," is bound to give immediate results as it is many times more potent than lithia, in ridding the impoverished blood of its poisons by way of the kidneys. It can be obtained at almost any drug store, by simply asking for "Anuric" for kidneys or backache. It will overcome such conditions as rheumatism, dropsical swellings, cold extremities, scalding and burning urine and sleeplessness due to constant arising from bed at night.

Send to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for a 10c. trial package.

MADERA, CAL.—"I recommend Doctor Pierce's Anuric very highly. I have suffered for the last three years with catarrh of the bladder, having tried every remedy I heard of but without relief. I saw Anuric advertised in the paper, and like a drowning man grabbing at a straw I thought I would try it also, which I did with great success, as it relieved me almost immediately, before I had taken all of the trial package, and having great confidence in the remedy I immediately went to the drug store and bought a full-size package. I can say to all suffering from any disease of the kidneys or uric acid troubles, try this remedy and suffer no longer. I have great faith in Dr. Pierce's remedies."—A. P. HEMSLEY.

Itching Rashes — Soothed — With Cuticura

All druggists: Soap 25, Ointment 25 & 50. Talcum 25. Sample each free of "Cuticura, Dept. X, Boston."

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 1-1918

ATTENTION! Sick Women

To do your duty during these trying times your health should be your first consideration. These two women tell how they found health.

Hellam, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for female troubles and a displacement. I felt all run down and was very weak. I had been treated by a physician without results, so decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and felt better right away. I am keeping house since last April and doing all my housework, where before I was unable to do any work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly the best medicine a woman can take when in this condition. I give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. E. R. CRUMLING, R. No. 1, Hellam, Pa.

Lowell, Mich.—"I suffered from cramps and dragging down pains, was irregular and had female weakness and displacement. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which gave me relief at once and restored my health. I should like to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's remedies to all suffering women who are troubled in a similar way."—Mrs. ELIZE HEIM, R. No. 6, Box 82, Lowell, Mich.

Why Not Try

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. LYNN, MASS.

WHAT GOES UP

MUST COME DOWN

Isaac Newton discovered in 1665 what a lot of Cerro Gordo county folks are just finding out—in 1919.

We refer to the Sales of Men's Clothing at cut rates—their full prices must have been an outrage before the sulmp.

All of which goes to prove that history repeats it's self and that exorbitant profits at the beginning of the season are forerunners of the full page sale advertisements in January and July.

NO SALES HERE—our profits are too weak to undergo such an operation.

At $6.50 Boys "first long pant suits" you can't match at double the price.

At $16.00 men's suits that can't be bought elsewhere at $25.00 to $30.00.

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

"Where a dollar does it's duty"

The Crystal Cafe is -:- -:-

The Place To Eat!

Come in and get a box of Our Holly Brand Chocalats in Beautiful Boxes!

Always a Full, Fresh Line of Candy Cigars and Tobacco,

CRYSTAL CAFE

"A Good Place To Eat"

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105

RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments

Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in

Groceries Dry Goods

Shoes Ladies Wear

Hardware Paint

Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

Little Progress Made

My nephew on returning the first day was asked what he learned. He replied: "I learned how to stand up and I thought I knew that before I went to school."—Chicago Tribune.

A Billion Silver Dollars.

One billion silver dollars, laid in a row, says Gas Logic, each coin just touching the one before it and the one following, would form a line that would reach practically around the entire world.

CLOVER SEED for sae. Ask J. A. Young, Garner, Iowa.

Howard Doyle is now working at the J. F. Ryan barber shop.

M. A. Fell, of Garner, was a business caller in Klemme Monday.

Earl Ellsworth, of Garner, was transacting business here Tuesday.

Mrs. A. H. Meyer returned Monday from Dows where she spent the holidays visiting relatives and friends.

Carl Suckow returned last Friday from camp having received his discharge.

Miss Sarah Lewis of Garner came Monday to nurse in the John Bachman family, who are on the sick list.

Clarence Johnson, of Mason City, spent the past week visiting with Klemme folks.

Levi Ridder and Carl Beier went to Clarion Monday to attend the Tractor School. They returned to Klemme Tuesday afternoon.

Phillip Ell of Mason City came to Klemme Monday to help his brother, E. G. Ell, in the garage for a few days.

J. F. Ryan was called to Garner last Friday afternoon by the illness of his little child. He returned to Klemme again Saturday noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kirkwood went to Goodell Monday evening to spend a few days visiting relatives and friends before leaving for Montana next week.

Miss Hellen Maitland received a beautiful souvenir from France, it being a beautiful white silk handkerchief, the American flag worked in the corner of it in flag colors of silk, from William P. Dore in France.

Miss Maude Wenck, of Garner, visited with Mrs. F. J. Wenck last Wednesday. She was accompanied home by Mrs. Ed. Wenck who had been visiting several days at the F J Wenck home.

Billy Werner will move to Garner about next week into the house which he purchased of J. F. Ryan. Mr. Ryan will move his family to Klemme also in a few days. Billy will take charge of the meat market at Garner which was purchased by J. P. Larsen and Sons a few weeks ago.

Tuesday the report reached Klemme that Herbert Bradlow had been wounded in action and later died from the effects of the wounds. Herbert is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bradlow of Venita, Oklahoma, who formerly lived near here. Last fall their other son, Verner, died of influenza and was buried here.

Verner Lewis arrived in Klemme last Thursday on a two weeks' furlough from his duties in the navy. Verner is with a gun crew on the U. S. S. Arkansas, and was on that boat when the Allied Navics took over the German Fleet. There were only five American battleships present as the others were in other waters at the time. Verner was awarded a certificate to show he was there when the German Fleet surrendered. He expects to leave next week for Norfolk.

LOST OR ESTRAYED

Female Airdale disappeared from my place December 23rd. Markings: brownish yellow, black back, bobtailed. Reward for information leading to her recovery. Ralph Ludeke, Klemme.

NOTICE

I need MONEY. When you get your statement pay right up.

Dr. Geo. Zinn.

Don't forget that there is a dance at the Idle Hour Theatre in Klemme on every Friday night. Come and have a good time.

Notice to Pay Up!

All those who owe us must call and settle, this is the last notice, you can save yourself a lot of trouble by paying us now. Henry Lau & Son.

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed.....1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger.....8:03 p. m.
485, Passenger.....8:44 a. m.

South

486, Passenger.....6:17 p. m.
1068, Passenger.....11:25 a. m.
820, Freight.....12:15 p. m.

J. F. Ryan spent Sunday with his family at Garner.

R. A. Jorgenson spent Sunday with Garner relatives.

Philip and Billy Bock were passengers to Garner Saturday afternoon.

J. A. Young, of Garner, was a professional caller here last Thursday.

J. B. Mack has been doing a lot of painting at Meservey the past couple of weeks.

Chas. Gibbs, of Big Lake, Minnesota, came last Friday for a visit with relatives and friends.

Mrs. Fred Musfelt and daughter, Malinda, were Garner callers between trains Saturday afternoon.

C. C. Tessier, the electrician of Garner, came Tuesday to finish the electrical work in the new Geo. Platt house.

J. S. Wesson, D. V. M., of Garner, was called here on veterinary work Sunday He was accompanied back to Garner by J. F. Ryan.

Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Reemstma returned from Applington, Iowa, last Thursday where they spent the holidays with relatives.

The Misses Gretchen and Minnie Blank went to Goodell last Friday evening for a few days' visit with their sister, Mrs. A. Ahrenkiel.

A garden designer from the Sherman Nursery Co., of Charles City, was here Monday to plat out the grounds for shrubbery and other floral decorations for the F. J. Wenck residence.

The old court house which was built at Clarion, Wright county, in 1876, burned to the ground early Monday morning. The building had not been in use as a court house for quite a umber of years.

We, Henry Lau & Son, wish to thank all our customers for the business we received of you, and hope to be able to sell you still more goods in 1919. We also ask that those not paid their 1918 accounts to call in the next few days if you wish further credit with us. Henry Lau & Son.

Saturday was a moving day in Klemme. On that day J. W. Berggren moved from the rooms over the restaurant to the B. A. Reemstma house in the east part of the city. B. A. Reemstma moved onto the Ralph Elder farm southeast of town, and Ralph Elder moved into the rooms over the restaurant. Reemstma will run Elder's farm for the coming year.

Last Monday evening when A. C. Lau and his wife were comfortably seated at their table enjoying the evening, the dorr of their home was opened and in came about 50 relatives and surprised Mrs. A. C. Lau on her birthday. Everyone reported a good time and the evening was spent in amusements of all kinds and later refreshments were served at 12 o'clock and then all took their journey home and wished Mrs. Lau a good, merry, happy New Year and happy days the rest of her life.

Ryan's Laundry Basket goes every Tuesday evening, back every Friday. adv.

Wanted Information.

While I was upstairs, our little Elisabeth called that the cat wanted to get outdoors because she had been teasing him. I replied: "I will be down in a minute and let him out, but don't tickle him in the meantime." When I got down she had been looking him all over, and said: "Daddy, where is his meantime?"—Chicago Examiner

"Pone."

Pone is a word of Indian derivation and an early English historian of Virginia took pains to explain that it was not from the Latin panis, meaning bread, but from the red Indian word oppone, and it was early applied in the south to any bread made of Indian corn.

NEW YEAR GREETINGS

We wish to thank our many customers and friends for their patronage and kind wishes in the past and wish them all a Happy and Prosperous New Year. Mrs. John Josten.

Windmill Electricity.

Windmills are used to generate electricity in the Netherlands, where waterpower is scanty. The wind acting through the windmill drives the generator, producing the electricity, which is then stored in a storage battery and used for various purposes.

SPECIAL!

Choice

Home Killed Quarters

At

RIGHT PRICES

J. P. Larsen & Sons

SPECIAL PROGRAM

At The

Idle Hour Theatre

Saturday JAN. 11

We will show in addition to the regular

Paramount Program

1,000 Feet Of Educational Films

Showing

Manufacture of Armour's Oleomargarine

At this time when butter is so high many people like Oleomargarine as a substitute and everybody likes to know how our foods are produced--hence this chance to see just how it is made.

Remember!

Pauline Frederick in "The Eternal City"

1000 Feet of Educational Film

FREE

One Armour's 50c Cook Book will be given to every house-wife present!

Prices as usual, Children 10c Adults 20c

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16. Residence Phone No. 52

KLEMME TIMES

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER 20 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, January 16 1919 — $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

AT'S THE MATTER WITH IRELAND?

nd at one time had her own ment and home rule, but by the members in the latter part 8th century resolved to abol- parliament and send its rep- tives direct to the British par- in London, thereby forming called the United Kingdom of Britain and Ireland, with the Jack as its standard and emb- ust as the Union flag, the Stars Stripes, is the emblem of the d States. Ireland by her union Great Britain thus became an al part of Great Britain, as as Iowa is an integral part of nited States and there would be ich reason for Irish independence British rule as there would be Iowa independence from United s rule. Neither would nor could llowed. If all factions in Ireland agree upon home rule there is doubt but what Great Britain d grant it, but we do not believe Great Britain would ever permit separation. We believe it would e part of wisdom for Ireland to e upon home rule and self gov- ent, as Canada and Australia the other dependencies of the British empire have, but it is heighth of folly for the Sinn rs to raise their puny arm st the mighty arm of Britain in n effort to gain entire separa- It would be wiser for them to the advise of Shakspeare, "To the ills (if any) we have than those we know not of." And to from an Irish proverb, "A bird e hand is worth two in the bush." those hot headed young Sinn rs take warning before it is too nd accept Home Rule.

d now young men a warning take And don't get in a rush, r a bird in the hand
you may understand,
ls worth any two in the bush.

e think it would be a good idea our Irish fellow citizens in this try to understand that any inter- ce on the part of these United s in the matter of Ireland's sep- on from Britain would be resent- y Great Britain as certainly as interference by Great Britain d be in the internal affairs of this try.

hy doesn't the Sinn Feiners in contest with the home govern- t try a little of the conciliation tact used by the Irish saloon- er of Chicago who, to gain the dship of both Irish and American oners hung out on his sign this y combination of the mottoes of countries, "Erin go Unum, uribus Bragh." Some such com- tion might work all right between inn Feiners and the English.

is controversy between Great in and Ireland looks like the r to the conundrum, "Why does og wag his tail?" Can you guess nswer?

eodore Roosevelt, the good man ood friend, the true exponent re democracy, to whom all men d alike, no matter what their on in life was, is no more. He known to the civilized world for eat personality, for the courage is conviction as to what he ed was right, and as to the part this country should play in the great world war just closed. He was a man of whom it could be said, "Age could not wither nor custom stale his infinite variety."

"Mere Man."

Watch Me For Coming Events

DLE HOUR
Weekly Program

This Week!
iday - Saturday
The Boys in France
ashing Through To Berlin!
al, Authentic War Films

ance Every Friday Night
ery Third dance will be a
SQUARE DANCE

OUR TWO FOOD PROBLEMS

WHAT THE STATE TRAVELING LIBRARY OFFERS

If you are wanting something to read, write to the State Traveling Library at Des Moines, for that is the library which is maintained by the state, for circulation among the people of Iowa. Books in that library cover a great variety of subjects, and are for both children and grown-ups. There are books in New York Point also, for blind readers. You may secure them by merely stating your wants and paying the transportation charges and you may keep them for three or six months, exchanging them at any time for another collection. You, as an individual, may secure from one book to fifteen, or as the representative of an organization or group of people, you may secure fifty books or more.

Stories, new or old, to be read for entertainment only, or books for information, are there for the asking. Books about the war—stories, facts, personal narrative, historical background, poetry—books on Americanization, on reconstruction problems, on up-to-date farming, on housekeeping, on home care of the sick, on biography, on travel in near or distant lands, on various vocations, and on technical and scientific subjects—in fact, books on any and all subjects are at your command.

Send for some for the use of your own family, or have larger collections placed in your club rooms, church, postoffice, central store or other accessible place. For further information and application blanks, address State Traveling Library, Des Moines, Iowa.

Friendship Is Not Blind.

In friendship we see only those faults which may be prejudicial to our friends, while in love we discern no faults but those by which we ourselves suffer.—La Bruyere.

POOL HALL ON FIRE FRIDAY NIGHT

Last Friday evening the fire alarm was turned in and the Pool Hall was reported on fire. Indications show that a spark fell on the shingles of the back part of the pool room, formerly used as a bowling alley, in a very few minutes the entire back part was ablaze and was noticed by Wm. Lau who was pasing by and smelled the smoke. Quick work with a small fire extinguisher put out the blaze before the fire company arrived. However, they turned on the water and finished the job. Had the fire not been noticed at once it is almost certain that a great deal of property would have been destroyed on the north side of Main street.

LARSENS TAKE CHARGE OF GARNER MEAT MARKET MONDAY

Monday of this week J. P. Larsen and Sons took charge of the City Meat Market at Garner. Wm. Werner will run the business for them and moved up there last week to be ready for business. We can guarantee the people of Garner that they will have an up-to-date meat market under the supervision of the Larsens and we will vouch that they will have the best market that has ever been in Garner. With the market here at Klemme and the one at Garner they will be better fitted to supply both towns with the highest quality of meat and other market goods. We wish them success.

OBITUARY

Peter Christians was born in Germany in 1837 and came to this country in 1889. He was united in marriage, before he came here, to Hebe Gabrands in 1863 and with his wife moved to San Jose, Illinois. To this union were born John, who lives near Klemme; Mrs. Tobie Kleen, of San Jose, Ill.; Katie Albers of Remington, Indiana. After his wife died at San Jose on the 2nd of December, 1913, Peter Christians came to Klemme to live with his son John where he resided until called by death on Wednesday, January 8th, 1919.

The remains were sent to San Jose last Thursday evening and the funeral services and burial took place at San Jose, where he was laid at rest besides his wife in the family lot.

Mr. Christians has gained many friends since his residence here who with his relatives mourn his death.

The dance at the Idle Hour Theatre last Friday evening was well attended and all reported a most enjoyable time. The dances are becoming more popular here and a larger number of married people turn out each time as every third number, or dance, now is an old fashioned square dance, which all can dance and are also enjoyed very much by the younger people. Then they also have an old fashioned square dance, which all can dance and are also enjoyed very much by the younger people. Then they also have an old fashioned waltz or two-step occasionally, or a moonlight waltz. There will be a dance every Friday night, except this week when it will be on Thursday evening as there is a big movie, "Crashing Through to Berlin" on Friday evening.

We had quite a talk with Carl Suckow the other day and questioned him a little on his trip through the South and a few of his experiences while in the army. Carl has had some letters in the Times and it won't be necessary for us to relate all about his trip as many of our readers have read his letters and know about it.

Carl was last stationed at Fort Barrancas, Florida, in Co. 15 of the Coast Artillery. He landed at the camp the 10th of November. He says the climate was sure fine, that the camp was situated on the mouth of Pensacola Bay which opens into the Gulf of New Mexico. While there he had the pleasure of seeing snow white sand and riding on salt water which he says was a fine experience. He would like to stay in the South if he was to stay in the army as it was such a fine climate. One thing very noticeable was that the soldiers from the North were much quicker and drilled with more snap and pep than did the Southern boys, who seemed to be inclined towards laziness to a certain degree. The Northern boys made the best soldiers and were quick and ready to follow out orders. Carl said it was quite a relief when the Armistice was signed and that they enjoyed more liberties and much of his time in the South was spent in looking around to see the sights. While there they had very little drill and his only work was a little guard duty now and then to keep out of mischief.

He left for Camp Dodge the 22nd of December over the same route by which he went down there. Carl speaks very highly of the Red Cross and especially of the Red Cross at St. Louis They arrived in St. Louis on Christmas Eve at midnight and the Red Cross ladies were there to give the boys a big midnight lunch The following morning they arrived at Camp Dodge and he says they nearly froze going to the barracks as they were not used to the cold weather At Camp Dodge they were informed that they would be discharged in a couple of days, but nothing doing So when other troops came in the boys would have a lot of fun kidding them about getting away in a couple of days and kept them guessing When a fellow would get his discharge he would let out a big whoop and run down the camp to let them know about it. He received his discharge after patient waiting and is now home. He says he enjoyed the army life while he was there and especially his trip South, but there's nothing like getting back home again

GOODELL

Between fifty and sixty numbers were sold for the dance Friday night.

Mrs Houghton and two of the boys have been sick with the flu this week

The teachers from here attended the meeting at Garner Saturday.

Miss Erickson enjoyed a visit from her two brothers from Thompson Friday.

The Misses Blank are spening a few days with their sister, Mrs. A. Ahrenkiel.

Frank Quigly returned home Friday

Several from here attended a dance at Mrs. T. Ruka's Saturday night—a farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kirkwood who leave for their home in Wyoming Monday.

D. M. Conlan shipped 1 car of sheep and 1 of cattle and 1 of hogs Saturday night. John Reed, Olaf Peterson and Harry Harberts went into Chicago.

Albert Rust returned from camp Saturday.

John Paunhoff returned from camp Tuesday.

Word was received Tuesday of the death of Miss Griesmer who taught here last year. She died of pneumonia following the flu.

(Last week)

Mrs. T. Cashman returne home on Tuesay from Iowa City.

Mrs. D. M. Conlan went out Tuesday to take care of the F. Dominy family who are all sick with the flu.

The Misses Blank of Klemme visited their sister, Mrs. A. Ahrenkiel, Friday, and attended the dance.

School reopens Monday after a two weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Markle and daughter Minnie were Klemme callers Saturday.

Frank Quigly and his little son went to Rochester, Minnesota, Friday.

T. B. Smith had a runaway Thursday. No one was hurt. The bobsleigh was badly broken.

The Hood girls are spending a few days at the Frank Quigly home.

Owing to the severe cold only 21 numbers were sold for the dance on Friday evening.

There will be a masked ball here January 10th.

Mr. Engeseth is able to be out again after being sick with the flu for a week.

Harvey Christenson returned to camp after spending a thirty day furlough with his folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Butterfield enjoyed a visit from three of their grandchildren from Belmond Saturday.

"Safety First" Tea Kettle.

A new tea kettle is supplied with an extra opening in the top through which it may be filled without the inconvenience and danger of being scalded by the steam generated when cold water is poured into the hot kettle. The second opening is a small one in front of the ball and is protected by a hinged swing cover, which may be operated by the thumb while the kettle is being held by the ball under the faucet.

Determining Day or Night's Length.

The length of the night at any time of the year may be found by multiplying by two the time of the sun's rising. Doubling the time of its setting will give the length of the day.

HOW ONE SHOULD USE MONEY

Worth of Pennies, Nickels and Dimes First Value a Wise Man Can Place on Wealth.

"Any man, in order to achieve real success, must have the right ideas about money. If he hasn't the right ideas about money, he is not solid in character, observes a writer in the American Magazine. A man may easily be happy, successful and highly regarded on $1,800 dollars or less a year; but, if he is, it is because he knows how to handle those $1,800, and realizes the power that is in each of those $1,800, and keeps in sight the fact that it takes 100 cents or 20 nickels, or 10 dimes, to make each one of those $1,800.

"On the other hand, a man may have an annual income of $50,000 and be neither successful nor happy nor highly regarded. If this is true of him, it is because he has not the right ideas about money.

"Here is the thing that applies to my experience and to every man's: Money is the symbol of worth and power, if your money is handled correctly. If you regard money as a constructive thing, something to be used beneficially for yourself, your family and your community, something with which to build up and produce improvements, you are on solid ground; nothing can shake you, nothing, outside of earthquakes and fires, can ruin you financially. Let me put it this way: The use a man makes of his money after he has got his hands on it is the measure of his worth."

PRINCE OF TAVERN WRITERS

"Good Old Horace" Positively Popular in the American Meaning, Declares Genial Midwest Critic.

Old Horatius Flaccus of all the ancient bards is nearest to our modern sense. He is positively "popular" in the American meaning. Nearly every rhymster translates or parodies an ode or two. He is very affinitive, companionable and appropos, so to speak. We understand him and feel certain that he would understand us were he here. He would be conducting a "colyum" of quips and jests upon some editorial page or else be a better James Whitcomb Riley were he one of us right now. To be sure, he would have to alter his morals a mite to serenade Lalage and to babble of Falernian a little less, but in general Horace would be "right there with the push."

Old Horace is a brother and a sport, as well as all men who read him feel, observes a writer in the Minneapolis Journal. And that is why so many are strong for him still, just as the late Eugene Field was. That Sabine farm of his, some miles out of Caesarean Home and a long time back in the centuries, is as familiar to us as "out to old Aunt Mary's."

Measuring High Temperature.

Tin, which melts at about 450 degrees Fahrenheit, has been applied to the measurement of high temperatures in the same way that mercury, melting at 88 degrees below zero, is used for measuring ordinary atmosphere temperatures. Instead of being placed in a glass bulb with closed tube, says the Nebraska State Journal, the melted tin is contained in a graphite bulb having an open tube, and readings are made by lowering into the tube a plunger of a metal with a high melting point. When the plunger touches the tin, an electric circuit is closed, giving a bell or other signal, the position of the plunger showing the temperature. This new form of pyrometer may be used in either of two ways (1) to give the temperature at any time by sliding down the pointer until the electric signal is set off, or (2) to announce when any predetermined temperature is reached by setting the pointer at the proper number of degrees on the scale. As the melted tin, like melted mercury, is found to expand at a very even rate, the indications are held to be notably accurate.

Men and Watches.

Special talent often makes fine spurts ahead and genius sometimes soars grandly, but it is the steady-going sort of worker who gets the most done in the end, and is the most reliable. It is with men as it is with their watches—the most reliable and serviceable are the ones steadily at work, a writer on the Canadian Herald observes. There is a Pennsylvania railroad engineer who has retired on a pension after 48 years of service. "I have carried one watch for more than 26 years," he says, "and it always kept the right time. A good engineer must have a good watch; it does the most important part of his work." It is said of this engineer that he has been an exceptionally sober, orderly, steady-going man, whose health has always been good and his record always clean. But doesn't this go without saying, when we know that his watch always kept the right time?

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

Said Cardinal Gibbons last week: "Fears as to the labor situation, fears about the spread of socialism and kindred doctrines do not trouble me. The only apprehension I might have would be with regard to the consolidation of control of the great public interests of the country in the authorities of the government itself. These interests are vast and wide reaching and control the well being of millions of men, such interests as the railroads and the telegraphs, as well as others. I should be sorry to see these things put under the direction of any federal administration. The men employed in these industries and utilities would form the preponderating interest in any administration and would tend to a perpetuation of power. I believe in a division of power and think it best for the country. I should be sorry to see any invasion by the administrative department of the government upon the rights of the other departments. The builders of our government provided for a government of check and balances, a government in which the executive, the legislative and the judicial departments were kept separate and distinct, and each department was made independent of the other."

Speaking of shell shock, a scientist explains that it seems simply an acute form of some of the most common nervous disorders, such as the familiar hysteria which has of late received so much attention from psycho analysts, like Dr. Freud. It is described as a sudden reversion to stages of mental childhood, or even infancy, a breakdown of the adult mentality. It is essentially an unman navy department. The sailors, he is declared to have added have prevented necessary work being carried on controllable infantile fear.

Ralph Adams Cram, member of the Boston planning board told the members of the Boston Housing Association that he had found at the Fore river yard of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation a die cutter who received $224 for one day's pay. For a period of four months this man averaged $220 every working day. The die cutter, according to Mr. Cram was given a new machine to work, which made it possible for him to increase his output greatly while the piece work basis upon which he was paid remained unchanged.

Demand to know what steps the Mississippi authorities will take in regard to the lynching of four negroes, reported to have taken place at Shubuta in that state last Friday was contained in a telegram addressed to Governor Bilbo by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The telegram points out that since the United States entered the war 103 lynchings have occurred.

A Doughboy pays charming tribute to Paris in a letter to a friend. "That is what she is—a beautiful woman. Paris in war time was a beautiful woman in distress but smiling bravely and hiding her sorrow. Paris smiled during the war but she laughed for the first time in four years when news came that the armistice had been signed. And, boy, I was there when she laughed."

The feature of peace Christmas in London was the great influx of soldiers on leave from the various fronts or returned from captivity in Germany. Every organization was taxed to the utmost to lodge and entertain the soldiers, especially British colonials and a liberal sprinkling of Americans.

Resolutions urging state and federal legislation, "for the effective physical education of American youth in all schools to remedy the physical unpreparedness of young men as disclosed by the war," were adopted at the annual convention of the American Athletic Research Society, held in New York.

"Ten American destroyers flying their long 'Homeward Bound' pennants (the last but one in that harbor) steamed out of the harbor Thursday amid the roar of whistles from shipping. Seaplanes dipped over them as they disappeared in the fog," cables Queenstown.

Capt. Teh Yuen Lu, the first naval attache ever sent to the Chinese legation in the United States, and his assistant Lieut. Chu Fong Lin, have been presented to Secretary Daniels and Acting Secretary of State Polk by Charge Yung Kwai.

News from Russia confirms the report that socialization of industry there is a complete failure. In practically all the 315 mills and factories controlled by the state expenses have considerably exceeded receipts.

A Paris dispatch says that the American expeditionary force ate 31¼ tons of cough drops during November—not because they had coughs, but because they could get them and could not get candy.

An American girl, Miss Katherine Stinson, was the first woman to fly over London. She did it last week, and it is announced that she will attempt to fly from Europe to America.

The American steamer Kickapoo was tied up yesterday in Norfolk, Va., because the crew declared Norfolk was their destination although the captain said it was New York.

More than 10,000 of the sailors who manned the fleet flocked to the city after the parade in New York on their first shore leave in this country in more than a year.

It is reported that all the silver money in the pockets of those suffering gas attacks turns black, after which the French peasants do not want it.

Jan Paderewski has gone to Poland on a British battleship to rally his countrymen against the invading bolshevist army.

As his train stopped just outside Calais the president saw his first large group of German prisoners. They were working in the dock yards.

The newspapers of Uruguay say that not one ton of freight has arrived in Montevideo direct from the United States in two months.

Experts state that the Mesopotamian plain, when properly irrigated, will produce a substantial share of the world's cotton crop.

Discontinuance of smoking at all times on the cars of the Boston elevated railway system has been ordered by the trustees.

A New York jury decided that there is no redress from its owner if a goat butts a man and knocks him down a stairway.

Part of the organization of the Chinese court in the days of the empire was a staff of five astrologers.

Fourteen thousand bags of sugar, the first of the new Porto Rican crop, were shipped to New York Monday.

IOWA STATE NEWS

IOWA AND NEBRASKA SOLDIERS COAL HEAVERS

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 10.—Iowa and Nebraska boys with the 328th field artillery, which has just landed at Newport News, Va., were forced to act as stokers on their trip to France. According to the story told by one of the Iowa men now awaiting the last lap of his journey home, the crew of the Traxosmontes, which carried the unit across the Atlantic were Portuguese, but the gunners were French. Due to some imagined grievance, the Portuguese mutinied in mid-ocean, and refused to work the ship farther.

Volunteers were called for to man the vessel, and in order to keep the transport in her place in the convoy the soldiers went below decks, and shoveled coal and oiled machinery during the rest of the voyage.

RAWSON SAILS TO DO Y. M. C. A. WORK

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 10.—Charlie Rawson, chairman of the republican state central committee and prospective candidate for governor two years hence, started yesterday for Europe to do Y. M. C. A. work as long as needed.

BROTHERS DIE IN SHORT TIME OF EACH OTHER

LeMars, Ia., Jan. 10.—The Clabaugh family of this city suffered a double bereavement last week and desolation entered three homes, leaving two young wives bereft of their husbands and a father and mother of their sons. The brothers, Chester and Clarence Clabaugh, both stout, hearty strong men until stricken with insidious disease, died within 24 hours of each other at the emergency hospital.

CHILD RESTORED AFTER CHOKING "TO DEATH"

Cherokee, Ia., Jan. 10.—A short time ago, the 1½-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Skewis, living east of Ashton, Ia., choked on a peanut, and for a time it was thought the child was dead.

The father and mother were both confined to their beds with the influenza while the children were about the table eating and having a good time in general when suddenly the baby choked. The father, unmindful of his condition, but terrified at the thought of the death of his baby, opened the window and breathed his breath into the child's mouth, which restored its life.

But since that time influenza was contracted from the germs in the father's breath, and now the child lies hopelessly ill of pneumonia.

COLLEGE ENDOWMENT FUND OF $200,000 RAISED

Storm Lake, Ia., Jan. 10.—Buena Vista college has just closed a campaign for endowment during which $200,000 for that institution has been raised. Practically every community in northwest Iowa contributed to the fund.

Dr. Stanton Olinger, president of the school, who has handled the campaign, says that never in the 27 years of the history of the school have the prospects been so bright in every particular. An effort to raise the endowment to $500,000 will be commenced at once. Buena Vista College is a Presbyterian institution, but received the support of every creed in the campaign which has just closed.

ISLAND TRAGEDY VICTIMS TO BE BURIED THURSDAY

Missouri Valley, Ia., Jan. 10.—The funeral of the five victims of the murderer Barnes, near Onawa, will be held at the Christian church Thursday morning at 10:30. Rev. Mr. Price, pastor of the church, officiating. The bodies will be laid to rest in the Magnolia cemetery in the family lot, where other members of the family are buried.

The five bodies were brought from Onawa Monday evening and are now at the Hennessy morgue, where hundreds have called.

COLONEL BENNETT IS STILL IN FRANCE

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 10.—Col. E. R. Bennett, former commander of the 168th regiment, has been delayed in France by a ship shortage, according to word received here, and will not return home as soon as had been expected. He has been in a hospital in France for some time and had planed to return home early this month. The large number of soldiers being brought home has congested the ports of debarkation, it is stated.

M'JNROE IS CHAIRMAN BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

LeMars, Ia., Jan. 10.—At a meeting of the board of supervisors H. G. Munroe was made chairman of the board for the ensuing year and T. Kloster vice chairman. H. G. Munroe and County Auditor Stamp were appointed committee on purchasing supplies and also committee on jail and court house.

DES MOINES—Resubmission of the suffrage question to the Iowa voters will probably not be asked of the state legislature until it is ascertained whether or not the United States Senate will take action on the federal amendment for woman's suffrage, according to prominent local suffragists.

RED OAK—The anti-Wilkerson feud was not buried with the defeat of J. N. Wilkerson's aspirations to be county attorney of Montgomery county. Ed Peterson, the new sheriff of the county, who is one of Wilkerson's most ardent supporters, upon assuming office named Oscar M. Rice his deputy. Rice is no greater favorite with the members of the county board than is Wilkerson, and the board refused flatly to confirm Rice's appointment or approve his bond.

CLARINDA—An echo of the shooting episode near here last summer, when several young men were so badly injured by being shot while in a melon patch that two of them were near death for days, is to be heard in district court this term when two damage suits aggregating $25,000 filed against C. L. Harlan will be filed.

Of the insects responsible for the death or disablement of hundreds of thousands in the war zone the louse is declared to have been one of the most deadly and to have accounted for at least 1,000,000 persons. The probability is that the total was infinitely higher, for in Serbia alone typhus, a louse borne disease, infected nearly 1,000,000 persons and killed 800 a day in the little city of Jassy.

IOWA STATE NEWS

SAC CITY TO HAVE A COMMUNITY BUILDING

Sac City, Ia., Jan. 9.—At a meeting of the Commercial club executive committee the special committee appointed to investigate the feasibility of erecting a community building and to make preliminary plans concerning the nature of such a structure as a permanent memorial of the soldiers and sailors from this county made a preliminary report concluding the first long step toward the desired goal.

The report of the committee indicates a strong belief that a memorial of the kind intended would fall short of its purpose and fail to meet the need of the community if it should be cheap, small or incomplete in any particular. The sum set is high but the committee feels confident that a building costing from $65,000 to $80,000 will be necessary if it is to be adequate, and the plan as outlined would provide varied uses sufficient to attract and serve everyone within the limits of the county, men, women and children of town and country. Attention is also given to the all important subject of maintenance and permanency.

FELL 200 FEET, BUT LIVES TO TELL IT

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 9.—Falling 200 feet from a "winged" airplane in France, living to tell the tale, and having the distinction of ending his army career a few miles from where it began in March, 1917, is the experience of Private William Hayden, an aerial observer, who is now at the Camp Dodge base hospital, where he is recuperating from injuries which sent him home from overseas.

Hayden is a Des Moines boy, where, before his enlistment in March, 1917, he was salesman for a photograph supply house. He enlisted in the 15th cavalry and sailed for France in June, 1918, but was shortly afterwards transferred to the French flying corps as a photographic observer.

FOREIGNERS MUST LIVE MORE LIKE AMERICANS

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 9.—Communities of foreign born people in Iowa whose disloyalty and abuse of the freedom accorded them in this country and in Iowa have been brought to light during the war are to be legislated out of existence by the coming general assembly if a bill which already has been drafted becomes a law. These people can no longer take advantage of everything that is offered in free America and free Iowa and give nothing in return. They must put away their foreign systems of local government, stop teaching in a foreign tongue and conducting their schools in the spirit of some foreign land rather than of America, reform their customs and become Americanized. These are among the purposes sought in legislation already planned.

MUSTERING MEN OUT AT A LIVELY RATE

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 9.—More than 22,000 soldiers, including those of the 163rd depot brigade and incoming casual units, have been discharged from Camp Dodge since the demobilization process began, and more than 18,000 men have been received for mustering out purposes from other camps.

An average of about 850 discharges per day for the last two weeks has been maintained by the discharge organization at the camp, which is only slightly short of the average intended to be kept by the war department—1,000 daily.

That the number is not larger, it was said, is due to the inability of railroads to handle the men out of Des Moines.

COUNTY MUST REFUND TO INSURANCE COMPANY

Waterloo, Ia., Jan. 9.—In upholding the constitutionality of the moneys and credits tax provision, Judge H. B. Boies rules that the county must refund about $13,000 in taxes to the Iowa Life Insurance Company and the Iowa Manufacturers Company. Claim was made by these concerns for a refund covering five years, following the ruling of the supreme court that the stock of life and fire insurance companies should be taxed as moneys and credits, at $5 per $1,000 rather than as personal property.

TELEPHONE COMPANIES MAY BE UNIFIED

Sac City, Ia., Jan. 9.—Sentiment favoring the unification of the Sac Telephone Company lines was developed at a meeting of the executive committee of the Sac City Commercial Club. Charles Irwin, president of the Farmers' Telephone Company, and Will Pitstick, one of the directors of that company, appeared before the committee to discuss a plan they have evolved for purchasing both companies, forming a new corporation and consolidating the service.

DES MOINES—The housing commission appointed by Governor Harding more than a year ago to study the question of the regulation of building and construction work in Iowa with reference to sanitation, health, safety as regards accidents and fires, of which Rev. Curtiss Reese, of Des Moines, is chairman, has drafted a measure which is to be presented early in the session of the coming legislature. There are 116 sections in the act.

LOGAN—Bridge and road fund bonds to the amount of $50,000 were sold by B. W. Stearns, treasurer, to Schanke & Co., of Mason City, at a premium of $1,230; the bonds bear 5 per cent interest and will run to 1934. The bridge fund bonds are the larger of the two funds.

DUBUQUE—The old system in Dubuque county of caring for its poor and unfortunate will be formally abolished on January 10, next, when Miss Laura B. Ackroyd, a trained social worker, will arrive here to take charge of relief work. Dubuque county's famous "store" will also go with the arrival of the Washington worker.

STORY CITY—Matt Oswald shot and killed a real wildcat on the Oswald farm five miles west of town the other day. In order to prove that assertion he brought it to town and exhibited it for several hours to those who know a wildcat when they see one.

IOWA BUTTER MEN HAVE A COMPLAINT

Say That By Requiring Higher Standard Government Is Imposing on the Consumer.

Marshalltown, Ia., Jan 8.—If the proposed new standard for creamery butter is raised, as proposed, to contain 82 per cent of butter fat, instead of 80, it will work a hardship on the consumer, say members of the Iowa Creamery Butter Manufacturer's association, who met here in a called meeting.

The new standard has been proposed by United States department of agriculture chemists and other interests. The creamery men, however, declare that the consumer will have to pay the extra cost eventually, and the price of butter is high enough already to the consumer, the creamery men declare. They deplore the high prices of their product, but say that they are governed entirely by the law of supply and demand, and that the demand has far exceeded the supply ever since the war began. The butter makers also say that 80 per cent butterfat is sufficient for good butter, and all that is required for export trade to all European countries.

All restrictions heretofore held by the food administration on the manufacture of butter will be removed January 6. This was announced to the creamery men at the afternoon session by R. R. Welday, of the state food administration office at Burlington.

H. R. Wright, of Des Moines, is president of the state association of creamery men, and Paul W. Crowley, Des Moines, is secretary.

RENTER BELIEVES HE HAS BEST OF BARGAIN

Cedar Falls, Ia., Jan. 8.—Peder Pederson, of near Cedar Falls, a Holstein breeder, declares that he cannot afford to own a farm, he can make more money by keeping his money as working capital and allowing the other man to own the farm.

"I lease a 200-acre farm," explains Mr. Pederson, "paying $6.25 an acre rent. That's $1,250 a year and no taxes, no interest on investment. The land is worth $250 an acre or a total investment of $50,000. Interest on that amount invested, if only 5 per cent, would yield $2,500 a year, or just twice what I pay for the use of the land. At that rate I am perfectly satisfied to allow the landlord his sense of ownership, while I take the profits."

IOWA SOLDIERS WERE AMONG THE HEALTHIEST

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 6.—A table of statistics received at the office of Dr. G. H. Sumner, secretary of the state board of health, from the surgeon general of the army shows that Iowa stood 17th among the states in the union in the percentage of men drawn into military service who were afflicted with social diseases.

The figures were compiled on the first 1,000,000 men to report for service and show that an average of three out of every 100 from all states were affected. Of these three, it is explained, two were suffering before coming into the service, and one contracted the disease after entering.

Of the men in the service from Iowa, 1.63 per cent were afflicted with social disease. The smallest percentage was accredited to Oregon with .59 per cent.

Florida had the highest with a percentage of 8.90.

"These diseases constituted the greatest cause of disability in the army," the statement says.

GOVERNOR TELEGRAPHS COMPLAINT TO WASHINGTON

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 8.—Gov. W. L. Harding has telegraphed Secretary Baker and Senators Kenyon and Cummins requesting an investigation of complaints of the treatment accorded Iowa soldiers returned from abroad and those in domestic camps.

The governor forwarded a telegram received from Estherville, signed by 10 persons with sons from overseas now at Camp Dix, who, the parents charge, "are suffering from cold and hunger, want of care and cannot be reached by mail, telegraph or money."

IOWA PLUMBERS TO MEET AT CEDAR RAPIDS

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Jan. 8.—The 31st annual convention of the Iowa Master Plumbers' Association is to be held in Cedar Rapids, Ia., January 14, 15 and 16. The Cedar Rapids Sanitary Club has the convention in charge and has arranged for a three-day program. Over 1,000 master plumbers and their families are expected to attend.

LEMARS—Far from home, sick and friendless, Wayne Schuster, 18 years old, was found shivering in a boxcar in the railroad yard at Brunsville. He was brought to a hospital in LeMars suffering from pneumonia. It was learned he had run away from his home in Ohio. He failed rapidly and died. His body was sent to his parents at Ada, Ohio.

CEDAR RAPIDS—The city council on petition of the property owners in First avenue, on both sides of the Cedar river, is to ask for plans and specifications for a concrete bridge across the river at First avenue to replace the wooden structure that has been in use since 1859. It is expected the new bridge will cost between $250,000 and $300,000.

WEBSTER CITY—Mrs. Henry Gath, wife of a wealthy and prominent resident of Jewell, south of this city, committed suicide by hanging herself in the attic of the home. Despondency was the cause.

ATLANTIC—Tiring of poor service and increases in rates of the Iowa Light and Power Company, citizens of Audubon are preparing to get a franchise for an electric plant to run in opposition to the Iowa corporation. The Iowa company recently was granted permission to charge an increase pending a final adjudication of the rate question.

DES MOINES—Farmers throughout the state are anxious to have the 38th general assembly take action on the recommendation of Dr. J. I. Gibson, state veterinarian, that $50,000 be appropriated for use in co-operating with the federal bureau of animal industry in stamping out cholera.

LOSSES ON ROADS REACH NEW POINT

Latest Estimate Adds Sixty Million to Amount Government Will Have to Meet.

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—Railroad earnings under government operation during the calendar year 1918 will fall short about $196,000,000 of the standard return which the government must pay the roads. This revised estimate was submitted by Director General McAdoo to Senator Smith, chairman of the interstate commerce committee in a letter made public today and represents an addition of $60,000,000 to estimate given by Mr. McAdoo in his recent testimony before the committee.

Mr. McAdoo explained that the increased estimate was based on actual net revenue for November, which was now available and which was $23,000,000 less than was anticipated when he appeared before the committee. He estimated that $6,000,000 of the difference was due to reduction in traffic during November and $22,000,000 to increased wages and back payments.

Mr. McAdoo pointed to this unexpected development as lending additional emphasis to his statement that "it is impossible to predict satisfactory conclusions upon the present necessarily incomplete results for even a single year of federal control, especially under war conditions," and said that a satisfactory showing of the results of federal operation in 1918 probably could not be made before March 1.

FORMER PREMIER SUPPORTS LEAGUE

French Senator, Once Cabinet Head, Submits His Ideas as Wilson Program.

By United Press.

Paris, Jan. 9.—The grim will of the world that there shall be no more wars will make the league of nations an integral part of the peace settlement Leon Bourgeois, senator and former premier, declared in an interview today.

Bourgeois, who is the foremost French authority on the league of nations, was recently charged by Premier Clemenceau to confer with American, British and Italian league experts and draw up a plan to be submitted by the French delegation at the peace conference. He outlined this program today for the information of the American public.

The principal variance of Bourgeois' plan from President Wilson's ideals is that the French desire to refuse Germany membership in the league until she fulfills all the conditions imposed on her by the peace treaty. Wilson, it is understood, would admit Germany on probation.

Bourgeois desires that the league of nations shall be created by the associated powers at the peace conference and that Germany shall sign adherence to the league principles, simultaneously with the other terms of peace. After this the league would pass upon the applications of other nations, all of which would be eligible provided they are "clean handed, democratic and honest."

Must Prove Sincerity.

Germany could come in only after she had proven her sincerity by carrying out all the obligations imposed on her at Versailles.

"The league of nations must do three things," Bourgeois said. "First, it must provide that arbitration shall be obligatory.

"Second, it must limit armaments.

"Third, it must create penalties for refractory nations.

"There would be four penalties—diplomatic, judicial, economic and military," he concluded.

BETTER NEWSPAPERS DEMANDED BY FRENCH

London Times cable service [Copyright 1919, by Public Ledger Co.] to The Sioux City Tribune.

BY H. WICKHAM STEAD.

PARIS, Jan. 8.—As the time for the meeting of the peace conference approaches, the feeling is growing in many circles that France is seriously handicapped by the dilapidated condition of her press. Many of the ablest French writers on European questions are still mobilized or prevented by official duties from enjoying freedom of action.

Paris newspapers are still subject to restrictions, their paper supply being reduced to enough for four pages for daily papers and two pages for papers which appear three times weekly, instead of eight and 10 pages daily as before the war.

The censorship is to some extent relaxed, but it still impedes the flow of information that could alone enable the public fully to understand the issues of what must be in all essentials a people's peace. Indeed, information on some important topics is often confined to circles which read carefully the Swiss, British and even Italian newspapers.

A Geneva report stated that the eldest son of the German crown prince has been kidnaped and is being kept hidden by German monarchists.

TO GUARD HEALTH OF IOWA'S LEGISLATURES

Des Moines, Jan. 9.—The state board of health is going to take care of the legislators when they assemble here next week for the 38th general assembly. If any member gets the "flu" it won't be because the state board of health failed to warn him of the dangers, etc.

"The Flu—And How to Avoid It" will be the title of a booklet Dr. G. H. Sumner, secretary of the board, will lay on the desk of every legislator.

REVOLT SPREADS AS EBERT FALLS

Reports From Berlin Indicate Spartacans Have Gained Control of Government—All Germany In Throes of Revolution.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan. 10—The [illegible] demand government [illegible] has been overthrown, the [illegible] ists having gained [illegible] in Berlin after sanguinary fighting, according to the latest German advices received here.

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 10.—[illegible] man government messages [illegible] by wireless here say that [illegible] lin are scenes of bloodshed, [illegible] government, it is added, [illegible] necessary measures to [illegible] reign of terror."

The messages say that [illegible] of Berlin already are without water. Provision depots [illegible] stormed by the Spartacans and [illegible] feeding of soldiers and [illegible] been interrupted.

London, Jan. 9. [illegible] o'clock Wednesday evening [illegible] little change in the situation [illegible] although the government [illegible] some progress in strengthening [illegible] position, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

Berne, Switzerland, Jan. [illegible]—Telegraphic reports from Berlin to the state that the rebels have formed a new government under title of the "Revolutionary Committee." This committee consists of three members—Herr Liebmann, Herr Ledebour and Herr Tiel. The latter is named the president of the Spartacans.

The Spartacans thus appear to be working with the socialists of the left, or independents.

(The dispatch would also seem to indicate the possibility that the government set up is a rival one to the Ebert-Scheidemann government and has not in fact displaced it, as Wednesday's advices through Paris stated.)

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL

London, Jan. 10—Telegrams from Berlin at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday morning and transmitted by the Copenhagen correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph company say that negotiations between the government and independent socialists failed.

The independent socialist and Spartacans appeal to the workingmen to meet Wednesday in order to complete "the victory of the Proletariat."

The government has ordered [illegible] troops in nearly all of the garrisons in Germany to move against Berlin and they are arriving there on motor cars. A state of siege, it is added, will be declared in Berlin. The Spartacans control the railroads near Berlin.

Severe fighting occurred at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning but the result was not known when the dispatches were filed.

Copenhagen, Jan. 9.—Spartacan [illegible] proclaimed a general strike throughout Germany for January 19 in order to prevent elections to the national assembly scheduled for that day, it was reported in dispatches received here.

Basel, Jan. 10.—Troops loyal to the Ebert government have arrived in Berlin from Potsdam and driven the Spartacans as far as Tiergarten and occupied the printing works, according to the Frankfort Zeitung.

Hundreds of persons were killed in three days' fighting at Dusseldorf where a bolshevist republic was proclaimed.

At Munich, where 5,000 are unemployed, there was a demonstration, [illegible] persons were killed in a machine gun battle.

Bolshevists, led by sailors, seized the barracks and public buildings at Schwerin, but were later driven out.

All shops in Frankfort have been closed, and business was reported at a standstill there.

A new revolutionary government has been proclaimed, composed of independent socialists.

A part of the government troops is reported to have gone over to the rebels and the Spartacans now hold the principal points in Berlin.

Civil war is spreading to other parts of Germany, the advices indicate, and parts of the Rhenish provinces and Bavaria are now believed to be involved.

Casualties Heavy.

Gustave Noske, the commander-in-chief of the German troops will send new forces against the capital in an attempt to gain control of it, it is reported. A desperate reaction by the more conservative elements is expected. The casualties in the Berlin fighting are reported to have been heavy. The government will declare a state of siege in Berlin, it was reported in dispatches filed in that city last night and received here today.

Government troops the dispatches say, have been ordered from many garrisons to rush to Berlin in automobiles.

Sailors from Kiel are rushing to Berlin to aid the government, it was reported in an agency dispatch from Amsterdam today.

The dispatch said the republican cabinet in Darmstadt had resolved to support Chancellor Ebert.

STREET FIGHTING.

Berlin, Jan. 9.—(delayed).—Street fighting continued throughout today but on a smaller scale than the two previous days.

The government has again obtained control of the railways.

LUDENDORFF RETURNS.

London, Jan. 9.—Ludendorff was reported in Berlin dispatches today to have arrived in Leipsic.

A division of cavalry is reported to have been massed outside Berlin with the object of protecting the national assembly.

BOR STRIKE W COMPLETE

rk Tied Up as Thousands Out—Ferries Stop Run- as Throngs Wait at

By United Press.

rk, Jan. 10.—Fifty-eight thou- men and waterfront laborers ere today and shipping was tied up.

ike of 16,000 tugboat employes hands threw 42,000 sieve- t of work. New York harbor rivers on both sides of Man- were empty, save for police on guard duty.

terminals gods—were piled streets being blocked with rucks.

leaders permitted a limited of boats to cross the bay with hich was urgently needed.

Transports Due.

transports and 24 merchantmen e. Naval tugs were ready to e transports, but there was no handling the other steamers ey were at quarantine.

dispute is over working hours. oat owners refused the govern- award and the men went on It is feared that many more will join and that idleness of rk harbor will soon have a conomic effect unless the gov- t intervenes.

By Associated Press.

hington, Jan. 10.—Secretaries s and Baker called into confer- day representatives of the rail- administration and shipping to consider the New York har- rike situation. It was intimated ome definite action might be ex- during the day.

as declared that no protection aval forces had been asked and deemed unlikely that it would he strikers controlled the situa- ith no trouble.

re probably will be hell to pay hortly," was the comment at the director's offices.

TIEUP COMPLETE.

York, Jan. 10.—Except for a fleet of ferry boats, tugs and s engaged in debarkation of coming troops and loading of ible supplies for the American ditionary forces, harbor shipping at a standstill today as the re- of the strike of 15,000 marine rs in an attempt to force arbitra- f their demands for higher wages n eight hour day.

only privately owned craft, but oats of the railroad administra- 1,200 in number were tied up and ailing or berthing of ocean steam- as well as the ferrying of pas- rs between Manhattan and its bering boroughs and suburbs was ible.

Staten Island Isolated.

pension of ferry service left Sta- and, New York city's great mid- r borough, completely isolated t for two small boats operating d from Perth Amboy, on the New y shore, and launches able to only small groups of passengers. New Jersey and Long Island the access to New York was by way e East river bridges and the sub- and tunnels under the East and h rivers, in which trains were ded and entrances choked with de- travelers throughout the day.

Milk Famine Feared.

e tieup left New York with a lim- stock of fresh foods, and the milk ly, already seriously curtailed by trike of the New York Dairymen's ue, was further threatened when ents from New York halted. ment of coal essential to mainte- of the limited supply, which the storage facilities can accommo- also was suspended.

ion officials announced that the fire and police boats would be up by the calling out of their s. Establishment of an eight- day is demanded by the strikers.

Liners Affected.

ean liners were affected by the r. Instructions were issued that member of the union was to give w.

he strike is the result of refusal by loyers to agree to award made e time ago by the war labor board. eight-hour day and increase in pay granted the men. The board yes- ay announced its inability to bring t an agreement, and the strike or- came shortly afterwards.

T. Delahunty, president of the ine Workers' affiliation, said that per cent of the workers had left r work at 9 o'clock, leaving their ts as they reached shore, tying up, banking their fires and re- ting on strike.

No Violence Likely.

elahunty said there was no indi- on that there would be any vio- e, but gathered around the ferry at the Manhattan and Staten d terminals were long crowds of men.

elahunty declared the only way the e can be settled is for a board to ertake arbitration with power to ree its awards. The men, he de- ed, will not go to work under the arrangement of hours and pay to it a settlement.

EADING NOT TO RETURN

liations Are That Lord Cecil Will Come to Washington.

By Associated Press.

aris, Jan. 10.—The Earl of Reading ll not return to Washington as itish high commissioner and special bassador to the United States, ac- rding to a London dispatch to the ho De Paris. It is said that Lord bert Cecil, former assistant secre- y of state for foreign affairs, will ceed him.

Miss Margaret Wilson, wearing a i-color cockade in her hat, witnessed e review of the French army in trasbourg.

SENATE EYES THE PACKER

Opens Hearings, Looking to Federal Regulation, Today.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Coincident with House interstate commerce committee hearings on the federal trade commission's bill for federal regulation of the meat packing industry, the Senate interstate commerce committee today opened hearings on the bill and similar legislation.

Representatives of farmers' and live stock growers' organizations, which are holding conventions here, were heard today by the Senate committee.

FIGHT RED FLAG IS THE PROGRAM

Anti-Suffrage Association Has Spread Activities to Meet New Conditions at Meeting.

By United Press.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Plans for a nationwide fight against the "red flag" movement were made today at the annual convention here of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage. A program for a fight in the next congress against the proposed Susan B. Anthony equal suffrage amendment also was considered. Leaders of the association said they considered the amendment defeated for the present session.

Opposition to the alleged attitude of the woman's executive committee of the national republican committee seeking indorsement of the federal suffrage amendment was expressed by Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, jr., of New York, president.

An open letter to Chairman Will Hays, of the national republican committee, was prepared voicing criticism of the personnel of the women's executive committee of which Mrs. Medill McCormick is chairman.

Mrs. Wadsworth charged that Mrs. McCormick's committee was devoting its efforts to the passage of the suffrage amendment rather than to "purely republican propaganda."

Linked Together.

Mrs. Basil Clark, of Brussels, outlined a program to fight radialism and asked support for a forthcoming attack on the non-partisan league in the northwest. Association leaders said they believed the radical political movements in this country was associated with the agitation for woman suffrage.

Mrs. Wadsworth was re-elected president, Miss Murray Ledeyard, Washington, was elected secretary, and Mrs. Robert Garrett, Baltimore, treasurer.

AMERICA GAINED MUNITIONS LEAD

During Last Month of War Production In This Country Surpassed the Allies.

Washington, Jan. 10.—Figures made public today by the ordnance department of the inter-allied bureau of statistics show that the production of munitions in this country had grown so rapidly that in the last months of the war the United States was far ahead of Great Britain and France. Average monthly production of machine guns and machine rifles for July, August and September, 1918, in the United States was 27,270 against 10,947 for Great Britain and 12,126 for France. In the same period the United States produced monthly an average of 233,562 rifles against 112,821 for Great Britain and 40,522 for France. With respect to small arms ammunition production in the United States was 277,984,000 rounds, in France 139,845,000, and in Great Britain 259,762,000.

Total production from April 6, 1917, to the date of the signing of the armistice, was given as follows:

Machine Guns and Machine Rifles—Great Britain, 181,404; France, 229,238; United States, 181,662.

Rifles—Great Britain, 1,971,764; France, 1,416,056; United States, 2,506,742.

Rifle and Machine Gun Ammunition—Great Britain, 3,486,127,000; France, 2,983,675,000; United States, 2,879,148,000.

In the comparative chart attention was called to the fact that since the need for the original equipment of troops no longer existed, French and British production of rifles during 1918 was at lower rate than had previously been attained.

WOBBLIES ESCAPE TRIAL

Omaha Federal Authorities Inclined to That Belief.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 9.—Possibility that I. W. W. defendants arrested about a year ago in a government raid on their headquarters will never be brought to trial is freely discussed in official circles at the federal building.

More than 100 men were arrested in this raid. It is understood that Mr. Allen, United States district attorney, is shortly leaving for Washington to secure from the attorney general some information in this matter.

If these I. W. W. prisoners are not brought to trial, federal officers are wondering what will be the status of "Big Bill" Haywood and others sentenced by Judge Landis to long terms at Fort Leavenworth for the same offenses which terms they are now serving.

TALK OCCUPATION.

London, Jan. 9.—Entente troops at the request of Chancellor Ebert, will occupy Berlin, according to rumors current in that city, an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Amsterdam reported today.

HALT INFORMAL PEACE PARLEYS

Lloyd George, Rebuilding Cabinet, Detained In England—The Probable Program of Peace Conference Is Outlined.

Paris, Jan. 10.—A French protocol, giving a detailed program of the procedure of the peace conference, has been submitted to the American and other delegates by whom it now is under consideration.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan. 10.—President Wilson's conferences with the premiers of Great Britain, France and Italy, which were to open today have been delayed and probably will not begin before early next week.

Lloyd George is detained in London by work incident to the reconstruction of his cabinet. Premier Orlando, of Italy, who is due here today, will probable return to Rome, where his presence for 48 hours is necessary because of matters under consideration by the Italian parliament.

There will, however, be a meeting today at the office of Stephen Pichon, foreign minister. It will be attended by Mr. Wilson, Premier Orlando and Japanese representatives, but it will be informal because of the absence of Lloyd George, although British representatives will probably be present.

General Program.

It is not expected that the premier's conference will deal with more than the most general principles of the peace settlement. In fact, it now seems doubtful if more than a broad, general agreement will be reached before President Wilson returns to America in February. The procedure now being discussed, is, roughly, as follows:

First, a general agreement between the United States and the entente belligerents for the creation of a league of nations, or similar machinery, to enforce the terms of peace and preserve it.

Second, the setting up of new independent states growing out of the war.

Third, the assessment of damages and indemnities and the manner of their payment.

Fourth, the conclusion of peace treaties with the central powers.

The peace treaties may be left to the last, because none of the agreements can bind the central powers unless, in the meantime, they have established governments which satisfy the peace congress.

Time a Factor.

At this point arises the question of how long the peace congress will wait for the central powers to arrange their governments. It is pointed out by some that neither Germany nor Austria can complete its governmental machinery until it is determined what the two peoples desire in this matter. It is not expected that the congress will wait indefinitely for the central empires to prepare themselves for an agreement.

NAME DELEGATES.

Paris, Jan. 10.—Official announcement was made today that the council of ministers had approved the nominations as the French representatives in the peace congress of the following: Georges Clemenceau, the premier; Stephen Pinchon, foreign minister; Louis Lucien Klotz, finance minister; Andre Tardieu, French high commissioner to the United States; Jules Cambon, former ambassador at Berlin.

MAY ALTER BLOCKADE.

Paris, Jan. 10.—The representatives of the allied nations here intend to give immediate consideration to the question of mitigating the severity of the blockade of the central powers, according to indications today. Such mitigation, it is pointed out, would be granted in order to permit movement of food supplies for Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and sections of Russia, and other territory which cannot be reached except through territory which the central powers are holding.

SERBIAN DELEGATES.

Paris, Jan. 10.—The premier of Serbia has officially notified Foreign Minister Pichon that the Jugo-Slav representatives at Versailles will be Nikolai P. Pachitch, former premier of Serbia, Dr. M. R. Vesnitch, former Serbian minister of finance, and M. Trumbitch, president of the Dalmatian diet.

KIDNAPED POLES FOUND

Ministers Are Released From Custody By Soldiers.

BY J. M. L. JEFFRIES.

London Times cable service [Copyright 1919, by Public Ledger Co.] to The Sioux City Tribune.

WARSAW, Jan. 9.—The kidnaped Polish ministers have all been discovered in detention in a physical culture college. They were immediately freed by the officers who had been dispatched to aid them. Those belonging to the armed anti-socialist militis who were guarding the ministers were ordered to deliver their arms and did so promptly.

Most of those detained had taken their detention quietly. Premier Moraczewki had a good humored attitude. Thugat, minister of the interior, whom his opponent described as the bolshevists' liaison officer in the cabinet, was the only one showing signs of marked nervousness.

When freed the minister held a consultation at the Belvedere palace with General Pilsudski, commander of the army. Later Prince Sapieha, leader of the attempted coup d'etat, was arrested at his house.

SHOW COTTON INCREASE.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Cotton jinned to January 1, 1919, was 10,761,278 bales, this is an increase of 326,566 bales over last year.

ILLINOIS SENATE DRY

Springfield, Jan. 9.—The federal "dry" amendment today went before the house of the Illinois assembly. It was passed by the senate late yesterday 30 to 15.

RAILROAD RATES AWAIT ELEVATOR

Chairman of the Association of Executives Predicts Increases In Tariffs—Pleads For Private Ownership In Statement.

By United Press.

Washington Jan 10—Railroad rates must go up, even under government control, T. Dewitt Cuyler, representing the railroad executives, told the interstate commerce committee today.

"Higher rates will be necessary even under government control," said Cuyler "I think the government will have to raise the rates shortly"

Washington, D C. Jan 10—Railroad interests today proposed that a secretary of transportation be added to the president's cabinet.

This secretary would be in charge of a department of transportation, with powers to enforce unified operation of railroads, according to the plan outlined by T. Dewitt Cuyler, chairman of the association of railway executives before the Senate interstate commerce committee

Private ownership, management and operation of the railroads should continue, Cuyler said, but federal incorporation should be compulsory.

Functions of the secretary of transportation as recommended would include

Recommendations as to rates.

Determination of policies for improved transportation service

Power to re-route traffic over various lines to relieve congestion

Unification of terminals.

Direction during war or "serious emergency" of all railroads as one national unit

Control over all extensions and new construction of lines and terminal facilities

Eliminates Commission.

Executive and administrative powers of the Interstate Commerce Commission would be given over to the transportation secretary. The commission would continue to act as a quasi judicial body and would be in charge of valuation and accounting

Federal jurisdiction must be complete over both state and interstate rates, Cuyler stated But he proposed a group of regional commissions, consisting of one member from each state in the various regions, these commissions to have primary jurisdiction and act as representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission in hearing all complaints.

The railroad executives presented this plan as a preferable solution of the railroad problem to the five-year test period proposed by McAdoo, and the various other suggestions for government operation, leasing of government owned railroads and for enlarged control by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

State Regulation Hit.

Executives are strong in the belief that state regulation must go and that the railroad problem is a strictly federal one. The regional system would merely distribute the work of the Interstate Commerce Commission and would not scatter any of the power exercised by federal agencies, it was pointed out.

"Power of regulation of the instrumentalities of interstate commerce, including all rates, state and interstate, should be exclusively in the hands of the national government," the statement submitted by Cuyler, outlining the railroad interests plans, declared.

"A system of federal incorporation should be adopted for all railroads engaged in interstate and foreign commerce," Cuyler stated.

"Such systems should be compulsory and not elective. It should provide a means of consolidation and merger for corporations engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, with the necessary power of condemnation provided the secretary of transportation finds that such consolidation or merger is not contrary to the public interests and can prove the same."

Shippers and state utilities commissions, the latter of whom would be faced with complete eclipse by the plans, remain to be heard.

Discusses Wages.

Mr. Cuyler said future wages, in case roads are returned to private control, must depend on trade conditions. He added that the railroads probably could not do business profitably under private control with the present scales of wages, rates and costs of materials.

Senator Townsend suggested that Director General McAdoo had testified that the government expected to be able to reduce rates and Senator Kellogg interjected:

"But every act of his indicates he is planning to raise them."

"Have the rates made by the director general been as satisfactory as if they were made by the Interstate Commerce Commission" inquired Senator Gore.

"I don't believe they are scientific at all," replied Mr. Cuyler.

Senator Townsend inquired what the big railroads would do to short lines under the program presented.

Mr. Cuyler said the executives had no particular plan further than the provision for mergers under supervision of a secretary of transportation.

ARREST FORMER OFFICIAL

Refused to Answer Questions Propounded in Court.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 10.—A. H. Davison, former secretary of the state executive council, was arrested today and lodged in jail for contempt of court in refusing to answer questions relative to property upon which his divorced wife is seeking to secure alimony, ordered paid some months ago.

MARY IS BETTER.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 9.—Mary Pickford was reported as improving today, although still confined to her home by influenza. Her brother, Jack Pickford, was operated upon yesterday for an abscess.

ENGLAND AND ITALY SLOW

Delay Provisions For Suffering People Hoover Intimates.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan. 10.—England and Italy have not as yet appointed their members of the international food commission and consequently revictualling plans under the direction of Herbert C. Hoover, have not been perfected. This delay also has rendered it impossible for him to arrange for the purchase of foodstuffs urgently needed by the populations of regions evacuated by the German armies.

HALT FOREIGNER BURNETT PLANS

Check on Immigration Seen In Several Bills to Be Presented to the House.

By United Press.

Washington, Jan 10.—An effort to tighten immigration restrictions will be made at this session of congress despite shortness of time before final adjournment

Chairman Burnett of the House immigration committee, today called his committee together to try to get an agreement on some measures that will halt a rush to American shores expected as soon as there is shipping space.

There are two measures before Burnett's committee

One by Burnett himself would halt immigration for four years from the date of passage.

The other by Representative Lufkin would stop immigration for two years.

The exceptions made in the two bills are government officials, skilled laborers, refugees from religious persecution and returning soldiers who are aliens. All these would be allowed admission on proof of status.

There is a demand for some check on immigration and it is coming from quarters who have favored the very light restrictions, Burnett said today.

"One thing is sure, we cannot allow an influx of 1,000,000 untrained workers a year during our readjustment period We should allow the people we have now to get settled back into normal life before taking in more."

Labor Is Active.

Two powerful forces are working for immigration legislation. Labor wants it to safeguard wages during the period of high prices. The second force is one that wants to take preventitive steps against any remote chance of a spread of bolshevism here.

The immigration bureau has already appealed to congress for more funds for the coming year, declaring that thousands of prepaid tickets have been purchased in this country for relatives in Europe.

TRAINED AT CAMP DODGE, BACK SOON

Part of 88th Division Landed at Newport News—Some Sandstormers to Iowa Camp Also.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 10.—The entire brigade headquarters of the 163rd artillery brigade, including Brig. Gen. S. M. Foote, the commanding officer, arrived last night at Newport News, Va. They came on the Koenigen and Nederlander, which sailed from Bordeau. The 163rd brigade is the big gun unit of the 88th division which was organized and trained at Camp Dodge and which will be returned to Camp Dodge for demobilization, probably within the next 10 days.

Brigadier General Foote will take command at Camp Dodge as soon as he arrives, relieving Brig. Gen. B. T. Simmons, who is slated for transfer to another post. General Simmons' orders of transfer have not been received.

The brigade that General Foote commands consists of the 337th and 339th field artillery regiments and the 313th trench mortar battery.

The 338th regiment landed several days ago and now is awaiting transport to Camp Dodge. It is probable that brigade headquarters and the regiment will come here together. Among the other units on the Nederlander was the 125th field artillery, one of the regiments of the Sandstorm division which was trained at Camp Cody. There are a few Iowans in this regiment.

FORM AVIATION SCHOOL

Report States Eddie Rickenbacker Will Be Instructor.

By Associated Press.

Columbus, Ohio., Jan. 10.—Washington advices received here today say that Captain Edward V. Rickenbacker and seven other American aces, who have either reached home or are on their way, have been called home by the government to found a flying school which will rank with West Point Military academy and Annapolis Naval academy.

Other aviators mentioned are Major William K. Thaw, Captain Sanford Biddle, and Lieutenant Tobin, who are already in the United States.

KENYON IS HIS OWN COOK

Iowa Senator Forced to Do Housework —Cook Is Ill.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Senator Kenyon will soon qualify to write a book entitled "Hints to Iowa Housewives." He confided to senator friends today that he was getting his own breakfasts and acquiring skill thereat. He has been led to this venture by the fact that the cook has pneumonia and Mrs. Kenyon has been indisposed

LEADERS NEAR AN AGREEMENT

Believed Wilson and Clemenceau Are Approaching Understanding on the "Balance of Power."

Paris, Jan. 9.—American, British, Italian and French statesmen will hold their first joint meeting tomorrow, it was officially announced today

The conference which will be in the foreign office, will be attended by President Wilson, Secretary Lansing, Foreign Minister Balfour, Lord Cecil, Premier Orlando, Foreign Minister Sonnino, Premier Clemenceau and Foreign Minister Pichon.

Balfour, Orlando and Sonnino will arrive in Paris tonight. The others are already here.

By United Press.

Paris, Jan. 9.—Premier Clemenceau and President Wilson were believed today to be approaching some understanding regarding their apparently conflicting views on the balance of power and the league of nations.

The two leaders certainly had an opportunity to exchange views in this matter as a result of their unexpected meeting late yesterday in the offices of Colonel House. Great interest is attached to this meeting and it was the first time Clemenceau and Wilson had met since the former's frank declaration in favor of retention of the balance of power and the latter's simultaneous statement in Manchester that this ancient institution must give way to the league of nations.

American circles have all along held the opinion that the divergence in Clemenceau's and Wilson's views was more apparent than real, and that both were working toward the same end, only along different channels.

Met By Accident.

The meeting took place in the hotel Crillon at dusk, the president walking from the Murat palace to the hotel in a drizzle of rain. He was accompanied only be secret service men and was wholly unrecognizable by the public. Clemenceau had gone to the hotel to see Colonel House. While the meeting was unplanned, it is believed to have anticipated by only a few hours a scheduled conference between the two leaders.

IN LONG CONFERENCE.

Paris, Jan. 9.—Secretary of State Lansing, Col. E. M. House and Lord Robert Cecil, who has made the subject of the league of nations a special study on behalf of the British government, held a long conference today regarding the details to be worked out in forming a league. Their conference followed consultations between President Wilson and Colonel House last evening.

NEW PEACE PROBLEM.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Representatives of the Assyrian Christians and natives of Mesopotamia in the United States have submitted to the state department for transmission to the peace conference a petition asking that Mesopotamia, including the provinces of Karput and Diarbiker be placed under control of America, England and France, until such a time as the people are able to govern themselves independently.

MILLIONS READY FOR IOWA ROADS

Definite Government Program Includes Fifteen Million For the Hawkeye State—Nebraska Also.

By United Press.

Washington, Jan. 9.—Road building on an intensive scale is expected by government officials this year. Estimates by the bureau of public roads and rural engineering indicate a minimum expenditure on highways of $300,000,000. Deferred construction and improvement of existing roads, so that greater use may be made of the parcel post system, are expected to swell the total expenditures in the post-war period to $1,000,000,000. Definite estimates of amounts to be spent in this year include the following:

Iowa, $15,574,000; Texas, $20,000,000; Nebraska, $1,657,089, and North Dakota, $3,000,000.

BRITISH LABOR PARTY WINS

Likely to Display Asquith Faction as the "Opposition."

By Associated Press.

London, Jan. 9.—The claim of the labor party to be regarded as the official opposition party in the house of commons and the success of William Adamson, the party's leader in the elections carries an important implication that the labor party considers itself as being able to form an alternative government.

The labor party's action virtually sidetracks the Asquith party, which has hitherto been regarded as the official opposition party. Much will depend upon the decision of the speaker of commons whether the laborites are granted all the privileges accruing to the official opposition.

BECOMES A GOVERNMENT

Serbian Legation Gives Formal Notice of Federation.

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 9.—Formal notice has been given the state department by the Serbian legation that it had become the legation of the new joint kingdom of Serbs, Slovens and Croats. The legation's statement sets forth that a single and common government was set up on December 24 under Prince Regent Alexander.

There is but

One Sure Way

To get money--earn it; but one sure way to have money save it; but one sure way to Save Money

---by systematic setting aside each week or month a portion of your income and putting it to work in

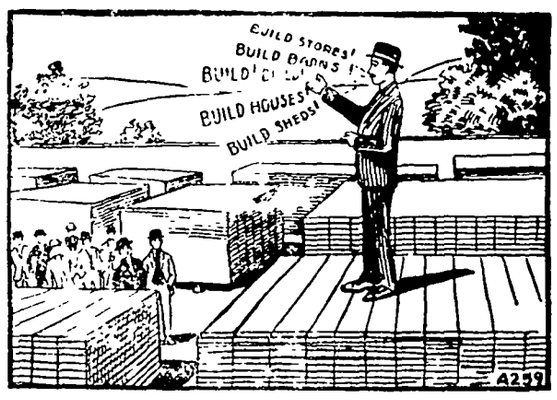
A Reliable

Banking institution. We offer you our services.

State Savings Bank

WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE YOU LIKE AND LIKE THE SERVICE YOU GET

KLEMME, IA.



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

A PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

For more than three years American philanthropy has been a large factor in keeping alive Armenian, Syrian, Greek and other exiles and refugees of Western Asia.

On two former occasions, I have appealed to the American people in behalf of these homeless sufferers, whom the vicissitudes of war and massacre had brought to the extremest need.

The response has been most generous, but now the period of rehabilitation is at hand Vastly larger sums will be required to restore mer homes than were required merely to sustain life in their desert me homes than were required merely to sustain life in their desert exile

It is estimated that about 4,000,000 Armenian, Syrian, Greek and other war sufferers in the Near East will require outside help to sustain them through the winter Many of them are now hundreds of miles from their homeland The vast majority of them are helpless women and children, including 400,000 orphans.

The American Committee for Relief in the Near East is appealing for a minimum of $30,000,000 to be subscribed January 12-19, 1919, with which to meet the most urgent needs of these people.

I, therefore, again call upon the people of the United States to make even more generous contributions than they have made heretofore to sustain through the winter months those, who, through no fault of their own, have been left in a starving, shelterless condition, and to help re-establish these ancient and sorely oppressed people in their former homes on a self-supporting basis.

(Signed) WOODROW WILSON

The White House, 29th November, 1918

ADVICE TO LOVELORN

By VINCENT G. PERRY.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Dear Joan:—The young man I am engaged to insists upon using rose perfume on his hair, and I just detest the odor of rose perfume on anybody's hair. I am afraid it is going to cause us to break off our engagement. I love him dearly, too. What would you advise? Broken Hearted."

Bob Clarke read the letter over and shoved a piece of copy paper into his typewriter. In less than half a minute he had written a paragraph of advice to "Broken Hearted" and pinned it to her letter, ready for the printers. There was a heap of letters before him and he dealt with the ones on top. They were all along the same line.

When Bob had answered more than he thought the editor would let go through, he sat back in his chair and looked at the pile of unanswered ones that would have to go into the waste-paper basket. It seemed as if every person in love in the city wrote to "Joan" for advice. If they had known that Joan was a man—and a very young one, too—perhaps there would not have been so many letters.

Lovers' quarrels had always seemed a joke to Bob, until he had had one of his own. It was no joke.

He paced up and down to think it over and then sat down again. He had the room to himself, so he was able to think it out undisturbed.

He wished there was some one to tell him how to go about it to fix things up. Then the idea came to him. Why not follow some of his own advice? he thought. He had his column on file for a year back and he went through the paper to locate a case like his own. He did find one that was very much like his. The girl in the case had been just as stubborn as Cleo and had banged down a receiver just as Cleo had done. Receivers seemed to be a popular weapon in lovers' quarrels. He read his answer and noted each instruction. "Be bold; don't let her see that you are down-hearted; go to her home and demand admittance; show her that you mean business, and she will be sure to forgive you," he had said.

That answer didn't seem to fit his case at all. But if "Pining Away" had been successful, he didn't see why he couldn't be, by carrying out the same plan. It wouldn't hurt to try, at any rate. Cleo couldn't do anything worse than close the door in his face.

Cleo didn't slam the door in Bob's face, but after she had snubbed his every effort to talk to her, for fifteen minutes, he wished she had.

"Why won't you be reasonable, Cleo?" he pleaded at last.

"Reasonable!" she exclaimed. "Have I not been reasonable? It is you who are not reasonable. If you really had loved me you would be."

"But I have apologized, dear, and taken all the blame," he said. "Won't you be your old self again? Why did you allow me to come here if you weren't going to speak to me?"

"I don't want you to take the blame and I didn't want you to come here. If you really thought you were to blame you wouldn't acknowledge it—men never do.

There was an entirely new argument for Bob. He had always been of the impression that women were odd, but now he was convinced of it.

"Any one will tell you I am to blame," he said. Then he was struck with a sudden thought. "Why don't you write to the 'Advice to the Lovelorn' column in the paper? The answer will convince us who is to blame. 'Joan' knows all about such things."

"But Joan must be a friend of yours; do you know who she is?" Cleo asked suddenly.

"Joan is my worst enemy," he answered. "My knowing who Joan is won't make any difference in the reply. I will guarantee that."

"You will have to help me compose the letter," Cleo said, as she secured the stationery.

Bob did most of the dictating and Cleo did most of the writing, changing his views of it here and there.

"Read it over," Bob said, when it was completed.

Cleo read it aloud.

"Doesn't it sound foolish?" she asked, as he finished. "It is as silly as the ones that appear in the paper. Bob, we'll make idiots of ourselves if we send this in. We really didn't have anything to quarrel over."

"I don't think we had, either," he agreed. "Let's settle it without sending this letter in. Tear it up."

Cleo needed no second bidding. The letter was reduced to fragments.

"I am so glad we didn't decide to send it," she sighed, wearily. "Newspaper people must have lots of fun out of letters like this one."

"We do," he answered seriously, "but do you know, I'm never going to laugh at another of those letters. I'll answer any one of them and I'll spend more thought on them."

"You'll answer them! What have you got to do with them?" she demanded.

Bob had to confess.

"To think that you deceived me so," Cleo began, but the smile on Bob's face silenced her. "We'll be quarreling again in a minute," she laughed, "and we've decided quarrels are foolish, haven't we?"

"You bet we have," he answered. "Let's kiss and make up for good."

THE FAIRY WISH

By HILDA MAIRIS.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

There was nothing outwardly romantic about Elsie Boggs. She was nearly thirty, with sandy red hair and spectacles. She lived alone with a querulous maiden aunt, and she had never, so far as anyone knew, had a lover.

When we entered the war the ladies of the Stillville Aid society, like the ladies of other aid societies all over the country, began to knit for the soldiers. There were strange things discussed at their meetings in those days.

To Elsie Boggs it was all like a page from one of her stories, preferably a historical one.

For many years she had had a habit of wondering what would happen if certain conditions were thus and so, and now, quite suddenly, she caught herself wondering what would happen if the soldier for whom she was knitting a particularly fine sweater should learn that she had knit it.

Aunt Hattie's voice cut in upon this reverie.

"I hear Bud Emery has enlisted," Aunt Hattie said, as she came in from the street. "There ain't going to be a young man left in this town. I don't know what we're coming to!"

"Bud Emery?" echoed Elsie. "Well, he's not so very young. He used to be in our class in school. He's thirty anyway."

However, it would be difficult to imagine Bud Emery as a figure of romance. He was more freckled than she, with the sandy hair that bristled fiercely all over his head. He had a feed store.

As Elsie went on with that extra fine sweater, a daring idea came to her. Never before in her life had she put one bit of her sentimental thought into action. Now she was possessed with a desire to label that sweater, so that the soldier who got it could come to find her if he chose. Furthermore, as she worked she knitted into it what she tried to imagine was a fairy wish; a wish that he would want to find her.

The sweaters were designed for some far-off Red Cross station, so Elsie felt quite sure that no one she knew would ever see the slip of paper that she folded into the garment. It bore her name and address, and it might be that some time she would hear from the man who received it.

Elsie saw Bud Emery before he went away to camp, and tried to fancy how he would look in a khaki uniform. He was so big and shambling, so awkward and shy! It was hard to imagine him erect and trim, yet she knew that he would make a fine soldier; Bud Emery was true blue.

The weeks went by after she had sent away that sweater, and nothing happened. Perhaps it took time for the articles to reach their destination, perhaps her sweater had been lost on the way, or perhaps the man who got it had not noticed the slip or cared to write to her if he had. And so, eventually, Elsie gave up thinking about it. After all, she was a red-haired old maid, and would be a sad disappointment to any soldier. She had been a fool to dream of romance. The army might make the men over, but nothing could make her over. Her part was just to stay at home and knit.

And then, one day, there came a letter for Elsie. She rarely received letters, and this one was addressed in an unfamiliar hand, very large and black, almost as if a man had written it.

She opened it with a fast-beating heart, and hastily scanned one page; "Camp Devons," it was headed. And strangely enough, it began: "Dear Elsie!"

"Yesterday they gave us out some knitted things that the Red Cross had sent around, and what do you think I got? I sweater with a little slip of paper inside it. I couldn't understand at first how your address had come there, until I realized that it must have been you, Elsie, who made that sweater. Isn't it funny that I should get it? I tell you I like that sweater, and when I think that you made it I like it all the more.

"Some people say that it is easier to write things than it is to say them, so maybe that is why I can say now, on paper, what I have wanted to say to you for years and years. And that is, Elsie, that I love you. You might have guessed it before, I should think, but you know how funny I am and afraid to talk much. But now I have told you that I shall never be afraid to talk to you again, that is if you will let me. I have leave next week and plan to come home for a few days, and I want to come to see you, so we can talk it over. Let me know, Elsie, how you feel about this. Of course, I don't suppose you care for me, but maybe you could."

The letter was signed "Bud Emery." Elsie dropped it to the floor and stood staring straight ahead. Her eyes, behind their spectacles, were wide with dreams. Here was a soldier who already loved her.

She could meet him with no fear of disappointing him, for to him, perhaps, she was beautiful.

Late that night, after Elsie had mailed her letter to Camp Devons, she sat alone at her window looking up at the stars. And the romance of the still night seemed to promise beautiful things. After all, romance was real, and more alive today than ever before. And perhaps, she thought, there were even such things as fairies. For had not her fairy wish come true?

Overland

TRADE MARK REG.

Outclasses Them All!

Just Received

A Carload of new Model 90

Overlands

For Style, Comfort, Economy and Power
The Model Ninety Excells them All.

Get your order in early as these are hard to get!

Willys

PHONE 30

C. W. Wiles Garage

YOU HAVE TRIED THE REST, NOW TRY THE BEST

KLEMME, IA.

Cold Weather Comforts

You cannot afford to go through the winter months without being comfortable, no matter what your work may ba. We suggest the following

A good Hart Schaffner & Marx Suit or Overcoat

Sheep-lined Ulsters and Short Coats
Mackinaws, Sweaters, Leather Vests

Good Substantial Underwer
Duck Coats, Gloves and Mittens
Caps, Single, Double and four-Buckle Overshoe

Snagproof and Goodrich Brands

Plenty of cold weather to come--provide now

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

"IOWA'S LARGEST CLOTHERS"

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Cloths

Fourteen Stores. Garner, Iowa.

KNO-SOPE

(Pronounced "no soap")

What is it? Something New!

Ask Ryan the Barber about it.

Ask some of the ladies who Ryan has shampooed what they think of it. Every user a SATISFIED customer. Along with our other class of work

We Feature Ladies' Shampooing

J. F. RYAN

Don't forget that Ryan's Laundry Agency pleases, basket goes every Tuesday, back every Friday.

Favored by Nature.

The largest tongue in the world in proportion to its owner's size is that owned by the North Queensland hawk-moth, which sports a length of six and a half inches, although there is a long-horn beetle a little higher up, in New Guinea, which has horns measuring 17 inches.

Had Had an "Explain."

Kenneth and his cousin were especially fond of playing in the barn, and when told by his sister to be careful and to play only where there was no danger of being hurt Kenneth said, with a grownup air, "Oh, yes, we'll be careful, 'cause daddy just gave us an explain all about that."

The Damon-Igou Co.

—Mason City, Iowa—

We are in the third week of our

January Clearance Sale

It has been a wonderful success so far and we have saved our customers thous- of dollars from the regular prices. We always do that—but this year especially, savings have been far greater. There is still time enough if you act quickly, to you a lot more.

pecials on Domestics ou use these goods all time, why not buy y?
nch bleached Muslin, finish, Jan. price 17c
rit R, unbleached, per d ---------- 21c
Island, unbleached R, yard ---------- 25c
Bleached Sheeting, yard ---------- 59c
f Bleached Outing, per d ---------- 12½c
t Bleached Outing, per d ---------- 15c
Bleached Outing, per d ---------- 20c

Vash Goods Section
t Dress Ginghams, €. , Utility and Toile-du-Nords, per yard ---- 19c
36-inch dress Cambrics and Percales, 40c grade, yard ---------- 29c
32 inch Printed Taffeta and Foulards, 50c grade, yard ---------- 39c
65c fancy Wash Skirtings yard ---------- 39c

Dress Goods Dept.
Plaid Dress Goods at per yard ---------- 49c
Storm Serge Dress Goods at per yard ---- $1.00
50 in. Storm Serge $2.50 values at ---- $1.50

Bedding Department
$2.50 Cotton bed blanket at ---------- $1.98
$3.00 Cotton bed blankets at ---------- $2.49
$3.50 Cotton bed blankets at ---------- $2.98
$4.50 Cotton bed blankets at ---------- $3.89
$5.00 Wool Nap blankets at ---------- $3.98
$6.50 Wool Nap blankets at ---------- $4.98
$8.50 Wool blankets at ---------- $5.67
$10.00 Wool blankets at ---------- $6.67
$12.50 Wool blankets at ---------- $8.33
$15.00 Wool blankets at ---------- $10.00

Every Rug at a discount
All Curtains at a discount in our January sale.

The Damon-Igou Co.

Mason City, Iowa

Christmas Gifts

have a full line of Christmas Gifts to choose from,

ulators, Roasters, Aluminun Ware, Cookers,
ery, Silver-ware, Pyrex Baking-ware, etc.
STOVES and Ranges

REUTZMACHER BROS.

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.
Coal Hauling Done

idn't Like That Kind.
d fried mush for bi[illegible] ttle girl asked to be h[illegible] I, selecting a nice b[illegible] d it on her plate, an[illegible] other, I don't [illegible] Chicago Tribu[illegible] re Spots the More Meals.

mber of spots burned on a nonk's head shows how much ected to endure, says a recent the subject of China. They severe an initiation as they d get therefrom certain priv- a monk has three spots he hree meals free at any mon- China; six spots entitles him als; nine spots to three days' d the maximum of twelve, a care.

Just Like Willie.
er—"Some rivers are sluggish course. What do I mean by a ing sluggish?" Willie—"It at it likes to stick to its bed."

Peculiar Articles of Commerce.
Dried lizards are said to be an article of merchandise regularly imported into this country. They come from China, to supply a demand by Chinese residents in the United States. They are supposed to possess much medicinal virtue when ground to powder and mixed with certain other curative substances. The Chinese used dried toads for a tonic, salted scorpions for smallpox and fossil crabs as an antidote for poison.

And His Needs Are Numerous.
A politician thinks he is entitled to as many kinds of opinions as he may need in his business.

More Pleasant to His Ear.
"Lemme see one o' dem cuckoo clocks," said Mr. Erastus. "Here you are." "Could you kind o' change de tune a little?" "What's the idea?" "I wants an alarm clock. I don't take to dese hasty an' excited alarm clock. If you could train one o' dese to cackle like a chicken I could wake up spry an' hopeful every time."

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days n the week at Highest Market Price

Successor to W. R. Bloom

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDER

Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing

Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

Col. B. A. Reemtsma

General Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA

Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty
Call or write either Bank or Times Office for Dates.
...Satisfaction Guaranteed...

Geo. ZINN

Physician & Surgeon

Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA;

Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.

Eyes Tested,
Glasses Fitted

DR. L. R. PARSONS, DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48.
Klemme - Iowa

J. S. WESSON, D. V. M.

GARNER, IOWA

CALLS ATTENDED DAY OR NIGHT

Office Phone 196 Residence 137

HER PRISONER

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

(Copyright, 1918, by Western Newspaper Union.)

When Aunt Hyacinth answered an advertisement, renting for the summer a furnished country home, Caro had rebelled at the prospect. But her rebellion had ended as usual in an unselfish desire to make the best of the situation. The house was somewhat out of repair, the agent acknowledged. The owner, who was now in California, would return soon, to prepare it for occupancy.

Aunt Hyacinth, whom obstacles but made eager, determined to move in at once. "We will live out of doors for the most part," she said. "You and Nora will go out the day before and see that the house is aired. I abhor a stuffy atmosphere."

So it was decreed. The agent meeting Caro and the faithful Nora at the station, was communicative. "Used to be the finest place in town," he said, pointing to the rambling old house in its garden. "'Gridleys' have lived there from away back. This last, Judson Gridley, lets the old place, furniture and all, while he travels about the country. Keeps a bungalow for his own convenience near by, with two old family servants as caretakers. Some say it's Jud's way of making a home for them. Jud's a bach, you know; never seems much to notice the women. Well, if you need anything done about the house, call up No. 153—that's Gridley's bungalow telephone number. Old Jabesh and his wife'll go over and help you."

Caro's eyes opened wide at the grandeur of the mahogany, while her pretty brows drew together at the dustiness of the heavy draperies.

"Lots of work for you, Nora!" she said.

It was pleasant to lie in the great four-poster bed, the sweet scents of the garden coming through her open window, and moonlight filtering over all.

What a queer little balcony that was outside her window, the pillars of the lower veranda supporting it. She wished that she had investigated its windings before lying down to sleep. When Aunt Hyacinth came, they would sit out there on such moonlit evenings—. And at this point of her meditation, an eerie creeping sound came to the girl's acutely conscious ears. It was as though some intruder were trying to climb the pillars of the balcony.

Her heart pounding wildly, she managed to draw a kimono from the bedpost and find with feeling feet her slippers, just as a man's capped head appeared unmistakably above the balcony railing.

She edged along the floor in the darkness, as the man boldly stepped over the rail. At sight of her open window he paused as though surprised, then evidently decided to enter the house that way, but the locked window screen caused him to change his purpose, and he turned, apparently sure that the house was deserted, moving to an unscreened window farther on. Caro, listening with taut nerves, distinctly heard him enter thus the hall.

For a moment she fancied the man waiting in silence to make certain of his ground; then he had passed her door.

Upon the outside of that same bedroom door she had noticed a key in its lock. She would fly across the passage, turn the key and make the man prisoner. The high window to that room faced no balcony; escape would be impossible. She was noiselessly opening her own room door as she formed her plan. Afterward she would telephone for help. The light from the open door flooded the hall, she had just time to glimpse a man's staring face beneath a rough cap's brim, as the door slammed and locked him in. The rest was easy. "Call No. 153," the agent had said. It was the only number Caro knew. She was surprised at the promptness of the response.

"Burglar?" questioned a man's voice. "Oh! I guess not; but I'll be right over."

"It was Gridley's old caretaker," she surmised.

In her new-found courage she had quite forgotten the sleeping Nora, and it was Caro herself who opened the door to admit the blustering servant.

"Don't ye worry about me not bein' able to manage any crook," he told her, and waved threateningly a murderous-looking bludgeon. "In here, eh?" he thundered and unlocked her captive's prison.

Trembling, Caro drew back against the panels of the hall. Then the caretaker's quick laugh was followed by a manly voice of pleasing quality.

"So you have come to rescue me, Jabesh," said the voice. "Will you tell me, please, what sort of a dream I've been having? And where is the golden butterfly who mysteriously locked me in?"

Bewilderingly and in her yellow kimono of golden embroidery, Caro crept out from her retreat. "Who," she whispered, "are you?"

The intruder bowed. "Judson Gridley," he replied, "returned this evening from California. Came to look over my old home in preparation of the tenant who was not expected until tomorrow. Having forgotten my keys, I was obliged to enter by an old boyish route."

And when upon the following morning Aunt Hyacinth arrived, she was met by her niece in an automobile.

"Our landlord brought me down," whispered the girl.

"Very familiar person," sniffed Aunt Hyacinth, for she had heard the man say as he turned to help her niece into the car, "Come, Miss Butterfly!"

OBSTACLES

By MILDRED WHITE

(Copyright, 1918, by Western Newspaper Union.)

Mollie come through the old-fashioned garden and seated herself beside her aunt.

"In all this town of curious creatures," she said, "I have seen one good-looking man."

Aunt Martha Smiled. "Must be Homer Vane," she replied. "Every young woman who comes to Farmsville discovers Homer, and to no purpose. He is devoted to his frail and domineering mother, and has declared his intention of continued bachelorhood in her service.

"Poor, handsome Homer," laughed Mollie. "Aunt Martha, I have a wicked desire to torment the despotic old lady. Won't you at least introduce me to the considerate man who thoughtfully warns hopeful maidens of his non-marriageable intentions?"

"Mollie!" her aunt exclaimed, "are you never going to outgrow your mischievous spirit? Certainly I will introduce Homer Vane, but 'your tormenting siege' will end there."

So it seemed. Mollie smiled her prettiest when the interestingly aloof one was presented. Mr. Vane was courtesy itself. Mollie decided that he had both studied and traveled, which was true. But when the young lady visitor from the city again met the "one good-looking man," a brief bow was his only salutation.

She saw him occasionally from her retreat, as he passed her aunt's home in his car. Mollie loved automobiling. She could fancy delightful rides about this beautiful country. And the girl was lonely in her self-appointed exile. Never had she imagined days could contain such long-drawn hours.

Aunt Martha, doing her best with village guests, was discouraged. Mollie longed to be flying along a wide road, the sweet air blowing in her face, in her heart a spirit of adventure. Any presentable driver would answer the purpose, she told herself.

Farther down rippled the waters of a lake. Mollie wanted to travel down those rippling waters in a motorboat now resting against the shore. This boat, she learned, "was also the property of the selfish Homer." Selfish? Mollie wondered.

"Devoted to his invalid mother for a lifetime, denying himself that broader living which a nature such as his must crave." Suddenly a smile curved the girl's lips. Why not for just one afternoon give him a holiday? Other men had sought the privilege of her companionship; why should not this man find it amusing also? The gift, she realized, would have to be forcibly bestowed. Mollie walked up the hill that began at her aunt's very doorway. Not long since the object of her thoughts had dashed up this way in his car. Usually he returned in a short time down the hill.

"Up looking over one of his farms," was the way her aunt explained these errands.

True to her expectations, as she paused in the center of the dusty road, the car came on again, seeming to slip over the top of the hill. Its occupant raised his hat, while Mollie put forth a detaining hand.

"Please," she said sweetly, "if you are going down won't you carry me? It is a long way to walk."

Homer Vane quickly restrained his glance of amazement. "With pleasure," he agreed, and assisted her into the car.

"From here," said Mollie, disappointedly, "one cannot get a view of the lake. I hoped to see it, but cannot climb so high."

"I would be delighted to drive you to a good view point," he suggested, and at her quick nod of acceptance, the car swung about for the upward trip.

He was agreeable and easy to talk to, this unusual man. Mollie had not expected such easy victory over his reserve. From the lake view they rode on through glorious country, and his laugh rang out at the girl's ingenuous remarks. Frankly she confessed her stratagem.

"I was lonely," she said, "and I did want a ride. You were such a difficult person, Mr. Vane. Of course, Aunt told me that your time was too fully occupied to waste—entertaining young women, still—" she hesitated.

"My mother," he murmured, "is dependent upon my care."

Mollie laughed softly. "There are two of us, then," she said, and held out a hand with a sparkling ring. "That is my sign of devotion to one subject, yet, why shun other companionship, or forego simple pleasures which make time pass happily?"

"Would you like a lake ride tomorrow?" he asked.

"I must go back to the city," she said, disconsolately, "to be, married."

Homer Vane appeared disconsolate also as he drove Mollie to the station.

"We will go over the old hill once more," he said, and sighed.

At the lake view, he stopped the car's engine and bent to gaze into Mollie's face. "Remember what you said about my obstacle?" he asked. "Well, it's gone. Mother is going to marry her old widower neighbor. She told me today. But that can't help me now."

Suddenly Mollie's eyes were shining. From her pocket she drew a letter. "The man I was engaged to," she said, "writes today to release me. We were both too young when it happened. He realized my indifference when I came away. He, too, has changed and so—"

"So the last obstacle is removed," the man cried and Mollie smiled into his radiant eyes.

OLD TOMBS OF PATRIARCHS

Cave of Machpelah, Bought by Abraham for a Burying Place, Has Stood Ravages of Time.

The tombs of the patriarchs in Jerusalem, the cave of Machpelah, which Abraham bought for "a possession of a burying place," is still in existence. For forty centuries it withstood the ravages of time and men, relates a writer.

It is situated in the town of Hebron, 16 miles south-southwest of Jerusalem, and sheltered from profanation by a Mahometan mosque that rises above it. The tomb contains the whole patriarchal family, with the exception of Rachel. The cave is divided into an upper and a lower compartment. Only the upper compartment is accessible to the priest in charge of the mosque, but he only enters it in times of great calamity, and for the sole purpose of praying. As to the lower compartment, where repose the illustrious fathers of the Jewish nation, they remained completely closed until the year 1862, when, for the first time, King Edward VII, then the prince of Wales, together with Doctor Stanley, the dean of Westminster Abbey, and two other friends, were granted admission.

The six tombs are arranged symmetrically in rows of twos; a seventh in the wall, is believed to belong to Joseph. Abraham's tomb, which has the form of a coffin with a shelving ridge, is about eight feet high, and is set in the cemented stone and marble. It is covered with three gold embroidered green carpets, which are the gifts of the emperor of Constantinople, Mahomet II, the conqueror of Egypt, Selim II, and the Sultan Abdul Medjid.

CHEESE DIET IS WHOLESOME

One Pound of the Food Supplies More Than Twice as Much Energy as Same Amount of Steak.

Too many people use cheese merely as an appetizer, says the Scientific American in commenting on a recent bulletin of the United States department of agriculture. According to this bulletin and to the universal practice in the great cheese-producing countries of Europe, cheese is one of the most valuable of foods and a most satisfactory substitute for meat.

A pound of cheese supplies more than twice as much energy as a pound of fowl or round steak and almost twice as much protein as the same amount of fowl or ham.

Contrary to the opinion of many, cheddar or "store" cheese is not usually indigestible and constipating. Extensive digestion experiments conducted by the department have demonstrated that more than 95 per cent of the protein in cheese is digested and that 90 per cent of its energy is available. Even when eaten in large quantities and for long periods, no case of indigestion, constipation or other disturbance was observed in those who ate it. One person who ate cheese as the chief source of protein and energy, eating an average of 9.27 ounces daily for more than two years, did a fair amount of muscular work and kept in good health.

Dust in the Sweeper.

"Only last week I found Mary's earring here," said the experienced housewife to a younger woman as yet quite inexperienced in housekeeping way who had wondered why the speaker should look over the accumulated dust that she had just shaken out of a carpet sweeper; the Mary referred to being the maid employed in this home "Mary came to me," the speaker continued, "and said she had lost one of her earrings and she had looked everywhere for it, but just simply couldn't find it; but I knew the likeliest place to look for it, and there I did find it, in the dust of the carpet sweeper, where many a jewel has been found before this, and where, no doubt, many a jewel has been lost. I always look over the dust out of a carpet sweeper before throwing it away." Upon hearing which the inexperienced young woman registered a mental resolve that when she went to housekeeping she would do the same.

Courtesy Was Wasted.

There is such a thing as wasted courtesy and one encounters it almost every day in the crowded subway or elevated trains, observes a New York correspondent. Recently a man was riding in a jammed train and when it stopped at the Forty-second street station there was an inrush of passengers. Among them was a richly dressed woman, who led a boy of about ten by the hand. She stood before a chivalrous-looking man who occupied a seat. With a touch of his hat he arose to give the woman his seat, when the boy broke loose from her and jumped into the vacant seat. The woman made no attempt to take the seat for herself and remained standing. What was worse, she made not the slightest acknowledgment of the man's courtesy.

Ski in Land of Summer.

Californians are not denied the winter sports of tobogganing, ski-running, sleighing and skating, but in order to enjoy them they are obliged to ascend into the Sierra Nevadas, a mile above the coast and the central valleys. There, amidst the fragrant pine forests of the highlands, they enter into keen out-of-doors recreation with all the zest of people who see snow usually from a distance. The winter sports season at Truckee, near the summit of the Sierra, has become well established as an annual event.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—Adv.

Poser for Aunty.

Howard was to be taken to the dentist for the first time.

"Oh, it won't hurt, aunty," he kept saying, "for mamma daddy told me it wouldn't."

"But how do you know," said his aunt, tensingly. "You've never been to the dentist before."

"I haven't eh?" came the reply. "well where do you s'pose I got my baby teeth, then?"

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked faded gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off. Adv.

Just about the time you think your cup of happiness is going to run over it springs a leak.

In 1848 Sir Arthur Garrod proved that in gout (also true in rheumatism) there is deficient elimination on the part of the kidneys and the poison within are not thrown off.

Prof. H. Strauss attributes a gouty attack to the heaping up of poisons where there is an abundance of uric acid which is precipitated in the joints and sheaths, setting up inflammation. Before the attack of gout or rheumatism there is sometimes headache, or what is thought to be neuralgia, or rheumatic conditions, such as lumbago, pain in the back of the neck, or sciatica. As Prof. Strauss says, "The excretion of uric acid we are able to effect by exciting diuresis." Drink copiously of water, six or eight glasses per day, hot water before meals, and obtain Anuric tablets, double strength, for 60 cts., at the nearest drug store and take them three times a day. If you want a trial package send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Anuric" (anhydrous) is a recent discovery of Dr. Pierce and much more potent than lithia, for it will dissolve uric acid as hot tea dissolves sugar.

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

CHAPTER FIVE—(Continued)

"Yes," returned Pauline, "we telephoned a cablegram to the city to be sent to him in Egypt. But I don't know when he will get it, nor when we'll get a response."

"Where is he?"

"His permanent address is Cairo, but he is off in the desert, or somewhere, so much that sometimes he is away from communication for weeks at a time. Still I've sent it that's all I can do."

"What did you tell him?"

"I made it rather long and circumstantial. I told him of Aunt Lucy's death, and that she was killed by a blow on the head by a burglar which fractured her skull. I asked him if he would come home or if we should go there. You see we were intending to sail for Egypt in February."

"Who were?"

"Myself, my aunt, Miss Frayne and Mr. Haviland. Carrington Loria had been begging us to make the trip, and at last Aunt Lucy decided to go. Our passage is engaged, and all plans made."

"And now—?"

"Now, I do not know. Everything is uncertain. But, if the burglar can be found and punished, I see no reason why I, at least, shouldn't go on and make the trip. The others must please themselves."

Pauline looked at Anita and at Haviland with a detached air, as if now they were no longer members of the household, and their plans did not concern her.

Not so Haviland. "Sure I'll go," he cried, "I fancy Carr will be mighty glad to keep me on in the same capacity I served Miss Carrington. He'll need a representative in this country. I doubt he'll come over—there's no need if I look after all business matters for him."

"What does he do in Egypt?" asked the inspector, who was half engrossed looking over his memoranda, and really took slight interest in the absent heir.

"He's excavating wonderful temples and things," volunteered Anita, for Pauline and Gray were looking, amazed, at a man who came into the room. He was the detective who had been left in charge of the boudoir, and he carried a strange looking object.

"What is it?" cried Pauline.

"It's a blackjack," replied the detective. "I found it, inspector, just under the edge of the tassel trimmin' of the lounge. The fellow slung it away, and it hid under the fringe, out of sight."

Gravely, Inspector Brunt took the weapon. It was rudely made, of black cloth, a mere bag, long and narrow, and filled with bird shot.

"That's the weapon!" declared Brunt. "A man could hit a blow with that thing that would break the skull without cutting the skin. Yes, there is no further doubt that Miss Carrington was murdered by a burglar. This is a burglar's weapon; this it was that crushed the shell comb to fragments, and fractured the skull, leaving the body sitting upright and unmutilated. Death was, of course, instantaneous."

"But the jewels!" said Detective Hardy, wonderingly; "why——"

"I don't know why!" said Brunt, a little testily; "that is for you detectives to find out. I have to go by what evidence I find. Can I find a broken skull and a blackjack in the same room and not deduce a burglarious assault that proved fatal? The thief may have been scared off or decided he didn't want the loot, but that doesn't affect the certainty that we have the weapon and therefore the case is a simple one. That burglar can be found, without a doubt. Then we shall learn why he didn't steal the jewels."

"But the snake?" said Pauline, looking wonderingly at the inspector; "the burglar must have been a maniac or an eccentric to put that snake around my aunt's neck after he killed her—and nothing will ever make me believe that she allowed it there while alive!"

"That's what I say," put in Haviland; "the whole affair is so inexplicable—excuse me, Mr. Brunt, but I can't think it such a simple case as you do—that I think we should engage expert skill to solve the mysteries of it all."

"That must come later," and Inspector Brunt resumed his usual gravity of manner, which had been disturbed by the discovery of the blackjack. "Will you please give me some detailed information as to the circumstances? Is the house always securely locked at night?"

"Very much so," answered Haviland, "Miss Carrington was not overly timid, but she always insisted on careful precautions against burglary. She had a house full of valuable furniture, curios, and art works, besides her personal belongings. Yes, the house was always supposed to be carefully locked and bolted."

"Whose duty is it to look after it?"

"The butler Haskins, and his wife, who is the cook, had all such matters in charge."

"I will interview them later. Now please tell me, any of you, why Miss Carrington was arrayed in such peculiar fashion last evening."

"I can't imagine," said Pauline. "My aunt was not a vain woman. I have never known her to sit before a mirror, except when necessary to have her hair dressed. It is almost unbelievable that she should deliberately don those jewels and scarf and sit down there as if to admire the effect. Yet it had that appearance."

"But she wore the jewels during the evening, did she not?"

"Not all of them. She wore her pearls because, as she told us and as I have often heard her say, pearls must be worn occasionally to keep them in condition. But she added a large number of valuable gems—or some one did—after we left her last night."

"Whom do you mean by we?"

"Miss Frayne and myself. We were in her room to say good night to her, and we left at the same time."

"At what time?"

"About 12:15, I should think, wasn't it, Anita? We went upstairs about midnight, and were with my aunt 10 or 15 minutes."

"Were your good nights amicable?" asked the inspector, and Pauline looked up in surprise. Then, recollecting the last words of her aunt, she shut her lips obstinately and made no reply.

"Indeed, they were not!" declared Miss Frayne; "Miss Carrington told both Miss Stuart and myself that it would be our last night beneath this roof! That today we must seek some other home, for she would harbor us no longer!"

"Ah! And why did she thus treat you?"

"There was no especial reason," and Anita's lovely blue eyes looked straight at the inspector with a pathetic gaze. "She was in a tantrum, as she frequently was."

"She didn't mean it," put in Pauline, hastily.

"She did!" asseverated Anita; "I've heard her threaten to send us away before, but never so earnestly. She meant it last night, I am sure. And, too, she knew something would happen to her last night—she said so."

"What? What's that?"

"Do hush, Anita!" said Pauline; "those foolish words meant nothing!"

"Proceed, Miss Frayne," and the inspector spoke sternly.

"She did," went on Anita. "I don't remember the exact words, but she said I little knew what was going to happen to her, and she said 'tomorrow you may sing another song!' Surely such words meant something!"

"If they did," said Pauline, angrily, "they merely meant that she was going to dismiss you today!"

"Not at all," and Anita glanced at her, "she distinctly said something would happen to her—not to me."

"You know better than to take things she said in a temper seriously! If we are to repeat idle conversations, suppose I say that I heard you say last evening that you'd like to kill her!"

"I didn't!" shrieked Anita.

"You did," declared Pauline, calmly; "and Gray said she ought to be killed, too. I know you didn't mean to kill her, but I've just as much right to quote your foolish words as you have to quote hers."

"Nonsense!" said Haviland; "let up, Polly! You two are always at each other! As there is no question as to who killed poor Miss Lucy, why rake up our foolish words spoken under the intense provocation of her exhibition of temper, which was specially trying last night. Inspector, can we tell you anything more of importance?"

So far the inspector had been almost silent, and appeared to be learning some points from the conversation not addressed to him. Now he changed his manner, and began briskly to ask questions.

"This glove," he said, holding it out, "was, as you know, found clasped in her hand. Is it yours, Mr. Haviland?"

"No," said the young man, as, after a close examination of the glove he handed it back; "no, it is a size smaller than I wear, and it is of a different make from mine."

"Have you any idea whose it can be? It is highly improbable the burglar left it."

"I've no idea," and Haviland shrugged his shoulders. "But if it was not left by the intruder, where could it possibly have come from? It is a man's glove."

"Could it be one of Cousin Carr's?" said Pauline. "Aunt Lucy was awfully fond of anything of his. She kept one of his caps in her drawer for months after he left the last time."

"No," replied Haviland; "it isn't Loria's. He wears larger gloves than I do. My theory points to a sort of gentleman burglar, a 'Raffles,' you know, and I think he talked with Miss Lucy before he struck that blow, and disarmed her mind of fear."

"What an extraordinary idea!" and Pauline looked thoughtful.

"But how else explain the glove?"

"And the snake? Did your gentleman burglar persuade her to wear that paper thing? Never! Gray, you're absurd!"

"Another thing," went on Inspector Brunt, returning the glove to his roomy pocketbook, "in the bedroom we noticed a glass of milk and beside it an empty plate. Was it the lady's habit to have a night lunch?"

"Yes," said Anita; "but she rarely ate it. In case of insomnia she had ready a light repast, but she almost never touched it."

"The glass of milk is still untouched," said Brunt, "but the plate is empty. What did it contain?"

"A sandwich, I think," said Anita. "That is what Estelle usually prepared for her. She will know—Estelle, the maid."

"Miss Carrington's lady's maid?"

"Yes, though not hers exclusively. She was expected to act as maid for Miss Stuart and myself also at such times as Miss Carrington didn't require her services."

"And she, then, brought the breakfast tray that is upset on the floor?"

"Yes; Miss Lucy always had an early cup of tea before she dressed for breakfast with the family."

"And the maid took it to her this morning? Did she not then discover the—the tragedy?"

"She says not!" cried Pauline; "but I'm sure she did! She says she saw Miss Lucy at the mirror and, thinking her engrossed, merely left the tray on the tabouret and went away."

"Ridiculous!" exclaimed Haviland. "What does Estelle mean by such lies? Of course she saw Miss Carrington's strange appearance, of course she was frightened out of her wits, and of course she dropped the tray and ran. But why not say so? And why not give an immediate alarm? She took that tray, probably, about 8. Pauline went up at 9. What was Estelle doing all that time? Why didn't she go in to dress Miss Carrington? I tell you, Mr. Inspector, there's a lot of queer work to be explained and, with all due respect to the force, I'm pretty sure you'll need expert service if you're going to get anywhere. And I'm sure, too, that if we can get word to Carrington Loria and back, he'll say spare no trouble or expense to avenge his aunt's murder. He is equally keen with you, Pauline, and he ought to be consulted."

"The will hasn't been read yet," said Miss Stuart; "we can't assume anything until that is done."

"Pshaw! you know perfectly well half of the bulk of the estate is yours and half Carr's. I have a small slice and Miss Frayne a bit. The older servants have small legacies, and there are a few charities. That, Mr. Brunt, is the gist of the will. Do you not agree with me that, as I was the man of business for the late Miss Carrington, I am justified, in the absence of Mr. Loria, in continuing my services at least until we can get definite directions from him?"

"Those matters are outside my province, Mr. Haviland. Miss Carrington's legal advisers will doubtless come here soon, and such things will be decided by them. Now, here's another point: I noted in the course of our investigation in the boudoir a quantity of powder fallen on the floor near the dressing table, in such relation to it that it would seem Miss Carrington was using the face powder as she sat there. Was this her habit?"

"Her habit? Yes," said Anita; "Miss Carrington was in the habit of using face powder—even cosmetics. It is not strange then that such a proceeding was part of her night toilet."

"No, not at all," agreed Mr. Brunt. "But where the powder was thickest, on the hard floor near the rug, was a muddled spot, as if some one had wiped out or swept up a mark or print. Can any of you explain this?"

No one spoke, and the stern voice went on: "I remember, Miss Stuart, that you began to say something bearing on this while we were in that room, and you suddenly stopped, appearing confused. I ask you why?"

Pauline hesitated, bit her lip, looked at Gray and then at Anita, and finally said: "I may as well tell. It is nothing. When I went to my aunt's room and found what I did find I was so excited and nervous I scarce knew what I did. But I remember seeing a footprint in that powder, and in obedience to an impulsive instinct I—I obliterated it."

"With what?"

"With my handkerchief. I merely slapped at it, and the light powder flew about it."

"Why did you do this?"

"I don't know. I had no real reason. I was not thinking of what I was doing."

"Then you did not have a desire to shield some one from possible suspicion?" The words were shot at her so swiftly that Pauline gasped.

"Suspicion! What do you mean?! Was it not the work of a burglar?"

"Was the impression of a foot that you saw the foot of a man or a woman?"

"How can I tell? It was large, but as it was a bare or stockinged foot I could not judge. Might not the burglar have removed his boots before entering the room?"

"He might, indeed, and that is just what he did do. For more prints of that stockinged foot have been discovered on the stairs, and there is no doubt that the tracks are those of the assailant of Miss Carrington. With your permission, Miss Stuart, I will now go to interview the servants. May I ask you to await me here, all of you? I shall not be very long."

As the inspector and the detectives left the room Haskins appeared to announce Mrs. Frothingham and Count Henri Charlier.

VI.

A NEIGHBOR'S CALL.

"Oh, is it not terrible? What can I say to comfort you!"

Mrs. Frothingham's distressed tones and her air of eager, intense sympathy met with little response from Pauline.

Haviland had been called from the room on an errand and Anita's willingness to receive the neighbor's condolences did not seem acceptable. The overdressed, forward mannered widow continued to direct her attention entirely to Pauline, and that young woman merely surveyed her visitor coolly and replied in monosyllables.

"Thanks," she said, and her icy air would have deterred a less determined intruder.

"I simply couldn't help running over as soon as I heard the dreadful news. For we are neighbors after all, though not so well acquainted; and neighbors have a camaraderie of their own, I think."

"Yes?" said Pauline, and her eyelids fell slightly with an expression of boredness.

(Continued Next Week.)

Sweden is electoral reforms effected in Sweden, providing the "most extended universal suffrage for both men and women irrespective of taxability" are described in a cable dispatch received from the foreign minister at Stockholm.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels needs a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

In Installments, However.

Gibb—I understand your mother-in-law is paying you a visit.

Gabb—She is, but—

Gibb—But what?

Gabb—Oh, nothing, but the dear old lady is so conscientious about paying everything in full.

$100 Reward, $100

Catarrh is a local disease greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE destroys the foundation of the disease, gives the patient strength by improving the general health and assists nature in doing its work. $100.00 for any case Catarrh that HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE fails to cure.

Druggists 75c. Testimonials free.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

The Right Spirit.

The work doesn't end with the hurrah; but the hurrahs demonstrate the spirit that will carry the work on.—Atlanta Constitution.

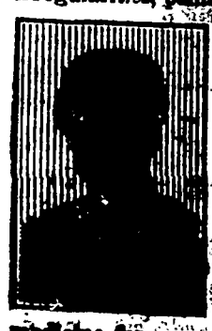
Don't Forget Cuticura Talcum

When adding to your toilet requisites An exquisitely scented face, skin, baby and dusting powder and perfume, rendering other perfumes superfluous. You may rely on it because one of the Cuticura Trio (Soap, Ointment and Talcum). 25c each everywhere.—Adv.

Explaining gets to be a chronic habit with some persons.

"BEST MEDICINE FOR WOMEN"

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did For Ohio Woman.



Portsmouth, Ohio.—"I suffered from irregularities, pains in my side and was so weak at times I could hardly get around to do my work, and as I have four in my family and three boarders it made it very hard for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. I took it and it has restored my health. It certainly the best medicine for women's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. Sara Shaw, R. No. 8, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she did should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is at your service.

A Bad Cough

If neglected, often leads to serious trouble. Safeguard your health, relieve your distress and soothe your irritated throat by taking

PISO'S

Are You Open-Minded?

The average American is open-minded.

American business is conducted by true Americans of vision, open-minded men who believe in their country and strive to meet their country's needs. The men in the packing industry are no exception to the rule.

The business of Swift & Company has grown as the nation has progressed. Its affairs have been conducted honorably, efficiently, and economically, reducing the margin between the cost of live stock and the selling price of dressed meat, until today the profit is only a fraction of a cent a pound—too small to have any noticeable effect on prices.

The packing industry is a big, vital industry—one of the most important in the country. Do you understand it?

Swift & Company presents facts in the advertisements that appear in this paper. They are addressed to every open-minded person in the country.

The booklet of preceding chapters in this story of the packing industry, will be mailed on request to
Swift & Company
Union Stock Yards - - Chicago, Illinois

Swift & Company
U. S. A.

Snappy, All Right.

Flatbush—Don't you think she has a "snappy" game of bridge?

Bensonhurst—Why, yes; I've noticed that she is always snapping at everybody at the table."

Sick Headache, Bilious Attacks, Indigestion, are relieved by taking May Apple, Aloe, Jalap made into Sugar Coated Pellets (Dr. Pierce's). Adv.

A sick is capable of absorbing one pint of water.

Don't trifle with a cold
It's dangerous.
You can't afford to risk
Influenza.
Keep always at hand a bottle of

HILL'S CASCARA QUININE

The cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form, safe, no opiates—breaks up a cold in one day—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine box has a Red top with Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.

Don't Get Hooked to Death!

What will happen if your cattle have horns, or if your cattle fight each other and keep the whole herd stirred up. BE HUMANE. Prevent horns while calves are young. It means a quiet and more profitable herd. Use

DR. DAVID ROBERTS'
HORN KILLER

At your dealer's or POSTPAID 50c.

Complete Dr. DAVID ROBERTS' book on animal ailments. Information free. Send for price list of medicines and get FREE "How to Castrate Quickly" with full information. Address DR. DAVID ROBERTS VET. CO., 140 Ohio Ave., Waukesha, Wis.

HAIR BALSAM
A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair.

CITY PTG. CO., NO. 2--1919.

Sympathetic.

My husband is a fine little man, but not hefty. My own avoirdupois has been a source of some embarrassment to me, but never quite so much as one evening when we boarded a car home from the theater, and with difficulty found space where two of us could squeeze down into a narrow, vacant place on a long seat. We had safely adjusted ourselves when a much exhilarated individual leaned across to my husband and said, sympathetically and loudly: "Never mind, ole man; I got a fat one, too."—Chicago Tribune.

WHY WOMEN DREAD OLD AGE

Don't worry about old age. Don't worry about being in other people's way when you are getting on in years. Keep your body in good condition and you can be as hale and hearty in your old days as you were when a kid, and every one will be glad to see you.

The kidneys and bladder are the causes of senile afflictions. Keep them clean and in proper working condition. Drive the poisonous wastes from the system and avoid uric acid accumulations. Take GOLL MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules periodically and you will find that the system will always be in perfect working order. Your spirits will be enlivened, your muscles made strong and your face have once more the look of youth and health.

New life, fresh strength and health will come as you continue this treatment. When your first vigor has been restored continue for awhile taking a capsule or two each day. They will keep you in condition and prevent a return of your troubles.

There is only one guaranteed brand of Haarlem Oil Capsules, GOLD MEDAL. There are many fakes on the market. Be sure you get the Original GOLD MEDAL Imported Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are the only reliable. For sale by all first-class druggists.—Adv.

So Understood.

"Do you think Bacon wrote the Shakspearean plays?"

"I don't care whether he did or not. It is pretty well established that Shakespeare got the royalties."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Your Eyes Granulated Eyelids, Eyes inflamed by exposure to Sun, Dust and Wind quickly relieved by Murine Eye Remedy. No Smarting, just Eye Comfort. At Your Druggists or by mail 60c. per Bottle. For Book of the Eye free write Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

Freedom of the Seas Discussed.

The Argument Against It For England—Peace Freedom and War Freedom Different Propositions

From the Spectator, London Nov 2, 1918.

When the time arrives for presenting to Germany the final terms of peace for her acceptance or rejection, it will be of the utmost importance that all the associated powers should speak with one voice. To this end it is essential that each power should frankly state its own point of view wherever that, either in substance or in fact, differs from views expressed by other members of the great partnership. In the affairs of nations, as of individuals, frankness combined with courtesy is an essential element of good fellowship. For this reason it is most desirable that the newspaper press and the public men of Great Britain should make clear without delay that in no circumstances can an island power, which is also the center of a sea linked Europe, consent to what is called "the freedom of the seas" if that term carries the meaning which has usually been attached to it in this country. One of President Wilson's often quoted conditions of peace reads as follows:

> Absolute freedom of navigation upon the seas outside territorial waters alike in peace and in war, except as the seas may be closed in whole or in part by international action for the enforcement of international covenants.

It may well be that President Wilson reads some meaning into the phrase, which is quite different from ours. All we want to do is to state what the British people most firmly hold and believe on this vital matter of naval security. Englishmen, by the essential conditions of their national life, are compelled to keep the problem of sea power ever in their minds, and they cannot permit this question to be even for a moment forgotten by their own statesmen. Happily, there is no reason to believe that it has been forgotten by any responsible person. As far back as 1916 Mr Balfour dealt with this critical phrase, "the freedom of the seas," in an interview given to the American press. He here clearly shows how the possession of sea power is essential to Great Britain for her own defense, and he further shows how in practice she has used the power not for herself alone but for the liberty of the world. From the ending of the Napoleonic wars far on into the Nineteenth century Great Britain was without a rival upon the sea. "During this period," writes Mr Balfour, "Belgium became a state, Greece secured her independence, the unity of Italy was achieved, the South American republics were established, and the Monroe doctrine came into being." Such a record of events during the period when British sea power was absolute and unchallenged is a sufficient proof that we recognized the obligations of honor which the possession of power imposed upon us. It is important to add that as a corollary to our sea power we steadily refused to build up great land armies. We took the risk of being in a position of inferiority upon land because we relied upon our superiority at sea. We are therefore entitled to the credit of having done nothing during the long period of our unquestioned naval supremacy to encourage the growth of militarism, the special evil which President Wilson has nobly set himself to root out of the world. More than this, as long as our naval supremacy remained unchallenged we did not trouble ourselves to emphasize it. There was on our part no constant rattling of the sword, no wanton multiplication of battleships. We were content to remain moderately strong until Germany decided to challenge our strength. Then we set to work to make the balance of power in our favor indisputable.

This recital of facts is necessary because until the present war not many Americans took any keen interest in European politics. The average American had no exact perception of what British sea power meant. Undoubtedly American trade did suffer from British sea power during the Napoleonic wars, just as the trade of neutral powers has in some respects suffered during the present war. It may be also that cases of abuse occurred, especially in view of the difficulty experienced by our naval officers in distinguishing between American citizens and British subjects who wished to desert. That these past events should have bred in the American people a dislike of sea power, and that this dislike should have rendered the phrase "the freedom of the seas" popular as a political motto, is natural enough, but no great nation which sets out to seek justice can allow itself to be guided by a phrase capable of both misinterpretation and misapplication.

Let us see then what would be the consequences of the "freedom of the seas" that we have always repudiated. President Wilson demands "absolute freedom of navigation upon the seas outside territorial waters alike in peace and in war." Now, in peace there already is absolute freedom of navigation. Therefore what President Wilson must mean is "in war as well as in peace." That is the real issue. The president of the United States apparently proposes that, when two nations are at war, they shall only fight on land, or within their own territorial waters. No reason is advanced for this limitation of the area of warfare. War at sea is in no respect more cruel than war on land in some respects it is less cruel. The idea underlying this proposal is that the seas outside territorial waters are the common possession of the whole world, and what is common to all should not be used as a battle field by some. That is certainly an attractive idea, but will it bear examination? The sea is not merely a vacant space; it is also a highway. The effect of President Wilson's proposal, strictly interpreted, would be that a belligerent could use the sea as a safe highway for his troops up to the three-mile line which is the boundary of territorial waters. The Germans, for example, would be at liberty to organize a gigantic fleet of transports loaded with men and munitions, and these transports might move up and down the coasts of England and Scotland seeking a safe landing place, and as long as they kept outside the three-mile limit they would be immune from attack. Merely to set forth such a proposition is sufficient to condemn it in the minds of islanders who know, whether from history or from island instinct, that their long freedom from invasion is due to the fact that their fleets have ever been ready in war to hunt down the enemy upon the high seas and beat him back to his own coast line. To expect Great Britain to look on with her arms folded while enemy transports were bearing down upon her coasts is to ask a great nation to commit suicide.

Nor is "freedom of the seas" in the sense in which we understand it defensible even from a purely American point of view. To take an illustration given by Mr. Balfour in the pamphlet already referred to. Suppose that Germany decided to challenge America's Monroe doctrine in Brazil. According to the literal meaning of President Wilson's proposal, the Germans would be free to send their ships loaded with soldiers and guns and all the necessaries of land warfare right across the Atlantic, and the American navy would not be allowed to interfere until these ships were within three miles of the Brazilian coast. In practice it would mean that the fighting would be postponed till after the Germans had landed, and therefore the United States if she wished to give effective help to the Brazilians would have to organize a large army and convey it to Brazil. As Mr Balfour well says, "Not along this path are justice and liberty to be obtained. To paralyze naval power and leave military power uncontrolled is surely the worst injury which international law can inflict upon mankind."

Very nearly when President Wilson laid down his proposition he was not thinking of warships or of transports but only of peaceful merchantmen. On that basis his proposal might be feasible if we could agree on what is meant by the word peaceful. But we think that is impossible. Clearly the conveyance of munitions of war to an enemy is not a peaceful act, even if the vessel conveying the munitions is flying a neutral flag, and conveying in addition harmless cargo and noncombatant passengers. The old law of the sea rightly permits, even in a case the capture of the vessel to be followed by the condemnation of ship or cargo or both according to the circumstances of the case as proved before a prize court. That is an absolutely humane method of warfare and so far as it diminishes the munitions reaching one or the other of the belligerents it reduces the sum total of human suffering. But if ships are to be prevented from carrying munitions of war to one of the belligerents it is necessary that the naval forces of the opposing power should have the right to examine all ships about whose cargo any suspicion arises, and to this extent the freedom of the seas must be restricted for all ships in time of war. The definition of munitions of war must be a very wide one. To keep an army in the field supplied with food is as important as to keep it supplied with cartridges and shells. If it is legitimate to bomb the enemy's supply trains, why should it be illegitimate to capture his supply ships? Nor in practice is it possible to draw a distinction between goods destined for the fighting man and food destined for civilians. That distinction has never been attempted in the case of beleaguered cities, and if a seaport town were invested by land by an enemy who also had command of the sea no one would dream of expecting the besieger to permit supplies to be carried through to the city by water while forbidding their passage by land. Exactly the same argument applies to a beleaguered country. Railway and road transit is interrupted in war as a matter of course, why not also sea transit?

These questions are sufficient to show that in practice it is impossible to have the same freedom of the seas in war as in peace. So human nature reads against the unfairness that would ensue. The plausible case above referred to, that the sea is common to all should not be a battle ground for some, fails the moment it is tested by practical considerations. So we may go further and ask if this theory is sound even in the realms of ethics. No doubt it is possible for neutral nations to be able to trade on their trade in comfort and safety while other members of the human family are killing one another with every instrument that science can devise in the most cruel fashion. But is there anything sacred or anything that makes for peace in such an organization of the world's society? Surely it is better that neutrals should feel some small part of the pinch of war so that they may have a direct motive for using all their influence on the side of peace. What neutrals as well as belligerents are entitled to decide and is that the operations of war shall be carried on in accordance with the established principles of international law, and in order to secure this end it is rapidly becoming agreed that all peace loving nations should combine to create some international organization possessing both the will and the power to enforce the law. Until the new order has changed all the present conditions it is impossible for Great Britain on any consideration to surrender those attributes of sea power which are essential to her safety and to the safety of her empire.

Rudyard Kipling on Cost of German Trade.

From the London Times

Acknowledging the resolution of the Dorking Chamber of Commerce favoring a boycott of German trade for 25 years after the war, Mr. Rudyard Kipling writes to Mr. F. J. Corkett, the proposer.

The resolution seems to me to be no more than a reasonable measure of self protection, but its value lies in the pledge to boycott persons who are inclined to keep up German trade relations. If such people are made to feel that not only their profits but their standing in the community is endangered by dealing in contraband, a little will have been accomplished towards cleaning this country. We know by experience that certain diseases are caused by certain organisms, and the only way to get rid of the disease is to sterilize absolutely every spot where the organisms can breed, and to segregate the people whose systems have been infected by them. And the world knows now that wherever the German is allowed access to mankind human life is imperilled.

Experience proves that trade is the main source of infection, and simple arithmetic shows that no advantage from German trade makes up for its dangers. Taking our war expenditure up to date at £7,000,000,000 for Great Britain alone, it will be seen we have already added a property tax of £70,000,000 per annum on every year between Waterloo and 1911 for the pleasure of trading with Germany. The Germans themselves confess that their trade with the British empire has supplied them with the means to wage war against us. Obviously, then, our first duty is to put an end to the trade, and I welcome your resolution as a step on the road. When public opinion is allowed to express itself again I think it will be found overwhelmingly against revival of any intercourse whatever with the Germans, but for the present we must be content with small beginnings."

The Danger of Applause.

From the Des Moines Capital

The beautiful actress is the only one who can safely receive applause. It is a part of her business. It buys her meal ticket. The orator is on dangerous ground when the applause is the loudest. Then is when his vanity takes control and his intelligence goes out to take a rest.

Applause is the intoxication of the senator and the representative.

Applause is flattery in another form, it enlarges the bump of conceit.

Some men who have been candidates for office and counted applause as so many ballots, insuring election, early found out their mistake.

It is a wise man who can properly estimate the things that are handed to him.

Overdone.

From the Sydney Bulletin

"I suppose you had a great time when they presented you with the Victoria Cross?"

"My oath! Talk about fuss—you'd ha' thought they was giving a bloke a gold medal!"

A large Philadelphia theater is operated without footlights.

The British artillery fired 150,000 tons of shells in 15 days recently.

Colds Coughs Catarrh

A trinity of evils, closely allied, that afflict most people, and which follow one on the other, in the order named, until the last one is spread through the system, leading to many evils. But their course can be checked.

PERUNA CONQUERS

It is of great value when used promptly for a cold, usually checking it and overcoming it in a few days.

Ample evidence has proved that it is even of more value in overcoming chronic catarrh, dispelling the inflammatory conditions, enabling the diseased membranes to perform their natural functions, and toning up the entire system.

The experience of thousands is a safe guide to what it may be expected to do for you.

Liquid or tablets—both tested by the public and approved.

THE PERUNA COMPANY - - - - COLUMBUS, OHIO

Voluble Vocabulary Needed

One of the boys was driving a four-mule team with rations toward the trenches and losing his way, was rumbling along an old road that cut across the German lines.

"I was going along," he said, "when a doughboy on a bicycle most jumped up and waved both hands at me to go back. 'What's the matter?' I asked him, talking natural, and he mumbled at me 'You're going right toward the German lines. For God's sake turn around and go back and don't speak above a whisper.' Whisper h—ll! I says to him kind of mad, I gotta turn four mules around."

UPSET STOMACH

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN AT ONCE ENDS SOURNESS, GASES, ACIDITY, INDIGESTION.

Undigested food! Lumps of pain, belching gas, acids and sourness. When your stomach is all upset here is instant relief—No waiting!

The moment you eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin all the indigestion, pain, dyspepsia, sourness, gases and stomach acid ends.

Pape's Diapepsin is the most little at any drug store, and you get relief in five minutes or quicker. Adv.

Woman's Greatest Task

Mrs. Quotem—Do you realize that half the world doesn't know how the other half lives.

Mrs. Pokenose—It is some job for us women to keep track of the male half.—Boston Globe.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use for Over 30 Years.
Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

One man in every sixty is partly or wholly color blind.

Distressing Thought.

It's dreadful to think that a pretty little maiden who is now busy with her dolls may grow up and become a movie vampire.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Children's handkerchiefs often look hopeless when they come to the laundry. Wash with good soap, rinse in water blued with Red Cross Ball Blue.

There are more than 25,000,000 cats in the United States.

Keep Yourself Fit

You can't afford to be laid up with sore, aching kidneys in these days of high prices. Some occupations bring kidney troubles, almost any work makes weak kidneys worse. If you feel tired all the time, and suffer with lame back, sharp pains, dizzy spells, headaches and disordered kidney action, use Doan's Kidney Pills. It may save an attack of rheumatism, dropsy, or Bright's disease. Doan's have helped thousands back to health.

An Iowa Case

F. M. Stubblefield, real estate dealer, Court House Square, Osceola, Iowa, says: "Some years ago I hurt my back. This affected my kidneys and from that time on I suffered much pain and annoyance. The kidney secretions passed too frequently, but were scanty. I felt tired and drowsy, had headaches and I was often dizzy. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills I rapidly improved and soon I was feeling better than before in years."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

Why take Chances when the Reputation of

Rice Brothers

Live Stock Commission Merchants

Sioux City Stock Yards

Guarantees Satisfaction

Successful Sellers of Cattle, Hogs and Sheep. Write us! Wire us! Ship us! Accurate Market Reports gladly furnished.

Cuticura Promotes Hair Health

All druggists: Soap 25, Ointment 25 & 50, Talcum 25. Sample each free of "Cuticura, Dept. E, Boston."

After the "Flu" —Fever or Cold

Clean the Acidity and Toxic Poisons Out of the Digestive Tract

Millions are now suffering from the after effects of the deadly "flu," a fever or a cold. Their appetites are poor; they are weak, and they are waiting for their strength to come back.

If these people could only realize that the return to health and strength would be greatly helped by giving attention to the stomach—that is, removing the acidity and toxic poisons from the entire digestive tract, making it act naturally, so that the body will receive the full strength of the food eaten—a great deal of suffering would be saved to humanity.

Everyone knows that the disease itself, and the strong medicines that have been taken, upset the stomach, leave it hot and feverish, the mouth dry, the tongue coated, a nasty taste, and no desire to eat. This is a poor foundation to build new strength on.

Now, tens of thousands of people all over this country are using EATONIC for the purpose of cleaning these poisonous after-effects right out of the system and they are obtaining wonderful results—so wonderful that the amazingly quick benefits are hardly believable, just as shown in the remarkable letter which is published upon the request of this sturdy old Civil War veteran. He is 77 years old. Read what he says EATONIC did for him:

"I am an old soldier, past seventy-seven years. I had the Spanish Influenza and it left my stomach in an awful shape. I tried three different doctors but got no relief. As a last resort I sent and got a box of EATONIC and to my great astonishment the very first tablet I took helped me. I can now eat anything I want, and feel fine."

Yours thankfully,
Fowler, Indiana
Dec 4 1918 C S Martin

P S If you can make any use of this letter for suffering humanity you are at liberty to do so.
C. S. M.

This is only one case out of thousands. You should make the EATONIC test in your own case at once. You have everything to gain—not a penny can you lose, for we take all the risk. Your own common sense, your own feelings, tell you that a good appetite, good digestion, a good stomach, with the fever poisons and effects of strong medicines out of your system, will put you on the road to strong, robust health again.

You want to enjoy life again after you have battled with the "flu," fever or colds, or any other illness that has taken your strength. You want to get back your old-time vigor, be full of pep and enthusiasm—be able to work with ease, instead of listlessly, half heartedly dragging out a mere existence.

So be sure to take a box of EATONIC home with you today. We cannot urge this too strongly. If EATONIC fails to give you positive beneficial results, it will not cost you a penny. There is no risk—the benefit is surely all for you.

TAKE EATONIC TODAY FOR YOUR ACID-STOMACH

NOTE—Over 20,000 drug stores throughout the United States sell and recommend EATONIC. If you cannot obtain EATONIC quickly at your drug store do not accept a substitute. Write us and we will mail you a big 50c box at once and you can send us the money after you get it. Add. M. J. Kramer Pres. EATONIC REMEDY CO. 1000 Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

BUYING

NEW CLOTHES TODAY?

or are you just going to look around?
Either way—see these Adler-Rochester and Michael Sterns suits at $30.00 before you decide on a decision.
If you're a "looker" you'll find them pleasant looking.
If you look and buy you'll have the assurance of a "good buy" and a good full measure of hard honest wear.
No matter which you do—or who you are—there's a courteous gentleman standing in our men's clothing department ready to wait on you when you come—to show you the clothes and try them on without saying a word about "selling" until you say so.
Of special interest today are a line of Men's suits at $16.00, a line of Boys' suits at $6.50.
Both are values that double the money will not buy elsewhere.

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

"Where a dollar does it's duty"

The Crystal Cafe is -:- -:-

The Place To Eat!

Come in and get a box of Our Holly Brand Chocalats in Beautiful Boxes!

Always a Full, Fresh Line of Candy Cigars and Tobacco,

CRYSTAL CAFE

"A Good Place To Eat"

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in

Groceries Dry Goods
Shoes Ladies Wear
Hardware Paint

Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

Little Progress Made

My nephew on return'[illegible] the first day was asked [illegible] learned. He replied: [illegible] how to stand up and [illegible] thought I knew that [illegible] to school."—Chicago [illegible]

A Billion Silver Dollars.

One billion silver dollars, laid in a row, says Gas Logic, each coin just touching the one before it and the one following, would form a line that would reach practically around the entire world.

CLOVER SEED for sale. Ask J. A. Young, Garner, Iowa.

Mis Mae Warnock spent Sunday in Iowa Falls with relatives and friends.

J. N. Day and family spent Sunday at the Wm. Smith home in the country

Mrs. Chris Gram spent Sunday with relatives at Goodell.

E. G. Ell and family spent Sunday at the Ralph Elder home.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Luick of Goodell, were visiting in Klemme Monday.

Mrs. B. A. Reemstma was on the sick list a few days last week.

Mrs. H. Church, who was on the sick list last week, is again able to be out.

Herald Gruetzmacher of Iowa Falls spent Sunday with his folks here.

Ye Editor's mother and sister, of Garner, came Tuesday noon for a visit between trains.

HOUSE FOR SALE in Klemme. Inquire of Frank Kluckhohn, Garner, Iowa.

The Chris Blumer residence is going up full speed and he will soon be able to move in.

Mrs. Hod Lawhorn returned from Dubuque Monday. She has been visiting with her mother there, who is ill.

J. F. Ryan moved his household goods down from Garner last Thursday and Friday and will live in the Schaeffer Building.

Fred Etchen, who has been stationed at Camp Pike, Ark., returned to Klemme last Friday. Fred has received his discharge from the army.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS will meet Friday evening at the A. Kirkwood home. All members are requested to be present at this meeting.

Mrs C. M. Bredbenner is expected home from the hospital at Mason City the latter part of the week.

Ryan's Laundry Basket goes every Tuesday evening, back every Friday. adv.

Marlin Croner, who has been working with his gang of carpenters at Meservey the past week, spent Sunday in Klemme, returning to Meservey Monday evening.

The E. M. E. Aid Society met at the home of Mrs J. P. Larsen on Thursday of last week A good number were in attendance and all report a most enjoyable time.

R. F. Schneider, of Garner, was in Klemme Monday transacting business. Mr. Schneider was formerly the Editor of the Garner Democrat, but is now on the road as a salesman for the Le Mars Printing Co., of Mason City.

Wm. Werner moved his household goods to Garner last Friday and Saturday and will live in the J F. Ryan residence at Garner, having purchased the property of Mr. Ryan some time ago.

John Etchen, Levi Ridder, Harvey Stille and Ye Editor were passengers to Garner Saturday afternoon. The first three mentioned returned to Klemme on the evening train.

LOST OR ESTRAYED

Female Airdale disappeared from my place December 23rd. Markings: brownish yellow, black back, bobtailed. Reward for information leading to her recovery. Ralph Ludeke, Klemme.

NOTICE

I need MONEY. When you get your statement pay right up.
Dr. Geo. Zinn.

Don't forget that there is a dance at the Idle Hour Theatre in Klemme on every Friday night. Come and have a good time.

Notice to Pay Up!

All those who owe us must call and settle, this is the last notice, you can save yourself a lot of trouble by paying us now. Henry Lau & Son.

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed	1:35	p. m.
1069, Passenger	3:03	p. m.
435, Passenger	8:44	a. m.

South

436, Passenger	6:17	p. m.
1068, Passenger	11:25	a. m.
820, Freight	12:15	p. m.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis spent Sunday at the C. V. Marshall home.

Mrs. Henry Lewis was a Garner visitor Monday.

Mrs. Alvin Stokesberry is on the sick list this week.

The Henry Kieper children are on the sick list this week.

Clarence Bachman is again out after an attack of the flu.

Mrs. W. F. Pavey was numbered among those on the sick list last week.

Miss Schaver spent Sunday out of town.

Mrs. C. F. Keraus is visiting with her sister at Hayfield for a few days.

J. F. Ryan was a Garner caller between trains Monday afternoon.

Walter Berggren returned last Saturday from a several days business trip.

BOB SLED and Harness for sale. Inquire of E. S. Uben.

Martin Jensen is shelling his corn this week and has about 1800 bushels for his landlord's share.

C. W. Wiles received a shipment of four new Model 90 Overlands last Saturday. They are dandies.

Miss Lena Coobs left for Mason City Monday morning after spending a few days visiting at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. F. Pavey.

Paul Grange returned to Klemme Sunday morning from Camp Dodge, where he has been about a week awaiting his discharge from the army.

Philip Bock left Tuesday afternoon via Garner, for Waukeshaw, Wisconsin, to visit his brother William, who is in the hospital there.

Grandma Fuller left for her home at Dows Saturday after spending several weeks visiting with Mrs. Anna Fuller.

Carl Suckow began work Wednesday in the J. N. Day store as a clerk. He is taking the place vacated by Fred Kluckhohn, who has moved to a farm at Austin, Minnesota.

Floyd Ollenberg, of Garner, came last Wednesday to work in the E. G. Ell Garage. Floyd is an all around good mechanic and will be a valuable man at the grage for quick repairs and other skilled work.

Gene Van Housen returned to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station after about a month's furlough visiting Klemme relatives and friends. He was ordered to return to receive his discharge.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kirkwood left Monday evening for Montana. They have been visiting relatives and friends in Klemme and Goodell for about four weeks. They are cooking for a gang of telegraph line men out in the West.

Mrs. J. F. Ryan, of Garner, came Tuesday noon to Klemme. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan will live in the rooms in the Schaeffer Building At present their children are at Garner on the sick list, but will come as soon as they have recovered.

A. C. Lau bought 490 head of hogs last week from Tuesday until Saturday. He had 233 head of hogs in Chicago unsold Saturday and 248 head in the Klemme yards. The total amounted to $19,211.48. How is that for a week's business for one man in a town the size of Klemme?

Verner Lewis left Monday evening for Norfolk, Va., to take up his work in the Navy after a ten days' furlough spent with Klemme relatives and friends. Verner is on the U. S. S. Arkansas with a Gunner's Crew. He hopes soon to receive his discharge as he says it's not any fun now when they can't pot a few subs.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

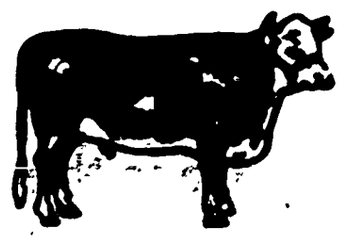
Epworth League Sunday night at 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7:30 p. m.

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

SPECIAL!



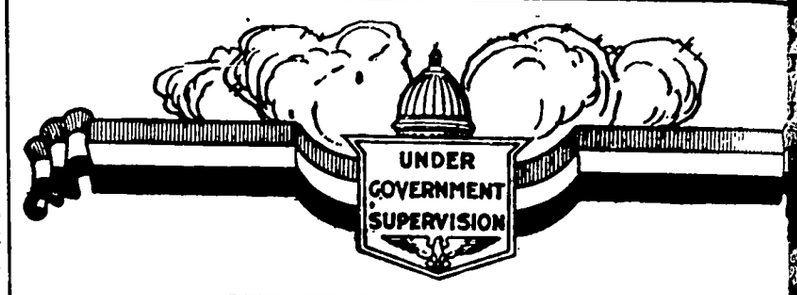
Choice

Home Killed Quarters

At

RIGHT PRICES

J. P. Larsen & Sons



CERTIFICATES OF DEPOSIT

An Ideal Short-time Investment

Our Certificates of Deposit are one of the m convenient forms of short-time investment there is.
They are issued in any amount from $1.00 u The return of interest is liberal. There is no collecti to look after; no registration tax to pay.
If your money is needed suddenly they are u questioned security for a loan.
These advantages, coupled with their safety a earning power, make them almost unequaled as lo investments.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Iowa

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16. Residence Phone No.

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.
All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly
Telephone No. 14

Coal.

Though wood and turf formed the fuel of our early ancestors, investigations have proved that the Britons, even prior to the Roman occupation, made use of coal. But as it was possible to utilize only such coal as lay at or near the surface, the practice did not make headway for many centuries.

"Pone."

Pone is a word of Indian deriv and an early English historian o ginia took pains to explain that it not from the Latin panis, me bread, but from the red Indian oppone, and it was early appli the south to any bread made of I corn.

KLEMME TIMES

LUME XXIII NUMBER 21 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, January 23 1919 | $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

UCKS GOING NORTH

Iowa winter is sure a freak of nature and is even fooling the ducks according to Oscar Hedrick, who is ...r brakeman on the "Klondike." Oscar will swear to the ...e saw a flock of wild ducks ... day and that they were ...ue north. Now Oscar is re... has worked on the Rock ...r a long time, but a person ...o see anything, even stars, ...ride on the "Klondike" and ...ay have seen cinders flying ... smoke stack of the engine, ... claims they were ducks and ... were wild ducks too. Oscar ...ful man and we will take his ... it.

Report of the Condition of FIRST NATIONAL BANK

...me, in the State of Iowa, at ... of business, Dec. 31, 1918.

RESOURCES

...d discounts	$261,302	67
...fts, unsecured.	31	67
...onds to secure circu...	25,000	00
...S bonds and certificates of indebt'ness owned and ...dged
... bonds, unpledged	2,250	00
...ecurities, etc. ..	4,632	40
...tion to stock of Fed...serve Bank.....	1,000	00
... house.....8,302.00
...e and fixture 2,700.00	11,002	00
...hecks on banks in ...city or town as re... bank	221	56
... money reserve ...deral Reserve bank:	15,894	41
... vault and net a...ts due from national	71,456	52
... earned but not col... (approximate)
... on banks outside of ...r town and other cash	1075	72
...vings Certificates & ...t Stamps owned	834	00
...tion fund with U ...asurer (5 per cent ...culation)	1,250	00
...l	$395,950	95

LIABILITIES

...stock paid in.....	25,000	00
... fund	10,000	00
...ded profits $1,178 43 ...rrent expen... interest and ... paid .....$	1,178	43
...t and discount col... but not earned
...ting notes outst'ding	24,495	00
...ual deposits subject ...ck...	93,659	53
... ficates of de... payable within 30	21,737	27
...cates of deposit (other ... for money borrowed)	219,880	72
...al - - - -	$395,950	95

...OF IOWA, } ss
...ock County, }

...A. Arnold, Cashier of the ...med bank, do solemnly swear ... above statement is true to ... of my knowledge and belief.

F. A. ARNOLD, Cashier.

...ibed and sworn to before me ...n day of Jan., 1919.

J. F. W. VREBA
Notary Public.

...Attest:
...UG. BARZ
... H. WEIGMANN } Directors
...UG. LAU

...ch Me For Coming Events

...LE HOUR
...ekly Program

...aturday, Jan. 25
...e Rae and Gretchen Lederer in
...he Silent Lady"
...re and Back" Comic
...l show. 15c and 25c

...nce Every Friday Night
... Third dance will be a
...QUARE DANCE

HARRY GIBBS HAS SUCCESSFUL SALE

Last Saturday Harry Gibbs held a closing out sale of his Short-Horn Stock and there were buyers from far and near. The sale went about $7,000.00, the top price paid for a single head was $400. Thirty-five head of cattle were sold at the sale. About seventeen head of shetland ponies were also disposed of at the sale

FLIES IN JANUARY

It may sound fishy, but we actually saw three perfectly lively flies last Sunday afternoon. The flies were nice big fat ones and evidently had enjoyed a very prosperous winter We have witnesses who will swear to the above fact.

HERE'S THE LATEST!

Corporal—"They've got a new name for the American soldiers in Europe."

Sergeant—"What's that?"

Corporal—"They call them 'Dutch Cleansers.'"

SALE DATES

D. I. MILLER—Monday, January 27.
MART BACHMAN—Friday, Feb'y 7
Wm. NUEHRING, SR., Wednesday, February 12th.

(The Times Print Shop prints the bills, get yours here.)

NOTICE

Applications will be received in the office of the County Auditor up until 12 o'clock noon, February 20th, 1919, for position as Steward and Stewardess of the Hancock County Home. Term commencing April 1st, 1919.

CHRIS JACOBS,
4w County Auditor.

BASKET SOCIAL

The young people of the English M. E. church will give a Box Social at the old Opera House next Friday evening, January 31st. Everybody invited to come and bring baskets. A good time assured.

DOG LOST!

LOST OR ESTRAYED—Female Airdale disappeared from my place December 23rd. Markings: brownish yellow, black back, bob-tailed. Reward for information leading to her recovery. Ralph Ludeke, Klemme, Ia.

SCHOOL NOTES

The school pupils have taken their first semester exams and are well pleased with the grades received..

The High School room is taking penmanship and are improving rap-

Mabel Beier was absent from school a few days last week on account of sickness.

Harry Butcher, a soldier who has recently returned from overseas, visited the high school Thursday afternoon.

Some of the pupils who were absent during the time of the semester exams, took them Thursday and Friday.

Earl Josten is pianist this week.

Hugh Strain was absent from school Monday.

Miss Shaver missed her train at Iowa Falls last Monday morning and did not arrive till evening.

Miss Warnock was home over Sunday.

Ralph Carolus is back at school after two weeks' absence.

The fifth grade are beginning the study of Asia.

Frank Gibbs was absent from school Tuesday on account of sickness

Vernon Turgasen was absent from school Monday.

Please Take Notice

On January 9th we published the list of slackers who failed to pay there allotment to the United War Work Campaign. We want to inform our readers that the name of Wm. Baack near the bottom of the list does not refer to Wm Baack of Klemme, but the man rsides in another part of the county. Don't accuse Wm. Baack of Klemme of being a slacker as he is innocent of the charge and has taken his allotments. The Editor.

GOODELL

Mrs. John Dominey was a Belmond caller Saturday.

E. P. Hubbard was a Garner caller Wednesday.

There are several cases of scarlet fever in town and in the country. They are all quarantined and the school and public places are closed for a few days.

Mrs. D. M. Conlan is still sick with the flu.

Fay Letch was operated on for appendicitis at the Hampton hospital and is getting along as well as can be expected.

Leona Cashman came home Tuesday from Iowa City.

Mrs. Christie and her son John were Garner callers Wednesday.

"Doc" Robbins is visiting friends here this week.

John Reed returned from Chicago Friday.

Iva Christie visited friends at Belmond Friday.

W. O. Butterfield is visiting relatives at Mason City.

Cal Thomas shipped his car load of sheep Saturday.

Dulcie Hughes and Lilly Finn who teach in Dows, spent the week end at home.

Bill Etchen of Ackley is spending a few days at the Geo. Platt home.

Theo. Frandson is enjoying a visit from his brother.

More Klemme Items

Dave Anderson went to Clear Lake on business Monday.

Jim Young, of Garner, was a business caller here Monday.

Joe Lawhorn, of Garner, was transacting business in Klemme Tuesday.

The C. L. Blumer residence is rapidly nearing completion.

Mr. Henry Wille was a passenger to Garner last Thursday morning.

Miss Warnock spent Sunday with her parents at Iowa Falls.

Miss Lottie Miller was a Garner visitor last Thursday.

Walter Yahnke was a visitor at Buffalo Center last Thursday.

Rev. Meyer drove over to Garner last Thursday in his car.

Fred Ridder was a business caller at Garner last Thursday.

Nick Ell was a business caller at Garner last Thursday.

Carl Suckow is now working in the J. N. Day Store.

Elmer Fuller was a business caller at Forest City Wednesday

Charles Gibbs returned to Big Lake Minn, after a few weeks visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

Billie Velau left last Thursday evening for Oklahoma for several weeks visit.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. John Velau yesterday morning.

Mrs Trumbal and daughter of Goodell were Klemme visitors yesterday

Dance at the Idle Hour Theatre every Friday night.

John and Fred Etchen drove over to Mason City Monday.

Miss Edna Smith was a passenger to Belmond Monday noon.

"Billy" Busch was on the sick list a couple of days the latter part of last week but is again able to be about.

Miss Mattie Luick, of Belmond, visited with Klemme friends last Thursday.

Dr. R. W. Schultz, of Garner, was a Klemme caller Tuesday between trains.

J. F. Ryan was a business caller at Miller between trains Tuesday afternoon.

J. B. Mack left for Meservey Tuesday noon to finish up a job of painting there.

Marlin Croner and gang of carpenters are working over at Meservey this week.

Mr. Fred Musfelt, daughter Miss Malinda, and son George, left Monday noon for Witt, Ill., being called there by the death of Mr. James Lanahan, who died of pneumonia. Mrs. Lanahan was formerly Miss Hattie Musfelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Musfelt.

You've got to hand it to our street commissioner, Charlie Keraus. About forty-leven times a day he gets after the crossings with his shovel and he generally succeeds in keeping the mud off them. It keeps him humping some but he sticks to it in fine shape.

What's become of all the loafing dogs that were in town a few weeks ago? Somebody must have applied the shotgun remedy to them. Good work, get the stray dogs out of the way.

IN FRANCE

By FRANCES B. LINSKY.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Jean was knitting sweaters for the soldiers.

"Everyone must do her bit," she said to her admiring family, as jacket after jacket was neatly folded and sent off to the local headquarters to be shipped to the "boys at the front."

On the particular day in question, Jean decided to go into the pine grove with her knitting.

"It will be cooler there," thought she, "and I'll call for Grace on my way. She'll probably be glad to come with me."

A little later the two girls were comfortably seated in the pine grove, each busy with her work.

"Grace, I've an idea," said Jean.

"Not really," said Grace.

"Yes, a real one," replied Jean, calmly ignoring the intended sarcasm. "And this is it. Haven't you ever heard of farmers who write their names on eggs when they pack them to ship to the city?"

"Why, yes," said Grace, "I have, but I don't see what that has to do with knitting sweaters for the soldiers."

"Well," said Jean. "I'd like to put a note inside one of the sweaters and send it to some poor fellow 'over there.'

"Why, Jean Wood, I think that's great," exclaimed Grace, getting into the spirit of the thing at once, "and I'll give you my Luck Piece to put in the letter. I've often heard that a lucky piece has stopped a bullet."

So Jean's needles flashed back and forth and dead silence reigned in the pine grove until the sweater was finished.

"Now for the letter," said Jean and with the stump of an old tree for her writing table, she wrote:

"I hope this sweater will keep you warm, and may the lucky piece bring good luck to 'someone—somewhere in France.'" And down in the corner she signed her name and address.

Some two months later, as the Wood family sat at breakfast, the postman came with the mail.

"Hello," said Mr. Wood, as he glanced over the pile which the letter carrier had handed him; "here's a very official letter for Jean," and he held up a blue envelope with "censored" stamped across its face. "It's from France, too," he said.

"Maybe Jean's got a feller in the trenches," remarked Bobby, to no one in particular.

"Somewhere in France" it was headed:

"Dear Jean Wood:—A very lonesome soldier boy is just one great big 'Thank You Ma'am' to you for the sweater, the letter and the lucky piece. If you would only write me once in a while, I tell you I'd appreciate it. It would seem like shaking hands with someone from 'back home.'

"I'm sending you a souvenir in exchange for the luck piece. It isn't much, but I made it while I was in the hospital here with a bad knee—so I hope you'll accept it with my compliments.

"I was afraid it might get smashed if I mailed it, so I gave it to my brother to take to you—he's been here on duty with the university medical unit, but he's gone home on a furlough. You'll see him soon.

"Gratefully, Max Norton."

Jean read the letter and re-read it, and then—went straight down stairs and told the whole story to her father.

"Well, little girl," said he when she had finished. "I don't know as it was a very wise thing to do—but I'll see this doctor man when he comes and until he does there's nothing to worry about." So pinching her cheek, he bade her "run along and tell Grace all about it," which she very promptly did.

He came, that very evening—a pleasant-voiced, very much tanned young man, looking every inch a soldier in his well-fitting uniform, and introducing himself as Dr. Robert Norton, he explained his errand to Mr. Wood, and asked for Jean.

Jean came forward, looking so sweet and girlish in her embarrassment, that as they shook hands, his lips said: "I am pleased to meet you," but his eyes were far more eloquent.

"I want to thank you for my brother, Miss Jean," said Doctor Norton, "and to give you this."

"This" proved to be a bird cage very cleverly made of thin sticks of wood carefully set together.

"Oh, how lovely," exclaimed Jean. "I shall hang it on a tree down in the pine grove as a reminder—of—"My Great Adventure," and, feeling her visitor's eyes upon her, she looked up and straight into them and smiled—and they were friends.

Months later, when young Doctor Norton sailed back to France to "complete his bit," he, too, carried a "Lucky Piece" in his pocket. A key it was—a very tiny key that Jean had given him.

"The key to my heart," she told him with shining eyes, as she bade him good-bye. "Keep it for your talisman."

Once more the Wood family was seated at breakfast.

"The papers are just full of stories about the soldiers," said Mrs. Wood, looking up from the page she was reading. "It tells of all the silly things that the girls here are doing to help the boys in France—sending them fudge and chewing gum—and even writing them letters. I wonder what kind of girl would do a thing like that."

"Why, Jean would," remarked Bobby to no one in particular.

SLAPS AT SLACKERS

By ALICE KILLIAN.

"No, I haven't done any knitting yet, but I'm going to soon. You see, I've been so dreadfully busy with other patriotic service. One can't do everything at once, can one? I shall begin with knitting socks. I don't s... why people waste time on scarfs ... sweaters when socks are so much needed.

"I shall make socks with gay colored tops. Bright colors aid the morale, I'm sure. It would be a terrible thing to have our soldiers barefoot just because the women aren't alive to the necessity of knitting enough stocks. I think I'll make a little speech at our Red Cross auxiliary on 'Swelling the Sock Supply.'

"You see, that's one of my ways of helping. I'm a voluntary speaker at the Red Cross auxiliaries. I was talking to a surgical dressings group yesterday on 'Folding for France.' I know that I inspired the workers with new zeal, for when I had finished talking one of the women said to me, 'Why don't you stay and help us yourself? You have made us all feel that we need every worker we can get.' I had to explain that other duties called.

"No, I haven't done much in surgical dressings yet. I find it makes me nervous. Many people really like to fold gauze. I think they should be unremitting in their work. How terrible it would be if any of our brave boys should suffer just because women at home don't realize the need for countless pads, sponges and compresses. Something should be done to spur them on to greater efforts. I think I shall have to do more speaking, although just now it will be hard for me to give up any more time, because I am taking golf lessons.

"I don't know why you should look surprised, I might almost say shocked, at the mere mention of golf. We all know that the health of the nation is a large part of its wealth. I consider it a patriotic duty to get plenty of fresh air and exercise.

"Gardening? Well, of course, one does get fresh air and exercise spading and hoeing, but I don't think they have the same effect on the physique that outdoor sports have. Do you? I have observed that farmers and market gardeners don't have the same bright complexions and free carriage that golf and tennis players acquire. However, I believe thoroughly in patriotic gardens, and I shall further them all I can by speaking. I think I shall call my little talk 'Seeding for Safety.' Don't you like that? It will be frightful if we don't have food for our allies just because people are asleep.

"Then there's the preserving of vegetables and fruits.

"No, I don't do it myself, for I can't stand the heat of a stove in summer, but last year I had my maid do a great deal of canning. As it happened, most of the things she put up spoiled. She is not clever at following written directions, and I was not able to be in the kitchen much myself. However, I feel that we made our start and this season she will profit by last year's experience.

"I suppose you're buying war savings stamps? I'm intensely interested in their sale. It would be a fearful thing if the men, women and children of this country did not respond to the call of the government for funds to push the war. People should buy to the limit.

"No, I haven't bought to the $1,000 limit myself yet, as I have a great many expenses connected with my war work. One is asked to give in so many directions, and then, of course, going about speaking as I do requires correct clothes, and in bad weather my taxi fares are really quite an item.

"I do wish you would come to hear me speak on 'Stamping Out Sedition' and 'Bonds Are Bombs.' I'm quite sure that if you could hear either speech you would feel that you must lend every dollar you can possibly spare to Uncle Sam. A woman said to me the other day that after hearing me urge economy she quite understood why so very few people were buying spring suits this season. She looked right at my new broadcloth, which is plain but very handsome. I think she realized that I had been patriotic in my selection of a suit, for it is true economy to buy good material.

"Sometimes I am perfectly aghast at the numbers of slackers there are who do nothing to help win the war. I shou... t... ink ... ople would be asha... ed not to do their part in this tremendous struggle. Indeed, I am so much exercised about the apathy of nonworkers I know, who neither knit, sew, conserve food nor save for the nation, that I am getting up a little speech called 'Slaps for Slackers.' I do hope you will come to hear it."

Age and Youth.

The older man who remembers a younger whom he has once met and greets him on the street is an exceptional person. And the younger man who, on being thus remembered and greeted, feels neither pleasure nor gratitude, is an exceptional person. If the deferential respect of the young is gratifying to the elderly, the notice and the interest of the elderly are stimulating to the young, observes a writer in Youth's Companion. To think of each person whom you meet as an individual, however young he may be, to try to discover in what ways he is individual, and to charge the memory with the impression of him—those should be regarded as social obligations by people who have attained middle age and who with it should have acquired some degree of wisdom and of interest in the humankind.

ALL PREPARED FOR MEASLES

Indianapolis Newspaper Treats Advent of Disease as Something of Which to Make a Jest.

Have you had the measles yet? Well, just be patient. It is only a matter of time.

A physician was asked how he accounted for the great number of cases of measles this year, and he smiled and said that the old germs were all frozen during the very cold weather and that they were trying out the new supply. Professional men have such charming manners, which invariably accompany those evasive answers. One never knows whether they are afraid of disclosing state secrets or whether the sweet smile and graceful bow are serving in an armorial capacity.

So, if you awaken some morning and your forehead is a mass of little patches of carmine and your throat feels dry and your head feels hot, don't be alarmed. It simply means that you have been chosen to become a member of the Ancient Accepted Order of Measlelites, and that the initiation has begun. A five days' vacation is about to be thrust on you, which you will enjoy, more or less, probably less, particularly if you have the "Hun" variety, which is as treacherous as the name implies.

Of course, if you are pressed for time, there is a 24-hour kind which is very good. It has all the appearances of the genuine article without any of the disagreeable features. The doctors call it "Duke's disease," but it belongs to the measle family, and you will be perfectly safe (and considerably more comfortable) in selecting that kind.—Indianapolis News.

PROOF THAT WORLD MOVES

Simple Little Experiment Will Convince the Skeptical of Fact Pretty Generally Conceded.

Take a good sized bowl, fill it nearly full of water and place it upon the floor of a room which is not exposed to shaking or jarring from the street. Sprinkle over the surface of the water, a coating of lycopodium powder. Then upon the surface of this coating of powder make, with powdered charcoal, a straight black line, say, an inch or two in length.

Having made this little mark with the charcoal powder on the surface of the contents of the bowl, lay upon the floor close to the bowl a stick or some other straight object, so that it will be exactly parallel with the mark. If the line happens to be parallel with a crack in the floor or with any stationary object in the room, this will serve as well.

Leave the bowl undisturbed for a few hours and then observe the position of the black mark with reference to the object with which it was parallel. It will be found to have moved in the direction opposite to the movement of the earth on its axis. The earth in simply revolving has carried the water and everything else in the bowl around with it, but the powder on the surface has been left behind a little.

The line will always be found to have moved from east to west, which is perfectly good proof that everything else has moved the other way.

Wanted Information.

While I was upstairs, our little Elizabeth called that the cat wanted to get outdoors because she had been teasing him. I replied: "I will be down in a minute and let him out, but don't tickle him in the meantime." When I got down she had been looking him all over, and said: "Daddy, where is his meantime?"—Chicago Examiner.

HUSBAND SAVES WIFE

From Suffering by Getting Her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"For many months I was not able to do my work owing to a weakness which caused backache and headaches. A friend called my attention to one of your newspaper advertisements and immediately my husband bought three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for me. After taking two bottles I felt fine and my troubles caused by that weakness are a thing of the past. All women who suffer as I did should try Lydia E. Pinkham Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. JA ROHRBERG, 620 Knapp St., N. S., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Women who suffer from any form of weakness, as indicated by displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, backache, headaches, nervousness or "the blues," should accept Mrs. Rohrberg's suggestion and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a thorough trial.

For over forty years it has been correcting such ailments. If you have mysterious complications write for advice to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Cuticura For Baby's Itchy Skin

All druggists; Soap 25, Ointment 25 and 50, Talcum 25. Sample each free of "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."

HIDES TANNED

We make horse and cattle hides into warm Fur Coats, Robes, Mitts, Caps, Furs, etc. We refine and fur old fur coats.

Highest Price Paid for Hides
Write for Catalog and Tags
SIOUX CITY ROBE & TANNING CO.
Sioux City, Iowa

Every Car Has Our Personal Attention

Acme Hay & Millfeed Co.

Receivers and Shippers of
Flour, Mill Feeds, Tankage, Potatoes
Wholesale and Retail
All Kinds of Hay and Straw
901-303 Pearl St. Sioux City, Iowa

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

BIT OF UNPUBLISHED HISTORY

Old Man Surely Looked With Prophetic Eye Into the Future of "Holy Russia."

Czar Alexander of Russia was driving in Moscow in his bombproof carriage and was endeavoring to put out a fire in his coat tail pocket which had been caused when one of his faithful subjects had slipped an infernal machine into it.

An aged man of Semitic cast stood at the curb and laughed at the czar's plight.

The czar was wroth and stopped his carriage.

"Why are you laughing, you poor old fish?" he asked.

"I am laughing because while your family rules Russia now mine will rule in the near future," replied the old man.

It was an omen. Alexander dropped back into the carriage seat pale and trembling. "Who are you, my man?" he asked.

"Ha ha!" shouted the old party. "I am the great grandfather of Leon Trotzky."

A Good One.

"Did you make any New Year's resolutions?"

"Yes, one not to make any."

A train of thoughts is the real thing in rapid transit.

Save Sugar by eating Grape-Nuts as your cereal dish

This standard food needs no added sweetening for it is rich in its own sugar, developed from wheat and barley by the special Grape-Nuts process of cooking.

"There's a Reason"

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

CHAPTER SIX — (Continued.)

"Yes, indeed," Mrs. Frothingham rattled on, "and I said to our dear Count, 'We must run over at once there may be something we can do for the saddened ones.'

"Thank you," and had a marble statue been given vocal powers the effect would have been much the same.

"Dear friend," continued the unabashed visitor, "I know how overcome you must be——"

"I am not overcome at all," said Pauline, rising, and determined to hear no more, "and I must beg to be excused, Mrs. Frothingham, as I have many matters to attend to this morning."

"Ah, yes, of course you have. We will not detain you. The Count and I merely called for a moment to inquire——"

"Yes, I quite understand. Miss Frayne will be pleased to answer your inquiries. Thank you both, and good morning."

With a polite but distant bow Pauline left the room; and, as Count Charlier sprang to hold the door open for her, he after a moment's hesitation followed her out.

"A moment, I beg, Miss Stuart," he said as they reached the hall. "You are offended at Mrs. Frothingham's intrusion, but have I not a right to call? Was I not such a friend of Miss Carrington as to justify this tribute of respect to her memory?"

"Certainly, Count," and Pauline grew a shade kinder, "but I am not sufficiently acquainted with your friend to receive her visits."

"Ah, no. That is conceded. But, I pray you, tell me of the sad affair. I have heard no details. That is, unless you would rather not."

"No, I am not unwilling. You were a good friend of Aunt Lucy's—she was fond of you, and I am glad to talk to some one. Let us sit here." Pauline indicated a recessed seat in the hall and the pair sat there. She recounted briefly the story of the tragedy and the Count was duly sympathetic. Pauline watched him closely, and discerned great interest but little grief or sorrow.

"A burglar, of course," said the Count hearing of the cruel weapon. "How could anyone attack the charming lady! And the marvelous jewels she wore! They were, of course, stolen?"

"No; that's the strange part. They were not."

"Ah, how splendid!" and his absorbed air of satisfaction gave Pauline a thrill of disgust at his cold bloodedness. "And now they are all yours? Those magnificent gems?"

"The property, most of it, is divided between my cousin and myself."

"Your cousin? Mr. Haviland?"

"No; he is a distant connection. I mean my first cousin, Mr. Loria, now in Egypt."

"Ah, yes, I have heard Miss Carrington refer to him. He will come home?"

"I do not know. We have cabled, of course. Count Charlier, do you remember hearing my aunt say last evening that she expected something to happen to her?"

"I remember, Miss Stuart."

"Have you any idea what she meant?"

"I? But how could I know?"

"Answer my question, please."

The Count's eyes fell, and he shifted his feet about uneasily. At last he said: "It is not pleasant to say such things, but, since you ask, I may be permitted to assume that the late Miss Carrington had a regard for my humble self."

"And she expected, she—hoped that her regard might be returned?"

"It may be so."

"And that last night you might tell her so?"

"You honor me."

"Did you tell her so?"

"I did not, Miss Stuart. What might have happened had she lived I cannot say, but I did not last evening say any word to Miss Carrington of my aspiration to her hand."

"Did you say anything that could have been taken as a hint that some time—say, in the near future—you might express such an aspiration?"

"I may have done so."

"Thank you, Count Charlier. I had perhaps no right to ask, but you have answered my rather impertinent questions straightforwardly, and I thank you."

Pauline rose, as if to end the interview. In the doorway appeared Anita. "Pauline," she said, "I wish you would come back and listen to Mrs. Frothingham's story. It seems to me of decided importance."

"You have something to tell me?" asked Pauline, returning to the library and looking at the unwelcome neighbor with patient tolerance.

"Yes, Miss Stuart. Now, it may be nothing—nothing, I mean, of consequence, that is, you may not think so, but I——"

"Suppose you let me hear it and judge for myself."

"Yes. Well, it's only this: I was wakeful last night, or rather early this morning, and looking from my bedroom window, which faces this house, I saw a man climb out of a window on the first floor and skulk away among the shrubbery."

"At what time was this?" and Pauline looked interested at last.

"About 4 o'clock. He was to all appearances a burglar——"

"How could you tell? Was it not dark at that hour in the morning?"

"No; the moon is past full, you know, and it shone brightly in the western sky."

"Enough for you to discern the man clearly?"

"I took a field glass to assist my vision. He stealthily climbed out and, skirting the bushes, made his way swiftly toward the great gates."

"This is indeed an important bit of information, Mrs. Frothingham, I dare say you ought to tell it to the police who are here."

"Oh, I couldn't! I'm so timid about such things! But, if you would go with me, Miss Stuart—"

"Miss Frayne will go with you," said Pauline, coolly. "You will find a policeman in the hall who will direct you where to find the inspector."

Without another word Pauline bowed in a way to include the lady and the Count also, and went away to her room.

"Stuck up thing!" exclaimed Mrs. Frothingham, and Anita nodded her golden head in agreement.

Inspector Brunt instructed Hardy to hear the story of Mrs. Frothingham, and he devoted his own attention to Count Charlier, of whom he had heard as being a friend of Miss Carrington's.

He quizzed the Frenchman rather pointedly as to his friendship with the unfortunate lady and the Count became decidedly ill at ease.

"Why do you ask me so much?" he objected, "I was a friend, yes; I may have aspired to a nearer relation, yes? That is no crime?"

"Not at all, Count," said Mr. Brunt; "I only want to find out if Miss Carrington's strange reference to something about to happen to her could have had any reference to you."

"It might be so; I cannot say. But all that has no bearing on the poor lady's death."

"No. At what time did you go away from here, Count Charlier?"

"At about midnight."

"You went directly home?"

"To Mrs. Frothingham's, where I am a house guest, yes."

"And you retired?"

"Yes."

"And remained in your bed till morning?"

"But of a certainty, yes! What are you implying? That I had a hand in this affair?"

"No, no; be calm, my dear sir. I ask you but one question: Is this your glove?"

The inspector took the glove from his pocket and offered it to the Count.

The Frenchman took it, examined it minutely and without haste.

"No, sir," he said, returning it; "that is not my property."

"Thank you, that is all," and the inspector put the glove back in his pocket.

"There is no doubt as to the main facts," said the inspector a half hour later as, with the members of the family, he summed up what had been found out from all known sources. "The assailant was most certainly a burglarious intruder; the weapon, this 'blackjack'; the motive, robbery. Why the robbery was not achieved, and what is the meaning of the unexplained circumstances of the whole affair, we do not yet know. They are matters to be investigated, but they cannot greatly affect the principal conditions. You may be thankful, Miss Stuart, that the sad death of your aunt was undoubtedly painless; and also that the thief did not succeed in his attempt to purloin the valuable gems."

The inspector's speech might seem cold hearted, but Brunt was a practical man, and he was truly glad for himself that in addition to finding the murderer he did not also have to recover a fortune of rare jewels.

"Now," he went on, "as to the maid, Estelle. I have talked with her, but she is so hysterical and her stories so contradictory that I am inclined to the opinion that she has some sort of guilty knowledge or at least suspicion of the intruder. The man was stocking footed, and it is a pity, Miss Stuart, that you erased the footprint on the floor. But it would have been of doubtful use, I dare say. We have found faint tracks of the powder on the steps of the staircase, and though the last ones are almost indiscernible they seem to lead through the butler's pantry and to an exit by that window. But the window was found fastened this morning, so, if it was used as a means for the burglar's getaway, it must have been fastened afterward by some person inside. Could this person have been the maid, Estelle?"

"Sure it could!" exclaimed Haviland, who was an interested listener. "That girl is a sly one. I caught her this morning trying to take away that glass of milk. I told her to let it alone."

"Why?" asked the inspector.

"Because I thought if she wanted to get it away there must be some reason for her to want it. What was it?"

"Nonsense!" and Anita looked scornfully at Gray; "naturally Estelle would do up the rooms and would, of course, remove the remains of Miss Lucy's night luncheon."

"But that's just it!" said Haviland triumphantly; "she didn't take the plate that had had sandwiches on it! If she had I should have thought nothing of it. But she took the glass of milk in a furtive, stealthy way that made me look at her. She turned red and trembled, and I told her to set the glass down. She pretended not to hear, so I told her again. Then she obeyed. But she glared at me like a tigress."

"Oh, rubbish!" said Anita. "She was annoyed at being interfered with in her work, and perhaps fearful of being censured."

"All right," said Haviland, "then there's no harm done. If that girl is entirely innocent what I said won't hurt her. But she looked to me as if on a secret errand and a desperate one."

"What puzzles me is," mused the inspector, "why she persists in saying that she left the tray in good order in the room—though it was discovered an hour later upset—when we know that Miss Carrington had been dead since, at least, 2 or 3 o'clock."

"Look here, inspector," and Haviland frowned, "if the murder was committed at 2 or 3 o'clock, how is it that Mrs. Frothingham saw the intruder escaping at 4 or later?"

"There is a discrepancy there," admitted Brunt, "but it may be explained away. The doctors cannot be sure until the autopsy is completed of the exact hour of death, and, too, the lady next door may have made an error in time."

"Well, I'll inform you that Estelle did upset that tray herself," said Pauline with an air of finality.

"How do you know?" and Inspector Brunt peered at her over his glasses.

"It was while Gray was telephoning for the doctor," said Pauline reminiscently, "that I looked carefully at that overturned tray."

"I know it," said Haviland, "I told you not to touch anything."

"I know that, but I did. I picked up, from the debris, this," and Pauline held up to view a tiny hairpin of the sort called "invisible."

"It is Estelle's," she said; "see, it is the glistening bronze color of her hair. Anita has gold colored ones, and I do not use these fine wire ones; I use only shell. Moreover, I know this is Estelle's. Don't you, Anita?"

"It may be."

"It is. And its presence there, on the tray, proves that she let the tray fall in her surprise at seeing Aunt Lucy, and in her trembling excitement loosened and dropped this hairpin. Doubtless she flung her hand up to her head—a not unusual gesture of hers—and so dislodged it."

Brunt looked closely at the speaker. "You've got it all fixed up, haven't you, Miss Stuart?'"

Pauline flushed slightly. I didn't 'fix it up,' as you call it, but I did gather, from what I saw, that the truth must be as I have stated; and, in my anxiety to learn anything possible as to the mystery of this crime, I secured what may or may not be a bit of evidence. As Mr. Haviland has said, if Estelle is entirely innocent of any complicity in the matter, these things can't hurt her. But it would scarcely be possible for her to have been so careless as to drop a hairpin on the tray without noticing it, if she were not startled and flurried by something that took her mind and eyes entirely away from her duties."

"I think you are purposely making a great deal out of nothing," remarked Anita; "it seems unfair, to say the least, to condemn the poor girl on such trifling evidence."

The talk was interrupted by the entrance of the coroner and the two doctors.

"It is found," said Coroner Scofield, "that the cause of Miss Carrington's death was not the blow on the head."

The inspector looked his amazement, and the others sat with receptively blank countenances waiting further disclosures.

"No," went on Scofield, "we find in the stomach unmistakable traces of poison."

"Poison!" It was Anita's frightened whisper; "who would poison her?"

"What kind of poison?" asked Brunt.

"Aconitine, deadly and sure. It leaves little trace, but certain tests reveal it beyond all doubt. That is why we have been so long. The tests are difficult of performance. But it is over and we report that Miss Lucy Carrington was poisoned by aconitine, administered either by her own hand or another."

"Oh, she never would poison herself!" cried Anita; "who did it?"

"And the blow on the head?" said Inspector Brunt looking deeply perplexed.

"Her death, from poison, occurred at or near 2 o'clock," asserted the coroner; "the blow on the head was given after life had departed."

"Incredible!" said Brunt.

"It is, indeed, inspector. But those are the facts. The heavy blow fractured the skull, but left no bruise or mark, nor was there any blood from the cut scalp. In addition we have the poison found in the system, and the death symptoms of quiet, placid dissolution which are consequent always on that particular poison."

"Could it have been self administered?" asked Brunt.

"Not by Miss Carrington," said Dr. Stanton decidedly. "The lady had been my patient for years, and she had an absolute abhorrence of all sorts of drugs or medicines. She made more fuss over taking a simple powder than a spoiled child. I have often prescribed for her knowing full well she would not take my prescriptions because of her detestation of taking medicine. When remedies have been really necessary I have had to administer them while with her, and a difficult task it was. Moreover, my patient was not of the temperament or disposition to seek death for herself, nor had she any reason to do so. No; the case is murder; the poison was administered by some one who wished for her death and deliberately set out to accomplish it—and succeeded."

"Is the action of this poison instantaneous?" asked Brunt.

"No; death ensues about a half hour to an hour after the dose is taken into the system."

"Then, we gather that the poison was taken in the neighborhood of 1 o'clock this morning."

"Yes," agreed the coroner, "about 1 o'clock."

"About 1 o'clock!" whispered Anita in an awe struck, gasping way, and her great blue eyes stared dazedly into the dark ones of Pauline.

(Continued Next Week.)

The congressional practice of "log rolling" is explained by a congressman to mean that "congressmen who were influenced are able to procure appropriations for postoffices and other buildings for cities not deserving." The congressman illustrated by naming the postoffice at Bar Harbor.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels needs a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

With Trimmings.

Said the almost philosopher: "After all, a man is more greedy than a woman. He always wants a barrel of money, while a woman is well pleased with a hatful."

$100 Reward, $100

Catarrh is a local disease greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. It therefore requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE destroys the foundation of the disease, gives the patient strength by improving the general health and assists nature in doing its work. $100.00 for any case of Catarrh that HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE fails to cure.
Druggists 75c. Testimonials free.
F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

The brand of popularity that one can buy isn't worth the price.

Weekly Health Talks

What Doctor Pierce Has Done for Humanity.

BY DOCTOR CRIPPS.

It has always seemed to me that Dr Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., should be placed near the top when a list of America's great benefactors is written. He studied and conquered human diseases to a degree that few realize. Whenever he found a remedy that overcame disease, he at once announced it in the newspapers and told where it could be bought at a small price. He did not follow the usual custom of keeping the ingredients secret, so that the rich only could afford to buy the medicine, but openly printed the name of each root and herb he used. And so today the names of Dr. Pierce and his medicines are widely known, and they stand for better health and better citizenship.

One of this great physician's most successful remedies is known as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These are little, sugar-coated pills, composed of Mayapple, leaves of aloe, root of jalap—things that Nature grows in the ground. These Pellets are safe because they move the bowels gently, leaving no bad after-effects, as so many pills do. Very often they make a person who takes them feel like a new man or woman, for they cleanse the intestines of hard, decayed and poisonous matter that accumulates when one is costive. If you are constipated, by all means go to your druggist and get some of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They may prove to be the very thing your system requires to make you well and happy.

O. K. Non-Freezable
Waterer for Horses
Cattle, Hogs and Chickens
Enquire of your dealer or write
THE PHILIP BERNARD CO.
3000 Floyd Ave. Sioux City, Ia.

KODAKS Films and Photo Supplies
Finishing for Amateurs
Enlarging
Prices on application
ZIMMERMAN BROS., EASTMAN KODAK CO.
806 Pierce St., Sioux City, Iowa

Deep-Seated Colds
develop serious complications if neglected. Use an old and time-tried remedy that has given satisfaction for more than fifty years

PISO'S

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy.

Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp. —Danderine is, we believe, the only pure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once. If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this. Adv.

Willing to Do It.

Teacher—Georgie, can you give me a long sentence?

Georgie—No, sir, but I would like to.

STOMACH UPSET?

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN AT ONCE ENDS SOURNESS, GASES, ACIDITY, INDIGESTION.

Lumps of undigested food causing pain. When your stomach is acid, gassy, sour or you have heartburn, flatulence, headache or dyspepsia, here is instant relief—No waiting!

Don't stay upset! Eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin and instantly your stomach feels fine. All the indigestion, pain, gases, acidity and misery in the stomach ends.

Pape's Diapepsin tablets cost little at any drug store but there is no surer or quicker stomach relief known. Adv.

If a good makeup were the only thing necessary to success, nearly every woman would be a great actress.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use for Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Some men do some mighty queer stunts for the purpose of keeping their names before the public.

Cuticura Soothes Itching Scalp

On retiring gently rub spots of dandruff and itching with Cuticura Ointment. Next morning shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Make them your every-day toilet preparations and have a clear skin and soft, white hands.—Adv.

"Nothing is certain," as the fisherman said when he found it on his hook.

SEE CANADA LANDS

Inspection of Choice Farm Acres Will Be Profitable.

Cost Only a Trifle Compared to Possible Benefit to Be Derived—"Ye Happy Fields, Unknown to Noise and Strife, The Kind Rewarders of Industrial Life"—John Gay.

There are thousands today looking for farms to buy, and with the hundreds of thousands of acres offered for sale, there is no lack of opportunities. But there are all classes of lands, good, bad, and indifferent, much of each. The government of the Dominion of Canada has no land for sale, but within the boundaries of the Dominion there are unlimited acres of choice land owned by railway and land companies and private individuals. It holds no brief for any, nor are any of them clients. But it is to the interest of the Dominion to have the hundreds of thousands of acres placed under cultivation, for every acre thus cultivated adds to the revenue which helps pay the government of the country. It is with the purpose of setting forth the agricultural advantages that Canada, especially Western Canada, possesses, that attention is drawn to the fact. The purpose is to place before the reader truthful statements, and advise the prospective settler as to the necessity to investigate and inspect, leaving to his own deduction the matter of his selection. Once he decides, the government will render him any further information necessary as to location, prices and value of land, and assist him in every way possible to become settled.

The cost of a trip to Western Canada, to any portion of the three provinces—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta—specially indicated in this work, is but a trifle compared with the benefits that a personal inspection may give. Therefore the advice is to do so. Low rates on railways will be arranged and every opportunity afforded for giving the country a thorough and careful examination. It may be that you wish an improved farm, all ready for occupation and cultivation; you may want raw prairie, which only requires plowing and the other preparation necessary for a seed bed, leaving it to yourself to erect your buildings, sink your well, prepare your garden, and ascertain how close you are to school, church, town and market. You may wish to go into mixed farming, combining the raising of stock with the growing of grain. In this case you will look out for some shelter from sun, wind and storm, and want a farm a portion of which may be cultivated for grain, and pasture fields connected with it. You may make this out of the open level prairie, but you will do better to secure a partially wooded lot, where water and pasture are already at hand. You may wish to go into the raising of cattle, or sheep alone; then you will care less for the open prairie, but select something that may cost you less in the more northerly districts. No matter what you may want, unless it be land upon which to grow cotton, bananas or other tropical or semi-tropical products, your inspection trip will reveal to you that Western Canada possesses possibilities beyond which any literature you may read advises you.—Advertisement.

Hark!

A combination of telephone, microphone and phonograph has been invented in France for transmitting sounds to distant points or to several points at once.

Lives 200 Years!

For more than 200 years, Haarlem Oil, the famous national remedy of Holland, has been recognized as an infallible relief from all forms of kidney and bladder disorders. Its very age is proof that it must have unusual merit.

If you are troubled with pains or aches in the back, feel tired in the morning, headaches, indigestion, insomnia, painful or too frequent passage of urine, irritation or stone in the bladder, you will almost certainly find relief in GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. This is the good old remedy that has stood the test for hundreds of years, prepared in the proper quantity and convenient form to take. It is imported direct from Holland laboratories, and you can get it at any drug store. It is a standard, old-time home remedy and needs no introduction. Each capsule contains one dose of five drops and is pleasant and easy to take. They will quickly relieve those stiffened joints, that backache, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gall stones, gravel, "brick dust," etc. Your money promptly refunded if they do not relieve you. But be sure to get the genuine GOLD MEDAL brand. In boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

Judging Materials.

When buying woolen materials hold them up to the light and look through them; the best qualities are free from uneven and broken threads.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off. Adv.

The man who does the least talking often has the most to say.

When Your Eyes Need Care Try Murine Eye Remedy

No Smarting—Just Eye Comfort. 60 cents at Druggists or mail. Write for Free Eye Book. MURINE EYE REMEDY CO., CHICAGO

NEW YORK SCARED BY LONE BEAR CUB

One man Dies of Heart Failure when Mollie Gets Loose and Wanders About City.

From the New Yord World.

A little black bear cub named Mollie, only 1 year old and 100 pounds or so in weight, with a reputation for tameness gained in an estimable career as mascot of the 22nd infantry and inmate of the Central Park menagerie, got loose for two hours in the park yesterday morning and crowded enough excitement into that short period to last a lifetime.

Tragedy, melodrama and comedy—all these divisions of drama—were mingled in Mollie's great adventure. If it were not for the tragic part of it, the narrative of Mollie's two hours of freedom would read like a moving picture comedy. But it caused the death of Louis Seeboldt, the aged keeper responsible for the escape, who dropped dead of heart failure during the excitement.

For the rest, she bit a soldier and a policeman, knocked down a yelling infant who will never have any faith in Teddy bears again, scared scores of children and nursemaids, entertained hundreds of other persons who were more curious than afraid, led police soldiers and sailors a crazy chase through the southern end of the park, wandered for a few minutes in the traffic of Fifty-ninth street, went back to the park, climbed trees, was run over by an auto, jumped right up and climbed a dozen other trees, and was finally captured after a thrilling fight with a police captain and a sailor on the shaky limb of a tree 50 feet from the ground.

Failed to Lock the Gate.

The cause of Mollie's escape, which she made at 10:10 o'clock, was the failure of the keeper to lock the gate when he went in to clean her cage. She just walked around him, pushed the door open with her nose, and went out for a little stroll in the park. It was Thanksgiving day, lots of folk were out, and Mollie felt sociable. She undoubtedly had the best intentions in the world, but nobody gave her credit for them.

Mollie at once pointed her nose for Broadway and proceeded to follow it. She roamed around for a few minutes before her escape was discovered by Seeboldt. When the keeper finally started in pursuit she had evidently become frightened by the attitude of the persons in the park. Some ran away screaming and shrieking, and others ran up close to look at her and yelled loudly to one another. A few made ineffectual efforts to catch her.

Then Mollie began to show what a bear can do when it comes to going from some place to some place else. She ran faster and faster for the southern boundary of the park, dodging automobiles and baby carriages. Seeboldt ran after her as fast as he could, but he was 60 and soon got tired.

Soldiers Joined in Chase.

A few hundred feet from the entrance at 59th street and Sixth avenue there is a little encampment of the 71st Engineers Searchlight Corps, with four or five khaki tents on a knoll above the duck pond. Some of the soldiers joined in the chase. They said later that they suddenly saw the bear leap to the top of a big rock, pause a omment and then run on. Right behind her came Seeboldt.

The keeper also paused a moment atop the big rock. But he did not go on. The soldiers saw him topple over backward. An ambulance was called, and Dr. Harlen and Dr. William D. Sloane both attended him, but the keeper died within a few minutes.

Meantime, with soldiers still pursuing, Mollie ran out into Fifty-ninth street. Men at breakfast in the New York Athletic Club, looking from the windows, saw her run in their direction, then suddenly swerved back into the park.

She Won Wrestling Match

Just inside the park she ran directly at a soldier named Michael Griffin. He tackled her and tusled with her for a few minutes. But she got away and left the soldier with a torn hand.

By this time mounted policemen had joined the chase.

The police chased Mollie to the west side of the duck pond, where she climbed her first tree. From that time until she was caught in a tree on the Sixty-fifth street Transverse road not far from where she had started, she kept on climbing trees, sliding down trees, running through crowds and dodging autos.

Every time Mollie climbed a tree Captain Bourke climbed also. The captain is a veteran, but is as hard as a rock, and is strong as a bull. In the Spanish-American war he was a chief gunner's mate, but in all his pictures career he never had a more exciting time than Mollie gave him.

His Bluff Scared Her.

He climbed one tree to a limb 75 feet above the ground, when Mollie turned and made for him. They swayed in the air, with nothing between the captain and death but his nerve. He remembered, he says, that the best thing to do when an animal attacks you is to put up a bold front. So he thrust out his jaw and jumped at Mollie—and Mollie backed away. She slid down the tree. Bourke's men were waiting for her, but she slipped away from them. A bear cub in such circumstances is something like a greased pig.

The police had a long rope and the captain decided to lasso Mollie. He failed to do this in several trees, but finally cornered her in a high tree. Mollie got out as far as she could at the end of the branch and the captain followed with his rope.

Mollie was still full of fight and made three swipes at Captain Bourke, but he warded off the paw with his buckskin gloves and was not cut. Then he beat her back with the rope.

Even then Mollie had the better of the situation, for she was above the captain, who could not get the noose over her head. But a sailor climbed the tree and got out on the limb over the captain. The captain passed the rope up to the sailor, who made six or seven vain attempts to lasso the bear. Then Bourke broke off a branch and called to the sailor to drop the noose again. The sailor did, and this time Bourke caught it with the branch and shoved it over Mollie's head.

Mollie was a caught bear then, for the sailor drew the noose tight, and he and Bourke lowered her to the ground with the rope. She still had a fight left in her, though, for the first thing she did was to bite Patrolman Copeland in the right calf. He was attended by Dr. Coffrell, of the Presbyterian hospital, and remained on his post.

They led Mollie over to her cage then and locked her up.

GOOD TEETH AND HEALTH.

In 1917 Prof.. O. T. Osborne, of Yale, told the American Medical association that a certain public tuberculosis institution, of which he was an officer, had examined the mouths, corrected the teeth, and removed the sources of infection of every patient entering the institution. He said:

"Owing to this preventive treatment we have had less tonsilitis, fever, sore throats, less indigestion, and less influenza and colds than we had before we began these mouth investigations."

As striking as was this statement, it was no more than others made by the Yale professor.

"I do not believe there is a greater menace today to health than crowned and bridged teeth, to say nothing of pyorrhea alveolaris," he said.

If a man has but two teeth and they need he should thank the Fates and bite as best he can rather than attempt to restore his dental arches—that is, if he wants to escape certain infections.

Several years ago an Englishman, Hunter, stirred up the dentists in great stripe by laying anemias and a multitude of other ills on crowns, bridges, and plates.

Among the articles in the bill of indictment drawn by Dr Osborne are these:

1 Most unexpected tolerance to pyorrhea is found.

2 Chronic invalidism may be caused by mouth infections.

3 The blood pressure may be raised or lowered by mouth infections.

4 The thyroid gland is frequently enlarged and may hypersecrete or hyposecrete in these infections. (In other words, he says that some cases of goiter result from neglected teeth.)

5 Serious disturbances of the blood heart, kidneys, stomach, intestines, and joints are frequent from mouth infections. Bad teeth may be the cause of Bright's disease as well as of rheumatism.

6—Glycosuria and perhaps true diabetes may be caused by mouth infection.

7 Serious brain and nerve disturbances, as well as neuritis, may occur from mouth infection.

9—Ulcer of the stomach, appendicitis, and chronic colitis may frequently be due to pneumococci long carried in the patient's mouth.

10—No treatment of these conditions will be of any avail until the mouth is made clean.

This is a long list of diseases and they vary greatly in symptoms. About the only quality that is common to the lot is the fact that the bacteria and the poisons which produce them can one or all be absorbed through the gums and the channels of decay in the teeth themselves.

Wilhelmina's Guest.

Oh, Wilhelmina, may I not congratulate you on your guest? His merry ways will hit the spot, and give your humdrum life new zest. There's something doing all the time when little Willie is on deck, some fascinating curves in crime, new stunts in arson, death and wreck. He's come to eat your Holland prunes, with you he'll rest and break his fast, and I would always count the spoons when he has finished his repast. The kaiser at your door has knocked, you've let him in, without his crown; now see the henhouse safely locked, and all your portables nailed down. Oh, Wilhelmina, may I not suggest a safe deposit vault, for all the goods you prize a lot, for everything except the salt? Your visitor's a charming skate, when he has will and wish to please, but while he strives to fascinate, hang firmly to your cupboard keys. No doubt 'twill grieve your gentle heart to see him with his crownless brow, but you should bid your tears depart until you have secured the cow. His hair is white, his cheek is pale, he bears the marks of misery; but while you listen to his tale, just chain your palace to a tree. He'll doubtless talk of Mo and Gott until your woman's heart is sore, but Wilhelmina, may I not suggest a a strong new cellar door?

Plane Motors for Cars.

From Popular Mechanics

Thousands of high grade airplane engines have outlived their usefulness for flying and been retired. Thousands more will likewise be discarded when their use is over. What disposition is to be made of them? This question, one that is not infrequently asked, has caused the principal of a Y. M. C. A. school for airplane mechanics to suggest that the government may become an important dealer in engines for motor cars. The life of an airplane engine is commonly stated to be 100 hours. This does not mean, however, that it is utterly useless after 100 hours of operation. What is meant is that in that period an airplane engine gives the "cream" of its service and becomes from 20 to 30 per cent less efficient than when new. It is therefore unsuited for further flying.

But, on being rejuvenated by overhauling, it is valuable in other capacities and capable of use for an indefinite period. It is not surprising, therefore, that the proposal should be made that America's discarded airplane motors be salvaged and utilized as passenger and truck motors. There is apparently nothing impracticable in the suggestion, providing the engines could be successfully reassembled into units of fewer cylinders and less horsepower. Motorists in general would not want to buy gasoline for 450-horsepower Liberty motors installed in their family touring cars.

Gas From Wheat Straw.

From the Edinburgh Scotsman.

One of the scientists of the University of Saskatchewan, who has been experimenting for some time with the manufacture of gas from wheat straw, has been able, by a gas bag attachment of 300 cubic feet capacity, to run his motor car with perfectly satisfactory results. It is estimated, says the Saskatchewan Herald, that a ton of straw will generate 11,000 to 12,000 cubic feet of gas and that 300 cubic feet of gas is equal to a gallon of gasoline, so that with this hitherto waste product on his hands the farmer will be able to run his car.

A London dairyman was fined $170 last month for selling adulterated milk.

Keeps PERUNA In the House All the time

Breaks up a Cold. Good for Bronchial Inflammations.

Those who object to liquid medicines can secure Peruna Tablets

Mr. Robert McDougall, R. R. No. 6, Liberty, Indiana, writes:

"I wish to state that I always keep Peruna in the house. I think it is a good medicine to have on hand. If I commence taking a cold, I take Peruna and it breaks it up for me. It is also good for the Bronchial Tubes."

Peruna has served the American people for more than forty years. Those who know its value always have it at hand. Why not you?

IRRIGATED LANDS

We will sell you 160 acres or more of irrigated land with full water right, unbonded, for less than it costs to rent. Ten years to pay. Adjacent to Government Range. This land is open for first time. Selling fast. This land is located in the greatest sheep and cattle country of Wyoming and close to shipping center. Produces all crops common throughout the west. The land is now selling for $30 per acre—$10.00 per acre cash down and balance in ten years. Same land will be worth $150.00 per acre in 5 years. It will pay you to investigate.

WESTERN SYNDICATE, Ltd., 930 Foster Building, Denver, Colorado; Phone Champa 1246

References: First National Bank, Cody, Wyoming; Shoshone National Bank, Cody, Wyoming

O-o-o-h!

June—Has she a perfectly good husband?

Bess—Yes, she's a widow.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER

Has been used for all ailments that are caused by a disordered stomach and inactive liver, such as sick headache, constipation, sour stomach, nervous indigestion, fermentation of food, palpitation of the heart caused by gases in the stomach. August Flower is a gentle laxative, regulates digestion both in stomach and intestines, cleans and sweetens the stomach and alimentary canal, stimulates the liver to secrete the bile and impurities from the blood. Sold in all civilized countries. Give it a trial.—Adv.

The tightwad usually has money at the finish, but very little else.

The charm of a bathroom is its spotlessness. By the use of Red Cross Ball Blue, all cloths and towels retain their whiteness until worn out. 5c.

A cane is an old man's strength and a young man's weakness.

A girl who is truly modest doesn't feel called upon to blush when there is no occasion for it.

Cure pimples, headache, bad breath by taking Mile Apple, Aloe, Jalap rolled into a tiny sugar pill called Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Adv.

Jealousy is the injured lover's heil.—Milton

Plenty of exercise, fresh air, regular hours—is all the prescription you need to avoid Influenza—unless through neglect or otherwise, a cold gets you. Then take—at once

HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form—safe, sure, no opiates—breaks up a cold in 24 hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine box has a Red top with Mr. Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 4-1919.

Swift & Company's 1918 Earnings

How They Affected You

During the twelve months ended Nov. 2, 1918 (its fiscal year), Swift & Company transacted the largest volume of business on the smallest margin of profit in its history.

Profits of the meat business—under regulations of the United States Food Administration — were limited to a maximum of 9 per cent on capital employed but not to exceed 2½ cents per dollar of sales.

Swift & Company in the regulated departments earned 7.57 per cent on capital employed and 2.04 cents per dollar of sales, out of which had to be paid interest on borrowed money and taxes. Here is how these earnings affect you.

Live-Stock Raiser—

Swift & Company killed 14,948,000 head of livestock, which weighed alive, 4,971,500,000 pounds.

Swift & Company made a profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound liveweight.

Consumer—

The sales of our meat departments were 4,012,579,000 pounds on which our earnings were less than ½ cent per pound.

The per capita consumption of meat in the United States is given as 170 pounds. If a consumer purchased only Swift & Company's products he would contribute only about 78 cents a year, or 1½ cents a week as profit to the company.

Swift & Company, U.S.A.

SWIFT & COMPANY U.S.A.

At the Pinnacle of Hope, Desire, Achievement lies

Success

which comes to him only who courts it. The foundation of Business Success

is the Bank Account Have you laid the foundation?

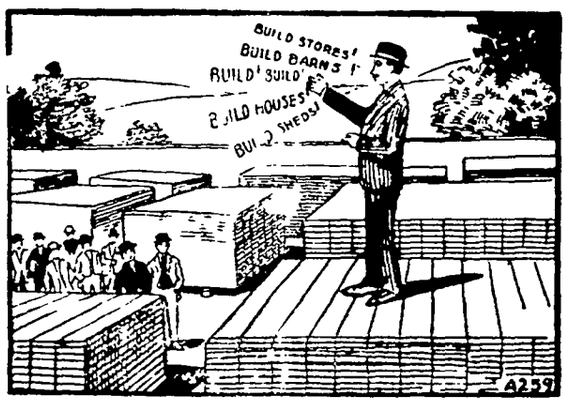
We are interested in your

Success

State Savings Bank

WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE YOU LIKE AND LIKE THE SERVICE YOU GET

KLEMME, IA.



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc. or you who move to town can now build a new house

NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

KNO-SOPE

(Pronounced "no soap")

What is it? Something New!

Ask Ryan the Barber about it.

Ask some of the ladies who Ryan has shampooed what they think of it. Every user a SATISFIED customer. Along with our other class of work

We Feature Ladies' Shampooing

J. F. RYAN

Don't forget that Ryan's Laundry Agency pleases, basket goes every Tuesday, back every Friday.

Grandmother

"You are sure you will not be lonesome, mother? Cook isn't going out until evening and of course, should you be ill or need anything, you have the telephone. Still, if you feel the least bit like—"

Grandmother Weber made a gesture of impatience. Was she a bit of delicate old china, to be guarded from breakage?

"I shall be all right, Ruth. Run on! The day will be like all other days. I shall read and doze and potter among my flowers when it gets cooler. Don't worry about me!"

"Well, be careful of yourself!" Young Mrs. Weber still spoke doubtfully. "Take your nap and don't eat anything that will upset your digestion. And be careful of draughts. I suspect we'll have to hurry or the boat will leave us. I wish you were able to go with us but of course the trip would be too trying. Good-by. We'll have lots to tell you when we get back!"

Mother and daughter hurried away, eager to join the gay excursionists on the deck of the Fairy Queen where hundreds of little flags beckoned and patriotic music set young blood dancing. They were going to Hamlet's Hill, to feast and frolic. There would be a reunion of friends and neghbors, a barbecue, speaking and dancing.

The music came in gay drifts to Grandmother Weber. It was ghost music of dead days. A ghost girl in white was one of the flitting crowd. The girl was the center of the joy and laughter The youth beside her was —ah, he was asleep on Cemetery Hill today'

She walked restlessly to a mirror, looking long and earnestly at the reflection there. Was this the girl whom Gabriel Weber had asked in marriage that Independence day so long ago?

A spark of the old fire flamed in gray ashes. Why was she time's castaway—she who longed for the stir and surge of life, who listened for the first bird note in spring?

With a sob she jerked hairpins loose and shook down in cascading waves the silver which once had been gold. Looking hungrily into the eyes of her changed self, the hint of a resurrection glory touched her She was not old! She was not Grandmother Weber' She was Kitty Cable, the girl in the white dress, the girl Gabriel loved and married!

Her hand quivered as she drew the comb through her hair. For years she had worn it like a silver crown. Now she shaped its crinkling abundance in the way granddaughter Bobby was following. People had always exclaimed over the beauty of her hair. It was none the less beautiful because of its touch of snow'

She studied her wardrobe discontentedly. There were house gowns, pretty dressing sacks and a rich satin, primly and elegantly correct and glaringly new.

With chin well up and shoulders squared she crossed to Bobby's room. She and Bobby were nearly of one stature. She could borrow from the child! Lying on the bed were garments, soft and white, a skirt and a middy, one of those gay little blouses with collar, belt and lacing of scarlet. There were undergarments, too, lacy and inconsequent. She shrugged into the pretty things, dabbed powder on her nose and stuck a rose in her hair.

The person in the mirror smiled at her most audaciously. With light step she went out on the rose-shaded veranda and found its easiest chair. The street was quiet now. The crowd had gone its way and the band was still. The canary swung in its cage above her, now and then venturing a longing, calling note. From an alley came the secretive, jubilant snap of a firecracker. Farther off sounded the hum of an approaching automobile.

As the car swung into sight and came careening to the curb, Kitty Cable leaned out and waved her hand. The handsome youth, grandson Kennerly, answering her salute, was the pride of her heart. He ran up the veranda steps and joined her.

"Did you miss the boat, Bobby?" he called anxiously. "What are you doing here by your lonesome? Didn't the crowd—well, for the sake of Mike! Grandmother!" His astonishment was a thrilling tribute.

"Hush, Ken!" she cried, her eyes dancing with excitement. "Don't give me away! I'm not your grandmother today. I'm your father's relative, Kitty Cable, come to visit you. I'm just as light-headed and impossible as yourself. Don't go after the doctor. I'm not insane! I've just—gone young!"

There came a wistful tremble to her lips, pleading in the glance praying his understanding. He did understand. Swift feeling of what it might be like to stand at the edge of the world, done with joy, done with responsibility, facing the plunge into darkness, swept over him. He dropped down beside her gathering her into his young protecting arms.

"Dear Kitty Cable!" he joyed. "They'd never have left you behind with the canary had they thought about it. Maybe your presence here is not known? You arrived after the boat left? Sure! Well, see here, Miss Cable, I didn't intend to go to this celebration but I am experiencing a change of heart. Let me take you to join the family. They'll be so surprised! There are oceans of time. Let me take you out in the car! Are you game, Dad's Relative?"

Dad's Relative considered. Habit held up a horrified, warning finger but the spirit of Independence day tossed its head. She stood proudly erect. "I'm game, son of your father," she answered. "If I can find Bobby's hat and motor veil and a pair of gloves, I'll go."

The little lady of dreams hurried. It was but a moment before she came out, smilingly ready to be assisted into the handsome new car she had admired but scarcely hoped to enjoy. Motoring is a reckless, draughty pastime for the infirm and aged!

The landscape was reeling by in a splendid blur of color, the wind singing in her ears. Her blood raced the wind, whose freshness she drew through all her being, drinking as the thirsty drink.

"Ken!" she gulped. "I smell pennyroyal—not done up in—sack—from the drug store! And there's a farmhouse—like where mother—made butter—"

"Miss Cable," the chauffeur suggested, "shall we try out for a glass of buttermilk at the said farmhouse? I don't see any dog—nothing worse than that kiddy yonder. Hey, little girl, is your mammy to hum?"

The little girl inserted a finger into her pretty mouth and blinked at him shyly. The big, chugging machine was a novelty which left her speechless.

Kennerly led the way along a neat path bordered with delicate clove pinks. He took off his cap to the woman who answered his knock, making his want known in the engaging way which opened hearts to him.

"Come around with me to the kitchen," the woman invited.

It was very cool and clean there. The housewife uncovered a pat of golden butter and brought from the house a loaf of wholewheat bread.

"I was born on a farm," the rejuvenated grandmother confided softly. "This is the first real food I have had for a long time! I'm so glad we found you at home. I thought the whole world would be at the barbecue today."

"I guess pretty nigh everybody did go," the housewife answered. "Me and Elsie intended to—fixed for it all week—but one of the horses went lame so pa rode the mare and went by himself."

A sullen little shadow touched her smile. Kennerly looked his understanding of the shadow.

"There is room in the car and I know grandmother will be glad to have you!" he said. "Want to go?"

The little girl whirled and looked at him with shining eyes. Then she looked at her mother. "Let's!" she breathed, her soul's desire in the pleading whisper.

"Well!" the woman said quietly. "The dog has gone and the hired man has gone—maybe the cat, too, for I don't see him anywhere. I thank you kindly. We won't keep you waiting but a minute. Come on, Elsie!"

"Old Liberty Car!" softly apostrophized the youth. "How's this for another jail delivery, Miss Cable? Why, I'm getting to be an expert on this line."

Kennerly was assisting the little girl and her mother from the car when a man advanced from a group of roadside smokers and stared at them unbelievingly.

"Oh daddy, we've comed!" little Elsie shrilled, springing to her father's hand. "So much funny times, daddy! Won't you buy us a car like Mr. Weber's so we can do it all the time our own selves? Won't you, daddy? Ma says you can afford it easy and we want you to, daddy!"

"Jolted!" Kennerly giggled, under his breath, [illegible]itely relinquishing his charge. "If [illegible]e plays her cards—who knows? Look yonder by the ropes! There they are, Bobby and the mater! Shades of our country's heroes, look at their eyes!"

Young Mrs. Weber was hurrying forward but Bobby, looking bewilderedly at her fluttering robes and Ken's naughty dimples, outstepped her. She slipped a caressing arm about her grandmother's waist.

"I know now why I am always proud when people tell me I look like my grandmother!" she whispered. "You are lovely, dearest! Why have we muffled you in black and hidden you? Look at her, mamma!"

"How could you do such a reckless thing, mother?" Mrs. Ruth wondered. "It may kill you! What will you and Kennerly do next?"

"Eat chowder and roast beef," retorted Kennerly. "Then while we watch the dancers, it's quite likely we'll finish working out our receipt for eternal youth. And then—"

"And then go back by moonlight in the Liberty Car," placidly concluded the grandmother in scarlet.—Rose Willis Johnson in the Farmer's Wife.

Ask Anyone Who Knows and he will direct you to this shop for all classes of auto supplies and repairs.

This is because our line is complete, our prices right and our competence unexcelled

We carry the Best line of Guanteed Tires. Ask those who have used our Fisk, Stronghold and Goodyear Tires.

Willys

C. W. Wiles Garage

PHONE 30

KLEMME, IA.

Wet Weather Apparel

This is a season when one must take extra precaution in regard to their health, We are prepared to do our part in supplying you with anything you need in the line of Raincoats, Rubbers of All Descriptions, Low Overshoes, High Overshoes both the Cloth and All Rubber kind.

Our stock of Men's Rubbers is adsolutely fresh, just received several cases of our Spring shipment. Come in and get your size,

Call in and get your calander if you have not already received one.

Special For Saturday

50 Dozen Men's Black, Tan and Gray Dress Hosiery at - - -

4 pairs for

85c

Get to know

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

"IOWA'S LARGEST CLOTHERS"

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothe

Fourteen Stores. Garner, Iowa.

Klemme Times $1.50 Per Year

THE policy of the Ford Motor Company to sell it's cars for the lowest possible price, consistant with dependable quality, is too well known to require comment. Therefore, because of present conditions, there can be no change in the price on Ford Cars:

Runabout	-	$500
Touring Car	-	525
Coupelet	-	650
Sedan	- -	775
Truck Chassis	-	550

These prices F. O. B. Detroit.

Ford Motor Company

E. G. Ell, Authorized Agent

All Kinds of Hardware

have a full line of Hardware to choose from,

culators, Roasters, Aluminun Ware, Cookers,

ery, Silver-ware, Pyrex Baking-ware, etc.

STOVES and Ranges

REUTZMACHER BROS.

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited
Charges Reasonable.

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price

Successor to W. R. Bloom

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDER

Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing

Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

Col. B. A. Reemtsma

General Auctioneer

KLEMME, IOWA

Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty

Call, write or phone 508 Klemme for dates, terms, etc.

...Satisfaction Guaranteed...

Geo. ZINN

Physician & Surgeon

Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA.

Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.

Eyes Tested. Glasses Fitted

DR. L. R. PARSONS,

DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank
Phone No. 48.
Klemme - Iowa

J. S. WESSON, D. V. M.

GARNER, IOWA

CALLS ATTENDED DAY OR NIGHT

Office Phone 196 Residence 137

Didn't Like That Kind.

d fried mush for breakfa
ittle girl asked to be help
I, selecting a nice br
d it on her plate, and lother, I don't l.
Chicago Tribune

ere Spots the Mere Meals.

mber of spots burned on a monk's head shows how much lected to endure, says a recent n the subject of China. They s severe an initiation as they nd get therefrom certain priv- f a monk has three spots he three meals free at any mon- China; six spots entitles him eals; nine spots to three days' nd the maximum of twelve, a care.

Just Like Willie.

er—"Some rivers are sluggish course. What do I mean by a ing sluggish?" Willie—"It hat it likes to stick to its bed."

Peculiar Articles of Commerce.

Dried lizards are said to be an article of merchandise regularly imported into this country. They come from China, to supply a demand by Chinese residents in the United States. They are supposed to possess much medicinal virtue when ground to powder and mixed with certain other curative substances. The Chinese used dried toads for a tonic, salted scorpions for smallpox and fossil crabs as an antidote for poison.

And His Needs Are Numerous.

A politician thinks he is entitled to as many kinds of opinions as he may need in his business.

More Pleasant to His Ear.

"Lemme see one o' dem cuckoo clocks," said Mr. Erastus. "Here you are." "Could you kind o' change de tune a little?" "What's the idea?" "I wants an alarm clock. I don't take to dese hasty an' excited alarm clock. If you could train one o' dese to cackle like a chicken I could wake up spry an' hopeful every time."

In and Out.

There is some talk among a number of the women folk of Woodruff place of organizing a club to be known as "The Ins and Outs." Not that they wish to be marked as gad-abouts or anything of the sort. The proposed club title refers solely to a recent pamphlet issued by the authorities of "the town within a city," which contains the directory of the 1,800 inhabitants. The booklet is neatly arranged, is embellished with pictures of the town's beauty spots and contains plenty of advertisements as all good directories should. But somehow in the course from census taker to printer the names of about twenty-five of the good wives of the town were omitted. The little club idea has been proposed with one requirement for membership, which is that the member shall be "in" the town and "out" of the directory.—Indianapolis News.

Grocer Had Nothing to Say.

The grocer thought one day that he would like a steak for his dinner as a change from the bacon, so he sent his little girl across to the butcher for one pound of steak.

On receiving the steak, he thought he might satisfy his curiosity by weighing it, and in so doing he found it to be four ounces light of weight.

He brought it across to the butcher and said: "What is the meaning of only giving me twelve ounces of meat instead of one pound?"

The butcher calmly replied: "I lost my one-pound weight, so I had to use your one-pound packet of tea."

Use of Torpedoes in Warfare.

Between 1878 and 1898, when the Spanish-American war broke out, there were only twelve instances in which the torpedo had been used in actual warfare. The Russo-Japanese war in 1904 afforded many opportunities for the use of this deadly weapon of destruction, and Whitehead's invention caused great havoc. The combination of the submarine boat and the torpedo had its first real trial in the present war.

An Education.

"Did you manage to give your boy much schooling?"

"Finest possible," rejoined Farmer Cottontassel. "Josh joined the army and is being educated abroad."

Friendship Is Not Blind.

In friendship we see only those faults which may be prejudicial to our friends, while in love we discern no faults but those by which we ourselves suffer.—La Bruyere.

Never Despair.

Never despair, but if you do, work on in despair.—Burke

War Brides

There is something of the old-world Gretna Green romance in the modern war-wedding!

The bridegroom may not tear the lady from an indignant father's arms, nor set off in galloping postchaise to the tune of pistol shots. Yet the delightful flurry and bustle of the old days is renewed, and the element of tragedy lies not in pistol shots but in the far-off reverberation of the guns of France!

It was in Scotland, in the lonely island of Skye, that I first witnessed a typically "irregular" war marriage and in a setting as romantic and as wildly beautiful as any human being has ever tried and failed to describe!

Thousands of "irregular" marriages have taken place in Scotland recently. They dispense, with "benefit of clergy," or registrar, and the only essential is that the bridegroom should seriously agree to take the bride as his wife, and she to accept him as her husband.

It was a sunny morning, and the stormy waters that swirl in and out along the rocky shores of Skye seemed somehow quieted. The crying and the calling of gulls or sea-mewe rose very faintly, and away on the sleepy moors the bees were droning among the heather.

"A wonderful morning for a wedding!" said the little bride in her soft Highland voice.

"I will be thinking it is the calm before a storm!" said her old father, in his hesitating unaccustomed English.

The plans had all been carefully made. The bridegroom, a soldier in the regiment of Cameron Highlanders, had written all the way from France to say that he was getting seven days' leave.

But when the boat came in, and he hurried across the narrow gangway, it was with the news that half his leave was cancelled, and he must return on the very steamer by which he had arrived, back to London, there to await orders from the war office.

"We must be married here on the pier!" he insisted. "The boat will wait for seven minutes, and Donald the piper will play the wedding march!"

The little bride showed signs of being tearful. "Seven months away in France, and seven minutes to be married in! Angus, it isn't right! And the wedding breakfast's all ready up at the house, and spoiling!"

But her protestations were overruled.

"Jean, I take you as my wife!" said Angus, solemnly.

"Angus, I accept you as my husband!" said the bride.

Thus was the knot irrevocably tied!

For a Scottish marriage demands nothing more for its validity than the uttering of those simple words. Such a marriage is absolutely legal.

With a swirl of handkerchiefs and a skirl of pipes the wedding group bade a farewell to the bridegroom. Up and down the ancient pier marched Donald, blowing his very heart into his music. And as the boat slipped from its mooring it seemed that the lilt of the wedding march, hitherto so cheerful, now held both tears and the passion of parting in it.

"He will come back!" the little war-bride was trying to be brave!

Before the immortal battle of Loos, that famous Highland officer, Colonel Cameron of Lochiel assembled his men before him, 3,000 strong.

"Cameron Highlanders," said he, "The eyes of Scotland and of the world are on you today! Remember our slogan 'A Cameron Never Can Yield!'"

All through that terrible day the Cameron Highlanders fought like men possessed, fought the good fight against overwhelming odds, until the field was literally strewn with the dying and the dead.

And when evening fell, and the roll call was taken, out of 3,000 who had set out so bravely only that morning, there were barely 300 to answer the call.

"Cameron Highlanders," the colonel addressed them, whilst the tears were running down his cheeks. "This is the proudest, saddest, happiest day of my life! 'A Cameron Never Can Yield!'"

But up in the lonely island of Skye a little bride is waiting—still waiting interminably—for news of a man who will come no more, and the airs which Donald the piper plays are the old, heart-searing Highland laments.

It was in Paris, in the dusky coolness of Notre Dame cathedral, that I heard the solemn words of the Catholic marriage service uttered by an old, kindly-featured priest.

There were three young war brides. The grooms were home on leave from the firing line. One carried his arm in a sling and limped as he walked. Another started nervously at the slightest sound. "Pauvre garcon, he suffers from the shell shock still," whispered some one. A third was very young—almost a boy.

Light from the glorious stained-glass windows fell on the rapt faces of the brides.

"They have no 'dots' the poor demoiselles," said one of the guests. "Et bien, que voulez vous? They are emancipated, these little ones, making the marriage of love, not of convenience. At first the parents were horrified. But at last they have agreed. For all over France, bien entendu, one hears no more now of the 'mariage de convenance.'"

In the grounds of an old French chateau, just one year later, I again met the youngest of these bridegrooms and his little bride, Odette.

It was a wonder day—Maytime overhead, amid delicate green tracery, the birds were caroling. Wild anemones and celandine were peering up inquisitively from the long grass and the trailing briar violet clustered lovingly in the tree trunks' shade.

It was the bridegroom that I noticed first. He was wearing a magnificent uniform, with "La Horse" inscribed in glinting letters on his sleeve. But occasionally he stumbled as he walked. "Odette, Odette, where are you?" he called, groping his way along.

There was a thrill of laughter and Odette came running through the trees. She guided him to a rustic bench and they sat down. It was then I saw that he was blind.

"You are young and beautiful, Odette—and tied for life to a man like me! Have you no regrets? If you had only known this accident would come—"

"Ah, mon brave," came the voice of Odette, with a deep note of feeling in it, "I should only have married you the sooner, and I love you even more!"

In a certain hospital in France lay a young British officer whose sands of life were running very low. A girl's name was constantly on his lips. "Sister, if you wire her I know she'll come," he kept repeating.

So the telegram was sent.

From the quiet English village, where the quiet English courtship had run so smoothly, she came.

"Yes, if it will ease your mind, dear, the chaplain can marry us now," she said bravely.

The chaplain performed the simple ceremony in the side ward where the dying man lay.

"For richer or for poorer, for better or for worse." So the bonds were tied.

He fell asleep contentedly, holding her hand, and at dawn he died.

On a bleak and windy day they buried him in the little English cemetery where so many brave men lie.

"Who are these which are arrayed in white robes, and whence come they?" read the chaplain. "These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes and made them white. . . . Therefore they are before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple."

The last sad rites were performed and the soil of France covered all that was left of a very gallant soldier.

"Dust to dust, ashes to ashes, in sure and certain hope of the resurrection to eternal life."

These are mere fragments from the tragedy of war.

There are those who criticize the war marriage as foolish, ill-advised, even wrong.

There are those who, with a deeper insight, are for its vindication.

Ask the war brides themselves if the tragedy and the pain and the anxiety are worth it.

I think they will with one accord answer "Yes!"—May Christie.

CONDENSATIONS.

The Russo-Japanese war, 1904, cost $800,000,000.

The war in the Transvaal in 1899 cost $1,100,000,000.

The king of Italy receives a salary of $2,922,000 a year.

In Tasmania all snakes are venomous, though only five are really deadly, and these are rarely seen.

Appearance of solidity has been given motion pictures by an inventor who photographs two films at the same time from slightly different angles.

In Porto Rico electric wires are obstructed at times by a parasitic plant that settles and grows upon them, obtaining nourishment from the air.

Little Potash in Cuba.

Chemists returning from Cuba's alleged potash field declare that rock supposed to have potash either contained none, or when it was found, quantities were less than one per cent. However, some geologists believe valuable potash may be discovered by deeper borings, and a company of Chicago, who have an option on a large tract, have made arrangements to continue explorations.

Try a Flat Darner.

In darning, try using a flat darner. If darning is done from the wrong side and small loops are left at each turn, a smoother darn will be the result, as the loops allow for shrinkage in the darning cotton and for elasticity in the weave.

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

M Oudendyk, Dutch minister in Petrograd, who has arrived in London, in an interview said: "I wish to give a solemn warning to the working classes of all nations. Bolshevism, I say without exaggeration, is the end of civilization. I have known Russia intimately for 28 years and never have the working classes of Russia suffered as they are doing at the present moment. I have never seen or dreamt of the possibility of such corruption, tyranny, and the absence of all semblance of freedom as there is in Russia at the present moment. Translated into practice the five points of bolshevism really comes to this (1) High wages; (2) don't work, (3) take other people's property; (4) no punishment; (5) no taxation, and I suppose there will always be a certain number of people who will adopt a program which in practice amounts to this," says the London Times.

Proclaiming that the theory of a league of nations is thousands of years old, and had failed in its purpose in successive ages, Senator Reed, of Missouri, in a recent speech predicted the plan would not stand the acid test of reason and experience, that it would transfer to European governments the power of the United States congress to declare war and stop invasions. In a league of nations of many and varied ideals and different languages and customs, disagreements would be bound to arise, he said, and that he never would consent that American citizens be ordered to battle by the majority vote of an international league

As far as the necessity for sleep is concerned, there appears to be no essential difference between a brain worker and a manual worker, says the London Lancet The function of sleep is to renovate the tired tissues, whether brain or muscle. The brain worker, so long as he is awake, uses every muscle in his body, as we know from recent calorimetric investigations, although, of course, in smaller degree than the manual worker The manual worker's muscles are controlled by cells in the gray matter of the brain, in which it is that the first symptoms of "muscle" fatigue really appear.

"A Yank is a perfect specimen—even on crutches. But I don't think that they will be conceited when they get home. The only thing they are really vain about is the fact that they are Yanks. There's something awfully touching about their devotion to this country of ours. When they are brought in wounded from the field their first request is for an American flag At our hospital there was a woman who supplied the boys with the little luxuries. Every boy asked for a little silk flag," says a Denver nurse who recently returned from the front.

Arriving on the Niagara was Col Webb C. Hayes, son of the late President Hayes, and Capt Algernon Sartoris, grandson of General Grant, both of whom have been in the service in France Captain Sartoris served in the French Foreign Legion and the American aerial armament division. Another to return, wearing the croix de guerre was the son of the French consul, Flamand of Boston After being wounded sever times he was discharged, and then served with the American Red Cross.

The County Syndicate Aktiebolag has petitioned the Swedish government for permission to make 1,321 000 gallons of alcoholic spirit from white moss, of which there are enormous quantities available. The quality of such alcohol is said to be very good, and its cost less than spirits made from grain or potatoes. The petition proposes that the alcohol be manufactured under official supervision and that the government be taken in as partner.

In August, 1916, Mr Asquith then prime minister, appointed a committee of distinguished men to inquire into the position of modern languages in the educational system of the nation. One of the striking conclusions that they have just reached is that ignorance of language is a serious obstacle to the development of foreign trade and especially that ignorance of enemy peoples and their languages has hampered Great Britain's war efforts.

[illegible] Spectator ad[illegible] for the ease of mind effect [illegible] be kept at work [illegible] repair the damage done in Belgium and France and that part of the indemnity be paid in actual ships built or to be built by the Germans because if only cash is exacted [illegible] trading [illegible]

An advertisement in the London Times of [illegible] reads: "Officer [illegible] France [illegible] early [illegible] would be grateful for opportunity to work as laborer [illegible] any kind of useful technical knowledge could be acquired age 40 two campaigns to credit but no special qualifications Would pay small sum if necessary

Great numbers of Dutch workmen who were discharged by Krupps are reported to have been re-engaged and to have returned to Krupps It is stated they are now busy constructing railway material especially trucks and is preparing for the extensive commercial campaign to be undertaken after peace is signed

It is proposed that with the close of the war the entire line of the [illegible] France extending from Alsace to the Belgian border shall be converted into a sort of national sacred forest as a permanent tribute to the memory of the soldiers who died facing the onslaught of the Huns.

It is said that a wave of popularity for things western is sweeping over the whole of China and with the cessation of war there may be expected to be huge demands for all sorts of foreign materials, and especially foreign machinery, building materials and equipment generally.

Major General Rhodes is head of the American armistice commission and was the first American general officer to enter the German lines after the armistice. He formerly commanded the Forty-second or Rainbow division.

London tailors are dazed by the rush of discharged soldiers for "civs," while 96 per cent of the available wool is still being taken for army needs Thousands of British soldiers will have to wear khaki for some time.

The aggregate fire waste of the United States and Canada during the past 40 years reaches the appalling total of $8,000,000,000, showing an annual average property destruction of $162,000,000. It is generally conceded that fully 65 per cent of the fires of this country are due to preventable causes.

The population of Brazil, according to latest figures compiled by the government is 24,500 000. Only three inhabitants are to be found to the square kilometer (.386 square mile) The number of inhabitants who can neither read nor write constitute 70 to 80 per cent of the total or more than 18 000,000.

IOWA'S SHERIFFS PLAN LEGISLATION

Want More Stringent Laws Protecting Automobile Owners—Salary Increase Also.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 20.—The Iowa Sheriffs' Association is going to father at least three bills during the 39th general assembly

One is aimed to facilitate enforcement of liquor laws, another proposes to curb the activities of auto thieves, and last, but not least, is one that would increase the sheriff's salary and extend the terms of office.

John Griffin, sheriff of Polk county, chairman of the legislative committee of the association, said today he would make a determined effort to have all passed.

Senator Whitmore, of Wapello county, is expected to introduce the first bill. It would give officers authority to seize autos used to transport liquor into Iowa. On conviction of the owners, the cars would become state property and could be sold at sheriff's auction.

The second bill would make a felony the sale or purchase of an automobile on which any number plates had been removed or altered

The last bill would increase the sheriff's pay 30 per cent and extend his term from two to four years. Sheriffs are paid from $2,600 in Polk county, to $1,400 in smaller counties. Iowa sheriffs also receive extra remuneration through feeding of prisoners.

Proposed bills pertaining to control and prevention of vice will be considered at a joint meeting of the governor's law enforcement committee and the auxiliary legislative committee appointed by H. W Byers, chairman, Tuesday noon.

Most of the bills are being drawn by John H. Hammond, of attorney General H M Havner's office

COUNCIL BLUFFS DOCTOR HAD UNUSUAL EXPERIENCE

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan. 20.—With the arrest at New Hampton of Joe Parmer, wanted here on a sensational charge, the story of an encounter that may end in a murder charge was divulged Dr W. E. Ash, leading physician of Council Bluffs, tells how he was forced, at the point of the revolver to care for the wounded man. At an early hour, Dr Ash says, he was called to a house in the south part of the city, where he found a man named Fred Wade bridge foreman on the Northwestern railroad, suffering from a badly fractured skull. Wade was at the home of Fred Runyan. As Dr. Ash entered the house, he says, he was confronted by Joe Parmer and Runyan with revolvers and ordered to care for Wade He also was later compelled to call an ambulance and order Wade taken to the hospital. After this had been done and while Runyan and Parmer were arguing about whether or not to allow Dr Ash to return home, Dr. Ash slipped out a side door and escaped. Parmer, Dr. Ash says, was intent on holding him while Runyan argued that he should be permitted to leave

Wade is in a serious condition. He is unconscious. Stories about the affair differ Runyan says Wade was a guest at a rabbit supper at his house, and that he and Parmer found him in an alley nearby Neighbors declare they heard a row in the building, and that it was over a woman. Dr. Ash says the three men were intoxicated.

EMPLOYS NEW MEANS TO GET MONEY EASY

Dubuque Ia Jan 20--When a well dressed young man dashed from a local dry goods store with a $100 bank note and the change for a bill which he had asked for and received, the girl cashier was so surprised that she failed to recover in time to sound the alarm and the thief escaped.

The young man entered first with a $10 note asking for and received change A few minutes later he entered with the $100 bill with the request that it be changed. Ten $10 notes were handed him. He protested and the girl returned to the cash drawer and brought back two $50 bills still holding the 10 $10 notes in his hand. The young man grabbed the two notes of larger denomination and dashed for the door

FIGHTING COLORS TO GO TO THE STATES

Washington D C Jan 20 - The regimental colors of the historic 168th infantry, formerly the old Third Iowa national guard regiment, together with the colors of all the other Iowa national guard and national army units that have participated in the European war or prepared for actual combat against the Hun eventually will be placed in the custody of the Hawkeye state officials and be available for exhibit at the statehouse in Des Moines, according to a decision made by the war department this week. In a special order signed by Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff of the army, and sent broadcast to every military post of the government authorization for the turning over to the states of the military colors is announced.

DES MOINES—With the plate manufacturers behind in their orders the secretary of state's office at the state house is being delayed in getting out the automobile license plates, for which applications are being received at the rate of from 1,000 to 2,000 per day. Thus far this year about 15,000 plates have been sent out.

WATERLOO—Out of 450,00 retail grocers in the United States only about 1,500 were penalized for infractions of the food regulations, according to Geo, E. Lichty, head of the retail division of the United States food administration, who is home on a short leave of absence.

ROCK VALLEY—The house on the Jake Moeller farm southeast of town burned Friday A defective chimney is blamed. Most of the household goods were destroyed

ROCK VALLEY—Influenza has appeared in numerous droves of hogs here. The animals have a high fever and are quickly greatly weakened by the disease.

MANY BOYS FAIL TO GET OLD JOBS

Twenty-Five Per Cent of Former Employes Forget Patriotism and Promises to Have Positions Oper.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 18.—The headquarters for "Iowa" Bureaus for Returning Soldiers and Sailors" at Des Moines, reports that 75 per cent of the men who have returned from the service, seeking employment, are still without jobs. During the last six weeks Iowa men have been discharged from the service as follows:

Seeking employment on Iowa farms.	110
Seeking other than farm employment	1,451
Returning to jobs on Iowa farms	2,472
Returning to other than farm jobs	4,364
Total Iowa men discharged to and including January 11	9,397

In the last six weeks 1,561 men have returned to the state of Iowa from the army and navy seeking employment. Through the efforts of the various bureaus for returning soldiers and sailors, and cooperating organizations, 428 men have been placed in employment Many instances have come to the attention of the bureau at Des Moines, of the patriotism displayed by many firms in the state who have not only found employment for all their employes returning from the service, but have also kept their regular employes on the job. These firms are also rearranging their work so that each man who left their employ to enter the service, shall have a job awaiting him the minute he returns home.

From reports received at the Des Moines office, it is evident that approximately 25 per cent of the employers in the state of Iowa have lost their patriotism, which they exhibited during the war.

INEBRIATE HOSPITAL FOR ANOTHER PURPOSE

Knoxville, Ia., Jan. 8.—By the middle of February the inebriate hospital here will probably be a thing of the past.

The hospital will be changed to a home for feeble minded children, according to Dr. M. C. Mackin, superintendent of the hospital.

Dr. Mackin believes this is what the legislature will decide upon, as there are more than 300 sub-normal children on the waiting list at the Glenwood institution and more than 500 others in different parts of the state who would be admitted to the Knoxville institution within the next two or three years

Dr. Mackin, recently reappointed is a specialist on mind diseases.

METHODISTS HOLD PRELIMINARY MEETING

Cherokee, Ia., Jan. 18 —A subdistrict conference in the interest of the centenary movement of the Methodist Episcopal church was held in Cherokee, representatives attending from Storm Lake, Larrabee, Aurelia, Rembrandt, Alta, Truesdale and Diamond Center. Addresses were given by President F. E. Mossman, of Morningside college, and Missionary Powell, of India. The meeting was preliminary to a campaign in which the Methodist church will raise $80,000,000 for worldwide religious effort.

SOLDIERS FEATURED THE INAUGURAL BALL

Des Moines, Ia., Jan 18 - Attended by thousands of Iowans, many of whom have just been released from the military service, Governor Harding's second inaugural closed last night with the grand ball in the rotunda of the state capitol. Hundreds of Iowa soldiers, lads just back from France attended the affair Led by Adjt Gen and Mrs. Louis Lasher, followed by Governor and Mrs. Harding the grand march commenced at 8.30 o'clock Special music was furnished during the afternoon by a military band from Camp Dodge Scores of Iowa lads from the Rainbow division now convalescing at Fort Des Moines hospital were the center of attraction during the evening

REFORM SCHOOL GIRLS MAKE ROMANTIC ESCAPE

Mitchellville Ia., Jan 18--Five girls pried out the staples holding the heavy wire netting across a window in the Mitchellville reformatory and dropped from the second floor to make their getaway

Everything went fine. They spent the night in a straw pile and while away the weary hours with a package of Prince Albert and papers for the "makins" They boarded the interurban and were having a perfectly nice trip to Des Moines till John H. Kelley, chief deputy sheriff, got on at Altoona. The conductor suspected that something was wrong and tipped Mr Kelley off

GRAND JURY TO GET QUICK ACTION ON SLAYING

Corning, Ia., Jan. 17.—A special session of the Adams county grand jury was convened today at 10 o'clock to consider the Hoskins murder case. The people of the community are now most interested in caring for the two young children, a daughter and a son of the murderer, who have not yet fully recovered from the attacks and the shock. Hoskins continues to show an apparent lack of interest in his fate.

GLENWOOD—The assessors of Mills county, at their annual meeting submitted a resolution asking a 25 per cent increase in salaries The board in fixing salaries, increased the pay of the assessors 10 per cent over 1917. None of the assessors took their supplies home, awaiting action of the board on the resolution.

DES MOINES—The revision of some of Iowa's school laws and the repeal of portions of others in an effort to promote the consolidation of school districts will be an important subject to be brought up before the 38th general assembly Already the preliminary steps in review of the laws of other states along this line have been taken and several members of the house intend to bring this kind of legislation before the assembly

DES MOINES—The Iowa state traveling men will convene at the auditorium Saturday for their annual meeting

Widows outnumber widowers in the United States by three to one.

COMPENSATION LAW TO BE REMODELED

President of Iowa Federation of Labor Says Bolshevism Can Be Kept Out By Closer Cooperation.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 18.—Bolshevism can be kept out of the Iowa and United States by closer cooperation between the employer and employes, Fred A. Canfield, president of the Iowa Federation of Labor, told the United Press today.

"Employers realize that the period of reconstruction is a critical one," said Canfield. "If the spread of bolshevism is to be kept from the United States, there must be greater cooperation between employers and their employes.

"Any legislation asked for organized labor, will be received by friendly consideration in the assembly, I have been assured by members of both houses."

That the sought for cooperation already is underway, is evidenced in the bill which will amend the workmen's compensation law. This was drafted by a committee from the federation and a committee of the State Manufacturers' Association. Final touches on the bill are being made today at a conference here and it is expected to be introduced by Senator Haskell, of Linn county shortly. Seventeen amendments are asked for in this bill but the majority are technical changes to correct errors or clean up ambiguity.

The most important amendment is a section which will make the compensation law compulsory for both employers and employes.

Another change asked for is the granting of authority to the industrial commissioner to allow an additional $100 for hospital expense in exceptional cases.

A third amendment increases the compensation in case of accident from 50 to 60 per cent of the daily wage of the injured workman.

The section of the present law which allows 100 weeks pay for the loss of an eye and the same compensation for the loss of the second eye in a second accident, is amended by increasing the compensation for the loss of a second eye to 200 weeks pay.

DES MOINES TO FIGHT VICE WITH VIGOR

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 18.—War on vice and bootlegging was opened in a new field when H. W. Byers, chairman of the governor's vice commission, named the members of the new committee whose duty it will be to aid in procuring legislation which will allow the control of these evils and permit the incarceration of lawbreakers for terms commensurate with their crimes. The members are: Lafayette Young, sr., chairman, Harvey Ingham, W. E. Battenfield, Sybil Campbell, Adah Hershey, Dr. Charles Medbury, Howland Hanson, Tom Fairweather, E. T. Meredith and George Cosson.

BRINGS BOY BACK TO IOWA FROM FRANCE

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 18.—Captain Yentor, of Oxford Junction, an officer in Battery F, just home from France, brought with him Joseph Richards, 16 years old an American lad whose parents were killed in Rheims by Huns.

The lad was found in a German trench when the Yanks went over the top. He has been with the Iowa lads for some time, and when they started back to the United States he crawled on a transport and came with them. Captain Yentor will adopt the lad and give him an education. He speaks four languages—German, French, Italian and English.

PORTER MAY BECOME U. S. ATTORNEY GENERAL

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 18.—A distinct possibility that Iowa may soon have a member of President Wilson's cabinet is developed by the resignation of Thomas W Gregory attorney general of the United States, announced at Washington.

Claude R. Porter, of Centerville, democratic candidate for governor at the last campaign, is now first assistant attorney general and is certain to be one of those considered for the position. Porter is very strong in administrative circles, and will have appreciable support for promotion.

SEEKING RELATIVES OF PIONEER MERCHANT

Marcus, Ia., Jan. 18.—The remains of Peter Danielson, aged 62 years, are lying held in Marcus awaiting the finding of kin Mr Danielson, who has lived in this place for 35 years, died on Sunday, following a three days' illness of pneumonia. During his long residence here he constantly was engaged in the mercantile business. He was uncommunicative and no one knows anything concerning his relatives. He never married and had no confidants.

WOUNDED MARCUS BOY IS RETURNED HOME

Marcus, Ia., Jan. 18.—Private Marshall Smith of the 38th Infantry, Fourth division, is the first Marcus soldier to return from overseas. He went to France in May and was in the Independence day parade in Paris. Two days later he went to the front. In the battle of Chateau-Thierry he suffered a severe machine gun wound on the left hand, and as a result lost one finger.

SURVIVOR OF SPIRIT LAKE MASSACRE DEAD

Marcus, Ia., Jan. 18.—The death of Allen Sharp, son of Abbie Gardner Sharp the only survivior of the Spirit Lake massacre, recalls the interesting bit of early Iowa history. Mr. Sharp died at the state hospital in Cherokee, where he was taken three months ago. The burial will take place at Albert Lea Minn Mr Sharp's mother is now past 80 and resides in Minneapolis.

PEACE PARLEYS OPEN IN PARIS

Crowds Throng Thoroughfares Leading to Palace as Sessions Begin—26 Nations Represented at the Conference.

By United Press.

Paris, Jan. 20.—"You hold in your hands the future of the world," President Poincare, of France, declared today in his address to the peace delegates at the opening of the conference of Paris.

Welcoming the commissioners, Poincare thanked the nations for choosing Paris for the conference.

Poincare's Welcome.

The president's speech was as follows:

"Gentlemen: France greets and thanks you for having chosen as the seat of your labors the city which for more than four years the enemy has made his principal military objective and which the valor of the allied armies has victoriously defended against unceasingly renewed offensives.

"Permit me to see in your decision the homage of all the nations that you represent toward a country which, more than any other, has endured the sufferings of war, of which entire provinces have been transformed into a battlefield and have been systematically laid waste by the invader and which has paid the human tribute in death

"France has borne these enormous sacrifices, although she had not the slightest responsibility for the frightful catastrophe which has overwhelmed the universe. And at the moment when the cycle of horror is ending, all the powers whose delegates are assembled here, may acquit themselves of any share in the crime which has resulted in so unprecedented a disaster. What gives you the authority to establish a peace of justice is the fact that none of the peoples of whom you are the delegates has had any part in the injustice. Humanity can place confidence in you because you are among those who have not outraged the rights of humanity.

The Truth Revealed.

There is no need of further information or of special inquiries into the origin of the drama which has just shaken the world. The truth, bathed in blood, has already escaped from the imperial archives. The premeditated character of the trap is today clearly proved.

"In the hope of conquering first the hegemony of Europe and next the mastery of the world the international empires bound together by a secret plot found the most abominable of pretexts for trying to crush Serbia and force their way to the east. At the same time they disowned the most solemn undertakings in order to crush Belgium and force their way into the heart of France.

"Those are the two unforgettable outrages which opened the way to aggression. The combined efforts of Great Britain and Russia were exerted against that man-made arrogance.

"If after long vicissitudes those who wished to reign by the sword have perished by the sword, they have only themselves to blame. They have been destroyed by their own blindness.

Shameful Bargains.

"What could be more significant than the shameful bargains they attempted to offer to Great Britain and France at the end of July, 1914, when to Great Britain they suggested, "Allow us to attack France on land and we will not enter the channel."

"Then they instructed their ambassador to say to France, 'we will only accept a declaration of neutrality on your part if you surrender to us Briey, Toul and Verdun' It is in the light of these facts, gentlemen that all the conclusions you will have to draw from the war will take shape.

"Your nations entered the war successively but came one and all to the help of threatened right

Guaranteed Belgium.

"Like Germany, Great Britain and France had guaranteed the independence of Belgium. Germany sought to crush Belgium. Great Britain and France both swore to aid her. Thus from the very beginning of hostilities came into conflict the two ideas which for 50 months were to struggle for the dominion of the world—the idea of sovereign force which accepts neither control nor check, and the idea of justice which depends on the sword only to prevent or repress the abuse of strength

"France, duly supported by her dominions and colonies, Great Britain decided that she could not remain aloof from a struggle in which the fate of every country was involved. She has made, and her dominions and colonies have made with her, prodigious efforts to prevent the war from ending in the triumph of the spirit of conquest and the destruction of right.

"Japan in her turn only decided to take up arms out of loyalty to Great Britain, her great ally, and from the consciousness of the danger in which both Asia and Europe would have stood from the hegemony of which the Germanic empires dreamed."

"Italy, who from the first had refused to lend a helping hand to German ambition, rose against an age long foe only to answer the call of oppressed peoples and to destroy at the cost of her blood an artificial political combination which took no account of human liberty.

And Then Rumania.

"Rumania resolved to fight only to realize that national unity which was opposed by the same powers of arbitrary force. Abandoned, betrayed and strangled, she had to submit to an abominable treaty, the revision of which you will exact.

"Greece, whom the enemy for many months tried to turn from her traditions and destinies, raised an army to escape attempts at domination of which she felt the growing threat.

"Portugal, China and Siam abandoned neutrality only to escape the strangling pressure of the central powers. Thus it was the extent of German ambitions that brought so many

Even the Kaiser's Moustache Droo[p] In Mute Sym[p]

Amerongen, Hol[land] [illegible] William Hohenzollern [illegible] manifests itself prin[cipally] [illegible] of chills is being [illegible] constant worriment [illegible] which are plainly [illegible] tures and his gener[al] phys[ical] dition. The former Germa[n] looks to be perhaps 15 years [older] when he crossed the fronti[er] land. Although he is only [62] complete his 60th year his [appearance] suggests a man of [much] short grayish beard [and] moustache and his h[ead] is now sagging

The guards around the [castle] maintaining the strictest [watch] consequence of the revival of [rumors] which do not seem [to have] an attempt might be made [upon] the ex-emperor.

people, great and small against the same adversary

Tribute to America.

"And what shall I say of the resolution taken by the U[nited States] in the spring of 1917 under the of the illustrious president son, who I am happy to greet the name of grateful France you will allow me to say men, in the name of all the nations represented in this room?

"The intervention of the United States was something more than greater than a great political event. It was a supreme judgment passed by the lofty conscience of a free people on the enormous responsibilities incurred in the frightful conflict.

"It was not only to protect its own the audacious aims of Germany and Roumania that the United States sent fleets and created immense armies also and above all, to defend the cause of liberty over which it saw the shadow of the imperial eagle extending further every day America, daughter of Europe, crossed the ocean to rescue her mother from the peril and to save civilization

NO REFERENDUM ON "DRY" AMENDMENT

Legal Authority Says Legislature Is Final—Lobbyists Are Likely to Get a Jolt.

Lincoln Neb., Jan. 20.—The legal talent in the senate is of opinion that the liquor interests find the way blocked in Nebraska any submission to a vote of the people by the referendum process, of the resolution ratifying the national prohibitory amendment. The law provides that only those acts of the legislature that arise out of its taxing power are subject to the referendum and that as the ratification of a national constitutional amendment is a matter referred to it by congress the state itself cannot initiate the amendment, there is no warrant in law for allowing a referendum on the question in ratifying prohibition.

Under the Nebraska law which is subject to the referendum, the filing of a petition within 90 days after the law from going into effect, there is no further action can be taken in connection with it until after a vote of the people has been taken, nearly two years later.

The senators are also of the opinion that Nebraska need not take action other legislative steps toward making prohibition effective, Being already a "dry" state with a prohibitory law working, nothing needs to be done, they think, to make national prohibition more effective

House Discusses Lobbyists

The biennial debate in the house what to do with the lobbyists, staged just before adjournment, is Some woman suffragists have busying themselves during the session, before the house met, lining up members in support of the resolution memorializing congress to submit and asking Senator Hitchcock to about face and represent the wishes of his state on this question At the house, by an unanimous vote, has so, Jenison, of Clay, made a motion all lobbyists be kept off the floor gave rise to strong protests from members who said that this would be their friends and constituents coming in to see them and objected to making the sergeant at the arbiter of who should get passes.

THE BOLSHEVISTS RETREAT

Counter Revolution Forces Are Give Way In Esthonia.

By United Press.

Stockholm, Jan. 18.—Bolshevik forces are retreating in Esthonia account of a counter revolution has broken out in Petrograd, according to a dispatch from Helsingfors received here today. It is believed the bolshevist government must strong forces to suppress the and that this is the reason for the Esthonian army back.

Diplomatic advices received Washington, brought the first the revolt against bolshevist Petrograd. Street fighting reported.

HUMBERT CHARGES FRAUD

French Official Will Escape Trial Treason.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan. 20.—Investigations established the falsity of accusations made against Charles Humbert was charged with communicating Germany the contents of two documents relative to national defense.

New York's biggest hotel, the Waldorf which will soon be completed will accommodate 3,000 guests and employ only women waiters rch Declares Ameri- Will Be Cut to Low- ble Point—Foch So y General Pershing.

CE FORCE V OVERSEAS

sociated Press.
.—All the more impor- assenger steamers, in- ge Imperator, may be port American troops er the extension of the d at Treves. The Ger- e fleet is placed at the associated governments. on to be paid to Germany d on payments for food- d to Germany under an- the agreement. These de 70,000 tons of pork and of cereals. For part of em condensed milk may , Jan. 18.—American nce and in the occupied ermany are to be reduced um strength "consistent tional obligations," Gen- id today. He added that had been informed of General Pershing. an force for the occupied d by international agree- time the armistice was eral March said Marshal tedly would refuse to per- ion of his total strength where it would be inade- dle any possible disturb-al Demobilization.

ion of all army units in States has been ordered, h announced, with the ex- e regular army regiments amp guard purposes and hments necessary to con- nobilization process. The ted for demobilization is tually returned from mobilization now number gives a grand total or- ed of 1,281,000, of which nd 51,593 officers have d to date. The rate of in is nearing the maxi- of 1,000 men per camp an interruption by the outhern Border. to the regular regiments, from the blanket demo- r include the cavalry on border, coast artillery coast defenses, detach- ts, and the medical per- last force now numbers neral March said it would adually as the number of care for was reduced.

PROTECT GREEKS

ment of Any Found De- Children of Greece.

Associated Press.
20.—Under pressure of e Bulgarian government that charges be preferred people who are detaining nd girls, who were carried astern Macedonia during children have been given t of this order, but every of Greek children are e Greek mission here by who find them on the ber of Ships Under ction Here—The res For All Countries.

NG HONORS BY AMERICA

Associated Press.
n. 20.—During the last 18 there were begun in 424 ships having a ton- 52, compared to 395 ships e of 1,866,591 during the in 1917, according to figures. Ships now ac- construction in the United a total tonnage of about r than during the quar- n September. The large these vessels are between 00 capacity. Ships con- ther than mercantile pur- ll as ferro-concrete ves- e of less than 100 tons, ed in the total.
d neutral countries there ast available figures were 9 merchant vessels hav- tonnage of 6,921,980. Of ere biulding in countries reat Britain.
States led with 907 ships e of 3,647,919. The fig- countries are:
6 ships, 278,711 tons; ps, 278,140 tons; Holland, 512 tons; Italy, 56 ships, Sweden, 76 ships, 99,639 35 ships, 77,593 tons; ships, 72,143 tons; Nor- 67,738 tons, and France, 0 tons.
total includes 14 ferro- s having a tonnage of

ER BALLOT BOXES

Control of Election Re- In Ford Contest.

Associated Press.
Jan. 20.—In the Ford- chigan senatorial election enate elections committee d to have the Senate ser- s take possession of all boxes and other documen- to be held for future ex- An immediate investiga- anned.

GERMANS MUST SPEED UP DELIVERY OF WAR MATERIALS

German officers, with white flags, passing through American lines to deliver war materials to Yanks

"HUNGER" WOMEN FREED

Suffragets Gain Freedom From Washington Jail.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Twenty-two militant suffragists, weak from hunger striking, were released from jail early today. They had been locked up for "lighting fires on government property." Monday they burned copies of President Wilson's speeches in Europe, in a "watch fire of freedom," before the White House. This, they said, was in protest for his failure to force through the suffrage amendment in the Senate.

PARTIAL VICTORY WON BY WILSON

President Stands Pat on Open Sessions of Conference—Concessions Deemed Encouraging.

By United Press.

Paris, Jan. 20.—The first sitting of the peace congress today found President Wilson partially victorious in the fight for recognition of his first principle—"open covenants, openly arrived at."

Today's peace conference sitting was planned as a formal affair with an imposing turnout of troops, impressive ceremonies and a keynote speech by President Poincare.

President Wilson's vigorous fight for an open conference was backed by the universal stand of the American correspondents. He was finally successful in securing a rule whereby a limited number of newspapers would be permitted at the full sittings. The situation as it stood today was similar to that in the United States Senate where reporters are allowed to hear all proceedings except committee metings and executive sessions.

The Reported Facts.

Following are the facts

Several days ago the president began a quiet movement for recognition of his first principle. Discussions developed. Premier Lloyd George agreed with Wilson, but French, Italian and Japanese delegates refused to agree to have the press represented at any conference. Finally with the aid of Lloyd George, the president succeeded in having the gag proposal laid over, pending suggestions from the correspondents. American newspapermen led the protest against secrecy with representatives of the press of Britain, Italy and smaller nations, uniting in the demand for publicity—the French dissenting throughout.

During the conversations the president's only reservation was said to be that there should be no publicity on some questions on which there was no final action, lest the report of the proceedings should come out piecemeal, thus creating misunderstandings which might have serious results.

Publicity Seen.

The president expects that as the conferences go on, delicate points will be disposed of, and more and more meeting will be public, until the final sessions when he hopes they will all be open. The American correspondents, however, are not yet satisfied. They see a possibility of only a few sessions being open and are preparing to invite newspaper men of all nations to cooperate in pressing their respective delegations for more public sittings.

5,000 TROOPS RETURNED

Transport and Crusier Dock With Soldier Passenger List.

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 18.—The American steamship President Grant, and the battleship South Dakota, arrived from Brest with troops. The liner's passengers were largely from the field artillery and comprised more than 4,600 men.

On the warship were 16 officers and 1 372 men, representing the entire 56th coast artillery except Battalion F and 30 officers, and the 474th aero squadron, 7 officers and 145 men.

Troops aboard the President Grant included the headquarters company, of the Eighth field artillery, brigade, 2 officers and 41 men, and the following field artillery regiments: Second, 32 officers and 1,434 men, 65th, 32 officers and 1,294 men, 83rd, 23 officers and 1,371 men. Company H, 347th infantry, 4 officers and 207 men also was aboard.

All these troops are regulars.

FOCH PROPOSALS ALARM TEUTONS

Suggestion That the Rhine Serve as Barrier For France Brings Statement Promptly Threatening Another Great War.

By United Press.

American Headquarters in Germany, Jan. 17 (by courier to Nancy)—If the Rhinelands are taken from Germany, a spirit of revenge will be engendered—a spirit that bring on another war, Count Von Groote, governor of the Rhenish provinces, declared today.

Marshal Foch, in an interview with the newspaper correspondents made public today, declared that France, in self defense, must keep its hold on the Rhine.

Von Groote made the emphatic assertion that the Germans would never forget any retention by France of the Rhineland territory.

Ultimate redemption of such territory by Germany would be the object of their "hopes and endeavors," he said.

"Germany as a whole would consider such severance as a gross violation of the fundamental conditions for an equitable peace of nations, as proclaimed by President Wilson," Von Groote declared.

"The territory on the left bank of the Rhinelands belongs to Germany and is thoroughly German." (This is the area at present occupied by American and allied troops).

"We would never forget such a severance and the reunion with Germany would be the object of our most ardent hopes and endeavors.

Part of Propaganda.

An effort to influence the peace conference decisions by whining or wheedling, is evident in recent statements from German leaders. Von Groote's plea and war hit, follows an utterance from Bernstorff, wherein he insinuated that it would be dishonest for the allies to retain the German colonies.

PRISONERS SHOT IN COLD BLOOD

Americans, Returned From German Prison Camps, Ready to Make Affidavits.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Jan. 20, (American Headquarters in Germany, by courier to Nancy)—Americans who were prisoners in Germany will make affidavits exposing a number of new German atrocities, General Harries states. The worst of these occurred when Germans, without provocation, fired upon prisoners playing football, killing and wounding numbers of them. The last of the American prisoners are now on their way home, General Harries said.

A commission has been appointed to assist in repatriating Russian, Serbian and Rumanian prisoners.

MANY PHYSICALLY UNFIT

Figures Show One Third In Army Draft In Poor Health.

By United Press.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 20.—Nearly one-third of the men physically examined for the army failed to qualify for service. Because of this startling record of poor physique, an effort is being made through the reserve officers training camps and 250 schools and colleges to make and keep the men physically fit for service at all times.

VISIT DEVASTATED REGIONS.

Paris, Jan. 18.—President Wilson will avail himself of the first opportunity, between the meetings of the peace delegations, to visit the devastated regions of France.

SILLIMAN DIES.

Washington, Jan. 18.—John R. Silliman, United States consul at Guadalajara, who figured prominently as a representative of the American government during the Heurta regime in Mexico, died at Guadalajara yesterday at noon.

FIX EXCESS PROFIT TAX

Senate Committee Makes Recommendation For Next Year.

Washington, Jan 20.—Senate rates for taxing war excess profits of corporations in 1920 and thereafter, estimated to raise about $1,600,000,000 annually, were agreed today by conferees on the war revenue bill. A decision on the 1919 rates was deferred

Senate conferees agreed to the extension of the 80 per cent war profits levy in 1920, applicable only to war contracts, which still may remain

VOLUNTEERS HELP REPEL THE POLES

Germans In East Prussia Unite Against Bolshevism and the Polish Army, Berlin States

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Jan 20—Volunteers are joining the colors in great numbers at Koenigsberg to protect the boundaries of East Prussia from bolshevist aggression and against the Poles, according to reports received here.

Declaring that the east frontier will soon be lost unless the Germans awake to the danger, the Lokal Anzeiger declares that 800,000 Germans in Posen are being prevented by the Poles from arranging for elections to the national assembly.

Proclamations regarding the "advancing Polish army" are being issued by the Poles who have regular reports.

In the meantime the soldiers and workmen's council at Essen is reported to have forbidden agitation for the raising of troops for home defense, and the Brunswick government has forbidden their transportation in that section and is said to have disarmed many of them. At a meeting at Breslau it was reported that the Czechs have an army of 500,000 men on the border and threaten an invasion.

Polish troops numbering 18 divisions are said to be about to invade upper Silesia. Lemberg reports state that the people of the threatened district have formulated an appeal to President Wilson, asking for protection against the Czechs. The appeal points out that their country has been overwhelmingly German since the 13th century. Mr. Wilson is asked to prevent the forcible annexation of their country by the Czechs, saying that such an annexation would be in violation of the principles of the elementary justice and "would help sow the seeds for a new war."

THE REDS WANT PEACE

New Bolshevist Proposal Said to Have Been Made Allies.

London, Jan. 20.—Foreign Minister Litvinoff, of the Russian bolshevist government, has made several proposals on behalf of the soviet regime, through the medium of a friendly emissary for the opening of peace negotiations with the entente, according to the Evening Standard today. None of these propositions, however, has been substantial enough to receive serious consideration either in Paris or London.

The main contentions of the bolshevists are that their regime be maintained intact, with amnesty for all crimes committed in their name, and that their confiscation of property and money be recognized as lawfully enacted measures.

LABOR RIOT AT BOSTON

Storm City Hall and Police Reserves Are Called.

By United Press.

Boston, Jan. 18.—Hundreds of unemployed, including 300 former chauffeurs of the army, stormed city hall here today in a huge demonstration against unemployment.

Fearing violence, city officials called reserve police forces, who held the mob in check.

City officials informed the demonstrators that if they would appoint a committee a committee Mayor Peters would receive it. Representatives were appointed and went into conference with the mayor.

Mayor Peters promised to give their grievances attention.

A new photograph of Eddie Rickenbacker received by friends shows that he has lost his characteristic smile. "The smile of bygone days has faded considerably," the ace himself writes.

ACCEPT ALL AMENDMENTS

Nonpartisan League Program Approved In North Dakota.

Bismarck, N. D., Jan 18.—Without debate and in only a 45-minute session the North Dakota senate late yesterday ratified the seven Nonpartisan League amendments to the state constitution which were voted upon at the last general election. The amendments permit the Nonpartisan League to carry into effect its whole program of state owned elevators, flour mills coal mines, packing plants, etc.

REVEAL DETAILS OF BOCHE TERMS

German Armistice Representatives Accept Stipulation—To Turn Over Farm Machinery.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan 18—Marshal Foch Admiral Browning, and the German armistice commissioners signed an agreement for a renewal of the armistice between the allies and Germany yesterday. The armistice is extended for one month and the extension will be renewed thereafter until the conclusion of peace subject to the approval of the allied governments.

The principal terms of the renewal are substantially as has been reported. In addition there is a clause by which the allied command reserves the right to occupy that part of the Strosburg defenses comprised by the forests on the eastern bank of the Rhine and a strip of territory from three to six miles beyond. Other clauses provide for the substitution for supplementary railroad material, large quantities of industrial and agricultural implements and give control of Russian prisoners in Germany to allied and associated delegates for repatriation.

The naval clauses provide that all submarines must be turned over, including all submarine cruisers, mine layers, sweepers, salvage ships and floating docks for submarines. They also stipulate that building of all submarines must cease, and those on the stocks must be dismantled or destroyed under allied supervision.

EXPECT PRICE OF COAL TO DECREASE

Over-Production as War Ends, and Mild Winter Sends Cost Down Some Places.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan 18.—Fuel administration officials expect a decrease in the price of bituminous coal and coke to result from an order today discontinuing maximum prices on these commodities and eliminating the zone system of their distribution. The order is effective February 1, but does not affect anthracite coal.

Reductions in the demand for bituminous coal as the result of the ending of hostilities and the unusually mild weather this winter made it impossible to maintain maximum prices, officials said. At many points they declared, the price for bituminous coal has been well below the maximum and it was intimated that this situation largely influenced Fuel Administrator Garfield in removing the restriction.

No intimation was given as to when the regulations on anthracite coal would continue to exercise control until the close of the coal year, next April and possibly longer.

TALK OF TAFT AGAIN

Former President Suggested as Republican Candidate.

Washington Bureau of The Tribune.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—The latest thing in politics is that the old friends of William Howard Taft are trying to start a boom for him for the presidency. They are putting out feelers and circulating stories that the progressives have come to think well of the former president. As a matter of fact the progressive republicans say Taft is impossible and refuse to take seriously the movement to boom him. The conservative leaders are also fighting very shy of it.

WANTS BUSINESS LEADER

Senator Lewis Suggests Permanent Democratic Chairman.

By United Press.

Washington, Jan 18.—Senator Lewis, Illinois will propose to the democratic national committee that it abandon the periodical appointment of a national chairman and name somebody to hold the job premanently as a "business proposition."

Lewis advocated having the new chairman chosen as a business executive. He would maintain an office in Washington and would keep the country informed of party activities. This plan has manifest advantages, according to Lewis.

Democratic congressmen expect Homer Cummings as Vance McCormick's successor, to be national democratic chairman.

WILL OCCUPY HARBORS

Allied Troops to Take Positions East of the Rhine.

By Associated Press.

Amsterdam, Jan. 18.—The commander of the neutral zone east of the Rhine in the region of Duisberg, Rhenish Prussia, announces that allied troops will occupy the harbors and landing places on the right bank of the Rhine. Duisberg will be occupied by two companies of troops.

Back Lame and Achy?

There's little peace when your kidneys are weak and while at first there may be nothing more serious than dull backache, sharp, stabbing pains, headaches, dizzy spells and kidney irregularities, you must act quickly to avoid the more serious trouble, dropsy, gravel, heart disease, Bright's disease. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that is so warmly recommended everywhere by grateful users.

An Iowa Case

Charles D. Hayes, 122 N 2d St., Albia, Iowa, says "Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of lameness in my back and other symptoms of kidney trouble. Whenever the opportunity has occurred I have recommended this medicine for I know that it can be relied upon to bring relief. I had no need of Doan's Kidney Pills for the last few years for they permanently cured me."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Calf Enemies

WHITE SCOURS BLACKLEG

Your Veterinarian can stamp them out with Cutter's Anti-Calf Scour Serum and Cutter's Germ Free Blackleg Filtrate and Aggressin, or Cutter's Blackleg Pills.

Ask him about them. If he hasn't our literature, write to us for information on these products.

The Cutter Laboratory
Berkeley, Cal., or Chicago, Ill.
"The Laboratory That Knows How"

Bring Your Friends Along

I am well pleased with EATONIC, and it surely does just what it says it will. Knew I can recommend it highly, because my customers come back for more and not only praise it, but bring or send their friends for it. An old gentlemen 87 years old says, "I would get indigestion so bad, thought I would die, would have to get a physician and be in bed from one to three days; in July I got EATONIC and have not had a spell since, nor a physican and I know EATONIC has kept me well." J. E. PROCTOR, Druggist, Wooster, Ohio.

After meals eat one

EATONIC

FOR YOUR STOMACH'S SAKE

Removes Heartburn, Indigestion, that full feeling, almost instantly; drives gas out of body and the bloat with it. All Druggists.

Stop Losing Calves

You can Stamp Abortion Out of YOUR HERD and Keep It Out

By the use of
DR. DAVID ROBERTS'
"Anti-Abortion"

Small Expense
Easily Applied. Sure Results.
Used successfully for 20 years.
Consult DR. DAVID ROBERTS about all animal ailments. Information free. Send for FREE copy of "The Cattle Specialist" with full information on Abortion in Cows. DR. DAVID ROBERTS VETERINARY CO., 160 Grand Ave., Waukesha, Wisc.

O. A. Rice, President
J. J. Donohue, Vice Pres., in charge of Hog Dept.
W. J. Downey, Sec.-Treas., in charge Cattle Dept.

"Service That Serves"
A Guarantee of Satisfaction

RICE BROTHERS
Live Stock Commission Merchants
Ship us your cattle, hogs and sheep for best results
Stock Yards SIOUX CITY, IOWA

The Original House — The Reliable House

Direct From Nets to People That Eat Them
References Postmaster and Citizens Bank
Season open now. Send for our price list.
Consumers Fish Co. P. O. Box 623 GREEN BAY, WIS.

TIRES If you are interested in cutting down your tire expense, write us today for full particulars. No seconds or retreads.
AUTOMOBILE OWNERS TIRE CORPORATION
General Offices - Sioux City, Iowa
"The Oil Refining—Largest in the World"
4,500 — Miles Guarantee — 7,000

Olson SPORTING GOODS
Everything for the Sportsman and Athlete
Ask For Catalogue
406 Pearl Street, SIOUX CITY, IOWA

SEED WANTED
Red Clover, Timothy, Alsike and Sweet Clover.
WERTZ SEED & BIRD CO.
314 Fourth Street SIOUX CITY, IOWA

SIOUX CITY WELDING & MACHINE WORKS
Welding—Auto cylinders, Castings, Auto parts, brass, aluminum and other metals. Machine work—Gear cutting, cylinder grinding, new pistons, lathe work, gas and steam engine work. Auto Radiator Repairing. Cor. W. 7th & Pearl Sts., SIOUX CITY, IOWA

Ship Your HIDES, WOOL and FURS TO
Boles & Rogers, 1st & Iowa Sts., Sioux City, Ia.
Highest price at all times.

DON'T Sacrifice Liberty Bonds. Highest Cash price guaranteed. Partly paid bonds also bought. Irwin & Co., 306 Security Building, Sioux City, Iowa.

In our crowd of

GOOD OVERCOATS—

It's difficult to pick out the winner, because they all have their special "fields of industry and usefulness."

There is a special Chesterfield for professional men.

Dark Oxford, (also silk lined) $25.00 to $45.00.

Specials for young men, short in the waist, full in the skirt, close fitting, $27.50 to $50.00.

Specials for business, in grey, straight full back, medium length, $25.00 to $40.00.

Specials for storms, the kind with the large collar—long and double breasted.

People are discovering that the value giving goods are here ,that their money goes further here

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

"Where a dollar does it's duty"

The Crystal Cafe is

The Place To Eat!

Come in and get a box of Our Holly Brand Chocalats in Beautiful Boxes!

Always a Full, Fresh Line of Candy Cigars and Tobacco,

CRYSTAL CAFE

"A Good Place To Eat"

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE—State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105

RESIDENCE North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X Ray Radiographers Electrical Treatments

Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in

Groceries Dry Goods

Shoes Ladies Wear

Hardware Paint

Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

Little Progress

My nephew on the first day learned. He how to spell thought I knew to school."—Chicago

A Billion Silver Dollars.

One billion silver dollars, laid in a row, says Gas Logic, each coin just touching the one before it and the one following, would form a line that would reach practically around the entire world.

CLOVER SEED for sale. Ask J. A. Young, Garner, Iowa.

Oscar Musfelt visited with Garner friends Saturday evening and Sunday.

This vicinity was visited by a light rain Monday.

Burr Church was a Garner caller between trains Monday morning.

Mr. F. J. Wenck was a Garner visitor between trains Monday morning.

Mr. B. Meindts, of Ackley, was a business caller in Klemme Monday.

HOUSE FOR SALE in Klemme. Inquire of Frank Kluckhohn, Garner, Iowa.

M. A. Fell, of Garner, was a Klemme caller between trains Tuesday afternoon.

Charles and Frankie Gibbs were over to Garner last Thursday between trains.

Paul Grange went to Ruthven, Iowa, Saturday, for a few days visit with his parents.

Ye Editor kicked his shins under mother's table at Garner for dinner Sunday.

Miss Becker was a passenger to Garner Monday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Haberkamp.

J. W. Berggren left Tuesday afternoon on a business trip to look up a business location

C G. Goodell left Tuesday noon for Grundy Center, Iowa, for a week's visit with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berggren were business callers at Garner between trains Monday morning.

E. C. Ford, the insurance man of Garner, was a Klemme business caller Saturday.

Charles Schoenwetter, of Garner, was a Klemme caller Saturday between trains.

Fred Haupt has been at Mason City the past week taking treatments. He returned to Mason City again Tuesday after spending Sunday here.

Frank Kellogg of Garner, was in Klemme the fore part of this week looking after the business of the Iowa Falls Electric Co.

Philip Bock returned Saturday from Waukeshaw, Wisconsin, where he visited with his brother, Willy, a few days.

Floyd Ollemberg and R. A Jorgenson autoed over to Garner last Friday evening to see "Uncle Sammies Minstrels."

Mr. and Mrs. Mart Bachman have moved into town and will live in the Henry Yahnke house or east Main Street. Mr. Bachman bought the place some time ago.

Mrs. J. F. Ryan and little daughter, of Garner, came Monday noon for a short visit with her husband, J F. Ryan. The family expect to be settled in their new home here in a few days.

Harry Butcher, who has recently returned from overseas duties, was a Klemme visitor several days the past week. He went to Garner last Friday to visit with his brother, Homer Butcher and family

Fred Haupt enjoyed a visit from his brother, Alvin, of Rowan, and his brother Charles, of Belmond, who came last Saturday for an over Sunday vsit at the Haupt home. They returned to their homes Monday noon.

Don't forget that there is a dance at the Idle Hour Theatre in Klemme on every Friday night. Come and have a good time.

The studnets of the Klemme High School gave a party in the old opera house Tuesday evening. The evening was spent in playing various games and a light lunch was later served. All report a most enjoyable evening.

Having received several requests to resume my calls to Klemme, I have decided to accommodate those who desire Osteopathic Treatments and will be at the Klemme Hotel Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Dr. R. W Schultz, Osteopathic Physician.

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed.....1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger.....3:03 p. m.
435, Passenger.....8:44 a. m.

South

436, Passenger.....6:17 p. m.
1068, Passenger.....11:25 a. m.
820, Freight.....12:15 p. m.

BOB SLED and Harness for sale. Inquire of E. S. Uben.

D. D. Ross, of Garner, was a business caller here Tuesday.

"Dad" Kelley, of Garner, was a business caller here Tuesday.

George Neimeyer, of Garner, was a Klemme caller between trains Monday

Wm. Bachman was a passenger to Mason City Monday.

Mr. Palmer, of Minneapolis, was a business caller here Monday.

Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Meyer were guests to a dinner at the Otto Luick home last Sunday.

Farmers! Get your sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop, we guarantee a good, first class job.

Jake Bachman, of Goodell, was a Klemme caller between trains Monday afternoon.

Mrs. W. F. Pavey was a Garner visitor Monday afternoon between trains

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Griewe were Garner visitors last Thursday between trains.

William Coobs of McGregor, arrived in Klemme Monday evening for a visit at the W. F. Pavey home.

The directors of the State Savings Bank met Tuesday on business matters.

Mrs. Henry Wade left Tuesday noon for Clarion for a visit with relatives and friends.

Elmer Schmidt, of Garner, came Monday noon for a visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

Eli Espe, of Radcliffe, came Monday noon for a short visit with Klemme friends.

Clyde Montgomery returned from Camp Dodge Saturday, having received his discharge.

Orville Kenyon drove over from Garner Tuesday in his Ford. He says that the roads were in a very bad shape.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS will meet Friday evening, January 24th, at the A. Kirkwood home. All members are requested to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Berggren returned from Buffalo Center on last Thursday evening where they visited with friends for a couple of days.

Charles Gibbs, Sr., and Charles Gibbs, Jr., drove over to Garner last Sunday and brought Jim Young back to Klemme to perform veterinary work.

The young people of Klemme, and some of the older people also, took advantage of the good skating at the creek last week. The ice was frozen over smooth and skating was fine.

The Idle Hour Theatre will run picture shows only on Saturday nights hereafter. They will run six reels of good feature and comedy and the price of admission will be 15c and 25c. Let's go.

George Meyer, of Thornton, was a Klemme visitor Monday. George has just received his discharge from the army. He has been stationed at Camp Forest and was in the Engineering Corps.

John Bachman will move onto the Mart Bachman farm, having rented it for the coming year. Mart has decided that town is the best place and so moved here Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Bachman are now nicely settled in their new home.

J. P. Larsen is a daily visitor to Garner, going up on the morning train and returning in the evening. He is assisting in the meat market there which they purchased about two weeks ago. He will help out there until his son "Scoop" gets back from France.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7:30 p. m.

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

SPECIAL!

Choice

Home Killed Quarters

At

RIGHT PRICES

J. P. Larsen & Sons

SPECIAL BANKING SERVICE FOR FARMERS

No matter what your plans may be for 1919 you need the help and co-operation of a good bank. You be safe in taking this bank into partnership with you during the coming year.

In addition to offering a complete banking service our officers are always ready to discuss your business or financial problems with you and confidentially.

We pay 5 per cent interest on Certificate of Deposit accounts. Keep your idle money working.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Iowa

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16. Residence Phone No. 52

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Telephone No. 14

Coal.

Though wood and turf formed the fuel of our early ancestors, investigations have proved that the Britons, even prior to the Roman occupation, made use of coal. But as it was possible to utilize only such coal as lay at or near the surface, the practice did not make headway for many centuries.

"Pone."

Pone is a word of Indian derivation and an early English historian of Virginia took pains to explain that it was not from the Latin panis, meaning bread, but from the red Indian word oppone, and it was early applied in the south to any bread made of Indian corn.

KLEMME TIMES

UME XXIII NUMBER 22 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, January 30 1919 | $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

nch of Letters From Our Heroes Over There" And Other Notes

RITTEN TO MR. HENRY LSTAEDT, SPOKANE, H AND SENT TO MRS Z. STILLE OF THIS CITY.

a copy of Levi's last letter vember 24 and received the before Christmas. On the where we place a stamp and "Over There" write 'Soldiers s written "Dad's Christmas

wn Dear Folks;

Well this is another lonely afternoon. But we are told is 'Dad's Day' and that we e 'Dad' anything we want to ith the exception of 'kicking cking' and I wouldn't do that , luck having in our favor. words, the ban of censorship y been lifted, and we are for time permitted to write of eriences. We do not yet know about the time when we are n home, but one thing we very day here must be bring- ne day nearer home.

in a convalescent camp here , a few kilometers from Nev- a hundred miles due south of I am living in a big tent, and re not for some little friends o constantly try to stay with d who keep me busy washing erilizing my clothes, I might l, for the weather is cold and just like our Washington at this time of the year. As before I was not brought here I was wounded or very ill ause I was completely worn

I dare tell you a few things ook place long, long ago, but which had at the time to be kept a 'secret.'

"We landed at Liverpool, England, the latter part of July, sailing very far north around the upper part of Ireland. We traveled thru England by train, going thru Oxford, and many other places of interest. From South Hampton we crossed the Channel and landed at Le Havre, and from Havre we traveled in freight cars, packed like sardines, for three days and nights. Then we were billited at Damertine, which is four kilometers from Montigurey Le Roy That is the Somewhere in France' from which I used to write you. We were in training there seven weeks and were then ordered to action.

"We were first sent in reserve at the St. Mihil drive, near Metz. We were there three days, and though we could constantly hear the barking of the big guns, we were not under immediate fire. From there we were taken to the Verdun front, and then to the Argonne Forest. I wonder if, as you read about these places, you ever had a feeling that your boy was there. The French said it would be impossible ever to drive the Germans from those strongholds, because of the dense forests, and their advantageous situation there. The British said Pershing had picked for his men the hardest job of the whole war. The French said it couldn't be done, and the Germans said shouldn't be done, but Pershing said it could and it would be done. And we were sent to do it. And I shall thank God all my days for His wonderful preservation of me during those sixteen days I spent in Hell.

"On the night of the 25th of September, about nine o'clock, we were marched to the front line trenches to relieve the Frenchmen there. We had to lie there until five o'clock the next morning. Cold? My goodness gracious, I had no blanket or overcoat and was nver so cold and dead tired in my life! There was no thought of sleep, however. In the rear of us were hundreds and hundreds of artillery guns of all shapes and sizes, and about twelve, thirty that night they opened up a barrage. Say, of all Fourth of July celebrations! This had all of them put together beaten a mile. Those big terrible guns reminded me some of old 'Tike.' You remember how his bark used to scare us pretty near to death, especially at night. These guns would go Woof! Woof! Woof! and seemed to shake the very foundations of the earth. Well, I can't explain why, but somehow, during these proceedings, and thet hundering unearthly noise of it all, I seemed to lose all fear and concern about my own life. I was, with many of the others, anxiously waiting for five o'clock to come so we could go 'over the top' and promptly at five over we went, our guns loaded and bayonets fixed. I shall never be able to describe fully to you what our eyes bheld there. No Man's Land, with it's millions of feet of barbed wire entanglements, and its thousands and thousands of shell holes one right at the other, was a terrible sight. The sun was trying to shine thru the fog and smoke, but couldn't quite make it. There wasn't a German in sight, and I never got to see one until nine o'clock when eighteen of them were marched my way. They had been captured by the captain of my company, and happy looking fellows they were, for they knew that for them the war was finished.

"We traveled rapidly all that day making about six miles, and capturing three or four hundred prisoners. We had scarcely any opposition to speak of, for th enemy knew before hand what was going to happen, and knew that scarcely a human being could have lived under such a terrible barrage as the Allies laid down that morning. At five o'clock we fell out to rest a little while, but at once learned that snipers had us spotted. At least I did, for the first thing I knew something was whiz, whizing over my head. I flopped down on the ground only to get there just in time to have a bullet hit my helmet square in the center. But for the old helmet I wouldn't be writing to you now, for that foolish runaway bullet would have gone right between my eyes. As it was it only gave me a severe headache and left a bright scar on the helmet, glancing off into the arm of a lieutenant lying right aside of me Well, on Friday and Saturday we certainly knew that we were in a fighting unit, but it was on Sunday morning that we ran up against the real opposition. We had by then crossed the Hindenburg line and approached the point which the Germans intended to hold at any cost, and to save which they had gathered practically all their remaining strength. We were on one side of a hill and they on the other. About eight o'clock we popped our heads over the brow of the hill and promptly they greeted us with a most wonderful terrible barrage. Machine guns on either side of us, an unguessed lot of artillery in front of us. We of course flopped on the ground and found ourselves in ne of the hottest fires any human mind could imagine. Machine gun bullets whizzing in every direction, and shells continually bursting right among us, and covering us with dirt. One burst right at my feet, but luckily this one wasn't a gas shell nor did it hurt me, except to shake me pretty much. But there certainly were plenty of the gas ones. By this time the order came for us to crawl backward into the bushes, where we lay in the wet and rain until four o'clock in the afternoon. Then the order came for us to take our objective at any cost and we did. But it certainly was some cost. I never saw anything like it, and hope I never shall again. It was as if the 'gates of Hell' had opened and as if the very skies were raining every kind of shot and shell and 'fire and brimstone.' But Someone held me fast, and I went thru it all without an injury. I certainly had a hard time though to find even a remnant of our company that night at eleven o'clock when the order came for us to retreat to our morning position.

'From that time until I left the company, two weeks later, we were under constant fire of all sorts, and lost heavily in numbers, but always held our position.

"I am very well now, and pray every day that you may all be too.

"Here is wishing you all a joyous blessed Christmas, and hoping that I may see you all soon.

"My best to all my relatives and friends.

"With worlds of love,
Levi Kohlstaedt,
Co. D. 362nd Inf. 91st Div.
American E. F,

LETTER FROM ART KUCK TO DR. GEO. ZINN

France, Dec. 28, 1919

Mr. Geo. Zinn,
Klemme, Iowa.

Dear Friend "Doc".—

As this is Saturday evening and have some spare time I will with great pleasure send you a few words. At present it finds me pretty fair and here is hopes this letter may find you in the best of health and happiness. Well Doc., how is the world using you anyhow? I hope fine, I myself really can't kick only that I am bothered with rheumatism at times and also have some stomach trouble, otherwise old Kuck is holding his own pretty well. At present we have some bad weather, it started to rain 3 weeks ago and is still at it. So you see we sure have lots of mud and water to contend with, but at that it's fairly warm. The grass here looks just like in the States by June, as green as can be, of course Doc this is what they call "The Sunny South." I suppose around Klemme you have snow and maybe lots of it, so far I haven't seen any here. Well Doc, I myself did not get to the front yet. I helped win this Great War with a saw and hammer and also have done some concrete work But believe me we sure worked hard day after day, rain or shine and are still working. You just ought to see all we did, we built around 110 ware-houses, and they all are 50x150 feet; and one is even still bigger, it is 250x540 feet and all steel and concrete, believe me that is a dandy. We also built about 150 barracks. Talk about work, we sure worked hard to help win this war, of course we did not see the front but just the same we did our share, because the boys in the front depended on us for supplies and I can tell you they got it. Well Doc, at present I am herding a bunch of Huns. I certainly keep them busy. I am the interpreter, some scout ach' As my letter is getting long and I am somewhat tired I'll come to a close. Tell all the boys hello. I may be home some time in April or May, I'm not sure yet, but certainly hope so. I have plenty to eat and a good place to sleep. Good luck to you, hello to all the Klemme people.

Your soldier friend,
Private Arthur Kuck,
Co. A, 32 Engrs.,
American E F.

COMING HOME SOON

A. P. O. 749 Bonnetable, (France)
January 6, 1919.

Dear Folks:—

Well ma, I am feeling fine this morning and hope you folks are the same. I never got much sleep last night as I was on guard, went on at 1:00 and off at 5:00. That was not very much, but still that four hours of sleep looks good to me now. But when I get home I will never think of sleep, and that will be soon. We are about ready to leave here now, so I expect to be in Klemme some time next month and I hope that I will because I have seen plenty of France for this time.

I sure wish that we were across the pond. I know that I sure will feed the fish th first two or three days.

How is Hazelle? Does she feel any better now and have they done anything with her yet? And how is Ida? Hazelle wrote and said she was pretty sick. I am going to close for this time, so good bye ma and pa.

Your only son,
L. G. L.
(George Lawhorn)

LETTER FROM ALBERT CAROLUS TO HIS FOLKS

A. E. F Dec 23, 1918

Dear Folks.—

I thought I would write you a few lines that I am well and hope the same of you. I have not received any letters since I've been in France, but I hope I will soon receive some. We are now staying in Germany, it is not very cold here yet and the people are still plowing here. We have done lots of hiking since I came to France We have been hiking for 18 days now, that is further than I ever walked at one time when I was home but I did not mind it much only I was pretty tired some evenings. I suppose it is pretty cold up home now I am certainly glad that it is not very cold here We have been hiking along side of the Rhine river for two days It is a pretty nice place, there are mountains on both sides. We had a little snow but it is pretty near all gone now It is raining here today, it rains quite often here. Well I hope they will send us home pretty soon. Well, I don't know any more news so I will close.

From your loving son,
Pvt. Albert Carolus,
Co. H, 38 Inf. Am. E. F.
A P O 740

Mrs R. M. Thomas received a letter from her husband in France stating that he was expecting to leave and that he may beat the letter to the United States. He may arrive in Klemme soon.

Word was received from Holly Lewis stating that he expected to be on his way home by the time his letter reaches Klemme. Here's hoping he gets home soon.

W. F. Pavey received a card from Ben Coobs saying he arrived in Boston, Mass., Jan. 21st and that he will be sent to Camp Funston for his discharge.

Letters to parents from their sons in France indicate that a great many of them are preparing to leave soon.

OUR HEROES

Klemme Boys With The Colors

The following is a list of the Klemme young men who are in the Army or Navy. Clip this out and paste it in your scrap book to keep as a record of the young men who fought for The Great Cause.

The names printed in black face type represent the young men who made the Supreme Sacrifice

Holly Lewis	Howard Wilson
R. M Thomas	Verner Bredlow
Ben T. Schaefer	Henry Linne
Ralph Jones	Carl Boehl
Geo. B. H. Lau	Henry Schuldt
Arthur Henry Kuck	Hugo Neff
Ben John Coobs	Adrian Bielefeld
Herman Coobs	Robert Roths
Grover C. Dailey	Tom Roths
Carl Sonderfeld	Dewey Rice
Oscar Wm. Larsen	Elmer Hartbeck
Leonard Burrows	Lester Stille
Arthur McElmurray	Willie Bock
Paul Grange	Geo Lawhorn
Hidreth Jefson	Richard Bamman
Frank Addam	Wert Loger
M. M. Magner	Casey Blank
Ernest Lewis	Fred Becker
Geo. Hoppe	W. A Ridder
Fred Hoppe	Geo. H. Meyer
Walter Maitland	Fred Etchen
John Mossel	Wm. Patrick Dore
Verner Lewis	Wesley Schuettpelz
Jefferson Bell	Ben Goll
Chas Braden	Albert Carolus
Albert Kraus	F. Ben Ridder
Carl Suckow	Herman Miller

This list is open to correction and we will be glad to have you call our attention to the matter. If any names have been left off please tell us of it so that we can publish the entire list as soon as possible. We may possibly have over looked some names.

CARD OF APPRECIATION

I want to sincerely thank my many friends who have been so kind in assisting me and lending a helping hand in my recent illness. I appreciate it very much and take this means of expressing my appreciation to the people of Klemme and this vicinity.

FOR SALE—DUROC JERSEYS

Two pure-bred registered Spring Gilts to farrow in April, at $50 each

Two yearling sows to farrow in March, at $150 each. These are bred to Critic Sensation, the biggest spring boar in Northern Iowa. Write or phone to 3w F. H. Schuldt, Goodell, Iowa.

Work Shoe Special!

Upon inventory we find ourselves overstocked with Men's Work Shoes. WE MUST SELL SEVERAL HUNDRED PAIRS in order to reduce our stock to it's proper size. In order to do this we are going to conduct a

Special Sale On Men's Work Shoes

Starting Friday, Jan. 31 and closing Feb. 8

Farmers and Working Men of Klemme and vicinity, this your opportunity! Make your purchases in the Work Shoe Line to last you a year at least.

15 per cent DISCOUNT 15 per cent

That's what we are going to give you on every work shoe in our store. We sell the very best work shoes to be had but our stock is about twice to large.

Consequently we are Determined To Reduce it, and we are offering a discount that should sell at least one-half of them. In the face of prevailing prices this sale should appeal to every man who wears work shoes.

Get To Know

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

14 Stores — Garner, Ia.

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

Kirk Brunet, who claims to be a nephew of Count von Bernstorff and whose real name is Allards von Dem Busch Muench, and Edwin M Zaccho were found guilty by a San Francisco court of conspiring to violate the neutrality and emigration laws. Zaccho, a Dane, and reputed agent of the German foreign office, was plentifully supplied with money and sent to secure the release of Muench who was a prisoner in Russia. This he succeeded in doing, and then tried to bring him into the United States under a Swiss passport in an assumed name. Important military papers were found inside the linings of their overcoats which it was intended to smuggle into Germany. Because both men had been interned since 1917 light sentences were given Zaccho being given a year and Muench who is only 21, three months.

Army hospitals have been reclassified so that similar cases will be grouped at certain hospitals for treatment. In accordance with the new plan, cases of blindness will go to Roland Park, Md., deafness and facial injuries to Cape May N J Fort Henry, Md. and the Walter Reed Hospital in Washington. All amputations except those of fingers and toes to Rahway (N J.), Washington San Francisco Boston, Des Moines, and Fort Snelling Minn. Insane officers will go to Williamsbridge, N Y and insane privates to other institutions. Drug addicts will be sent to Platsburg N Y and medical cases, including gas cases, are to be divided among 26 hospitals. Special provision has been made for cases requiring foot surgery, paralysis, nerve injuries, and tuberculosis.

Through diplomatic sources it is learned that the possible capture or death of the kaiser was averted only through General Ludendorff. Upon the flight from Berlin while at the German headquarters William so revived the discouraged Germans that they wished him to lead them into battle but Ludendorff vetoed the scheme because it would result in no military gain and would endanger the army's withdrawal.

Agents of the department of justice in New York say five groups of bolshevists have established headquarters in that city to spread bolshevism. Secret agents of Lenine and Trotzky have reached there with funds to be used for propaganda purposes in factories and workshops. Their plans are said to include weaning away from the American Federation of Labor and all members of 65 unions throughout the country to the "Lenine Trotzky plan."

At the next meeting of the corporation of the city of London a resolution will be proposed for expunging from the records the presentation of addresses to the kaiser. A precedent is afforded in a similar expunging at the time of the restoration of the resolutions adopted during the commonwealth period, says the London Times.

War has resulted in a serious depletion of our supply of the most valuable substance on earth—radium. Radium has been used extensively as a material of war not as might be supposed, in treating sick and wounded soldiers, but in the form of luminous paint on gun sights, range finding instruments, and the soldiers wrist watch.

There are still a few men on the new police force who served under Theodore Roosevelt when he was police commissioner more than 20 years ago. The greeting of these men over their former chief's death is reported to be particularly deep, and straightforwardly expressed.

The president has not heard that the police took away red flags from a few women of foreign appearance in the crowds in the streets of London. The president has gone abroad in London unattended by American secret service men says a dispatch.

The London Times tells us that Dr Mezes president of the College of the City of New York, who with a staff of 150 assistants has been gathering data for the use of the American mission at the peace conference, is a brother-in-law of Colonel House.

Great Britain "should entirely welcome Secretary Daniels plan for America to build the largest navy in the world" the London Morning Post declares. "We need have no fear that America would use her navy aggressively."

The "Mile of Smiles" the film made by Mineapolis for the boys in France arrived according to schedule and made Christmas in the happiest of the members of the base hospital at Allery France had experienced overseas.

The London Times reports that actions against cigaret holders a large stock of which has been sold, but which turn out to be made of celluloid. It further states that the holders were imported from America.

Reports from Finland state that Gustaf and Emil Nobel, nephews of the founder of the Nobel peace prize have been arrested at Petrograd and imprisoned in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul.

Dr Danjo Ebina, a leading Japanese Christian pastor at Tokio predicts that Buddhism will die out when militarism and imperialism are abolished, and Christianity will become the religion of the Japanese.

Sixty thousand persons demonstrated in Berlin in support of the Catholic candidates opposing Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg for election to the national assembly, a dispatch from that city reports.

A "Women's Industrial League" has been formed in England to protect women's rights in industry, which is not a political organization, or a trade union, or "an instrument of any coterie of publicists."

The number of women out of work in London is estimated now to be 18 times that of men; but very few of them are willing to accept employment as domestic servants.

German merchant ships surrendered to the allies under the terms of the armistice soon will be available for transporting American troops home.

Russia's war casualties total 9,150,000 men, according to a telegram received from Petrograd. Of this number 1,700,000 were killed.

Full citizenship was conferred on 168,000 soldiers and sailors up to January 1 under the act of congress passed last May, according to a report by the bureau of naturalization.

A dispatch from Wheeling, Pa. says the old British convict ship Success, more than 100 years old, was wrecked there by being smashed against a pier in a flood in the Ohio river.

Richard Cleveland, son of former President Grover Cleveland, is on his way to Peking, China, where he has been assigned as a member of the American legation.

BETTER ROADS IN IOWA IS DEMAND

House Committee Goes on Record For Progressive Legislation—To Work With Senate.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 27.—Progressive roads legislation by the 39th general assembly seemed assured today following the initial meeting of the roads and highways committee of the lower house. The net result of the meeting was overwhelming sentiment in favor of roads that will "pull Iowa out of the mud."

All of the 34 members of the committee were present, and shattering all prevailing customs, each man went on record in favor at the outset for improvement.

There will be two immediate results of the house road meeting.

First, there was a unanimous vote for a committee roads bill, which will embody the combined views of the members.

Second, on motion of Weaver, of Polk county the committee unanimously adopted a resolution calling for a joint meeting with the senate roads committee.

C. B. Santee of Blackhawk county, chairman of the house committee, opened the meeting with a declaration that he stood on a platform of hard roads and bonds, and he asked an expression of opinion by each member.

Quick of Clinton county immediately struck the keynote of the session with the declaration "I am for good roads straight across and clear through."

Smith, also of Clinton, said "We are in favor of hard surfaced roads and long time bonds either by the state or county."

Prevailing sentiment seemed to be in favor of the county option plan, although there were a few who declared without reservation that the voters of their counties are ready for a state bond issue.

POOL HALL MAN IS GIVEN HEAVY PENALTY

Spencer Ia. Jan 27—W. A. Curtis, former Spencer pool hall man, was convicted in the district court of Clay county of three separate and distinct violations of the liquor laws of the state of Iowa, and has paid to the clerk of courts in fines and costs a total of $1 036 85. Curtis was tried by a jury and found guilty. Judge James Deland imposed a fine of $600 and costs on this charge. Curtis then, later pleaded guilty to the two other indictments against him for bootlegging and for selling liquor to a minor. He drew a fine of $150 and costs on the bootlegging charge a total of $166.35, and on the charge of selling liquor to a minor he drew a fine of $100 and costs a total of $194.75. The balance of $31.85 which he paid was for costs in the temporary injunction proceedings.

SPRING SHOOTING STILL FORBIDDEN—HINSHAW

Spirit Lake Ia Jan 27 E. C. Hinshaw state fish and game warden declares that a false impression has been gained with reference to the migratory bird law because of the news sent out from Washington recently, which was based on an action under the old statute. This old law has been annulled by the enactment of a new law, so that recent ruling of the United States supreme court on this old case came after the law on which it was based had been superseded by another.

Many obtained the impression from reading the news dispatche that there was again to be an open season on migratory birds in the spring. This is entirely erroneous, Warden Hinshaw declares, and spring shooting is still prohibited. The only open season on migratory birds is from September 16 to December 31 inclusive.

ARMY MULES SELL AT TOP PRICES

Webster City, Ia., Jan. 27.—The sale of government mules held in this city was the most successful sale of the kind ever held here. One hundred and ten head were sold at an average per head of $189.

The sale totalled $20,790. The top span sold for $490, and the mules averaged per team, $378. The animals were government stock bought in this country by Great Britain and resold following the signing of the peace armistice.

ONE MAN STREET CARS GET BODY BLOW

Muscatine, Ia Jan 27.—One-man street car service will be discontinued here as a result of the opinion handed down by Judge Donegan, who has dissolved the injunction restraining the city from interfering with the company plan of operation.

The city ordinance compelling two men operation was held valid. An appeal will be taken to the Iowa supreme court. The case was widely observed as it was an issue in a number of Iowa cities.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDING AT SPENCER OCCUPIED

Spencer, Ia., Jan. 27.—Spencer school children took a holiday today when they moved into the new $100,000 grade school building which replaced the one destroyed by fire in the summer of 1917.

Y. M. C. A. PROBLEMS BEING CONSIDERED

Des Moines, Ia. Jan. 26.—Problems relating to the responsibilities of the Young Men's Christian Association in the returned soldier, and other phases of its reconstruction work predominated in discussions at the opening session of the biennial state convention of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. The convention which continues today, is attended by nearly 400 representatives of Iowa associations.

INTERURBAN CAR ON GULCH BRINK

Thirty Passengers Kept From Being Dashed to Death 200 Feet Below By Telegraph Pole.

Boone, Ia., Jan. 25.—Thirty passengers aboard a Fort Dodge, Des Moines and Southern interurban car narrowly escaped instant death late yesterday when the car jumped a track on the edge of a 200-foot precipice near the famous high bridge, two miles northwest of this city. Only a telegraph pole saved the car from rolling down an embankment with its load of humanity.

COUNCIL BLUFFS BOY WAS TERRIBLY WOUNDED

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan. 25.—Private Clarence L. Johnson, member of Company I, One Hundred and Sixty-Eighth Infantry, now at home on a furlough, is regarded with amazement by friends and surgeons when they are acquainted with the extent and nature of the injuries he suffered in the battle on the Ourcq river, but he says the fact that he is alive and convalescent is due to the skill of the naval and army surgeons and to the care he received.

Johnson was hit in the right side by a shell, one of the exploding kind. The shell cut through his intestines, cut off a piece of his liver, and striking the backbone exploded and tore another hole in his side and back where the shell passed out, or the greater part of it did, the rest being extracted by the surgeons.

The wounded boy—he is now only 22 years old—had already passed through experiences that floored many others, having been for 72 hours without water, 12 hours of which he lay more than half submerged in a running stream, the water of which he dared not drink because it was poisoned.

CLINTON, IA., FLYER IS HIGHLY RECOMMENDED

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—Lieut. A. L. Gates, of Clinton, Ia., former Yale football player, who was taken prisoner by the Germans after having been forced to descend while on an air raid with a French squadron last October, has been commended by Secretary Daniels for his gallant conduct in rescuing two aviators from a British machine which had been wrecked off Ostend on August 22, 1918.

When word came to the American naval air station that the British flyers were down, Lieutenant Gates immediately set out in his seaplane to rescue them. That he might have greater passenger carrying capacity, he went up without gunlayers, although he thus made it impossible to defend himself against enemy attack.

Vice Admiral Sims recommended that Lieutenant Gates be given a medal of honor. He enclosed with report letters from the British air ministry giving the details of the exploit and stating that the American lieutenant on several occasions had rendered very valuable assistance to British machines.

IOWA SUPREME COURT HANDS DOWN DECISIONS

Des Moines, Ia. Jan 28.—The following decisions have been announced by the Iowa supreme court:

Cohen, Baer and Berman against Bromberg, Appanoose county, reversed.

Reichert against Russell Motor Car Company, Linn county, reversed and remanded.

Bowery against Wabash Railway Company, municipal court of Des Moines affirmed.

Miller against City of Eldon, Wapello county affirmed.

Storm against Thompson, Polk county affirmed.

Taylor against Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co., Polk county affirmed.

Fish against Iowa Portland Cement Company, Polk county, reversed.

First National Bank of Farmington against Van Buren county, Van Buren county affirmed.

Hauser against California Chain & Lumber Co., Hardin county, affirmed.

SPRING-LIKE WEATHER PREVAILS AT DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia., Jan 25.—With the temperature still above 40 and the sun out for the first time since Sunday Des Moines today was in for more of the "un-winter" weather of January. While no robins have been seen there is unusual activity in the nesting of other birds.

MURDERER OF WIFE AND HER CHILDREN INDICTED

Corning, Ia., Jan. 25.—The Adams county grand jury returned three indictments against J. R. Hoskins for the murder of his wife and her two children near Prescott. He had confessed the crime.

CHEROKEE—Cherokee county exceeded its quota of war savings stamps up to January 1 by 10 per cent according to a statement just issued by County Chairman E. D. Huxford. The total sales were $78,385. The total subscriptions to the war work campaign fund was $56,361.85.

DES MOINES—Gov. W. L. Harding may be called upon by the 39th general assembly to explain his pardon of Ernest Rathbun, of Ida Grove. Rathbun was pardoned before commitment after conviction of a social crime for which he was given a life sentence.

DES MOINES—Lieut. Col. Frank Lyman, who had charge of the selective draft work in Iowa, estimates that of more than 300,000 registrants in this state during the war, not more than 1,000 can be classed as delinquent.

ROCK RAPIDS—The city of Rock Rapids appears to be without an assessor, as the regularly elected assessor has so far failed to qualify. The trouble seems to lie with the board of county supervisors, who, it is asserted, have placed the compensation of the assessor for Rock Rapids so low that it will be difficult to get any one to do the work.

CEDAR RAPIDS—The largest attendance in the history of the organization is present at the 15th annual convention of the Iowa Grain Dealers association, which is in session here. Registration has almost reached the thousand mark and it is believed 1,200 will be present before adjournment.

RAINBOW DIVISION COMING HOME SOON

Famous Fighting Organization Will Be Paraded In Washington Before Being Demobilized.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—Reports are current that the famous Rainbow division, which includes the old Third Iowa, will be permitted to return home before many weeks. The war department so far has given no confirmation of these reports but they are generally credited.

The war department is under more strenuous pressure than ever to discharge from the service men needed at their homes. Many of the men in the Rainbow division, which is a national guard division, are needed by dependents or in industry or business.

Secretary Baker has already decided to allow the Rainbow division to parade in several cities, including Washington, when it does return. To this end, as far as possible, it will be kept intact until after these parades. Unquestionably the greatest welcome home accorded to any of the American troops will be given this force.

IOWA SOLDIER AWARDED DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS

Washington, Jan. 25.—The commander-in-chief, in the name of the president, has awarded a distinguished service cross to the following officer for acts of extraordinary heroism described:

First Lieut. James A. Vincent, Company G, 363rd Infantry. For extraordinary heroism in action near Eclisfontaine, France, September 27, 1918. Returning to the company after being treated for a very severe wound in the neck, Lieutenant Vincent commanded his platoon, which had been ordered to fall back because of a violent barrage. He volunteered and went forward to the aid of two enlisted men of his platoon who had been seriously wounded. While performing this duty he was again wounded in the knee, but worked his way back to the dressing station and from there walked a distance of four kilometers to the field hospital. Home address: Mrs. A. T. Vincent 1415 Farnum street, Davenport, Ia.

PROBE EXPENSE ACCOUNTS OF STATE AGENTS

Des Moines, Ia., Jan 25.—An inquiry into the expenditures of state agents as reported by attorney general's office was authorized by the senate in the passage of a motion of Senator Evans, of Bremer.

Senator Evans referred to the attorney general's budget, showing that over $3,500 has been expended by state agents. He said there was not a question as to the honest disposition of the money, but rather there should be an accounting. On motion of Senator Evans the senate voted to ask governor and attorney general to lay before the senate a statement showing who received the money, where it was spent and for what purpose.

IOWA PREACHER WITH Y. M. C. A. IN GERMANY

Salix, Ia., Jan. 28.—Rev. J. E. Hill, of Salix, who was mentioned in news dispatches as among the first Americans to enter Metz, has been ordered into Germany with the American army of occupation, according to letters received here. Before the arrival of the French army he and the Y. M. C. A. men with him purchased chocolate, cookies and cigarets for every American and allied prisoner in Metz, he writes. Luck with influence in a cold billet, Mr. Hill recovered and served successively at St. Aignan, Meyers, Paris, Nancy, Moviant, Greiscourt, Runeville forest, Blenod and Metz, from which place he was sent into Germany.

JITNEY OWNERS GET PERMITS IN DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia., Jan 25.—The city council has issued permits to jitney operators who are running in opposition to the street car service. The permits end a long fight in the council which resulted in the arrest of several jitney drivers recently as "public nuisances."

GIRL OF 14 MARRIED TO RETURNED SOLDIER

Cedar Rapids, Ia. Jan 28.—Olive Franks, 14 years old and in the sixth grade at school, was married yesterday to Alvin Kreutzer, discharged soldier. Kreutzer lives at Covington, Ia. The marriage was reported to the county attorney, but that official said no action would be taken in setting aside the ceremony.

COUNCIL BLUFFS DOCTOR IS UNDER ARREST

Council Bluffs, Ia., Jan. 25.—Dr. C. B. McColm, of Council Bluffs, was arrested on a charge of neglecting to comply with rules covering the report of cases of venereal diseases. Dr. McColm declares his intention of contesting the law and relies upon the alleged conflict with the old common law holding sacred the relations of physician and patient.

DES MOINES—Two more regiments of the 88th division, which left Camp Dodge for France last August, are due to arrive at the cantonment for demobilization in the near future. The units are the 337th and 338th Field Artillery.

SHOOTING VICTIM IS STILL HOLDING ONTO LIFE

Marcelene, Ia., Jan 25.—Dennis Flynn victim of the yellow paint feud of Jackson county, who was shot down in the main street of this town by Ward Tutter Saturday afternoon, was still alive at a late hour today.

After several hours the bleeding from two severed arteries in his neck was stopped but the bullet which caused the damage has not been located. It is believed to have lodged near the spine.

WILSON TO SPEND ONE DAY VIEWING DEVASTATED LAND

By United Press.

Paris, Jan. 25.—President Wilson will make a one day visit to the devastated regions Sunday, it was announced today. It is believed he will go to the Rheims district.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE FEARS FORD CITY

Asks Change of Venue From Detroit In Libel Suit Filed By Auto Builder.

By Associated Press.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 25.—In asking for a change of venue from Wayne county today counsel for the Chicago Daily Tribune, sued by Henry Ford on a charge of libel, alleged among other things that the large number of Mr. Ford's employes in Detroit and the electioneering done in his behalf during the recent senatorial campaign were prejudicial to a fair trial of the case.

Elliott G. Stevenson, of counsel for the Tribune, represented to the court that it is impossible properly to prove his contention by court.

The petition for a change of venue asserts that the plaintiff, Ford, taking advantage of delays in bringing the suit to trial, spread broadcast a pamphlet designed to prejudice the public and jurors who might be called to try the case, that the plaintiff also caused publication in newspapers of misleading and untrue articles for the purpose of presenting the defendant in a false light before the public as a patriot.

Fear Ford Workers.

Other reasons advanced in the petition were that Mr. Ford employs, directly or indirectly, from 30,000 to 50,000 persons in Wayne county, that during his senatorial campaign he circulated misleading and untrue articles on his attitude toward the war and on preparedness for war, and that by the expenditure of large sums of money as a candidate he influenced many persons who might therefore be expected to aid him in every way, to the prejudice of the defendant.

In conclusion the defendant alleges that the list of jurors was improperly selected.

The Tribune's alleged attacks on the Detroit manufacturer were based on his alleged pacifism.

PRINCESS ISLANDS IDEAL FOR SESSION WITH THE RUSSIAN

By United Press.

New York, Jan. 25.—The Princess Islands where the allies are to meet the Russian factions, furnish an ideal place for talking things over. There probably is no place more ideally situated for a series of quiet chats. Four of the nine islands comprising the group are inhabited but the total population is only a little more than 10,000.

The islands are about 13 miles southeast of Constantinople with which they are connected by a ferry that makes trips every two hours, the trip consuming about an hour and a half. The inhabitants are never in a hurry.

Prinoko, the chief island of the group is 10 miles in circumference and contains a town of the same name.

THE NEGRO SOLDIER ATTRACTS ATTENTION OF GERMAN CITIZENS

By Associated Press.

With the American Army of Occupation.—(by mail)—Wherever American negroes have appeared in the area occupied by the Americans, they have attracted great attention among the civilians. In Treves, Coblenz and other places, during the early days of the occupation, crowds assembled wherever any negro soldiers stopped in the streets and it was necessary for the military police to enforce the orders prohibiting gathering in the public thoroughfares. Even now in Coblenz and Treves where there are a number of negro soldiers, they attract crowds of German children every time they appear in the streets.

The German soldier also regards the negro with great curiosity. According to a discharged German soldier in Rengsdorf the German army, early in the war, offered a reward of four marks for the capture, alive, of each negro. The discharged German soldier said that throughout the war German soldiers lived in great fear and even terror of the negroes and it was in order to overcome this fear that rewards were offered.

FT. DES MOINES CHOSEN

Will Be Concentration Point For Amputation Cases.

Washington, Jan 25.—Orders were issued today by the war department to concentrate amputation cases in general hospitals in Colonia, N. J.; Fort McPherson, Ga.; Boston; Fort Des Moines, Ia.; Fort Snelling, Minn.; Washington, D. C., and San Francisco.

DECORATE THEIR FLAG

Honor Conferred on the 372nd Regiment By the French.

Paris, Jan. 25.—The prefect of the maritime district here has decorated the flag of the 372nd regiment of the American infantry with the French war cross. The regiment has been cited in an army order for brilliant conduct in the Champagne offensive.

(The 372nd regiment was originally assigned to the 93rd division.)

CONFERENCE IN HURRY ADOPTS LEAGUE PLANS

Name Committee to Submit Draft to the General Session —President Wilson Opens Discussion on Subject.

By United Press.

Paris, Jan. 27.—A special [illegible] was appointed to work out the [illegible] of the league of nations at the plenary meeting of the peace [illegible] this afternoon.

President Wilson opened the session of the league of nations [illegible] p. m.

The congress adopted [illegible] providing for the appointment [illegible] special committee to investigate [illegible] sponsibility for the war and [illegible] of international law in connection [illegible] its conduct. Other committees [illegible] authorized to take up international labor legislation and consideration of internationalization of certain portation facilities.

"The league of nations seems necessary to me, both in reaching the conclusion of peace and in preserving peace of the world," declared the president.

"Some questions which are not susceptible to competent judgment at present possibly will need readjustment in the future.

"We are not representatives of governments, but of peoples. It is not sufficient to satisfy our governments. We must satisfy mankind.

Actions Permanent.

"There is no need to tell you how the burden has fallen on men, women and children, how the burden has fallen on the heart of humanity. We are called upon to prevent this burden falling to on them again. Settlements may be temporary but the actions of governments are permanent. The powers of destruction have not so much multiplied as they have gained facilities. It is essential that science, as well as armed men, should be kept in harness by civilization.

America Reasonably Safe.

"It is less likely that America will be attacked by an enemy than any other nation. The ardor of the United States for the league of nations therefore is not the result of fear. America will feel it has fought in vain if peace is only one of European sentiment. She wants a lasting peace for humanity. America did not come into the war merely as an intervention in European politics.

Is First Subject.

The league of nations was the first subject taken up by the delegates. A resolution was presented providing that the league should be open to "every civilized nation which can be relied upon to promote its object," that it "shall provide safeguards against war," and that it "should meet periodically in international conference." "It is essential to maintenance of the world settlement which the associated nations are to establish that the league of nations should be created to promote international co-operation, insure fulfillment of accepted international obligations and provide safeguards against war" the resolution stated.

"The league should be created as an integral part of the general peace treaty. It should be open to every civilized nation which can be relied upon to promote its object. Members of the league should meet periodically in international conference. It should have permanent organization and a secretariat to carry on the business of the league in the intervals between conferences."

The warning issued yesterday by the supreme council that territorial claims must come before the conference, unmarked by attempts at possession or force is very widely discussed. It seems to be generally acknowledged that President Wilson was the author of the warning and that he has a deep feeling in the matter because in at least one instance where small bodies of American troops were under other commands they were used to push forward into a territory where the native population would not have tolerated the forces of any European power. It is hailed the coming of the American with joy. In some of these cases after the welcome had died down the population awoke to find that the American troops had departed and that their towns were in the possession of troops of another nationality. The president, it is understood, took summary action to prevent the use of American forces for such purposes.

Transfer Offices.

Following today's session, it was believed that all principal powers will transfer virtually their whole foreign offices to Paris for work on the various committees, the personnel of which will be made up largely of men experienced in international affairs.

British Principles.

The principal provisions of the British scheme are understood to include establishment of its findings by public opinion rather than a supernational "police force;" some form of disarmament; cancellation of all treaties which would interfere with the working of the league; formation of a board to pass on international labor problems and exclusion of the central powers until they have proven their fitness for membership.

MUCH BREADSTUFFS SENT

Constituted Principal Item of Export During 1918.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Breadstuffs constituted the principal item in American exports during 1918 with a value of $801,497,790, compared with a value in 1917 of $821,968,810. Exports of meat and dairy products combined were valued at $941,348,352 against $437,470,872 the previous year. Cotton products exported in 1918 were valued at $614,122,799 against $575,202,355 in 1917. Exports of mineral oil were valued at $344,206,916 in 1918, compared with $262,977,178 in 1917.

APPORTION ALLIED FORCE UNTIL PEACE

Commission to Inquire to Strength of Armies to Be Maintained During Armistice Wilson League President.

By Associated Press.

Jan. 25.—The supreme coun- the peace congress at its second today decided to appoint a mittee to inquire into the strength forces to be maintained by the and associated powers on the rn front during the period of the tice.

committee will be composed of hal Foch, Gen. Tasker H. Bliss, ral Dian, Winston Spencer chill, the British minister of war, M. Loucheur, French minister of struction.

military branch of the council rned at noon until 10:30 o'clock row morning. The council of the great powers continued in session the withdrawal of the special ary representatives.

uis Klotz, the French minister of nce, and Louis Loucheur, the ch minister of reconstruction, took in the deliberations. The council a recess at 12:30 o'clock until clock.

Warned Against Force.

e allied and associated powers to- agreed to send a wireless message ughout the world warning all con- d that parties using armed force in possession of territory the claim hich the peace conference would be to determine, would "seriously dice" the claims to those who use force.

e text of the message agreed upon e powers is as follows:

e governments at the peace con- ce "are deeply disturbed by the instances in which armed force is used in many parts of Europe and mpt to gain possession of territory ightful claim to which the peace rence is asked to determine. They the serious warning that posses- gained by force will seriously dice the claims of those who use it. ther is expected they must place claims in good faith in the hands e conference."

Suggest Medal.

e council recommended that the rnments concerned approve the of an identical medal and ribbon the forces of the allied and asso- d powers which had taken part in ar.

is, Jan. 25.—President Wilson is to be offered the presidency of mmission of the league of na- the Echo-DeParis today says. the commission of the league of ns probably is meant the perma- executive body for the conduct of proposed league's affairs.

is, Jan. 25.—During the consider- n of the question of reparation at meeting of the supreme war coun- yesterday the Paris edition of the don Daily Mail says President on agreed that the principle that many must be made to pay indem- s in accordance with the full cost paration.

the instance of the British repre- atives, the newspaper adds, dis- ion also was begun on the ques- n of the abolition of conscription general disarmament.

By United Press.

is, Jan. 25.—The league of nations formally be taken up at tomor- 's session of the general peace gress, it was learned from authori- ve sources today.

uch of the work in preparing ts of the various nations' pro- n for the league is being done by respective delegations outside the meetings, and it was expected preliminaries would be in such as to permit a full discussion of broad outlines of the plans tomor- The American delegation, it is erstood, spent two hours in going their league plans late yester- with the result that the formal was practically completed. Yet is reported that neither the Amer- nor the British plans would be nted in their entirety tomorrow, gh they are farther advanced as ards details than any of the others. rently President Wilson and Pre- Lloyd-George will wait until the r programs are submitted and roughly discussed, then they will ng forward the program of their ations.

e correspondents, it was an- ced today, will be admitted to the eeting tomorrow, as at the in- uction of the plenary congress Saturday. Meanwhile the meet- of the "steering committee" con- e secret. Among other subjects to discussed tomorrow, are respon- ity and punishment for the war, ration for war damages, interna- al labor legislation and the inter- nal status of ports, waterways and ways. In connection with the lat- proposition, it is believed the Dar- elles, the Bosphorus and Constan- ple will be considered.

Open Dardanelles.

move is expected to be made to rnationalize that area that there be an open exit from the Black , assuring continuous transport of ssia's wheat to the outside world. Today's session of the supreme war ncil, in addition to completing the genda for tomorrow's discussions, s expected to take up certain mat- s in connection with the armies of upation. This was forecast by the sence of Marshal Foch, Field Mar- l Haig, General Diaz and other mbers of the associated powers mil- ry council.

EVEN NEW YORK.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 24.—The New rk assembly late today voted 81 to to ratify the federal prohibition endment. The senate will act next ek.

ROAD BUILDING GIVEN A BOOST BY POSTOFFICE

Appropriations Committee Recommends Millions For Highway Construction—Boost the Salaries of Mail Employes.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Besides recommending salary increases for virtually all postal service employes, the annual postoffice appropriation bill as revised and reported out today by the Senate postoffice committee proposes appropriations of $200,000,000 during the next three years for construction and maintenance of roads.

To the House bill which carried $357,782,000 the Senate committee added the bill of Chairman Bankhead to appropriate $50,000,000 this year and $75,000,000 each for 1920 and 1921 for road work. The amendment also would provide $3,000,000 each year for roads in national forests.

The Senate committee made an increase from $300,000 to $850,000 in the appropriation for postal airplane service, authorizing the postmaster general to establish new routes and to secure airplanes from the war department.

The house appropriation for extension of parcel post "farmer to consumer" express routes was reduced from $1,000,000 to $300,000.

General Salary Boosts.

In providing employes' pay increases the committee added an amendment to increase the per diem allowance for railway mail clerks from 90 cents to $2 per day. Appropriations for rural route and city letter carriers were increased respectfully from $51,500,000 to $62,000,000 and from $41,000,000 to $50,500,000. The House increase of 20 per cent in pay of rural carriers on Standard routes was raised to 25 per cent. Pay increases for inspectors, assistant postmasters at first and second class offices, superintendent of mail and delivery, clerk, watchmen and other employes also were approved.

A FIFTH CONGRESS IS LANSING PLAN

Pan-Americans to Be Brought Together to Discuss Subjects of Interest to All.

By United Press.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Convocation at an early date of the fifth Pan-American congress has been recommended by Secretary of State Lansing and the ambassadors and ministers here of all the Latin-American republics, comprising the governing board of the Pan-American union.

The probable status of the Pan-American scheme in regard to the league of nations and the proposed all-American ratification of the Monroe doctrine are expected to be the principal issues.

Other leading problems likely to come up include:

Movement to eliminate European sovereignty from any part of South and Central America and the West Indies.

Minor territorial disputes.

Increased Pan-American participation in world commerce.

Industrial and economic effect of peace conference arrangements on Latin-America.

It is expected the conference will be held in Chile.

SPANISH VETS TO ADMIT NEW ARMY

Veterans of Foreign Wars to Invite Heroes of Recent Struggle to Join.

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 27.—Plans for expansion of the veterans of foreign wars of the United States organized after the Spanish-American war to include those who have seen service in the war against the central powers were announced here today.

The organization whose members have served "under fire outside the borders of the United States" include on its roster, General J. Pershing.

It was stated that the membership could probably reach 1,000,000 by the end of the year and eventually 3,500,000.

ERSHING NOT COMING

Knows Nothing of Proposed Return With Wilson.

By United Press.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Secretary of War Baker has heard nothing of the alleged plan for General Pershing to return to the United States with President Wilson.

MORE STATES REPORT

Washington, Jan. 25.—Ratification of the prohibitionary amendment was certified to the state department today by Wyoming and Idaho, making 32 states officially heard from. Both were certified by the governors.

POPE RECEIVES AMERICANS.

Rome, (Friday), Jan. 25. — Pope Benedict today received a group of American naval officers. They were presented by Monsignor O'Horn, rector of the American college in Rome.

FRENCH GENERAL STAFF FACES ANOTHER HARD TASK

French general staff in session. Among those at table are left to right: Colonel Duval, Colonel de Cointet, Colonel Zeller, Marshal Petain, General de Barescut, Colonel Larrigny and General Debeney.

The French general staff, which played an important part in France's share of the world war, now faces a task that in a way is as grave as that handled in the war. The staff must direct the demobilization of the French army. The soldiers, worn out by four years of war, are anxious to return home. Some have not heard from their relatives since they joined the ranks. To return the men as rapidly as possible and meet the country's labor needs in their proper order is a huge task.

AMERICA WORLD BANKER IN FACT

Table of Figures Show Vast Amounts Loaned to the Various European Nations.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 27.—America's job as banker for the allies has been lighter this month than at any time since the nation entered the war. Only $170,000,000 has been paid out as allied loans since January, the treasury reported today, although payments on this account have been nearly $400,000,000 a month.

The reduction is caused principally by the curtailment of shipments of food for payment of which the American credits had been largely used.

Total credits extended by the treasury now amount to $8,588,772,000, but only $7,854,816,000 has been actually paid out under these credits.

Credits established and payments made up to today were reported as follows:

	Credit	Payment.
Great Britain	$4,166,981,000	$4,166,981,000
France	2,436,427,000	2,436,427,000
Italy	1,310,000,000	1,271,000,000
Belgium	325,145,000	325,145,000
Russia	325,000,000	187,750,000
Cuba	10,000,000	10,000,000
Serbia	12,000,000	10,514,000
Czecho-Slovaks	17,000,000	9,000,000
Greece	39,554,000	None
Rumania	5,000,000	None
Liberia	5,000,000	None

SHOOT THE CHUTE TO NEW FREEDOM

British Formed "Escape Committee" In German Prisons and Follow Novel Scheme.

By Associated Press.

London, Friday, Jan. 24.—The establishment of "escape committees among the British prisoners in German camps, and the ingenious schemes devised by captives to get away are described in an article in the Evening News by an officer who has just returned after 22 months of captivity.

"If you wanted to escape," said the officer, "you had to state your case before the committee, giving the full details of your scheme. If your plan interfered with the chances of another officer, the committee would 'sit on it.'

"For instance, suppose I told the committee that at a certain hour each day a certain sentry was in the habit of neglecting his duty in some way, and that I meant to slip by him. The committee had the power to say 'That is a way out for six others, you must make the attempt in three days' time' and their word was law. In this way obviously impossible schemes were brought to light and vetoed both in the interest of the officer contemplating flight and his comrades remaining in prison.

Dinner Table Chute.

"One of the big escape inventions brought before the committee was a chute made of a long dinner table with a slippery polished top. This was let down from a window of the prison, and on it officers were able to slide down and drop into the road outside."

AMERICA GETS IMPERATOR

Giant German Liner Is Turned Over to United States.

By Associated Press.

New York, Jan. 25.—German ships alloted to the United States for the transportation of troops aggregate a total of 450,000 tons, including the giant Hamburg-American liner Imperator, it was authoritatively learned today.

The Imperator, 51,969 gross tons, which is a sister ship of the Leviathan and has been laid up at Hamburg since her arrival there late in July, 1914, is expected here in the near future with several thousand Yankee soldiers.

DEPORT MAXIMALISTS.

Buenos Aires, Jan 25.—Fourteen hundred prisoners, charged with maximalist activities, are on board a cruiser here awaiting deportation, according to secret service operatives. The majority of them are Russian Jews. Some Spaniards are among the number.

HOUSTON EXPLAINS THE WHEAT ADVICE

Intimates Changed Market In Fall Responsible For Short Crop Suggestion This Spring.

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 27.—David F. Houston, secretary of agriculture today in explaining why the government is not urging farmers to plant larger crops of wheat next spring, pointed out that crops planted in the spring will not be available for the market until next fall when food conditions will be changed.

"The farmers planted last fall 7,000,000 more acres of wheat than they did at any previous time and the indications are that the spring planting will be on a very large scale," he said. "The question is can the crop be disposed of at the guaranteed price of $2.26 a bushel on No. 1, winter wheat.

"The prospects are that the yield will be at least 1,000,000,000 bushels, of which amount about 650,000,000 will be needed at home.

PLANS CENSUS OF AVAILABLE JOBS

United States Council of Defense Prepares to Aid Unemployed Soldier Boy.

By United Press.

New York, Jan. 27.—A nation wide census of all jobs available for returning soldiers will be taken by the United States council of national defense, it was learned here today.

The council in a statement said that the entire nation wide machinery of the organization is being put behind the United States employment service in an effort to meet the unemployment problems. The situation is regarded as serious as a surplus of common labor exists in 15 states and the area of this unemployment is reported to be increasing.

More than 1,300 bureaus for returning soldiers have already been created by the council and the employment service and in these bureaus positions open to returning soldiers and sailors are being listed.

Grosvener Clarkson, director of the council, has telegraphed all state councils to furnish at once data to show the needs of the employers.

TAKE OVER THE PARIS CAR LINES

By Associated Press.

Paris, Jan. 27.—The government today requisitioned the Paris subway, street car and automobile bus systems, the employes of which are on strike. The government considered it impossible to admit even the temporary suspension of transportation facilities in the capital.

YANKS IN FRANCE GETTING RESTLESS

BY RAYMOND G. CARROLL.

London Times table service [Copyright 1919, by Public Ledger Co.] to The Sioux City Tribune.

With the American Peace Commission, Paris, Jan. 25.—Our soldiers in France are becoming restless. Reports from army camps show this, and the uncertainty of knowledge as to when they are sailing for home is beginning to affect their morale.

A suggestion from a high official interested in their welfare is that the war department immediately arrange a schedule showing the approximate time of departure of each division and authorize the dissemination of the information among the soldiers of all ranks. Then our boys can write home and arrange for new jobs.

Grand Duchess Charlotte, the new ruler of Luxemburg, has decided that her household shall be formed entirely of natives of Luxemburg.

HUN ELECTIONS STIMULATE HOPE

London Concerned Only In Authority of New Government to Sign and Carry Out Peace.

By United Press.

London, Jan. 27.—Official returns of the German elections are not yet published, but enough is known to place the general results beyond doubt. For the allied powers, the one interest of the elections is that there shall emerge from them a party capable of froming a strong government which can bind the German people. Everything points to formation of a strong combination between the majority socialists and the democrats with whatever recruits they may attract from other groups.

The London Times and the Westminster Gazette, which are representatives of opinion in both great parties in England, express almost identical views on the possibilities. They declare that it is in the plain interest of the allies and Germany that no door should be left open for any possibility of quibbling hereafter upon the authority of the national assembly, which is to sanction peace or of the German signatures to the armistice.

AMERICA READY FOR FUTURE WAR

Millions of Rifles, and Artillery Ammunition Sufficient For Six Months, on Hand.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 27.—Maj. Gen. C. C. Williams, chief of ordnance, described to the House military committee yesterday some of the steps taken by his department to prevent the country from going back into a state of unpreparedness. Sufficient arms and ammunition will be kept," he said, for an army large enough to guard the country against any possible invasion.

"The ordnance department now has 3,700,000 rifles, 2,000,000,000 rounds of ammunition and enough artillery ammunition to supply 48 divisions for six months," General Williams said. Similarly large quantities of other equipment is being held.

General Williams asked for an appropriation of $1,000,000 for bringing back from France thousands of tons of ammunition of all kinds now in storage there or at ammunition dumps. Most of it was in good condition and well worth taking care of.

Operate Arsenals.

Arsenals the government had before the war will be kept in operation General Williams said and in addition several of the new plants will be taken over and kept in such condition that they could be put in operation at short notice.

General Williams asked for $500,000 to carry on experiments with tanks, which he said, had proved to be one of the most effective instruments of warfare.

General Williams said experiments with body armor had not been very successful. With the exception of the helmet all armor was found to be practically useless.

REGULATE IOWA TARIFFS

Those In Excess of Intermediate Rates Are Abolished.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Jan. 27. — Railroads operating through Iowa were ordered by the Interstate Commerce commission today to cease maintaining rates on a variety of commodities moving from southern and central territory into that state which are in excess of the aggregate of intermediate rates maintained over the same routes. Permission to disregard the long and short haul clause was refused.

JEWS PICK FEBRUARY 22.

New York, Jan. 25.—The Hebrew immigrant aid society of America announced today that Washington's birthday would be observed throughout the country as American nation day for Jewish immigrants.

Weekly Health Talks

A Word About the Kidneys

BY DOCTOR WATSON.

People are easily frightened when they think something is the matter with their lungs or heart, and well they may be; but few people understand the dangers of diseased kidneys. These organs have a duty of vital importance to perform, and if they are diseased, there is no telling how or where the symptoms may appear. The kidneys are filters, and when they are healthy they remove the poisons from the blood and purify it. When the kidneys are diseased, the poisons are spread everywhere, and one of these poisons is uric acid. The uric acid is carried all through the system and deposited in various places, in the form of urate salts—in the feet, ankles, wrists and back—often forming bags under the eyes. Sometimes the resulting trouble is called rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica and backache. Finally, come stone in the bladder, diabetes and Bright's disease.

Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., in recent years, discovered that a certain combination of remedies would dissolve uric acid (urate salts) in the system. He found this combination to be harmless, so that he made it up in tablets, of double strength, and called them Anuric Tablets. They dissolve uric acid in the human system as hot coffee dissolves sugar. If you have uric acid troubles, don't delay in taking Anuric Tablets, which can be secured in the drug stores. You can write Dr. Pierce, too, and he will tell you what to eat and how to live so that more uric acid will not form in your system. Dr. Pierce will not charge for this advice.

Oh, P-f-f.

Our idea of a decided brunette is indicated by the following terse monologue: "See hyah, Rastus Johnsing, yah triflah, yoah; I'se done made up mah mind yoah don't leave this hyah house tonight foh non ob dem bon rollin' pahties."

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off. Adv.

Mathematical Demonstration.

"I can prove by figures that women are worth more than men. Isn't a miss as good as a mile?"

"Yes."

"But it takes a lot of men to make one league."

To Have a Clear Sweet Skin.

Touch pimples, redness, roughness or itching, if any, with Cuticura Ointment, then bathe with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Rinse, dry gently and dust on a little Cuticura Talcum to leave a fascinating fragrance on skin. Everywhere 25c each.—Adv.

Dodging the Income Tax.

Wert—"I hear that old Koyne has untold wealth."

Bert—"Yes, he slammed the door on the income tax collector and wouldn't tell about his fortune."

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use for Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Many a man who attempts to wear the mantle of greatness is disappointed in the fit.

Spanish Influenza can be prevented easier than it can be cured.

At the first sign of a shiver or sneeze, take

HILL'S CASCARA QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form—safe, sure, no opiates—breaks up a cold in 24 hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine has a red box with Mr. Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.

SEMI-SOLID BUTTERMILK For Hogs and Poultry

Sold direct from factory to consumer. If you want to get the best results for the least money write or call on

Consolidated Products Co. LINCOLN, NEBRASKA or

Harding Cream Company OMAHA, NEB. KANSAS CITY, MO.

Chickens Sick or Not Doing Well? An Extraordinary Offer

GEO. H. LEECO, Dept. 5, OMAHA, NEB.

Don't Sacrifice Liberty Bonds. Highest cash price guaranteed. Forty years' banking experience. Bonds & Co., 324 Leader Building, Cleveland, O.

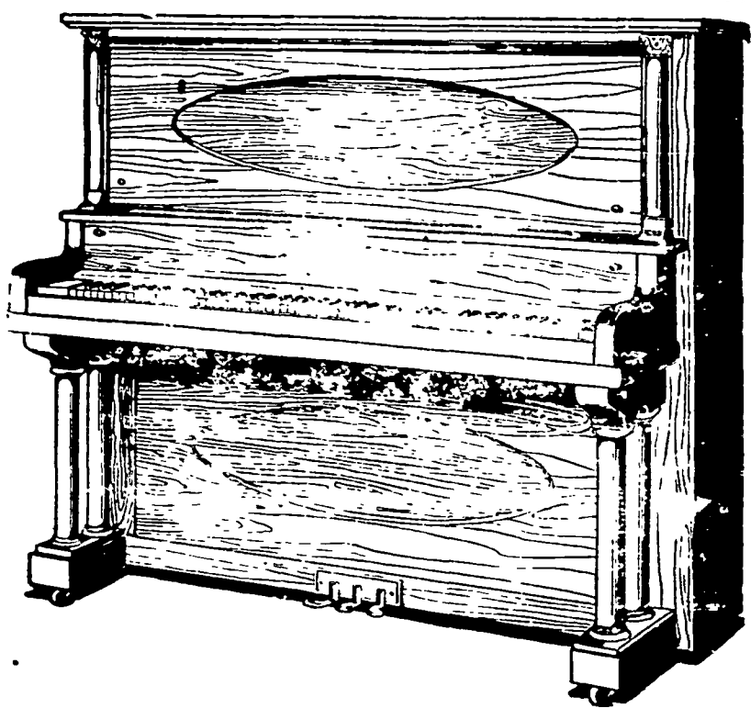
THE policy of the Ford Motor Company to sell it's cars for the lowest possible price, consistant with dependable quality, is too well known to require comment. Therefore, because of present conditions, there can be no change in the price on Ford Cars:

Runabout	-	$500
Touring Car	-	525
Coupelet	-	650
Sedan	- -	775
Truck Chassis	-	550

These prices F. O. B. Detroit.

Ford Motor Company

E. G. Ell, Authorized Agent



A Piano Sale Without An Equal!

Commencing Friday Morning, January 31st.

There is might behind right. The great province of this Powerful Merchandising Piano and Player Institution is to unceasingly strive to give our purchasers QUALITY INSTRUMENTS at the LOWEST PRICES. Contrast the STRENGTH of this INSTITUTION which is the distributor for several of the worlds largest PIANO and PLAYER PIANO manufactures with our LARGE CAPITALIZATION and our ability to market PIANOS and PLAYER PIANOS by the HUNDREDS as against the one and two piano dealings of the SMALL DEALERS and you will then know how we can save you $100 00 to $200.00 DURING THIS GREAT SALE.

$385.00 Hobart M Cable $239.00 $550·00 Player at $298,00
$650.00 at $485.00 $600.00 Player at $440.00

My annual invetory shows that I have on hand at this writing the largest stock of Pianos and Player Pianos in the entire history of My business in Britt—Pianos such as "WEDIC & HINKELMAN" "HOLLAND" "HOBART M CABLE" "LAWRENCE" "MILLER" and Players of all leading makes I have more Pianos than this business needs at this time and I feel that in justice to myself I should turn a portion of them ilto immebiate money. To de this I realize that it will be necessary for me to sacrifice the legitimate profits that I am entitled to as a legitimate merchant I have sold Pianos in every community within 50 miles of Britt, My reputation for fair and square dealing is a household word throughout Iowa. When I say Sale I mean sale. I mean cut the price—cut the terms—slash everything but the quality—the quality stands out like an oasis in a desert. The first man that steps inside the door at this sale and is ready to talk business can buy his choice of any Piano or Player Piano in the store at an offer so far below what would normally be considered a price that to repeat it here would place it in the impossible class—Imagine your choice of any Piano or Player Piano reduced $95. But the terms on this offer are cash—no time, no note—just Cash on this first Piano or player on this offer. This sale starts Friday morning, January 31, and the first man, woman or child that appears with a copy of this paper in his hand ready to do business can have his choice of any piano in the store on this offer First come, first served, nothing reserved. All I want is a chance to sell a portion of my stock quick for cash and when I have the amount of money necessary all price reductions are cancelled If you ever intend to own a Piano get here in time to get one of these bargains Signed - C. D WELTY

The strong arm of Purchasing Power enables C. D. Welty to offer exceptional Piano and Player Piano values during this sale.

USED PIANO $98.00

C. D. Welty

BRITT, IOWA

The W. F. M. S. of the First Methodist Church will hold it's regular monthly meeting for February at the home of Mrs. A. H. Meyer on Thursday, the 6th. The topic for discussion is, "Women Working Together" or "The Call for Leaders."

Devotionals will be led by Mrs. Aug. Ridder and Mrs. Henry Griewe.

Business, the president presiding.

Special song, by two ladies.

Editorial, Mrs. Fred Ridder.

Patriots All, Mrs. C. A. Arnold

Social Service Workers, Mrs. C. Lenz

The Training of Leaders, Mrs. Frank Gruetzmacher.

Piano Duet, Mrs. Sam Harvey and Mrs. Geo. Gruetzmacher.

Closing song, "God Bless Our Men"

We extend a hearty invitation to all to attend whether a member or not. But we don't guarantee to non-members that our membership committee will not be after them, for they are wide awake.

The Secretary

Estray or Stolen—A Shetland pony mare, 9 months old, spotted white and brown, 4 white legs and feet, white tail, short ears, small and chunky. Disappeared from place Jan. 26th. $10 reward. Bert E. Hanson, Kanawha phone and mail.

DOG LOST!

LOST OR ESTRAYED—Female Airdale disappeared from my place December 23rd. Markings: brownish yellow, black back, bob-tailed. Reward for information leading to her recovery. Ralph Ludeke, Klemme, Ia.

NOTICE

Applications will be received in the office of the County Auditor up until 12 o'clock noon, February 20th, 1919, for position as Steward and Stewardess of the Hancock County Home. Term commencing April 1st, 1919.

CHRIS JACOBS,
4w County Auditor.

Ben Swalve moved into his new residnce in Klemme last Thursday. Ben has a fine dandy house and has all the modern conveniences. Mr. and Mrs. Swalve are welcomed to our little city.

BASKET SOCIAL

There will be a Basket Social at Ell No. 2 School on Friday evening, February 14, program to begin at 7:30. Ladies are requested to bring baskets, the men are requested to bring the ladies and also their pocket-books. All are invited to come and have a good time. Marian Arnold, teacher. 2w

Economic Army Rations.

How the Mongols, like the Italians put up an army fat for their forces in sausage casing, but go them two better in also utilizing the strong bamboo fiber tissue paper and thin sheets of fried liver as containers, Mr. Lochner describes as follows: "The liver is cut in thin sheets and wrapped around the fat. In drying, like the Italian cheese covering, it contracts, and keeps its contents right. The whole thing is edible, liver having some food value the membra[illegible]ne."

COURT CALENDAR 1919

12th Judicial District

County	Place	1919		Judges
Bremer	Waverly	Jan.	6	Clark
		Mar.	24	Kelley
		Sept.	15	Edwards
		Nov.	10	Kelley
Butler	Allison	Feb.	17	Edwards
		May	5	Kelley
		Sept.	15	Clark
		Oct.	27	Edwards
Cerro Gordo	Mason City	Jan.	27	Clark
		Apr.	14	Edwards
		Sept.	2	Kelly
		Nov.	3	Clark
Floyd	Charles City	Jan.	6	Kelley
		Mar.	17	Edwards
		Sept.	29	Clark
		Nov.	24	Kelley
Hancock	Garner	Mar.	3	Kelley
		May	12	Clark
		Oct.	6	Edwards
		Dec.	1	Clark
Mitchell	Osage	Feb.	10	Kelley
		Apl.	14	Clark
		Oct.	6	Kelley
		Nov.	17	Edwards
Winnebago	Forest City	Jan.	6	Edwards
		Mar.	17	Clark
		Sept.	2	Clark
		Oct.	20	Kelley
Worth	Northwood	Jan.	27	Edwards
		Apr.	27	Kelley
		Sept.	2	Edwards
		Oct.	20	Clark

JUDGES—C. H. Kelley, Joseph J. Clark, M. F. Edwards

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA:
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

W. F. PAVEY
The Practical Blacksmith
OXY-ACETYLENE WELDE
Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing
Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

Col. B. A. Reemtsma
General Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA
Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty
Call, write or phone 508 Klemme for dates, terms, etc.
...Satisfaction Guaranteed...

J. S. WESSON, D. V. M.
GARNER, IOWA
CALLS ATTENDED DAY OR NIGHT
Office Phone 196 Residence 13

Our customers are our friends, who have become so since coming to trade with us.

If you have any sort of a need in the car line, repairs, supplies or a car itself come here and find out why our customers are our friends. One trial will convince you.

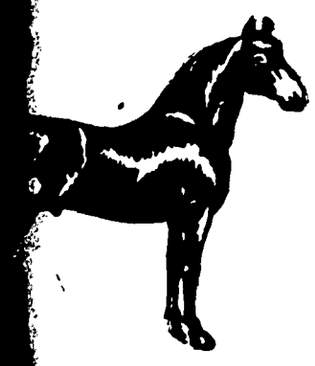
C. W. Wiles Garage
YOU HAVE TRIED THE REST NOW TRY THE BEST
KLEMME, IA.

UBLIC AUCTION!

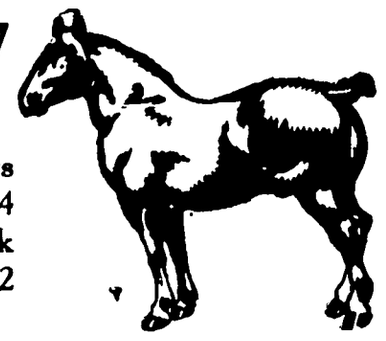
ng rented my farm located 3 miles east and 2 miles south of Klemme; 7 north-east of Goodell; and 7 miles north-west of Meservey, I will offer at c Auction the following described property, to-wit; on

Friday, February 7

Sale to begin at 12:00 M. Sharp



7 Head of Horses 7



1 black mare, 8 yrs old, in foal, wt. 1500; 1 bay gelding, 12 yrs old, wt 1400; 1 bay gelding 6 yrs old, wt 1500; 1 black mare, 4 yrs old, wt 1300; 1 black gelding, 3 yrs old, wt 1400; 1 black mare yearling colt; 1 Percheron Stallion, Black Major No 131192 pedigreed, coming 3 year old.

Head of Cattle 48

orthorn Bull coming 3 years old, pedigreed; 14 steers coming three years veighing between 900 and 1,000 lbs. and are on feed; 3 steers coming 2 old; 4 heifers coming 2 years old; 1 heifer coming 3 years old; 5 milch coming fresh in the spring; 7 milch cows with calves by side; 6 last spring

28 Head of Hogs 25 Chester White bred sows; 1 Chester White pedigreed Boar.

FARM MACHINERY ETC.

son 12 inch gang plow; 1 J. I. Case 16 inch sulky plow; 1 John Deere 6-shovel cultivator; 1 Fuller & John- hovel cultivator; 1 Fuller & Johnson 6-shovel cultivator; 1 John Deere corn planter with 80 rods of wire; 1 land corn planter with 100 rods of wire; 1 Osborne 8-ft disc; 1 Deering 5-ft cut mower; 1 John Deere 10-ft John Deere 24-ft harrows; 1 Emerson harrow cart; 1 endgate seeder with box; 1 Mandt bob. sled; 1 wagon ple box and seat; 1 new iron wheel wagon truck; 1 truck wagon and rack; 1 road cart; 1 A. B. C. shoveling sets of harness and collars; 1 single harness; 1 Sharpless Cream Separator 750 lbs. capacity; 1 United ream Separator 750 lbs. capacity; and other articles too numerous to mention.

FREE HOT LUNCH AT 11.30

—All sums of $10 and under, cash. Over $10 a credit of 10 months time will be given on approved notes interest at 8 per cent from date of sale. No property to be rmoved until settled for.

Mart Bachmann Owner

& Kester Auctioneers Times Print Shop, Klemme, Ia. Klemme First National Bank, Clerks

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF IOWA, IN AND FOR HANCOCK COUNTY

March Term, 1919

ORIGINAL NOTICE

Art Lackore,
Plaintiff,
vs.
The unknown claimants to the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of the Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section Three (3), Township Ninety-seven (97), North of Range Twenty-four (24), West of the 5th P. M., Hancock County, Iowa, and William Luckrse, Wm. Lackore, James Lackore, William Lackore, Mrs. William Lackore, Rose Lackore, Peter Lackore, Emma Lackore, John Lackore, Rozina Deitz, Fred Deitz, Cora Steineker, August Steineker, Rosina Dietz, Fred Dietz, A B. Stinieker, Cora Stinieker, and the unknown heirs, devisees, grantees, spouses, and claimants under the aforesaid defendants and all parties claiming any right, title, or interest by, thru or under the named defendants or unknown claimants or any of them.
Defendants.

To said defendants and to unknown claimants of said land described in caption hereof:

You and each of you are hereby notified that there is now in file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, the petition of plaintiff in the aforesaid cause, claiming in substance that he is the absolute owner in fee simple of the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of the Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section Three (3), Township Ninety-seven (97), North of Range Twenty-four (24) West of the 5th P. M., in Hancock County, Iowa, that he and party under whom he claims title under mesne conveyance have been in hostile, open, and undisturbed possession of said land under color of title and claim of right by upwards of twenty years last past That such possession has been adverse to all defendants herein and to all unknown claimants That the named defendants have agreed by contract to Quit Claim Deed to plaintiff, but though requested, have wholly refused to do so. That aforesaid defendants or unknown claimants have no right, title or interest in and to said premises but have apparent claim thereto which plaintiff desires to remove, being clouds upon his title. That the names and residences of unknown defendants are unknown to plaintiff, who has sought diligently to learn same. Said petition prays that said unknown claimants of said land and all defendants named herein and all persons claiming by, thru or under them or any of them, any interest in said premises be forever barred and estopped from having or claiming any right, title or interest thereto; that the plaintiff's title in said premises be quieted in plaintiff aganst all defendants named or unnamed, and against all unknown claimants, and for other equitable relief.

For further particulars see said petition.

You are further notified that unless you appear thereto and defend before noon of the second day of the next term of said District Court Iowa, in and for Hancock County ing the March 1919 term thereof, which convenes and will be held at the Court House at Garner, Iowa, on the 3rd day of March, 1919, default will be entered against you and judgment and decree rendered thereon as by law provided

Dated this 29th day of January, 1919

Gorden & Osmundson
Attorneys for Plaintiff

Klemme School News

Miss Mae Warneck and Miss Marie Shaver spent Sunday at Iowa Falls and Cedar Rapids

Dalia Stromer is absent from school this week

Miss Emma Wacker visited with the High School last Monday

All those who are taking part in the "Declamatory Contest" received their pieces Monday morning

Erwin Lau is appointed as High School "yell master"

The 9th grade has finished their classic, "Merchant of Venice" and are now going to take up the "Christmas Carol."

William Coobs, of McGregor, Iowa, visited school last Wednesday afternoon.

Mildred Johnson is pianist this week.

Eleanore Duffy was absent from school Tuesday.

Erma Priebe and Edith Haupt were absent from school Tuesday forenoon.

The high school party that was held in the old opera house last Friday evening, was well attended and all reported they had a fine time

Primary Room

Those neither absent nor tardy the past two weeks are:

1st Grade --Raymond Barz, Valeria Koerner, Reva Elder, Vivian Kerschner

2nd Grade—Pearl Ubben, Lois Lenz, Charles Busch, Paul Millican, Irwin Schwartz.

3rd Grade—Alvin Lauden, Elmer Johnke, Ethel Johnson, Ilo Klotzbach, Elmer Swartz.

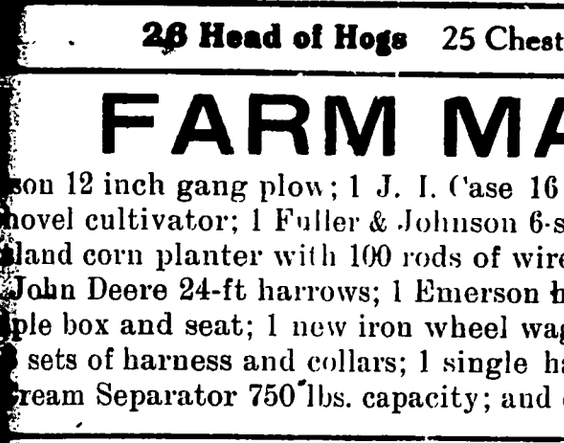
Those who have been absent because of illness are:

Arthur Ubben, Donald Turgasen, Lois Church

Sam Kirkwood Dead

Mr. and Mrs. A. Kirkwood received a telegram last Friday evening stating that their son, Sam, was seriously ill with pneumonia at a hospital in Spokane, Wash.

Later—Yesterday afternoon another telegram was received which brought the sad news that he had passed away The remains, accompanied by his wife, should arrive here about Saturday night.



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

THERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

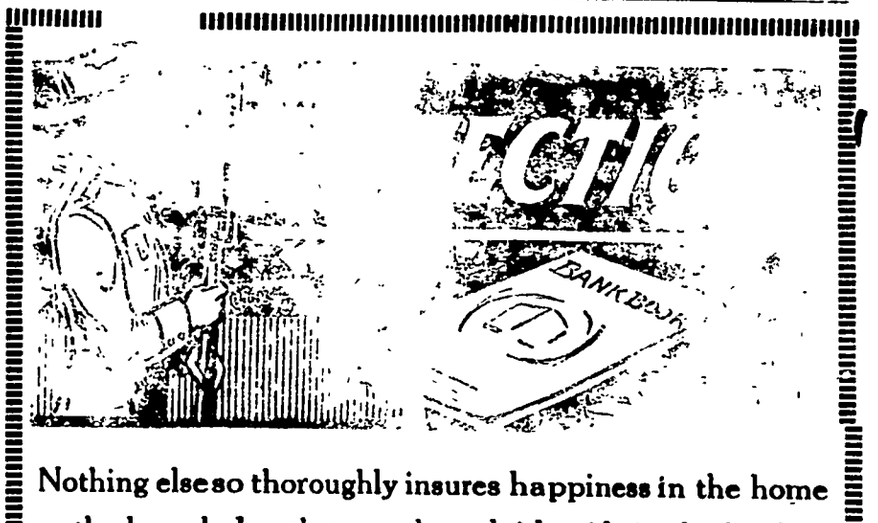
Office Phone No. 16. Residence Phone No. 52

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done



Nothing else so thoroughly insures happiness in the home as the knowledge that you have laid aside in the bank a fund for the future, to care for any emergency that may arise,

For the Protection of your home start such a fund at this bank

Today.

State Savings Bank

WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE YOU GET AND LIKE THE SERVICE YOU GET

KLEMME, IA.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Need Help to Pass the Crisis Safely—Proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Can be Relied Upon.

Urbana, Ill.—"During Change of Life, in addition to its annoying symptoms, I had an attack of grippe which lasted all winter and left me in a weakened condition. I felt at times that I would never be well again. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for women passing through the Change of Life, so I told my doctor I would try it. I soon began to gain in strength and the annoying symptoms disappeared and your Vegetable Compound has made me a well, strong woman so I do all my own housework. I cannot recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly to women passing through the Change of Life."—Mrs. FRANK HENSON, 1316 S. Orchade St., Urbana, Ill.

Women who suffer from nervousness, "heat flashes," backache, headaches and "the blues" should try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Assembled Plane in 97 1-5 Minutes.

A new sport one that can be played only on a flying field, sprang into popularity here the other day when teams of airplane mechanics, working against time, demonstrated to a huge crowd on the main field just how fast an airplane can be dis-assembled and subsequently completely rigged ready for the pilot. The ship used for the initial contest was the Nieuport, type 27, with a 120-horsepower LeRhone motor. Honors were won by a field team (eight) of five men, in the fast time of seven and one-fifth minutes. The assembly and test flight came in 90 minutes and field five were made in 104 minutes.—From the Plane News of France.

INDIGESTION, GAS, UPSET STOMACH

HURRY! JUST EAT ONE TABLET OF PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN FOR INSTANT RELIEF.

No waiting! When meals don't fit and you belch gas, acids and undigested food. When you feel indigestion pain, pumps of distress in stomach, heartburn or headache. Here is instant relief.

Just as soon as you eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin all the dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach distress ends. These pleasant, harmless tablets of Pape's Diapepsin always make sick, upset stomachs feel fine at once and they cost so little at drug stores.—Adv.

Vice of the Virtuous.

The peculiarity of ill-temper is that it is the vice of the virtuous. It is often the one blot on an otherwise noble character.

Confined to Her Bed Days at a Time

But Doan's Brought a Quick and Lasting Cure.

Mrs. Herrman Ruschke, 177 Fourth St., Long Island City, N. Y., says: "The pains in my back were almost unbearable. I always felt tired and listless and found it almost impossible to attend to my housework. Gradually the pains increased—day by day my suffering became worse. Often flashes of light and black specks would appear before my eyes and dizzy spells would come over me. My hands and feet were swollen and my head pained me so at times I thought it would split. My kidneys annoyed me, too. I became despondent. Sometimes I would have to take to my bed for three or four days at a time. I had the good fortune to hear of Doan's Kidney Pills, so I began using them and was soon back in perfect health again. My cure has stood the test of time, so I am only too glad to recommend Doan's to other kidney sufferers."

Mrs. Ruschke

Mrs. Ruschke gave the above statement in April, 1916, and on April 4, 1917, she added. "I gladly repeat all I have said about Doan's Kidney Pills, for they have cured me of kidney complaint."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

Use Cuticura Soap To Clear Your Skin

All druggists: Soap 25, Ointment 25 & 50. Talcum 25. Sample each free of "Cuticura, Dept. X, Boston."

Baby Colds

require treatment with a remedy that contains no opiates. Piso's is mild but effective; pleasant to take. Ask your druggist for

PISO'S

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

8

VII.

THE INQUEST.

Next morning the inquest was proceeding. The great living room at Garden Steps was crowded with listeners drawn hither by sympathy, interest or curiosity. And each class found ample to satisfy its motive. The mere fact of being within that exclusive home, within those heretofore inaccessible doors, was enough to thrill and delight many, and observation and scrutiny were as well repaid as was the listening to the astounding revelations that were poured into their ears.

Coroner Scofield's jury was composed of intelligent men, who were eagerly receptive to the appalling facts narrated to them and the curiously bizarre bits of evidence that became known as the witnesses were questioned.

Dr. Stanton told of his being called to the house, and his discoveries and conclusions. He admitted that he assumed death was caused by the blow on the head, but claimed it was a pardonable error in view of the fact that such a blow had been given. He affirmed, and Dr. Moore corroborated it, that the autopsy showed that death was caused by aconitine poison, administered either by the deceased or another at an hour not earlier than 1 o'clock, and probably soon thereafter. The terrible blow that had fractured the skull had been given after life had been for some time extinct.

Dr. Stanton asserted emphatically his late patient's detestation of drugs or medicines of any sort, adducing thereby the extreme improbability of the poison having been self administered. Moreover, the temperament and disposition of the late Miss Carrington entirely evinced a love of life and desire to prolong it by means of any device or assistance the doctor might give.

Pauline was called next, and a little flutter of excitement in the audience greeted her appearance.

Exceedingly dignified, but of a sweet, gracious mien, she at once received the silent approval of the crowd. Her black gown, its collar of sheer white organdy slightly open at the throat, well suited her pale, beautiful face and her dark hair and eyes. Today her eyes seemed fathomless. At times, gazing intently at the coroner until they almost disconcerted him; and then, hidden by veiling lids, whose long lashes fell suddenly as if to conceal further disclosures.

On the whole Pauline was not a satisfactory witness. She told, in a most straightforward way, of leaving the breakfast table to go to her aunt's room and of finding there the dead body. She told clearly all the circumstances of the upset tray, the spilled powder and the eccentric garb of Miss Carrington herself. But questions as to her opinion of these facts brought little response.

"You left Miss Carrington at 12:30?" asked Coroner Scofield.

"Not so late, I think," returned Pauline; "probably at 15 or 20 minutes past 12—I am not sure."

"How was she then dressed?"

"In the gown she had worn during the evening."

"And her jewels?"

"When I left my aunt she was wearing her pearls and the other jewelry she had worn with her evening dress. Some brooches and rings and bracelets."

"But not so much as she had on when you discovered her in the morning?"

"Not nearly so much."

"How do you account for this?"

"I don't account for it. To me it is exceedingly mysterious."

"And the paper snake around her neck?"

"I have no idea by whom such a thing could have been brought to my aunt. But I am positive she never put it on herself. Nor can I think she would allow it to come near her if she were alive—or conscious—or had power to scream for help. Any one knowing my aunt's fear and horror of anything reptilian will agree to this."

"It seems evident," said the coroner thoughtfully, "that some intruder entered Miss Carrington's room at or near 1 o'clock. That this intruder in some manner induced Miss Carrington to swallow the poison, whether conscious of her act or not. That the intruder subsequently, and for some reason, placed the snake around the neck of the victim; and, later still, brutally gave her a stunning blow with the blackjack which was found, and thereby fractured her skull. Granting these assumptions, can you, Miss Stuart, give us any information that would lead to discovery of the hand that wrought this havoc?"

"Not any," and Pauline raised her great eyes a moment to Scofield's face and slowly dropped them again.

"Then can you not express an opinion or suggest a theory that might account for such strange happenings, at least, in part?"

"No," said Pauline slowly. "I have no idea, nor can I imagine why my aunt should be so elaborately arrayed and seated in an easy chair in front of her mirror. It is contrary to all her customs or habits."

"Could she have been killed first and could the jewels and adornments have been added afterward?" asked the coroner of the doctors.

"No," replied Dr. Moore, "the whole condition of the body and clothing makes such a theory practically impossible."

"Quite impossible," added Dr. Stanton; "and, too, what would be the sense of such a proceeding?"

"We are establishing the facts of the proceedings, not the sense of them," returned the coroner a little testily, for he was at his wits' end even to make a beginning in this strange case.

"At least," he went on, "we have the facts and the approximate time of the crime, have you, Miss Stuart, any suspicion of who the murderer can be?"

The question was shot out suddenly. If its intent was to startle the witness, it certainly succeeded. Pauline Stuart turned even whiter than she had been and she caught her breath quickly and audibly as she flashed a frightened glance at Gray Haviland. It was by no means an accusing glance, though many who saw it, eager for a direction in which to cast their suspicions, took it for such.

But Pauline controlled herself immediately. "Certainly not," she said coldly. "That is, I can have no suspicion of the murderer's identity. It was, of course, a midnight intruder of the criminal class. I have no individual acquaintances who use or possess the weapon that was employed in this crime."

"The blackjack is an auxiliary only. The poison may have been administered by one not versed in the ways of professional criminals. You admit that, I suppose?"

"It is no doubt true," said Pauline icily, "that poison may be given by a person not belonging to the criminal classes. I fail to see, however, how that fact affects the matter in hand."

"It may well affect it. Since Miss Carrington was killed by a deadly poison, we must conclude that the blackjack assault was made with the intention of concealing the poisoning and making it appear that the blow caused the death. There seems to me no other way to account for the conditions that confront us."

A silence followed this. Its truth was patent to everybody. Clearly, the poisoner had delivered the blow, for no one else would attack a victim already dead. And a plausible reason would be the hope that the poisoning would pass unnoticed in view of the other apparent cause of death.

"And it points to the work of an amateur," went on Scofield; "a professional criminal would know that the autopsy would disclose the earlier crime."

Pauline lost her nerve. "I don't know anything about it!" she cried, and sank back into her seat, her face buried in her hands.

Coroner Scofield was a man of tact. "It is entirely natural, Miss Stuart," he said, "that this thought should overcome you. But we must realize the fact that the theory of a professional burglar is practically untenable, because nothing was stolen. A burglar's motive could be only robbery, and this did not take place. Nor can we think that a burglar was frightened away before he could appropriate the jewels. For, after giving the poison and before the blow was given, sufficient time elapsed for a successful getaway to be made. Nor would the burglar have been at pains to cover up his poisoning work; for, having achieved his end, he would have secured his booty and made escape. So, it is evident that the motive, not being robbery, is as yet unknown, and may be obscure and complicated."

"What could it have been?" asked Pauline, her composure regained, her voice low and even.

Scofield looked at her. "It is said, Miss Stuart, that the only motives for murder are love, revenge or gain. Can you imagine any one of these directed toward your aunt?"

Pauline replied tranquilly. Evidently she had fully recovered her poise. "I can think of no one who could have killed my aunt for love; it is improbable that she has ever done any one such wrong as to call for such a deed in revenge; as to gain, if you mean pecuniary gain, all the legatees mentioned in her will may be said to have that motive."

Pauline's manner and tones were so impersonal, so scathingly ironic as to amount to a disclaimer for all the legatees. Her way of suggesting it made it seem so far removed from possibility that it was far more emphatic than any denial could have been.

But Coroner Scofield was as unmoved as his witness.

"Quite so," he said coolly; and therefore inquiries must be made. Did you, Miss Stuart, after leaving your aunt soon after midnight see or hear anything unusual or suspicious?"

"What do you mean by unusual or suspicious?"

"I mean did you see or hear anything, anything at all, that you could not explain to yourself as being in any way connected with the tragedy we are investigating?"

Before answering Pauline looked in turn at all the members of the household. Haviland slowly turned his head as if to look at something across the room, and as slowly brought it back to its previous position.

"I did not," said Pauline, looking straight at the coroner.

"That is all," said Scofield briefly, and the next witness was called.

This was the maid, Estelle. Her eyes were red with weeping, but she was not hysterical now, or incoherent. She answered tersely questions as to Miss Carrington's habits and as to her words and actions during the maid's last interview with her.

"I left her at about 12:45," the witness deposed; "I had given her the Oriental negligee, of which she was fond. I offered to take down her hair and put away her jewels, but she declined those services, and bade me leave her."

"She was wearing, when you left her, only the jewels she had worn during the evening?"

"Only those, sir. When I changed her evening gown for the boudoir robe she bade me replace such jewels as I had already taken off her. She kept on her rings, bracelets and her long rope of pearls while I changed her costume."

"And then she dismissed you for the night?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where was she then? Sitting before the mirror?"

"No, sir. She stood in the middle of the floor."

"Was she in an amiable mood?"

"She was not. Because I offered to assist her further she ordered me from the room in anger."

"Ah, in anger! Was Miss Carrington often angry with you?"

"Indeed, yes, as she was with everybody."

"Confine your answers to your own experiences. You prepared a night luncheon for your mistress?"

"Yes, sir," and now Estelle's voice trembled and her eyes rolled apprehensively.

"What was it?"

"Two small sandwiches and a glass of milk."

"What sort of sandwiches?"

"Caviarre, sir."

"Ah, yes. And why did you put a large dose of bromide in the glass of milk?"

"Did it kill her?" and Estelle screamed out her query. Pauline and Anita looked at one another. It was the same question Estelle had asked of them.

"An overdose of bromide may be fatal," parried the coroner, not answering the question directly. "Why did you do it?"

"I didn't do it," and the French girl shrugged her shoulders. "Why should I poison my mistress? She was quick tempered, but I was used to that."

"Don't be stupid," said the coroner, "the bromide didn't poison Miss Carrintgon, for, in the first place, she didn't take it. The glass of milk was found next morning untouched, though the sandwiches were gone. Therefore, the bromide in the milk was found. Why did you put it in?"

"I did do it," reiterated the maid. "Look higher up for that!"

"What do you mean?"

"I mention no names, but somebody must have done it if bromide was found in the milk."

"But you tried to get the glass away next morning without being seen."

"Who says I did?"

"Never mind that; you were seen. Why?"

"Well, sir, if I thought anybody was going to get into trouble because of it, I was only too glad to help, if I could, by removing it before it was noticed." Estelle spoke slowly, as if weighing her words, and her furtive glances at Pauline bore only one significance. It was palpably apparent that she suspected Miss Stuart of the deed, and out of kindness had tried to remove the incriminating evidence.

Pauline stared at her with a glance that went through her or over her or around her, but gave not the slightest attention to the speaker.

"Did you put bromide in your aunt's glass of milk, Miss Stuart?" asked the coroner, and Pauline said, calmly: "Certainly not."

Mr. Scofield sighed. It was a difficult matter to get at the truth when the witnesses were clever women in whose veracity he had not complete confidence.

He gave up Estelle for the moment, and called Gray Haviland.

The young man's appearance gave every promise of frankness and sincerity. He detailed the circumstances precisely as Pauline had told them. He denied having heard or seen anything suspicious during the night. He referred to the coroner's list of motives for the crime, and added that he agreed with Miss Stuart that the present case could scarcely be ascribed to love or revenge. If the murder was committed for gain, it was, of course, a formal necessity to question all the beneficiaries of Miss Carrington's will, but he was sure that all such inheritors were quite willing to be questioned. For his part he believed that the criminal was some enemy of Miss Carrington unknown to her immediate household, and he suggested that such a one be searched for.

"You've got that glove," he reminded, "that was found clasped in the hand of the murdered woman. Why not trace that; or endeavor to learn in some way the reason for the many peculiar circumstances; or discover, at least, a way to look for further evidence; rather than to vaguely suspect those who lived under Miss Carrington's roof?"

"I am not asking your assistance in conducting this inquiry, Mr. Haviland," and the coroner spoke shortly; "but pursuing my own plan of obtaining evidence in my own way. Will you kindly answer questions without comment on them?"

"Oh, all right, fire away. Only remember that we relatives and friends are just as much interested in clearing up this mystery as you are, and we want to help, if we can be allowed to do so intelligently."

Asked again if he saw or heard anything unusual in the night, Haviland replied: "You said 'suspicious' the other time. I did see something unusual. I saw Estelle go stealthily downstairs at 3 a. m. That's unusual, but I don't go so far as to call it suspicious."

(Continued Next Week.)

Secretary Glass wrote Chairman Kitchin, of the House ways and means committee recently that he will shortly recommend extension of the privilege of converting Liberty bonds of the first and second issue to bonds bearing interest at the higher rate of 4¼ per cent.

Tribute was paid the memory of Col. Theodore Roosevelt by members of the National Boot & Shoe Manufacturers' Association at the banquet in New York. They rose and stood in silence for 30 seconds out of respect for "our great departed American of Americans."

Resolutions protesting against the annexation of Korea by Japan and asking President Wilson and the American peace delegates to apply the principle of self determination to that country, have been sent by the New Korea Association to the president and members of the foreign relations committee of congress.

State foresters are reporting many applications from returning soldiers for outdoor work.

MUST PROVIDE

Duty Devolving on Farmers of This Continent.

Western Canada Will Help Meet the Needs of the Old World—The Earth Is a Machine Which Yields Almost Gratuitously to Every Application of Labor and Emerson.

Speaking with one of the commissioners appointed to make a survey of the food situation in the European countries of Europe the writer was told that the depletion of live stock and food was far greater than had expected. With the latter which at that time had not been much had been brought to light had only been surmised. Herds and stock were completely wiped out, that had been prolific yielders of roots and vegetables were to be hummocked by bombs and many of them still lying there and dangerous. Until this land is gone over and cleaned not only way of cultivation can be changed and even where that is done the work of leveling and getting under cultivation will take a long time.

Much more devolves upon the farmers on this side of the Atlantic than was at first supposed. Herds of cattle will have to be replenished, which will take years; the provender for the people in the meantime and the farmers here will be asked to undertake. Producing countries will be taxed to their utmost to meet the demand; all that can be produced will be needed. This need will exist for some time, and during that time prices will be high. The farmers of those who have given the matter most careful thought and study say that food scarcity will be greater after the war than before. The Allies will have to feed, Germany, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria, and this in addition to the requirements of European neutrals, whose increased supplies now that the submarine menace.

To the Canadian and American farmer this means a demand for production fully as great as at any time in the past. Wheat will be needed more than ever will be required. The slogan "Food will win the war" is as necessary as ever. The purpose of this announcement is to direct attention to the fact that hundreds of thousands of acres of land in Western Canada are still unoccupied, and this land is capable of producing enough to supply all Europe with its rich grasses are easily made to produce cheaply, too—the cattle thrive on the nutritious grasses that it yields. The soil lies there waiting for the plough that will make easy the production of the grain that will be needed. Under the most favorable conditions the farmer will be assured of a handsome profit on his investment. The land can be purchased at low prices and on easy terms, and with the abundant crops that it will give, it does not become a matter of speculation. The terms on which it can be had are known, and certain and guaranteed.

These facts, the low cost of production and its great productivity, coupled with the admirable manner in which transport facilities at the disposal of the farmer make farming in Western Canada an attractive proposition, are told in the advertisement.

Ella's Good Advice.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox, America's famous poet, who has been a visitor to the Yanks in France, says the secret of her success lies in the fact that she understands the sentiments of the human heart and endeavors at all times to preach the gospel of cheerfulness.

"If you would be happy," she says, "get something out of life and do the best out of every hour."

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP

Why use ordinary cough remedies when Boschee's Syrup has been used so successfully for fifty-one years in all parts of the United States for coughs, bronchitis, colds settled in the throat, especially lung trouble? It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning, giving the patient a chance to soothe the inflamed parts and throw off the disease, helping the patient to regain his health. Sold in all parts of America and sold for more than half a century.—Adv.

Pie.

"What is this cap-a pie?" asked the movie comedian.

"It alludes to a knight's garb in the middle ages."

"So? I thought maybe it was something we could use in our business."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

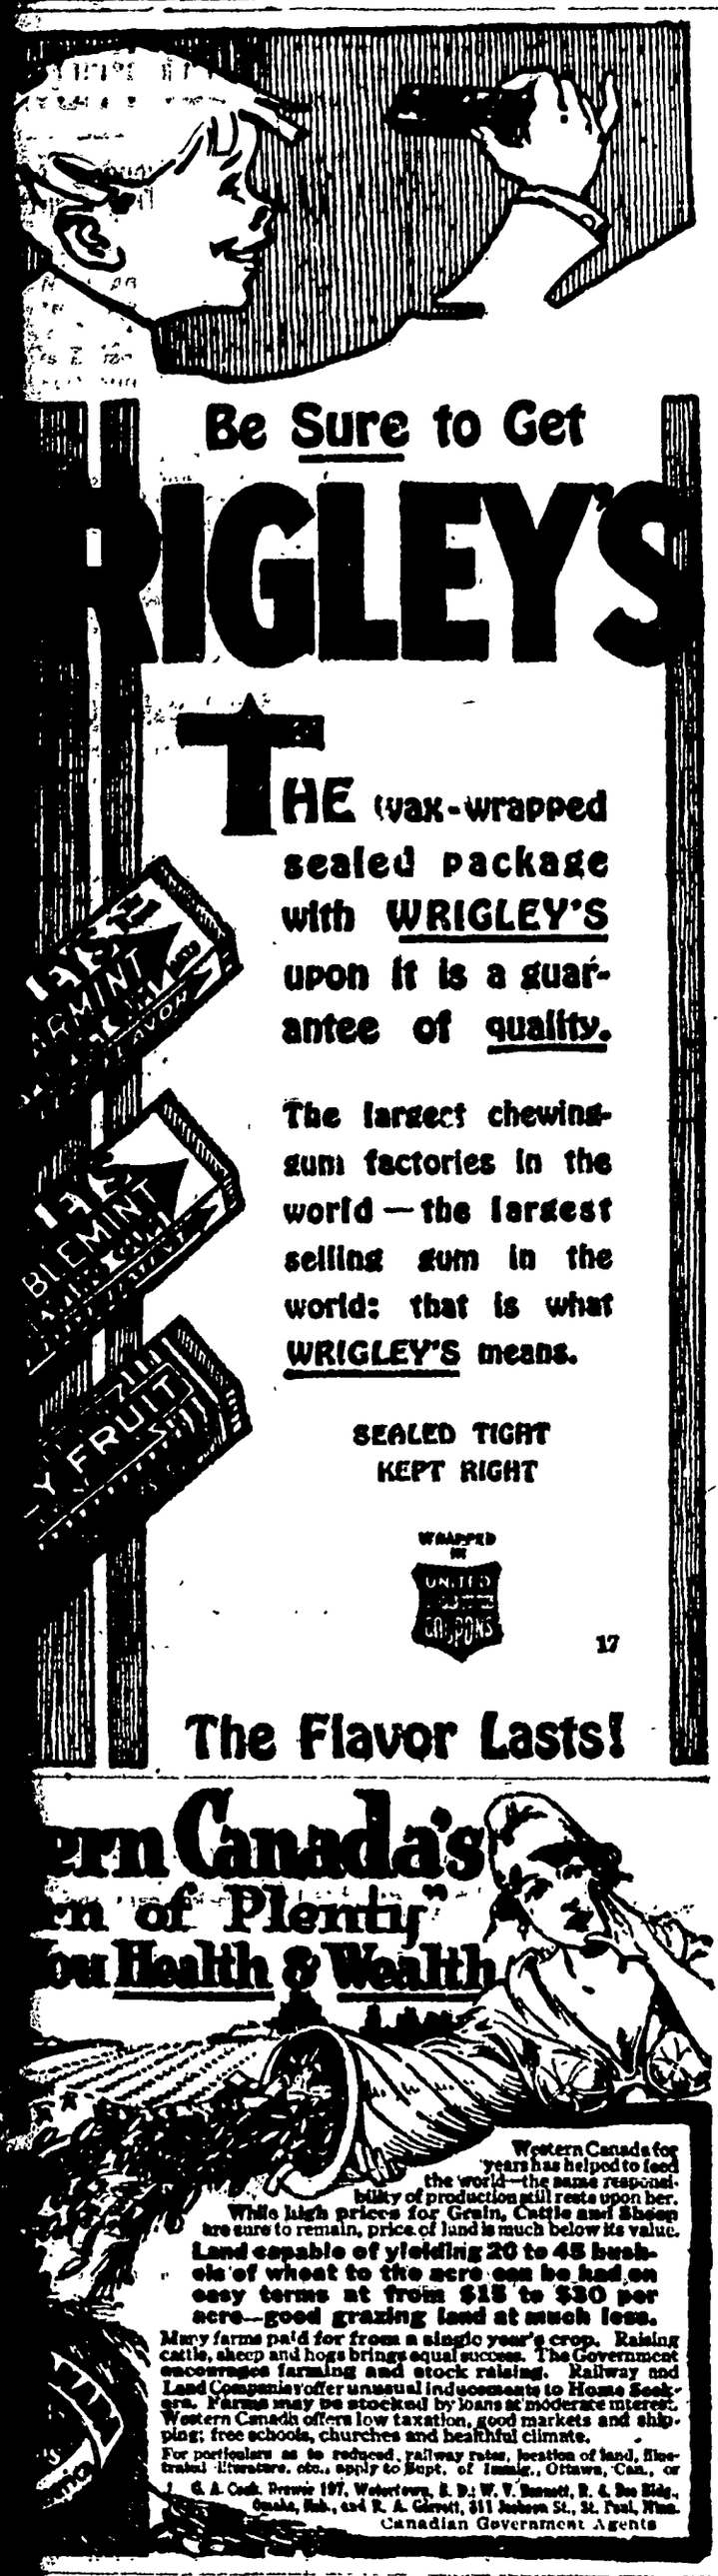
$100 Reward, $100

Catarrh is a local disease greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, therefore requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE destroys the foundation of the disease, gives the patient strength by improving the general health and assists nature in doing its work. $100.00 for any case of Catarrh that HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE fails to cure. Send for testimonials. Druggists 75c. Testimonials free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

People who have nothing to do are usually pressed for time to do it.

Your Eyes

Granulated Eyelids, Eyes inflamed by exposure to Sun, Wind and Dust quickly relieved by Murine Eye Remedy. Just Eye Comfort. At Your Druggists or by mail 60c per Bottle. For Book of the Eye free write Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.



tmas Party.

k a minute.

ep it up so long?—

nds in the scale of ey will be found your money.

well as outside by taking at once a week, such as t Pellets. Adv.

and marriage

Real War.

Mrs. Willit—Kit married him, but she can't control him.

Mr. Willit—I see. She attained her objective, but was unable to consolidate her position.—Judge.

Red Cross Ball Blue is the finest product of its kind in the world. Every woman who has used it knows this statement to be true.

No one loves a fat man but the restaurateur.

YE BACKACHE, KIDNEY BLADDER TROUBLES

ll over the world Harlem Oil has aft- thousands upon thou- ame back, lumbago, , gallstones, gray- ections of the kid- , bladder, and al- quickly. It does ses your kidneys lood. It makes a roman, of you. It off attacks of the eases of the kid- mpletely cures the of the organs of h the bladder and cloudy urine, sed- " indicate an un-minute if your back ore across the loins when urinating. Go t once and get a box of imported GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are pleasant and easy to take. Each capsule contains about one dose of five drops. Take them just like you would any pill. Take a small swallow of water if you want to. They dissolve in the stomach, and the kidneys soak up the oil, like a sponge does water. They thoroughly cleanse and wash out the bladder and kidneys and throw off the inflammation which is the cause of the trouble. They will quickly relieve those stiffened joints, that backache, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gallstones, gravel, "brickdust," etc. They are an effective remedy for all diseases of the bladder, kidney, liver, stomach and allied organs. Your druggist will cheerfully refund your money if you are not satisfied after a few days' use. Accept only the pure, original GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. None other genuine.—Adv.

GATED LANDS.

s or more of irrigated land with full water right, unbonded, for less than it ay. Adjacent to Government Range. This land is open for first time, ocated in Carbon and sheep and cattle country of Wyoming and close to ers all crops commonly raised throughout the west. The land is now selling for $50 easy cash down and balance in ten years. Same land will be worth $150.00 ite our agents to investigate.

ATE, Ltd., 230 Foster Building, Denver, Colorado; Phone Champa 3246 ional Bank, Cody, Wyoming, Shoshone National Bank, Cody, Wyoming

"Rich Americans."

Booth Tarkington, in St. Nicholas.

Booth Tarkington, writing to a young French girl, tells her this about "rich Americans:"

You have heard, you say, my dear, of the "rich Americans," and how the United States is the "rich man's country." In a way, this is true. The American people are the richest people because they have been industrious in developing such vast tracts of the rich land. And all the while, you know, anybody who wishes could come here and share in the development and in the prosperity. The immigrant had as much chance to grow rich as the native had. It all depended only on his industry and his intelligence. Education was open to him, everything was open to him, if only he were willing. And great hordes of immigrants did come, and shared in the products of the rich soil and became Americans.

You may have heard somewhere that the Americans grew rich by other means than by their industry and the richness of the American soil; and, of course, it is true that here and there were men among them who by cunning and corruption got more than their proper share; but the common prosperity of the people is a fact of overwhelmingly more importance than that of a few individuals who have misused for gain the trust of citizenship. I am a kind of socialist myself, my dear, but I believe, with the unfortunate Russian lady, more in the socialism that tries to make poor people rich than in that which tries to make the rich people poor.

Almost all the richer people in America have won their riches in open and fair competition; they have won by industry or intelligence or economy, or all three; and there are indeed very, very few poor people who need to remain poor if they display normal energy and intelligence. The advance has been so great and the opportunities are so universal that almost all of those who consider themselves poor today can have more comforts in their lives and better education for their minds than were within the reach of those who were considered "rich" 50 or 60 years ago.

Our War at Home.

Theodore Price and Richard Spillman, in the Outlook.

War communiques are not confined to the fighting front in France nor the Balkans or Syria. We have a fighting front in America, for America has her own little war at home.

Every day or two there is a message received at the office of the commissioner of internal revenue at Washington that reads somewhat as follows:

> In raid yesterday at Blank, John Blank was killed resisting capture and one of his party wounded. Deputy Blank was shot through the leg and Sheriff Blank injured slightly.

For the last four months the government has been waging war on the moonshiners on a scale greater than ever before in our history. At present the engagements are confined to the mountain districts of Tennessee, Alabama, North Carolina, and the Appalachian country generally, but they are expected to embrace in time most of the country. Since June 1 of this year more than 500 illicit stills and distilleries have been seized and destroyed. Scores of men have been killed; scores, too, have been wounded. More than 200 men have been captured, and prosecution has been recommended through the department of justice against nearly 500 offenders. The dead include moonshiners, sheriffs, and deputy sheriffs. The wounded include lawbreakers, government agents, and officials of the state. Among the men captured have been many deserters from the United States army, mostly sons or relatives of the moonshiners. Nearly 50,000 gallons of whisky has been seized and destroyed, and the value of the property, including illicit stills and distilleries, seized by the government amounts to more than $100,000. The property taken over by the government embraces not only stills, but automobiles, mules, wagons, and raw material for the manufacture of whisky. Among the goods seized there have been more than 30,000 pounds of sugar.

There is no romance in moonshining today. It is commercial, demoralizing, and, as such, is far more threatening than ever before. It is because of this that Daniel C. Roper, commissioner of internal revenue, has organized what is known as the "flying squadron" to combat the evil. This squadron was organized in the Nashville division June 7, 1918, and was composed of 14 men. Col. Daniel Porter, formerly of the United States army, but now of the internal revenue service, selected and trained the men. The squadron has become a considerable body. It now includes approximately 100 men.

At the end of the present fiscal year, with prohibition a nation-wide principle in America, the internal revenue department may cease to function as a collector of liquor taxes, but neither the internal revenue department nor the department of justice expects that prohibition is going to make America wholly "dry." The "flying squadron" by that time may be very much larger than it is today. It may then become an adjunct of the department of justice, or there may be some legislation which will invest it with special police powers and continue it under the jurisdiction of Commissioner Roper. At any rate, its field of action will be the whole United States. There probably will be much less moonshining in the mountains and more in the great centers of population. There is moonshining today in New York. There is moonshining in Chicago. There has been a revival of moonshining in Indiana since prohibition went into force there. In the city the detection of illicit distilling is more difficult than in the country, where the distinctive odor generated may indicate the location of a moonshiner's plant that is otherwise concealed. There is a conflict of odors where there are many lines of industry. There is no place in which it is so safe to hide as where there are vast congregations of people. It is going to be a herculean task to suppress the traffic in liquor so long as it is cheap to make whisky and so long as man will pay a tremendous price for it.

Effect of the Lorraine Iron Tonic Upon France

By Newell Dwight Hillis

The restoration of the iron mines of Lorraine to France is effecting a financial miracle. The sudden advance of French bonds and stocks gives only a slight indication of the new life now pulsing through the financial and industrial veins of the French republic. When France lost Lorraine, with her hematite iron mines, in 1871, it was as if the United States had lost the iron mines of Lake Superior, and the coking coal of western Pennsylvania. Progress rides forward on wheels of steel. This is an era of iron, and for nearly 50 years France was without raw materials, and the result was she developed her fine arts—painting, sculpture, porcelain, lace and silk factories, jewels, women's gowns, millinery, and put the beautiful into the life of the people. Art has always paid large returns on the investment, but what France needed was an industrial basis, with an opportunity for her young men to give themselves to manufacturing life. Thousands of her engineers went to foreign countries because Germany had stolen the iron mines upon which financial life in every country rests.

To understand the strange business revival that has just begun in France one must note the influence upon Germany of the iron mines stolen from France. In 1871 Great Britain led Germany both in pig iron and in steel, and Germany was nowhere. After the capture of the northern half of Lorraine, Germany united the French iron ore with the coking coal of Westphalia and Saar, and within 20 years became a competitor of England, and by 1913 she was producing 19,000,000 tons of iron and steel, far outdistancing Great Britain, and being only 10,000,000 tons behind the American production. But of this enormous treasure Germany has obtained only 23 per cent from her own iron mines, while France's captured mines in Lorraine furnished 77 per cent. Conceding that Germany will be able to buy iron ore from Sweden, Spain and Russia, it still follows that the cost will be largely increased, and that the loss of the raw materials of her own is an immeasurable loss.

Scarcely less important upon the new France and her financial revival is the influence of her newly recovered oil wells and potash deposits in Alsace. Forty-two per cent of Germany's oil came from Alsace, while 90 per cent of the potash that she has sold came from the great mines in the province now restored to France. The control of Alsace-Lorraine gave Germany a practical monopoly of the potash of the world, but from this time on France has an opportunity to fertilize her own fields, and to export potash to other countries that are in great need. The outbreak of joy in Paris and France over the recovery of Alsace-Lorraine did not grow out of sentimental considerations; it was based upon industrial necessities and vast economic treasure. From this time on France owns more high grade iron ore than all the other states of Europe. From this time, also, France has the opportunity to become a manufacturing country. The war has made her the potential successor of Germany in the realm of manufacturing life.

Braced Up.

Once more I've had my trousers pressed, one more my shoes are polished bright; I feel quite nifty for I'm dressed as well as any gent in sight. When war was on the people looked with scorn on those who wore good rags; they derned, dodgasted and gadsooked, and talked of treason to our flags. And so I wore a seedy coat and pants that wrinkled at the knees; I hoped to get the Prussian goat by wearing mildewed duds like these. I bought cheap gingham at the store, with other patriotic men; the stovepipe hat my father wore was put in service once again. And when I squinted in the glass, I was a wondrous sight to see; I often wept and said, 'Alas! No wonder horses shy at me!' But while I thought I'd whip the Teuts by cutting down the wardrobe bills, I gladly wore my cowhide boots, my ginghams, corduroys and twills. But when the armistice was signed, I hustled to the clothing store, and said, "The nations will not mind, if I wear real clothes once more. The shadow's gone from stricken France, once more the war worn Belgianse grin; so I will buy some decent pants, and wear a shirt that isn't tin." Oh, James, it is a pleasant thing, to wear a white man's clothes again, nor fear the bitter taunt and fling of ultra-patriotic men!

Word comes from Raleigh, N. C.: "Serious propaganda for making President Wilson president of the University of North Carolina at the close of his term has been discovered here."

Reconstruction Permits Are Compared by Virginian

Fendall G. Winston, of Minneapolis, in Commerce and Finance.

As there are many who believe that the experience of the United States and the southern states, particularly during the period of reconstruction which followed the civil war (1861-5), was not dissimilar from what we may expect upon a larger scale as we pass through the period of reconstruction upon which the world is now entering, we have thought that the following letter, prepared at our request, might be interesting to the readers of this paper. The writer is a Virginian who went west to seek and find his fortune in the year 1872.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 9, 1918.—To the Editor: In response to your request that I should prepare a memorandum embodying my recollections of the conditions existing in this country during the period of readjustment following the civil war, for comparison with he conditions existing today, I submit:

You understand, of course, as well as I do, that conditions then were very much worse and, therefore, much less favorable than they are at the present time. At the end of the civil war the whole south, comprising as it did about one-third of the population of the country, was in almost as pitiable a condition as we may well imagine Austria to be in at this time. Their currency system was annihilated. The little money that people had, except in rare instances, was not worth one cent on the dollar.

The whole labor system was revolutionized. The livestock in the agricultural section was probably about one-half of normal. Their lands had gone without fertilization for five years and its fertility had greatly decreased, and following the civil war, in that section of the country at least, it was a struggle indeed for the people to live.

It is true, I think that up to '72, there, as well as in the great west, agricultural products were bringing better than prices prevailing a great portion of the time from '72 to '98. I am not familiar with the prices of labor prevailing in the northern section of our country from '65 to '72, but I have a very distinct and vivid recollection of the wage scale paid, at least in the agricultural sections of Virginia during the period between '65 and February, '72, when I came west. In that section of the country, the labor of the south, when employed, was on as low a scale. I think, as ever prevailed anywhere in these United States. Farm labor, when hired by the day, received a wage, generally, of 50 cents a day, with a weekly ration, maximum, of three and one-half gallons of unsifted corn meal and three and one-half pounds of salted side meat, or what used to be called middlings. A man could take, if he so desired, a quart of molasses in the place of a pound of meat. This was the wage that was paid able bodied men, who were able to do an honest day's work, commencing at sunrise and ending at sunset, before and after which he was expected to feed the livestock and see that they were properly taken care of in the stables and in the barnyard.

After leaving the south in February, '72, my recollection is not so well fortified by experience, but for a number of years I naturally watched the best I could the trend of events and my personal recollection is that this daily wage scale continued at least until the beginning of the '80s, and so far as I know, even longer. Women, when employed in the field, I think were paid as high as 35 cents a day, in addition to rations, the same as issued to men. When employed by the month, farm hands were hired at from $7 to $8 a month, for men, and $2 to $3.50 for women. Occasionally, men were paid $100 a year, with rations in addition, as outlined above. In recent years, beginning about 1900, if my memory serves me right, the wage earner was better paid, receiving as high, sometimes, as $1 a day, and in some instances as much as $15 per month, for men. Women were paid on a rising scale, as high as $5 to $7 a month. In a general way, I think this memoranda is approximately correct as to the wage earner in the south during the period railroad, where I continued until the beginning of this great world struggle that we have just gone through with.

Now, as to the west, as stated above, I was not familiar with the conditions existing in this western country until I came to North Dakota in February, '72, where I sought and was given employment on the Northern Pacific railroad, where I continued until the fall of '73, working in one of their engineer parties. Common labor, at that time, in the employment in which I was occupied, was paid as high as $40 a month and board. Day labor was paid, at the maximum, if I am correct, $2.25 a day, with about $4.50 or $5 per week taken out for board, in railroad work, which was the only line of employment that I was familiar with at that time.

In the fall of '72, or spring of '73, there was a financial crash, brought about by the failure of Jay Cooke & Co., the leading banking house of its day, to which large enterprises looked for their support. Necessarily, there followed a complete cessation of railroad extension. This collapse showed its effect in every line of industry throughout the country. Labor went down to $1 and $1.25 a day, when one could find employment.

Added to these calamitous conditions, the grasshopper scourge prevailed throughout this western country and continued its yearly devastations, sometimes complete and sometimes partial, up to, I think, as late as '80, when it began to show a marked decrease.

Prices of agricultural products continued low, except for short periods of time, as during the Russian-Turkish war, the Hutchinson's corner, the Leiter corner, and possibly other short periods, the causes for which I cannot at present definitely recall, such for instance, as in the fall of '83, when wheat, for some reason, touched, as I remember, about $1.32 a bushel, but dropped back, if I am not mistaken, the following spring to about normal prices.

Following '83 and '85, things commenced to recede. The Baring failure brought about panicky conditions whiel prevailed on the downward scale until the collapse of '93 struck the country. Mercantile, bank and manufacturing wrecks stared you in the face everywhere. Agricultural products went down to as low, in a good portion of our western country, as 12 and 14 cents a bushel for corn on the ear, 50 cents a bushel for wheat, 70 cents a bushel for flax, 15 to 20 cents a bushel for oats, and in western Nebraska and outlying sections of the corn belt, corn went as low as 9 cents a bushel. Because of its cheapness, as compared with coal, it was used for fuel. The farmers on our prairies resorted to the expedient of twisting up grasses and straw, somewhat after the fashion that the Virginia tobacco farmers used to mould what they called the "Old Tobacco Twist," and used it as fuel. Potatoes delivered at the starch factories went as low, I think, as 8 cents a bushel. Labor, when one could find employment at hard work, touched, in this city, as low as 90 cents a day, without board, and in the larger industries, such as mine stripping, went as low as $1.20 a day, with $3.50 to $4 a week for board taken out of their wages. As late as '98 corn in Chicago sold as low as 27 ar 28 cents a bushel, not for a day, but almost for the crop year.

In '99 things commenced to pick up. There was a gradual increase, I think, in the prices of agricultural products which settled around 25 to 30 cents a bushel for oats, 80 cents to $1 for wheat, 50 to 75 cents for corn, and after the beginning of this war in Europe, agricultural products of course were much higher, since which we have passed through a period of most remarkable agricultural prosperity in every line of product raised in every section of our country. In '99 also, railroading again started up, with a gradual increase in volume, at which time the country labor scale had gotten as high as $2.75 for ordinary labor, settling down around $1.75 to $2 a day, but common labor in ordinary work settling down around $1.75 to $ a day, which held fairly steady until present war conditions resulted in the abnormal wage scale of today.

Therefore, you will, by a little mental calculation, see that from '72 to '98, inclusive, a period of 26 years, there were 15 years that could be called years of marked depression, and yo one, in a review of the whole situation must come to the conclusion that w had made progress, not as rapidly a during the period from '98 to the present time, but taken all together, satisfactory progress.

From '98 up to the end of this war we have gone through a period of 20 years, when taken as a whole, of prosperity unequalled in the history of nations, and thus we find ourselves more fortunately situated and better able to handle readjustment following the war than has been the case with any nation in the experience of mankind. Why should we be faint hearted?

In addition to the evils that we suffered as a result of war, the calamities that almost overcame the western country, of crop failures, the grasshopper scourge, and the upsetting conditions by the Baring failure, we went through a period, commencing in '90 and reaching the high point of depression in '96 of inaccountable blunders made by the government, or the political parties, such as the passage of the silver purchase bill, fathered by Senator Sherman of the republican party which bill, I think, was passed in July '90 and the great struggle, headed by the democratic candidate for president in '96, William J. Bryan, in '96. We then saw that the attempt on the part of the government to artificially create value by legislation was, indeed, in itself, to be dangerous.

Dempsey.

Now that the long drawn war is done, and peace abides in camps and courts, we turn a moment from the Hun to think and talk of helpful sports. No armies now distort the maps, at the behest of czar or king, but we'll still have our little scraps, our little triumphs in the ring. While captain whooped and charges reared and soldiers fired the deadly gun, a new phenomenon appeared, who packs from bacon by the ton. This Dempsey, of heroic name, that by another Jack was worn, has quickly gained a lengthy fame, and made a lot of cheeses mourn. Fred Fulton, who was wont to wist that he would wear the champeen's crown, ran up against this Dempsey fist, then on the mourners' bench sat down. One moment he was full of hope, the next in anguish dire he sat, and leaned against a sagging rope, and asked the crowd where he was at. Carl Morris cried, "Alas for Fred, that one so beautiful should fall! I'll pun h this Dempsey party's head, and stop his fooling, once for all." But Dempsey smote that mass of beef, and found the vital place he sought, and Carl sat down to nurse his grief, and rea djust his dome of thought. I like this man of swats and biffs, this Dempsey, vigorous and strong; he's weeding out the noisy stiffs and showing them they don't belong.

Back to Old Jobs.

From the London Mail.

At the great British national factories and controlled establishments which have been making munitions during the war particulars are being collected as to what the women workers intend or hope to do in the future.

A report from a large Yorkshire factory is typical of the women and girls who have left. More than a third have gone into the textile trade, a tenth into tailoring, four out of every 100 into domestic service, and two out of every 100 into hospitals, shops and laundries.

Of those left at the factory more than a third are textile workers, about a ninth are married and intend going home, and the others—about half of the whole—are soldiers' wives and widows whose immediate future is uncertain.

At the famous national factory at Gretna, the 6,000 women workers are being discharged at the rate of 500 a week. Many of the better type are stated to be entering domestic service. There seems to be less feeling against domestic service in Scotland than in England.

According to a government report, more than 3,000,000 acres of government land were freed recently of prairie dogs by poisoning. One man poisoned approximately 2,000 prairie dogs in a single day on a 320-acre field in northern Arizona.

A novel casualty list which has just appeared in Germany contains the numbers of watches found among belongings of unidentified dead men who cannot be otherwise identified.

The store that claims to outdistance the value in these Patton Brothers Overcoats at $33.50

Either overstates it's position or underestimates your intelligence.

It either says so because it thinks so, or does so when it's not so--because it wants you to believe it.

Values like these can't be beaten. They can, however, be equaled, and while it may be utterly impossible to find just as big a money's worth in another store, it's going to require a delightful little piece of finesse to duplicate this kind of tailoring for this amount of money where you look or who goes with it.

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

"Where a dollar does it's duty"

Who Said Candy?

We have just a large and choice assortment of

Holly Brand Candy

Come in and get that box of candy today

"If It's To Eat---We Have It"

CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, Props.

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105

RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

Electrical Treatments

Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in

Groceries Dry Goods

Shoes Ladies Wear

Hardware Paint

Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North
Mixed	1:35 p. m
Passenger	3:03 p. m.
Passenger	8.44 a. m
South
Passenger	6:17 p. m.
Passenger	11:25 a. m.
Freight	12.15 p. m

Having received several requests to resume my calls to Klemme, I have decided to accommodate those who desire Osteopathic Treatments and will be at the Klemme Hotel Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Dr. R. W Schultz, Osteopathic Physician.

BOB SLED and Harness for sale. Inquire of E. S. Uben.

Eck Raw, deputy sheriff, was a business caller here last Wednesday.

Oscar Schuldt was a passenger to Garner last Thursday afternoon.

Earl Ellsworth, of Garner, was here on business last Thursday.

Alex Ross , of Garner, was seen on the streets of Klemme last Thursday

Mrs. D. B. Anderson was visiting in Garner last Thursday.

E. G. Ell went to Fort Dodge last Friday on a business trip

Walter Berggren returned last Friday from a business trip to Algona.

Floyd Fiero of Garner, was a Klemme visitor last Friday.

Frank Kellogg, of Garner, was a business caller here last Thursday.

Read all the soldier letters in this issue, they are of interest.

G. P. McCullough of Sheffield, Iowa, was a Klemme caller Tuesday.

Val. Josten has been spending some of his time on the sick list the past week.

Mrs. Henry Schlichting left Monday for points in Wisconsin to visit relatives and frends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haupt, and Mrs. Val. Josten went to Mason City Monday.

We call the attention of our readers to the ad of Mr. Welty, the piano dealer at Britt. Read it over carefully

Mrs. Wm. Schmidt, and daughter Alma, of Garner, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Ryan Saturday.

Mrs. Schroeder improved her residence the past week by having a glass storm front built onto the porch.

The Gilbert Schaeffer family are at the present time residing with the Ben Swalve family.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Griesemer were Garner vistors between trains last Friday morning

Mrs. A. Ahrenkiel, of Goodell, was a Klemme visitor last Thursday afternoon.

HOUSE FOR SALE in Klemme. Inquire of Frank Kluckhohn, Garner, Iowa.

P. M. Griesemer was a business caller in Garner between trains last Thursday afternoon

A. G. Koerner was a business caller at Garner between trains last Thursday morning.

Mrs. John Gruetzmacher was a passenger to Garner last Thursday morning.

Miss Fish, of Dewitt, Iowa, came Tuesday morning for a visit with Mrs. R. M. Thomas.

E. F. Carpenter, our hotel manager, was a business caller at Forest City Tuesday.

Don't forget that there is a dance at the Idle Hour Theatre in Klemme on every Friday night. Come and have a good time.

Miss Adeline Brennen returned ffirom Goodell Tuesday morning where she has been visiting with friends.

Miss Blanche Liljenberg, who has been visiting at Garner and Miller for some time, came Friday evening for a visit with Klemme friends.

Earl Ellsworth, Edw. Kudej and Burt Mathews, of Garner, autoed over to Klemme Monday in the former's car.

Miss Celia Brouwer, of Ventura, came Friday evening for an over Sunday visit with her cousin, Miss Ella Schuldt.

The Misses Edna and Edith Katter, of Garner, visited with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Blumer, Friday evening and Saturday

Harry Gibbs shipped a Shetland pony to Tom Brooks at Belmond Saturday. The pony was about nine months old, and a dandy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gimer returned to their home at Abbott, Iowa, last Saturday after a visit of a few days at the A .D Gimer home.

Mrs. T. F. Mitchell, of Swea City came Saturday night for an over Sunday visit with Klemme relatives and friends. She returned to Swea City Monday morning.

Rev. Charles Winters of Adel, Iowa preached the sermon at the Eng. M. E. church last Sunday morning. Mr. Winters was formerly a resident of Klemme.

Chas. Winters returned to his home at Adel, Monday after visiting with Klemme friends over Sunday. He was called to Clear Lake by the illness of his mother.

The Idle Hour Theatre will run picture shows only on Saturday nights hereafter. They will run six reels of good feature and comedy and the price of admission will be 15c and 25c. Let's go.

Ben Swalve and Gilbert Schaefer were callers at the Times Office Tuesday afternoon. Gilbert is getting along fine now as he is beginning to move his left arm and leg now which were paralized following an attack of the flu this fall. We are glad to state that he is on the road to recovery.

Fred Musfelt, son George and daughters Misss Malinda and Mrs. Lanahan, arrived in Klemme Tuesday afternoon from Witt, Ill. Mr. Jas. Lanahan died of pneumonia and was buried at that place. Mrs. Lanahan will remain with her parents in Klemme.

Mrs. Hans Hansen was a pasesnger to Garner Saturday afternoon.

Martin Christensen came up from Garner Saturday on business.

Joe Lawhorn, of Garner, was transacting business in Klemme Saturday.

Miss Hulda Johnson spent Sunday visiting with friends in Mason City.

L. R. Roberts and son Harry, spent Sunday with Mason City folks.

Floyd Ollenburg spent Sunday in Mason City.

Miss Cora Nueberger was visiting in Garner between trains Tuesday.

Mrs. C. F. Keraus was a Garner caller Tuesday.

Mrs. C. J Keraus was a Garner visitor between trains Tuesday.

Mrs. N. L. Palmer was a Garner caller between trains last Thursday.

Wm. Tanner, of Garner, was in Klemme Saturday gazing upon our high buildings.

John Tanner and family have recovered from their attack of the popular disease—flu.

A number of young men of Goodell came down on a hand car last Friday evening to take in the dance here.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lewis went to Clear Lake Saturday for an over Sunday visit.

Miss Lola Haskins, of Garner, visited with Klemme friends last week from Tuesday until Saturday.

Philip Ell, of Mason City, was in Klemme last Friday and Saturday calling on friends.

Billie Velau returned Saturday afternoon from a short visit with friends in Oklahoma.

Verner Thomas, of Mason City, was in Klemme several days the past week repairing cars for Clarence Johnson.

Wm. Bachman was over to Garner on business between trains Saturday morning.

Farmers! Get your sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop, we guarantee a good, first class job.

G. O. Miner, and son Ray, of Garner, were Klemme visitors Monday between trains.

Mr and Mrs. H. W. Barnabee went to Britt Monday morning for several days' visit.

Mrs. N. J. Nelson and Mrs. J Jorgenson, of Garner, visited at the Thos. Nelson home between trains Monday.

Dr. R. W. Schultz, of Garner, was a professional caller here Monday and Wednesday of this week.

The streets of Klemme were dragged Monday and Tuesday and are in a much better shape to dry out.

C. W. Wiles was a business caller at Garner and Belmond Tuesday between trains.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gruetzmacher and daughter Esther, and Mr. and Mrs P. M. Griesmer left Monday for Colorado, to be gone for several weeks.

Wm. Coobs returned to hs home at McGregor Monday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Henry Buseman who will visit there.

Mr. and Mrs. Berggren returned Tuesday afternoon from Traer, Iowa, where they were visiting friends for a couple of days.

Paul Stille came from Iowa Falls Tuesday morning for a visit with home folks. (He was accompanied by a young lady.)

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Reemstma, of Applington, Iowa, visited at the home of their son, B. A. Reemstma, last Thursday and Friday.

J. P. Larsen is making his daily trips to Garner on the Rock Island to help in their butcher shop there until "Scoop" arrives to help out.

Dwight T. Smith, of Garner, and Mr. Bickle, of Des Moines, were transacting business in Klemme last Thursday.

Mrs. P. M. Brown, of Mason City, who visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hans Hansen a few days last week, returned to Mason City Saturday afternoon.

L. J. Bremer, of Sioux City, Iowa, came to Klemme Saturday to conduct communion services which were held at the First Methodist Church last Sunday.

Walter Eldridge arrived in Klemme last Saturday from Camp Dodge at which place he received his discharge. Walter has just arrived from France where he has been since October and has seen active service. He carried his gas mask and helmet home with him. He is visiting with his mother here and sister, Mrs. R. M. Thomas. Mr. Eldrdge is the first overseas man to arrive in Klemme

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7:30 p. m.

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

We have it! What

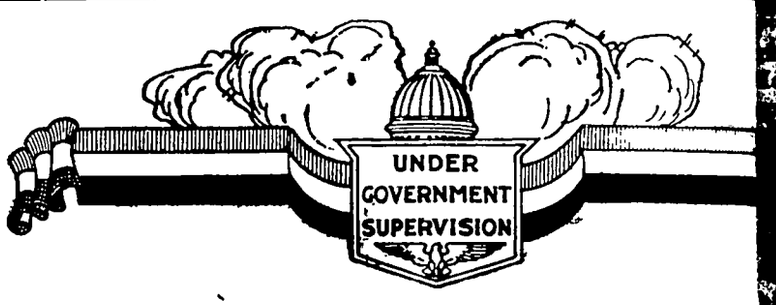
Everything

Which is found in only the best and most up-to-date Meat Markets.

You will always find a complete line of Choice Meats, Hams, Bacon, Fancy Meats and Canned Goods

Try Our Oleomargarine---It's Fine

J. P. Larsen & Son



BANKING SERVICE

Our steady growth indicates that our customers find their advantage to do business with us. To continue give our customers a 100 per cent banking service is our constant aim.

If your not enjoying the advantages of a good banking service, now is the time to make a satisfactory connection.

Your business will be welcome and appreciated

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Iowa

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

All Kinds of Hardware

We have a full line of Hardware to choose from,

Perculators, Roasters, Aluminun Ware, Cook Cultery, Silver-ware, Pyrex Baking-ware, etc.

STOVES and Ranges

GREUTZMACHER BRO

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Telephone No. 14

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We willbuy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.

Successor to W. R. Bloom

DR. L. R. PARSONS

DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank

Phone No. 48.

Klemme Iowa

KLEMME TIMES

E XXIII NUMBER 23 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, February 6 1919 | $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

h of Letters From Our Heroes er There" And Other Notes

Dec. 28th, 1918

od:—

would write you a few u know I am well and he same.
oved since I wrote to s just wondering why te to me. Maybe you
the last letter I sent

Grandpa Hod getting still farming, or has he eard from George lately

e now? I see by the e preparing to send the but I ain't mentioning because I give up all part of it.
ly for two officers now.
you know what Orderly
? Ha! Ha! I know a s here from Cedar Rap-ew Lorette when she er Yohn getting along?

rd from him for a long own and wrote about ten a month ago to all of the ound there, but I guess
t them.
it makes a fellow feel gets a letter from one back home. Not saying n getting a letter from Wayne, Indiana. She is Ha! Ha!
some country over here say is "No Compra"— they say, I mean it is hat is all they know, too.
back from the Salvation
I got this paper there would write to you.
Christ—I mean Massy and Passy and Leo getting along? I suppose they are too busy to write to me. Tell them hello. We sure had a nice time Thanksgiving Day. Had a show and got some candy from the Y. M. C. A., sent by the Red Cross, but we haven't received any packages yet. Have you sent any? Red Cross I mean.

Well if this letter gets home after I do I will tell you about it but there ain't any danger of us beating the letter home.

Say, did Alfred pick corn for Christ this year? I sent him a letter but never receive an answer from him.

Is Agnes there yet? I think of the dear old farm every day and sure wish I was back.

How is the news back there? Has it said anything about the 88th Division coming home yet? You know I am in the 88th Division now.

How is the weather back there? Does it rain all the time over there like it does here? It sure is muddy over here. It snowed Christmas day, all day too.

Ask Hod or Christ if they will hire me if I come back to the good old town of Klemme.

Well I haven't much to say, only tell Elmer, Christ and Nels, Alfred I mean all of them, Hello, and ask them if they received the letters I sent them.

I will close with ...t of love and a happy new year.

Private Carl C. Boehl,

M. G. Co. 351st Inf.

American E. F., A P O 795

P. S. Please answer this letter.

Somewhere in Germany.
January 4th, 1919.

Klemme Times.

Dear Friends around Klemme, Iowa:

I know that I have quite a few friends around Klemme that think of me quite often over here. So I thought that I would write a few lines in the Times and tell how I am getting along these days over here now. Well I am well and getting along fine and keeping in good health. I landed in France the 8th of September and I certainly have seen lots of this old world since I was drafted the 25th of July and went for the camps. The time has certainly went fast since then. While I have been over here I have only got five letters so far from home yet. So you friends know that I don't hear much news from home. Well, when I get back home again I will have many a good story to tell about this country. I am in Germany now, and tell how I used to pick cooties off from our underclothes. They are our good friends when night comes when you want to go to sleep. Well above all things I am keeping well and keeping in good health, and hoping to come back to good old Klemme some time again. So I guess that I will close for this time now. I am in the 32nd Division now, so when you folks read in the papers about the 32nd Division coming home, look for me then.

Well, goodbye for this time.

Private Frank Fay Ward.

WELTY'S PIANO SALE

C. D. Welty is putting on a big piano sale at Britt. Most of the people of Klemme are acquainted with Welty as he has installed a number of pianos in this city and vicinity and is known as a good square dealer. To further induce the people of Klemme to attend this sale, which is now on and open evenings also, he will pay buyers expenses both ways and also their hotel bill while in Britt. See his large ad in this issue.

LARSENS MAKE FURTHER IMPROVEMENTS IN SHOP AT GARNER

Saturday when we were at Garner we stepped into Larsen's Meat Market to see how things were going and for a chat with Billie Werner. Larsens have had their shop fixed up in fine shape. The walls are decorated with a new oatmeal paper, the fixtures have been white enameled and a few necessities installed. J. P. Larsen and Sons are there when it comes to the meat business and the people of Garner are fortunate to have them listed among their business men. With the two markets at Klemme and Garner they will make things hum.

THE ROCK ISLAND RUNS AWAY FROM ITSELF

Monday noon when the train came up from Garner the engine got to going so fast that it ran away from the rest of the train and the engineer had gone about a mile before he noticed his loss He backed up the old peanut cracker, hooked onto the train again with some barb wire which they "borrowed" from a nearby fence and started out again. They went a short distance and the tail end of the train could not keep up with the engine so it severed relations a second time More barb wire was used in mending the break and they pulled into Klemme at the usual time—which is about an hour late. Oh It's a great life if you don't weaken!

TO THE VOTERS OF THE INCORPORATED TOWN OF KLEMME

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Office of Mayor. I appeal to those citizens who are interested in a clean administration, good morality and decent citizenship.

Yours truly,

2-12-19 Chas. W. Stiehl

SPLINTERS

The unhappy condition in which Germany finds herself in at the close of the great war should be a warning to all other nations. No matter how ever well they may be prepared that the civilized world of the present day will not stand for a war of conquest with a weaker nation. Neither will it stand for a war of frightfulness, rapine and murder, such as Germany pursued in her efforts to gain world ascendancy. Of that any nation so inclined may be assured. You can safely wager that Germany will think twice before entering into another war of that kind a second time. She has had her lesson, but it took oceans of the best blood this world produces and much treasure to put the finishing touches upon her education.

When the Huns invaded Belgium in 1914 they took for their slogan the triumphant cry: "We win and we win, and we always win." Four years later they retreated over the same road; a beaten army, with the dismal wail, "We lose, and we lose, and all is lost," thus typifying the old proverb, "He laughs best who laughs last."

What a Pandora's box of evils the old Kaiser opened for Germany and the rest of the world for that matter, when he set the war in motion four years ago. It will take a generation and more to put the world upon a permanent peaceful footing, one that will endure, and in which the people and not an autocrat will have the say so.

We have been asked to explain the conundrum, "Why does a dog wag his tail?" We answer, "Because the dog is stronger than the tail, otherwise the tail would wag the dog." See? The application on't to the question of Ireland's separation is so apparent as to need no further explanation from us. Verstehen du?

The motto of Ireland is Erin Go Bragh, in English, "Erin Forever"; that of Great Britain, "God Save the King." The idea has just struck us forcibly that in the interest of conciliation and friendship between the two countries that a union of the two mottoes mght have some weight in patching up a peace. For instance, Ireland could adopt as her motto, "God Save Erin, the King Go Bragh." We simply throw this hint out for what it is worth and let it go at that. "Nuff ced."

Important if true: A recent dispatch from Amorengen states that Emperor (?) William has definitely decided to wear a full beard.

In a tempestuous sea it is the lightest objects that come soonet to the top. Thi holds good in the comic opera of a separate government that the Sinn Feiners in "Dublin Town" are trying to put over on a weary world. It is said that every tub must stand on it's own bottom, but this tub doesn't eem to have any bottom to stand on. It looks as if the British government's policy is to let the "Feigners" have rope enough to hang themselves up for the world's amusement.

A recent dispatch from England states on what it claims to be "unimpeachable authority that war might break out again any moment," but does not say where or with whom. What do you know about that? We were not aware of anybody spoiling for a fight unless it might be the "Akoond of Swat" who we understand from a grapevine dispatch from India is very much offended at the manner in which his name has been taken in vain recently by alleged humorists. However you can see for yourself that the one dispatch is about as reliable as the other.

It is said of Abraham Lincoln of blessed memory that he once remarked that "God must love the common people; He made so many of them." It can also be said of Theodore Roosevelt, that virile champion of the peoples' rights that he also loved the common people, and that he fully appreciated the esteem in which he was held by them as "one who loved his fellow men." We did not always follow Roosevelt in his political career, but learned to love him for his intense Americanism. And now, "After life's fitful fever he sleeps well," and we can say with the poet,

"His good pen rust; his body dust.
His soul is with his God we trust."

'Mere Man."

OBITUARY

SAMUEL J. KIRKWOOD ANSWERS THE SUMMONS FROM ABOVE

Sam Kirkwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kirkwood, was born in Parkerburg, Butler county, Iowa, June the 18th, 1888; and died in Spokane, Washington, on Tuesday morning, January 28th, 1919. The Spanish Influenza followed by pneumonia caused his early death.

In early childhood he came with his parents to Klemme, Hancock county, Iowa. Here he grew to young manhood. November 17th, 1913, he was united in marriage to Miss Clara Ruka, of Belmond, Iowa. They made their home in Klemme, Iowa, where they were engaged in the restaurant business for a number of years. At the time of his death Mr. Kirkwood was employed in the railroad telegraph department and traveled through the West repairing the lines. Mr and Mrs. Kirkwood were home to spend the holidays with Klemme relatives and friends and it is only a few weeks ago that Mr. Kirkwood was on the streets of Klemme and visiting with old time friends and when he left us only a couple of weeks ago no one thought that death was so close and that he would return to us so soon a lifeless form.

Sam was a fine young man and stood high in the estimation of his many friends, was a kind loving son and an ideal husband and he leaves to mourn his death, his dear Wife, Father, Mother, one brother, William, who lives east of Klemme, besides two uncles, four nephews, three nieces, one aunt, one grandmother, and also many other relatives and friends.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all those who so kindly offered their assistance in our recent bereavement, and to all those who presented the many and beautiful floral offerings.

Mrs. S. J. Kirkwood
Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kirkwood and family
Mrs. Anna Ruka and family.

Hall of Klemme Lodge No. 445.

WHEREAS, Our Infinite God in His wisdom has seen fit to remove from our midst our beloved brother, Samuel J. Kirkwood, who came to his death January Twenty-eighth, Nineteen Hundred Nineteen,

Resolved, That we, the members of Klemme Lodge No. 445 do extend to the family and relatives our deepest and most heartfelt sympathy in this sad hour of bereavement, and that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the records of the lodge, one copy to be sent to the bereaved relatives, one copy to be published in the Klemme Times, and one in the Iowa Odd Fellow, and the lodge drape the charter for Thirty days.

Klemme, Iowa, February 4, 1919.

C. W. WILES
ELMER YOHN
CHRIS GRAM Committee

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, proprietors of the Crystal Cafe believe in having things up to the minute and with this idea in view have installed an electric stove. With this modern device they can serve hot lunches at any time of the day or night. Not satisfied with this convenience alone, they have also equipped their coffee percolator with an electric heater. Elder & Fuller are giving the people of Klemme and outside patrons the very best service in the restaurant line. Their motto is, "If it's to eat, we have it," and we can say they are doing their part to boost Klemme.

THE COP SEES SOME GEESE

Well, the Editor saw some flies a week or so ago, a brakeman on the "slow train through Klemme" saw some ducks, but our city cop, Chas. Keraus has us all beat to a frazzle. He says he saw about forty big fat geese traveling over Klemme last Saturday afternoon. That beats us and we quit. Charlie says he will swear to it that htey were geese and also that there were forty of them traveling in gooseformation. We give up, this is a freak winter and we are liable to see white elephants winging their way over our heads if this weather don't change.

Work Shoe Special!

Upon inventory we find ourselves overstocked with Men's Work Shoes. WE MUST SELL SEVERAL HUNDRED PAIRS in order to reduce our stock to it's proper size. In order to do this we are going to conduct a

Special Sale On Men's Work Shoes

Starting Friday, Jan. 31 and closing Feb. 8

Farmers and Working Men of Klemme and vicinity, this your opportunity! Make your purchases in the Work Shoe Line to last you a year at least.

15 per cent DISCOUNT 15 per cent

That's what we are going to give you on every work shoe in our store. We sell the very best work shoes to be had but our stock is about twice to large.

Consequently we are Determined To Reduce It, and we are offering a discount that should sell at least one-half of them. In the face of prevailing prices this sale should apqeal to every man who wears work shoes.

Get To Know

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

14 Stores Garner, Ia.

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

The Paris correspondent of the London Times writes of President Wilson "President Wilson is not the lean, long faced, somewhat cadaverous looking man that the camera seems to have found—the camera is a notorious libeller. He is tall, well set up, and athletic figure of a man to whom it would be very difficult to give even an approximate age. Casually he might be placed among the numbers of well educated, healthy Americans of middle age who were to be seen on nearly every golf course of Great Britain before the war You would know at once, even if you were only looking at his back, that this man in his gray lounge suit, well cut into his body, was a gentleman in the best sense of the word, that he was an American, and also in some way which I cannot define, that he was somebody"

Now, that the ministry of food has given London merchants permission to sell a little of their large stores of teas, they find, says the London Times, "that the American firms are already in the field It appears that immediately the armistice was concluded American firms solicited and secured the orders. As these countries are at present still rationed as to supplies, little if any, more tea can now be taken by them. Far from feeling piqued at this situation, the British firms admire the enterprise of the American houses, and only wish that they had been permitted by the British authorities to go and do likewise"

The Detroit United Electric Railways was ordered to retain in its employ women now serving as conductors, in a decision by the national war labor board. The Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes was ordered to give the women employes cards entitling them to work on the railway lines. Women who who have received instruction preparatory to taking up the work of conductors are to be given positions. The decision of the board said the opening of new fields of employment for women was to be regarded as one of the incidental benefits of the war

A letter from the former German emperor to the former Austrian emperor reads "My soul is torn asunder, but everything must be put to fire and blood. The throats of men and women, children and the aged, must be cut and not a tree nor a house left standing With such methods of terror, which alone can strike so degenerate a people as the French the war will finish before two months, while if I use humanitarian methods it may prolong for years. Despite all my repugnance I have had to choose the first system."

For nearly 100 years the life boat crews of the United Kingdom have served the British people Since the outbreak of the war the life boats were launched on service 1,638 times they went to the aid of mined or torpedoed vessels 538 times, saving 5,032 lives for Great Britain and her allies. There were 1 638 lives saved from casualties directly due to war, and 22 saved from seaplanes. And yet this institution is, and always has been, supported without subsidy from the state, but entirely by voluntary contributions.

Sir Charles C Allom, head of the Gosport Aircraft Company says It is logical that a flying boat must be the craft to make the trans-Atlantic trip We are building the largest flying boat in the world at the present time which can make the trip and return at an economical speed of 75 miles an hour if necessary It would be a sportsman's game to cross in airplane of high speed but it is the flying boat that will be selected to make the voyage an undoubted success

The delegation headed by Samuel Gompers president of the American Federation of Labor met the British parliamentary committee of the trades union congress but failed to reach an agreement on a proposal by Mr Gompers that a special trades union international conference be held concurrently with the peace conference

Germany will in dire straits when the war ended according to Capt Robert W. Hudgens of Laurens S C who arrived on the Comfort The captain said the Americans found the bodies of German soldiers being prepared to be rendered into fats and that a complete rendering plant had been established

United Ireland appears today a new country with every mind turned to the future and trying to forget the past It is said of the people had come out of a trance Now they are smiling and the business men are beginning to make plans for the boom they are sure is ahead, says Weekly

Observers in Washington, noting the effort of the president and his cabinet to hold up war time wages, and the fact that manufacturers, being without orders to fill, are laying off more and more men, are explaining the slowness of the war department in discharging men

By a vote of 44 to 22 the lower house of the Colorado legislature passed a memorial addressed to "those United States senators now opposing equal suffrage," in which they are urged to support the proposed amendment to the national constitution

Several Connecticut manufacturers appreciating the fact that they shared in the advantages of war trade are now going to manufacture articles for which there is no immediate need, in order to help out the labor problem

Prince's Islands consist of a group of nine small islands in the Sea of Marmora, from 10 to 15 miles southeast of Constantinople The population of the islands numbers about 10,000, for the most part Greeks, Turks and Armenians.

Federal farm loan bonds may now be bought from each of the 12 land banks under a new treasury policy ordered by Secretary Glass. About $1,000,000 of these bonds have been sold since January 1

White Russia has proclaimed its union with the Russian soviet republic, according to a dispatch from Kiev. The bulk of the white Russians, who number about 5,000,000, live in Lithuania.

Kerensky is living quietly in the home of a friend in London. He spends most of his time writing his memoirs. His wife and two sons are hostages of the bolsheviats in Russia.

Congress will be asked by Secretary Glass to increase the authorization for Liberty bonds to permit a larger issue than is authorized now, or the acceptance of oversubscriptions.

Photographs of enemy subjects interned in Australia are being obtained by the British government to compare with those of the starved and emaciated Australians released from Germany.

The government of India announces that it has withdrawn restrictions on the importation of motor cars, motor cycles, etc. Restrictions have been in force since 1918

PREACHER AGAIN PLACED ON TRIAL

Rev. Wilhelm Schumann Charged With Intent to Commit Great Bodily Injury—Convicted In U. S. Court.

Jefferson, Ia., Feb. 3.—An interesting criminal case is being tried during the present term of court, the defendant being the Rev. Wilhelm Schumann, of Pomeroy, who is charged with intent to commit great bodily injury on the person of Edwin Wattonville, also of Pomeroy.

The case comes here on a change of venue, granted by Judge Albert. The Rev Mr Schumann made affidavit in court at Rockwell City that he could not get a fair trial in Calhoun county. Involved in the case are charges of disloyalty against Schumann, who is pastor of the First Evangelical church at Pomeroy.

The petition states that there is great prejudice against the defendant in Calhoun county. Clippings quoted show that the press and general public harbor enmity against the man, who was recently convicted in the federal court on the charge of disloyalty and sentenced to five years at Fort Leavenworth.

HORSE RECOGNIZED OLD MASTER IN EUROPE

Webster City, Ia., Feb. 3.—Last spring Lane Corbin, who lives southwest of this city at Homer, sold a fine black horse to a government agent A letter just received here from Mr Corbin's son Rue, in France with Battery B of the 80th Field Artillery brings the news that the same horse he helped raise on his father's farm is with the animals assigned to his battery

Private Corbin enlisted originally in the heavy artillery He trained in several camps in this country and reached France last fall, where he was assigned to Battery B The very first day he had a chance to inspect the battery horses, he spied the animal raised on his father's place and from that time on he was given the care of this particular animal The horse recognized him even quicker than he did the animal and man and horse have been real pals somewhere in France ever since

TRIAL OF CASE WAS TOO MUCH FOR HIM

Perry Ia Feb 3 A D Allgood a Perry merchant was stricken with heart trobule in the court room at Adel and for a time his condition was serious

He recovered after being taken into the judge's private office and was able to be brought home later in the day Mr Allgood was defendant in a $5 000 damage suit brought against him by Mrs James Moffitt The latter was seriously hurt when an auto truck owned and driven by Allgood ran over her in this city last March Following Allgood's illness, it was necessary to postpone the trial of the case and a private settlement was made by the parties

RETURNED SOLDIER ARRESTED FOR ROBBERY

Council Bluffs, Ia., Feb. 3.—George Carty, of Council Bluffs, discharged soldier, is in jail charged with robbing Charles Vicek, of Omaha, another discharged soldier, as a Burlington train was entering the yards here Carty, police say, admitted the charge and declared he had been robbed of $90 and took this method of getting his money back The robbery was committed in the toilet room as the train entered the city Vicek had $300 he had saved from his army pay The stolen money was recovered

WILKERSON GETS SHORT END IN COURT AGAIN

Red Oak, Ia., Feb. 3.—Because J. N. Wilkerson failed to file a bond for costs in his suits for damages and wherein he charged slander against Montgomery county men who had signed affidavits affecting his application for membership in the Iowa Bar association, Judge Earl Peters threw $250,000 worth of Wilkerson's cases out of court. In addition the court entered judgment against Wilkerson and his attorneys for costs in the cases

SANBORN PREPARES TO DO MUCH PAVING

Sanborn, Ia., Feb. 3.—The council of Sanborn held a special meeting on Thursday afternoon for the purpose of deciding on the work of paving for the coming summer They decided to draw up a resolution covering every street in town so that the council would be able to proceed further with the work at any time It has been decided to pave the main street up to the Sheldon road

MERRILL SOLDIER IS GIVEN CROIX DE GUERRE

Merrill, Ia., Feb., 3.—Lawrence Reiden, son of Mr and Mrs C F. Heiden, of Merrill, has been awarded the croix de guerre by the French government for bravery.

On July 8, while the Germans were fighting in the Argonne woods and during the hottest moments of a battle, young Heiden saw his commander fall badly wounded He immediately went to his aid and, by carrying and dragging him, he succeeded in getting the officer to a place of safety. While doing this a shrapnel shell burst near Heiden and a large piece struck his hand and arm, shattering them.

BODY WAS NOT THAT OF IOWA MAN'S SON

Boone, Ia., Feb. 3.—After traveling to New York to bring the body of his son, John, here, Patrick Hayes, of this city found upon his arrival that the body being held was not that of his son.

The son was reported to have died following an operation and Mr. Hayes left for the east in response to a telegram. He made every effort possible to locate the body, and now is enroute to his home here.

DRAINAGE DITCH CASE INTERESTING

Contractor Gets Pay For Excavating Old Bed of Creek Where No Excavating Was Done.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Feb, 1.—The Nishnabotna drainage district No. 10, which has furnished considerable litigation and a vast amount of comment in the last few years, is again brought to mind by the action of the state supreme court, which has given a decision in favor of the Lana Construction Company, of this city. The case in question hinges upon the excavation work at the time the ditch was constructed.

Lana received the contract on what became known as the "cinch" bid. His bid for the work was "1-100th. of 1 cent less than the next lowest bid." There was a great deal of contention over this award, but it finally stood.

The project is about 10 miles in length and extends from the town of Oakland to the Mills county line. It was established on November 16, 1910. In digging the ditch it often crossed the original bed of the stream, where excavation was unnecessary. The contractor was paid for these stretches the same as if excavation had occurred It was contended that this was perfectly proper, according to agreement, and was in fact a rule in this kind of work

SAYS DES MOINES HAS AUTOMOBILE RING, TOO

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 1.—An automobile thieves' trust, such as was said to have been unearthed a few days ago in Sioux City, undoubtedly exists in Des Moines, according to Ben Woolgar, superintendent of police.

The night police captain's report nearly every morning contains an account of one or more cars being stolen. Some of them evidently taken by joyriders, are recovered Some are never found.

ALLEGED WHITE SLAVER WANTED IN IOWA

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 1.—United States District Attorney F. A O'Connor, has notified Chicago police officials to hold in custody James Monroe, alias James R. Darling alias James R Love, who confessed to the killing of Miss Josephine McDonald, of Chicago, and who later denied his confession Monroe is wanted in this city on a charge of violation of the Mann white slave act

Mrs. Edna Jochram, of Dubuque, is the complaining witness. She alleges that she came to this city January 24 with Monroe, who claimed that he was a detective sent by her mother, Mrs Jennie Crouse, of Rockford, Ill., to bring her Mrs Jochram, to the home of her mother

RAILROAD MEN STOLE MUCH GRAPE JUICE

Council Bluffs Ia, Feb. 1—Millions of gallons of crude wine, sent from California vineyards to the Atlantic seaboard for refining and bottling, is passing through Council Bluffs, the Northwestern and Union Pacific handling scores of tank cars daily.

The tanks, originally made for oil, hold from 300 to 400 barrels of wine, and as the big "manhole" in the dome of each tank is easily removed the temptation of railroad men to sample the wine is strong and some times irresistible.

The covers are protected only by the usual frail seals, and yesterday A O. Lambrith and Peter L. Peterson, both employes in the Northwestern round house, were in police court charged with breaking in a tank car and taking six gallons of the wine.

Both pleaded guilty and were fined $25 and costs.

IOWA BOY CAPTURED HIS OWN COUSIN

Council Bluffs, Ia, Feb. 1.—Private William J Greulach, Company L, 168th Infantry, had the distinction of capturing his own cousin and making him a prisoner in the late days of the war.

Speaking the German language fluently, in fact better than he did the English language when he enlisted and went to France with the Iowa regiment, young Greulach fell into conversation with a German captain commanding a squad of prisoners taken by him and his comrades. The Iowa lad was asked where he was from and when he said Council Bluffs, Ia., the German officer said he had an uncle living in Council Bluffs by the name of Greulach.

Private Greulach then learned the captain was his cousin. Young Greulach is still with the 168th in Germany

THREE WOUNDED MEN BACK AT BLUFFS

Council Bluffs, Ia., Feb. 1.—Three members of Company L, 168th infantry, have reached home, and several others are expected before the end of the week. Three who have arrived were wounded, and all received special mention for their bravery.

Sergeant Arthur Larson, who left a leg on the battle field at Chateau-Thierry and who is paralyzed on one side of his body, was just as cheerful as his companions.

Private John De Witt, a runner, was shot in the leg and gassed. He has fully recovered.

Private Lynn Brown, who also reached home, was in several battles and at Chateau-Thierry was shell shocked and gassed.

CEDAR RAPIDS—William Dengler, 17 years old, who came to this city from St. Louis a short time ago, was arrested on charge of writing a threatening letter to Charles W Van Antwerp, in which he demanded $25 or he would blow up Antwerp's home. He confessed he wrote the letter but said he meant no harm.

SANBORN—The construction crew on the Milwaukee road has begun the erecting of a large ice house to replace the one which burned last summer. The house is a very large one, having a capacity of 00 carloads.

SENSATIONAL CASE TRIED NEXT TERM

Illness of Prosecuting Witness Causes Action In Plymouth County District Court—Farmer Is Enjoined.

LeMars, Ia., Feb. 1.—On representation of County Attorney E. T. Bedell that the prosecuting witness in the case of the state of Iowa against William H. Haggin is sick and unable to attend a trial, the case was continued to the March term of the Plymouth county district court. The trial of the case promised to bring out sensational testimony and court room frequenters were disappointed in the postponement.

William Haggin, the defendant, worked in a lumber yard at Kingsley last summer. It is charged he had a "taking manner" and the one to fall a victim to his charms was Miss Alice Cady, of Elkhorn township. In the preliminary hearing of the case, which resulted in Haggin being bound over to the grand jury, evidence was heard showing that he frequently took the young woman out for automobile and buggyrides, and that her alleged delicate condition is the result. Haggin is out on a bond of $1,500.

Judge William Hutchinson is presiding at this term of court. The grand jury consists of Joseph Becker, foreman, C H. Brotherton, Remsen, Jacob Brandstetter, LeMars; William Janssen, Stanton; Julius Muecks, Lincoln; John Traufler, LeMars, and Philip Winter, Hungerford.

State Agent C. N. McMillan, of Sioux City, obtained a temporary injunction against H. W. Gorath, a farmer near Akron, upon whose premises a quantity of liquor was recently seized.

PLANS NEW BUILDING ON CAPITAL GROUNDS

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 1.—A bill providing for the erection on the capital grounds of a building to be known as the soldiers' and sailors' memorial, to cost approximately $750,000 and to house the state library and the judicial departments, now housed in the state house, was introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator Clem F. Kimball, of Pottawattamie county.

The bill provides for the immediate creation of a committee, to consist of the chief justice of the supreme court, two members from the senate, to be appointed by Lieutenant Governor Moore, two members of the house, to be appointed by the speaker; the members of the executive council and Governor Harding, to perfect the arrangements and set them into operation

AN IOWA FLYER IS KILLED IN PRACTICE

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 1.—Lieut. George Phelps Leggett, a young pursuit pilot, whose home is Fairfield, Ia., was killed yesterday at Ream, an army aviation field near this city, when he fell 500 feet in a scout plane, after a collision with another machine piloted by Lieut J. R. Doolittle.

The two machines were engaged in combat flying practice. The impact of the collision tore the chassis from Lieutenant Doolittle's machine and he savey his own life only by a superb exhibition of flying. The controls of Lieutenant Leggett's airplane were smashed. He fell on the soft sand of the ocean shore. His body will be sent to his home.

HOLBROOK TO ASK FOR BACK SALARY

Des Moines, Ia., Feb 1.—Because P. K Holbrook, of Onawa, member of the state board of education, did not present a claim for $561.52 within two years from the time it accrued, a special act of the legislature will be necessary to allow payment, according to a bill introduced in the house of representatives.

Mr. Holbrook's claim is for pay at $7 a day and railroad fare in the performance of his official duties between July 14, 1915, and October 12, 1916. He presented his claim for audit October 25, 1918, or 13 days too late to permit its audit under the law.

TABLES TURNED WHEN COURT MAKES DECISION

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 1.—When Earl Phelps, formerly a soldier in the United States army, filed suit for divorce against his wife, Viola Phelps, several weeks ago, the latter entered a cross bill, charging him with nonsupport, cruel and inhuman treatment, etc., the court granted her an absolute divorce, $500 alimony, attorneys' fees and he must provide $25 a month for the support of their 2-year-old child until it is 16 years old

KILLED HIMSELF TO SAVE PUBLIC EXPENSE

Des Moines, Feb. 1.—Charles Voyce killed himself because his 80 years made him 'useless" and therefore he 'consumed food that fighting men could eat," he said in a note found in his house. The note was written last November, but the man did not take his own life until last Saturday. The note added, "I came into this world without my consent; I leave it with my own consent because I wish to do so."

PERRY—Three hundred and fifty dollars per acre was the price paid for a small farm two miles northwest of this city by Charles Challands. The place formerly belonged to E. E. Preston and consists of 30 acres.

ENABLE CITIES TO ACQUIRE LAND FOR PARKS

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 1—A resolution proposing an amendment to the state constitution by which cities will be authorized to acquire, by condemnation if necessary, land for the purpose of maintaining memorial or art grounds or for enlarging or widening or improving streets, parks and boulevards was introduced in the house of representatives today by J B Weaver, of Polk county

AVOID SECOND PARIS VOYAGE, WILSON HOPE

Progress of the Fourteen Principles of the President May Make Return Trip Unnecessary—No Plenary Session.

Tokio, Feb. 3.—Japanese statesmen and publicists today decided to call a mass meeting which shall demand that the league of nations abolish all race discriminations.

Copyright, 1919, by the United Press.

Paris, Feb. 3.—The peace conference has developed so marked a tendency to accept practical application of the 14 principles and to speed up its work, the belief was expressed today that President Wilson may find a second trip to France unnecessary.

Whether the president will return after his departure for the United States two weeks hence is known to depend not only upon disposition of the most important problems in the interim, but also upon the trend of the conferees' policy after he has withdrawn from the councils and their inclination to work along the general lines of the American program.

Has Success Vision.

Just six weeks after his arrival in France the president felt confident today that the pivotal victories had already been won and that future action by the conference will be in strict adherence to the broad principles included in the armistice terms. Within a few days the delegates will have accomplished the framing of a constitution for the league of nations, in conformity with the principle of no annexations, the president believes. This in his opinion, will be one of the most vital accomplishments of the peace settlement.

By United Press.

Paris, Feb. 3—The usual plenary session was postponed today to permit the peace bureau to speed up action on the framework for the league of nations.

The belief was expressed in certain quarters that demonstration of the practicability of the league as evinced in several recent decisions by the bureau, would hasten agreement on the details of its makeup The German colonial question was virtually settled in accordance with principles of the league. Previously the bureau had acted in the capacity of an association of nations in warning central and eastern European countries to cease warring over disputed territories. The bureau assumed a similar capacity yesterday when it decided to send delegates to straighten out the argument between Czechs and the Poles over possession of that rich industrial district.

Strange Situation.

A queer angle has developed in the relations of the Czechs and Poles, in that their representatives are sitting at the same peace conference to arrange a treaty with a common enemy, yet there are outbursts of fighting between their own troops over the question of readjustments of their new boundaries. A temporary settlement by the allied commission will be followed by final settlement by the league of nations when the latter institution is formally established.

Strictly American.

Speculation as to whether the Philippines and the Panama canal will be considered in the internationalization of colonial possessions and waterways, was ended today when it was authoritatively stated that neither would be brought up, as both are strictly American and free from any dispute It was pointed out that the Monroe doctrine will not be disturbed, as it will fit in automatically with the league of nations.

Confers With Cecil.

President Wilson conferred with Lord Cecil and General Smuts until late last night, comparing the American plan for the league of nations with their respective outlines, that the whole proposition may be put in shape for presentation to the peace congress next week.

BRITISH COMMENT.

London, Feb 3.—The comment of the London morning newspapers regarding plans for the disposition of the German colonies, displays a continuance of dissatisfaction in many quarters. The Post accuses the British delegates in Paris of weakly acquiescing in the abrogation of British sovereignty

The idea of making the British government or a dominion government the servant of an international superior is an idea the British people will not endure the newspaper says.

The Mail, noting that the arrangements are officially described as provisional, assumes they may be modified in the future and says that in the process of modification the opinion of the dominions will certainly be considered, with assurance of Great Britain's sympathy and support. The newspaper, however, maintains that the British empire is based on the principle of trusteeship, so in its fundamentals there is nothing opposed to President Wilson's ideas.

HOLD OWN SESSIONS.

Berne Friday, Jan 31.—The peace societies of Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, Norway, and Sweden are organizing an international conference to be held here the middle of February to deal with the question of a league of nations The Dutch pacifist, Dr. De Johng, Dr Broda, of Vienna, and Dr. Troesch, of Berne, are the leading officials of the organization in arranging details for the meeting.

BABE SWALLOWS DOG.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—Harry Smith, 1-year-old baby, was dead today He swallowed a tiny leaden dog Wednesday

RAINBOW HIT HARD IN WAR, REPORT SHOWS

Official Figures Show That Fighting Division Suffered Losses Second to High Mark In War—Statistics Given.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 3.—An official tabulation of casualties by division of the American expeditionary forces, 35 per cent complete to date, was made public today by the war department. The totals for all divisions exclusive of the two regiments of marines in the Second division are:

Killed in action 27,702, died of wounds, 11,396; missing in action 14,649; prisoners, 2,785. Grand total of major casualties, 56,592.

The figures for each of the 30 combat divisions included show the following totals of major casualties

First (regulars), 5,248; Second (regulars), 2,965; Third (regulars), 3,615; Fourth (regulars), 2,986; Fifth (regulars), 2,504; Sixth (regulars), 1,[illegible]; Seventh (regulars) 326; 26th (New England National Guard), 2,864; 27th (New York National Guard), 2,194; 28th (Pennsylvania National Guard), 3,890; 29th (New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia National Guard), 1,117; 30th (Tennessee, North Carolina and South Carolina National Guard), 1,772; 32nd (Michigan and Wisconsin National Guard), 3,213; 33rd (Illinois national guard), 1,171; 35th (Missouri and Kansas national guard), 1,733; 36th (Texas and Oklahoma national guard), 869; 37th (Ohio and West Virginia national guard) 1,250; 42nd (Rainbow), 2,950; 77th (New York Metropolitan national army), 2,692, 78th (New York and northern Pennsylvania national army) 1,825; 79th (southern Pennsylvania national army), 2,389; 80th (New Jersey, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and District of Columbia national army) 1,355; 81st (Tennessee, North Carolina and South Carolina national army), 370; 82nd (Georgia, Alabama and Florida national army), 1,592; 88th (Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota and South Dakota national army), 66; 89th (Kansas, Missouri and Colorado national army), 1,[illegible]; 90th (Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma national army), 1,585; 91st (Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Utah, Idaho, Montana and Wwoming), 1,702; 92nd (national army negroes), 211; 93rd (national army negroes), 489.

Rainbow Second.

In killed in action, the first regular division leads the list with 2,303. Other divisions, with more than 1,000 men killed in action, stand in the following order:

Third, 1,901; 42nd, 1,702; 32nd, 1,694; 28th, 1,544; Fourth, 1,500; 26th, 1,385; Second, 1,383; 27th, 1,302; 77th, 1,271; and 30th, 1,084.

The only division to lose more than 1,000 men died of wounds, was the First, with 1,050. Only three divisions had more than 1,000 missing in action the First, with 1,789, the 28th, with 1,174, and the 79th, with 1,142.

The heaviest loss in prisoners was in the 28th division, with 691 men taken by the enemy The 26th was second with 354 taken prisoners, and the 77th third, with 336.

Regimental Losses.

Tables showing losses by regiments place the four infantry regiments of the first division as heaviest sufferers with from 1,150 to 1,264 major casualities each. These regiments are the 16th 18th 26th and 28th regulars.

Figures for the fifth and sixth (Marine) regiments on this division are not given

In the national army divisions the regimental losses of the 316th infantry, 79th division, were the heaviest, tatalling 800.

Among the National Guard divisions the heaviest regimental losses recorded are for the 110th infantry of the 28th division, 1,142 men, while the losses of the 109th infantry of the same division stand second at 1,112.

Next is the 102nd infantry of the 28th division, with a total of 988, and the fourth is the 165th infantry of the 42nd, with 879.

Marine Brigade.

Figures for the marine brigade of the second division not carried in the war department summary, complete to January 1, show killed and died of wounds, 55 officers and 1,507 men, missing in action, 2 officers, 695 men, severely wounded, 91 officers and 1,802 men; slightly wounded, 186 officers and 5,296 men; gassed, 31 officers and 1,854 men. Total casualties for all causes, 365 oficers and 11,152 men.

Prisoners Taken.

Two tables of prisoners taken by the enemy, one prepared by the American Red Cross and the other by the adjutant general's office was given out Both show much larger totals than the announced list of known military prisoners, but the latter will be increased and the number of missing in action correspondingly decreased by checking. The Red Cross total is 5,243, including 4,857 military prisoners. The adjutant general reported 5,401, of which 4,916 were military prisoners

The adjutant general's record shows 4,800 prisoners have been released and 118 died in captivity. Practically all prisoners now are out of Germany.

Demobilization Figures.

Demobilization of the army passed the 1,000,000 mark during the past week General March announced, with 61,237 officers and 952,411 men actually discharged. Of the officers mustered out, 2,444 were on duty in Washington.

The demobilization has proceeded to such a point that general officers are being discharged from the war organization. General March announced the honorable of 33 generals, all except four of them being regulars who return back to their rank in the regular establishment.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels needs a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative;" they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

COULD HARDLY BELIEVE IT

Physicians Might Say They Had Stopped the Practice of Bleeding, but He Had His Doubts.

"The late John Morgan Richards," said the editor, "was known to fame as the father of John Oliver Hobbes and as the biggest American patent medicine advertiser of the past generation.

"Richards hated doctors, but he was taken down with the grippe during the epidemic of 1889, and a fashionable London specialist pulled him through.

"Richards met the specialist a month or two later in Bond street.

"'By the way, doctor,' he said, 'is it true that you physicians have abandoned bleeding?'

"'Quite true,' the doctor agreed. 'We haven't done any bleeding for a hundred years.'

"Richards took out his wallet.

"'Surely then, doctor,' he said, 'there's a serious mistake in my bill.'"

STOMACH UPSET?

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN AT ONCE ENDS SOURNESS, GAS, ACIDITY, INDIGESTION.

When meals upset you and you belch gas, acids and undigested food. When you have lumps of indigestion pain or any distress in stomach you can get relief instantly—No waiting!

As soon as you eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin all the indigestion pain stops. Gases, acidity, heartburn, flatulence and dyspepsia vanish. Pape's Diapepsin tablets cost very little at drug stores. Adv.

Forewarned.

"I say, Johnnie," said big sister's beau, seizing an auspicious moment to get himself solid with the trouble maker, "did you know that I am to ask your sister tonight to become my wife?"

"Yes," said Johnnie; "ma and sis both told me. But, say, when did they tell you?"

A Lady of Distinction.

Is recognized by the delicate fascinating influence of the perfume she uses. A bath with Cuticura Soap and hot water to thoroughly cleanse the pores, followed by a dusting with Cuticura Talcum Powder usually means a clear, sweet, healthy skin.—Adv.

That's So.

The world owes you a living, but it takes work to identify yourself as the fellow it's coming to.—Boston Transcript.

Any man who hasn't a good opinion of himself is inwardly deformed.

VIENNA IS SCENE OF "RENT" PARADE

Protest Meeting Staged—Stores Pillage and Arrests Follow Quickly.

By United Press.

Vienna, Feb. 31—(delayed)—The entire police force was called out today to suppress a mob of thousands of unemployed who were pillaging shops while marching on the reichrath buildings. Many arrests were made and others dispersed. The people were incited by communist speakers who urged them not to pay rent until they had been given work.

BREMEN EXPECTS REGULAR BATTLE

Workmen Out and Troops Sent to Halt Trouble—German Radicals Plan Assembly.

By United Press.

Copenhagen, Feb. 3.—Workme nhave revolted in Bremen and have decided to defend the city against government troops which are marching from Berlin, according to dispatches received here today. Hard fighting is expected.

By Associated Press.

Amsterdam, Feb. 3.—It is becoming more apparent, as the meeting of the German national assembly approaches, that the left radical elements are planning the establishment of a counter parliament, according to dispatches from Berlin.

The Berlin workmen's council has evidenced its intention to bring about an election of a new central council, composed solely of radicals.

The setting up of governmental authority by the national assembly is expected and the radicals, being convinced that the Russian example of dispersing their constituent assembly cannot be successfully imitated, are planning to meet force with force.

MAY ARREST ADMIRAL.

Basel, Friday, Jan 31.—The arrests of Admiral Schroeder and Captains Koester and Regner of the German navy have been requested by the central committee of sailors at Hamburg. The officers are accused, especially Admiral Schroeder, with being responsible for the execution of two sailors, despite the general amnesty order.

Admiral Schroeder became notorious when he ordered the execution of Captain Charles Fryatt.

POLES DEFEATED.

By United Press.

Zurich, Feb. 3.—German troops have attacked the Poles at several points along the eastern frontier, capturing Gruathal, Wunshein, and Grossamokll, according to dispatches received here today. A great quantity of artillery and machine guns was seized.

SOLDIERS UNRULY.

Berlin, Friday, Jan. 31.—An order issued by Colonel Reinhardt, Prussian minister of war, has aroused open revolts on the part of soldiers' councils in the German armies. The council of the Ninth army has declared that it will not obey the order, and has been informed that the government will find means to enforce it.

VICIOUS ATTACK AGAINST ALLIES

Bolshevists Drive on Greatly Outnumbered Archangel Army Forcing Them Back.

Archangel, Friday, Jan. 31.—Another violent attack by the Bolshevists in American, Russian and British positions at Taresevo compelled the hard pressed and outnumbered little allied column in this sector to withdraw yesterday approximately 40 miles. Its new position is at the village of Srdmakrenga.

The bolshevist attack followed a bombardment in which gas, incendiary, shrapnel and high explosive shells were used. It was the first time that gas shells had been employed in this northern Russian warfare.

The shells were of the German type.

The bolshevist in the field from the river Dvina to the Vologda railroad are estimated to number 15,000. They have brought up still more artillery and are heavily shelling the new American position on the Vago river and also the position on the Dvina, at Tulgas. The other sectors are comparatively quiet.

ARMISTICE PROPOSED.

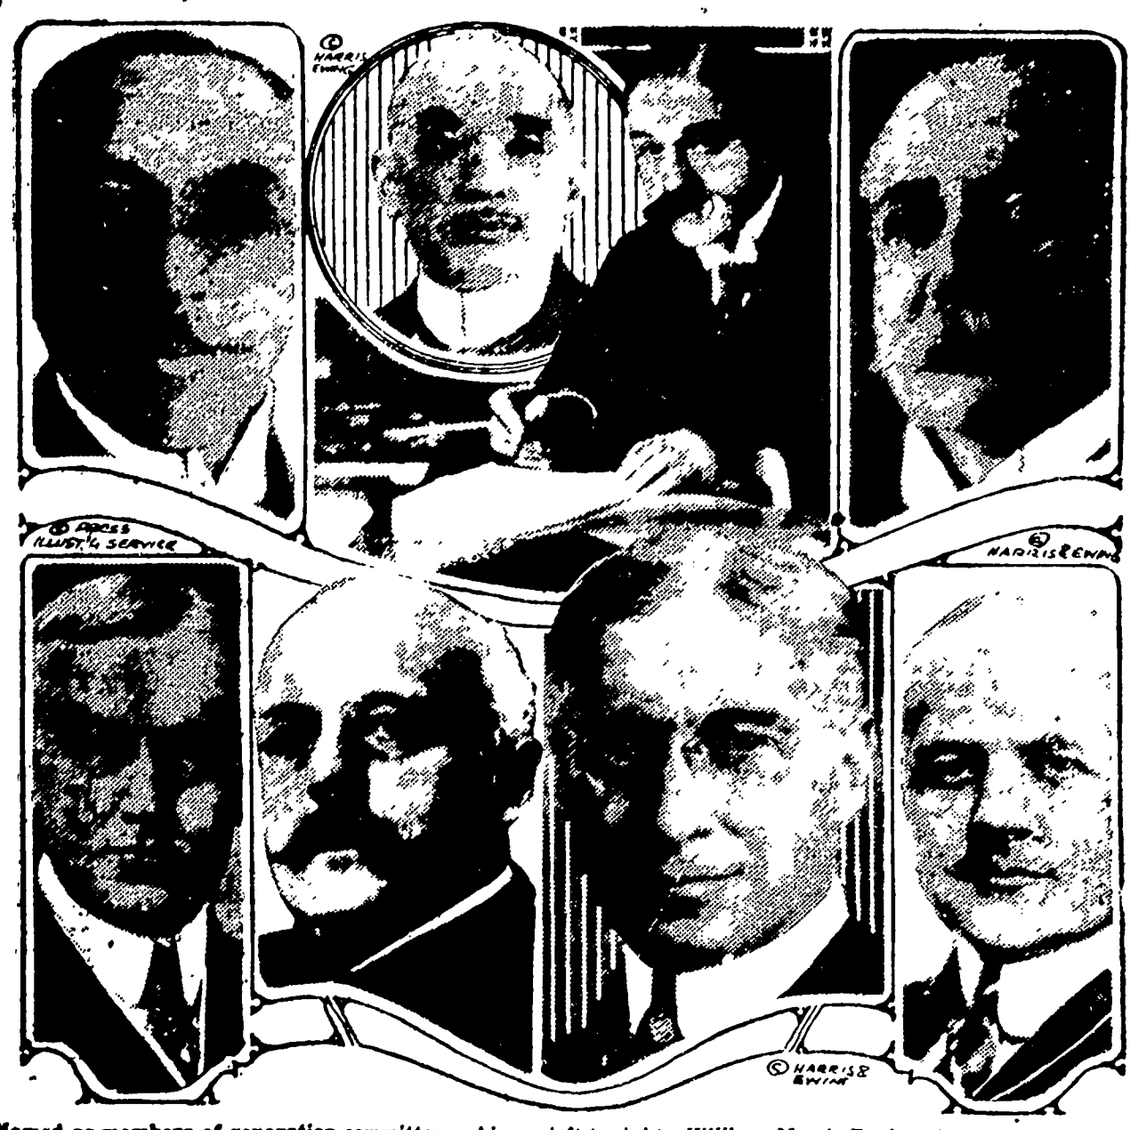
By Associated Press.

Paris, Friday, Jan. 31.—Members of the allied committee which will go to Teschen to investigate difficulties there between the Czechs and Poles have proposed that an armistice be concluded in Silesia pending the decision of the peace conference. The committee will start for Warsaw late next week.

German Drops Big Shell; Sixty Die In the Explosion

Brussels, Feb. 3.—Sixty Germans prisoners, three French officers and one American were killed, and many injured, when a munition train exploded on the railroad between Aubange and Longwy, yesterday. The accident was due to a soldier dropping a shell.

Collectors Huns Must Settle With.



Named as members of reparation committee. Above, left to right: William Morris Hughes, Great Britain; Baron Makino, Japan; L. L. Klotz, France; Baron Cunliffe, England. Below, left to right: Ambassador to England John W. Davis, United States; Antonio Salandra, Italy; Bernard Baruch, United States, and Vance McCormick, United States.

ENGLAND FACES GENERAL TIEUP

Labor Leaders Declare Rail Men to Number of Half a Million Will Go Out Paralyzing Traffic—Troops Patrol Glasgow.

By United Press.

London, Feb. 3.—Nearly 500,000 railway workers will strike next week unless the government intervenes, was the information advanced by labor leaders today. Such a strike would completely paralyze transportation in Great Britain and Ireland.

The walkout would effect more than 400,000 manual workers, including trainmen, engineers and switchmen and over 70,000 clerks, including telegraphers. The manual workers demand equal representation with employers on all railway managing boards and a wage advance of 10 shillings ($2 50) a week. The clerks want joint control of all promotions and shorter hours, the day workers asking a 36-hour week and the night workers a 34-hour week.

The manual workers who are now controlled by the "shop stewards, which are generally regarded as constituting a soviet form of management, have already issued an ultimatum that they will strike February 9 unless their demands are granted. The clerks, who are still represented by their regular union officials are said to be prepared to walk out next week.

If the clerks walk out, it seemed certain that the manual workers would take advantage of this to set the date of their own strike ahead, and would quit simultaneously with the clerks.

By Associated Press.

Glasgow, Feb. 3.—Thousands of troops have arrived here and sentries with fixed bayonets are stationed at strategic points about the city. Everything is quiet this forenoon. Councilor Shipwell, one of the strike leaders in the Clyde district, was arrested this morning.

By United Press.

Belfast, Feb. 3.—Premier Lloyd George telegraphing from Paris today, informed Arthur Devlin, Irish leader, that he would decline to intervene in the Belfast strikes.

"I am in complete agreement with Chancellor Bonar Law that the same considerations which apply to Glasgow, apply equally to Belfast," the premier declared.

The attitude of the government as previously announced is that the strikers and employers should settle their differences at a joint conference.

WORK WITH POLICE.

By Associated Press.

London, Feb. 1.—The administration of Belfast from Artisans hall by self constituted rulers continues, the organization of a police force of 300 special constables by the striker committee having been effected. This force is co-operating in perfect harmony with the city police and window smashing and other disorders have virtually ceased. The entire city has accepted the rule of the committee which prohibits extreme agitators and Sinn Feiners from speaking. Anybody with a grievance must obtain permission from the committee before airing it publicly.

The industrial unrest prevailing throughout England is causing serious anxiety in that nation. The railway men's union approve of a 42-hour week, the miners and shipbuilders are demanding 44 hours with a daily wage of 1£. Dock laborers demand a 44-hour weak, and carpenters 47 hours.

EXPORTATION OF BUTTER ALLOWED

Lift Restrictions In Force During the War—Allied Shipments Continue.

By United Press.

Washington, Feb. 3.—Exportation of butter, prohibited during the war will be permitted under an order issued today by the war trade board. The order provides for licensing of butter for exportation for all countries except Great Britain, France and Italy. Butter purchases for shipment to the three allied countries will continue under the allied provisions export commission.

TEUTON FRONTIER NOW THREATENED

Berlin Paper Asserts the Bolshevists Become a Serious Menace to the East.

By Associated Press.

Berlin, Thursday, Jan. 30.—Germany's eastern frontiers are most gravely threatened by the bolshevists and Poles, according to the Tageblatt, which gives the following report of the situation.

"Strong bolshevist armies stand before the borders of eastern Prussia, an eruption of Poles threatens west Prussia and that portion of West Posen which is still in German hands, is subject to a renewal of the Polish menace, which means that the province of Brandenburg is also in danger. The soldiers' councils no longer play the role in the bolshevist army that they did at the beginning of the revolution. Military authority, on the other hand, is vested with the troops and their leaders.

"The German eighth and 10th armies are retreating before the soviet troops. The 'Iron Division,' which now as a result of losses, has melted into the 'Iron Brigade,' numbering some hundreds of men, is also there. It would unquestionably be possible to offer resistance beyond the east Prussian border if the Germans were well led by a single determined will. Military authority, however, despite recent decrees of the war ministry, is actually in the hands of the soldiers' council who have not been able to decide on a united and purposeful action against the Russians, but on the contrary, still believe they can stop the enemy's advance toward our borders by negotiations."

GERMANY TO PAY DEBT OF BELGIUM

Allies Will Collect From Teutons In Some Way, What Belgians Owe.

By Associated Press.

Paris, Friday, Jan. 31.—Ten billion francs have been advanced to Belgium by Great Britain, France and the United States, the amount to be deducted from the first installment from the war indemnity to be paid by Germany, according to a Havas dispatch from Brussels.

The dispatch adds that the amount will be raised either by an inter-allied bond issue or by a German loan having priority over all other loans.

A Boston man is advocating memorial roads as tributes to American men who fought and died in the great war.

AMERICA READY TO QUIT SLAVS

Submits Proposal to France, Backed By Great Britain to Withdraw All Troops From Russia—France Silent.

By United Press.

Paris, Feb. 3.—The United States, supported by Great Britain, has submitted to France a proposal for immediate withdrawal of all troops from Russia it was learned from authoritative sources today.

This move was made in conformity with unofficial information obtained by American agents that Premier Lenine and Foreign Minister Tchitcherin will accept the proposal for a joint conference at Prinkipos, providing that the allied forces are first withdrawn.

The British, in fact, are understood to be planning recall of their own troops by March, whether the United States and France take similar action or not. British military officials are expected to hold that withdrawal is urgent, as Archangel soon will be ice-locked and exit will then be impossible. The French are considering the proposal but have not yet given any intimation of their intentions.

SAY OFFICER SOLD SOLDIER DISCHARGE

Captain at Camp Grant In Trouble as the Result of Claims By Boys.

By United Press.

Rockford, Ill., Feb 3.—Gen C. H. Barth, commandant at Camp Grant, today considered with Capt Edward A. Smith, intelligence department, a mass of evidence gathered by enlisted men against Lieut Wiley H. Dohner, tending to show he accepted bribes from enlisted men for securing their discharge, and that he "sat in" at the company mess several weeks without reimbursing the mess fund.

He was recently given honorable discharge from the army.

APPROVES BILL TO CARRY THE GUARD

Three Million Recommended For the National Guard During Coming Year.

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—An appropriation of $3,000,000 to maintain the national guard at a strength of 106,000 officers and men during the next fiscal year was tentatively approved today by the House military affairs committee.

LABOR DEBATE LIVELY.

Paris, Friday, Jan. 31.—Delegates to the inter-allied trades union conference deliberated all day today on the question of participating in the labor and socialist conference at Berne. The debate was very lively. American and Belgian delegates refused to recognize the international conference as planned. In the evening Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and other American delegates, withdrew.

The discussion continued without them, but no definite conclusion was reached.

YOUR CHANCE HERE

Unbounded Prosperity Ahead of Western Canada.

Opportunity Beckons Settlers of All Kinds—"With the Golden Wake That Marked the Way the Happy Reapers Went"—James Whitcomb Riley.

The war having been brought to a favorable conclusion more attention can now be given to the agricultural and industrial development of Western Canada, which were checked by the troublous times of the past four years. Now that these are over, the proper development of the country will be continued.

True, much agricultural progress has been made during this time. Crop production has been greatly increased, the number of live stock has steadily grown, and with each succeeding year the dairying and wool industries have become more important. But despite this forward march, many phases of development have been held in check. The activities of farmers, too, have been greatly hampered by shortage of labor, and, under the circumstances, what they have achieved can only be described as marvelous.

Excepting those industries closely allied to agriculture, such as butter and cheese manufacture, industrial activity in the Prairie Provinces has been almost at a standstill. And even in these branches extensions have been strictly limited to those of urgent necessity. Building has been considerably curtailed, especially in the towns and cities, though many commodious and up-to-date dwellings, barns and other buildings have been erected by farmers in the country. Indeed, the amount of building farmers have done is one of the outward signs of their prosperity; but considerably more of it would have been done had not the more important work of food production received priority in the labor available. Railway construction work has been almost entirely suspended.

With more help available, and the use of the labor-saving devices that have been adopted during the last few years great advances in the agricultural development of Western Canada might be looked for even if no new settlers were expected, but the coming of thousands of prospective settlers who have hitherto been deterred only by the unsettled conditions from making their homes in this last great West will give a considerable impetus to every phase of agriculture in these Prairie Provinces.

Hand in hand with the development of agriculture, there will be a renewal of industrial activity. For the establishment of such industries as sugar refineries, canneries and many other industries for the utilization of the products of the land, as well as for the extension of the already important industries of butter and cheese manufacture, are splendid opportunities. Mining, lumbering, quarrying, the manufacture of clay products are also a few industries capable of considerable growth and to which greater attention can now be devoted.

To provide accommodation for present business requirements alone would keep the building trade busy for a long time, but with further development in the cities it is impossible to foresee any slackness in any branch of this trade. And the number of farmers whose needs have outgrown their present accommodation and who have been awaiting an opportunity to replace their buildings by larger and more modern ones is considerable and constantly increasing. Municipal work will be gradually resumed, and the railways have much work in contemplation.

All this points to a period of great prosperity in Western Canada—agricultural and industrial prosperity. The former is the more important, for on it the latter depends. Being primarily an agricultural country, Western Canada will probably pass through the readjustment period with little difficulty.

There is no reason to believe that farming will be less remunerative than it has been in the past; there are, on the other hand, many good and sound reasons for believing that the returns will be as large as ever. One thing is certain: Intelligent farming on the fertile prairies of Western Canada, requiring as it does the smallest possible capital outlay compared with that required to get a start in older settled countries, will continue to be one of the quickest and surest ways to independence that can be followed by the average man.—Advertisement.

Its Coming.

Patience—Are you going to marry Henry after he returns from France?

Patrice—Oh, I guess so. You see, before he was afraid to speak to father, but now he's a soldier and a real fighter I guess father will be afraid to refuse him.—Yonkers Statesman.

Experience is a dear teacher but there are days together when you are given a vacation.

If women had their way, no man would have his.

Your Eyes A Wholesome, Cleansing, Refreshing and Soothing Lotion—Murine for Reddened, Sore, Inflamed, Granulated, Itching and Burning of the Eyes or Eyelids. "2 Drops" After the Movies, Motoring or Golf will win your confidence. Ask Your Druggist or Murine when you want Eyes Need Care. Free "Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago."

THE policy of the Ford Motor Company to sell it's cars for the lowest possible price, consistant with dependable quality, is too well known to require comment. Therefore, because of present conditions, there can be no change in the price on Ford Cars:

Runabout	-	$500
Touring Car	-	525
Coupelet	-	650
Sedan	- -	775
Truck Chassis	-	550

These prices F. O. B. Detroit.

Ford Motor Company

E. G. Ell, Authorized Agent

Combination Sale

Klemme Iowa

Almost everyone has something he does not use or need and others need just that article. I have decidee to appoint myself the central figure in an

"Exchange Emporium"

for the accomodation of the public in general and myself in particular. If you have anything to sell, bring it in.

List your surplus with me, tell me your troubles

Bring in that table or rocker, or if you have cows, horses or goats you don't want list them with me or at State Savings Bank on or before the 18th of February in order to have everything on the bills for the sale which will be Wed. Feb. 26

Col. B. A. Reemstma

Phone 508 Klemme Iowa

NOTICE

Applications will be received in the office of the County Auditor up until 12 o'clock noon, February 20th, 1919, for position as Steward and Stewardess of the Hancock County Home. Term commencing April 1st, 1919.

CHRIS JACOBS,
County Auditor.

4w

BASKET SOCIAL

There will be a Basket Social at Ell No. 2 School on Friday evening, February 14, program to begin at 7:30. Ladies are requested to bring baskets, the men are requested to bring the ladies and also their pocket-books. All are invited to come and have a good time. Marian Arnold, teacher. 2w

Col. B. A. Reemtsma

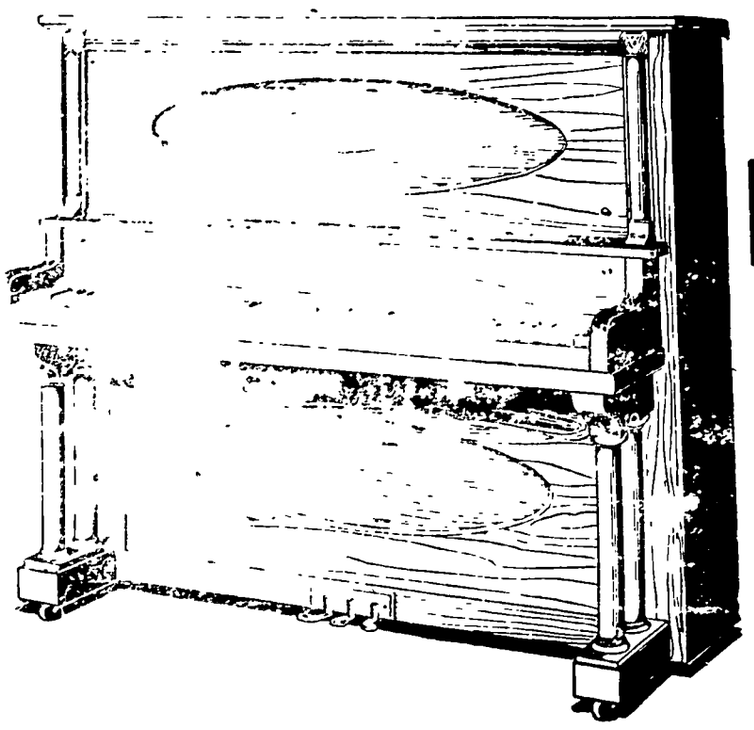
General Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA

Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty
Call, write or phone 508 Klemme for dates, terms, etc.
...Satisfaction Guaranteed...

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA.
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

W. F. PAVE
The Practical Blacksmith
OXY-ACETYLENE WELD
Wagon, Buggy and Machi Repairing
Horse Shoeing and Pl Work a Specialty

J. S. WESSON, D. V. M
GARNER, IOWA
CALLS ATTENDED DAY O NIGHT
Office Phone 196 Residence



A Piano Sale Without An Equal!

Sale Now On Open Every Evening

We will buyers' expenses both ways and also Hotel bill at the Allison

There is might behind right. The great province of this Powerful Merchandising Piano and Player Institution is to unceasingly strive to give our purchasers QUALITY INSTRUMENTS at the LOWEST PRICES. Contrast the STRENGTH of this INSTITUTION which is the distributor for several of the worlds largest PIANO and PLAYER PIANO manufactures with our LARGE CAPITALIZATION and our ability to market PIANOS and PLAYER PIANOS by the HUNDREDS as against the one and two piano dealings of the SMALL DEALERS and you will then know how we can save you $100.00 to $200.00 DURING THIS GREAT SALE.

$385.00 Hobart M Cable $239.00 $550.00 Player at $298,00
$650.00 at $485.00 $600.00 Player at $440.00

My annual invetory shows that I have on hand at this writing the largest stock of Pianos and Player Pianos in the entire history of My business in Britt—Pianos such as "WEDIC & HINKELMAN" "HOLLAND" "HOBART M CABLE" "LAWRENCE" "MILLER" and Players of all leading makes. I have more Pianos than this business needs at this time and I feel that in justice to myself I should turn a portion of them ilto immebiate money. To do this I realize that it will be necessary for me to sacrifice the legitimate profits that I am entitled to as a legitimate merchant I have sold Pianos in every community within 50 miles of Britt, My reputation for fair and square dealing is a household word throughout Iowa. When I say Sale I mean sale. I mean cut the price—cut the terms slash everything but the quality—the quality stands out like an oasis in a desert. The first man that steps inside the door at this sale and is ready to talk business can buy his choice of any Piano or Player Piano in the store at an offer so far below what would normally be considered a price that to repeat it here would place it in the impossible class—Imagine your choice of any Piano or Player Piano reduced $95 But the terms on this offer are cash—no time, no note—just Cash on this first Piano or player on this offer. This sale starts Friday morning, January 31, and the first man, woman or child that appears with a copy of this paper in his hand ready to do business can have his choice of any piano in the store on this offer. First come, first served, nothing reserved. All I want is a chance to sell a portion of my stock quick for cash and when I have the amount of money necessary all price reductions are cancelled. If you ever intend to own a Piano get here in time to get one of these bargains. Signed— C. D WELTY.

The strong arm of Purchasing Power enables C. D. Welty to offer exceptional Piano and Player Piano values during this sale.

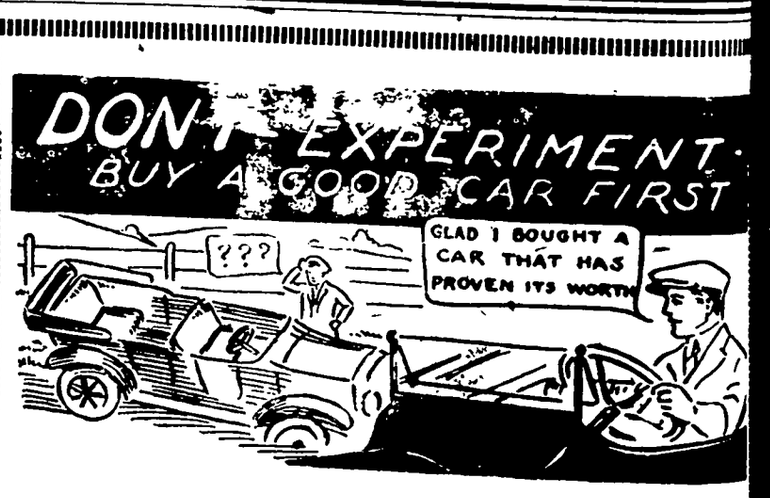
USED PIANO

$98.00

C. D. Welty

BRITT, IOWA



You cannot afford to experiment when it comes to buying a car.

And you don't need to; we have done that for you and as we value our reputation and business you can depend on the result of our experience.

We stand behind every car we sell and are right here to make good every transaction.

Miles Garage

YOU HAVE TRIED

KLEMME, IA.

PUBLIC AUCTION!

ve decided to hold a Public Auction on farm located 2 miles south and 4 es west of Klemme; 4 miles north and 4 miles west of Goodell; 3 miles north three miles east of Kanawha; know as the old Cameron place, on Wednesday, Febr. 12

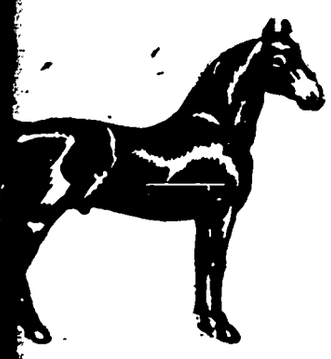
Sale to begin at 11:00 A. M. Sharp



10 Head of Horses 10

Black driving horse, 4 yrs old, wt 1170; Gray mare 8 yrs old, wt 1470; Bay mare 5 yrs old, wt 1600; Bay mare 2 yrs old, wt 1170; Dark bay gelding 2 yrs old, wt 1440; Bay gelding 2 yrs old, wt 1400; Gray gelding 2 yrs old, wt 1300; Gray gelding 1 yrs old, wt 1550; Roan mare 5 yrs old, wt 1400.

8 Head of Cattle 38

Registered Bull; 10 milk cows, some fresh others will be soon; 6 steers one ar old; 5 heifers one year old; 16 calves.

35 Head of Broo Sows 35

FARM MACHINERY ETC.

cCormick binder 8 ft cut; 1 McCormick mower 6 ft cut; 1 Sandwich corn elevator; 1 7-h.p. Cash engine and der; 1 Dain hay loader; 1 Dain hay side delivery; 1 John Deere corn planter with 140 rods wire; 1 John Deere n sulky plow; 1 Emerson disc, like new; 1 Rock Island disc; 2 Avery corn cultivators; 3 farm wagons; 1 surrey; t driving harness; 3 sets of farm harness; 4 bu. seed corn; 40 tons tame hay in barn; John Deere spreader near-new; Deering corn binder; 1 set wagon springs; 2½ h. p. gas engine; Sterling 11 ft seeder; fanning mill; 1 bob sled eating stove, 1 DeLaval Cream Separator; 1 26 ft harrow; and numerous other small articles.

FREE HOT LUNCH AT NOON

RMS—All sums of $10 and under, cash. Over $10 a credit of 10 months time will be given on approved notes ring interest at 8 per cent from date of sale. No property to be rmoved until settled for.

Wm. Nuehring, Sr.

. B. A. Reemstma Auct. Times Print Shop, Klemme, Ia. Klemme State State Bank Clerks

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF IOWA, IN AND FOR HANCOCK COUNTY

March Term, 1919

ORIGINAL NOTICE

Art Lackore,
Plaintiff,
vs.

The unknown claimants to the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of the Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section Three (3), Township Ninety-seven (97), North of Range Twenty-four (24), West of the 5th P. M., Hancock County, Iowa, and William Luckrse, Wm. Lackore, James Lackore, William Lackore, Mrs. William Lackore, Rose Lackore, Peter Lackore, Emma Lackore, John Lackore, Rozina Deitz, Fred Deitz, Cora Steineker, August Steineker, Rosina Dietz, Fred Dietz, A. B. Stinieker, Cora Stinieker, and the unknown heirs, devisees, grantees, spouses, and claimants under the aforesaid defendants and all parties claiming any right, title, or interest by, thru or under the named defendants or unknown claimants or any of them.
Defendants.

To said defendants and to unknown claimants of said land described in caption hereof:

You and each of you are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, the petition of plaintiff in the aforesaid cause, claiming in substance that he is the absolute owner in fee simple of the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of the Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section Three (3), Township Ninety-seven (97), North of Range Twenty-four (24) West of the 5th P. M., in Hancock County, Iowa, that he and party under whom he claims title under mesne conveyance have been in hostile, open, and undisturbed possession of said land under color of title and claim of right by upwards of twenty years last past That such possession has been adverse to all defendants herein and to all unknown claimants. That the named defendants have agreed by contract to Quit Claim Deed to plaintiff, but though requested, have wholly refused to do so That aforesaid defendants or unknown claimants have no right, title or interest in and to said premises but have apparent claim thereto which plaintiff desires to remove, being clouds upon his title. That the names and residences of unknown defendants are unknown to plaintiff, who has sought diligently to learn same. Said petition prays that said unknown claimants of said land and all defendants named herein and all persons claiming by, thru or under them or any of them, any interest in said premises be forever barred and estopped from having or claiming any right, title or interest thereto; that the plaintiff's title in said premises be quieted in plaintiff aganst all defendants named or unnamed, and against all unknown claimants, and for other equitable relief.

For further particulars see said petition.

You are further notified that unless you appear thereto and defend before noon of the second day of the next term of said District Court Iowa, in and for Hancock County, ing the March 1919 term thereof, h ch convenes and will be held at the Court House at Garner, Iowa, on the 3rd day of March, 1919, default will be entered against you and judgment and decree rendered thereon as by law provided.

Dated this 29th day of January, 1919.

Gorden & Osmundson
Attorneys for Pla

OUR HEROES

Klemme Boys With The Colors

We are adding a few more names to our Service Flag which were overlooked in our publication last week. If there are any further corrections please hand them in as this is the only way we can get this list correct. When you give in a name be sure it is a Klemme boy and that his name is not entered on service flags in other places.

The following is a list of the Klemme young men who are in the Army or Navy Clip this out and paste it in your scrap book to keep as a record of the young men who fought for The Great Cause.

The names printed in black face type represent the young men who made the Supreme Sacrifice.

Holly Lewis	Howard Wilson
R. M. Thomas	Verner Bredlow
Ben T. Schaefer	Henry Linne
Ralph Jones	Carl Boehl
Geo B. H. Lau	Henry Schuldt
Arthur Henry Kuck	Hugo Neff
Ben John Coobs	Adrian Bielefeld
Herman Coobs	Robert Roths
Grover C. Dailey	Tom Roths
Carl Sonderfeld	Dewey Rice
Oscar Wm Larsen	Elmer Hartbeck
Leonard Burrows	Lester Stille
Arthur McElmurray	Willie Bock
Paul Grange	Geo. Lawhorn
Hidreth Jefson	Richard Bamman
Frank Addam	Wert Loger
M M Magner	Casey Blank
Ernest Lewis	Fred Becker
Geo. Hoppe	W. A. Ridder
Fred Hoppe	Geo. H. Meyer
Walter Maitland	Fred Etchen
John Mossel	Wm. Patrick Dore
Verner Lewis	Wesley Schuettpelz
Jefferson Bell	Ben Goll
Chas Braden	Albert Carolus
Albert Kraus	F. Ben Ridder
Carl Suckow	Herman Miller
Billie Velau	Albert Etchen
David Schwichtenberg	Harry Gram

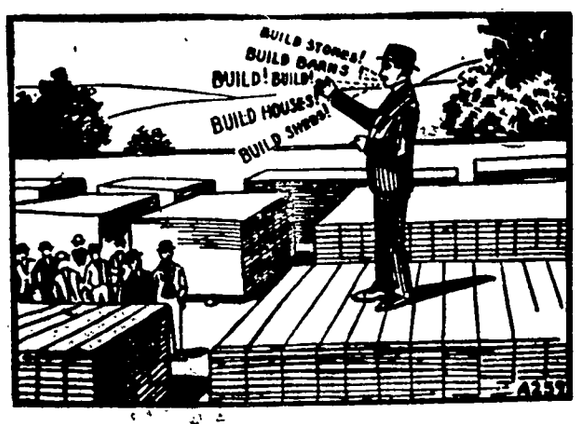
This list is open to correction and we will be glad to have you call our attention to the matter. If any names have been left off please tell us of it so that we can publish the entire list as soon as possible. We may possibly have over looked some names.

Getting Even With

"The censor cuts out the exciting parts of his letter found a way to get even w "What's that?" "He says he's quit writing."

Life's Greatest Handicap.

It is a sad thing to begin life with low conceptions of it. There is no misfortune comparable to a youth without a sense of nobility. Better be born blind than not to see the glory of life. —Theodore T. Munger.



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

ORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16. Residence Phone No. 52

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

A most frequent visitor and most exacting guest. You will see the time when

Opportunity Looms Big

with possibilities

Will you be able to meet the exactions. A Bank account started now will help.

State Savings Bank

KLEMME, IA.

DOCTOR URGED AN OPERATION

Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Was Cured.

Baltimore, Md.—"Nearly four years suffered from organic troubles, nervousness and headaches and every month would have to stay in bed most of the time. Treatments would relieve me for a time but my doctor was always urging me to have an operation. My sister asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before consenting to an operation. I took five bottles of it and it has completely cured me and my work is a pleasure. I tell all my friends who have any trouble of this kind what Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—NELLIE B. BRITTINGHAM, 609 Calverton Rd., Baltimore, Md.

It is only natural for any woman to dread the thought of an operation. So many women have been restored to health by this famous remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, after an operation has been advised that it will pay any woman who suffers from such ailments to consider trying it before submitting to such a trying ordeal.

General Foch's Golf Tactics.

No one knows where Marshal Foch gets his strategy. The great French military genius golfs—not a professional game, but a safe and sane amateur one—and he hates to lose a ball.

And he hates to waste time from his game to hunt up the missing. So after the day was over he would take his flashlight and prowl over the links for the trays. Almost invariably he would come in with more balls than he started with. No one could identify the strangers, and so they went into his bag.

That is how it was that the German staff was surprised so often, and how many of them were rounded up in the trenches. A careful golfer should be a good tactician.—Los Angeles Times.

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER

Has been used for all ailments that are caused by a disordered stomach and inactive liver, such as sick headache, constipation, sour stomach, nervous indigestion, fermentation of food, palpitation of the heart caused by gases in the stomach. August Flower is a gentle laxative, regulates digestion both in stomach and intestines, cleans and sweetens the stomach and alimentary canal, stimulates the liver to secrete the bile and impurities from the blood. Sold in all civilized countries. Give it a trial.—Adv.

Doubled His Money.

A Bath (Me.) man had a cow to sell but could get no better offer than $75. So he chopped the cow up, and, collectively, she then amounted to $150.

Golf takes a man from home a good deal, but it isn't in it with a reputation as a speechmaker.

MAULE'S SEEDS

ONCE GROWN ALWAYS GROWN

Start Your Garden Right

Send for Maule's Seed Book. 176 pages of most helpful garden information. Beat the high cost of living with a Maule garden. Maule's Seeds started thousands of new gardens last year—big crops were produced.

MAULE SEED BOOK

176 Pages of Practical Information FREE

Learn what, when, and how to plant and prepare your ground for best results. Paper scarcity has limited our 1919 issue. Send for your copy today.

WM HENRY MAULE, INC.
2146 Arch Street Philadelphia

Maule's Seeds Mean Productive Gardens

FOR MARKET GARDEN AND HOME GARDEN

DON'T KILL YOUR CATTLE BY DRENCHING

Salts and oil are DANGEROUS. Few cattle die of constipation; many of PARALYSIS of the bowels. Give dry on the tongue. Positively prevents and overcomes both. Excellent for loss of appetite.

LAXOTONIC

AT OUR DEALERS or Postpaid 50 Cents.

Send for price list of medicines. Consult DR. DAVID ROBERTS about all animal ailments. Information free. Get a FREE copy of "The Cattle Specialist" with full information on Abortion in Cows.

DR. DAVID ROBERTS VET. CO., 106 Grand Ave. Waukesha, Wis.

Why Lose Your Hair The Cause is Dandruff and Itching; The Remedy Cuticura

All druggists: Soap 25, Ointment 25 & 50, Talcum 25. Sample each free of "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."

For Coughs and Colds

Take a tried and tested remedy—one that acts promptly and effectively and contains no opiates. You get that remedy by asking for

PISO'S

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

VIII.

ANITA'S STORY.

Instead of showing surprise at this statement the coroner broke the breathless silence that followed it by saying:

"Will you please explain what you mean by 'stealthily?'"

"Just what I say," returned Haviland bluntly. "She went slowly, now and then pausing to listen, twice drawing back around a corner and peeping out, and then coming forth again, she wore no shoes and carried no light; she went down the big staircase in the manner I have described, and after about 10 minutes returned in the same fashion. That's what I mean by stealthily."

"What was your errand?" asked Seofield of Estelle.

"Nothing. I didn't go," she replied coolly.

"She tells an untruth," said Gray calmly. "She did go, just as I have described. But it was doubtless on an innocent errand. I have no idea she was implicated in Miss Carrington's death. I am sure it is of casual explanation—or I was sure until Estelle denied it."

"How was it you chanced to see her?"

"I was wakeful, and I was prowling around to find something to read. I went out in the hall and got a magazine from the table, and had returned to my room and was just closing the door when I saw a white figure glide across the hall. She passed through a moonlit space or I could not have seen her. She was wrapped in a light or white kimono thing, and I should never have thought of it again if it were not for what has happened."

"You knew it to be this Estelle?"

"Yes, her red hair was hanging in a braid."

"'Tisn't red!" snapped Estelle, but Mr. Seofield silenced her with a frown.

"Well, auburn, then," said Haviland easily. "You may as well own up, Estelle. What did you go down for?"

"I didn't go," repeated the maid obstinately, and no cross questioning could prevail on her to admit otherwise.

"All right," and Haviland shrugged his shoulders, "I suppose it doesn't matter, as the crime was committed about 1 o'clock. It's up to you, Mr. Coroner, to find some person who acted suspiciously nearer that time. And, by the way, as man of business of this estate, unless some worthwhile evidence is forthcoming pretty soon, I'm going to round up a detective or two who will get somewhere."

"Give us a little more time, Mr. Haviland," said Seofield suavely; "this inquest is only begun."

"Well, get it over with, and then, if the truth hasn't come to light, I'll take a hand."

Miss Frayne was called next, and Anita, with a look of importance on her pretty face, came forward.

Her evidence, at first, was merely a repetition of that already heard, and she corroborated Pauline's recital of the scene as the two girls bade Miss Carrington good night.

"And then?" prompted the coroner.

"Then I went to my room, but I didn't retire. I sat thinking over what Miss Carrington had said to me. And as I thought about it I concluded that this time I was really dismissed from her secretaryship. And that made me feel very sorry, for it was a good position and I had no wish to lose it. So, after a time, I began to think I would go to Miss Carrington's room and, if she were still up, I would beg her forgiveness."

"Forgiveness for what?"

"For any fancied grievance she might have against me. I have always tried to please her, but she was—er—difficult, and it was not easy to do the right thing at all times."

"Did you go to her room?"

"I went to the door——"

"At what time?"

"Soon after 1 o'clock. Not more than five or 10 minutes after."

There was a rustle of excitement. The poison was said to be administered at about 1! Did this fair, doll like girl know the secret of the tragedy?

"Proceed, Miss Frayne; tell the story of anything you saw at that time."

"I saw nothing. But I heard a great deal."

"What was it?"

"The door of Miss Carrington's room was closed, and I was about to tap on it when I heard talking inside. I paused, and I listened in order to discover if her maid was still with her, or some one else. If it had been Estelle, I should have tapped for admittance. But it was not."

"Who was it?"

"I cannot say. The voice I heard distinctly was that of Miss Carrington herself. Her voice was high pitched, and of what is called a carrying sort. The things she said were so strange I lingered, listening, for I was so surprised I couldn't help it.

"First, I heard her say, quite plainly: 'Your face is the most beautiful I have ever seen! I wish mine were as beautiful.' I assumed, then, she must be talking to Miss Stuart, for surely she would not say that to her maid. Then she said: 'But, tomorrow, I shall be forever freed from this homely face of mine.'"

"Miss Frayne, this is very singular! Are you sure you heard correctly?"

"I am sure. But there is more. She next said: 'Tomorrow you will be glad'—glad!' It was almost a scream, that. And she went on: 'Tomorrow all these jewels will be yours—if you—ah, but will you?' and then her voice trailed off faintly, and I could hear no more."

"You heard nothing more at all?"

"Yes; I waited—oh, I admit I was eavesdropping, but it was so strange I couldn't help it—there was silence. It may well be some one else was replying to her, but I could not make out any other person's words. A low voice would not be audible like a high pitched one. But, after a moment, Miss Carrington resumed. She said: 'I shall change my will. Not Carr's half, that must stand. But the other half shall never go to a niece who has no affection for me!' Again I heard nothing, for the responses were inaudible. Then Miss Carrington said, in a musing tone: 'I have already willed you $10,000 of those United States bonds, but——' And, then, after quite a long pause, Miss Carrington cried out, not loudly, but tensely: 'Henri, Henri! you are the mark I aim at!' That frightened me so I ran swiftly back to my room, and locked the door."

"You assumed Henri to be Count Charlier?"

"I had no other construction to put upon the words."

"You thought the gentleman was in Miss Carrington's room?"

"I couldn't think that! And yet, it sounded as if she were speaking to him, not of him."

"This is a very strange story, Miss Frayne. Have you mentioned these things you overheard to any one before this?"

"No. I have thought them over, and concluded it was best to tell the story first to you."

"And quite right. It is, then, your opinion that there was another person in Miss Carrington's room to whom she was speaking?"

"It seemed so to me."

"But you did not hear this other person's voice?"

Anita paused a moment and then said: "Not distinctly."

"Did you hear it at all?"

"I cannot say. When I did not hear Miss Carrington's voice clearly there were sounds that might have been another person of her own voice speaking more inaudibly."

"Might it not be that she was merely talking to herself—soliloquizing?"

"It could not have been that. She spoke definitely and decidedly to some one when she said 'Your face is beautiful,' and when she said 'I have willed you $10,000.' Indeed, everything she said was as if spoken to some hearer; not as one who talks to herself."

"After you regained your room did you leave it again?"

"No, I did not."

"H'm. Now, are you positive, Miss Frayne, that all these speeches were said just as you have repeated them? It is a great strain on the memory to repeat accurately a conversation as long as the one you have just rehearsed."

"The speeches I heard are burned in my brain. I could not forget them if I would. I may have erred in some minor or unimportant words, but the most of what I heard is precisely as I have repeated it. Indeed, so thoroughly was I amazed at it all, I wrote it down as soon as I reached my room. I had then no thought of—of what was going to happen, but Miss Carrington had made peculiar remarks about something happening to her, and in connection with that the words I heard seemed so remarkable—not to say uncanny—that I made a note of them. This is not an unusual habit with me. I often make notes of conversations, as it has been useful in my services as secretary."

"As how?"

"If a caller in a social or business way had conversation with Miss Carrington, and I was present, I often made a record in case she asked me later just what had been said."

"I see. And how do you interpret the words: 'Henri, you are the mark I aim at?'"

"I can only think that Miss Carrington was in favor of considering marriage between herself and the Count."

"You made use of the word 'uncanny.' Do you imagine that Miss Carrington had any forebodings of her approaching doom?"

"When I heard her say, 'Tomorrow I will be forever freed from this homely face of mine,' and 'tomorrow all these jewels will be yours,' I couldn't help thinking—after the discovery of her death—that she must have anticipated it."

"Did her voice sound like the despairing one of a person about to die?"

"On the contrary, it sounded full of life and animation."

"Did she seem angry with the person to whom she was speaking?"

"At times, yes. And, again, no. Her voice showed varying emotions as she talked on."

"Her speech was not continuous, then?"

"Not at all. It was broken, and in snatches. But, remember, I could not hear all of what she said, and the other person or persons not at all."

"Did you not catch a word from the other voice?"

"I cannot say. Much, in a low tone, that I could not hear clearly, might have been Miss Carrington's voice or another's. The door was closed, and as soon as I realized there was some one there, not Estelle, I had no thought of knocking, and I soon went away. I ought to have gone away sooner, and would have done so, but I was so amazed and puzzled I stayed on involuntarily."

"Your story, Miss Frayne, is very extraordinary. Can you suggest, from what you heard, who might have been in the room with Miss Carrington?"

"I cannot, nor do I wish to. I have told you what I heard; it is for you to make deductions or discoveries."

"I wish to say a word, Mr. Coroner," and Pauline Stuart, with her dark eyes blazing, rose to her feet. "I am sorry to say this, but I must ask you to hesitate before you put too much faith in the amazing tale you have just listened to. I am sure Miss Frayne could not have heard all that nonsense! It is impossible, on the face of it, that my aunt should have received any one in her room after her maid left her. It is incredible that she should have made all those ridiculous and meaningless remarks! And it is despicable for any woman to imply or hint that Miss Carrington was receiving a gentleman caller! I am surprised that you even listened to what must be the ravings of a disordered mind!"

Pauline looked at Anita like an avenging goddess. But the darts of scorn from her dark eyes were met and returned in kind from the big blue ones of the secretary.

"I resent your tone and your words," said Anita deliberately; "but, since you choose to adopt that attitude, I will go on to say what I had intended not to reveal, that I saw you coming from your aunt's room after the conversation I have told of took place."

"Just a minute," said the coroner; "you said that immediately after hearing the alleged conversation you went at once to your room, and did not leave it again."

"Nor did I. But, a few minutes later, unable to restrain my curiosity, I opened my door and looked out. My position then commanded a full view of the hall, and I saw Miss Stuart go from her aunt's room to her own."

Pauline looked at the speaker. Coldly her glance swept back to the coroner, and she said: "I deny that I was in my aunt's room after leaving it at midnight in company with Miss Frayne. But she forces me to tell that I saw her going away from it at exactly 1:15."

"How do you fix the time so accurately?"

"I was sitting in the upper hall—it is really a sitting room—at the bay windowed end, looking at the moon. I, too, had been disturbed at my aunt's attitude, and her threats to send me away today, and I had gone to the hall window seat, a favorite haunt of mine, and had sat there for a half hour or more."

"Could any one going through the hall see you?"

"Probably not, as the draperies are heavy, and I was in the deep window seat. I was thinking I would go to my room, and then I saw Miss Frayne come from my aunt's room and go to her own."

"Are you sure she came from the room?"

"She was closing the door, her hand was on the knob. She did not see me, I am sure, for I drew back in the window and watched her. And just then I heard the hall clock chime the quarter after 1 o'clock."

"You didn't see Miss Frayne when she went to Miss Carrington's room?"

"No; I suppose I was then looking out of the deep window."

"Nor did you hear her?"

"No, the rugs are thick and a light footfall makes no sound."

"What did you next do?"

"I went—I went straight to my own room."

The slight hesitation told against Pauline. All through her testimony, all through her arraignment of Anita—for it amounted to that—she had been cool, calm and imperturbable. But now a momentary hesitation of speech, added perhaps to the circumstantial story of Anita Frayne, caused a wave of doubt, not enough to call suspicion, but a questioning attitude to form in the minds of the audience.

To whom, if not Miss Stuart, could Miss Carrington's remarks about beauty have been addressed? It was well known that Miss Lucy adored beauty and had all her life lamented her own lack of it. This was no secret woe of the poor lady's. To any one who would listen she would complain of her hard lot in having all the gifts of the gods except good looks. To whom else would she say "Tomorrow all these jewels will be yours if you—ah, but will you?"

And yet, after all, it did not make sense. Was it not far more likely to be a figment of Miss Frayne's clever mind, for what purpose who might say?

At any rate, their stories were contradictory and moreover were garbled.

The jurymen sighed. The case had been mysterious enough before, now it was becoming inexplicable.

IX.

FURTHER TESTIMONY.

Count Henri Charlier was being questioned, and he was distinctly ill at ease. His French savoir faire was not proof against definite inquiries as to his intentions regarding the late Miss Carrington, and indefinite allusions concerning his movements on the night of her death.

He had related, straightforwardly enough, his visit at Garden Steps that evening and his departure at or about midnight. He denied his engagement of marriage, but admitted that he had paid Miss Carrington such attentions as might lead her to suspect an attachment.

"You did not return to this house after leaving on Tuesday night?"

"Most assuredly not."

"You were not in Miss Carrington's boudoir at 1 o'clock, or thereabouts?"

Count Charlier's black eyes snapped. But, by a successful effort he controlled his indignation, and said, simply: "I was not."

"But she was heard to address you."

"Impossible, as I was not there."

"She distinctly declared that you were the mark she aimed at. What construction do you put upon those words?"

(Continued Next Week.)

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Dandruff disappears, and your hair is fluffy and abundant in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair, and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see your hair coming in fine and downy at first—yes, and new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it removes every particle of dandruff. Before retiring, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and possess an appearance of abundance and beauty incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft and lustrous as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that you are possessed of beautiful hair and that it surely can have been abundant and beautiful if you will just try a little Danderine.—Adv.

Poetic Geography.

At a recent examination of candidates for admission to the central officers training camp one of the men was given a geography test. The first question was answered correctly, as was the second. The lieutenant in charge asked the candidate if he knew where the Sahara desert was.

The candidate thought for a minute and then with a triumphant smile answered:

"Far, far away."—Corporal R. Black, in Judge.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, } ss.
County—ss.
Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.
FRANK J. CHENEY.
Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.
(Seal) A. W. Gleason, Notary Public.
HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Druggists, 75c. Testimonials free.
F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O.

A Misplaced Effort.

Samson was peeved.

"Why didn't she do it herself instead?" he cried.

Don't Go From Bad to Worse

Are you always weak, nervous, half-sick? Then it's time you knew what is causing it. Kidney disease causes much suffering from backache, stiffness and pains, and if neglected, leads to many forms of serious troubles—dropsy, gravel, Bright's disease. Don't delay. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands and should help you.

A Nebraska Case

Mrs G. E. [illegible] son, Neb., says: "I couldn't lie on account of my kidneys and stiffness across the back. When I stooped down, a sharp pain darted through my left kidney. I had dizzy spells and sacs appeared under my eyes and my ankles swollen and puffy. My limbs were unsteady and my shoes tight. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and knowing they had helped others, I got a box and in a few days my back was free from pain and the swelling had disappeared."

Get Doan's at Any Store. 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS
FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N.Y.

MAKE A MOVE FOR A SONG

LIBERTY MUSIC HOUSE

...Mysteries ...ature

...OWER, M. D.

...ion seed and a pansy ...side by side in the ...d. In one case, you ... its peculiarly strong ...er you get a flower of ...m plant a poppy seed ...gerous, habit-forming ...nt a rhubarb seed and ...lps constipation. No ...ad, can explain these ... Behind the invisible ...d is hidden the deep ...understands. Every- ... the ground seems in- ...in nourishing natural ..., of Buffalo, N. Y., ... what is naturally best ... He learned it all ... of cases. The ... medicine called ... Prescription. This ...vegetable growths that ...ed for backache, head- ...drains, bearing-down ...regularities, pelvic in- ...or the many disorders ...in all ages of life. Dr. ...Prescription is made of ...black cohosh root, uni- ...hook root and Oregon ...n who take this stand- ... that in Dr. Pierce's ...ion they are getting a ...so good that druggists

...ption should have the ...ery woman in America ...no alcohol and no nar- ...knew, when he first ...d medicine, that whisky ...injurious, and so he has ... out of his remedies. ...Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, ...r trial pkg. of tablets.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
...fect preparation of merit. ...ing to eradicate dandruff. ...for Restoring Color and ...ty to Gray or Faded Hair. ...0c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

...N ACRE!
...acres, $5.00 to $8.50; one-tenth ...$5. Mexico lands, 1,000 to ..., $5.00 per acre cash. ...CO., San Antonio, Texas

T.G. CO., NO. 6--1919.

TOO WEAK TO FIGHT

The "Come-back" man was really never down-and-out. His weakened condition because of overwork, lack of exercise, improper eating and living demands stimulation to satisfy the cry for a health-giving appetite and the refreshing sleep essential to strength. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules, the National Remedy of Holland, will do the work. They are wonderful. Three of these capsules each day will put a man on his feet before he knows it; whether his trouble comes from uric acid poisoning, the kidneys, gravel or stone in the bladder, stomach derangement or other ailments that befall the over-zealous American. The best known, most reliable remedy for these troubles is GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. This remedy has stood the test for more than 200 years since its discovery in the ancient laboratories in Holland. It acts directly and gives relief at once. Don't wait until you are entirely down-and-out, but take them today. Your druggist will gladly refund your money if they do not help you. Accept no substitutes. Look for the name GOLD MEDAL on every box, three sizes. They are the pure, original, imported Haarlem Oil Capsules.—Adv.

Poor Mother's Affliction.

I went over to a neighbor's yesterday and the mother was downtown.

"She's gone to the dentist's," said Frederick, who had been left with the maid.

"Why, she had gone to the dentist's when I was over here before," I said, in order to make conversation with the youngster.

"Oh, she goes a lot; she has awful weak teeth," he replied.—Chicago Tribune.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.Adv.

The Sort.

He—"I eat fish because I consider it good brain diet." She—"I suppose you prefer weakfish?"

Success never comes to the man who is afraid to face failure.

World's Industrial Pulse.

From National City Bank (New York) Bulletin.

The indications are that wages and prices are going to stay up, for a time at least, all over the world, which will do much to simplify the situation in every country. The general state of credit expansion over the world will sustain, and naturally cause, a higher level of prices than prevailed before the war, and there will not be the same pressure to lower wages and prices in this country that there would be if the level was falling in other countries. It does not follow, of course, that wages and prices at the higher level will yield any better net results to producers and wage earners than at the old level, or that the new level will be permanent, but business is favored by stable conditions and, with all the world subject to the same general influence, changes are likely to be gradual rather than abrupt Conditions will not be very favorable to efficient industry on the continent of Europe for a long time. From the Rhine eastward disorganization is general, the discipline and leadership to which the people have been accustomed is gone, the industrial equipment has deteriorated, and politics probably will be the dominant interest for some years to come. In Russia, under the rule of the bolshevists, business experience and managerial talent have been discarded; one man is considered as good a business manager as another; indeed, it is objectionable to have any one man exercise more authority than another; everything is supposed to be managed by committees and by popular vote.

In England the situation is very different, but wage advances on a large scale are still going on, with the expectation that they will be maintained. Announcement has been made that the railways, which have been operated by the government as a war measure, will be taken over permanently, and since the armistice was signed the basic eight-hour day has been granted to all the employes. The London Times states that it is understood that overtime will be at the rate of time and one-quarter. Including this action the wage scale of the railways has been more than doubled since the beginning of the war.

The government is pledged to the labor organizations to restore all of the union rules and restrictions which were waived in the interest of increased production during the war, but is seeking an agreement under which the wage earners will obtain higher wages and better working conditions, but continue the war time efficiency in production. The labor leaders declare in favor of this arrangement, and it is hoped that production costs will not be increased, and eventually may be even lowered, but the effect will probably be to put production costs in England and the United States more nearly on the same level than they have been in the past.

UNTYING THE KNOT.

From Christian Science Monitor.

Alexander, as nearly everybody has some time or other heard, solved the difficulty of untying the Gordian knot, which nobody had ever been able to do, by cutting it. Something of the same sort may have been done by those large business concerns that are announcing a reduction in the price of what they have to sell without making any corresponding reduction in the wages of those who make it. The argument that the price of commodities cannot come down until the cost of labor comes down, and that the cost of labor cannot come down until the price of commodities comes down, presents a problem quite as perplexing as the traditional knotted cord at Gordium. But if a large enough number of businesses reduce prices without lowering wage scales, and find they can do it without sacrificing reasonable profit, the purchasing power of the dollar will pleasantly increase. With more purchasing power to the dollar the whole question of the relation of wages to the support of the wage earner and his family would become easier of adjustment.

The Pretender.

From the New York Sun.

The world cannot regard with entire unconcern the reported abduction of young Wilhelm, eldest son of the former German crown prince. Since the abdication of his grandfather and father this lad of 13 is, from a purely legal point of view, king of Prussia and emperor of Germany. The fact that he has been so well hidden by the officers who took charge of him that the government has been unable to find him indicates that the monarchists now center all their hopes in him.

The older Hohenzollerns are thoroughly discredited, and with their names will be associated forever the unspeakable disasters which they were so instrumental in bringing upon their country. But the little prince starts with a clear record. At the proper moment he can be brought forward and proclaimed king and emperor.

The possibility that this opportunity may come cannot be overlooked by a world thoroughly awakened to the dangers of Prussian autocracy. Germany today is tottering upon the brink of anarchy; soon she may be launched upon the road trodden by France and Russia and go to the limit of radicalism and excess. Such a road leads inevitably back to despotism. A nation will sooner or later turn to any government which can save it from anarchy, and the easiest government to establish and operate is a monarchy. The day may conceivably come when Berlin will acclaim this prince as her rightful ruler, as the English acclaimed Charles II and the French Napoleon III.

Great Button Scandal.

From Collier's Weekly.

There are many points in our conduct of the war on which we may congratulate ourselves. These are being uncovered with loud cries daily. But there is one page on which every American with a sense of artistic honor must look with an audible shudder. It is the page on which is recorded the great button scandal.

As badges of honor for subscriptions to the national loans and charitable campaigns the officials distributed certain celluloid disks with symbolic markings. In general effect they were akin to those buttons of our inexpensive youth which came concealed in popcorn packages, bearing such noble and provocative slogans as "Kiss Me Quick," "Twenty-three, Skiddoo," or "Rubberneck." True, the designs have been somewhat altered, but with slight improvement in artistic standards.

It is needless to say that in France such things were better ordered. Artists, not treasury officials, designed the miniature medals, which were given form with an appreciation for beauty as well as for economy. Even a bit of ribbon in the buttonhole would have a dignity which is entirely lacking in our prize package buttons. They represent an inspiring series of devotional sacrifices on the part of the American people, but who will want to preserve them? And those few which do survive subsequent house cleanings, what will they be worth, except as curiosities, in the collections of 1975? There is to be one more Liberty loan. Is it too much to hope that the new secretary of our treasury, Mr. Glass, has an aversion to celluloid buttons?

The Cat and the King.

From the Chicago News.

A cat may not only look at a king, but may even jump on his back and sink its claws into his shoulders—if he be the king of Italy. In proof Capt. Charles E. Merriam, formerly in charge of American propaganda in Italy, told Italian editors, who tendered him a dinner the other night the story of the cat that jumped on King Victor Emmanuel.

"The king was gracious enough to invite me to dine with him and his suite at his headquarters near Padua," Captain Merriam said. "I had a long conversation with him before dinner concerning my work in Italy. He speaks excellent English and asked many questions.

"Later, while we were dining I was sitting at his right. A large Maltese cat—the royal cat—with a beautiful coat of fur, suddenly leaped up on my lap. I quietly nudged him off my knee. To my consternation he leaped up on the king's back.

"The king uttered a startled exclamation. I seized the cat and pulled him off, although he hung on for dear life. The king laughed heartily. I said:

"'Your majesty this means either very good or very bad luck for our common cause.'

"'It is very good luck for me,' replied the king."

Mr. Wilson's Future.

From the Washington Post Ind.

It is announced that the position of president of the University of North Carolina is open to Woodrow Wilson at a salary of $20,000 a year. This is exceedingly liberal pay for the presidency of a university, but it is said that the North Carolina institution is able to pay it by reason of a large bequest from the widow of Henry M. Flagler. A significant sentence in the dispatch announcing the news states: "President Wilson is said to be interested in the proposal."

Numerous suggestions have been put forward from time to time making provision for the future of President Wilson. It has been suggested that at the close of his term he devote his attention to writing a history of the war. Other kind and thoughtful friends have intimated that a way may be found by which he can return to the classic shades of Princeton. Other similar ideas have been put forward.

Suggestions concerning the future of the president may be expected to become more frequent and more earnest as the date of the next democratic national convention approaches. And it may be added that they will come from democratic as well as from republican sources. In about 18 months the next presidential campaign will be launched, and there are many ambitious politicians in this country who fervently hope that by that time definite provision for the future of Woodrow Wilson in the quiet and peaceful walks of private life will have been made.

Put in His Place.

Sergeant—Now, then! Line up alphabetically for pay. What's your name, my lad?

Private—Phillips, sir.

Sergeant—Well, what yer doing up here? Get back among the F's at once.

Gen. Sir Archibald Hunter says he resigned because "The British soldiers of the rock (Gibraltar) were treated like dirt, and I could not stand it."

"I'm Not Dead."

In his lecture on modern English poetry at Dedham, Mass., Robert Nichols talked about Robert Graves, says the Boston Transcript.

"Graves," said Mr. Nichols, "is the son of an Irish father and a Welsh mother, but is more English than any of us."

He was a captain in the Royal Welsh Fusiliers. The story is told of his being picked up on the battle field and heard the men remark that he was dead, when he called out:

"I'm not dead. I'm damned if I'll die."

On this incident he wrote a poem which opens:

* * * But I was dead an hour or more.
I woke when I'd already passed the door
That Cerberus guards, and half way down the road
To Lethe, as an old Greek signpost showed.
Above me, on my stretcher swinging by,
I saw new stars in the subterrene sky:
A cross, a rose in bloom, a cage with bars,
And a barbed arrow feathered in fine
stars.
I felt the vapors of forgetfulness
Float in my nostrils. Oh, may Heaven bless
Dear Lady Proserpine, who saw me wake,
And, stooping over me, for Henna's sake Cleared my poor buzzing head and sent me back
Breathless, with leaping heart along the track.
After me roared and clattered angry hosts
Of demons, heroes, and policeman ghosts.
"Life! Life!" I can't be dead! I won't be dead!
Damned if I'll die for anyone!" I said * * *

Keeps PERUNA In the House All the time

Breaks up a Cold. Good for Bronchial Inflammations.

These who object to liquid medicines can secure Peruna Tablets

Mr. Robert McDougall, R. R. No. 6, Liberty, Indiana, writes:

"I wish to state that I always keep Peruna in the house. I think it is a good medicine to have on hand. If I commence taking a cold, I take Peruna and it breaks it up for me. It is also good for the Bronchial Tubes."

Peruna has served the American people for more than forty years. Those who know its value always have it at hand. Why not you?

DISTEMPER

or Strangles in stallions, brood mares, colts and all others is most destructive. The germ causing disease must be removed from the body of the animal. To prevent the trouble the same must be done.

SPOHN'S COMPOUND

will do both—cure the sick and prevent those "exposed" from having the disease. Sold by your druggist or the manufacturers. Spohn Medical Co., Mfrs., Goshen, Ind., U.S.A.

The Lesser of Two Evils.

A gang of Irish workmen was busily engaged unloading at the docks. Suddenly there was a tremendous buzzing overhead, and an airplane came in sight, flying at a very high altitude.

"Sure, I wouldn't like to be up there in that airplane," remarked Murphy, reflectively.

"Ah," replied Pat. "But I wouldn't like to be up there without it, sonny."

Quite So.

"Just look at that sailor! He's been drinking." "What a naughty-cal thing for a sailor to do!"

Every department of housekeeping needs Red Cross Ball Blue. Equally good for kitchen towels, table linen, sheets and pillowcases, etc.

You can't always tell what is in a man by trying to pump him.

Keep your liver active, your bowels clean by taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and you'll keep healthy, wealthy and wise. Adv.

Agriculture in Brazil has quadrupled since 1914.

Life's Jesters.

"It seems very strange," observed the almost-philosopher, "that the persons who regard this life as a huge joke are the ones who say they can see no point to it."

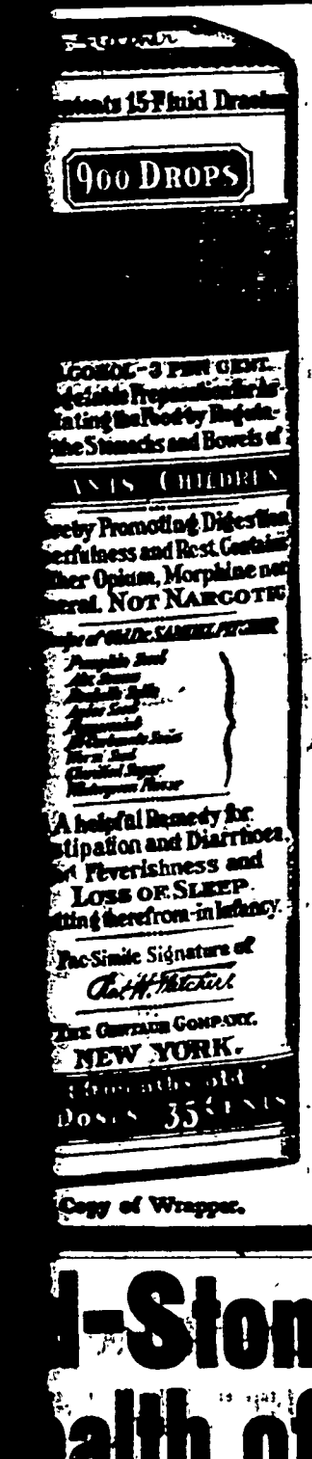
The reason some men never realize their hopes is because they do nothing but hope.

Look out for Spanish Influenza.

At the first sign of a cold take

HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form—safe, sure, no opiates—breaks up a cold in 24 hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine box has a Red top with Mr. Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.



CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

Mothers Know That Genuine Castoria Always Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

Copy of Wrapper. THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

...-Stomach Ruins ...alth of Millions

...e painful attacks of in- ...awful bloated, lumpy ... eating and downright ...y that you who have ... know so well; besides ...elching, food-repeating, ...and distressing heartburn ... this, ACID-STOMACH ...e health and saps the ...illions.

...get rid of those stomach ... is no telling where your ...ies will end, for it is a ...cientific fact that many ...ts have their birth in ...ch.

...this very day—to get rid ...omach miseries. Take ...e wonderful remedy ...the excess acid from the ...brings INSTANT relief. ...have no idea how much ...er and brighter you feel ...rives out all the gas and ... immediate stop to belch- ...burn, ends stomach suf- ...fering and makes it cool, sweet, comfortable and strong.

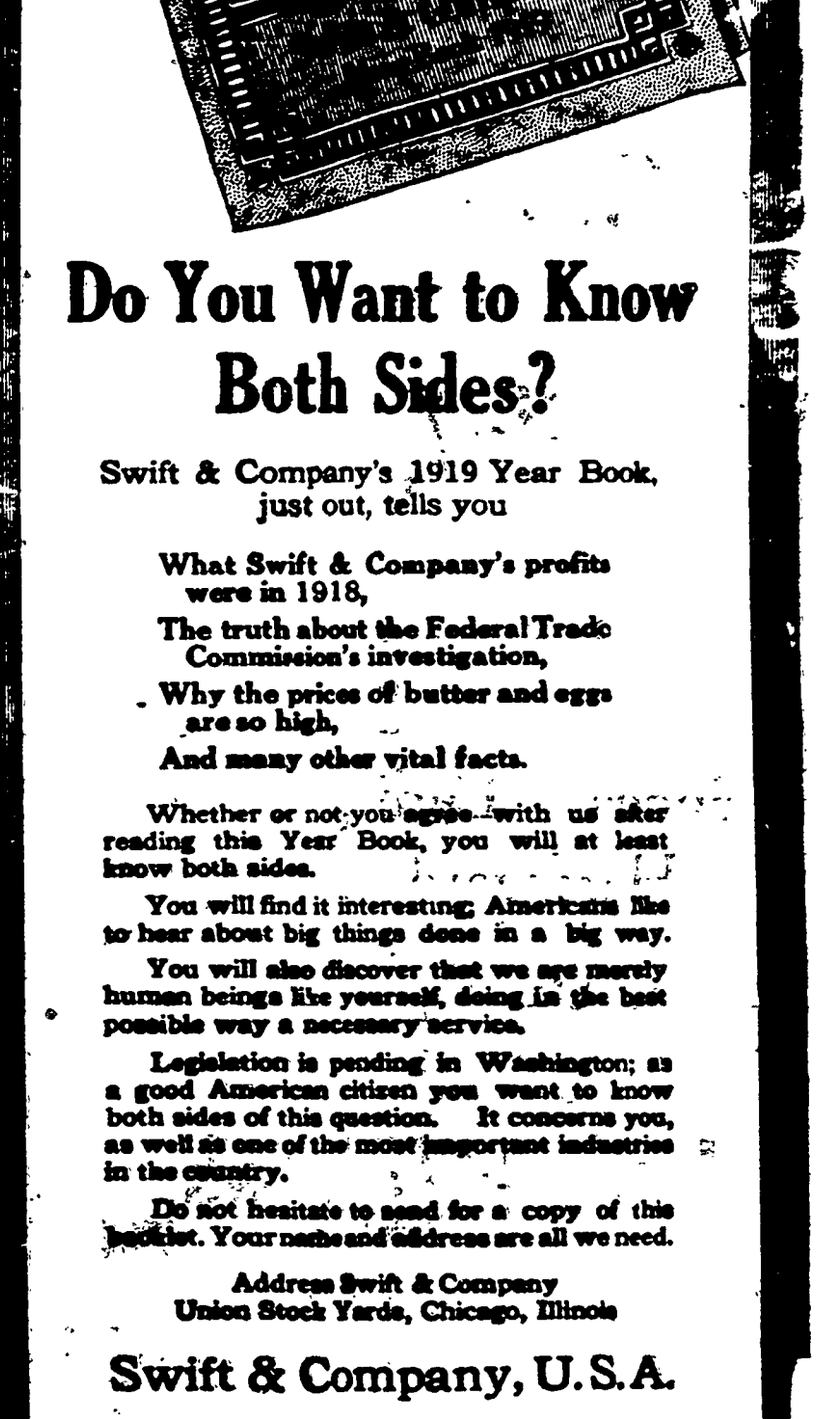
There can be no further excuse for you to allow acid-stomach to wreck your health—pile up misery upon misery until you get to the point where you feel down and out and that life has lost all its joys. Remember, just as acid-mouth ruins teeth, so acid-stomach ruins health.

Take EATONIC. It's good, just like a bit of candy and makes the stomach feel fine. You can then eat the things you like and, what is more, every mouthful you eat will count in creating power and energy. You'll feel so much better—have punch and pep—the power and will to do things and get results, and your stomach misery will be gone.

Take our advice. Get a big box of EATONIC from your druggist today. It costs so little. If it fails to remove your stomach distress, he will refund your money. That is guaranteed; you are to be satisfied or money refunded.

EATONIC TODAY

FOR YOUR ACID-STOMACH



Do You Want to Know Both Sides?

Swift & Company's 1919 Year Book, just out, tells you

What Swift & Company's profits were in 1918,

The truth about the Federal Trade Commission's investigation,

Why the prices of butter and eggs are so high,

And many other vital facts.

Whether or not you agree with us after reading this Year Book, you will at least know both sides.

You will find it interesting. Americans like to hear about big things done in a big way.

You will also discover that we are merely human beings like yourself, doing in the best possible way a necessary service.

Legislation is pending in Washington; as a good American citizen you want to know both sides of this question. It concerns you, as well as one of the most important industries in the country.

Do not hesitate to send for a copy of this booklet. Your name and address are all we need.

Address Swift & Company
Union Stock Yards, Chicago, Illinois

Swift & Company, U.S.A.

"The Courage of Our Soldiers enabled them to bring home not only the Victory but also the respect and admiration of Europe"

Courage to handle only quality merchandise in these times, seems also to win public approval,

So many people have been "fleeced on sale stuff" that "full value clothing" stands out, just now; in strong contrast.

There is no question about the values we are offering in Overcoats, they are unusual.

See these for men at $27.50 30.00 32.50 and 35.00, and you'll see Overcoats that will satisfy as to wear and also as to comfort in wear.

Equal values with the men's Overcoats are the Boy's Overcoats here at 6.00 to 18

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

"Where a dollar does it's duty"

Who Said Candy?

We have just a large and choice assortment of

Holly Brand Candy

Come in and get that box of candy today

"If It's To Eat—We Have It"

CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, Props.

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in

Groceries Dry Goods
Shoes Ladies Wear
Hardware Paint

Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed.....1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger.....3:03 p. m.
435, Passenger.....8:44 a. m.

South

436, Passenger.....6:17 p. m.
1068, Passenger.....11:25 a. m.
820, Freight.....12:15 p. m.

Having received several requests to resume my calls to Klemme, I have decided to accommodate those who desire Osteopathic Treatments and will be at the Klemme Hotel Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Dr. R. W Schultz, Osteopathic Physician.

BOB SLED and Harness for sale. Inquire of E. S. Uben.

Frank Kellogg, of Garner, was a Klemme business caller Tuesday.

FOR SALE—Good work team, harness and wagon. C. M. Gram.

Mrs. Ben Swalve was a Garner caller between trains last Friday.

Big piano sale now on. C. D. Welty, Britt, Iowa.

Chas. Busch was at Garner last Thursday on business.

Floyd Ollenburg visited friends at Mason City Saturday evening.

R. A. Jorgenson was a Garner visitor Sunday.

HOUSE FOR SALE in Klemme. Inquire of Frank Kluckhohn, Garner, Iowa.

M. A. Fell of Garner, was in Klemme on business last Friday between trains.

Mrs. Wm. Schmidt, and daughter Alma, of Garner, were visiting with Klemme friends last Friday.

Walter Berggren went to Traer on business last Friday. Mrs. Bergren left Monday noon for the same place.

Jim Young, of Garner, was calling on his Klemme friends Monday between trains.

Mrs. Anna Ruka and daughter, Mrs. S. J. Kirkwood returned to Goodell Tuesday noon.

Mrs. A. L. Emerson, and daughter Aravella, visited Garner friends between trains last Thursday.

Mrs. Ralph Brower came last Friday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Schlawein.

Geo. W. Kluckhohn and Verner Tergeson wer visiting at the Frank Kluckhohn home at Garner last Thursday.

Wm. Bemis, of Garner, was in Klemme last week surveying land for Mart Bachman. He returned to Garner Friday afternoon.

Herman Reemstma and Archie Reemtsma, of Rock Rapids, Iowa, were visiting their cousin, B. A. Reemstma last Thursday and Friday.

Last week we could drive around in an auto, this week it were well if we hitched old Dobbin to the sleigh.

Don't forget that there is a dance at the Idle Hour Theatre in Klemme on every Friday night. Come and have a good time.

A card received from Ben Coobs says he is now at Camp Dodge and that Roy Newman is also there. They expect to be discharged about February 7th.

Mrs. E. A. Yahnke and children, of Windon, Minn., who have been visiting Klemme relatives and friends went to Meservey Tuesday for a few days visit before going to their Minnesota home.

CARD OF APPRECIATION

I want to sincerely thank my many friends who have been so kind in assisting me and lending a helping hand in my recent illness. I appreciate it very much and take this means of expressing my appreciation to the people of Klemme and this vicinity.

Respectfully yours,
Gilbert Schaeper.

B. A. Reemstma has an ad in this issue, look it over.

Clarence Neuberger who is taking a business course at Mason City spent Sunday with Klemme folks.

ADVERTISE

The constant drop of water wears away the hardest stone
The constant gnaw of Towser masticates the toughest bone
The constant wooing lover carries off the blushing maid
And the constant advertiser is the man who gets the trade.
Don't ever think that printers' ink is money to the bad,
To help you jail a roll of kale there's nothing beats an ad.
You can't fool the people always, they've been a long time born
And most folks know that man is slow who tooteth not his horn.

—Exchange

Art in Coins.

To the general student of art and history the greatest interest of coins arises from the fact that they form the earliest portrait gallery of royal personages. The oldest authentic portraits of English kings are those of Edward IV and Richard III.

Small Producers of Coal.

Portugal digs less coal than any other European country. Her total product of coal is only 22,000 tons a year. New South Wales digs about just twice as much coal as all Portugal produces.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Harvey went to Mason City last Wednesday.

Walt Berggren sold his Chevrolet car to Wm. Bachman last Thursday.

Dr. R. W. Schultz of Garner, was a Klemme caller Monday

Miss Norma Stroemer was a Garner visitor last Friday between trains.

See Welty's Piano ad in this issue, it will save you money on a piano.

Mrs. R. M. Thomas is reported to be on the sick list this week.

Farmers! Get your sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop, we guarantee a good, first class job.

Mrs. F. J. Wenck and Mrs. A. H. Meyer wer Mason City visitors last Thursday.

Walter Anderson returned from camp last week Thursday, having received his discharge.

Rolly Nesbit was in Klemme a few days last week helping Wm. Bemis survey some land for Mart Bachman.

W. H. Ramsay, of Garner, was a Klemme business caller Monday between trains.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnabee returned on Monday from a week's visit with friends at Britt and Hutchins.

Fred Ridder was a Mason City caller last Friday. He drove over in his car.

Mrs. Sam Larsen and Miss Hattie Yahnke were Mason City visitors last Thursday.

Miss Martha Lenz, of Charles City, came Saturday for an over Sunday visit with her sister, Mrs. A. H. Meyer

Miss Blanche Liljenberg returned to Garner last Wednesday morning after several days' visit with Klemme friends.

Isaac Sweigard, of Garner, was a Klemme caller last Wednesday and while here made a pleasant call on Ye Editor

Chas. Ax and daughter Faith, returned from Wisconsin Tuesday where they have been visiting relatives.

The Idle Hour Theatre will run picture shows only on Saturday nights hereafter. They will run six reels of good feature and comedy and the price of admission will be 15c and 25c. Let's go.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Mitchell, of Swea City, came Saturday evening for an over Sunday visit at the home of her folks, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Keraus, and also to drive their car back to Swea City.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Suckow are rejoicing over the arrival of an eight pound baby boy who arrived at their home last Friday night. Carl was around Saturday with a big smile on his face and handing out the smokes.

L. F. Katter was over to Hampton last Thursday and he says he is going to go over again pretty soon. We asked him what was all the attraction and he answered that there were lots of pretty girls there. Now look out girls!

BERGGREN BUYS CAFE AT TRAER

J. W. Berggren closed a deal at Traer last Saturday when he bought the busines and fixtures of the leading restaurant at that place. Walt took possession of the place Monday of this week. Walt is an all around good restaurant man and we are sure he will give the people of Traer an up-to-date Cafe. Here's wishing Walt the best of luck.

FOR SALE—DUROC JERSEYS

Two pure-bred registered Spring Gilts to farrow in April, at $50 each.

Two yearling sows to farrow in March, at $150 each. These are bred to Critic Sensation, the biggest spring boar in Northern Iowa. Write or phone to 3w6 F. H. Schuldt, Goodell, Iowa.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7:30 p. m.

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

We have it! What!

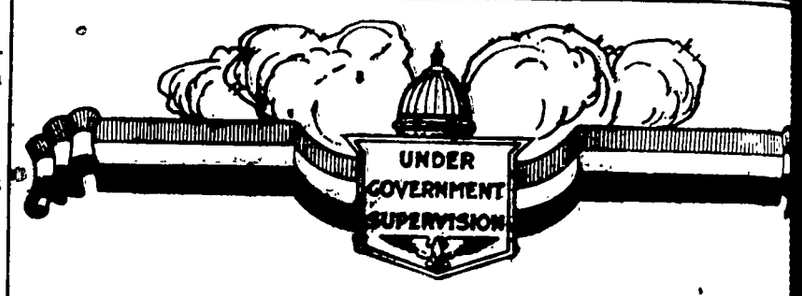
Everything

Which is found in only the best and most up-to-date Meat Markets.

You will always find a complete line of Choice Meats, Hams, Bacon, Fancy Meats and Canned Goods.

Try Our Oleomargarine---It's Fine!

J. P. Larsen & Sons



Good Times Ahead!

The battered old world freed at last from the scourge of war is swinging slowly back to normal. A year of wonderful possibilities lie before us.

Signs innumerable point to good times ahead. And we shall have them if, individually, we keep this simple formula in mind:

Stay on the job and continue to practice those economies which grim war has taught us; work, earn, save, avoid extravagance in every form.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Iowa

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

All Kinds of Hardware

We have a full line of Hardware to choose from,

Percolators, Roasters, Aluminum Ware, Cookers, Cultery, Silver-ware, Pyrex Baking-ware, etc.

STOVES and Ranges

GREUTZMACHER BROS.

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly
Telephone No. 14

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.

Successor to W. R. Bloom

DR. L. R. PARSONS

DENTIST

Office 1st. Floor State Savings Bank

Phone No. 33.

Klemme - Iowa

KLEMME TIMES

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER 24 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, February 13 1919 | $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

Rainproof Garments

IS THE WEATHER that you'll need something p you dry as well as warm. We have a big varity ter Inter-Lined Duck Coats, Cravennettes, Rubber
All Rubber Overshoes in single, two buckle and uckle, in fact, everything for your comfort. If we 't mentioned it ask for it.

Special Saturday

ig lot Men's Overalls
all sizes

$1.69

Get to know

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

"IOWA'S LARGEST CLOTHERS"

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Cloths

teen Stores. Garner, Iowa.

keep of a car is more to be considered than the original purchase price.

ou pay at first is secondary to what you get, how sts and what it costs you to maintain.

rland has a low upkeep record that cannot be beaten for the weight.

Don't buy without seeing it rviewing satisfied owners. See us about it.

PHONE 30

Miles Garage

KLEMME, IA.

NOTICE

have a sooty stove and pipes
Wyoming Coal guaranteed NO
T. A car in pens all chunks, get le it lasts

have a car of Genuine Dock ing in transit order now.

Walter F. Lau

Letter From Albert Carolus

Obermendig, Germany, Feb. 17 19.
Dear Sister.

I received your letter dated the 22th of December yesterday and was glad to hear from you. I am feeling fine at this writing and hope this letter finds you all the same. The weather here is pretty warm for this time of the year. I guess they do not have any winter out here. I sure felt sorry for Aunt Grace when I read about her. I bet you have your hands full if you are working over at their place. I hope she is better when this reaches you. You asked me in your last letter if I got all my mail. Well, I only got five letters with yours so. I would like to get letters every day for I like to read letters from home better than I did a good story book when I was home. I think Allord was certainly lucky to get home as quickly as he did. Tell him to write to me. I think I'll drop him a few lines next week.

I don't think we will get home for a couple of months yetbut it is not so bad staying here now since the war is over. We don't have to work very hard—drill about five hours a day. We have a good place to stay and a good place to sleep.

—From Albert Carolus, Co. H 38 Inf.
Am. E. F., A. P. O. 740

GRAND JURORS FOR THE YEAR.

Geo Albers, Klemme, Iowa., H. C. Armsrong, Britt, Iowa, O. J. Eineman, Woden, Ia., Fred Katter Hayfield, Ia., J. C. Kuck, Crystal Lake, Ia., Elmer Ludeke, Klemme, Liberty Twp., D. O. Minor, Garner, Garfield Twp., Jess Nace, Britt, (Orthel Twp.) Alex Ross, Garner, Ia., John Smith, Goodell, Ia., Andrew Teigen, Ellington Twp., V. A. Bloomgreen, Amsterdam Twp .

The following were the Petit Jurors drawn for the March Term of District Court:

Wm. Abel, Ell Twp, Archie Bowers,Concord Twp., John Boyken, Bi. ham Twp., Wm. Benzer, Britt Twp., Clark Bredbrenner, Ell Twp., N. C. Chelsoig, Twin Lake Twp., Chris Dieger, Avery Twp., Jas. Erickson, Britt Twp., W. C. A. Cast, Concord Twp., C. E. Galloway, BooneTwp., C. B. Gray, Magor Twp., Frank Goss, Ellington Twp., Ben Haes, Concord Twp. Fred Henschen, Ell Twp., Ray Hunaley, Boone Twp., Henery Katter, Liberty Twp., Frank Kelly, Erin Twp., Edwin Jesten, Twin Lage Twp., Mike Malek, Garfield Twp., Ole Matheson, Crystal Lake Twp., J. R. McCullen, Boone Twp., C. V. Oxley, Boone Twp., Wallace Pavey, Ell Twp., Ole Peterson , Amsterdam Twp, Art SchoneCwetter, Liberty Twp., H. J. Stille, Libetry Twp., W. C. Smidt, Twin Lake Twp., J. F Shaw, Crystal Twp., C. W. Wiles, Ell Twp.

McCULLOUGH IS BACK IN KLEMME

Re-opens Barber Shop On South Side

Last Friday Mr. G. P. McCullough came over from Sheffield where he has been working at the trade since his discharge from the army. Mr McCullough has purchased the fixtures, etc., of the former McElmurray Shop, and which Mr. McCullough was also running at the time prior to his enlistment in the army last fall

We are glad to see McCullough back in Klemme, he also assures the people that he will run an up-to-date place of business and that you can get a shave hair-cut or other work at any hour of the day.

(Sure he is just as tall as ever, drop in and take a look at him, even for curiosity.)

MART BACHMAN HAS A FINE SALE

Last Friday Mart Bachman held a Public Sale at his farm near Klemme. It is reported to us that it was one of the best sales conducted near Klemme this year and that everything brought top prices. There were buyers from far and near. A successful sale must be well advertised and Mr. Bachman certainly had his sale well advertised. His bills were printed at this shop, also he ran a full sized ad,both in the Klemme Times and the Garner Signal. Advertise your sale thru the newspapers and the results will speak for themselves.

SURPRISE PARTY ON MR. SCHLEI

Saturday evening Feb 8th, about forty friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the E M Schlei home three and a half miles southwest of Klemme as a surprise on E. M. Schlei, in honor of his twenty-ninth birthday which was the following day It is needless to say that the merrymakers made things lively there and wound up with a big "feed". They also presented Mr Schlei with a number of presents as a remembrance of the event. Mr Schlei was indeed surprised as he had no idea whatever that his friends had planned a party on him All departed at a late hour for their various home, wishing him the best of luck and many more happy birthdays to come

ENGLISH METHODIST CHURCH

Services will be held next Sunday as follows:

Morning Worship at 10:00
Sunday School at 11 00
Evening Service at 7 30

Good sermon and subjects at each service and special music in the evening. Eveyone cordially invited

A. W. Barnlund, the new minister

TO THE PATRONS OF THE KOERNER TELEPHONE COMPANY.

We want to call your attention to the Telephone Moving and Installation Orders. The latest orders are in substance as follows:

"Anyone having a new Telephone installed will have to pay $3 50 Government or Installation Fees Any patron moving into another place, where there is a telephone already installed, (and telephone service has not been interrupted) will have to pay a Government moving fee of $1.50. Anyone wishing their phone moved from one location to another, on the same premises, will have to pay all expences (time and material) but a minimum charge of $3 00 must be made.

Any of our patrons who come under the above orders, and do not want to pay the fees as per above order, notify the telephone manager and the phone will be removed without delay.

If you do not notify us, we will charge the fees to your account and collect the same with the telephone rentals.

KOERNER TELEPHONE CO.

School News

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Walter Ridder was absent from school last because of the mumps.

The ninth grade have chosen pink and green for their class colors.

Erwin Law was voted as "Yell Master but found his voice would not stand the strain, so Howard Terhufin is now school yell leader.

Orma Priebe was absent fromschool for a few days on account of sickness.

Edith Haupt was absent from school last Monday and Tuesday on account of sickness.

For the Declamatory contest, Professor Tomkins has the honor of rehearsing the Oratorical Division and Miss Shaver the Dramatic and Humorous.

Bernice Gimer was pianist last week and Edith Haupt this week.

Dalia Stromer was absent from school Thursday of last week.

Mildred Anderson was absent from school Thursday and Friday of last week.

Minnie Blank was absent from school Friday of last week.

Viola Sampson is ill with the mumps.

The Tenth Grade held a class meeting Monday after school to choose their class colors which is red, white and blue.

SEVENTH AND EIGHTH GRADE NEWS.

Milvern Ell is sick.

Mable Schwartz is on the sick list also.

Miss Warnock spent Sunday inIowa Falls.

The seventh and eighth grade are not going to give the play, Evangeline.

FOURTH, FIFTH, AND SIXTH GRADE NEWS.

Adala Schroeder was absent from school Monday on account of illness.

Awalt Yahnke was absent from school Monday forenoon

Ruth Johnson was absent from school Thursday afternoon on account of illness.

FIRST, SECOND AND THIRD GRADE NEWS

Those neither absent nor tardy the past two weeks are as follows:

First grade—Valeria Koerner, Reva Elder, Rohlin Anderson and Athniel Thiel.

Second grade—Pearl Ubben, Lois Lenz, Irene Johnson, Lela Bachman, Paul Milligan and Irwin Schwartz.

Third grade—Arthur Ubben, Lois Church, Ethel Johnson and Elmer Schwartz

Donald Furgasen has been absent from school the past two weeks because of illness

Avis Hubbard was a visitor in the Primary room Thursday and Friday of this week.

Adult Primary Room:—

The visitors from the opening of the school this year to date are; Mrs. H N. Church, Mrs. Ralph Elder, Rev. Wm P Thiel, Mrs F. A. Arnold, Mrs. G. Gruetzmacher, Mrs. Joe E. Johnson, Mrs John A. Johnson, Mrs. A. Koerner, Mrs Ed Ell and Mrs. Ubben.

YELL MASTER.

Klemme High School is organized well;
Jim is a fine fellow to yell,
With his motion and smile
He can beat all the rest yelling a mile.
He yells so awful loud,
As if he's the only one in the crowd
But stil he's a good old scout,
He's pretty nice to have about
He spits it out, sharp and short,
And now I'll tell you on the level,
Old Jim Terhufen is some sport,
Oh! Boy, he can holler like the d— -

GIVES HUSBAND HARD JOLT

Bloody Evidence Is Ketchup, but Roy Will Probably Stay Home Evenings for Awhile.

St. Louis.—Roy Colley of this city returned home from work and found his wife, Clara, stretched out on the floor with her neck and throat covered with what appeared to be blood. Colley screamed, woke his wife's sister, Miss Mary Collins, who was in the next room. Both dashed to the street, but the sister beat Colley to the police station. Colley arrived just as the sister was voicing her belief that Colley had killed his wife. Colley told the police some burglar must have murdered her.

Reserves were rushed to the house and were welcomed by Mrs. Colley, who in the meantime washed away the ketchup which had been the evidence of the "crime" and calmly explained that she "trusted she had taught Roy a lesson" and that he would stay at home evenings in the future.

QUITS "ROAD" FOR SAFETY

Throws Up Job to Avoid Danger From Trains and Shortly After Is Killed by One.

Cleveland, O.—C. A. Lidle, after 30 years "on the road" with the Erie railroad, abandoned his job to avoid danger from the trains. And every day since his wife would congratulate herself that now she could be content in the knowledge that he would come home safe from his work in the office of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Then, one day, he took a holiday and with his wife visited a cousin at Warren, O. The three went riding in the cousin's automobile. They came to a crossing.

All three were killed by a passing train.

Leaves Loot in Icebox; Conscience Stricken.

Waukegan, Ill.—A housebreaker who stole several articles of valuable jewelry from the home of Dr. and Mrs. Paul O. Berger here became conscience stricken and a few days afterward, when Doctor Berger looked in his icebox, he found the jewelry there.

Rat Stops Power Plant.

Winsted, Conn.—The power plant at Robertsville Falls which furnishes electricity for lighting here went "dead" early one morning recently. An investigation developed the fact that a rat had put the plant out of business by crawling into the terminals and short-circuiting the system.

LOU LOST HIS HAT AND ALSO THIEF

Deputy Sheriff Goes to San Francisco for Robber and Has Experience.

San Francisco.—Lou McKelly, deputy sheriff at Kelcyville, Lake county, came to San Francisco to have the police here help him find some cracksmen who robbed the post office there.

McKelly wore a big broad brimmed white hat with a rattlesnake skin for a band. It is a hat he was proud of. Said he to Detective George Hippeley:

"I have shown some of you fellows how to hunt for big game up there in the summer time. Now you show me about your hunting down here."

Then they went to dinner in a fashionable cafe. McKelly hung up his rattlesnake skin hat. They sat down and ate turkey, while McKelly explained about the way the cracksmen did the job in Kelcyville.

"I Would Like to Have That Hat."

When they had finished McKelly's big rattlesnake hat was gone. There was a row, but it was no use. The best that Hippeley could find out was that a woman at the next table had been heard to remark:

"I would like to have that hat over there to decorate John's den."

McKelly bought a brand new hat, called a "beanny," and went back to Kelcyville without the cracksmen.

GIRL, 14, AND BOY, 8, ELOPE

After 16 Hours' Absence They Return Home and Decide to Postpone Elopement.

San Francisco.—After a night of adventure, Louise Kagel, fourteen, and Billy Goodwin, eight years old, are safe at their respective homes in Oakland, after an absence of 16 hours. The children, returning home, explained that they had come to San Francisco and had spent the night in a hotel.

The girl financed the expedition with $8, which she had taken from home. Billy, it is said, had planned to get a job as newspaper vendor to support Louise. After a good night's sleep, however, they decided to postpone the "elopement" until a more favorable opportunity.

BOOTBLACK VICTIM OF "CON"

Holds Handkerchief Full of Neatly Cut Paper While Two "Friends" Get His $1,600.

Chicago.—It was the old, old story—John Samaras, bootblack, held $8,000, together with $1,600 of his own money, in Lincoln park while two "friends" of his went over to get a drink. John waited, and when they didn't come back found he had a handkerchief full of neatly cut paper, wrapped in a $10 bill—and nothing more.

Love Cost Her $22.85.

Finday, O.—Single young ladies who meet married young men in Findlay get no sympathy before the court of Mayor Shoupe. A single young woman became familiar with a certain married young man and the testimony developed that the wife of the young man had discovered the single maiden and her husband at a trysting place The mayor fined the single young lady $22.85 and hung on a suspended 30-day sentence in the Toledo workhouse.

Optimistic Thought.

All brave men love; for he only is brave who has affection to fight for.

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

Astor Place riot in New York in 1849 grew out of the rivalry between two actors of that day—Edwin Forrest, American, and W C Macready, Englishman When Forrest was playing an engagement in London in 1845 he was one night hissed in "Macbeth." He attributed this to Macready's influence, and shortly afterward, when Macready was playing "Hamlet" in Edinburgh, Forrest stood up in his box nd hissed violently This intensified the rivalry between the actors and when Macready visited this country in 1849, Forrest's friends determined to prevent his playing at the Astor Place opera house, where he was billed to appear in "Macbeth." A crowd of Forrest partisans attempted to force a way into the theater and the militia was called out to quell the disturbance, the crowd attacked the militia with bricks and stones and the militia replied with guns Before the riot ended more than 30 persons were killed and a large number were wounded. Macready canceled his engagement, and after hiding for two or three days in the house of a friend he left the city secretly for Boston, where he stayed 10 days unmolested and then sailed for England

Mrs Anna Miller, of Lancaster, Ohio, who recently celebrated her 102nd birthday, recalls selling butter at 6 cents a pound and eggs at 5 cents a dozen in the '40s, while her husband cut wheat for 37 cents a day. She still has her spinning wheel on which she spun both flax and wool for use of soldiers in the Mexican and civil wars.

The British twin screw Diesel engined vessel Glenapp, which has just been built by a Glasgow shipyard, is, according to the local press, the largest and most powerful motor vessel in the world It is of 10,000 tons dead weight and has two sets of engines, constructed by Harland & Wolff at their Glasgow works.

Mr and Mrs. George W. Frye, of Oxbridge, Me., recently celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary Mr. Frye, who is in his 92nd year, put in the early hours of the forenoon splitting wood. He can thread a needle and reads without glasses Mrs Frye, who is 86, is a great seamstress.

Ladybugs will be collected by forest service men in Oregon before the period of hibernation is ended and freed in the wheat fields of the state to fight the aphides, of which the ladybug is the natural enemy The ladybug hibernate on mountain tops and in protected canyons.

The Cutler's Company, of Sheffield, England was incorporated by act of parliament in 1624 and invested with powers "for the good order and government of makers of knives, scissors, shears, sickles and other cutlery wares."

An American firm is about to erect a factory in Brazil for the manufacture of caustic soda and other chemicals The company has already purchased 720,000 square meters of land near the city of Santos, state of Sao Paulo.

The ancient thoroughfare which for 400 years has encircled Lucca Italy on top of the city wall, and which has been officially renamed Boulevard President Wilson, is so wide that 12 horses can be driven abreast in it

The new store of the Wing On Company, which was recently opened in the principal business thoroughfare of Shanghai, China, is the second largest modern Chinese department store to be opened there.

The first published description of the "divining rod" for tracing underground streams of water was contained in Agricola's "Re de Metallica," dated 1550

Denmark farmers are doing little slaughtering of hogs as the normal stock of 2,000,000 head has been depleted until less than one-fifth of that number remains.

For the convenience of children in motion picture theaters a chair has been patented with a seat that can be raised several inches

Owing to a shortage in imported handkerchiefs the only factory of that kind in Canada has speeded up to an output of 500 dozen daily

Copenhagen engineers are experimenting with the production of turpentine from fir trees the roots and twigs being used as well as the trunks

A sudden change of weather will often put the watch out of business by causing the mainspring to break by contraction.

Holly is a corruption of the word holy In Germany it is called Christdorn, and in Denmark and Sweden Christtorn

Formerly one of the big imports of Brazil was rice She now exports five times as much rice as she ever imported.

Bhopal, the second greatest Mohammedan state in India, has been ruled over by a woman for several generations.

The business of tea blending is peculiarly British. For 100 years Mincing Lane has blended tea for the whole world.

One of the most notable developments in the demand in China for things western is the increasing call for modern sanitary appliances.

There are about 750 forms of rodents inhabiting the United States, and the annual loss they cause in food and feed crops is estimated at $50,000,000.

From very remote times the eagle has been used as a device on royal banners It was the ensign of the ancient kings of Persia and of Babylon.

According to the statistics of a New York trust company, there are 19,125 millionaires in the United States

The world knows no better climber than the Rocky mountain sheep

BUILDERS EXPECT NO LABOR TROUBLE

Iowa Association Holds Conferences With Unions and Anticipate Adjustment of All Questions.

Davenport Ia., Feb. 10.—There will be little or no labor trouble in Iowa, especially in the building trades, according to J F. Nebergall, a local contractor and a member of the committee representing the Iowa Master Builders' Association, dealing with wage adjustment.

The builders' committee already had held one meeting with labor union representatives at Cedar Rapids in regard to wage scales for the different trades, and will hold another in Des Moines shortly

"The unions have been square with us and we are going to continue being square with them," said Nebergall today "All wage requests will be settled soon, and while we may not grant everything asked, indications are there will be no trouble. Union leaders have told me they were getting a square deal and appreciate it."

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSSES TO IOWA SOLDIERS

Washington, Feb. 10.—The commanderinchief, in the name of the president, has awarded the distinguished service cross to the following named officers and soldiers for the acts of extraordinary heroism described after their names:

First Lieut. Vern A. Morgan, 355th Infantry—For extraordinary heroism in action near Beaufort, France, November 4, 1918. Although he was wounded early in the engagement by shrapnel, Lieutenant Morgan, after receiving first aid treatment, immediately returned to his company and led it throughout the day. After taking the town of Beaufort, he pushed on with his command to its objective through heavy artillery and machine gun fire, 40 per cent of his company becoming casualties. Home address: C. A. Morgan father, 424 Harrison street, Council Bluffs, Ia.

Capt. Hanford MacNider, Ninth Infantry—For the following act of extraordinary heroism in action near Remenauville, France September 12, 1918, Captain MacNider is awarded a bar to be worn with the distinguished service cross awarded him November 22, 1918 On duty as regimental adjutant, while carrying instructions to the assaulting lines Captain MacNider found the line unable to advance and being disorganized by a heavy machine gun fire Running forward in the face of the fire, this officer captured a German machine gun, drove off the crew, reorganized the line on that flank, and thereby enabled the advance to continue. Home address Charles H MacNider, father, Mason City, Ia.

WOUNDED SOLDIER WANTS NO TEARS

Council Bluffs, Ia., Feb 10 —An impromptu feature of the reception given here to the Council Bluffs soldiers who have returned from war occurred when the men in uniform were called upon the stage Inside the auditorium were 5,000 people and after a few moments' hesitation, when the vast crowd was lost in silent admiration of the boys in olive drab, cheers and tears were mingled as a half dozen or more of the soldiers hobbled to the front of the stage and stood in line, two of them having lost legs in the battle of Chateau-Thierry and Belleau Wood.

"Here, here, none of that," cried out one of the boys on crutches, as he called to friends below him who were in tears, and with a shout he manifested his great joy at being back home, by pointing the stump of his right leg at them

HOTEL COMPANY PAYS BIG JUDGMENT

Dubuque, Ia., Feb 8 —The final chapter of the case of the Central Engineering Company of Davenport, against the Hotel Julien Dubuque Company was written in the office of County Clerk M. J Grace, when a judgment of $85,000 was paid by the hotel company The case, one of the biggest law suits in the history of the local court, was instituted in January, 1917 More than 25 concerns and individuals were involved as plaintiffs in the case, while practically every member of the Dubuque bar was identified in some manner or other with its trial.

The action grew out of contracts for the erection of the Hotel Julien Dubuque

WOMAN STRICKEN WHILE AT PRAYER

Audubon Ia Feb 8.— Stricken while in prayer, Mrs. T J. Stafford, one of Audubon's oldest and highly respected citizens, died suddenly. She was apparently in good health and attended prayer meeting at the Methodist Episcopal Church. While in the act of offering a fervent prayer she was stricken with apoplexy and never arose from her knees. Other parishioners heard her labored breathing and hurried to her side, but she had lapsed into unconsciousness, from which she never rallied She was placed upon a cot and taken to her home, where she died Her husband and several children survive her.

The New York police are working upon a theory that they have a real Svengali case with a Trilby named Norma McLeod But the hypnotist is still at large

DEMENTED RECLUSE FROZEN TO DEATH

Atlantic, Ia., Feb. 10.—H. J. Funk, a recluse, 70 years old, was found frozen to death in a creek near Anita. He was clad only in a thin muslin night shirt It is thought he became deranged mentally during the night The doors to his hut were locked, but a window was open, indicating he crawled through it.

THESE COWS HAD UNUSUAL TASTES

Ate Paint Belonging to County and Now Their Owner Wants Pay Because They Died.

LeMars, Ia., Feb. 8.—A bill for $225 was presented to the board of supervisors of Plymouth county this week for the loss of three cows belonging to Henry Darville, a farmer north of town. The cause of the claim is the most unusual incident that has come to the attention of the board for some time.

It seems that employes of the county last summer were engaged in painting bridges with red paint, and while at a neighboring farm house for dinner the three cows took it into their heads to break through the fence and sample the paint. They lapped it up like a tippler does bootleg whisky. The paint proved more sudden in its effects than the whisky, however, and the cows succumbed as a result of their debauch. The bill to the county was the result, but the board of supervisors failed to allow it, claiming the cows were trespassing.

FIREMEN'S ANNUAL BALL TO BE BIG AFFAIR

LeMars, Ia., Feb. 8.—A benefit dance will be given by the LeMars fire department at the armory Thursday evening, February 20. This is an annual affair and promises to be one of the social features of the year There are many who have not danced "since Gyp was a pup" that go to these annual firemen's dances and gaze with astonishment at the wiggles and dips of the modern dance when, to their mind they could have lots better time if they would "alamand-left, right-hand-to-pardner," etc. But they all go, and the firemen have provided good music which assures the regular capacity attendance.

SECOND TRIAL FOR DEATH OF CHILD

LeMars, Ia., Feb. 8.—One of the important cases that is being tried in the district court at this session is that of Cecelia Williamson, administrator, vs Barney Bunkers. Over a year ago Mr Bunkers, who lives at Remsen, was driving an automobile through the streets of Sheldon and ran over the 9-year-old son of Mrs. Williamson. The lad was fatally injured.

A suit for damages was instituted in the district court and a verdict returned for the defendant. The case was appealed, however, and the supreme court ordered the case back to the district court for retrial.

LUTHERANS ORGANIZE TO RAISE BIG FUND

LeMars, Ia., Feb. 8 —Representatives from Lutheran churches in northwestern Iowa were in session in this city yesterday for the purpose of perfecting an organization which will assist in raising Iowa's quota of the $500 000 world emergency fund asked by the National Lutheran council

The attendance was not large but under the direction of Rev J J Vollmer, pastor of St. Johns Lutheran Church of this city, plans were made to raise the funds and the campaign will be started February 16

ATTEMPTED BRIBERY CHARGE IS LODGED

Des Moines, Ia., Feb 8 - Michael Levy and S. D Brill, of Chicago, representatives of the Michael Taber Company, arrested here January 26 by A P Sherwood chief of the department of justice agents here for offering a bribe of $1,000 to Capt L. E. Sinner, of the Camp Dodge exchange, to sell government stocks to them at a reduced price, have been found over to await the action of the federal grand jury following a hearing before United States Commissioner J E. Piper

CORRECTIONVILLE PEOPLE TO LIVE IN CALIFORNIA

Correctionville, Ia., Feb 8 The first of this week a number of Correctionville people departed for Hollywood, Cal., to make their home. They were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hart and daughter, E. E Rowe, Anthony Bower Ralph Bower and Mrs. Lillian McQuilty They were joined at Kansas City by Rev. Mr and Mrs. Chanley, who are well known here.

FAIR ASSOCIATION ELECTS NEW HEAD

Orange City, Ia., Feb 8—At the annual meeting of the county fair association R. Van Zyl resigned as president, and George Dunlap was elected to succeed him. It is probable the fair will be held the first week in September.

INFLUENZA CONTINUES TO CLAIM VICTIMS

Correctionville, Ia., Feb 8—Deaths from influenza and pneumonia in this neighborhood have been numerous during the last few days. Among those to succumb are B. B. Holcomb, Frank C. Castle and M. H. Beers.

ROCK VALLEY—At the Doherty Brothers' Poland China sale some fancy prices were paid. H M. Corwin paid $960 for one animal while J M. Peery, of Alvord, paid $500 for another The sale totaled $8,077.50.

DAVENPORT—Davenport is promised a new Masonic temple during the coming year Definite announcement to this effect is made by the various Masonic bodies of the city. The new building will cost $500,000.

REMSEN—P. C. Kurtz, the new teacher elected by the school board to take charge of the subjects in the high school heretofore assigned by Miss Elsie Willigee, resigned, has arrived and has taken charge of his work. Mr Kurtz has just been discharged from the United States navy

MENLO—Menlo is to have a $75,000 school building to house both grade and high school pupils. The building will be fireproof, a unique feature in a town of about 400 or 500 The old school is to be burned

FARM BUREAU MADE PERMANENT

Plymouth County Organization Changed From War Basis—Big Membership Campaign On.

LeMars, Ia., Feb. 8.—Because of the activities of the Plymouth county farm bureau during 1918 the production of wheat was increased 300 per cent in the country over that of the previous year, according to the report of County Agent G. L. Gunnerson, made yesterday at the annual meeting of the organization in this city. Farmers were urged to raise more wheat as a war emergency.

J. W. Coverdale, state county agent leader, was the principal speaker and told of the manner in which the farmers had responded to the nation's appeal for foodstuffs during the past year.

The Plymouth county farm bureau voted to change from a war emergency organization to a permanent organization and to join the state federation of farm bureaus. The farm bureau at present has a membership of only 740, but a campaign is being made and the mark has been set at 700 members.

Officers of the organization who were elected at the annual meeting are as follows President, A. T. Stokes; vice president, Carl Marcue; secretary, Oliver Buehler, treasurer, J. A. Watson. One member from each township in the county, to be selected later, will constitute the board of directors.

HEREFORD CATTLE BRING TOP PRICES IN IOWA

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 8.—A new top price for the sale of cows was established yesterday in the sale of Polled Hereford cattle conducted at the state fair grounds in connection with the annual meeting of the American Polled Hereford Breeders' Association. The new record was set in the sale of a cow for $2,825 by F O. Hageman, of Mount Vernon, Ill., to W. A. Wilkey & Co. of Sullivan Ind

The sale all told brought the best average sale price for cows in the history of the Polled Hereford breed, with an average price of $1,182 50 for 42 cows, $68 more than any previous average The lump price for 42 cows was $49,660 Fifty head of cattle brought an average price of $1,163 Eight bulls brought a total of $8 500 with an average of $1,062.50 per head

LEMARS ODD FELLOWS TO BUILD $10,000 HOME

LeMars, Ia., Feb. 8 —At a meeting of the I O O. F lodge held recently it was voted to build a modern lodge hall The organization owns a business lot on Main street where the building will be constructed The building will be a story and a half in height and will set up from the ground to allow for a basement which will be used for a kitchen and a place of entertainment.

The building will be of brick and will cost in the neighborhood of $10,000. It is expected work will commence about March 1

DUBUQUE NEWSPAPER BOUGHT BY REPUBLICANS

Dubuque, Ia., Feb. 88.—Joseph S. Morgan has sold his half interest in the Daily Times-Journal to Peter H. Carthy and A C Waller, who immediately transferred their interest to a syndicate of republicans. Herman Ternes former postmaster, has been placed in charge of the plant.

Morgan has been associated with the Times-Journal as half owner with John H Smith for a score of years. Smith died about two years ago and about a year ago it was reported his interests had been purchased by the other local daily.

RETURNED SOLDIERS ARE GIVEN BIG RECEPTION

Council Bluffs, Ia., Feb. 8.—The first big welcome of Council Bluffs people to returned soldiers was given last night and while entirely informal, it was on an elaborate scale.

A roster shows over 500 Council Bluffs soldiers have returned from overseas and camp of 2,200 enlisted from this city. Several boys at the reception were minus a leg and were on crutches. It was a happy occasion and although attended only by soldiers and relatives brought out a crowd of several thousand people.

PROVIDE TREATMENT FOR THE HABITUAL CRIMINAL

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 8 —Habitual misdemeanants, known to the police as "repeaters," will be sent to the state farm for indefinite terms if legislative action can be secured on the recommendation of Governor Harding's vice investigation committee.

Former Attorney General George Cosson before the committee Tuesday evening recommended this action with the establishment of cottage plan care of prisoners and adequate appropriation for maintenance.

BOY SCOUT OFFICIALS TO MEET IN DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 8.—A convention of 300 or more Boy Scout executives and leaders from all parts of Iowa and Nebraska may be held in Des Moines in about a month, according to Communications received by Gilbert H Gendall local executive, from national headquarters

TO PENSION WIDOWS OF "BORDER BRIGADES"

Des Moines, Ia., Feb 8 —The widows of the "border brigade" who protected the northern border of Iowa against the Sioux Indians in 1863 will receive a pens on of $12 if the bill recommended for passage by the appropriations committee of the house becomes a law [illegible] general assembly when [illegible] the veterans of [illegible] forgot to [illegible] services of the veterans.

UNION LEADER ORDERS LABOR BACK TO WORK

Head of Organization Instructs Men to Return to Jobs—Business Resumed on Small Scale—Union Statement.

By Associated Press.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 10—J. F. Noonan, acting president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers with offices in this city, in a telegram today directed all electrical workers of his organization on sympathy strike at Seattle, Wash., to return to work.

The telegram of Mr. Noonan said:

"The responsibility of the electrical workers is too great to permit darkness in Seattle, which enhances the possibility of lawlessness. All members should go back to their jobs."

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 10—"There is not the slightest indication of a break in labor's ranks. The strike will go on until the demands of the shipyard workers are granted. We are prepared to feed the entire city if necessary for an indefinite period."

This statement was made at 8 a. m. today by E. B. Ault, publisher of the Union Record and official spokesmen for the 70,000 strikers who, for the first time in history tied up an American city in a general strike.

Seattle, Feb. 10.—This afternoon resumption of business was going forward slowly in downtown streets of Seattle with no reported interference, although there had been no settlement by agreement in the general strike.

Some restaurants had opened and theaters were planning to give their first performances in three days. A small number of shoppers were beginning to drift into stores along the main avenues. Orderly crowds walked the streets. A few municipal cars were running under guard.

Morrison to Command.

Latest advices received by Police Chief Warren were that Major General Morrison, commander of the western department of the army, who will be in charge of troops here under discretionary power, would arrive in Seattle this afternoon.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 10.—Settlement of the general strike by agreement seemed not improbable today.

No official answer from the strike heads had been made to Mayor Hanson's ultimatum that he would resume essential industries unless the sympathetic tieup was relieved, but rumors that some members of the strike committee favored such action were given credence at the mayor's office.

A small infiltration into shops and stores was begun by business men before noon.

Termination of the general strike would not, it was believed, affect the shipyard workers. It was to back these for better wages that the 60,000 other organized workers of Seattle walked out.

"The strike is broken," declared Mayor Hanson this morning.

Municipal street cars began running on regular schedule during the morning and similar preparations were under way by the Puget Sound Traction Company's lines.

The mayor indicated he would not ask the government to step in and declare martial law unless it appeared violence might result from the resumption of normal activities, and announced he would inaugurate a system of municipal jitneys. He invited everyone with an automobile to operate it as a jitney

Every union man employed in the city lighting department had returned to his job, it was said.

FRISCO DECLINES.

San Francisco, Feb. 10.—After Frank C. Miller, secretary of the iron trades council, had denounced the Seattle strike as illegal, and John P. McLoughlin, delegate from the teamsters' union, had declared it "bolshevistic," the San Francisco labor council early today voted against a sympathetic strike to aid the Seattle strikers.

VOTE TO STRIKE.

Oakland, Cal., Feb. 10—Complete tieup of all the local shipyards became imminent today following announcement of the strike vote of the Oakland boilermakers

The craft vote 1,414 to 960 upon a general strike of all boilermakers.

Two thousand boilermakers, representing four crafts, are already out. If they remain on strike the shipyards will automatically be forced to close within a day or so.

Final decision upon the general strike rests with the Pacific coast officials.

NATION WIDE STRIKE

New York, Feb. 10 —All union bricklayers and hoisting engineers employed in various cities throughout the country on contracts held by members of the Building Trades Employers' Association of this city, will be called out on a sympathetic strike Monday morning in an attempt to enforce the demands of carpenters employed by the association for $1 a day increase in wages, William L. Hutcheson, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, announced shortly after noon today.

Suicide Instead of Marriage for Evans

By United Press.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 8.—Without sufficient money to pay for his fiance's luncheon, Richard Evans, 32, shot and killed himself here. The girl, Miss Grace Shick, admitted she planned to tell him today that their engagement to wed must be broken Evans suspected she learned to care for Charles T. Bryan wealthy Texas theatrical man convalescing here.

WORLD GOLD EXCHANGE THE RESERVE PL

Enormous Saving in Financial Transactions Proposed Federal Board— to Absorb Investments.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 10 [illegible] undertake development of an international gold exchange for the financial transactions between [illegible] without actual shipment of gold expressed today by the federal board in its report for 1918 The arrangement would be similar to now maintained by the banks with balances between the banks in United States.

The fund might be developed by the entente nations and a few neutrals, "but it is conceivable civilized countries may participants," said the board would be deposited in the government bank to change obligations, and that the fund should be limited to present commercial and exchange transactions.

This is one of the suggestions for future financial development growth of successful domestic war operations the federal reserve system, which report reviewed in detail

Saving Enormous.

"Assuming that the lending nations of the world will be at peace a long period of years," said the report "there seems to be no reason why international arrangement of this character should not operate as efficiently as our own gold settlement fund which cleared enormous transactions between distant sections of a country of large area.

"The saving of loss and expense incident to abrasion and transportation charges and interest on gold transferred will be enormous and the advantage to the commerce of the world will be incalculable."

The report disclosed extensive operations of the federal reserve system of regulation foreign exchange transactions to prevent depletion of enemy account. Agents were maintained at all cable offices and cooperated with other government agencies to detect enemy transactions. Total purchase and sales of domestic and cable exchanges between dates in the United States from February 20, 1918, when the regulations became effective to December 31, were [illegible] 000,000 of which $3,737,000,000 per cent was exchanged on Great Britain.

New Reserve Panetrone.

The report told in crystal terms how the federal reserve system in this country functioned in connection with the treasury in the great war tasks of raising Liberty loans, floating certificate issues to stabilize trade balances, discounting bills of commercial paper, assisting in the rationing of capital and similar activities.

"The ability of the country to absorb investments has proved far greater than anticipated," said the report, and our credit structure, although greatly expanded, is unshaken. We have had no emergency problems, and conditions are comparable with those which existed at the close of the Civil war"

The board predicted that the credits now concentrated in this country soon would be extended to the world with the development of foreign trade. Attention was called to the fact that even during the great strain the gold reserve maintained against federal reserve notes never fell below 60 per cent, though only 40 per cent was required by law This was interpreted as indicating a better condition necessary as a preliminary to financing of foreign trade.

Post-War Warning.

Warning against danger in the post-war readjustment, the board said:

"Drastic contraction would be followed by results no less disastrous than those which would attend unwise expansion, and the process of deflation must therefore be permitted to work itself out in a gradual and orderly manner. Discount rates should have been based on the rates charged by the government issues must for the time being continue with regard to treasury requirements, but where war obligations of the government have been digested and the liquid assets of the federal reserve banks have been restored to a commercial basis, rates can be established with reference to the commercial requirements of the country."

Excellent Record.

An idea of the service rendered by the federal reserve system in connection with war financing may be had from the report that since the system began $31,452,000,000 of Liberty bonds and certificates of indebtedness have been subscribed for and collected through the 12 reserve banks.

Rediscount operations between reserve banks during the year reported as $655,033,000.

Despite the big gain on the part of the system the so-called free gold against plus of reserve on December 31, was reported as $528,800,000. The gross net earnings of the banks were $55,446,000 last year.

The federal reserve system includes 938 state banks and trust companies, with aggregate capital and surplus of $750,000,000, and aggregate reserve of only $7,339,000,000, the report reported.

Now, that the building operations in abeyance during the last few years are about to be resumed, there is apprehension lest the next decade see an over-standardization of [illegible] architecture, says the Christian Science Monitor

Warning to the American people many German officers are planning to come to the United States to evade payment of war taxes at home, says Maj. Monson Morris, of the British infantry upon his arrival on the transport Siboney tion of United States to Association of Na- May Complete Work oday, Is Report.

ERN LEAGUE TER AMERICA

t 1919, By United Press.

0. 10.—Organization of the ations, as favored thus far mittee preparing the draft, be similar to the consti- e United States, according ns given today by Prof. Larnaude, one of the French (the committee.

tive committee will lead instead of a president and will exceed those of the ief magistrate. Under the committee come the judicial tive branches. The execu- udicial bodies will sit per- while the legislative will ually unless specially con-armament for all member been approved. Larnaude and sea forces will be con- the league, except in the estic matters.

ear Before Tribunal.

nations will be summoned league tribunal. In the ion refuses to abide by the ruling and ignores all other t effecting a settlement, it to allow the disputants to arently, the opinion is held time the judiciary hands dings sufficient airing will given the trouble by the so that public opinion and weights inevitably will war.

eulogised President Wil- courtesy in presiding at ee's sessions.

10.—The peace conference on a society of nations ex- h its work at the session 10:30 a. m. today. At a last night the committee wo-thirds of the draft of

0. 10.—Owing to the amount connection with the league that is yet incomplete, Pres- probably will defer his home—scheduled for next February 16 or 17.

e of nations commission ial meeting at 10:30 this an effort to speed work on the constitution.

UP ARMISTICE.

United Press.

. 10.—The supreme war this afternoon to resume the terms for the exten- armistice which will be Marshal Foch and his es, February 17. It was provisions for further the economic blockade of uld be enacted.

MAY LEVY F A MILL TAX

e Passes Bill Permit- to Acquire Parks Memorial Cites— Road Measure.

a, Ia., Feb. 10.—The Iowa passed the Weaver bill al- to levy a one-half mill tax to pay for park, art or . This enactment is de- rmit communities an easy hase and build memorials heroes in the late war.

Stoddard put in a measure vocational schools by state aid of $70,000 for ng June 30, 1920, and $84,- eding years.

tant bills of reactionary eared in the house today. g elections and the other by Mayne, of Paloalto, mpletely to do away with de primary, substituting y convention of all state, county officers. The only ed by primary would be fficials, and at the same re chosen, the second Sat- June, precinct primaries d to elect delegates of the ntions.

ill was by Wilson, of Ma- proposes to put the control ent and maintenance of ds under county boards provides an additional mills for improvement and ragging for use upon these

ITALIAN CREDIT.

Associated Press.

Feb. 10.—New credits of Italy and $40,000,000 for established today by the is raised the total credits illies to $8,674,824,000, this ,325,000,000 for Italy and Belgium.

AVIATORS KILLED.

Associated Press.

Feb. 10.—Three naval fly- Duane Rutledge, Robins, Mingle, Tyrone, Pa., and mack, East Boston, Mass., ast night when their hy- from the training station lost into the bay and was

Association of Audubon ming to build a fountain Yellowstone beauty for thirsty recognition of the fact that government bird reservations ed by President Roosevelt

BOLSHEVISTS PROPOSE ARMY OF 8,000,000.

Bolsheviki forces swarming through streets of Moscow

PACKERS SOUGHT TO BUY HENEY, CHARGE ATTORNEY SUBMITS

By United Press.

Washington Feb. 10—Packers tried to bribe Francis J Heney to work for them with offers of "more business than he could handle," he charged today at the Senate packers' hearing.

Heney accused Levy Mayer, counsel for Armour & Co., of trying to buy him at a recent session of the Senate inquiry.

"I think such a man should be disbarred from practicing law," said Heney. "I make this charge now while Mayer is in the city. The offer was made at a previous hearing of this committee.

"I had asked Mayer regarding some phase of the hearing when he made the offer in a low tone.

"'You work for our interests and I'll give you more business than you can handle,' were his words."

Walsh Was Included.

Heney also said that Mayer included Frank P. Walsh, former member of the war labor board in the offer.

Henry Veeder, counsel for Swift & Co., the witness said, thought Mayer should be given an opportunity to tell his story.

"That's why I make this charge now when Mayer is in the city," said Heney.

Mayer will appear before the committee Monday to give his opinion on the Kendrick bill when he will be asked to give his explanation.

Fought Resolution.

Heney charged that the packers fought the efforts of the cattle growers to raise a fund in the interests of the Borland resolution asking for an investigation of the packers.

"The packers used the influence of their banks to prevent the cattle growers from contributing, and we have documents to prove it," he declared.

"That's not true; the packers could not and did not influence the cattle raisers," retorted Veeder.

"The live stock association spent more money and had a bigger lobby in Washington than did the packers," said Veeder.

BUTTE IS BROKE; CAN'T PAY WAGES

Fireman and Police Quit—I. W. W.'s Turn Back Men Trying to Go to Work.

Butte Mont., Feb. 10—Following plans agreed to at mass meetings held last night at the call of the local I. W. W. hundreds of striking miners, some of them armed, turned back men who started for work this morning with the result that mining in the district is practically suspended this morning.

Mechanics whose unions have taken no action in respect to a strike were held up and sent back from the mines by the strikers. A particular effort was made to prevent hoisting engineers from going on the job. No arrests have been made by the police or members of the sheriff's force.

Soldiers of the 14th regiment of infantry were later sent to the mines, and are now guarding the approaches to the various properties. Their assistance, however, came an hour after the morning shift was to go to work, and by the time they were patrolling the streets leading to the mines, the pickets had succeeded in turning back the miners who wanted to work. The force of United States soldiers stationed at Butte numbers 90.

The strike inaugurated by the I. W. W. here has no connection with controversy between the city and the police and fire departments. The policemen and firemen were about to quit their positions because they could not cash their salary warrants, and in anticipation of this the council late yesterday afternoon ordered patrolmen and firemen discharged, dating from next Monday.

Last night local bankers and business men arranged to cash salary warrants of firemen who have been notified of that action, and it is expected that the council will rescind its action in respect to that department.

SEVERE PROHIBITION MEASURE SUBMITTED

Secretary of the Treasury Glass Files Bill That Is Decidedly Drastic.

By United Press.

Washington, Feb. 10.—A bill to enforce wartime prohibition more comprehensive and drastic than proposed by the Anti-Saloon league was sent to the House judiciary committee today by Secretary of the Treasury Glass.

The machinery for enforcement created in the bill would probably be continued for enforcement of constitution prohibition.

The Glass bill provides for appointment of a law enforcement commissioner in the treasury department, the right to search buildings where it is suspected that liquor is kept and the right of a person injured by any intoxicated person to sue for damages the seller of liquor.

Other provisions are the same as those of the Barkley bill, backed by the Anti-Saloon league, providing penalties and for injunctions to close places where liquor is sold as public nuisances.

The largest dry dock in the United States was opened last week at the Portsmouth, Va., navy yard.

It is reported that the strikers in Belfast claim they will not allow the owners of works to visit their plants without a permit from the strikers' committee

MINERS REELECT HAYES PRESIDENT

Gets Majority of 55,000 Votes Over Walker—John L. Lewis, Springfield, Vice President.

Indianapolis Ind., Feb. 10—Frank J. Hayes was reelected president of the United Mine Workers of America, it was announced today, with 114,355 votes.

John H. Walker, Danville, Ill., his only opponent, received 88,507. Others elected were:

Vice President John L. Lewis, Springfield, Ill.

Secretary and treasurer, William Green, Coshocton, Ohio.

TURKISH GOVERNMENT ARRESTS PROFITEERS

Former Vice President of Turk Parliament Among Those Under Arrest For War Offenses.

By Associated Press.

Constantinople, Jan. 31.—The Turkish government has arrested about 40 members of the union and progress party, who are charged with profiteering, the massacre of Armenians, the deportation and spoliation of Greeks and the ill treatment of allied prisoners of war. Those under arrest include Hussein Djhhid Bey, former vice president of the Turkish parliament

EISNER CHARGES WAR TO KAISER

Bavarian Minister, Admitting Investigations Still Incomplete, Blames Wilhelm.

By Associated Press.

Berne, Feb 10—There is still a vast amount of material to be examined in German quarters regarding responsibility for the outbreak of the war, said Kurt Eisner, the Bavarian premier, in discussing this subject with the correspondent today.

"The entire archives are as yet unexamined," Herr Eisner said, "but already much material has been found in the secret archives of the Munich diplomatic correspondence proving Germany's guilt, her responsibility for beginning the war. For instance, there is a record of a conversation between King Ludwig, of Bavaria, and Count Von Schoen, the former German ambassador at Paris, which was found among Count Von Hertling's papers, which shows that Germany desired the war. The conversation took place in August, 1914, the king telling the ambassador that this war must have a different result from that of the war of 1870 and that Belgium must be annexed to Germany.

Part of Program.

"To this," continued Herr Eisner, the king added: 'Germany must also acquire the mouth of the Rhine even at the expense of the violation of Dutch territory. Furthermore, Bavaria must be given a port of Alsace-Lorraine, in the latter Bavaria would renounce her territories in Baden and Hesse.'"

Emperor William was undoubtedly directly to blame for precipitating the war, Herr Eisner said, but the military caste was responsible to a greater extent for bringing it about. They must all be tried, but by a German tribunal, he insisted. He is in favor of all stolen property being restored and the robbers severely punished.

MEXICAN CITY IS LOOTED BY REBELS

Commander of Garrison Hanged While Soldiers Meet Similar Fate.

By United Press.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 10—The plaza in Tacambro, Mex., was the scene of a bloody massacre of federal soldiers when rebels under Jesus Sintora looted the town, according to advices reaching here today. Sintora himself beat Colonel Pulido, shot his, and then caused the body to be dragged through the streets and strung up to a tree. Ignacio Chavez, wealthy merchant, met the same fate. Three federal soldiers held out for seven hours, but were finally taken and hanged.

NO INTERFERENCE IN PORTUGUESE TROUBLE

Report That British Warships Were Standing Off Oporto to Prevent Shelling, Is Denied.

By United Press.

Lisbon, Feb. 7.—(delayed)—The report that the British warships now off Oporto will prevent Portuguese government vessels from bombarding the city is untrue, it was officially stated today.

Oporto is the stronghold of the Portuguese royalists. It is being blockaded by government naval forces.

NEW BILL ON WHEAT.

By United Press.

Washington, Feb. 8.—A bill conferring upon the president broad powers to put into effect the $2.23 wheat guarantee was introduced in the House today by Chairman Lever of the House agriculture committee

370,000 TRIALS BY THE ARMY COURTS

That Number of Court Martials Invoked During Period of the War.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 8.—There were more than 370,000 trials by court martial of American soldiers during the war, Secretary Baker informed the Senate yesterday in response to a resolution of Senator Borahe of Idaho. diers. Mr Baker said that 22 000 cases diers. Mr Baper said that 22 000 cases were heard by general courts martial, and the remainder by special and summary courts.

Secretary Baker said it would be difficult to send the Senate records in all the cases as many of them were in France but that he would furnish all satisfaction available.

MUST GO THROUGH WITH SLAV PLAN

American Attitude Is That Conference With Bolshevists, Since Acceptance Should Be Held.

By United Press.

Paris, Feb. 8.—The position of the Russian anti-bolshvist factions, in view of the soviet government's acceptance of the associated powers proposal for a general conference at Prinkopos, was regarded as untenable in certain quarters today.

The American delegates attitude in this regard was understood to be that the soviet's acceptance necessitated the associated powers going through with the conference regardless of the other Russian elements

On the other hand, a high French official declared he would oppose his government's participation in the conferences unless the other factions are represented But the British were said to side with the Americans and it was believed that all opposition allied as well as Russian anti-bolshevist would be overcome, and that the conference would be fully representative

Peek At Bolshevism.

How the Americans view the Prinkipos conference is evidenced by the expression of one of the delegates, who said "we are going to find out what this bolshevist business really means"

A British delegation voiced the same sentiment.

IOWA MAN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF BODY

Hoxie, of Waterloo, Heads National Commerce Body In Recent Election.

Chicago, Feb 8—A withdrawal by America from international relationships was branded as national cowardice by Harry A Wheeler, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, in addressing the 15th annual meeting of the Western Fruit Jobbers' Association.

Mr. Wheeler urged that the economies which resulted from a suspension of the Sherman anti-trust law by common consent during the war be retained.

The members expressed their approval of the speaker's condemnation of the government ownership of railroads.

The following officers were elected: President, Ralph J. Hoxie, Waterloo, Ia.; vice presidents, A. R. Currie, Butte, Mont., A. D. Hitz, Indianapolis, C R. Godding, Chicago; treasurer, Charles G. Trimble, Omaha, Neb.; secretary, W. D. Tidwell, Denver, Colo.

The association will hold its next annual meeting in San Francisco.

FAVOR HARD SURFACE ROADS

Watertown, S. D., Feb 8.—Hard surfacing of roads, particularly the principal highways in South Dakota as rapidly as the project can be financed, was favored at the opening of the annual meeting of the Twin Cities, Black Hills and Yellowstone Highway Association here yesterday Delegates are in attendance from points from Granite Falls, Minn., to the Black Hills, numbering over 100 The patrol system of road upkeep was advocated in the opening talks, with the suggestion that the patrol also act as a police force to enforce traffic rules and prevent unnecessary damage to the highways.

ALBANIANS PROTEST.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Albanians in the United States alarmed at the seaming progress made by the Greek and Italians in their settlement of conflicting interests in northern Epirus before the peace conference are urging a hearing of Albanian representatives at Paris before this matter is disposed of. Madame Christo Dako, president of the Albanian national party in the United States, has sent a telegram along those lines to the chairman of the supreme council in Paris.

CRUISERS AT HAMBURG.

By United Press.

Amsterdam, Feb. 8.—Another American cruiser has joined the cruiser Chester and destroyer Aylwyn at Hamburg, where the allied commission is supervising transfer of German merchant shipping to the Americans, it was reported in dispatches received yesterday today The commission is said to have been well received.

SEATTLE MAYOR GIVES WARNING TO STRIKERS

Threatens to Turn the City Over to the Government If the Strike Is Not Over By Saturday Night.

By Associated Press.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 8.—Mayor Ole Hanson today issued the following notice to the strike committee:

"I hereby notify you that unless the sympathetic strike is called off at 8 a. m., February 8, I will take steps to operate all essential industries and place this city under control of the federal government."

Washington, D C., Feb 8—The national war labor board may take definite action late this afternoon to settle the Seattle strike, W Jett Lauck, secretary of the board announced.

It was intimated, however, that should the situation continue or grow more serious, President Wilson will be appealed to to use his influence by cabre, as he did in the New York harbor strike

By United Press.

Washington, Feb. 8—Authorization of federal troops to preserve order in the Seattle strike was expected to be followed today by government intervention to relieve the situation. Baker ordered the commandant of Camp Lewis to furnish as many troops as he believes necessary.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 8.—With armed troops from Camp Lewis waiting under cover within and just outside the city, the situation here had reached a high stage of tensity on the second day of the general strike, although no violence had been reported early in the day

Eleven truck loads of soldiers had been hurried in during the night, it was officially stated, some being quartered in the armory and some in hastily improvised barracks.

Although an overwhelming desire for martial law pervaded the city, outside the ranks of the 60,000 men on general strike, no soldiers had been seen on the streets up to noon today.

Sailors at Bremerton navy yard are reported standing by under stacked arms and issuance of Liberty passes has been stopped

Following the order from Washington yesterday to stop all troop demobilization, hundreds of soldiers awaiting discharge were today applying for transfer to line companies in expectation of being assigned to patrol duty.

Meantime the streets were practically deserted, only a few shops attempting to transact business

Food Famine Serious.

With hungry hordes swamping the 12 commissaries maintained by the strikers throughout the city and the food situation hourly becoming more serious, strike committees were at noon conferring on the proposal to open up all unionized restaurants under direction of the cooks and waiters. In that event the striking teamsters promised to haul supplies.

Meantime thousands of men and women who had failed to make emergency provisions were walking the streets vainly endeavoring to get even a sandwich The few non-union restaurants which had kept open yesterday were locked today for no supplies were moving Resembles a Village.

The light plant was being operated under police protection and telephones, water, gas, and other public utilities had not been cut off as had been feared last night.

The general tieup imposed by the strikers in their sympathy walkout with the 30,000 shipyard workers seeking higher wages, had today transformed Seattle, a city of 400,000 from a bustling metropolis, into the condition of a country village.

Hotel guests were camping out in their rooms, eating tinned food and depending on native resourcefulness to supply their elementary needs.

Already the city was beginning to have a foretaste of hunger although the strikers have arranged to feed 100 000 people twice a day in their soup kitchens, according to the commissary committee report. Milk for babies and invalids was being sold under doctors certificates at stations designated by the strikers.

Governor Promises Aid.

Governor Lister, although ill at Olympia, has promised quick aid in case city officials are unable to maintain order.

A wireless equipment has been installed on the capitol at Olympia in order that if wire communication with this city is interrupted, Lister may be kept informed.

Lone Street Car Runs

One street car, a government mail car, plies up and down Fourth avenue. On it are prominently displayed signs telling of its duty. Troops guard it. This is the only car on the municipal line, although Mayor Ole Hanson has asserted this line shall operate.

Newspapers were all but paralyzed with the other industries. The Star alone, of the three evening papers, got out an edition last night With the newsboys on strike there was no means to circulate it adequately The citizens are thus presented with a strike unparalleled in America's history and means of learning details of the trouble are withdrawn

Stereotypers returned to the Star yesterday afternoon after they had walked out from all the newspapers as individuals. They made plates for the edition, and then walked out again saying they were done For the Union Record, published as the official organ of the striking unions did not publish it as usual notice however the plan of one of other papers to [illegible] attempted to break the strike [illegible]

A good time to come to Patton Brother for Boy's Overcoats.

Is aft r you've been around and seen the town--reviewed the values and scrutinized the price tickets,

One mother told us just lately that coming here for hes son's overcoat after looking around, was like getting back to mothers cooking after a year of Restaurant lffe.

We thanked her for the striking contrast and turned it over to our advertising department--who passes it along to you in their appeal to have you see our Boy's Overcoats that for value and varity, snap and selection, have no peer or comparison to fear from competition.

See the great line we offer at 3.00 anb 6.00
Don't forget to see both lines those at $3 and those at 6.00 •
If you look you'll see values you did'nt know were to be had:

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

Where a dollar does it's duty"

Who Said Candy?

We have just a large and choice assortment of

Holly Brand Candy

Come in and get that box of candy today

"If It's To Eat---We Have It"

CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, Props.

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in
Groceries Dry Goods
Shoes Ladies Wear
Hardware Paint
Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed.....1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger.....3:03 p. m.
*35, Passenger.....8:44 a. m.

South

436, Passenger.....6:17 p. m
1068, Passenger.....11:25 a. m.
& 820, Freight.....12:15 p. m.

Having received several requests to resume my calls to Klemme, I have decided to accommodate those who desire Osteopathic Treatments and will be at the Klemme Hotel Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Dr. R. W Schultz, Osteopathic Physician.

BOB SLED and Harness for sale. Inquire of E. S. Uben.

Floyd Ollenburg visited friends in Mason City Sunday.

John Bachman and family moved on the Mart Bachman farm Monday.

B. A. Reemstma has an ad in this issue, look it over.

M. A. Fell of Garner was in Klemme Tuesday on business and also looking over our high buildings.

Frank Kellogg of Garner was in Klemme Tuesday doing electrical work.

Floyd Ollenburg and "Zip" McCullough drove over to Garner Monday evening to see a show.

Jas. Carr, Walt Pritchard and several other Garner men attended the Mart Bachman sale last Friday.

Henry Meade and Floyd Fiero of Garner were Klemme visitors last Friday.

Miss. Aravella Emerson was confined to the house a few days the past week with an attack of appendicitis. At this writing she is quite improved.

Elmer Schmidt went to Garner Saturday for an over Sunday visit with his mother and sisters, returning to Klemme Tuesday.

E. M. Schlei and Albert Yahnke sawed a lot of wood for Fred Haupt Monday. They had a gasoline saw mill and made short work of the wood pile.

J. B. Anderson was in Des Moines several days the past week attending a convention of the dealers and agents of the Adel Brick and Tile company. Mr. Anderson is their representative in this territory.

Don't forget that there is a dance at the Idle Hour Theatre in Klemme on every Friday night. Come and have a good time.

P. M. Grieesmer returned last Friday evening from Colorado Springs, Colorado, where he had been a couple of weeks. Mr. John Gruetzmacher's daughters, Esther and Mrs. P. M. Griesemer will remain for some time as Miss. Esther went there in the hopes of benefiting her health.

Oscar Wenck, who was wounded in France several months ago, and who was sent to FortDes Moines for treatment, was home on a five days furlough which he spent visiting his folks in Garner. Oscar has many experiences to relate of his fight with the Huns. He is well known here as he is a brother to our mayor, F J Wenck.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE INCORPORATED TOWN OF KLEMME

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Office of Mayor. I appeal to those citizens who are interested in a clean administration, good morality and decent citizenship.

Yours truly,
2-12-19 Chas W Stiehl

NOTICE

Applications will be received in the office of the County Auditor up until 12 o'clock noon, February 20th, 1919, for position as Steward and Stewardess of the Hancock County Home. Term commencing April 1st, 1919.

CHRIS JACOBS,
4w County Auditor.

ADVERTISE

The constant drop of water wears away the hardest stone
The constant gnaw of Towser masticates the toughest bone
The constant wooing lover carries off the blushing maid
And the constant advertiser is the man who gets the trade.
Don't ever think that printers' ink is money to the bad,
To help you jail a roll of kale there's nothing beats an ad.
You can't fool the people always, they've been a long time born
And most folks know that man is slow who tooteth not his horn.
—Exchange

Speakin' of Boys.

"Yes," said the almost-philosopher, "there's a heap of difference in the attitude parents take in raisin' boys. Some folks are content to bring 'em up to be good men for the boys' own sakes. Others selfishly harp about wantin' the boys to be a credit to their parents. This may be all right, but it seems to me the only thing the old folks can borrow on that kind of credit is trouble."

Kettle That Really Sings.

A Japanese inventor has provided an iron kettle which bursts into song the moment the kettle begins to boil. The sounds are produced by steam bubbles striking against musical metallic bars, just above the water

Dr. R. W. Shultz of Garner was in Klemme Monday and yesterday.

H. V. Reed of Garner was in Klemme Monday on business.

This part of Iowa is again enjoying some California weather.

Joe Lawhorn of Garner was a business caller in Klemme last Friday.

E. M. Schlei drove over to Garner on bnsiness Tuesday.

Oscar Musfelt was a Garner visitor Saturday evening and Sunday.

The dance at the Idle Hour theatre last Friday evening was well enjoyed and a large crowd was in attendance.

Mrs. Wm. Hampell and sister, Miss. Hyde, returned Tuesday from a visit in Benton county.

Mrs. C. J. Kraus, and daughter, Mrs. Mart Bachman, drove over to Garner on business Tuesday.

Farmers! Get your sale bills printed at the Times Print Shop, we guarantee a good, first class job.

G. P. McCullough, the barber, decided to exercise his lengthy legs last Sunday morning by walking to Garner to visit his folks.

Louis Strieby and family went to Garner yesterday for a short visit with his folks there and will go to Forest City Friday for a short visit with Mrs. Streiby's folks at that place.

M. O. Hocum left last Friday evening for Des Moines, being called to that place by the serious illness of his mother who is in a hospital there. Mr. Hocum returned to Klemme Monday evening.

Mrs. Sam Harvey and Neota Ridder were passengers to Garner Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Harvey went there to meet her husband who has been taking treatments at the Park Hospital at Mason City.

Mrs. H. L. Smith of Ft. Atkinson, Wisconsin, came a week ago last Friday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sampson. She left for her home last Thursday and was accompanied to Garner by her father, Louis Sampson and daughter, Viola.

The past few weeks have been moving days in Klemme. Chris Blumer has moved into his new house on East Main street, A. D Gimer has moved into the Blumer residence, Wm. Trafford has moved into the house north of the Joe Johnson residence. Fred Schichting will move into the house vacated by Trafford. We believe these are all the changes this week.

PLEASE NOTICE

New phone installed, write it in your phone book:
Western States Lbr. Co.----phone49.
Koerner Telephone Co.

Avoid Brooding.

It is a salutary thing to regret past errors and sincerely resolve not to fall into them again, but it is a foolish and most dangerous thing to brood over mistakes we have made, sins we have committed. Brooding cannot possibly lead to healthy-minded action. Its tendency, rather is to develop a state of mind that may pass over into insanity. Yet many people indulge in this dangerous luxury of brooding. Particularly is this likely to be the case with people to whom life has not been as kind as it might have been.

Governmental Science.

The science of government is only a science of combinations, of applications and of exceptions, according to times, places and circumstances.—Rousseau.

FOR SALE—DUROC JERSEYS

Two pure-bred registered Spring Gilts to farrow in April, at $50 each.

Two yearling sows to farrow in March, at $150 each. These are bred to Critic Sensation, the biggest spring boar in Northern Iowa. Write or phone to 3w F. H. Schuldt, Goodell, Iowa.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7:30 p. m.

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

We have it! What!

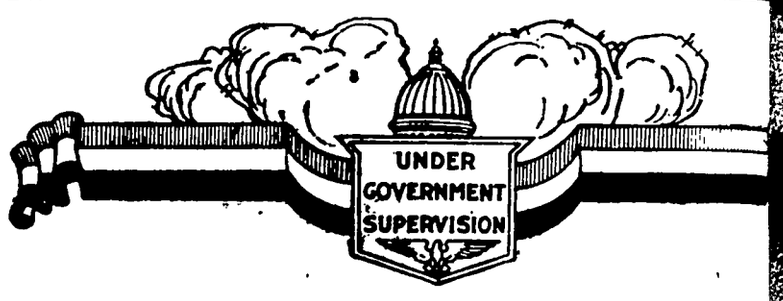
Everything

Which is found in only the best and most up-to-date Meat Markets.

You will always find a complete line of Choice Meats, Hams, Bacon, Fancy Meats and Canned Goods

Try Our Oleomargarine---It's Fine!

J. P. Larsen & Son



What Our Federal Reserve Membership Means To You

In joining the Federal Reserve System this has become member of the largest and strongest finsncial institution on earth.

The security of our depositor's funds is assured by direct supervision of the U. S. Treasury Dept., our counts being subject to at least five examinations a year.

The enormous cash reserves of the system offer un degree of protection to all Member Banks as well making it possible for them to always supply their trons needs in the matter of loans.

As a patron of this bank you share an these un benefits, Why not join us?

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Iow

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

All Kinds of Hardware

We have a full line of Hardware to choose from,

Perculators, Roasters, Aluminun Ware, Cook
Cultery, Silver-ware, Pyrex Baking-ware, etc.

STOVES and Ranges

GREUTZMACHER BRO

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefull

Coal Hauling Done Promptly
Telephone No. 14

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We willbuy Hogs and Grain six days n the week at Highest Market Price.

Successor to W. R. Bloom

DR. L. R. PARSO
DENTIST
Office 1st Floor State Savi
Phone No. 48.
Klemme Iowa

PUBLIC AUCTION!

I have decided to move to town I will hold a Public Sale on farm 2½ miles t, 2 miles south of Klemme; 2 miles west, 4 miles north of Goodell, on--

Tuesday, Feb'y. 18

Sale to begin at 11:00 A. M. Sharp

Head of Horses 6

bay mare 6 yrs old, wt 1500; 1 bay mare 13 yrs old, wt 1150. Ed. Schoen- ter will sell four head of horses on this sale consisting of one team of geldings 3 d 5 yrs old, wt 3200; one of black and bay mares wt 3000; one set harness.

5 Head of Cattle 15

milk cows, four will be fresh soon; 2 yearling steers; 2 yearling heifers; 3 calves; 2 lls, six and 8 months old.

FARM MACHINERY ETC.

ot Deering Binder; Deering corn binder; 5 foot Deering grass mower; Moline corn planter, nearly new with 120 wire; Deere riding cultivator; manure spreader; 16 inch David Bradley sulky plow nearly new; 12 inch Satley plow; 14 inch Deere walking plow; endgate seeder; 3 section steel harrow and cart; one narrow tire wagon triple box; one steel wheel low wagon with rack; one bob sled nearly new; corn crusher; 2 hole corn sheller; corn grader, seed tester, seed corn dryers; 6 ft round stock tank, new; 110 ft new galvanized pump pipe 1¼ in.; m tank and cans; Economy cream separator, 600 lb. capacity; 3 sets farm harness, one nearly new; hay slings; d stone; low down handy cart; about 4 ton hay in barn; some corn in crib; engine trucks; cement mixer; 2 gas barrels 55 and 60 gallon; 30 gal. kerosine bbl., fanning mill; Dain hayloader; McCormick; surrey; etc., etc.

About 150 Good Chickens

FREE HOT LUNCH AT NOON

RMS—All sums of $10 and under, cash. Over $10 a credit of 10 months time will be given on approved notes ring interest at 8 per cent from date of sale. No property to be rmoved until settled for.

Fred Schlichting

l. B. A. Reemstma, Auct. Times Print Shop, Klemme, Ia. Klemme State Savings Bank, Clerks

BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

ORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16. Residence Phone No. 52

The City Dray Line

is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

'N THE DISTRICT COURT OF IO. A, IN .ND FOR HANCOCK COUNTY

March Term, 1919

ORIGINAL NOTICE

Art Lackore,
Plaintiff,
vs.

The unknown claimants to the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of the Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section Three (3), Township Ninety-seven (97), North of Range Twenty-four (24), West of the 5th P. M., Hancock County, Iowa, and William Luckrse, Wm. Lackore, James Lackore, William Lackore, Mrs William Lackore, Rose Lackore, Peter Lackore, Emma Lackore, John Lackore, Rozina Deitz, Fred Deitz, Cora Steineker, August Steineker, Rosina Dietz, Fred Dietz, A. B. Stinicker, Cora Stinicker, and the unknown heirs, devisees, grantees, spouses, and claimants under the aforesaid defendants and all parties claiming any right, title, or interest by, thru or under the named defendants or unknown claimants or any of them.
Defendants.

To said defendants and to unknown claimants of said land described in caption hereof:

You and each of you are hereby notified that there is now on file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of Hancock County, Iowa, the petition of plaintiff in the aforesaid cause, claiming in substance that he is the absolute owner in fee simple of the Northeast Quarter (NE¼) of the Southeast Quarter (SE¼) of Section Three (3), Township Ninety-seven (97), North of Range Twenty-four (24) West of the 5th P. M., in Hancock County, Iowa, that he and party under whom he claims title under mesne conveyance have been in hostile, open, and undisturbed possession of said land under color of title and claim of right by upwards of twenty years last past. That such possession has been adverse to all defendants herein and to all unknown claimants. That the named defendants have agreed by contract to Quit Claim Deed to plaintiff, but though requested, have wholly refused to do so. That aforesaid defendants or unknown claimants have no right, title or interest in and to said premises but have apparent claim thereto which plaintiff desires to remove, being clouds upon his title. That the names and residences of unknown defendants are unknown to plaintiff, who has sought diligently to learn same. Said petition prays that said unknown claimants of said land and all defendants named herein and all persons claiming by, thru or under them or any of them, any interest in said premises be forever barred and estopped from having or claiming any right, title or interest thereto; that the plaintiff's title in said premises be quieted in plaintiff aganst all defendants named or unnamed, and against all unknown claimants, and for other equitable relief.

For further particulars see said petition.

You are further notified that unless you appear thereto and defend before noon of the second day of the next term of said District Court of Iowa, in and for Hancock County, being the March 1919 term thereof, which convenes and will be held at the Court House at Garner, Iowa, on the 3rd day of March, 1919, default will be entered against you and judgment and decree rendered thereon as by law provided.

Dated this 29th day of January, 1919.

Gorden & Osmundson,
Attorneys for Plaintiff

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix of the Estate of Wilhelmina Terhuffen, late of Hancock County, State of Iowa, deceased All persons indebted to the estate are requested to make immediate payment, and all those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned, for allowance

Dated February, 4, A. D 1919

Emma Gibbs,
3w Administratrix

NOTICE OF FILING FINAL REPORT

In the District Court of Iowa in and for Hancock County, in the matterof the estate of August Stromer, deceased, to Charley Faust and William Faust, Legatees in the above entitled matter.

You and each of you are hereby notified that the undersigned who is duly qualified and acting Executor of the last will and testament of August Stromer, deceased, will on or before the 19th day of February, 1919, file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of Iowa in and for Hancock, County his final report asking for its approval, and for discharge from further duty or responsibility therein That said report and application for discharge will come on for hearing aforesaid at the Court House in Garner, Hancock County, Iowa, on the 4th day of March, A. D 1919, or as soon thereafter as the same can be heard, at which time and place you can appear and show cause, if any you have, why said final report should not be approved, and the undersigned discharged from further duty or responsibility therein.

Herman Stromer,
Executor.

Taking No Chances.

Two mothers, one with a five-year-old girl and the other with a seven-year-old boy, set out for a walk. For convenience it was suggested that the children walk together and ahead. Said the boy: "I will if they won't call it marry."

Butter Believed Lo

While cutting turf in Portadown, England, wor keg of butter many feet in face in perfect state of pr It is believed to have been a great number of year

Had you commenced five years ago to live on

Three Fourths of your income and deposited the

Other Fourth

in a bank you would today be on a sure road to wealth and happiness. Start that System today at this Bank.

State Savings Bank

KLEMME, I

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

CHAPTER NINE (Continued)

"It is not for me to boast of my attraction for a lad."

Count Charlier simpered a little and Gray Haviland looked at him with a look of undisguised loathing. He had never liked the Count and he even doubted the title, and especially the latter's marriage to Miss Lucy. And gradually the feeling was growing in Haviland also distrust of the man and doubt of his honesty as his self.

Did Miss Carrington give you a big present of $10,000 in United States bonds?" asked Haviland.

I didn't know," said the Count, somewhat put out by an embarrassing way.

You do know," said Haviland, the while he was intently reading and you know perfectly well that such a big present was coming.

Why did you not let me know?" asked Scofield sternly.

Because," said Gray, [illegible] Miss Carrington spoke to his words to you in confidence then or [illegible] the will developing.

Never mind," said the coroner, [illegible] Gray, that window seems to be a balcony enclosed by glass. It is easily reached from outside by a small staircase, mostly used in summer, but always available. How could Miss Carrington speak to the Count concerning the bonds and concerning her information for himself which is no secret, unless he saw them before her? And how could he be in the room in her boudoir unknown to the servants? Moreover, Mr. Coroner, I believe the glove found in Miss Carrington's hand to be the property of Count Charlier."

But," said the witness excitedly, I have repeatedly disclaimed that glove. It is not mine. I know not whose it is. I know nothing of this sad affair whatever. If the money is left to me, as I have been told, it is a surprise to me."

Surprise nothing!" murmured Haviland, but he said no more to the Count.

If my story might be told now," ventured Mrs. Frothingham.

After a moment's hesitation Coroner Scofield decided to let her tell it, as having a possible bearing on Count Charlier's testimony.

The rather stunning looking widow was fashionably dressed, and she fluttered with an air of importance as she took the stand. She related again the story she had told of the supposed burglar whom she saw leaving the living room by way of a window at 4 o'clock on Wednesday morning.

How can you be so sure it was a burglar?" asked Scofield.

Oh, he looked like one. All huddled up, you know, and his face buried between a high coat collar and a drawn down cap. And he walked slyly, sort of glided among the shrubs and trees as if avoiding notice. No man on legitimate business would skulk like that."

Might it not have been Count Charlier?" asked the coroner bluntly.

Certainly not!" and Mrs. Frothingham gave a little shriek. The Count is a slim and elegant figure; this was a stocky, burly man, a marauder, I know."

It may be," said the coroner wearily. It may be that a burglar was concealed in the house, or let in by a servant, and that he attacked Miss Carrington as she was seated at her dressing table. It seems impossible that he should have administered poison to her, however, and the conjoined circumstances may indicate collusion between——"

Between whom?" asked Inspector Brunt.

I don't know," confessed Scofield. "Every way I try to think it out I run up against an impassable barrier."

That's what I say," began Haviland, "it is a most involved case. I shall cable Carrington Doria for authority to employ an expert detective."

Why cable him?" asked Paul me. I am equally in authority now. Carr and myself each receive half the residuary estate of Aunt Lucy, and of course, I am as anxious to find the the murderer as Carr can possibly be."

Well somebody will have to attend to it who is willing to pay for it. As man of business in this house I am willing to attend to all such matters, but I must have authority."

You seem to me a little premature Mr. Haviland," commented the inspector. "Perhaps, when the inquest is concluded, it may not be necessary to call on any other detective than our own Mr. Hardy."

Perhaps not," agreed Haviland, "but, unless you people all wake up, you're not going to get anywhere. I admit the getting is difficult, but that's just the reason a wise sleuth should be called in before the trails grow cold."

And then the coroner returned to his task of questioning Mrs. Frothingham.

The widow was not definitely helpful. Her statements were often contradictory in minor details, and when she corrected them they seemed to lose in weight. She stuck to the main points, however, that by the help of a strong field glass she had discerned, in the bright moonlight, a man leave by way of the French window at 4 o'clock and had seen him make his way stealthily out by the great entrance gates of the place.

Cross questioning on this brought no variations, and the jurymen wagged their heads in belief of her story.

But her accounts of her own doings on Tuesday evening were vague and indefinite.

"I was in my own home all the evening," she said at one time; and again, "I went out for a short walk at 11 o'clock." This last in refutation of Haskins, the Carrington butler, who deposed to having seen the lady walk across the lawns of Garden Steps.

"Where did you walk?"

"Oh, just around my own place, and for a moment I strolled over here because the Steps looked so beautiful in the moonlight."

"You were alone?"

"I was. I have no house guests at present, save the Count; and as my brother, who lives with me, is on a western trip, I was alone, and I walked about to kill time until Count Charlier should return after his bridge game over here."

"Did you walk near the house while on the Garden Steps estate?" asked Scofield, scenting a possible espionage of her titled visitor.

"Oh, no!" and the witness bristled with indignation. "Why should I? I was not really an acquaintance of Miss Carrington, merely a neighbor."

"Beg pardon, ma'am, but I saw you on the conservatory verandah," said Haskins in a deprecatory way.

"That is not true, Mr. Coroner," said the lady, glancing scornfully at the butler. "I beg you will not accept a servant's statement in preference to mine!"

"You are sure of this, Haskins?" said the inspector gravely.

"Yes, sir. Sure, sir," and the man looked doggedly certain, though a little scared.

"And you deny it?" went on Scofield to Mrs. Frothingham.

"I most certainly do! How absurd for me to be over here, and how more than absurd for me to deny it if I were!"

This seemed sensible. Why should she deny it? And mightn't the butler be mistaken? Or deliberately falsifying?"

If there were collusion or criminal assistance by any of the servants, surely the word of all of them must be mistrusted unless proven.

And, too, what could have brought Mrs. Frothingham to the veranda of a home where she was not an accepted guest? Or, could she have been spying on the Count?

For it had slowly entered the coroner's not very alert mind that perhaps the volatile widow had her own plans for the Count's future, and Miss Carrington did not figure in them. The manner of the witness bore out this theory. She was self conscious, and at times confused. She frequently looked at the Count and then quickly averted her gaze. She blushed and stammered when speaking his name or referring to him. In a word, she acted as a woman might act in regard to a man of whom she was jealous. And the situation bore it out. If Mrs. Frothingham had matrimonial designs on her distinguished guest, would she not naturally resent his visits to a rich neighbor? Mrs. Frothingham was not rich, and she may well have been afraid of Miss Carrington's charm of gold, which could cause many a man to overlook anything else that might be lacking.

Coroner Scofield was getting more and more tangled in the mazes of this extraordinary case. He was practically at his wits' end. At last he blurted out: "It is impossible, it seems, to get a coherent, or even plausible, story from a woman! Is there any man present who knows any of the details of the happenings of Tuesday evening and night?"

There was a moment's silence at this rather petulant speech, and then Stephen Illsley rose, and, speaking very gravely, said:

"It seems to be my unpleasant duty to tell what little I know of these matters."

The relieved coroner heard this with satisfaction. Accepting his good fortune, he prepared to listen to Illsley's testimony.

"I was spending the evening here," the witness began, "and during my visit I was in the various rooms. At a late hour, perhaps something after 11, I was crossing the hall, and I saw Miss Frothingham on the stairway."

"On the stairway!" exclaimed the coroner in amazement.

"Yes," returned Illsley, his grave eyes resting on the face of the widow who stared at him as if stricken dumb. "Yes, I saw her distinctly. She was evidently coming downstairs, one hand rested on the banister, and she was looking upward at the ceiling."

"Did she see you?"

"I think not. If so, she made no sign. But she was not looking my way, and I went on into the reception room, where I was going in search of a scarf Miss Stuart had left there. When I recrossed the hall the lady had disappeared."

"Did not this seem to you a strange circumstance?"

"I had no right to any opinion on the subject. It was not my affair what guests were at the house I was visiting, or what they might be doing."

"But Mrs. Frothingham asserts she was not an acquaintance of Miss Carrington."

"I did not know that, then; and, even so, it gave me no right to speculate concerning the lady's presence there. Nor should I refer to it now except that in view of the subsequent tragedy it is due to every principle of right and justice that all truths be known as to that evening. Mrs. Frothingham will, of course, recall the episode and doubtless explain it."

"I should like to hear the explanation!" said Pauline, with flashing eyes. "As mistress here now I am interested to know why a stranger should wander about this house at will."

Mrs. Frothingham sat silent. Her face showed not so much consternation or dismay as a cold, calculating expression, as if debating just what explanation she should offer.

At last she spoke. "I may as well own up," she said, and laughed nervously. "I was on the veranda, as the vigilant butler noticed. I did step inside the hall, as I had so often heard of the rare tapestries and paintings, and, in my ennui, I thought it no harm to take a peep. The great door was ajar, and I was a little chilled by my walk across the lawns. I said to myself: 'If I meet any one I will merely beg a few moments' grace and then run away.' Yes, I did take a step or two up the stair, to look at a picture on the landing. It was all innocent enough, perhaps not in the best of taste, but I was lonely, and the light and warmth lured me. In a moment I had slipped out and run away home, laughing over my escapade like a foolish child."

Her light laugh rippled out as she concluded her story. She looked ingenuous and truthful, but the coroner distrusted feminine fairy tales, and this was a little too fanciful to be true.

Moreover, Mrs. Frothingham was looking at him sharply from the corner of her eye. Clearly, she was watching him to see how he took it.

He didn't take it very well. The acknowledged presence of an outsider in the house, for a not very plausible reason, was illuminating in his estimation. She had been on the stairway. Had she been to Miss Carrington's room? True, she said she went only to the landing—but pshaw, women, had no regard for the truth! Had she and Count Charlier planned between them to—bah, why did this woman want to kill her neighbor? Even if she were jealous of the Count's attention, would she go so far as crime? No, of course not! He must question her further. And, yet, what good would that do if she would not tell the truth?

Well, she was in the house at 11:30, that much was certain, for Stephen Illsley's story and her own and also the butler's testimony all coincided as to that.

And then Detective Hardy, who had just returned from a short errand, made a startling statement. He declared that the glove which had been found clasped tightly in the dead fingers of the late Miss Carrington did belong to Count Henri Charlier.

Mr. Hardy had ben searching the Count's wardrobe; and, though he did not find the mate to that particular glove, he found many others, some worn and some entirely unused, but all of the same size and made by the same firm as the one now in the coroner's possesion!

Thus cornered Count Charlier reluctantly admitted that it was his glove.

"I denied it," he thus excused himself, "because I have no idea how it came into Miss Carrington's possesion, and I did not wish to implicate her in an affair with my unworthy self."

"H'm," thought Gray Haviland, fixing his attention on the Count and on the flustered Mrs. Frothingham; "a precious pair of adventurers! I expect Scofield is right, we won't need an expert detective."

There was more of the inquest. But its continuance brought out no developments not already here transcribed. There was much cross questioning and probing; there was much rather futile effort to make all the strange details fit any one theory; there was variance of opinion; and there was more or less discussion.

But, as a final result, the coroner's jury brought in a verdict that Miss Lucy Carrington met her death by poison administered by a person or persons unknown, who thereafter, probably for the purpose of diverting attention from the poison, struck her a blow on the head. The jury in their deliberation felt that Count Henri Charlier was implicated. But, not having sufficient evidence to make a charge, suggested to the detective force that he be kept under surveillance.

X.

BIZARRE CLUES.

It was Saturday. The funeral of Miss Carrington had been held the day before and the imposing obsequies had been entirely in keeping with her love of elaborate display in life. The casket was of the richest, the flowers piled mountain high, the music, the most expensive available; for the young people in charge had felt it incumbent on them to arrange everything as Miss Lucy would have desired it.

It was a pathetic commentary on the character of the dead woman that, while all who mourned her felt the shock and horror of her death, they were not deeply bowed with sorrow. Pauline, as nearest relative, would naturally grieve most, but for the moment her affections were lost sight of in the paralyzing effects of the sudden tragedy.

Anita Frayne had practically "gone to pieces." She was nervous, and jumped twitchingly if any one spoke to her.

Gray Haviland was reticent, an unusual thing for him, and devoted most of his time to matters of business connected with the estate.

Estelle, the maid, had succumbed to a nervous breakdown, and had been taken to a nearby sanatorium, where she indulged in frequent and violent hysterics.

The household was in a continual excitement. Lawyers and detectives were coming and going, neighbors were calling, and reporters simply infested the place.

Pauline and Anita, though outwardly polite, were not on good terms, and rarely talked together.

But this morning the two girls and Haviland were called to a confab by Hardy, the detective.

(Continued Next Week)

A Budapest bank has decided to sue ex-Emperor Charles for 100,000,000 crowns, the amount he subscribed to eight war loans.

Clover Plant Shows Us How To Get Nitrogen Out of the Air

By P. G. HOLDEN.

FOR thousands of years sweet clover, alfalfa, and other members of the clover family have been gathering nitrogen out of the air and converting it into fertilizer to enrich the soil and increase the production of farm crops. So quietly, so mysteriously have the workers performed this beneficial work that it was not until a few years ago that we even knew they were doing it at all.

We have not learned even yet just how the clovers are able to do this work, but they showed us that it could be done and since then scientists have been at work endeavoring to find some method of converting the nitrogen in the air into a commercial product.

In this they have been successful. Our entry into the war resulted in the expenditure by this government of something like $80,000,000 for the erection of a nitrate plant at Muscle Shoals, Alabama. By a scientific process the nitrogen in the air was to be converted into ammonium nitrates for the manufacture of gunpowder and other high explosives.

A Beautiful Field of Alfalfa, One of the Nitrogen Gathering Plants—Notice the Evidence of Prosperity Which Always Follows Fertile Soil.

But just as the plant was completed and the first samples of the output turned over to the government the armistice was signed. Again the lesson taught us by the clover proved of value to us, for now instead of making gun-powder and other agencies of destruction the plant will be used to convert the nitrogen into fertilizer concentrates. With the same machinery, the same power and the same raw materials the great plant will take its place in the rebuilding of the nation.

The practically unlimited amount of raw material available is shown by the fact that the air above one acre of ground at sea level contains 35,656 tons of nitrogen.

Nitrogen at present is worth 20 cents a pound. If you own a 160-acre farm there is over $14,000,000 worth of nitrogen in the air above your land. At sea level air weighs nearly 15 pounds to the square inch and a trifle over 77 per cent of it is nitrogen.

Every farmer can have his own nitrogen factory. Ten, 20, or 40 acres of sweet clover or alfalfa will gather the nitrogen out of the air and use it to fertilize his soil.

The government plant is a triumph of science. It will prove of great value to the farmers of America, especially to the farmer of the south. But the clover patch will not lose any of its usefulness. It will continue to mean fertile soil, hay, live stock, dairy products, meat products, prosperity.

New Ideas.

From Dupont Magazine.

I see no reason why the producers of steel should not increase the use of steel to replace lost war business. As lumber production falls off because of deforestation, steel can and will replace many uses of wood.

Why should not the United States Steel Company design 20 or 30 houses to be built of standardized structural steel and concrete, so it would be possible for the homebuilder to select a design and have the ready cut steel laid down at his freight station? He would then build a fireproof house, requiring no insurance, and strong enough to last for generations.

Why should not the copper producers induce everybody to use permanent copper screens instead of iron screens that rust out? All hotels cook with copper utensils, why not all homes?

One of our greatest industrial staples is cotton. Its consumption can be largely increased by developing new fabrics in place of imported silks and linens.

Paint is a very common manufactured article, yet the paint consumption of America can certainly be doubled by teaching people the real purpose and economy of paint and improving distributive facilities.

Doctor and Wise Man.

"Take this medicine," said the young doctor, as reported by the Journal of the American Medical Association. "If it doesn't cure you, come back in a few days and I'll give you something that will." The patient pocketed the bottle reluctantly. In a few moments he returned. "If you don't mind, Doc, I'll take some of that that will cure me right away."

Nothing Left.

From Harper's Magazine.

"What did your father say when he broke his pipe, Walter?"

"Shall I leave out the wicked words, mother?"

"Why, certainly, dear."

"Then I don't believe there is anything to tell you, mother."

Case at Home.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I see some scientists are going to India to study suspended animation."

"These scientists are impractical. Why go to India before having a look at the hired help?"

Weekly Health Ta

Where Most Sickness Be and Ends

BY FRANKLIN DUANE, M

It can be said broadly that most [illegible] in the stomach and end in stomach. Good digestion means health, and poor digestion means health. The minute your stomach [illegible] properly dispose of the food you eat, [illegible] begin to [illegible] crop out in various [illegible] Indigestion and dyspepsia are the [illegible] cause, and then, impure blood, [illegible] backaches, pimples, blotches, [illegible] coated tongue, [illegible] poor appetite, [illegible]lessness, coupled [illegible] and headaches [illegible] almost as [illegible] There is but one way to [illegible] good health and that is to put and keep your [illegible] in good order. This is easy to do if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a wonderful tonic and blood purifier, and is so safe to use, being made of roots and herbs. Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., stands behind this [illegible] and medicine, and it is good to know so distinguished a physician is [illegible] have his name identified with it, [illegible] you take Golden Medical Discovery you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all over the earth. Still more, you get a tested alterative medicine that contains [illegible] alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable table ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that these remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines.

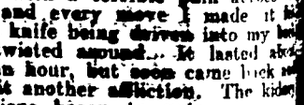
If piles are torturing you, use Dr. Pierce's Anodyne Pile Ointment. The quick relief it gives is hard to believe until you try it. If constipated, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken. When using Anodyne Pile Ointment, Pellets indeed are the cases which this ointment and remedies will not relieve and usually overcome. They are so good that nearly every drug store has them for sale.

If a man doesn't know [illegible] silent, he doesn't know when [illegible]

STOMACH ACIDITY, INDIGESTION, [illegible]

QUICK! EAT JUST ONE TAB OF PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN FOR INSTANT RELIEF

When meals don't fit and you have gas, acids and undigested food, and you feel lumps of distress, pain, flatulence, heartburn or indigestion. Here is instant relief—No waiting.



Just as soon as you eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin all the dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach distress vanish. These pleasant, harmless tablets of Pape's Diapepsin never fail to make sick, upset stomachs feel fine at once and they cost so little at drug stores. Adv.

Only a mother can lick 'em and [illegible] 'em at the same time.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, [illegible] County—ss.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

(Seal) A. W. Gleason, Notary Public.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Druggists, 75c. Testimonials free.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

When schools flourish, all flourish.

A Terrible Ordeal

Gravel and Kidney Stone Caused Intense Suffering—Doan's Brought a Quick Cure.

Edw. J. Turcotte, 4202 Fichelbach Ave., St. Louis, Mo., says "I was taken with a terrible pain across my back and every move I made it felt like a knife being driven into my back and twisted around. It lasted about half an hour, but soon came back again with it another affliction. The kidney secretions began to pain me; the flow was scanty and burned like fire when passing. I had severe headaches and my bladder got badly inflamed, too, and I noticed little particles of gravel in the secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills had been recommended to me and I began their use. The first [illegible] half box brought relief and I passed a stone the size of a pea. It was terrible ordeal and afterwards a sediment and particles of gravel [illegible] in the urine. I got more of the [illegible] and they cured me. The inflammation left and there was no more pain or gravel. I now sleep well, eat well and my kidneys act normally. Doan's Kidney Pills alone accomplished this wonderful cure."

"Subscribed and sworn to before me," JAMES M. SMITH, Notary Public.

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

More Eggs! Use Germozone [illegible]

Persistent Cough [illegible]

PISO'S [illegible]

MACHINES making ice and refrigeration l purposes. Manufactured by R ICE MACHINE CO.
Omaha, Neb.

Many a man wants the earth, but in the end the earth gets the man.

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP

Why use ordinary cough remedies when Boschee's Syrup has been used so successfully for fifty-one years in all parts of the United States for coughs, bronchitis, colds settled in the throat, especially lung troubles? It gives the patient a good night's rest free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning, gives nature a chance to soothe the inflamed parts, throw off the disease, helping the patient to regain his health. Made in America and sold for more than half a century.—Adv.

Tomorrow won't be any different from today unless you are.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

Phonographs, like some people, are shy of originality.

Shave With Cuticura Soap

And double your razor efficiency as well as promote skin purity, skin comfort and skin health. No mug, no slimy soap, no germs, no waste, no irritation even when shaved twice daily. One soap for all uses—shaving, bathing and shampooing.—Adv.

Fickleness is the entail of impulse.

When Your Eyes Need Care Try Murine Eye Remedy

No Smarting—Just Eye Comfort. 60 cents at Druggists or mail. Write for Free Eye Book. MURINE EYE REMEDY CO., CHICAGO

RICKETS.

We do not know of any bacterial or chemical causes for rickets, but we do know that certain contributory causes are prominent in the history of the disease. A very large percentage of the negro children are affected with rickets. The New York city health department has sought to overcome this by guaranteeing that every child in a certain district gets a daily allowance of cod liver oil.

As valuable as that procedure is, it will not entirely relieve the situation if we are to credit a report which recently appeared in the British Medical Journal. According to that report, better housing is a necessity as much or even more needed than fats.

The report says that 50 per cent of the children of the poorer classes in Glasgow had rickets. The disease usually appeared in the late winter and spring in children between 6 and 18 months of age.

First let us mention some of the circumstances that did not seem to cause the disease. The duration of breast feeding was not proved to have any relation to the evidence of the disease; the age at which artificial feeding was commenced appeared to be of little moment, and diets of the rickety and nonrickety families showed no significant difference in energy values or protein content. The evidence was against a deficiency of milk or butter or the fat soluble "A"—substance being a determining factor.

And now let us consider the positive as distinguished from the negative findings. Inadequate air and exercise seemed to be potent factors in determining the onset of the disease. The largest single factor seemed to be the actual condition of the home as to sunlight, air, crowding, cleanliness and general sanitation. The average number of persons living in a room was a factor. The number of cubic feet of air space was another factor. Cleanliness of the house was another factor.

The disease was more frequently found among people who lived in dark rooms and in houses that were set too close to each other.

In the discussion of the report Drs. Paton and Findlay conclude: "Whatever the true cause of rickets—improper housing, absence of facilities for open air life, and imperfect parental care favor the onset of the disease, and by improving the housing conditions the disappearance of the disease would be brought about.

The same number of the British Medical Journal contains an editorial on a recent speech by Lloyd George. The prime minister was at that time a candidate for re-election but nobody in the year 1919 is rash enough to say that Lloyd George elected forgets the promises—or threats—made by Lloyd George the candidate. Three hundred thousand new houses are needed in Great Britain, and the outlook is that the government will build them. They are disposed to despair of any proper housing so long as building and ownership is left to individuals, and Great Britain must have better housing. Lloyd George said: "You cannot sweep away slums with paper, and cannot cope with the wants of the people with red tape." And next in importance to housing, he said, is "a more intelligent organization of the forces which have special charge of the health of the nation—national, municipal and medical."

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson's Ancestor.

From the London Times.

In response to a letter from the Rev. J. Denny Gedge, rector of Gravesend, through the Dames of Virginia, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the president of the United States, has sent an autographed portrait of herself to St. George's Church, Gravesend, the burial place of her ancestor, the Princess Pocahontas. The photograph has been framed, and is to be hung beneath that of the princess in the vestry.

Princess Pocahontas married John Rolfe, of Heacham, Norfolk, and left one son, Thomas Rolfe, who became governor of Virginia and founder of some well known Virginian families. From one of these—the Bolling family—Mrs. Wilson is descended. It is hoped that the President and Mrs. Wilson will pay a visit to Gravesend during their stay in England.

Travel.

I should like to rise and go
Where the golden apples grow,
Where below another sky
Parrot islands anchore lie,
And, watched by cockatoos and goats,
Lonely Crusoes building boats;
Where in sunshine reaching out
Eastern cities, miles about,
Are with mosque and minaret
Among sandy gardens set,
And the rich goods from near and far
Hang for sale in the bazar;
Where the great wall 'round China goes,
And on one side the desert blows,
And, with bell and voice and drum,
Cities on the other hum;
Where are forests hot as fire,
Wide as England, tall as a spire,
Full of apes and cocoanuts
And the negro hunters' huts,
Where the knotty crocodile
Lies and blinks in the Nile,
And the red flamingo flies,
Hunting fish before his eyes;
Where in jungles, near and far,
Man devouring tigers are,— Lying close and giving ear
Lest the hunt be drawing near,
Or a comer-by be seen
Swinging in a palanquin;
Where among the desert sands
Some deserted city stands,
All its children, sweep and prince,
Grown to manhood ages since,
Not a foot in street or house,
Not a stir of child or mouse,
And, when kindly falls the night,
In all the town no spark of light.
There I'll come when I'm a man
With a camel caravan;
Light a fire in the gloom
Of some dusty dining room;
See the pictures on the walls,
Heroes, fights and festivals;
And in a corner find the toys
Of the old Egyptian boys.

—Robert Louis Stevenson (Child's Garden of Verses, Crowell Company, New York).

From the New York Globe.

She was not very young, but she had money.

"Dearest——" he began, but she stopped him.

"I anticipate what you are about to say, Mr. Sampson," she said, "and I would spare your feelings for it can never, never be. I esteem you highly and will be a sister to——"

"I have four sisters already," he replied bitterly, "four grown sisters, and life is a hideous burden. But, oh, Clara," he went on passionately, "if you cannot be my wife, will you not give me a mother's protective love? I am an orphan."

J. B. Shaw, worker in a factory at Iola, Kan., made $52.36 in a week recently by cutting 67,248 buttons.

THE KINSHIP OF THE NEW AMERICAN

Aims and Ideals of the United States and Canada Will Soon Be Signed.

The war is over, peace will soon be signed, the fighting nations have sheathed their swords, and the day of reconstruction has come.

What of it!

Hundreds of thousands of men taken from the fields of husbandry, from the ranks of labor, from the four walls of the counting house, and the confines of the workshop, taken from them to do their part, their large part, in the prevention of the spoliation of the world, and in the meantime removed from the gear of common everyday life, will be returning, only to find in many cases old positions filled, the machinery with which they were formerly attached dislocated.

Are they to become aimless wanderers, with the ultimate possibility of augmenting an army of menacing loafers? If they do it it is because their ability to assist in laying new foundations, in building up much required structures, is underestimated. Men who have fought as they have fought, who have risked and faced dangers as they have, are not of the caliber likely to flinch when it comes to the restoration of what the enemy partially destroyed, when it comes to the reconstruction of the world the ideals of which they had in view when they took part in the great struggle whose Divine purpose was to bring about this reconstruction.

Inured to toil, thoughtless of fatigue, trained in initiative and hardened by their outdoor existence they will return better and stronger men; boys will have matured and young men will have developed.

They will decide of themselves lines of action and thought, and what their future should and will be. On the field of battle they developed alertness and wisdom, and they will return with both shedding from every pore.

Action was their by-word and it will stand them in good stead now that the din of the battle no longer rings in their ears, or the zero hour signals them to the fray, and it will continue during their entire existence.

But if they return to find their old avocation gone, their places filled, the institutions with which they were connected no longer exist, new walks of life and employment must be opened to them. It may be that the counting house, the factory, the workshop will have lost their attraction. The returned soldier will look elsewhere for employment; within his reach there is always the "Forward-to-the-Land" necessity. In this lies the remedy that will not only take care of a multitude of those who may not be able to return to their former occupations, whose desires are not to do so, whose health prohibits them from indoor life or whose outdoor habits from the past one, two, three or four years have given them such a taste and desire for it that confinement would be unbearable. Farm life will thus appeal to them, and the indications are that it will be taken advantage of by thousands. It means much to them as well as to the Continent of America that provides the opportunity to the world at large, and to the stricken and famished nations of Europe, who, not only today, but for years to come, will require the sustenance that can only largely be supplied by the United States and Canada. By following the pursuit of agriculture the returned soldier will continue the cause he so greatly advanced when fighting on the field of battle. Both countries have undeveloped areas yet open to settlement.

There is little need here to direct attention to the wealth that has come to the farmers of Canada within the past few years. It is not only in grain growing that unqualified and almost unequaled success has followed honest effort, but the raising of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs has been large source of profit. These are facts that are well known to the many friends and acquaintances of the thousands of farmers from the United States who have acquired wealth on the prairies of Western Canada. Farms of from one hundred and sixty to six hundred and forty acres of the richest soil may be secured on reasonable terms, and with an excellent climate, with a school system equal to any in the world, and desirable social conditions, little else could be asked.

Canadian statesmen are today busily engaged planning for the future of the returned soldier with a view to making him independent of state help after the immediate necessary assistance has been granted, the main idea being to show in the fullest degree the country's appreciation of the services he has rendered.

But, now that the war is ended, and the fact apparent that of all avocations the most profitable and independent is that of the farmer, there will be a strong desire to secure farm lands for cultivation. Canada offers the opportunity to those seeking, not as speculation but as production. The deepest interest is taken by Federal and Provincial authorities to further the welfare of the farmer and secure a maximum return for his efforts. Large sums of money are spent in educational and experimental work. Engaged in Experimental and Demonstration farms, and in the agricultural colleges, are men of the highest technical knowledge and practical experience, some being professors of international reputation. The results of experiments and tests are free and available to all. Educational opportunities for farmers are the concern of the Government and appreciation is shown by the number of farmers who attend the free courses.

Agriculture in Canada has reached a high standard, notwithstanding which lands are low in price.

Thus upon the United States and Canada for many years will rest the great burden of feeding the world. With free interchange of travel, difficulties of crossing and recrossing removed, Canada may look for a speedy resumption of the large influx of settlers from the United States which prevailed previous to the war. During the war period there was a dread of something, no one seemed to know what. If the American went to Canada he might be conscripted, put in prison or in his attempt to cross the border he would meet with innumerable difficulties, most of which, of course, was untrue. These untruths were circulated for a purpose by an element, which, it was discovered, had an interest in fomenting and creating trouble and distrust between two peoples whose language and aims in life should be anything but of an unfriendly character.

The draft law of the United States adopted for the carrying out of the high purposes had in view by the United States kept many from going to Canada during the period of the war. The citizen army of the United States was quickly mobilized, and contained a large percentage of the young men from the farms. In this way many were prevented from going to Canada.

That is all over now. There are no real or imaginary restrictions; there is no draft law to interfere. On the contrary there is an unfathomable depth of good feeling, and the long existing friendship is stronger than ever. This has been brought about by the knowledge of what has been done in the recent great struggle, each vying with the other in giving credit for what was accomplished. In thought and feeling, in language, in aims in life, in work, in desire to build up a new world, there has been bred a kinship which is as indissoluble as time itself.—Advertisement.

Pole-lightness occasionally beats the almighty dollar under the wire.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use for Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Self-respect is what keeps most men out of serious trouble.

If your eyes smart or feel scalded, Roman Eye Balsam applied upon going to bed is just the thing to relieve them. Adv.

He who hath shame seldom sins.

Influenza and kindred diseases start with a cold.

Don't trifle with it. At the first shiver or sneeze, take

HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form—safe, sure, no opiates—breaks up a cold in 24 hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine box has a Red top with Mr. Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.

Soldiers Soothe Skin Troubles with Cuticura

Soap, Ointment, Talcum 25c. each. Samples of "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 7--1919.

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES
IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired, and "worn-out?" Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out," unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Bad taste in the mouth, backache, pain or soreness in the loins, and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys.

You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys, and the little poisonous animal germs, which are causing the inflammation, are immediately attacked and chased out of your system without inconvenience or pain.

Don't ignore the little pains and aches," especially backaches. They may be little now but there is no telling how soon a dangerous or fatal disease of which they are the forerunners may show itself. Go after the cause of that backache at once, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

Do not delay a minute. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In 24 hours you will feel renewed health and vigor. After you have cured yourself continue to take one or two Capsules each day so as to keep in first class condition, and ward off the danger of future attacks. Money refunded if they do not help you. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, and thus be sure of getting the genuine.—Adv.

Tired Nervous Mothers

Should Profit by the Experience of These Two Women

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side, and a general weakness. I had professional attendance most of that time but did not seem to get well. As a last resort I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I had seen advertised in the newspapers, and in two weeks noticed a marked improvement. I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my housework."—Mrs. B. B. ZIELINSKA, 902 Weiss Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound the credit."—Mrs. JOSEPHINE KIMALE, 935 West Race Street, Portland, Ind.

Every Sick Woman Should Try

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. LYNN, MASS.

"Western Reserve."

When Connecticut, in 1786, ceded her western lands to the United States, she reserved a large tract adjoining Pennsylvania, now forming several counties in the northeastern part of Ohio. From this the region came to be called "the Western Reserve." The reservation by Connecticut only lasted a few years, as in 1800 she completed the transfer of all the lands to the United States. The Western Reserve soon became famous for its good citizenship, fine farms and determined opposition to slavery.

Cloves in Commerce.

The clove tree has been introduced into the western world and now is, and for more than a century has been, grown in Brazil, Guiana and the West Indian islands. Clove trees now grow in groves in the island of Mauritius, where plantations were set out under the auspices of the French in the eighteenth century, and in Zanzibar and Pemba. These last named islands, off the east coast of Africa, have become important producers of cloves. Java and Sumatra, in the east, also make their contribution to the world's supply of cloves.

Greatness.

No one ever went seeking after greatness and found it; it is essentially a by-product. Fame of a certain sort may be acquired by direct effort, wealth can be won by those who place its possession first, and notoriety is not hard to compass; but real greatness comes to those who are not busy seeking it.

The Damon-Igou Co.

Mason City, Iowa

Are Featuring New Goods For Spring 1919

We know its early for the new materials but "the early bird catches the---Bargains' and many people take advantage of the new showing to get the choicest selections.

New wool dress goods — We are always just a litle ahead of the other fellow. In the quantity we show--the quality of the goods and the styles. This season they are up to the minute-- The price is always right.

The New Silks — Tremendous Sales are being made in our Silk dept.---Beautiful materials and depend able qualities are shown here.

New Gingham and New 36 inch Percales as well as new White Goods Have Arrived

There is a new line of dark colored Marquisette here for Draperies in beautiful colors and patterns (second floor) Our price a yard ---------- 75c

We are offering lines of hosiery and underwear now at less than the market price---couple the quality with the price and you have a combination that is hard to beat.

Combination Sale

Klemme Iowa

Almost everyone has something he does not use need and others need just that article. I have decided appoint myself the central figure in an

"Exchange Emporium"

for the accomodation of the public in general and myself in particular. If you have anything to sell bring it in

List your surplus with me, tell me your troubles

Bring in that table or rocker, or if you have cows horses or goats you don't want list them with me or at State Savings Bank on or before the 18th of February in order to have everything on the bills for the sale which will be Wed. Feb. 26

Col. B. A. Reemstma

Phone 508 Klemme Iowa

CLOSING OUT
PUBLIC AUCTION!

Owing to the poor health of my wife I will sell without reserve at my barn in Klemme, on Thursday, Feb'y. 20

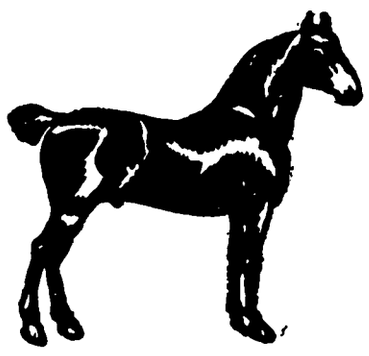
Sale to begin at 1:00 P. M. Sharp

The following property, to-witt:



9 Head of Horses 9

Bay horse 10 yrs old, wt 1150; Black gelding, 8 yrs old wt 1150; Sorrel mare 9 yrs old, wt 1100; Sorrel mare 5 yrs old, wt 1100; (both in foal) Bay mare 3 yrs old, wt 700; Black mare 8 yrs old, wt 1600; Black horse 7 yrs old, wt 1300; Bay mare colt 1 yr old; Bay mare colt 2 yrs old.

2 Jennies, one 5 years old and bred, other 1 year old.

10 Head of Cattle 10

5 Shorthorn cows wt 1050 to 1400, some fresh with calves at foot; 2 goop summer calves; 2 full blood Holsteins, one fresh; 1 Roan Bull.

47 Head of Sheep, good breeding ewes, all bred.

5 Duroc Jersey Sows, bred, wt 225 each, to farrow first week in May

FARM MACHINERY ETC.

New fodder cutter; 2 sets of good work harness; 1 new Rock Island wagon complete with triple box; 1 wide tire farm wagon; 1 set dnmp boards; 1 new Nelson tank heater; 1 new feed cooker, never used; 2 cultivators, one six shovel, one surface; Steam boiler feed cooker complete and other articles too numerous to mention.

TERMS—All sums of $10 and under, cash. Over $10 a credit of 10 months time will be given on approved notes bearing interest at 8 per cent from date of sale. No property to be rmoved until settled for.

C. M. Bredbenner

Young & Kester, Aucts. Times Print Shop, Klemme, Ia, Klemme First National Bank, Clerks

From Jerusalem to Dead Sea.

Nearly everybody who visits Jerusalem rides to the Dead sea, down through Jericho. By starting from Howard's hotel, outside the wall near the Jaffa gate, at daylight, and having a fresh horse to meet you at Jericho on the way back, a man used to equitation can have a swim in the Dead sea and return by dark. It is about 40 miles, round trip. Of course, "the pull" is on the return, especially from Jericho onward, for the city of Jerusalem is almost a mile in the air above the Dead sea!

Heavy Toll of Grain Smuts.

It would doubtless be safe to say that we are paying out annually as a price for what amounts to national negligence grain enough to fill an elevator of 90,000,000 bushels capacity. This vast and really inexcusable toll is exacted by preventable smuts. It is a waste of sufficient wheat to supply our allies with 4,000,000 barrels of flour, and oats enough to feed 1,100,000 horses for a year. The simple and inexpensive formaldehyde treatment of seed will save most of this loss.

Linked France and Scotland.

The small border, or treasure, which surrounds the arms of Scotland in the British coat of arms is the emblem of preservation or protection. A legend states that the border was given to Achaius, king of the Scots, by Charlemagne as a pledge that the French lilies should defend the Scottish lion. The significance of this lies in the design of the border, which is composed of fleur-de-lis.

Unskilled Labor.

A man never realizes what the term "unskilled labor" can mean until he boldly volunteers to repair the water faucets and take down the screen doors.—Washington Star.

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitte

W. F. PAVE
The Practical Blacksmi
OXY-ACETYLENE WELI
Wagon, Buggy and Mach
Repairing
Horse Shoeing and P
Work a Specialty

Col. B. A. Reemts
General Auctioneer
KLEMMÈ, IOWA
Farm and Stock Sales a Spec
Call, write or phone 508 Kl me for dates, terms, etc.
...Satisfaction Guarantee

J. S. WESSON, D. V.
GARNER, IOWA
CALLS ATTENDED DAY
NIGHT
Office Phone 196 Residence

Removal Sale of Wall Paper

I find that it is necessary to dispose of my entire stock of Wall Paper at

Greatly Reduced Prices

Prices ranging from five to fifteen cents per roll.

1919 Samples now here
We will take your order

J. B. MACK

Have some good furniture nearly new which I will sell at a low price.

KLEMME TIMES

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER 25 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, February 20 1919 | $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

Western States Lumber Co.

Lumber & Building Material

We have some fir Shiplap which we will sell at per M. feet $35.00 per M. feet

ve us a trial and we will do all in r power, conversant with good busi- s methods, to gain and hold your de.

Olof Brynteson, Agent

don't have to be told that motor trouble is the one the ointment" of the autoist's happiness. After ve given us a trial you won't have to be told that the place where you can rid yourself of such trouble

If motor trouble is not positively inherent in the engine itself we can cure it. Any- way we can tell you what is the difficulty and you will save time worry and money by coming here first.

PHONE 30

Wiles Garage

YOU HAVE TRIED THE REST · NOW TRY THE BEST

KLEMME, IA.

When You Are In Need

f a Good Hair-cut or Shave

Visit

McCullough's Barber Shop

Where Sanitation and Courteous Treatment Go Hand in Hand.

cy for the Best Laundry in the State, basket leaves Wednesday and comes back every Saturday.

G. P. McCullough, Prop.

The Next Question

A MEMORIAL FOR KLEMME SOLDIERS?

Exchanges come to our desk from all the papers in the county and many from out of the county. Everywhere they are discussing the question of a suitable memorial for their returned heroes.

Garner has already made plans for the erection of a $50,000.00 building in honor of her heroes. Kanawha is also making plans for a memorial, likewise the same in all the other towns in the county.

If these other towns can do something along that line why can't the "best little town in Iowa" do something also? We CAN. Are we going to be outdone by our envious neighbor city on the north? No, we are NOT. If Garner can put across a proposition for $50,000.00 we can do the same or go even stronger. Let's get together and DO SOMETHING, get something started anyway.

As a suggestion, which has also been suggested to the Editor by some of the prominent men of Klemme, and to which we agree, why not build a new school house? Make it as fine a building as any in the county, dedicate it to Our Heroes, give them a place in the building for War relics and records. Such a building is useful other than for amusements. Our soldiers would be proud of such a structure that could be put to the noble use of education, the most valuable asset of a community. We are sadly in need of a new School Building to accommodate our rapidly growing little city. Why not a Memorial in the form of a large beautiful new school building? We beg of you to give this deep thought. Let's START SOMETHING NOW!

Lenaide, France,
January 18th, 1919

Ray Jorgenson,
Klemme, Iowa.

Friend Ray:—

I received the Klemme Times of December 5th and noticed some letters from the boys in the A. E. F., so I thought I would try my luck, though I can't tell you much, as I am one of the boys that never saw the front. I had the bad luck (or good luck) of gettig the flu o board ship and on reaching Brest I was sent to the hospital there.

On leaving the hospital I was sent to the 29th Division, known as "The Blue and Grey Division," and on November 8th I reached the city of Bar la Duke which is located about 70 kilometers or 45 miles southwest of Metz. Am now located about 50 kilometers southeast of the city of Chaumont.

This is sure a wet country and plenty of mud. A person can figure on a couple of hours of drizzling rain every day. I read in the paper the other day that last year it rained 330 days out of a possible 365 at Brest and I sure believe it as it rained every day I was there.

We have pretty good billets here. We have a large 3-story building which must have been a home of some kind once upon a time. But the main thing on our minds is when are we going home? Well I guess I'll be back in little old Klemme by the Fourth.

Well, as they have started a boxing match at the Y, I guess I'll go and see the fun.

From your friend,
Pvt. Casey Blank,
Co. A, 115th Inf., 29th Div.
A. P. O. 765 American E. F.

A COMPLETE SURPRISE

On Saturday evening, February 15, in walked forty neighbors and friends on the Henry Maitland family and gave them a complete surprise. They brought along well-filled baskets, for the ladies of Avery Center know how to prepare a tasty lunch which was enjoyed very much. The Henry Maitland family is moving to Joe Lawhorn's farm in Ell Township. (Corresponded).

ENGLISH M. E. CHURCH

Sunday, February 23rd:—
Morning worship at 10:00 o'clock.
Sunday School at 11:15.
Evening Song Service and Sermon at 7:30. Male quartette and other special music at the services. Everyone cordially invited.

A. W. Barnlund, Minister

OSCAR RICE AND MALINDA MUSFELT MARRIED

Tuesday announcements were received in Klemme announcing the marriage of Mr. Oscar Rice, of Louisburg, Kansas, to Miss Malinda Musfelt of this city. The marriage occurred last Wednesday afternoon, February 12th, at Louisburg, at the home of Mr. Rice.

Both of these young people are well and favorably known in Klemme. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frd Musfelt of this city. Mr. Rice is also well known here as he worked in Klemme several years until his enlistment in the Navy last year.

We join their many friends in wishing them happiness and prosperity.

SERVICE FLAG NOW COMPLETE

The Red Cross Ladies have completed the Service Flag and have added the extra stars. There are 58 stars in all, four of which are Gold Stars in honor of our Heroes who have made the Supreme Sacrifice. The Flag is without a doubt the prettiest and best in the county being made of wool background and the stars hand embroidered in pure silk. It is now suspended in the Post Office where all may see it.

FRED ALBERS HAS SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Last Thursday Fred Albers was out in his shed sawing up some kindling wood and was standing near an empty gasoline barrel. He struck a match to light his pipe and evidently the air was charged with gasoline fumes for a great explosion occurred, blowing the roof and sides off the 16x32 foot shed. The barrel went through the roof and fell on another bulding and went through that coming down. As for Mr. Albers his clothing caught fire and he was severely burned about the face and arms before he could extinguish the flames. He is getting along nicely at present but his wounds are very painful. He says it all happened so quickly that he really doesn't know exactly how it did happen.

WHY WOULDN'T THIS BE GOOD FOR KLEMME FARMERS?

The farmers around Garner have gottn their heads together in the hope of formulating some plan whereby their labors can be greatly enlightened and also their houses and barns. The farmers north of Garner began the great idea, then their brothers on the west would not be outdone so they got busy. The farmers east of Garner heard about the noise the farmers north and west were making so they chimed in. Next the farmers south stirred gently, but have not made a very audible racket. The great idea? We can say it in one word, "Electricity." The farmers mentioned above are planning to run a line out from Garner to their farms so that they can enjoy the use of electricity for lighting their houses, barns, and sheds, for power to run their separators, shellers, grinders, etc., and the house-wife can use electricity for washing, ironing and cooking. Now that is a real sensible idea the farmers have. It will mean a lot in lightening their work and make surroundings much more comfortable. Why shouldn't the farmer enjoy the same conveniences as the town felolws? We believe if some one would start the ball to rolling the farmers in the vicinity of Klemme would get busy and run a line from Klemme to their farms. Who will start the movement?

WM. NEUHRING HAS GOOD SALE

Last Wednesday Wm. Neuhring held a public sale which totaled better than $9,000 00. Everything brought top prices and sold fast to the large crowd of bidders. Col. B A Reemstma cried the sale, begining about 11:30 a. m. and had everything sold at 4:30 p. m. Elder & Fuller served the free hot dinner. This is another one of the successful sales which was advertised through the columns of the Klemme Times. Thes urst way to reach the farmers is to advertise a sale in the paper, the results speak for themselves.

Just So.

To be successful a farmer has to be sharp as a raiser.—Boston Transcript.

HARD TIME DANCE WAS GREAT

Last Friday evening a Hard Time Dance was given at the Idle Hour Theatre. A four piece orchestra furnished the music. Owing to the fact there were so many other things going on that night a large crowd was not in attendance but those who attended all report the best of good times. Mr. Fred Ridder acted as the 'cop" and certainly did his duty in collecting the fines. No one person was fined over nine cents, but he got nearly all of them for that amount. The fines were divided an driven prizes to the 'Hardest Lookers" and the winners were R. A Jorgenson and Billy Busch for the gentlemen, and Miss Blanche Liljenberg and Mrs. D B. Anderson took the ladies prizes. It is reported that a masquerade dance will be given later. All should plan to attend this as a good time is assured. There will be a dance every Friday night as usual.

"PECK" HANSON NOW AN AUCTIONEER

E. P. Hanson, former County Auditor, has gone back into the Auctioneering business and has an ad in this issue to that effect. "Peck" was born in Hancock County, he needs little introduction as he is known by every one. He knows the Auctioneering business as he has had nine years' experience in that line, crying in one winter, from October 4th, to March 8th, eighty-six sales. "Peck" says his best reference is his work.

PLEASE NOTICE

The following new phones have been installed, copy them in your phone books

Prof. Thompkins.....No. 84
Rudolph Baack.....No. 6613
Koerner Telephone Co

Cheering Him Up.

Sergeant Instructor (to Cadet)—"Na, ye'll no mak' an officer. But it's just possible if the warr keeps on a while an' ye practice harrd—verra harrd—ye micht—micht, mind ye—begin to hae a glimmer that ye'll never ken th r-rudiments o' the wurrk!"—Punch.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Factory has not yet reached normal production. It will take some time, after being entirely given over to war work. We are getting a few cars right along and suggest that you leave your order with us as soon as possible and we will deliver as soon as possible. Runabout, $500; Touring Car, $525: Coupe, $650: Sedan, $775: One Ton Truck Chassis, $550. These prices f. o. b. Detroit. Don't forget the service we give in our shops genuine Ford parts, Ford skill and Ford prices.

E. G. ELL

Authorized Dealer

THE KLEMME TIMES
RAY A. JORGENSEN, PUB.
KLEMME, IOWA

On the shores of the North sea there has recently been started a factory for the manufacture of what has proved to be a very satisfactory food for live stock from the refuse of a fish packing plant. A" fish meal" is turned out which contains 55 per cent of albumen and 12 per cent of fat. It is eaten by swine, and some cattle accept it readily Besides making use of a refuse, it releases much grain, otherwise demanded for food by these animals

A farmer living near Waterville, Me., says that his winter store includes, besides a big supply of winter vegetables and apples, two barrels of last year's flour, milled from his own wheat, of which this year's crop is yet to be thrashed, 100 dozen of eggs, 20 jars of chicken, 150 jars of jelly, 500 cans of preserves and six barrels of cider and vinegar. In addition, he has had 50 hens, beef and pork, and a woodshed full of wood.

The fresh sardine is a beautiful little fish The scales on its back are an iridescent blue-green, the exact tint which the sea so often takes, while beneath the scales there shows up the most wonderful peacock blue. There are bars on its back and sides when it first comes out of the water like those on the mackerel, but they seem to fade and disappear the moment it is exposed to the air The remainder of its body is pure silver.

The average sized Alaska walrus is as big as an ox and often weighs more than a ton A walrus was recently killed by some whalers near Point Barrow, whose head weighed 80 pounds, and skin, including flippers, 500 pounds. The animal had a girth of 14 feet, the skin was from half an inch to three inches in thickness and the blubber weighed 500 pounds.

Marion K Clark, chief investigator of the New York state industrial commission believes that inabilitty to understand English is responsible for many accidents He asserts that 1,600,000 factory workers in New York state are foreign born, of whom one-fourth cannot read or write in their own language, and one-half cannot understand or speak English

A will of only 16 words probated at Edwardsville Mo., reads "I hereby bequeath all my belongings both real and personal, to my wife Lydia A Fiegenbaum ' A will probated in the same county in 1910 had only 14 words, including the designation of both devisor and devisee "I John T Ryan, will leave to my wife, Margaret, all my property '

The Burman if he acquires wealth, must also acquire merit—"Kutha' —and this he must do by building a pagoda on which shall be set out on a marble slab how much money he spent in building it He likes people to address him as "Builder of a Pagoda," and he will say to his wife before others, "O wife of a builder of a pagoda."

General Grant was nicknamed Old Unconditional Surrender because of his reply to General Buckner at Ft Donelson in 1862, when Buckner asked what terms of surrender would be allowed 'No terms other than an unconditional and immediate surrender I propose to move immediately upon your works."

The Union Pacific railroad has set aside about $750,000 for building snow sheds in Wyoming These sheds are made of reinforced concrete, and are built in such a way that they can be taken apart and moved to any part of the road where protection from snow is most needed

Though Switzerland led the world in the early electrolytic production of aluminum France has been the chief producing nation since 1896, and supplied as much as 39 2 per cent of the world's annual total at the time of the outbreak of the war

A new railway route across the Andes from Chile to Bolivia scales to a height of between 14,000 and 15,000 feet and to insure the comfort of the travelers in this rarefied atmosphere the trains have been provided with oxygen chambers

Scores of persons attended the funeral of a canary bird at the home of Harry Chambers, Moorestown, N J The bird was 25 years old and many grownups had known it since they were children It was buried in a little silver box

The Arabs introduced simple principles into mathematics and extended the use and application of that science They added to arithmetic the decimal system and the Arabic numerals, which are however of Hindoo origin

United States industries use practically 6,000 000 pounds of bronze powder annually, and 35 per cent of our total consumption was formerly imported from Germany, but it is now "made in America "

As a beet puller Mrs. William Ish, of Findlay, Ohio., thinks she beats the world In just two weeks she pulled 32 tons of beets, topped them and had them in the sugar factory.

Modern methods of mining and smelting have made it profitable to reopen a nickel mine in Norway that was abandoned half a century ago.

More than 16 municipal tramway undertakings throughout the United Kingdom employ women drivers. Glasgow alone having 220 of them.

Amber may be polished by friction with whiting and water, and finally with a little olive oil well rubbed on the surface with a piece of flannel.

Before the war Norway possessed one gross ton of shipping an individual, as compared with about one ton for every three individuals in Great Britain.

Switzerland is at present engaged in the electrification of a part of the railway connecting the country with Italy through the St Gothard tunnel

IOWA METHODISTS AT OMAHA MEETING

Are Laying Plans For Raising Great $80,000,000 Reconstruction and Missionary Fund.

Omaha, Neb., Feb. 13.—The world program convention of the Methodist Episcopal centenary convention opened here this morning for a two days' conference. Methodist Episcopal preachers and laymen from Iowa and Nebraska will be present in large numbers, it being expected that 2,000 will be in attendance.

The purpose of the convention is to complete the organization of the Omaha area, comprising the conferences of Iowa and Nebraska so as to make the drive to raise their quota of the $80,000,000 the church is raising for reconstruction work in Europe and for home and foreign missionary enterprises.

Some of the great men of the church will be present, among them Fred B. Fisher, of New York, executive secretary, C S. Ward, of Boston, campaign director, G. F Ream, of Chicago, chairman of the life service department, Christian F Risner, chairman of the Methodist Episcopal minute men, John W. Rancher, who recently lead a movement to raise $30,000,000 for Methodist Episcopal educational institutions, R. E. Diffendorfer, secretary of home mission board and church extension, and many others.

The two days' program will be held at the First Methodist Episcopal Church and consists of inspirational addresses and discussions. The convention headquarters is at the Y M. C A. Banquets will be held at which intensive campaigns will be discussed The evening sessions will be held at the Brandeis Theater

Northwest Iowa Conference, of which Sioux City is a part, is well represented at the convention by preachers and laymen Drs Trimble, McBurney, Kamphoefer, Spence, Hutchinson, Nixon, and a number of laymen are present Rev M Masters, of Correctionville, is among those from the district

LATER DAY SAINTS MEETING AT WOODBINE

Woodbine Ia., Feb 13 —Sioux City Missouri Valley, Denison, Pisgah, Magnolia Logan and other towns of western Iowa, are well represented by delegates at the L. D S. quarteriy conference in session here. In the Sunday school division Charles Hyde, of Woodbine was elected district superintendent, Fred A Fry, Woodbine, assistant, Cora Kirkwood, Logan, secretary; home class Maud Scofield, Woodbine; cradle roll Mrs W W Baker, Sioux City, member library board, Alice Hupp Woodbine, good literature, Pearl Van Eaton, Pisgah The religio program of Saturday evening drew a large attendance Hortense Hill, Alice Hupp Lily Marks, Amos Berve, Chas. Smith and Hazel Putman appeared upon the program with readings, papers and lectures The Sunday program began with a prayer meeting in the morning, preaching at 11 a. m. by E. A Houghas, men's meeting with C S Kenedy in charge at 1 p. m., preaching at 2 p m by Amos Berve, and preaching in the evening by Charles Putman, Magnolia.

NATIONAL GUARDS ARE TO BE RESTORED

Washington, Feb. 13.—That the National Guard of Iowa, and other states will be organized and restored along the old lines, was predicted today by Representative Harry E. Hull, of the Second district a member of the House military committee. Mr Hull said the fact the House military committee had reported in favor of a $10,000,000 appropriation to support the National Guard meant its restoration.

IOWA LEGISLATURE IN TRIBUTE TO ROOSEVELT

Des Moines, Ia., Feb 13.—The house and senate of the Iowa legislature will meet in joint session in the house chamber at 2 30 o'clock this afternoon to hold memorial services in honor of Theodore Roosevelt.

Nate C Kendall, of Albia, will be the orator of the afternoon, and Tolbert MacRae will lead in community singing

The service will be presided over by Lieut Gov E. R. Moore

INFLUENZA ONCE MORE COMMON AT SIOUX RAPIDS

Sioux Rapids, Ia., Feb. 13.—The third wave of the influenza epidemic has struck here and appears to be virulent. Two deaths have already occurred, Mrs. H J Ackley and Mrs. C. E. Ryder being the victims. There is probability all public meetings, schools, etc., will be closed.

IRETON—Aug Vanderhamm & Sons and C R. Steele held Duroc Jersey sales during the past week The top prices realized at the Vanderhamm sale was $440, the sale totaling $5,119. The top price realized at the Steele sale was $575, while the total was $7,440.

SIOUX CENTER—A meeting of the Sioux County Butter Makers' Association was held here during the past week. Inspector Anderson was present. A committee was appointed to look after the exhibit of butter at the Sioux county fair next fall.

DES MOINES—The total cost of the primaries held in Iowa in 1918 was less by $34,090 12 than in 1916, according to figures compiled by A. J Small, state law librarian The total cost this last June was $149,318.98, as compared to $183,409.10.

SIOUX RAPIDS—Two fellows loaded with booze started to clean out the town a few nights ago. They flourished guns and otherwise conducted themselves in a very unbecoming manner. They were rounded up by the marshal, assisted by a few peaceful minded individuals. The pair next morning paid $75 each for their good time, and were ordered out of town.

ORANGE CITY—At a recent meeting of the Commercial Club it was determined that a real old fashioned Fourth of July celebration will be held this year.

SIOUX RAPIDS—The annual ice harvest is on in full blast here. The ice is about 10 inches thick

OFFICER THOUGHT HE CARRIED BOOZE

Cedar Falls Man Played Trick on Police at Waterloo After Trip to Illinois Town.

Waterloo, Ia., Feb. 1v.—S. C. Murphy, Cedar Falls, recently made a trip to East Dubuque, Ill., and on his return was arrested on a charge of illegal transportation of liquor. Liquor was found in his suit case and he was arraigned on a state charge. He was bound over to await the action of the grand jury and was released on bonds.

Yesterday, Murphy made another trip to Dubuque. When he alighted from the Chicago train he was immediately spotted by a local officer. He was carrying a traveling bag. The officer immediately started in Murphy's direction. Murphy broke into a run, but the officer soon overtook the Cedar Falls man. He was taken to police headquarters.

Murphy refused to open his bag, maintaining the police would have to produce a search warrant. When the police shook the bag they heard the rattle of glassware and informed Murphy that if he did not open the bag he would be held in jail until morning. He finally opened the bag and the officer discovered two bottles of ginger ale and 20 ears of corn

The Cedar Falls man was turned loose and left police headquarters chuckling that he had slipped one over on the police.

UNIVERSITY HEAD IS OPPOSED TO ALIEN LAW

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 12.—President Jessup, of the state university, appeared before the senate committee on educational affairs and opposed the Byington bill, which would prohibit the employment of aliens or professors from other countries who have not become naturalized, from teaching in the state schools. He declares that the fact that a man, particularly a professor, has not become a citizen of this country is by no means a test of patriotism. Some of the most loyal and ardent supporters of the United States in the recent war were aliens, he said

President Jessup explained to the committee that professors from Canada, from France, and from other countries who may be induced to come to this country for a period of teaching, during which time they are widening their own knowledge, naturally do not want to give up their native land permanently And yet this country would lose some very excellent teachers if the anti-alien law, such as is proposed by Senator Byington, was enforced He says it is a most difficult matter in the face of the competition from other big schools to procure the talent necessary in the university faculty

NO INCREASE IN STREET CAR FARES IN DES MOINES

Des Moines, Ia, Feb. 1v.—No higher street car fare in Des Moines. That is the decision of Judge Martin J Wade of Iowa City Judge Wade holds that the rate of fare as fixed in the Franchise, six tickets for 25 cents, must stand, and that he has no authority to order any change.

If the service cannot be maintained at that rate so that a sufficient revenue is derived the service must be adjusted to meet the conditions, says the court. The court's opinion probably means an immediate curtailment of street car service, since the company which is in the hands of a receiver, maintins thata it is impossible to make sufficient revenue at present fares to meet expenses, which include increased wages to employes

DUBUQUE SOLDIER TERRIBLY MAIMED

Dubuque Ia., Feb. 12—Word has been received here of the arrival in New York on the steamer Saxonia of Corporal Henry A Bitters, of Dubuque who lost both eyes and both hands in the premature explosion of a hand grenade in France. Corporal Bitters was instructing other men in the use of the grenade when the explosion occurred Since the mishap he has been confined to hospitals in France, where for a time it was believed he would not recover.

Corporal Bitters before he entered the service was a pharmacist employed in a Dubuque drug store The accident occured after the fighting had ceased. He was at a divisional school in the Toul sector at the time

IRETON HIGH SCHOOLS WIN FROM LAURENS

Ireton, Ia., Feb. 12 —The Ireton high school debating team defeated the Laurens high school team here Friday night by a decision to two to one The question for debate was "Resolved, that the government should establish a permament policy of price control for the so-called necessities of life" The Ireton team upheld the affirmative After the debate the Ireton basketball teams defeated the Alton teams, winning by a score for the boys of 22 to 18, and the girls, 4 to 1.

PERRY—Another $300 per acre farm has been found in the vicinity of Perry, the second to be sold at that price within a few weeks. The place consists of 1977 acres, four miles northwest of the city and was owned by John Kinney He sold it to G. S. Vannatta of Winterset for $57,100.

DES MOINES—The Iowa State Electrical Contractors' Association opened its annual convention here today In addition to the regular program many new appliances will be demonstrated by the profession.

MARTENSDALE—The farm formerly owned by C. E. Shafer, one mile west of town, but recently purchased by C E Moore, was sold to W E. Howell last week for $247.50 per acre, which is an increase of $110 per acre in two years.

WALL LAKE—Rev A Discher, pastor of the Lutheran church here for the past 12 years, died at his home Tuesday following an attack of influenza He leaves a wife and six children

HUN MILITARY CLASS GROWING MORE DEFIANT

Demand Severity Be Taken Out of Peace Terms—Show Signs of Turning Over Government to Spartacans.

By United Press.

Weimar, Germany, Feb. 9 (delayed). —The German government may attempt to use the Spartacans as a weapon to force the allies into making terms of the peace settlement less severe, according to reports in circulation here today.

Government officials openly declare they will refuse to sign the treaty if its provisions "are unreasonable." They intimated that the government would resign, turning the country over to the radical elements, which, they believe, would immediately create a chaotic condition.

Germany would thus not only be unable to pay any indemnities, but, in the belief of government officials, would menace the rest of Europe with the threat of the Spartacan movement spreading. This condition, some Germans argue, would be no worse than the "commercial slavery they foresee from the peace settlement '

The mental attitude of the military class in Germany has developed during the last two months from one of absolute depression to defiance and general condemnation of the entente. The change has been wrought, it is said, by "the lack of sympathy in the entente countries for the present economic, social and politica. conditions in Germany."

This same sentiment was evident in Chancellor Ebert's speech before the national assembly condemning the "seizure" of Alsace-Lorraine and the delayed repatriation of German war prisoners, while Edward David, president of the assembly, showed the same open defiance in his greeting to "our captive Alsatian and Lorranian brothers '

Weimer, Germany, Feb. 9, (delayed) —The provisional constitution of the new German republic is expected to be presented to the national assembly for ratification tomorrow. As soon as it is adopted the assembly will proceed to elect a provisional German president and premier.

The tentative draft of the constitution, which was drawn up under the direction of Hugo Preuss, secretary of the interior, was presented to the special constitution committee only yesterday, but it is understood to have followed so closely the ideas entertained by a majority of the delegates that little redrafting would be necessary

Under the provisional constitution, an upper house will be established similar to the old bundesrath. Its members will be appointed by and represent the governments of the former states Final veto of measures, however, will be shorn from the upper house and placed in the hands of the national assembly, which is proposed, will be considered as the lower house until a permanent constitution is adopted. The executive branch of the government will consist of a president, a premier and 14 ministers.

All parties have united in asking that the sittings of the assembly be transferred to Berlin after Easter, to give sanction to the details worked out in committee here.

The assembly sessions continue comparatively smooth, with only occasional uproars from the persistent radicals under the leadership of Hugo Haase.

DENIES CHARGE OF ATTEMPTED BRIBING

Packers' Attorney In Statement Terms Heney Charge a "Vicious Falsehood."

Washington, Feb. 11. — Branding Francis J Heney's charge as a "vi- ous, dishonorable and unprofessional falsehood," Levy Mayer, counsel for Armour & Company, today denied that he had tried to bribe Heney at a recent session of the Senate packers' inquiry

Heney last week testified that Mayer at a recent session of the investigation, had offered him more law business than he could handle if he would join forces with the packers instead of opposing them

WILL ASK REPEAL OF TAXES ON LUXURIES

Kitchin Announces Action He Will Take When Wilson Signs Revenue Bill.

Washington, Feb 11—Chairman Kitchen, of the House ways and means committee, announced today as soon as President Wilson signed the new war revenue bill he would introduce a resolution for the repeal of the so-called luxury taxes applying to articles of wearing apparel.

Senator Lodge today filed with the Senate 10 000 protest against luxury taxes in the $6,000 000,000 revenue bill These protests, he said, were received from citizens Senator Smoot asserted he had thousands more, and other senators announced every mail brought them scores of objections to these taxes

MONARCHISTS LOSE.

By United Press.

Paris, Feb 9 (delayed)—Bolshevik troops defeated the monarchists in battles at Vyzu and Lamgo, it was announced today

PREDICT DEFEAT FOR PORTUGUESE ROYALISTS

Diplomats Think Portugues Republicans Will Win Complete Victory Soon.

Paris, Feb. 11.—Complete victory for the Portuguese republican forces within a short time was the forecast in diplomatic circles here today.

Strong republican forces are gathering in the northern provinces where the monarchists still hold out, while the blockade on the seaports controlled by the royalists is stiffening. The government at Lisbon considers there are enough troops already in the field to handle the situation without calling on the expeditionary forces which General Rocadas placed at the country's disposal.

War Minister Cortreal has already left Lisbon for the front. President Castro and other members of the cabinet are expected to follow soon.

CLEARS TUMULTY OF LEAK CHARGE

Henry Veeder Denies That Advance Information on Packers' Probe Came From the Secretary.

By United Press.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, was cleared of any connection with packing interests by Henry Veeder, Swift counsel, before the Senate agricultural committee today.

Veeder denied Tumulty was the "Diamond T" from whom the packers got inside information as to President Wilson's plan for a packer investigation.

Agitation against American meat is being conducted in England and South America, Edward Morris, Chicago packer, told the Senate committee.

Morris blamed charges against the packers in this country for the foreign movement.

"We now have one embargo on certain American goods, and I want to say to you with all possible emphasis that if meat exports are wiped out it will not be long until the price of livestock will sharply decline, production will be cut down and labor have less opportunities for employment."

Morris declared the pending bill to license packers would "wipe efficiency out and put in its place experiments."

It would take a "superman" to carry out the license proposal," according to Morris. A bad product would be set up, he added.

SAYS WOMEN SHOULD STUDY WAR PROBLEMS

President of National Council of Women Speaks at Meeting of Peace Organization.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Women should give careful study to the problems growing out of the war, Mrs. Phillip North Moore, president of the National Council of Women, declared in an address today before the "National Congress for a League of Nations." The congress is being held under the auspices of the League to Enforce Peace.

"It is expedient," she said, "that some plan should be formed for maintaining right and peace which, according to the history now being written, must be international. We must build up, reconstruct, till the ground, cultivate and enrich, and dismiss the burden and terror and waste of war"

Mrs. Moore reviewed the activity of women in various lines of war work in the United States and in allied countries, paying especial attention to their records in the industries of France and England.

"There were always numbers of women ready to work," she continued. "The difficulty was that they were untrained, ignorant of any orderly conception of their occupation It is obvious that one of the great lessons of the war—to women—has been the value of training Those who are ambitious in their work will insist on better training, and will demand that, when genuinely skilled, they shall be allowed to fill skilled posts at skilled wages '

Mrs Moore told of the growth in legislation designed to protect children and women in industry and out of it, explaining the need and some of the results of he children's year" fostered by the government. She concluded:

"There were two things worth dying for One was the successful prosecution of the righteous war. The other was, and is to keep down as much as we can the awful cost to the young, to the children born and unborn. We fought with clean hands and pure hearts so that no poison philosophy or her tage of hate should enter our children's minds to make them less worthy of the supreme sacrifice the world was making "

SENDS S. O. S. CALL.

Queenstown, Feb. 11.—S. O. S. calls were received early today from the Steamer Kwarra, of the Elder Dempster & Co., line, reported disabled 400 miles southwest of the Scilly islands. The Kwarra is a steel steamer of 5,319 tons, built in 1910.

EXTEND WHEAT TERMS.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The House agricultural committee yesterday approved an amendment to the government guarantee wheat price bill making the measure effective until October 31, 1919 instead of December 31 1919, as originally provided The amendment will be reported to the House today

URGES BRITAIN AND U. S. TO ACT TOGETHER

King George In Opening Parliament Speaks For cert Between Two Nations Anxious Over Ireland.

By United Press.

London, Feb. 12. King [illegible] speaking from the throne [illegible] opening parliament shortly after today, expressed his desire [illegible] understanding between Great [illegible] and the United States should [illegible] and that the two countries will [illegible] gether in the future"

"It has given me great pleasure to receive President Wilson" said the king. "The enthusiastic welcome accorded him is proof of the good will sections of my people feel toward United States. I earnestly desire increase this understanding and [illegible] my country and the United States [illegible] act together in the future

Indorses League

"I rejoice particularly that the [illegible] delegates have agreed to accept principle of the league of nations It is by progress along that road I see the only hope of saving mankind from recurrence of the scourge of [illegible]

"The armistice has been persevering inforced and the peace discussions have been marked by the utmost cordiality and good will and to complete agreement have made good progress

The king recommended creation of ministries of health and ways of communication, and urged fulfillment the government's pledges to the unions, a large increase in housing accommodations and provisions turning over land to soldiers He urged a bill "preventing unfair competition by the sale of imported goods below the selling price where they produced." He recommended introduction in the house of commons bill for constitutional reform in Ireland

Regarding the Irish situation he said:

"The position in Ireland has caused great anxiety. I earnestly hope that conditions soon will improve sufficiently to make possible a [illegible] settlement."

WILSON WANTS NO OVATION FOR HIM

Cables Tumulty He Would Like to Slip Back Quietly— Plans For Speaking Tour Indefinite.

By United Press.

Washington, Feb. 12.—President Wilson has cabled a request to Secretary Tumulty that no ovation be arranged in his honor on his return to the United States.

The president stated that he would come direct to Washington after landing at an Atlantic port. No definite date for sailing has been decided upon the president stated.

Belief is that the president will dock either at New York or Hampton Roads, but in either case it was stated, the president will go direct to Washington where a mass of executive business awaits him.

The president signified his willingness to march at the head of a parade for returning soldiers in Washington on his return but emphasized that a demonstration be in honor of the fighters and not for him.

The president's cable indicated that he intends to spend practically no time between his arrival and adjournment of congress in executive office and that any speaking trip throughout the country giving details of the peace conference must wait until after that Many bills rushed through the closing hours of congress demand his attention.

President Wilson has cabled his approval of the national budget system as proposed in the House by Chairman Sherley, of the appropriations committee.

BERNE TRADE UNION CONGRESS ADJOURNS

Delegates at Final Session Discuss Forced Labor of German Prisoners.

By Associated Press.

Berne, Switzerland, Feb 10 Monday —The international trades union congress, which has been meeting here simultaneously with the international socialist conference, adjourned today after deciding to meet again in May at a place to be selected later.

The last question discussed was a demand by Herr Schenoberger, a German delegate, to know whether the French and English delegates were prepared to condemn the employment of German prisoners on forced labor and the maintenance of the blockade Leon Jouhaux, a French delegate and president of the French labor federation in reply said that it was impossible to admit the principle of forced labor or forced famine. However, he added, the deportations by the Germans from Belgium and northern France and the treatment of Russian prisoners after the treaty of Brest-Litovsk made it difficult for his party to intervene with the French government.

TO GET DISCHARGE

Washington, Feb. 11—America's "high ace, Eddie Rickenbacker, learned on arrival here that he would get his discharge from service within a week

Canada's war savings [illegible] stamps are now printed in [illegible] guages.

GET PEACE FORE LEAGUE COMPLETED

bsolutely Necessary to on Working Out of Final —Wilson Goes to Brest .

By United Press.

Feb. 12.—President Wilson today to leave Friday for eparatory to sailing for the tates. There was a possibil- ver, that his steamer might before Sunday The presi- rty, it was learned, will in- l Reading, French Ambassa- erand, Italian Ambassador d Franklin Roosevelt, assis- tary of the navy.

rint of the league of nations on which was completed and yesterday was to be read at ession of the committee of ilson is chairman. During the the president was to meet me war council when Belgian were to discuss the sys- plans of the Germans to de- lgian industries. The matter eferred to the supreme eco- uncil for handling in connec- the indemnities and armistice s. The war council was also to consider Marshal Foch's further military demonstra- ch as occupation of other points, to insure compliance armistice ensor Deletes Pape.s.

rench censor showed his dis- of the report that the peace e might be removed from deleting comment from the tions of two American news-

ris edition of the New York peared this morning with a column white space on the . A column article in the tion of the Chicago Tribune, deleted, save for two para- lating to the league of na-

Secretary Balfour replying pondents' questions regarding d threat to move the peace e said it was conceivable that of a large city, by keeping n propaganda, might create by atmosphere that would in- ith the work of the confer- render its removal to a neu- ry desirable. But if such a were created, he said, he could be adjusted ce settlement need not wait hment of the league of na- nuch as it is not the league's determine the terms of retary Balfour declared in with British and Ameri- pondents.

Peace By April 1?

said that no one could tell hen peace will be signed. cifically if he thought it concluded by April 1, he re- he believed that date was r-sanguine.

to a question as to how Ger- pay indemnities if she is not recuperate her industries, hat Germany's recuperation be at the expense of France im, but that "it is nobody's at Germany should become a tion."

cial committee consisting of sentatives each from Great e United States, France and ch the council of the great cided upon a week ago to ex- o the claims of Greece in the ference, will meet Thursday ek attitude toward China in the ference is causing grave ap- among the representatives er associated powers.

Chino-Jap Tangle.

g to official diplomatic in- reaching here, Japan vir- threatened war if China blic secret treaties between ountries and fails to carry reement to make Japan the df Germany in rights, prop- concessions held by Germany reak of the European war.

relying on the peace con- here her delegates are said ade an excellent impression ing support from the United d Great Britain

Talks to Suffragists.

t Wilson; addressing a dele- international woman suf- resentatives, announced that establishment of a special to take up problems con- omen in connection with the lement He indicated that ear the gates would advo- a plan in the peace confersident said that such a com- ue proposed should be com- ally of men and women and ould consider such matters ng conditions for women, , white slavery and uniform nal marriage laws.

MENT ON REPORT.

By United Press.

eb., 11.—Reports circulated that the peace conference moved from Paris because of t obstructionist tactics, from ch press caused the widest today Amazement was ex- n certain French circles that ing could be considered.

Premier Clemenceau sub- the league of nations. French rs continue their propaganda ace settlement on strategic e press is alleged to be pur- her courses that are highly ing to the conference.

OPT CONSTITUTION.

By Associated Press.

(Monday), Feb. 10.—The itional assembly has adopted sional constitution with little nt The national president Press's

WAR MAKES WASTE FOOD A DELICACY

Canadians Now Relish Fish That Formerly Was Thrown Away —Wild Rice Good.

By Associated Press.

Winnipeg, Can.—War time food conservation campaigns in the Canadian northwest have changed the appetites of the people Hundreds of tons of fish and game, once deemed unfit as food, are being consumed each month throughout the dominion

Whale and flatfish seem to lead as sea foods, while beaver and other fur bearing animals hitherto unthought of as table delicacies, likewise are given prominent places in the food lists.

Whale meat, which failed to win recognition in Canada until last summer, is being sold by the ton from Vancouver to Halifax The dominion food board's success in the campaign to market Pacific flatfish is indicated by the official estimate that 3,500,000 pounds have been consumed in six months Fishermen formerly threw away this fish

Until 1918 trappers retained only the pelts of beavers. The Minnesota campaign in behalf of beaver flesh as a food attracted attention in Manitoba and hotels in this province added beaver meat to their menus

Beaver, Chicken Food.

Later someone discovered that chickens "went wild over beaver" and resulting experiments indicated that a diet of beaver meat improved the egg laying qualities of hens in cold weather.

Wild rice that grows in abundance in the northern lake districts also was ignored until American and Canadian commission men in eastern cities began making steady demands for it. Canadian people started eating it after it had gained popularity in hotels.

Odd outfits resembling sailboats have been constructed to thresh the fields.

ASSERTS FARMERS TO BE PROTECTED

Gore In Senate Address Declares Farmers May Rest Assured Wheat Price Will Be Maintained at $2.26.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Senator Gore of Oklahoma, chairman of the Senate agricultural committee, in an address today in the Senate declared that the farmers of the United States could rest assured that the government would keep faith with them in carrying out the guaranteed price of $2.26 a bushel for wheat. The presidential proclamation fixing the price for 1919 wheat, Senator Gore asserted, "creates an obligation against the government—an obligation which is as sacred as that of a Thrift stamp or a United States bond."

Of the two methods of carrying out the guarantee, that requiring the consumer to pay the difference between the fixed price and price in the unregulated market, and that authorizing the government to pay this difference Senator Gore said economic considerations recommended the latter, which has been indorsed by the House agricultural committee and embodied in its bill.

To make the consumer pay the difference the senator said would only metn a continuation of the inflation manifected during the war, which might have serious consequences

Price fixing as regards wheat, he said, had not been successful. It has caused a loss, he claimed, of $800,000,000 to the farmers in two years, with only a "slight individual saving when distributed among the millions of consumers."

In the average family, he said, less than $15 a year on the bread consumed had been saved.

WANTS BROAD POWERS OVER VICTORY LOAN

Secretary of Treasury Submits Request to Congress In Connection With Next Loan.

By Associated Press.

Washington, Feb 12.—Secretary Glass yesterday asked congress to increase the amount of Liberty bonds authorized but unissued to approximately $10,000,000,000 and to give him broad powers to determine the interest rate and other terms of the Victory Liberty loan to be floated late in April. He also sought permission to issue not more than $10,000,000,000 of treasury notes, maturing within five years, and asked that the war finance corporation be authorized for one year after the declaration of peace to make commercial loans on exports to facilitate foreign trade.

In a letter to Chairman Kitchin, of the House ways and means committee Secretary Glass outlined the broad policies which the treasury hopes to follow in dealing with war loans and other national financial subjects of the readjustment period.

NO LEGISLATION ON PACKERS THIS TIME

Interstate Commerce Commitee Members Announce Proposed Measures Will Have to Wait.

Washington, Feb. 12.—No packers legislation need be expected this session.

Members of the House Interstate Commerce Committee, which is considering the subject, said yesterday, it was too late in the session to do anything, and their committee will probably not attempt to report before March 1

TORPEDO-AIRPLANE WAS READY TO BATTLE WITH SUBMARINES

Torpedo-airplane dropping torpedo, above, and splash made by torpedo entering water.

SEATTLE STRIKE PROVES COSTLY

Striking Workmen Lost Millions In Wages — Manufacturers Suffered Severely In Loss of Output.

By United Press.

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 12.—The general strike in Seattle was to all appearances over early today, although it was not to end officially until 12 o'clock noon Street car systems and other public utilities were operated to their normal capacity.

In the bustle to reorganize the disjointed industrial life from 12 noon, when the general strike here was scheduled to end, Seattle was beginning to count profit and loss on the five-day sympathetic walkout that had affected in all more than 100,000 working people and had tied up the city.

None of the responsible men in the city administration nor in commercial circles was talking "open shop" as an aftermath of the general strike.

Preliminary estimates of gains and losses to labor and industry in dollars and cents, although necessarily rough and more or less speculative, include:

Loss of $4,000,000 in output of manufactures, including ship production, based on the annual manufacture volume of $250,000,000 for Seattle.

Loss in wages for 70,000 workmen, figured on $5 day average wage, approximately $3,750,000.

Heavy inroads on union strike benefit funds and also upon city treasury due to emergency protection, and other measures.

The official hour for ending the strike was fixed yesterday afternoon by the general strike committee. The strike committee asked that all workers remain out until that hour.

Striking street car men who returned to their cars Sunday remained at their posts. Others did the same. On the other hand, musicians and stage hands at big down town theaters, after returning to their work, went out again last night.

The general strike was called in sympathy with the strike of 25,000 metal trades workers The metal workers still are out, seeking higher wages

Soldiers remain to protect the city, and hundreds of special policemen will continue on their beats and in reserve until Mayor Ole Hanson and army officials determine that possible danger to property or the persons of Seattle citizens has passed.

BRICKLAYERS STRIKE.

New York, N. Y., Feb. 12.—A sympathetic strike, involving thousands of workers employed on contracts of the Building Trades Employers' Association throughout the country, has been called for today, according to William Hutcheson, president of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

The exact number of men scheduled to walk out cannot be estimated, but Detroit, New Orleans, Terre Haute, Cleveland, Chicago, Columbus and San Francisco are some of the cities that will be affected, Hutcheson said. The striking carpenters are seeking "a dollar a day" increase and have declared their willingness to submit their demand to the war labor board, Hutcheson said The employers have refused to deal with the workers, either directly or indirectly while the strike is in progress, he stated

Less than 1,200 men are on strike in New York city, Secretary Donnelly, of the Building Trades Employers' Association, declared this afternoon.

No difficulties in other cities had been reported to the association here, he said.

WORKERS TO BALLOT.

By Associated Press.

Belfast, Feb 11.—The strikers of Belfast have agreed to take a ballot on the question of a settlement of the strike. Pending the balloting, the city resumed its normal activities today The street car service was resumed and the electric power current started again.

CONGRESS LEARNS OF BOLSHEVISTS

Investigator Tells Story of Russian Reds to Overman Committee Studying Bolshevism.

By United Press.

Washington, Feb 12.—Congress today took up its study of bolshevism

Dr William C Huntington, department of commerce, was to be the first witness heard by the Overman committee when it transferred its probing from German propaganda to bolshevist activities

Huntington was in Russia as commercial attache at Petrograd and Moscow

Russian bolshevists are opposed to any of the old established governments and seek to extend their own to the whole world, Dr. W. C. Huntington today told the Overman committee.

Huntington was in Russia as United States attache from 1916 to 1918.

Huntington said that while the bolshevist leaders accepted German money and were traitors to Russia and the allies, that they had no more sympathy with Germany's government than with any other.

Calls Them Traitors.

"They were perfectly willing to take German money to gain their end," he explained. "They were traitors to the allies, but they did not want Germany to win. Germany used them as a military instrument and when she had gained her ends she was willing to withdraw her troops and send them to the western front.

"Their objections to us are two-fold First, we entered the war and they do not believe in war, and second, we are not a socialist government and do not appeal to them for that reason."

VICTORY FOR BIG NAVY MEN TODAY

Win By Vote of 205 to 148 In Preliminary Tilt With Forces Opposing Administration Program.

Washington, Feb 12.—Legislation for a new three-year building program was voted in order as a part of the annual naval appropriation bill today by the House, which adopted, 205 to 148, a special rule to restore provision stricken out yesterday on points of order by Republican Leader Mann

Washington, Feb 12.—To save the new three-year naval building program from defeat through a parliamentary coup, the House rules committee today ordered the report of a rule making the legislation authorizing construction of 10 battleships and 10 scout cruisers an order for House consideration as a part of the $720,000,000 naval appropriation bill

Champions and opponents of the expansion policy prepared for a test of strength in the House in consideration of the rule. A vote on the rule was to be taken after two hours of debate.

No record vote on the rule was taken in the House committee, but the three republicans present—Representatives Fess, of Ohio; Snell, of New York, and Campbell, of Kansas—said they did not support the rule on the viva voce vote.

NEW LAND REGISTRARS.

By United Press.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The president today sent to the Senate the following nominations:

To be registrars of land offices: John T. Parrish, at Glassport, Id Dallas C. Wyand, at Glenwood Springs Colo; Edward J Hofnagels, at Leadville, Colo. Samuel Campbell, at Portland, Ore Alonzo L Beavers, at Lamar, Colo.

JAPANESE TROOPS TO FIGHT RUSSIAN REDS

Omsk Government Said to Have Accepted Japanese Offer— No Truce With "Murderers"

By Associated Press.

Vladivostok, (Saturday) Feb 8.—Reports from Omsk state that the Russian government there has accepted an offer from Japan of men, money and arms to settle the bolshevist difficulty

DECLARE NO TRUCE.

London Times cable service (Copyright 1919 by Public Ledger Co.) to The Sioux City Tribune

OMSK, Feb 8 The allied declaration of January 23 the invitation to the various Russian governments to a conference with the allies on Princes Island, has produced a deplorable effect here The government has made an official announcement that the allied declaration cannot affect its decision to continue to struggle against the bolshevists

In an order to his troops General Kolitchak characterized as false a rumor that the government has the intention of entering into negotiations with the bolshevists

The socialist newspaper declares the Russian people will never enter into brotherly relations with the bolshevists, who are murderers and criminals.

ALLIES PREPARE TO QUIT RUSSIA

Arrangements Under Way to Withdraw All Forces—Declaration of Non-Intervention Expected Soon.

By United Press.

Paris Feb 10 The associated powers are expected within a few days to proclaim formally the principle of non-intervention in Russia, militarily and politically, it was learned from a reliable source today It is possible to state further in this connection they will carry out their intention to withdraw as rapidly as possible the troops now on Russian territory

This is the outcome of the Anglo-American representations made to France 10 days ago

Advices from northern Russia indicate it will be impossible to get boats to Archangel for several weeks as that port is tightly frozen in The allies do not desire to withdraw their forces from Murmansk while their troops are still on the Archangel front as that would leave the latter exposed to an attack from the west

The British, however, are understood to be mobilizing a large fleet of ice crushers and operations in the meantime, even local offensive movements, will be designed solely to expedite evacuation.

Before the point conference convenes at Prinkipos Island it is believed that an understanding may be reached by the soviet government and the associated powers regarding cessation of hostilities since this would be acceptable under present conditions to both sides

HUN REDS ACTIVE AGAIN IN BERLIN

Mob Overpowers Government Troops—Grave Fears For Safety of Ebert Government.

Berlin Feb 9.—(delayed)—A mob of 400 civilians attacked government troops which were searching for arms in one of the poorer districts of Berlin today They had overpowered and disarmed the troops when help arrived.

The mob turned the captured weapons of the reinforcements but the latter's fusillade dispersed the rioters.

Five persons were killed and a dozen wounded Continuation of the search revealed many weapons

RUSSIANS IN BERLIN.

London Times cable service (Copyright 1919 by Public Ledger Co.) to The Sioux City Tribune

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 10.—In Berlin anxiety is growing The Vorwaerts learns the secret of a very violent agitation being on foot The paper urgently entreats the socialists not to partake in any demonstrations except those arranged by the party The Deutsche Tages Zeitung writes Spartacus is on the march Spartacans are strengthened by the government conflicts with the workers' and soldiers' councils

Berlin is crowded with Russian bolshevist agents carrying on bolshevist agitation. By this fresh blaze of bolshevism they are exceeding their former attempt to usurp power and it is expected that the troops stationed in Berlin are too few to be able to interfere effectively at the right time. Besides some of them are untrustworthy

BANDITS GET LOOT.

Minneapolis, Feb. 10.—Five armed, unmasked bandits held up the Liberty State Bank here early today and escaped with $10,000 in cash and $15,000 in Liberty bonds.

TO FIGHT CARRANZA.

By United Press.

Washington, Feb. 10.—An anti-Carranza movement in Mexico, when the Mexican congress meets in special session April 1, was predicted here today in circles known to be in close touch with the so called revolutionary factions. Carranza has summoned the congress for the announced purpose of framing legislation repealing his confiscatory oil decrees of last summer

DEPORTATION OF RADICALS TO BE ON BIGGER SCALE

Senate Is Told Labor Department Plans to Send Away Bolshevists and Anarchists By Wholesale.

By United Press.

Washington Feb 12 Wholesale deportations of alien anarchists and bolshevists will begin by the labor department as soon as ships are available, Senator King told the Senate today.

Senator Jones, Washington, presented a petition from citizens of his state for deportation of I W W and anarchist agitators.

By Associated Press.

New York, Feb 12.—Fifty-four radicals, alien born anarchists, Industrial Workers of the World and others, arrived at Hoboken today on a train from the west enroute to the Ellis Island immigration station where they are to be detained until arrangements can be completed for their deportation. As a group of men was led from the train to the boat on which transferral was made to Ellis Island, three cheers for the bolshevists were given and three more for the I W W

When all of the 53 men and one woman had reached the decks of the immigration boat the police ordered the I W W members to separate themselves from the others and move to one end of the vessel Attack Policeman.

One I W W member objected and struck a policeman on the nose with his fist Others of the I W W closed in the police came to the rescue of the man attacked and not until clubs had been used freely and effectively were the I W W members subdued Another version of this disturbance was that one of the 54 had throughout the journey from the west been suspected of being a government agent in disguise.

Red Ties Flame.

A strange scene was presented as the arrivals stepped from the train shortly after dawn Many of them wore flaming red ties The woman had on a fur coat and a black sailor hat The men had been playing cards most of the night and showed the want of sleep and were unshaven Canvas carpetbags of the kind immigrants carry were included in an odd assortment of baggage with here and there a shiny new suitcase Some of the men wore no hats one had set a Panama rakishly back from his forehead The temperature was not mild and many of the radicals shivered for lack of overcoats

FIVE TRANSPORTS ON WAY BACK TO STATES

Units on Board Include North Dakota Troops—Pershing Orders Six Divisions Home

Washington Feb 12 Four transports and a cruiser, with more than 10,000 troops aboard, have sailed from France and will arrive at New York and Newport News between February 16 and February 20.

The 164th infantry complete, practically all of the 162nd infantry and part of the 161st infantry of the 41st division, composed of national guard troops from Washington, Oregon, Montana, North Dakota and the District of Columbia, are included in the units now en route home.

The President Grant, due February 20, carries the 164th infantry complete, and the supply company and Company K, of the 162nd infantry, both of the 41st division, routed to Camp Dix. About 4,000 officers and men, in addition to a number of casual officers and more than 700 sick and wounded, are aboard, with Brig. Gen Albert H. Blandin commanding the 184th infantry brigade

SIX MORE DIVISIONS.

By United Press.

Washington, Feb 12.—General Pershing today cabled the war department that six more divisions of American troops had been ordered to prepare for return to the United States The divisions were the 30th, 85th, 26th, 77th, 82nd and 35th

SIX TRANSPORTS DUE IN NEW YORK TODAY

Flotilla of Troop Ships, Including Leviathan, Bringing 12,000 Back From France.

New York, Feb. 12.—Six troop ships, carrying a total of 11,616 enlisted men and 405 officers, were scheduled to arrive here today from French ports. The Leviathan, from Brest, carries 9,295 officers and men.

The other ships were the Duca Degli Abruzzi, from Marseilles, with 1,177 officers and men The U. S. S Charleston, from Brest, with 51 officers and 1,196 regulars; the Hickman, from Bordeaux, 31 men and 10 officers, Woonsocket and Peerless, also from Bordeaux, with 11 officers and 187 men

NEWSPRINT HEARING.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The federal trade commission today started a preliminary hearing on newsprint prices, beginning August 1

It is reported that Archibald Stevenson, who, in testifying before the Senate committee investigating German propaganda, furnished them with a list of prominent people considered by the military intelligence bureau as pro-German has been discharged from the service of that bureau by Secretary of War Baker says a dispatch from Washington.

The Scrap Book

TER THAN RUBBER BOTTLE

Said to Give More Satisfactory Results Than the Old Familiar Family Standby hen aches and pains are to be al- d it is usually he family hot wa- bottle that is called into service. A rubber tube bo ... about half inch in di...meter and as long as de- d, will give much better results,

...to in adaptability and evenness of temperature, writes F. J. Matter in Popular Science Monthly.

The way to use the tube is to coil it ... and the part to be treated attach- ... one end to a hot or cold water fau... with the other end leading to a drain. By using the bathtub mixing faucet the tube can be kept at any temperature for as long as desired. If necessary, it can be kept in place by means of bandages.

THE GLORY OF THE DEAD.

Columbia drew her battle sword,
For liberty and right;
Across three thousand miles of sea,
She bore it to the fight.
The shining stars upon her flag
Brought hope, like dawning suns;
And tyrants' thrones were shaken
In the tempest of her guns.

Then Freedom said, "Arise, ye dead;
Amerika is here!"
And dying Belgium raised her head
And cast away her fear.
"Debout les morts!" The wounded French
Rose in ranks and saw
The Great Republic's starry flag,
Her countless hosts of war.

Not in a war of conquest,
Her children's blood is shed;
She shall not stain, for gold or grain,
The Glory of her Dead.
Not for an empire's wide domain,
Or victor's crown of bravery;
Her spoil shall be the shattered chains
Of nations freed from slavery.
—Bertrand Shadwell.

Workmen Who Have Titles.

A baronet's wife recently opened a hotel in the West End of London which is expected to be well-patronized by those who like to feel that they are guests of the aristocracy. And this leads the Manchester Guardian to point out that before the war an authentic marchioness—Marquis de Torcy d'Etallonde—kept an inn at Carnac, France, much frequented by tourists, and that many French aristocrats are driven to earn their livelihood in less pleasant and profitable callings than that of an innkeeper.

M. Xavier de Limal states in his "Nobles en Noblesse" that the present Marquis de Feligne is an omnibus conductor, Comte de la Marche is a house painter, Baron de Dosgrand works in a flour mill, Baron de Soigny is a postman, and Comte de St. Paul is a clerk. M. Jean de Retz of the same family as the famous cardinal, is grave digger in a Brittany village, and Vicomte de Bardenenche (whose title dates from the eleventh century) used to clean lamps at the Gare du Nord for five francs a day.

Ludendorff's Chief Weapons.

In a study of Ludendorff's methods Albert de Ponvourville of the French colonial council intelligence service, said: "Espionage, the anarchist propaganda in the East, defeatist propaganda in the West, millions ladled from banks, libels and treasons, pacifist literature, missions for the most corrupt men and the most alluring women, ultra-patriotic enthusiasm, ferment, destruction, rupture among neutrals, all have emanated from the brain of Ludendorff, and hither their results were all returned and registered. For him the affair of the Isonzo was not merely a battle of shock; it comprised intrigues, betrayals, forgeries, false orders of the day, and every other vile thing that was necessary to bring about the desired object."

Standard Test for Compasses.

One of the many new undertakings of the bureau of standards is an investigation of magnetic compasses, in behalf of the naval observatory, the joint army and navy board of specifications, and the shipping board. The bureau proposes to develop a standard method of testing compasses and to prepare specifications for the purchase of compasses by the government. A special form of magnetometer has been devised for the determination of magnetic moment and a rotation test for pivot friction is being developed. The bureau expects to test several thousand compasses in the near future.

A Tabooed Author.

"There goes Professor Diggs."

"What about him?"

"He's always quoting Plato."

"Oh, that's all right. But if anybody ever tries to quote Nietzsche to me there's going to be trouble, and plenty of it."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Is That So?

Mr. Peerabout was the typical tourist, so when on his wanderings he came across a depression in the ground covering several acres, he pounced upon a native eagerly, firing his questions at him:

"What is this depression, can you tell me, my good man?"

"That is the bed of a lake."

"Is that so, really. And what has happened to the water?"

"It was this way: There was a picnic here last year, and they had a spare case of anchovy, and as they didn't want to carry it home they threw it in the lake."

"Yes, I see! But what has that to do with it?"

"Everything. The fish ate them, and the salt diet made them so thirsty they drank all the water."

Market Day Sale!

Sale will be held at Chas. Busch's barn in east part of town; on--- Wednesday, Feb. 26

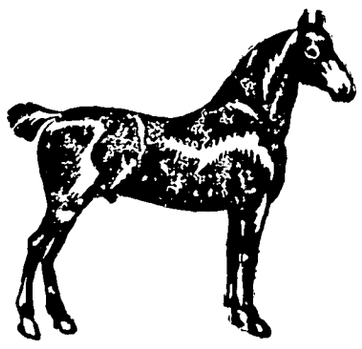
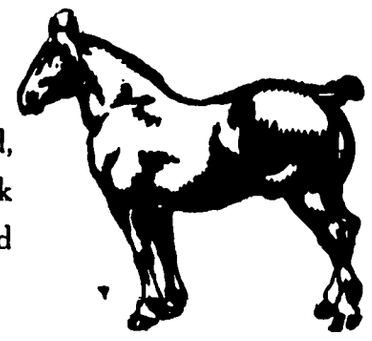
Sale to begin at 1:00 P. M. Sharp



5 Head of Horses 5

1 Imported Belgian chestnut sorrel Stallion, 9 years old, sound, show type; 1 sorrel mare 5 yrs old in foal, wt 1700; 1 black mare 5 yrs old in foal, wt 1400, blind; 1 black mare 4 yrs old wt 1300, sound; 1 mule one year old.



26 Head of Cattle 26

6 yearling heifers; 6 yearling steers; 7 heifers 2 yrs old; 7 calves 9 months old

3 HEAD DUROC JERSEY HOGS 3

2 pure bred Duroc Jersey gilts, bred; 1 full blood Duroc Jersey fall Boar

1 Ford touring car, never been driven, numbers never taken out, brand new!

FARM MACHINERY ETC.

John Deere hay loader; bob sled; wash machine; lawn mower; two hole gasoline stove; sharpless cream separator; 2½ horse power gas engine; galvanized water tank 3 x 6 ft; good churn; wash machine; garden plow; good set breeching harness, good set 1¼ in harness; corn sliced; set of bridles; some collars; wheelbarrow; road scraper; new log saw; good washing machine; hay knife in good shape; cylinder corn sheller; good single harness; Ford radiator cover bedstead, spring and mattress; childs bed; go-cart; Dresser; 8 ft. dining table; cook stove; sanitary cot oak cupboard; 2 pictures; 2 picture framer; rocking chair; Gail corn planter; sulky plow; cast iron wood heater; oil heater; one top buggy; Galloway fur coat; vacumn cleaner; oil stove; Davenport, smitation leather; kitchen cabinat, golden oak finish; Social National heater, used 6 months, size 16; telescope baby buggy; high chair; piece of linolium 13x16 40 fruit jars. 1 lot, block 3 lot 5, 56x148 in Morning Side Add, one of the best lots, will be sold on this sale.

TERMS—All sums of $10 and under, cash. Over $10 a credit of 10 months time will be given on approved notes bearing interest at 8 per cent from date of sale. No property to be rmoved until settled for.

Col. B. A. Reemstma

Auctioneer

State Savings Bank, Clerks

Last Call On

Sheep-lined Caots and Men's and Young Men's OVERCOATS

We are going to offer on the above 15 per cent off

For Friday, Saturday and Monday

This will be your last opportunity to buy these garments at a Reduction

Special for Saturday and Monday

Men's Genuine Rockford Hose
Heavy weight, 4 pairs for 50c

Get to know

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

"IOWA'S LARGEST CLOTHERS"

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Cloths

Fourteen Stores. Garner, Iowa

Panama Canal Due for Boom.

Mention of San Diego, Cal., in connection with some after-the-war activities, will serve to recall to many the fact that nothing like the best possible has thus far been realized with regard to the Panama canal by Pacific coast cities. The war came along too soon to permit business on the great waterway to get a good start, and, worse than that, the war gathered to its use, for employment in other parts of the globe, shipping that might have been far more usefully employed in developing the peaceful commerce of the world. But the Panama canal is still ready for busine...

Protest.

"Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "are we going to have freedom of the seas?"

"Why are you so interested?"

"I haven't forgotten the way we were treated at the beach last summer. I don't believe anybody has a right to rope off the ocean and then charge you 50 cents for the privilege of taking a bath in it."

Housing Problems.

"Ever notice that there are no haunted houses in Washington?"

"No. But come to think of it, what chance would a ghost have of holding on to a dwelling place when the landlord himself couldn't get possession?"

That's How It's Done.

A black mammy's recipes for her cakes: "Why, sure, honey, I'll tell you jess how to do it. You takes as much meal as you wants, mix in some flour an' three or four aigs, put in milk 'nough to make it thick as it oughter be; don't forgit a pinch or two o' salt and a good-sized lump o' butter; drop in a little sugar, too; den fill de little pans an' put 'em in de oven . . . till dey's done, honey."

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeo...
Phone No. 19. KLEMME I...
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitt...

W. F. PAVE...
The Practical Blacksm...
OXY-ACETYLENE WEL...
Wagon, Buggy and Mac... Repairing
Horse Shoeing and ... Work a Specialty

Col. B. A. Reemts...
General Auctione...
KLEMME, IOWA
Farm and Stock Sales a Spe...
Call, write or phone 508 K... me for dates, terms, etc.
...Satisfaction Guarante...

J. S. WESSON, D. V. ...
GARNER, IOWA
CALLS ATTENDED DAY ...
NIGHT
Office Phone 196 Residen...

Removal Sale of Wall Paper

I find that it is necessary to dispose of my entire stock of Wall Paper at

Greatly Reduced Prices

Prices ranging from five to fifteen cents per roll.

1919 Samples now here
We will take your order

J. B. MACK

Remember this sale is only good until Feb. 28. Have several rolls of discards you can use for shelf paper, free if yon call for them. Open evenings only 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. Schaffer Bldg. up stairs.

DISTRICT COURT OF
AND FOR HANCOCK COUNTY

rch Term, 1919

GINAL NOTICE

,

tiff,

vs.

n claimants to the North-ter (NE¼) of the Southrter (SE¼) of Section
), Township Ninety-seven
rth of Range Twenty-
, West of the 5th P. M.,
County, Iowa, and Wilrse, Wm. Lackore, James
William Lackore, Mrs.
Lackore, Rose Lackore,
ckore, Emma Lackore,
kore, Rozina Deitz, Fred
Cora Steineker, August
, Rosina Dietz, Fred
B. Stinieker, Cora Stin-
d the unknown heirs, de-grantees, spouses, and under the aforesaid deand all parties claiming
, title, or interest by, thru the named defendants or claimants or any of them.
endants.
fendants and to unknown
of said land described in hereof:
each of you are hereby at there is now on file in of the Clerk of the District of Hancock County, Iowa, the of plaintiff in the aforesaid ming in substance that he is e owner in fee simple of st Quarter (NE¼) of the Quarter (SE¼) of Section
, Township Ninety-seven
h of Range Twenty-four of the 5th P. M., in Han-
y, Iowa, that he and party
m he claims title under veyance have been in hos-
and undisturbed possession
d under color of title and ht by upwards of twenty
st. That such possession dverse to all defendants to all unknown claimants.
named defendants have contract to Quit Claim
ntiff, but though request-lly refused to do so. That fendants or unknown
e no right, title or inter-said premises but have m thereto which plaintiff move, being clouds upon at the names and resi-nknown defendants are plaintiff, who has sought learn same. Said petition id unknown claimants of nd and all defendants named all persons claiming by,
r them or any of them,
in said premises be for-
and estopped from having any right, title or interest
t the plaintiff's title in s be quieted in plaintiff defendants named or und against all unknown and for other equitable

er particulars see said pe-urther notified that unless thereto and defend bef the second day of the f said District Court of for Hancock County, be-rch 1919 term thereof,

nes and will be held at ouse at Garner, Iowa, on of March, 1919, default
ed against you and judgcree rendered thereon as ded.

Dated this 29th day of January, 1919.

Gorden & munds n,
Attorne s f. Pla ntiff

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATRIX

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified as Administratrix of the Estate of Wilhelmina Terhuffen, late of Hancock County, State of Iowa, deceased. All persons indebted to the estate are requested to make immediate payment; and all those having claims against the same will present them, duly authenticated, to the undersigned, for allowance.

Dated February, 4, A. D. 1919.

Emma Gibbs,
Administratrix

3w

NOTICE OF FILING FINAL REPORT

In the District Court of Iowa in and for Hancock County, in the matterof the estate of August Stromer, deceased, to Charley Faust and William Faust, Legatees in the above entitled matter.

You and each of you are hereby notified that the undersigned who is duly qualified and acting Executor of the last will and testament of August Stromer, deceased, will on or before the 19th day of February, 1919, file in the office of the Clerk of the District Court of Iowa in and for Hancock, County his final report asking for its approval, and for discharge from further duty or responsibility therein. That said report and application for discharge will come on for hearing aforesaid at the Court House in Garner, Hancock County, Iowa, on the 4th day of March,A. D. 1919, or as soon thereafter as the same can be heard, at which time and place you can appear and show cause, if any you have, why said final report should not be approved, and the undersigned discharged from further duty or responsibility therein.

Herman Stromer,
Executor.

of Paris.
ister of pari mix with en it co

E. P. HANSON
REAL ESTATE AND LIVE STOCK
AUCTIONEER
GARNER, IOWA. PHONE 105
SATISFIED CUSTOMERS
MY BEST REFERENCE
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
PHONE OR WRITE FOR INFORMATION AND SALE DATES AT ONCE

Mother's Advice.

"Remember, my son" said his mother, as she bade him good-by, 'when you get to camp try to be punctual in the morning, so as not to keep breakfast waiting."—Life.

No Such Luck.

A famous British general possessed of literary leanings, in e course of an address in Edinburg some years ago, had occasion to remark that he had kissed the "muses." The printer, thinking he could more accurately estimate the probabilities, made it appear that the gallant soldier had kissed the "nurses." In his letter of correction, almost in a spirit of regret, the general made it clear that he had had no such luck!

My stocks include Pine Tree Brand Seeds, each bag tagged in compliance with our State Seed Law, showing purity and germination test, all high grade seed, of which I solicit your most exacting examination.

Stocks include Northern Grown

Walter F. Lau

Chas. L. Steiner Herman Dallman

BRED SOW SALE

The Steiner & Dallman Sale of Duroc Bred Sows

At Britt, Iowa, February 28, 1919

All Stock Immuned

HERD BOARS

He Is A Wonder by Great Wonder I Am, Select Pathfinder by Pathfinder, King Orion Critic by King Orion Cherry.

Offering Consists of 12 tried sows, 3 fall yearlings, 28 spring gilts. All bred for March and April farrow.

The gilts have been handled with the view of developing real brood sows of them, and while not fat they will weigh well over 300 pounds. Most of them are sired by Select Pathfinder, but there are 6 by Col. Algo, 2 by Aviator, 1 by King Orion Cherry.

Among the tried sows are 3 by Great Wonder I Am and 1 by Big Pathfinder attractions of the sale.

The bloodlines of R. J's. Col., Illustrator's Orion Chief, Col. Wonder, Great Gano, I Am Golden Model 2nd, and others of equal merit are also represented in the offering Auctioneers: Col. Lou Matern and Col. Otto Kunz, of Wesley, Iowa, Duroc Bulletin representative V. B. Amos, of Mason City.

Mail bids may be sent to auctioneers or fieldmen in our care.

Sale will be held in Britt in comfortable quarters. Come and be our guests sale day. Catalogues on request.

Steiner & Dallman

Britt, Iowa

Fieldmen: H. L. Cantine, Wallace Farmer; A. E. Clayton, Algona Advance Lee Nutty, County Agent.

EAST SWINGING INTO LINE

Famous "Road to Mandalay" Rapidly Becoming Dotted With Industrial Plants of All Sorts.

The whirr of the loom and constant hum of industrial machinery are fast drowning the softer noises of the East, "from Rangoon to Mandalay."

Here, in the very section that Kipling made familiar to the world more than a generation ago, when he described the mystic charm of India, manufacturing communities have sprung up that make the banks of the rivers resemble those of the Merrimac in New England, writes a correspondent.

Burma girls, such as waited for the British soldier, are still here, but most of them are working in shops.

The annual report of the Indian factories act committee for 1917 shows there are 536 factories registered, with 68,435 persons employed.

Rice mills predominate, as might be expected. There are 329 of these, with 108 sawmills, six petroleum refineries, 15 cotton-ginning mills, 15 oil mills, eight shops for making printing presses, seven brass and iron factories and many others.

Rangoon, Mandalay and Moulmein—three of the important manufacturing towns of the district, have been modernized. They have high sanitary standards and many of the conveniences that mark the prosperous European or American industrial community.

Modern India has her child labor laws. Women have supplanted children in most of the mills and few children under fourteen are employed.

Wages have not varied much in the last year, but even here, India is fast approaching Western communities. Most of the workers are seeking more pay and an increase is deemed likely in a few months.

War Deafness.

War deafness may be caused by injury to the ear, or simply by the force of concussion. In many cases there are general nervous affections. "By the force of the explosion," writes Dr. J. Gordon Wilson in the Journal of the American Medical Association, "the soldier may have been blown violently against the parapet or walls of the dugout or hurled for some distance through the air or struck by debris from the destruction of neighboring buildings. One man described it as a soft, irresistible force pushing him up against the parapet wall close to which he was standing when the shell burst in the trench. As a result of explosions men may be buried for varying periods, and this has a bearing on the case. In a great number of cases the concussion bursts the ear drum. Frequently mental effects are complicated and a man imagines that he is deaf.

The treatment is repairing whatever wounds there may be. The deafness is usually temporary and hearing is gradually brought back.

New York's Systematic Growth.

A remarkable forecast of population of New York is brought to light in copies of the Scientific American for September 8, 1860. A statistician for the manual of the common council shows the population of the city to increase until 1905 would have made the population of New York 5,257,493, a figure almost in accord with the census of that time.

Weak Womanhood.

Some married women are so weak that they allow their husbands to keep part of their salaries.—Idaho Statesman.

He's Usually Not Worth It.

The trouble with the man you have to know to like is that usually he is so disagreeable that few people care to make a second attempt to know him.—Detroit Free Press.

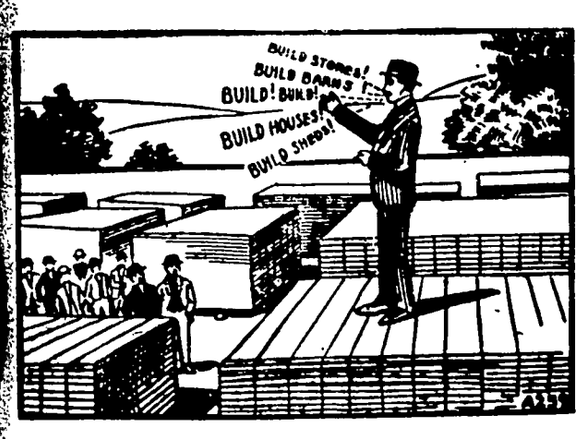
No Ambitious Man is without a bank account. It shows you to be a man of

Method, Caution and Thrift

The people with whom you deal have more respect for you if you pay by check instead of currency. As a matter of prudence as well as ambition, open your account with us.

State Savings Bank
WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE YOU LIKE AND LIKE THE SERVICE YOU GET
KLEMME, IA.



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

RTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16 Residence Phone No. 52

The City Dray Line

is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

Coal Hauling Done

Gain in Trade With Japan Is Noteworthy.

From National City Bank Bulletin.

Trade of the United States with Japan in the year just ended has shown a tremendous gain especially on the export side A compilation by the National City Bank of New York shows that the value of merchandise exported from the United States to Japan and its leased territory in China aggregated for the year about $280,000,000, against $134 000,000 in the fiscal year 1917 To Japan proper the total for the 10 months ending with October, 1918, is $223,000,000, against $126,000,000 in the same months of 1917 and only $81,000 000 in the corresponding months of 1916, while to Japanese leased territory in China the total for the 10 months of 1918 is $5 780,000 against $3,624 000 in the same months of 1917, and $922,000 in the corresponding months of 1916

This new trade with Japan's leased territory in China is especially interesting, showing as it does a very large increase in both imports and exports, and representing food products drawn from that territory and manufactures sent to that area. The value of merchandise imported from Japanese China in the 10 months ending with October is in round terms, $25 000 000 against slightly less than $6 000,000 in the same months of 1917 and a little over $1 000 000 in the corresponding months of 1916, and represents chiefly soya bean oil, while merchandise sent to that area, amounting to nearly $6 000,000 in the 10 months of 1918, against less than $1 000 000 in 1916 consists of various manufactures, but especially boots and shoes, and certain lines of machinery In men's boots and shoes alone the value of shipments to Japanese territory in China was, in the 10 months ending with October, 1918, nearly $2,000 000 against practically nothing in the corresponding period of the preceding year, and the quantity of soya bean oil imported from Japan se China was $20 285 000 against $9 311 000 in the same months of 1917 and $1,381,000 in the corresponding months of 1916

In the trade with Japan proper the growth occurs almost exclusively in raw cotton and manufactures of iron and steel, the import side the chief articles drawn from Japan are raw silk tea and soya bean oil. The whole showing is one to encourage If Japan is prosperous she will be a good customer It, therefore, is highly desirable that she shall be prosperous

Patriotic Currency and Prices.

United States Senator Robert L Owen, of Oklahoma, after conferring with international financial authorities in Paris and in London, explains his view that the high prices prevailing in Europe and America are due in part to expanded foreign paper currency, and that American reserve banks or a foreign reserve bank, analogous to the American system, would be highly advantageous in making the American gold dollar the measure of international contracts, and thus expanding American commerce abroad

Summing up his observation, Senator Owen said:

The high prices in Great Britain and France are due not alone to high freights and short supplies, but in part to the greatly expanded currency which while nominally on a gold basis, is in reality based on government credit and patriotism. British and French notes not really being available to get gold Consequently American dollars, exchangeable in America for gold, are buying in Great Britain and France paper currency not actually convertible into gold on demand and with a purchasing power much lower than in normal times.

In the meantime, however, Americans are paying about twice as much for what they get in Great Britain and France as in normal times This will help to adjust the balance of trade, and it falls largely upon Americans traveling in and buying goods from Europe.

An international gold currency actually convertible at all times into gold, is greatly needed by the world now Great Britain is furnishing Russia with ruble notes redeemable in gold at London, which serves a very useful purpose in providing a stable means for buying and selling commodities in Russia, notwithstanding the fact that ruble notes are, in all human possibility, not actually exchanged for gold in London

America could furnish gold secured ruble notes very advantageously to American commerce, Russia safeguarding the notes by quick redemption in gold at a central point.

The Year Ahead

From the Buffalo Financial Review

France has already appropriated nearly $400,000,000 to carry on peace work on railways, ports bridges and for general improvements Italy has set aside $50,000,000 for the same character of work England will follow a similar plan The United States should not be behind in promptly making appropriations proportionate to our vast resources to help industry and labor through the emergency period of transition

* * * * * * * *

While manufacturers expecting lower cost material will restrict their purchases the buying power of the country, in its agricultural regions, may not be influenced by the prospect of lower prices later on and will continue on a large volume Some of the war uses like shipbuilding consumption of large amounts of steel will go on Munitions manufacture may be expected to stop but big volume is not as its forces can be adjusted Railroads could use very great amounts of steel if the government would undertake to bring the roads' equipment facilities, extensions and improvements up to date But the railroad administration has announced that it will not make further equipment contracts until costs are lower This is a grave error The government should make these purchases and charge the war with the extra cost

Generally speaking stocks of goods throughout the country are low This is one of the saving factors in the situation There will later on—perhaps soon be increased demand for goods, but in the meantime manufacturers will not make up lines except as ordered and buyers will not order at present prices hoping for lower ones Temporarily then the action becomes hand to mouth in its development

But some prices will not decline in the near future. Those things which contribute to living needs of the masses continue in large daily demand High wages have made luxuries and plenty necessities Necessity is an elastic word Necessities of life in the country are not what if denied, would produce starvation but are those things which the people think they must have and are willing to pay for The list is a long one and the demand for them widespread. Demand always keeps prices from falling And high wages for those commodities which are considered necessary will keep wages high

First Woman Smoker.

From the Arkansas Gazette

The first European woman to form the habit of smoking tobacco was Mary Frith, better known to her contemporaries as Moll Cutpurse who was born in 1565 In her time pockets were not yet invented, and gentlemen carried their money in purses worn at the girdle Moll Cutpurse early became an adept in the art of cutting the strings of purses without the knowledge of their owners She wore men's clothing Later in life she became a highway woman, and held up travelers along the English roads

In ancient prints she is usually pictured smoking a pipe and she was undoubtedly the first white woman to proclaim her allegiance to Lady Nicotine On one occasion she caused the downfall of a notorious band of what would now be called "white slavers," and rescued a young girl from their clutches She lived to be nearly 80 and left a will requesting that the remainder of her fortune be spent in merrymaking at her funeral Pity the Plight of Gold.

From the New York World.

The country is asked by a committee of government experts in mining and geology, reporting to the secretary of the interior, to shed a few tears over the plight of gold and its reduced output, which is viewed as a national peril. Something must be done is the conclusion; but, while the committee is conservative enough to advise against bonuses on gold production, it warms up to proposals of war tax exemptions and the like.

Gold is much in the position of the person living on a fixed salary or income. Its price is established by law and never varies It is prosperous when the living costs of its mining or the value of labor and commodities in relation to itself are low or falling and it is in hard times when labor and commodity prices, as now, are high Accordingly at present the activities of gold mining companies are greatly restrained for precisely the reason that the amplitude of the fixed salaried person's living is greatly restrained

But we hear of no movement at Washington to abate the war income taxes for that salaried person or people generally who suffer from the high costs of living

We learned to salt some kopecks down, to do without new hat or gown, in war's forbidding days. I thought we'd learned the use of thrift and that we never more would drift to our old wasteful ways I said. "The lesson war has taught could never be too dearly bought, it is of untold worth, we've learned the value of the yen, and we won't blow the iron men while we infest this earth We've learned how good it is to own a surplus plunk, an extra bone, when comes the time of stress, the lesson's sunk into our souls and we'll be careful of our rolls in future times, I guess." But when I heard that war was done, that we had canned the kultured Hun, and stripped him of his sword, I felt a wild desire to go to busy marts of trade and blow my little wartime hoard "The lid is off," I told myself "the merchant has upon his shelf a lot of junk I need, to be a miser in peace times, to go on boarding plunks and dimes, were foolishness indeed" And so I went abroad to buy whatever doodad caught my eye, just bent on burning mon, and all my neighbors were abroad, each one resolved to blow the wad he saved ere war was done.

Singer in No Man's Land.

Crystal Waters, in Sunset

Then came the experience of 1,000 life times We three girls—no other women at all—were crossing No Man's Land and going over into country held by the enemy four years—and within 36 hours from the time it was taken!

It was easier said than done. The road across No Man's Land was just wide enough for single file It was shell shot and muddy We could go only a few feet at a time, for the road was jammed with camions of ammunition following the boys supplies of all kinds, heavy and light artillery field kitchens, everything that could be needed for an advanced position. There was such congestion that we'd move a car's length and wait half an hour or more Some of the boys on the trucks knew me and begged for a song I stood up on the bank at the side of the road and went to it No Man's Land was a ravine The Germans had been on one hill and the Americans on the other The road led down through what had been a village now about 100 yards from where I stood There was not one wall standing' Each side of the road was a mass of barbed wire. In front of me was a 16-inch camouflaged cannon and on this hundreds of boys were sitting listening to me.

I couldn't realize what I was going through It seemed as though I were in a trance'

Then we were moving again. Everywhere along the road the boys were so astonished at seeing a girl that they whooped We went so slowly that I could see their names on their gas masks, and I'd say, 'Hello, Mr Donovan," etc., just to see their jaws drop I never saw so many men at one time in my life! All America was on or beside that road as we pushed over on ground held by Germans for four years. German signs, German dugouts' But the German had fled

Save Food.

Eighty millions of men cannot be taken out of production for four years without lasting losses of yield. It will be years before their fields recuperate, farms are restored and herds restocked. Save food.

The rulers of 19 other kingdoms, grand duchies, duchies and principalities embraced in the German empire are reported to have abdicated.

In Face of This Evidence Germany Still Asks Allies for Food and Aid

Group of Starving, Disease Infected British Prisoners Released From German Prison Camp.

This picture speaks for itself. The British soldiers shown were released recently from a German prison camp under the terms of the armistice. They are starved and suffering from disease and malnutrition They tell stories of illtreatment and abuse at the hands of the Germans that would be unbelievable were they not substantiated by the condition of the men. Hundreds of their comrades died. In the face of this evidence Germany continues to ask the allies for food and aid.

AMERICAN HEIRESS MAY BE PORTUGAL'S QUEEN.

Princess of Braganza, formerly Anita Stewart of New York, and her beautiful little daughter.

A movement is on foot to enthrone Don Miguel in Portugal in event of the failure of the present Portugese revolution to restore ex-King Manuel to the throne. Although the attempts were partly checked the monarchists seem to be gaining strength in the north. If the effort to replace Manuel is utterly a failure and Don Miguel is made king it will mean that a former American girl will be made queen. The Princess of Briganza, Don Miguel's wife, was formerly Miss Anita Stewart, a New York heiress. The princess is shown here with her small daughter, who is considered to be the most beautiful child of royalty in Europe.

WHILE REDS WAGE WAR THEY PROTEST AGAINST "BLOODBATH"

Red parade in Berlin. Ebert, at right of lower photo, and Scheideman, whose rule the Reds have failed to overthrow, and Liebknecht, leader of the radicals, spurring on revolutionists from reichstag balcony. Cross indicates Liebknecht.

Rioting in Berlin has subsided temporarily, dispatches state. The Reds have been beaten for a time One of the oddest incidents in the rioting was a parade staged by the Reds. A Red sailor carried a banner which bore the words in German, "We protest against the bloodbath in the Chaussee street." While this parade was going on other Reds were attempting to drive the Ebert followers into cover with rifles and grenades. The Ebert followers returned the fire with machine guns

Weekly Health T

Where Most Sickness B and Ends

BY FRANKLIN DUANE, M.

It can be said broadly that most ills begin in the stomach and end stomach. Good digestion means health, and poor digestion means health. The minute your stomach properly dispose of the food you eat bles begin to crop out in various Indigestion and dyspepsia are the est forms, but thin, impure blood aches, backaches, pimples, blotches ness, belching, coated tongue, poor appetite, sleeplessness, cough and bronchitis are almost as There is but one way to have good and that is to put and keep your in good order This is easy to do take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical ery. It is a wonderful tonic and purifier, and is so safe to take, made of roots and herbs Dr. Buffalo, N. Y., stands behind this ard medicine, and it is good to know as distinguished a physician is have his name identified with it you take Golden Medical Discovery are getting the benefit of the experience a doctor whose reputation goes all the earth. Still more, you get a ance medicine that contains not a alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable table ingredients—without the use of hol—so that these remedies always been strictly temperance medicines

If piles are torturing you get Pierce's Anodyne Pile Ointment quick relief it gives is hard to believe you try it. If constipated Dr Pleasant Pellets should be taken using Anodyne Pile Ointment. Indeed are the cases which these remedies will not relieve and usually come. They are so good that nearly drug store has them for sale

If a man doesn't know when silent, he doesn't know

STOMACH ACIDITY, INDIGESTION,

QUICK! EAT JUST ONE TA OF PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN FO INSTANT RELIEF.

When meals don't fit and you gas, acids and undigested food, you feel lumps of distress in s pain, flatulence, heartburn Here is instant relief—No wa

Just as soon as you eat a tab Pape's Diapepsin all the d digestion and stomach dis These pleasant, harmless Pape's Diapepsin never fa to sick, upset stomachs feel fi and they cost so little at d Adv

Only a mother can lick 'em 'em at the same time.

State of Ohio, City of Tol County—ss.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath senior partner of the firm of & Co., doing business in the lodo, County and State aforesaid, said firm will pay the sum of ONE DRED DOLLARS for any case of that cannot be cured by the HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

FRANK J. CHE

Sworn to before me and subscr my presence, this 6th day of A. D. 1886.

(Seal) A. W. Gleason, Notary

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE on internally and acts through the on the Mucous Surfaces of the Druggists, 75c. Testimonials free F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio

When schools flourish, all flour

A Terrible Ordeal

Gravel and Kidney Ston Intense Suffering — Doan's Brought a Quick Cure.

Edw. J. Turecek, 4332 Ave., St. Louis, Mo., says taken with a terrible pain back and every move I made, it like a knife being driven and twisted around. It half an hour, but soon with it another affliction. secretions began to pain me; the flow was scanty and burned like fire when passing. I had severe headaches and my bladder got badly inflamed, too, and I noticed little particles of gravel in the secretions. Doan's Kidney Pills had been recommended to me and I began their use. The first half box brought relief and a stone the size of a pea terrible ordeal and afterwards sediment and particles of gravel in the urine. I got more of and they cured me. The pain left and there was no more gravel. I now sleep well, eat well my kidneys act normally. Doan's Kidney Pills alone accomplished wonderful cure."

"Subscribed and sworn to before JAMES M. SMITH, Notary Public

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N.

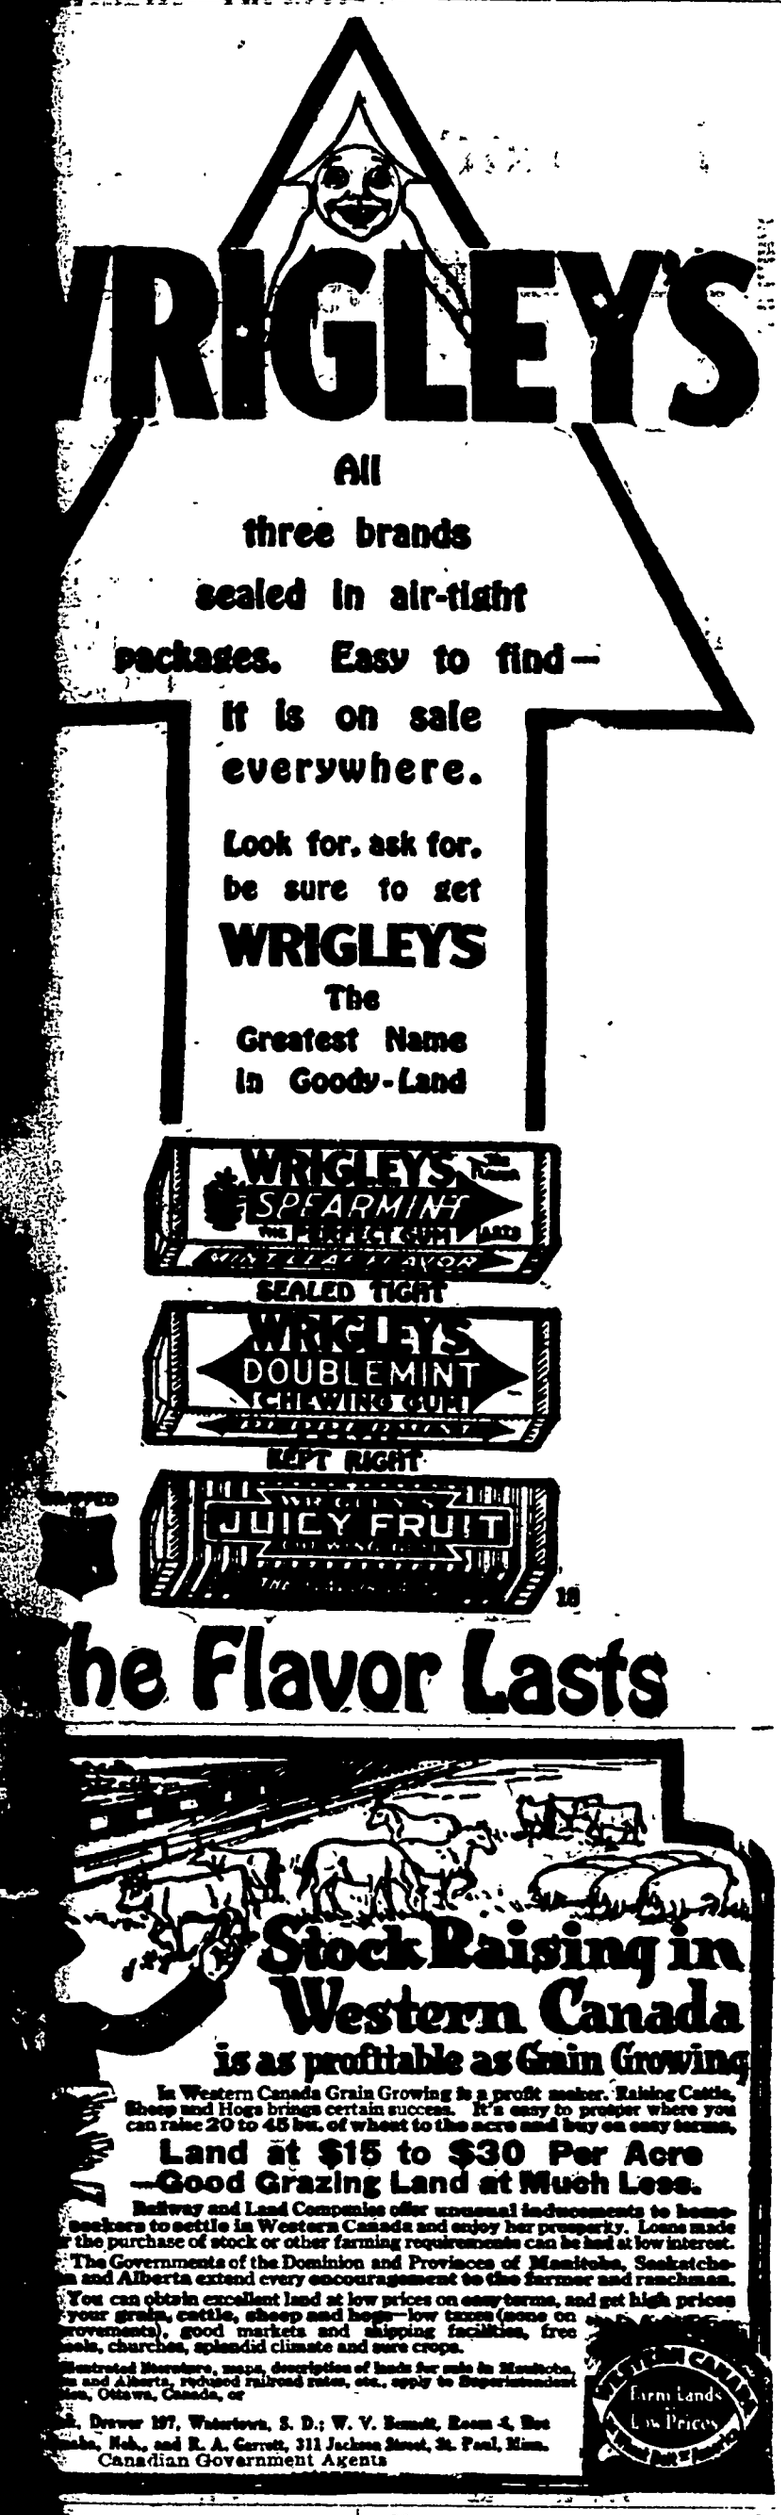
More Eggs? Use Germozone

A hen with bright, rosy comb, active and vigorous under, full breasted and loud, early fall in moderate good layer and not put with Red Germozone always start soldiering hens, especially that's Germozone's help. Regular use, three times a week, does it At druggist send stamps or letter (give from hens, 3 cents, with free poultry book. OMAHA

Persistent Cough

are dangerous. Get prompt relief Piso's. Stops irritation; soothing. and safe for young and old. No opiates

PISO'S



Woman Knows

an, snow-white are a constant of pleasure.

ross Ball Blue

if used each week preserves the clothes and makes them look like new.

Try it and see for yourself.

All good grocers sell it; 5 cents a package.

MERS FISH CO.

...ounded 50, dropped 50% ...on all Kinds Fish. ... Omaha Phone Tyler 0-7172.

ACHINES

...ce and refrigeration ...poses. Manufactured by

CE MACHINE CO.

Omaha, Neb.

Many a man wants the earth, but in the end the earth gets the man.

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP

Why use ordinary cough remedies when Boschee's Syrup has been used so successfully for fifty-one years in all parts of the United States for coughs, bronchitis, colds settled in the throat, especially lung troubles? It gives the patient a good night's rest free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning, gives nature a chance to soothe the inflamed parts, throw off the disease, helping the patient to regain his health. Made in America and sold for more than half a century.—Adv.

Tomorrow won't be any different from today unless you are.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

Phonographs, like some people, are shy of originality.

Shave With Cuticura Soap

And double your razor efficiency as well as promote skin purity, skin comfort and skin health. No mug, no slimy soap, no germs, no waste, no irritation even when shaved twice daily. One soap for all uses—shaving, bathing and shampooing.—Adv.

Fickleness is the result of impulse.

When Your Eyes Need Care Try Murine Eye Remedy

No Smarting—Just Eye Comfort. 60 cents at Druggists or mail. Write for Free Eye Book. MURINE EYE REMEDY CO., CHICAGO

HOMELY HAPPENINGS.

From the Atlantic Monthly.

Curiously enough, as one reads letters and reports that come to one personally, one finds that the interest of our boys in France is centered on the quaint and homely happenings of every day living. The certainties—life, death, immortality, God—they take joyously for granted, with their strange new insight into things spiritual, their prescience of reality; but, perhaps for the first time, they are realizing every day joys; know what quiet means, and rest and needed sleep; are aware of the holiness of clean clothing, the exquisite flavor of coarse food, the divine loveliness of dawn, and noontime and night.

And so, having found out about Life, they know all there is for us to know about Death. Instead of losing its strange distinction, death for them has taken on a new splendor, as have the common things of life.

And as to their losing the vision, forgetting, they may. But they have known reality, those boys, and one does not easily drop into materialism after one has attained that knowledge.

Advertising the Typewriter.

From the Columbus Dispatch.

A contributor to one of the current magazines deplores the fact that Benjamin Franklin had no typewriter. He says, and truthfully, that if the great man had not been compelled to use a pen and pencil, he could have accomplished much more than he did—a statement that is so obvious it is hardly worth quoting. The same thing can be said of all other great men—of Washington and Jefferson and all the rest. They accomplished much; they left a greater volume of writing than men do in the days of the typewriter. But the fact remains that with a typewriter any man can accomplish about four times as much as he could accomplish with pen and ink—in the way of recording his thoughts, if he sees fit to do so.

But the contributor overlooks one thing, namely, that the matter of writing it down is not all of a thinker's work. If Franklin had had a typewriter, he would not have been hammering it all the time. It would have aided him greatly; he would have had more time in which to do his thinking; he would not have had to spend so much time over a desk scrawling with a poor pen. But it is debatable whether he would have actually produced more literature than he did.

Charles Dickens wrote all of his novels with a quill. He could have done the writing in half the time on a typewriter, and the printers would have saved half their time. But in these days of the typewriter we have no novelists who are turning out good literature any more rapidly than Dickens did.

Thomas Jefferson left a whole library of his writing—and he wrote with a primitive pen. So, while the typewriter is one of the greatest of time savers, while it gives an increased product, and a more easily read product, the fact is that the men of today are not doing any more writing than was done when the matter had to be scratched upon a sheet of paper with a stick or quill.

Sea an American Partner.

From Metals & Mechanics Bank Bulletin.

Few people are aware of the extent to which America, within the space of a few years, has made the sea a partner in her national fortunes, and how far our national prosperity has come to be tied up with the markets of other countries. Up to the time of the Spanish-American war only a single year in the whole record of our foreign trade—1892—showed a merchandise export total for the United States of $1,000,000,000. To compare the record of 1892 with that of 1918 is to gain a clear perspective of our new position. Every 60 days saw the oversea shipment of $1,000,000,000 worth of merchandise from our ports in 1918. Every 60 days, moreover, saw $500,0000,000 added to our international credit balance, through excess of merchandise exports over imports. Up to the time of the Spanish-American war no single year added a similar balance to our credit amounting to so much as $300 000,000.

The Jew in War.

From the Providence Journal.

The Jew of the ancient world was a fighting man. His early kings were all great soldiers. No people ever fought with more devotion than did the Jews in the centuries of persecution immediately preceding the Christian era. Throughout the Christian centuries the Jew has been a man without a country and until modern days a universal object of persecution. With no land to fight for he naturally lost his martial qualities. The great struggle gave the Jew his opportunity. American Jews have a brilliant record to their credit and have supplied a larger percentage of soldiers than is proportionate with their population. Jewish women, too, in the work of the Red Cross, the food administration and the Liberty loan campaigns did their full share of patriotic service.

Sounded Domestic.

From the Dallas News.

Gen. C. C. Williams, chief of ordnance, said at a Washington dinner party:

"The pluck of our boys is tremendous. If you ever hear anything suggestive of funk on the doughboy's part, you can rest assured that investigation will clear it up.

"'I'd like to volunteer for the infantry, but mother won't let me.'

"'What!' said a listener, 'a big six footer like you, and your mother won't let you!'

"'No,' said the young man calmly, 'so I've volunteered for mine sweeping.'

"'Mine sweeping? Good gracious! that is more dangerous than infantry by a darn sight.'

"'I know it is,' said the young fellow, 'but mother don't.'"

What Dad Needed.

From the Philadelphia Telegraph.

Late one night a carpenter in a suburban town was awakened in the dead of night by the violent ringing of his telephone.

"Is that you, Mr. Johnson?" asked the small voice of a little girl. "This is Amy Jones. Mother wants you to come around right away and bring your tools. Father has met with an accident."

"You have made a mistake, sissy," replied the carpenter on hearing the word "accident." "You want the doctor who lives next door to me."

"You are the one we want, Mr. Johnson," insisted the childish voice. "Father is shut up in the folding bed."

Forced to Believe in It.

From the Washington Star.

"Do you believe in prohibition?"

"Believe in it!" echoed Bill Bottletop. "I've got to believe in it. At present it's one of the most obvious facts in our community."

Real Love.

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

She—Would you leave your home for me?

He—I'd leave a baseball game in the ninth inning with the score a tie.

THE KINSHIP OF THE NEW AMERICAN

Aims and Ideals of the United States and Canada Will Soon Be Signed.

The war is over, peace will soon be signed, the fighting nations have sheathed their swords, and the day of reconstruction has come.

What of it!

Hundreds of thousands of men, taken from the fields of husbandry, from the ranks of labor, from the four walls of the counting house, and the confines of the workshop, taken from them to do their part, their large part, in the prevention of the spoliation of the world, and in the meantime removed from the gear of common everyday life, will be returning, only to find in many cases old positions filled, the machinery with which they were formerly attached dislocated.

Are they to become aimless wanderers, with the ultimate possibility of augmenting an army of menacing loafers? If they do it it is because their ability to assist in laying new foundations, in building up much required structures, is underestimated. Men who have fought as they have fought, who have risked and faced dangers as they have, are not of the caliber likely to flinch when it comes to the restoration of what the enemy partially destroyed, when it comes to the reconstruction of the world the ideals of which they had in view when they took part in the great struggle whose Divine purpose was to bring about this reconstruction.

Inured to toil, thoughtless of fatigue, trained in initiative and hardened by their outdoor existence they will return better and stronger men; boys will have matured and young men will have developed.

They will decide of themselves lines of action and thought, and what their future should and will be. On the field of battle they developed alertness and wisdom, and they will return with both shedding from every pore.

Action was their by-word and it will stand them in good stead now that the din of the battle no longer rings in their ears, or the zero hour signals them to the fray, and it will continue during their entire existence.

But if they return to find their old avocation gone, their places filled, the institutions with which they were connected no longer exist, new walks of life and employment must be opened to them. It may be that the counting house, the factory, the workshop will have lost their attraction. The returned soldier will look elsewhere for employment; within his reach there is always the "Forward-to-the-Land" necessity. In this lies the remedy that will not only take care of a multitude of those who may not be able to return to their former occupations, whose desires are not to do so, whose health prohibits them from indoor life or whose outdoor habits from the past one, two, three or four years have given them such a taste and desire for it that confinement would be unbearable. Farm life will thus appeal to them, and the indications are that it will be taken advantage of by thousands. It means much to them as well as to the Continent of America that provides the opportunity to the world at large, and to the stricken and famished nations of Europe, who, not only today, but for years to come, will require the sustenance that can only largely be supplied by the United States and Canada. By following the pursuit of agriculture the returned soldier will continue the cause he so greatly advanced when fighting on the field of battle. Both countries have undeveloped areas yet open to settlement.

There is little need here to direct attention to the wealth that has come to the farmers of Canada within the past few years. It is not only in grain growing that unqualified and almost unequaled success has followed honest effort, but the raising of horses, cattle, sheep and hogs has been large source of profit. These are facts that are well known to the many friends and acquaintances of the thousands of farmers from the United States who have acquired wealth on the prairies of Western Canada. Farms of from one hundred and sixty to six hundred and forty acres of the richest soil may be secured on reasonoble terms, and with an excellent climate, with a school system equal to any in the world, and desirable social conditions, little else could be asked.

Canadian statesmen are today busily engaged planning for the future of the returned soldier with a view to making him independent of state help after the immediate necessary assistance has been granted, the main idea being to show in the fullest degree the country's appreciation of the services he has rendered.

But, now that the war is ended, and the fact apparent that of all avocations the most profitable and independent is that of the farmer, there will be a strong desire to secure farm lands for cultivation. Canada offers the opportunity to those seeking, not as speculation but as production. The deepest interest is taken by Federal and Provincial authorities to further the welfare of the farmer and secure a maximum return for his efforts. Large sums of money are spent in educational and experimental work. Engaged in Experimental and Demonstration farms, and in the agricultural colleges, are men of the highest technical knowledge and practical experience, some being professors of international reputation. The results of experiments and tests are free and available to all. Educational opportunities for farmers are the concern of the Government and appreciation is shown by the number of farmers who attend the free courses.

Agriculture in Canada has reached a high standard, notwithstanding which lands are low in price.

Thus upon the United States and Canada for many years will rest the great burden of feeding the world. With free interchange of travel, difficulties of crossing and recrossing removed, Canada may look for a speedy resumption of the large influx of settlers from the United States which prevailed previous to the war. During the war period there was a dread of something, no one seemed to know what: if the American went to Canada he might be conscripted, put in prison or in his attempt to cross the border he would meet with innumerable difficulties, most of which, of course, was untrue. These untruths were circulated for a purpose by an element, which, it was discovered, had an interest in fomenting and creating trouble and distrust between two peoples whose language and aims in life should be anything but of an unfriendly character. The draft law of the United States adopted for the carrying out of the high purposes had in view by the United States kept many from going to Canada during the period of the war. The citizen army of the United States was quickly mobilized, and contained a large percentage of the young men from the farms. In this way many were prevented from going to Canada.

That is all over now. There are no real or imaginary restrictions, there is no draft law to interfere. On the contrary there is an unfathomable depth of good feeling, and the long existing friendship is stronger than ever. This has been brought about by the knowledge of what has been done in the recent great struggle, each vying with the other in giving credit for what was accomplished. In thought and feeling, in language, in aims in life, in work, in desire to build up a new world, there has been bred a kinship which is as indissoluble as time itself.—Advertisement.

Pole-lightness occasionally beats the almighty dollar under the wire.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use for Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Self-respect is what keeps most men out of serious trouble.

If your eyes smart or feel scalded, Roman Eye Balsam applied upon going to bed is just the thing to relieve them. Adv.

He who hath shame seldom sins.

Influenza and kindred diseases start with a cold.

Don't trifle with it. At the first shiver or sneeze, take

HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form—safe, sure, no opiates—breaks up a cold in 24 hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine box has a Red top with Mr. Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.

Soldiers Soothe Skin Troubles with Cuticura

Soap, Ointment, Talcum 25c. each. Samples of "Cuticura, Dept. E, Boston."

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 7-1919.

HAARLEM OIL CAPSULES
IF YOUR BACK ACHES

Do you feel tired and "worn-out?" Are you nervous and irritable? Don't sleep well at night? Have a "dragged out," unrested feeling when you get up in the morning? Dizzy spells? Bilious? Bad taste in the mouth, backache, pain or soreness in the loins, and abdomen? Severe distress when urinating, bloody, cloudy urine or sediment? All these indicate gravel or stone in the bladder, or that the poisonous microbes, which are always in your system, have attacked your kidneys.

You should use GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules immediately. The oil soaks gently into the walls and lining of the kidneys, and the little poisonous animal germs, which are causing the inflammation, are immediately attacked and chased out of your system without inconvenience or pain.

Don't ignore the "little pains and aches," especially backaches. They may be little now but there is no telling how soon a dangerous or fatal disease of which they are the forerunners may show itself. Go after the cause of that backache at once, or you may find yourself in the grip of an incurable disease.

Do not delay a minute. Go to your druggist and insist on his supplying you with a box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. In 24 hours you will feel renewed health and vigor. After you have cured yourself, continue to take one or two Capsules each day so as to keep in first class condition, and ward off the danger of future attacks. Money refunded if they do not help you. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL brand, and thus be sure of getting the genuine.—Adv.

Tired Nervous Mothers

Should Profit by the Experience of These Two Women

Buffalo, N. Y.—"I am the mother of four children, and for nearly three years I suffered from a female trouble with pains in my back and side, and a general weakness. I had professional attendance most of that time but did not seem to get well. As a last resort I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which I had seen advertised in the newspapers, and in two weeks noticed a marked improvement. I continued its use and am now free from pain and able to do all my housework."—Mrs. B. B. ZIELINSKA, 202 Weiss Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

Portland, Ind.—"I had a displacement and suffered so badly from it at times I could not be on my feet at all. I was all run down and so weak I could not do my housework, was nervous and could not lie down at night. I took treatments from a physician but they did not help me. My Aunt recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I tried it and now I am strong and well again and do my own work and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound the credit."—Mrs. JOSEPHINE KIMBLE, 935 West Race Street, Portland, Ind.

Every Sick Woman Should Try

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. LYNN, MASS.

Confidence and Integrity

If you know your own business proposition thoroughly, you can realize how difficult are the problems of another mans business.

You have worn clothes all your life, but what do you know about woolens, the making of cloth and suits.

For your protection it's imperative to buy your suit where you have confidence in the integrity of the store.

Big advertisments are no proof of values on the contary they are hardly necessary where the merchandise and store are trustworthy.

Here our experence is used to help our customers, not simply to make a sale.

The new Spring Merchandise is fast arriving. Come here and see the good kinds. Prices fair every 12 months of the year. Get your boy an Overcoat Here are unusal values in two lots-one at $3.00--one at $6.50

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

"Where a dollar does it's duty"

Who Said Candy?

We have just a large and choice assortment of

Holly Brand Candy

Come in and get that box of candy today

"If It's To Eat---We Have It"

CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, Props.

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105

RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments

Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in

Groceries Dry Goods

Shoes Ladies Wear

Hardware Paint

Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed ..... 1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger ..... 3 03 p m
439, Passenger ..... 8.44 a m.

South

436 Passenger ..... 6:17 p. m
1068, Passenger ..... 11:25 a. m.
870, Freight ..... 12:15 p. m.

Having received several requests to resume my calls to Klemme, I have decided to accommodate those who desire Osteopathic Treatments and will be at the Klemme Hotel Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Dr. R. W Schultz, Osteopathic Physician.

BOB SLED and Harness for sale. Inquire of E. S. Uben.

Chas. White was a passenger to Garner Tuesday morning.

Joe Lawhorn, of Garner, was in Klemme on business Tuesday.

Wm. Katter, of Garner, was transacting business in Klemme Tuesday.

Wm. Bachman was a Garner visitor between trains Tuesday morning.

D. B. Anderson went to Minneapolis and St. Paul on business Tuesday.

E. G. Ell has an ad in this issue. Look it over

N. L. Palmer left for Minneapolis Monday to attend the Annual Meeting of the Heinrich Chemical Company.

G. P. McCullough, Floyd Ollenburg and R. A. Jorgenson spent Sunday with their folks at Garner.

Dr. R. W. Schultz of Garner, was a Klemme visitor Monday and Wednesday of this week.

Guess we will have to get out the street sprinkler and water the streets as the dust is getting pretty thick.

Col. B. A. Reemstma will hold a Market Day Sale on Wednesday, February 26th He has a large ad in this issue telling all about it.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Strieby and little child returned Monday from Forest City where they visited relatives and friends over Sunday.

Mrs C. M. Gram has been on the sick list the past week. Her mother from Goodell has been taking care of her.

Elder & Fuller went out to the Fred Schlichting sale to serve the dinner Tuesday. The popular" hot dog" sandwiches and coffee comprised the menu.

Charles Braden returned Monday from Seattle, Washington, where he has been stationed at a Naval Training Camp. He is here visiting friends on a furlough.

Mrs Joe Wenck, and son Oscar, of Garner, visited at the F J Wenck home last Friday between trains Oscar was wounded in action in France and he is stationed at Fort Des Moines until he fully recovers. He returned to the Fort Saturday.

Last Friday evening this city was without electric lights for about an hour. The cause of the trouble was a break-down at Iowa Falls. "Juice" was shot through from Garner until the plant at the Falls was again running.

Last week we stated that Wm. Trafford moved into the house north of the Joe Johnson residence It should have been that A. L. Strieby moved into the house north of Johnson's. Trafford will move into the house vacated by the Gimer family, having purchased that some time ago.

Ernest Lewis arrived in Klemme Sunday afternoon from Virginia Beach, Virginia, where he is stationed at a Naval Training Camp. He was called by the serious illness of his mother. "Stub" is at present doing duty in the camp as a cook, prior to that he was instructor on the Rifle Range. He has a ten day furlough.

The Royal Neighbors will hold open installation of officers on Friday evening, February 28th. After installation a general supper will be served. Menu potato salad, baked beans, sandwiches, pickles, cake and coffee. All Royal Neighbors and their families or escorts are invited. Please bring well-filled lunch baskets.

FOR SALE—DUROC JERSEYS

Two pure-bred registered Spring Gilts to farrow in April, at $50 each.

Two yearling sows to farrow in March, at $150 each. These are bred to Critic Sensation, the biggest spring boar in Northern Iowa. Write or phone to

3w F. H. Schuldt, Goodell, Iowa.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE INCORPORATED TOWN OF KLEMME

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Office of Mayor. I appeal to those citizens who are interested in a clean administration, good morality and decent citizenship.

Yours truly,

2-12-19 Chas. W. Stiehl

NOTICE

Applications will be received in the office of the County Auditor up until 12 o'clock noon, February 20th, 1919, for position as Steward and Stewardess of the Hancock County Home. Term commencing April 1st, 1919.

CHRIS JACOBS,

4w County Auditor.

Frank Kellogg, of Garner, was in Klemme Tuesday reading meters.

Elko Buss was a pasenger to Goodell Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Pavey were Mason City visitors one day last week.

Chas. Busch was a Garner visitor between trains Saturday afternoon.

C. F. Busch left Monday for Cody, Nebraska, on a business mission.

We call your attention to the ad of the G. P. McCullough Barber Shop.

APPRENTICE Wanted to learn Millinery. Apply at Mrs. John Josten Millinery Store.

A. L. Strieby has accepted a position with the J. P. Larsen & Sons' Meat Market and began work Tuesday

Miss Hulda Johnson is at Garner acting in the capacity of a nurse taking care of Mrs. Zeiger.

Mrs. Lew Lewis has been quite ill the past week but at this writing she is very much improved.

Jensen Hoyrup spent Sunday at his home at Clear Lake. He has been doing some carpenter work at the F. J. Wenck residence the past week.

Over in Germany they are making flags into underwear Good idea, fine way to dispose of the Hun emblem and also get some god use out of it.

W are enjoying some more fine southern weather. (This for the benefit of our readers in the "sunny south.")

We are pleased to inform our readers that Gilbert Schaeper is recovering rapidly The other day he was up town awhile and was able to walk about with a cane.

Fred Ridder and C. W. Wiles left Tuesday morning for Minneapolis to take in the Auto Show and Exposition which is being held at that place this week.

SCHOOL NOTES

High School Notes

Sylvia Moberly was absent from school Monday and Tuesday forenoon.

Earl Josten is pianist this week.

Viola Sampson returned to her school duties Friday after several days' illness.

The Tenth Grade are taking up "Ivanhoe" in class.

Gerhardine Smid was absent from school Thursday.

Emry Schafer was absent from school Thursday.

Minnie Blank was absent from school Monday.

The contest work is progressing rapidly.

Eleanore Duffy has moved to Traer, Iowa, with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Berggren, and will no longer attend Klemme High School that we know of.

Our first six weeks examinations of the second semester will be given on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

7th and 8th Grade News

Th six weeks tests are to be given this week.

The seventh and eighth grades had a valentine box Friday afternoon. Everyone received numerous valentines.

Octave Church was absent from school Monday on account of illness.

Donald Stille is absent from school on account of illness.

Alma Lauden has been absent from school the past two days.

Mabel Schwartz has been absent from school the past two weeks.

The Eighth Grade is reviewing for the county examination, which will be given February 27th and 28th.

4th, 5th and 6th Grades

Ralph Carolus was absent from school Thursday and Friday.

Adala Schroeder is attending school again after several days absence on account of sickness.

Wayne Lemke was absent on Monday.

Edward Milligan was absent on Tuesday.

Glenn Busch is absent this week on account of illness.

Primary Room Notes

Those neither absent nor tardy the past week are:

1st Gr... Charlotte Thiel, Arlene Ell, Va... Koerner, Reva Elder, Robiin ...on, Waldo Anderson, Ethni ... Sn! ...rene Johnson, Paul Milligan ... Schwartz.

3rd ... -Lois Church, Ethel Johnson, ... Schwartz.

Alvin Louden has re-entered school after a week's absence due to illness.

Donald Turgasen re-entered school after an absnce of three weeks due to illness.

We have it! What!

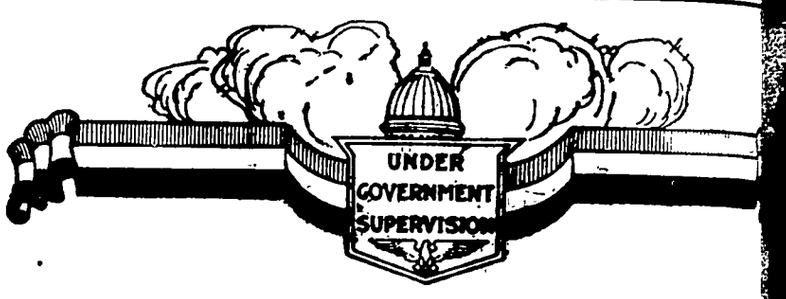
Everything

Which is found in only the best and most up-to-date Meat Markets.

You will always find a complete line of Choice Meats, Hams, Bacon, Fancy Meats and Canned Goods

Try Our Oleomargarine---It's Fine!

J. P. Larsen & Sons



To Farmers

Although the war is over let us not forget that Europe still looks to us for the bulk of its food supply.

The worlds champion food producer--the American Farmer--most continue to show his championship form and speed for another year at least.

Conttnue to make your acres produce to the utmost. If you need funds for seed, feed. fertilizer or machinery remeber that we are always at your service.

We are prepared to make farm loans to any amount on the best possible terms.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Iowa

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

All Kinds of Hardware

HARDWARE AND GROCERIES

Stoves and Furnaces

Paints, Oils, Feed, Flour, Cream Separators, Buggies, Wagons, Gasoline Engines.

All Kinds of Farm Machinery

GREUTZMACHER BROS.

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Telephone No. 14

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We willbuy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.

Successor to W. R. Bloom

DR. L. R. PARSONS

DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank

Phone No. 48.

Klemme - Iowa

KLEMME TIMES

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER 26 | KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, February 27 1919 | $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

y stocks include Pine Tree Brand Seeds, bag tagged in compliance with our Seed Law, showing purity and germtion test, all high grade seed, of which cit your most exacting examination.

Stocks include Northern Grown

Walter F. Lau

Clover now on hand. Buy your seed now.

one sure way of being certain you are right when you purchase a car

Come To US For It

here Were Any Better Cars Made the Money We would Be Selling Them Right Now.

you first feel the desire to own a car is the ne to come in and see the OVERLAND.

Wiles Garage
PHONE 30
KLEMME, IA.

When You Are In Need

a Good Hair-cut or Shave

Visit

McCullough's Barber Shop

Where Sanitation and Courteous Treatment Go Hand in Hand.

for the Best Laundry in the State, basket leaves dnesday and comes back every Saturday.

G. P. McCullough, Prop.

SH M. E. CHURCH

ebruary 23rd:—
worship at 10:00 o'clock.
chool at 11:15.
ong Service and Sermon
ale quartette and other
e at the services. Every- invited.
W. Barnlund, Minister

FRED SCHLICHTING HAS GOOD SALE

Fred Schlichting held a public sale last week which was reported to be quite successful. Everything brought a good price. Col. B. A. Reemstma cried the sale, and Elder & Fuller served the Free Hot Lunch at noon.

Send Your Old Papers To the Boys Across

Gondrecourt, France,
Sunday, Jan. 19.

Dear Friend Ray:—

I am writing this to request a little free advertising and while I realize that that buys very poor coffee, nevertheless here goes. Through the excellent organizations over here, such as the Red Cross, "The Best Ever," the Y M. C. A., Salvation Army, K. C. and various other organizations we have been able to secure some reading material, but not nearly enough for the needs of the boys, as the demand on these organizations exceeds the supply The surest way is to mail these magazines, fiction preferred, and books to the man personally and he will in turn hand it to his buddy, in which manner every one of the company gets a look at 'em, and believe me there are more worn out than there are torn up.

I know how much anything to read is appreciated and I also know what the boys are up against at present while they are engaged in what is termed "the hardest fight of all," waiting to go home. A good magazine will keep many a lad out of a crap game and out of the wine parlor, for the main reason of going is because there is nothing else to do.

So have a heart and mail that old magazine or comic section to anyone you happen to think of anywhere in the A. E. F. and if you have no relative or friend over here or don't know any address, just put a stamp on it and someone will got it.

I have gone into reading and writing rooms in the evening and couldn't fid a scrap to read or a place to write because of the crowd and that is a common occurrence; not because the different organizations don't do their very best, but because the demand is too large.

By the way, old top, don't mention my name cn this stuff. Just dope it up and hope it goes over because I don't need any more than the rest, and I don't think I am entitled to it. So keep my John Henry out of the paper this time and I will soon send you some dope for publication.

Your friend,
"A Soldier in A. E. F."

KLEMME TO HAVE A LECTURE COURSE NEXT WINTER

We neglected to mention last week that Klemme will have a Lecture Course for next winter's entertainment. A Mr. Barnaby, of Cleveland, Ohio, was here in the interests of the Midland Lyceum Bureau of Des Moines and succeeded in getting the names of fifteen men of this city to support a Lecture Course for next winter. We looked over the talent personally and find that it is very good and so signed up as one of the committee. The course consists of a good variety of lectures, music and entertainment numbers. It will be a course worth many times the money to see.

WESTERN STATES LUMBER COMPANY NOW DOING BUSINESS

Last week the Western States Lbr. Co. began their advertising and the manager, Mr. Olof Brynteson announced that they were now doing business. Although the yard is not entirely completed they are able to handle orders for their patrons. Mr. Brynteson is a very fine man to meet and if you are not acquainted with him, drop into his office and he will make you feel at home. Look over the ad of the Western States Lbr. Co. in this issue, they have a bargain for you

SURPRISE PARTY

Last Thursday afternoon the Ladies Aid Society of the Reform Church surprised Mrs. Lena Schroeder. The ladies spent the afternoon in visiting and having a general good time. A fine lunch was also served and the occasion will be remembered by all present as a good time surprise party.

COURT BEGINS NEXT WEEK

The March, 1919, Term of Court begins at Garner next week on Monday, March the 3rd. C. H. Kelly is slated for Judge.

THE PIG'S DIDN'T HOLD OUT

F. H. Schuldt was in our office last Saturday afternoon and told us to cut out his ad as he was running out of pigs to sell. Fred believes in advertising and when he has something to sell he brings it to us and we run his ad in the Times. Well, Fred had a bunch of fine pigs to sell, the trouble was he didn't have enough pigs to supply the demand, so he told us to take out his ad because it took all his time to answer the phone and drive the farmers away that wanted pigs. Fred says it pays to advertise.

CLARK BREDBENNER HAS SALE

Last Wednesday Clark Bredbenner held a closing out sale at his barn in Klemme A large crowd was in town and Clark reports that he received good prices for his stuff. Young & Kester cried the sale.

PROF. CARUTHERS HERE THIS WEEK

Prof. Caruthers and his company are playing at the Idle Hour this week. The Professor is a wonderful Hypnotist and Mind Reader and he also has with him The Emersons, the musical telepathy artists. The entertainments are educational as well as an entertainment for amusement. This is the same company that played here about a year ago and all our readers are well acquainted with their program.

A CARD FROM THE GRUETZMACHERS

February 21, 1919

Dear Friend:—Kindly send the Times to us at the following address; 818 N. Tejon, Colorado Springs, Colo. We certainly enjoy reading our home paper. We are enjoying Colorado.

Sincerely,
John Gruetzmacher

A number of Klemme people are attending the Auto Show at Mason City this week.

STATEMENT OF LEW LEWIS, SECRETARY OF INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT OF KLEMME, IOWA

Financial statement of the Independent School District of Klemme for year ending February 19, 1919.

Balance on hand Feb 19, '18	$3229.72
Recd. from County Treas	3915 99
Recd. from State	280.00
Recd. from Interest	59.11
Recd. from Tuition	395.00
Recd. from Books Sold	270.74
Total Money Received	$8150.56

Disbursements

Paid Teachers	$3331 60
Paid for heating plant, fuel, repairs, janitor and general supplies	3761 39
Paid for Books Bought	418.20
Paid for Library Books	150.00
Paid Secretary's Salary	30.00
Paid for Tuition	50.00
Total Expenditures	$7741.19
Balance on Hand	$ 409.37

Dated this 19th day of February, 1919.

Lew Lewis, Secretary.

For nomination blanks for Director and Treasurer, call on the Secretary

Garner Democrat—The interior of the J. P. Larson butcher shop is considerably changed from what it used to be. New linoleum has been placed on the floor, the entire interior has been freshly papered and painted white, making the place look most inviting. All these improvements to which we can add the always pleasant countenance of Will Werner, the manager, makes us miss our friends Se.chter the more.

X-Ray Reflectors.

Mica has been found an excellent material for concentrating mirrors for X-rays. Glass will not do, because, smooth as it is, it is too rough for the extremely minute X-rays, which are much smaller than light waves. Glass diffuses the X-rays, much as a rough surface diffuses light waves, but it was found that the surface of mineral crystals were of the requisite smoothness for reflecting X-rays, and of them mica is the most adaptable, being readily split into sheets.

BABIES PEDDLED IN CHINA

Threatened Starvation Causes Parents to Part With Their Offspring for a Few Cents.

Poverty due to political and economic disturbances is making baby-peddling a recognized occupation in Hinghwa, China, where it is possible to buy a child for as little as 60 cents. Mrs. William N. Brewster, head of the Methodist Episcopal orphanage in that district, recently reported to the foreign mission board that missionaries had purchased many boys and girls in order to save them from falling into the hands of the lepers.

"Baby peddlers go through the streets crying their wares, with the children in baskets hanging from their shoulders," declared Mrs. Brewster

"Their best customers are the dwellers in the leper colony just outside the city, who want the little ones to be for them. It is only a short time before the babies contract the disease I recently purchased a beautiful child from the lepers. They had paid 60 cents for it.

"Two dollars is the usual price for a child, though traveling theatrical companies sometimes pay more for boys who seem unusually bright. The government is supposed to care for blind or deformed babies, but as a matter of fact the officials generally sell them to the beggars. Threatened starvation has made many people so desperate that they expose their defective children in the tiger-infested mountains or bury them alive. One of the babies in the orphanage was found on a lonely mountain-top; another, a blind boy, was rescued from an open grave."

Two hundred children, most of them abandoned by their parents, are now being cared for at the institution. When the $80,000,000 program of the Methodist Episcopal church is put into operation as a means of celebrating the centenary anniversary of its missions, the orphanage will receive funds which will help it enlarge its work.

Mangroves Destroying Island.

The island of Aldabra, near Madagascar, is being wiped off the map by the action of the mangroves that grow along the foot of the cliff. They eat their way into the rock in all directions, and into the gaps thus formed the waves force their way.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The Ford Factory has not yet reached normal production. It will take some time, after being entirely given over to war work. We are getting a few cars right along and suggest that you leave your order with us as soon as possible and we will deliver as soon as possible. Runabout, $500; Touring Car, $525: Coupe, $650: Sedan, $775: One Ton Truck Chassis, $550. These prices f. o. b. Detroit. Don't forget the service we give in our shops genuine Ford parts, Ford skill and Ford prices.

E. G. ELL

Authorized Dealer

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A JORGENSON PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

"In all matters concerned with the army of occupation the American command has adopted a policy of toleration and moderation towards the Germans which is strictly in accordance with the traditions and democratic principles of the United States It is their own policy, peculiarly American in conception and ideal, but whether it finds the real appreciation among the Germans that it should one is apt to question for of this there can be no doubt that it is no sight of the Americans however inconspicuously paraded through the streets which earns the smirks and smiles of the Germans in this area There is no hatred in the hearts of the Americans for the Germans, and the policy of the Americans reflects the minds of all the officers and men here writes the correspondent in Cablens of the London Times

"Mr Wilson was a fee[illegible] man" writes Arthur Meyer editor of the Gaulois Paris) He had in his brain of philosopher and apostle conceived a certain plan It was [illegible]5 He was of the opinion that the war out which his con[illegible] would [illegible] and no wholly [illegible] of this he had [illegible] series of propositions [illegible] to abandon."

Hungarian workers in the United States sent more than $35,000,000 home from [illegible] Much of it was sent during the three years of the war, [illegible] of it through the Franklin Trust Company, now in the hands of the alien property custodian.

It is stated that the 800 women clerks employed by the Bank of England have received notices terminating their engagements It is proposed to retain but 200. The salary will be at the rate of $15 per week with a pension of 40 per cent after 25 years' service

A Delaware justice of the peace is so hyperconscientious that when he discovered himself smoking a cigaret in Rockwell Park below Fort Penn and learned that this constituted disorderly conduct because of recent military rules, he fined himself

One Canadian pulp mill recently planted 1,000,000 young spruce trees on a tract that had been cut over It is thought that from 25 to 50 years will elapse before they shall have reached a growth where it will be practical to cut them for paper manufacture.

There is a mistaken idea abroad that every Chinese man woman and child in China eats rice every day As a matter of fact, there are millions of Chinese living in northwestern China, where rice is not grown, who never have seen or tasted rice.

J Bruce Ismay son of the founder of the White Star line recently gave $125,000 to the Mercantile Marine Service Association, whose purpose is to provide pensions for those needing them among the merchant seamen of Great Britain.

An officer of the fleet recently returned from abroad says the queerest ship mascot he ever saw was a full sized boa constrictor on H M S. Valiant, of the British grand fleet—long enough, he says, to use for a homeward bound pennant.

In consequence of recent maritime strikes in Argentine, resulting in great loss of trade, one Argentine minister said this week "Argentine will require more than two generations to regain the prestige lost in the last two years."

England will inaugurate protective measures in the interests of her manufacturers, beginning March 1 Fifty-three classes of goods are involved and licenses for importation must be obtained for each shipment.

The total British casualties in the air service for the entire period of the war was 16,623 Of this number, 6,166 were killed 7,315 wounded, and the remainder are missing or known to have been taken prisoner

Most of the poorer people in Italy are noted for their general good health This is to some extent attributed to the fact that the working people of Italy eat le meat than those of any other European nation

The export of foodstuffs from this country was as follows during the war years 1915, $1,012,000,000 1916 $1,105,000,000 1917 $1,[illegible]0,000,000 1918, $1,900,000,000, not including food sent in government vessels.

Prior to the war there were 206 sugar factories in France producing 700,000 to 800,000 tons annually Of these only about 90 factories making 150,000 to 200,000 tons of sugar are outside the invaded regions.

In the year ended October 31 last 161 charters were granted to national bank with capital of $13,400,000, compared with 176 charters granted with capital of $11,590,000 during the preceding year

A score of New York's best sculptors and members of nearly every art society are laboring to make the temporary Victory arch one of the most artistic monuments ever erected in this country

Because he referred to the Germans as "Huns" Sergt. E A Boyd, a British airman, who was captured, was sentenced by them to a year's imprisonment. He has now returned to England

A $2,000,000 Victory monument on the Parkway is planned as a tribute by the women of Philadelphia to the memory of the men and women who served in the war for democracy

It is estimated that Americans market only about 40 per cent of each tree they cut from the forest. Germany, on the other hand, markets as high as 96 per cent of each tree.

Reviving an old formula invented 75 years ago and almost forgotten, French shoe manufacturers are trying to produce a leather, useful in their industry, from rabbit skins.

Members of a boys' and girls' club in Colorado have been carrying out a pledge made early in the war to give one-tenth of their earnings to Red Cross work.

Army headquarters frown on leaves for men of the army of occupation, and much discontent at being cooped up in small villages is being expressed

Approximately 80,000 dependents of Canadian soldiers overseas are in the British Isles at the present time, and these will be brought to the dominion at public expense.

Henriette, duchess of Vendome and sister of the king of Belgium, through her own efforts established six hospitals in the war zone—three in Belgium and three in France.

A dispatch from Cape Town says: "It is authoritatively stated that Spanish influenza in South Africa resulted in a financial loss to insurance companies of $[illegible],000."

FORT DODGE WILL HAVE FINE SCHOOL

Proposition to Issue $650,000 Worth of Bonds Carried By Overwhelming Majority.

Fort Dodge, Ia., Feb. 22.—At a special election here yesterday, the voters voted their approval of issuing bonds to the amount of $650,000 for the erection of a high school building The proposition had a majority of 700 out of a total of 1,200 votes cast. The women of the city, 675 of them exercised their right to vote.

High school was dismissed during the afternoon and the pupils were engaged in hurrying belated voters to the polls.

PICKS UNUSUAL PLACE TO SUICIDE

Malvern, Ia., Feb. 22.—Ollie Hall, better known by the sobriquet of "Doc" Hall, a bachelor about 40, living between Malvern and Hastings, committed suicide in a novel way Hall went to the Purcell farm, where he climbed into an apple tree, stretched himself out on the limbs of the tree and cut his throat. As life ebbed away the body gradually relaxed and one leg hung down, otherwise giving the appearance of a man having laid down on the branches to rest.

Mrs. Albert Feast discovered the body and called for help. Hall's face was so covered with congulated blood that until the blood had been washed away his identity was not discovered The cause of the suicide is not known. Harvey Hall a brother, lives at Hastings

IOWA RETAILERS GO TO WATERLOO NEXT YEAR

Fort Dodge Ia Feb 22 – Waterloo was named as the place of the next annual convention of the Iowa Retail Merchants' Association The convention closed Thursday afternoon E. J. Canny, of Burlington, was elected president, John Henderson, of Davenport, treasurer, and J. A Cunningham, of Dubue, secretary W J Whalen, of Dodge, and H Hartung, of Waterloo, are members of the executive committee Resolutions favoring the adoption of the 1 cent postage bill, division of the state into districts in accordance with plans of the extension department of the university and the creation of a permanent tariff commission.

FOUR MINUTE MEN ARE GIVEN DISCHARGE

Moville, Ia., Feb. 22.—The Moville Four Minute men met at the home of Charles H Babcock, Wednesday night, the occasion being the formal discharge of the four minute men A splendid four course dinner was served by the hostess, after which acting Chairman J C Larkin, presented the certificates of honorable discharge. Those receiving the dicharges were M. E Southwick Charles H Babcock, J C Larkin and I E. Wright

EAGLES' LODGE LOSES BIG LOT OF BOOZE

Davenport Ia Feb 22 –Certain fraternal society halls in Davenport are destined to suffer from dust in the future

United States Marshal Kenny, Sheriff Kuehl, of Scott county, and his deputies, seized 1 000 bottles of beer when they raided the roof next to the Eagles Lodge building yesterday. The bottled stuff was being hoisted from the roof to the lodge windows, say the officers

TWO WOUNDED SOLDIERS AT ROCK VALLEY, IA.

Rock Valley, Ia Feb 22.--Lawrence Beumer, a member of the famous fighting Rainbow division, arrived home Thursday He was in some of the fiercest fighting and bears an ugly scar in his scalp, the result of a wound sustained Albert Kersbergen is another member of that fighting organization who has been returned here He, too, was wounded

"FLU" TAKES A NEW HOLD AT MATLOCK

Matlock Ia., Feb 22 "Flu" in a light form played havoc with business interests in Matlock the past week. About half of the town's businessmen were confined with the disease at the same time. There are also more than the usual number of cases in a light form in the surrounding territory.

IOWA BOY SENTENCED TO PEN IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Mitchell, S D Feb 23 -Judge F. P. Smith, of the circuit court, sentenced Lloyd Schuler, Postville, Ia., to serve one year in the state penitentiary at Sioux Falls for forgery. Schuler pleaded guilty to raising a $1 check to $10 Schuler, who is 20 years old, is on parole from the Iowa state reform school.

INVENTS DEVICE TO STOP FLOW OF GAS

Rock Valley, Ia., Feb. 22.—Frank Vogelsang has invented a device for shutting off gasoline in motor cars. It is intended to prevent the engines being started without the owner's knowledge and thus prevent automobile thievery.

The political correspondent of the London Times suggests Herbert Asquith, the former prime minister, as Lord Reading's successor at Washington.

The Norwegian Association of the League of Nations, under the presidency of Dr. Nansen, has drawn up its own draft of 14 general principles to be sent to the peace conference at Paris.

Australian postal rates have been increased 1 cent on all letters and letter-cards addressed to places outside the commonwealth and post cards and newspapers exceeding two ounces in weight.

Serious food riots have broken out at Palma, Majorica, one of the largest islands in the Spanish beslearic group The market halls were plundered and destroyed. All the stores and cafes have been closed.

IS BEING HELD ON A BIGAMY CHARGE

Farmhand at Primghar Is Arrested on Complaint of Wife —Married Another Recently.

Primghar, Ia., Feb. 22.—Failing to give bail bond for $2,500 required by the grand jury, Albert Ogbert, age 25, a laborer who gave his address as Ocheyedan, Ia., is confined in jail here on a charge of bigamy.

Ogbert first appeared in Primghar in December, 1918, and on February 8, 1919, he was married to Katherine Holland, daughter of a well-to-do farmer living six miles northeast of here.

They lived at the home of Mr. Holland until last Monday, when the original Mrs. Ogbert appeared and demanded her husband's arrest. She gave her home as Worthington, Minn., and said she was married to Albert Ogbert, December 15, 1915, and that they have one child now 18 months old. She also stated that Ogbert visited her on January 8, 1919, and gave her money for the support of herself and the child. That was the last time she saw him.

In defense of himself Ogbert states that he gave his wife money with which to get a divorce and that he thought she had obtained one.

MARRIED MAN LIVED WITH ANOTHER WOMAN

Council Bluffs, Ia., Feb. 22.—Howard E Baker, traveling salesman, was arrested in his apartment in the Grand Hotel, Council Bluffs, upon telegraph order from Marion, Ohio, where he is wanted for deserting his wife and two children He has been living at the hotel for two months, accompanied by a young woman who passed as his wife. Sheriff Grenewegs did not take the woman

Both Baker and the girl admitted that they were not married, but they intended to marry just as soon as Baker got a divorce from his wife. Baker said that he had been sending his wife $15 a week, but was unable to since January 1, since he changed his line of business

JUDGE GEORGE CARSON OF COUNCIL BLUFFS, DEAD

Council Bluffs, Ia., Feb 22 –George Carson, well known lawyer, former district judge and former mayor of Council Bluffs, died suddenly of paralysis Tuesday at his home. He was 78 years of age. He was found dead by members of the family

Judge Carson has been identified with Pottawattamie county interests since 1869, when he came to Council Bluffs to take up law practice. In 1870 he formed a partnership with Spencer Smith, under the firm name of Smith & Carson. In 1879 the firm changed the name to Smith, Carson & Harl In 1877 he was elected representative to the legislature from Pottawattamie county and was reelected in 1879 In 1883 he was elected to the state senate for a term of four years. At the expiration of his term he was chosen for a place on the district judicial bench and served until 1887, when he was succeeded by Judge Walter L. Smith He was mayor in 1896 and 1897.

SLAYER OF THREE SHOWS NO REMORSE

Corning, Ia., Feb. 22 – John R Hoskins, the Prescott farmer who recently killed his wife and his two stepchildren with a club, is as closely guarded as if he were under sentence of death and in charge of a death watch, two guards keeping night and day vigil over him, both as a protection against possible harm from without and to prevent any attempt at suicide which he failed to accomplish the day he slew the members of his family.

Feeling in the community is extremely bitter against the man and there is universal sentiment for an early trial of his case, which, it is said, will be given

The prisoner maintains the same attitude as on the day of the crime, when he declared that he felt no regret for his action except for the effect upon his aged father and mother. Hoskins' parents recently visited him in the jail

Hoskins says he will "tell all," at the trial. No one has yet dared to intimate that there could have been provocation for the crime and there is much curiosity and interest in what he will tell

MUCH MYSTERY IN SUICIDE AT CARROLL

Carroll, Ia., Feb. 22.—Using a handkerchief which he tied about his neck and then about a bailing hook which was thrown over a step on the stairway leading to the haymow into the barn, Henry Peters, aged 39, a son of Mr. and Mrs. George Peters, of Carroll, thus committed suicide. There is a total absence of a motive, as the suicide had played cards with the family and appeared in his usual good spirits before he committed the act.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TO HAVE BIG CLASS

LeMars, Ia., Feb. 22. — Fifty-eight new members will be initiated into the Knights of Columbus here Sunday, February 23. Arrangements are being made by members of the local organization for entertaining a large crowd on that date. After the initiatory ceremonies at Columbus hall a banquet will be served at the armory.

FOUR TEACHERS QUIT IN SCHOOL RUMPUS

Magnolia, Ia., Feb. 22. As the result of a school row in Magnolia four members of the faculty resigned. Professor Fearing, superintendent and head of the schools, and his wife resigned and Mr Fearing has been succeeded by John Sly, of Waterloo, lately from the United States engineering corps in France Mrs Sly also is engaged to teach in the high school. Professor Parkings and Mrs Parkings also resigned and have gone to Radcliffe, Ia

Training Little Children

Wise Motherhood With Patience and Assurance Guides the True Self of the Child—Such Motherhood Is Joy, Not Drudgery.

Suggestions for Mothers issued by the United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., and the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th Street, New York.

A MOTHER who had taken a course in kindergarten work made a call at the school where she had studied. "I cannot tell you of what value my training has been, but I wish I could have more," she cried wistfully. "The problems a mother has to meet are so many. For instance, my little girl has long, curly hair, and when I take her to the shops the clerks comment upon it before her. I fear she is becoming very vain. Only the other day she said, as she posed before the mirror: 'I HAVE pretty hair, mama!'"

"What did you say?" asked the kindergarten training teacher.

"I replied as calmly as I could: 'It looks very well when you keep it NEATLY COMBED.'"

This answer showed that the mother had grasped the core of Froebel's idea when he wrote: "Mother, let your behavior be such that your child may early learn to realise that your approval is given not to his small visible person, but to his true self • • • Whether the child strives for being, or appearance, for what is temporal or eternal, rests upon the power of the mother to guide his aspiration. • • • That the bond between mother and child may not be merely a physical one, she must be a mother not only in feeling, but with insight which assures deliberate deeds."

Such a mother finds no drudgery in her task Rather has she the feeling of the artist, for joy is her ruling motive, not joy in selfish possession, but joy in perceiving growth and attaining desirable achievements. She is ready to pause for a song on the way, is not impatient at the length of the journey and, cheerfully following the long zigzags of the steps hewed by Nature's own slowly unfolding methods, she guides the child up the path of the mountain of life.

Wise is the patient care of this mother guide, knowing no fear, even when the child errs, for has not the great Goethe told us that although man has aspiration he cannot but err? Has not the newer poet-dramatist, Ibsen, for all his grave sense of human culpability, shown us Solvejg, the mother, waiting at the cross-roads till Peer Gynt learns that he has chosen the wrong path, patient through all the years for him to come to her in this old age to purge his soul of dross and fill it with the truth?

"Where was I?" he asks as he kneels before her, dazed by his sense of failure, this man rich in world's success, but barren in things of the soul. "Where was I as myself, the whole man, the true man?"

"In my faith, in my hope, in my love," answered the eternal woman, undaunted in her belief in the final outcome.

"The boy has been resting on his mother's lap.
They two have been playing all the life day long.
The boy has been lying close to my breast,
All the life day long.
The boy has been lying close to my heart
All the life day long.
I will cradle you,
I will watch over you."

"Wife, mother, sister art thou," answered the newly-inspired Peer, seeing her for the first time as she was, the woman not of flesh alone, nor of intellect nor of this world, but the spiritual mother of the race.

What mother is there who does not long for this high role of motherhood to her child's soul?

Please pass this article on to a friend and thus help Uncle Sam reach all the mothers of the country.

(National Crop Improvement Service.)

THE HEN should be our national emblem instead of the eagle. She is the most patriotic citizen we have, furnishing a large portion of our food and revenue. This, in spite of all the abuse which we heap upon her.

We take little care of her and let her hustle for her own living. This is the real cause why eggs and fried chicken are high. The cost of feed is not the reason why so many poultrymen fail. On a proper diet a broiler can be raised to weigh one and a quarter pounds in six weeks which, in almost any market, will bring a dollar or more. In eight months a properly fed and bred capon will weigh twelve and a half pounds and yet the average is probably less than half.

To succeed in poultry, you must cull out your unprofitable birds and feed the survivors for eggs and meat. The most successful poultrymen do not attempt to raise their own feed, but will buy by-product feeds which have been scientifically blended by long experience. These feeds contain what the chicken needs, preventing overfeeding or undernourishment of any of the necessary nutrients.

In no other industry has there been so much literature written. Every poultry-feed manufacturer issues a hand-book which, if faithfully followed, will not fail to bring results. Every agricultural college and the U. S. Government can give you all the necessary information.

Keep dry mash feed always before them in a protected vessel, giving scratch feed only a short time before they go to roost.

Suburbanites and those who have limited space can successfully raise chickens if they will follow the rules and buy the proper feeds. A hen is an egg-making machine and if fed properly she will grind out eggs without fail. The trouble with most of us is that we are either too lazy or we want to get something for nothing and we allow poor Biddy to shift for herself.

The Cost.

From the North American Review

The war cost us approximately 56,000 men killed and 180,000 wounded and missing, lighter losses by far than even little Belgium or Serbia suffered. Great Britain's casualties were more than 30 times as great as ours—3,049,991, of whom 658,658 were killed outright. French casualties were 2,719,642, of whom 559,612 were killed. The losses of Germany are still largely a matter of estimate. Well informed and conservative reckoning puts the total in killed, wounded and prisoners at nearly, if not quite, 7,000,000, of whom at least 1,800,000 were killed. The money cost of the war to all the belligerents has thus far been approximately $200,000,000,000, or 50 times that of our civil war. Of this cost, probably one-eighth has fallen upon the United States, and by the time the treaty of peace is signed and all our troops are brought back home, our expense account will probably equal $30,000,000,000.

A stupendous sort, that, in life and treasure, from one point of view to gratify the insane ambition of a criminal paranoiac, from another to abolish the fiction of "divine right" and to confirm forever the rights of man. Are they confirmed forever? We shall see what answer the peace conference essays to make to that question. "Go forth, my son, and see with what wisdom the world applies its greatest and its costliest lesson."

Italian Sentiment.

From the New York Times.

The actual merits of either side of the Italian-Jugo-Slav controversy have become pretty well obscured in the last few months, by the feelings roused in the two nations through the revival of ancient grievances and the creation of new ones. It is regrettable that what was often no more than tactlessness could drive great peoples toward a state of mind which tends to continue international enmity, but it has happened before and elsewhere; and we can only recognise that it has happened again, and that efforts to obtain a reasonable and lasting settlement of the Adriatic question must, as a matter of method at least, take account of the feelings so aroused.

There is an indication of the grounds for suspicion of the Jugo-Slavs, and for resentment at support in other countries of the Jugo-Slav cause, which is felt very generally by Italian liberals. Among the Jugo-Slavs there are also extremists not amenable to argument there are also moderate men who have had their suspicions of Italy roused by errors on the other side Where the world once understands the nature and character of what may be called the irreducible minimum of nationalist sentiment the feeling of those men who want international justice but are afraid to trust the other party to this particular controversy, it will be easier to lay before the world the unreasonable demands of the imperialists of both sides, to show their weaknesses, and to arrive at some agreement.

Gold Premium in London.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

Greed for gold has reached such a stage in London that Scotland Yard has organized a special department to check illegal trafficking in British sovereigns. Gold coins of the United States are also at a premium, a $5 gold piece bringing $5.50 if sold to a jeweler there. A sovereign in value and usage corresponds to the American $5 gold piece.

With gold at a premium, the supply rationed and the demand for jewelry abnormal, because of high wages paid munition and other factory workers, the temptation of jewelers to use gold coins in their work has become greater than ever

But little gold reaches the banks of England in the ordinary course of business. Because of the scarcity of gold in circulation an individual tendering sovereigns is likely to be looked on with suspicion unless he has been identified.

Knew Why.

From Everybody's Magazine.

The following story is an illustration of the unfailing humor of the Yankee soldiers in the trenches

Bill, from the Bowery, busily engaged in hunting "cootles," says to his companion in misery "Say, I knows now why dat guy Napoleon always had his picter took wid his hand in de front of his shirt"

LIFE A JOURNEY.

From the Near East.

Man's life is like the journey of a man who, burdened with a heavy load, has a long way to travel. You should not proceed in a hurry Submit to discomfort as the common lot of man, and you have little cause to complain Should an inordinate desire arise in your mind, think of the time when you were in need. Patience is the basis of peace and longevity. Regard anger as your foe. If you know only how to win, and know not how to lose, calamity is sure to overtake you. Censure yourself rather than others.

LAND IN DEMAND

Opportunities of Western Canada Becoming Known.

Fertile Soil on Which Can Be Produced Record Crops Offered to Settlers at Prices Attractive to Farm Seekers.

In the early months of [illegible] there was a demand for farm [illegible] in Western Canada, the greatest [illegible] been in the history of [illegible] This despite the fact that [illegible] have increased in price [illegible] of the farm product has increased and the virility and productive value of Western Canada farm lands have come more and more into evidence. Farming there is no longer an experiment. Good crops can be grown [illegible] hundredths, some probably a little more favorable than others, but on the whole a good—more than good—general average. Land elsewhere on the continent is used for the development of one hundred and twenty dollar steers, thirty-five dollar hogs, two dollar and twenty cent wheat and [illegible] cent oats, and its price ranges from one hundred and fifty dollars an acre. Western Canada land sells at from forty dollars an acre, and after cultivating it gets one hundred and twenty-five dollars for his steer three five dollars for his hog, two dollars and twenty cents for his wheat eighty-five cents for his oats And he can grow corn, too, but Western Canada is saying no more about it. North Dakota did fifteen years ago when it was an experiment there, and see what North Dakota is doing today. The prediction is that in less than a decade corn will be grown successfully in all parts of Western Canada. It is, therefore, easy to see for the increased demand for Western Canada lands. The wheat is right and the food that the American and Canadian farmer sent across to the soldier, holding up his strength and maintaining his vitality, won the war No! It was just a factor in winning it, as was the soldier of France, of Belgium, of Great Britain of Canada and of the United States An important factor, never the less People generally have begun to realize what food means, means to the body—and it is grown on the land. So people today want farm land, they want those that are good The great, wide, open stretches of wonderfully productive soil of Western Canada are the chief attraction of the land seekers of today, and it will be so tomorrow, and of all days, until these vacant inviting acres are brought into fruition by the hand of man and the multiplied effort of steam and gasoline power, to the influence and operation of which these lands present such a splendid opportunity.

The pulse of today's desire to secure farm lands may be seen to best advantage columns of the local newspapers recording sales of many tracts of land ranging from 100 to 1,200 acres. A Regina (Sask.) paper says, "In farming lands there is so brisk a business being done that it might be considered a boom." Another paper reports the sale of a section of raw prairie several miles east of Regina for $35 an acre and 200 acres at $50 an acre One real-estate firm handled in three weeks' time over 3,500 acres of farm lands, the turnover being upward of $100,000. An improved farm near Regina changed hands at $47 an acre "For the first time in the history of the Moosejaw district farm land has been sold for $100 an acre, when J. S Cameron of Victoria, B. C., sold half a section, known as the Lett farm, to John Logan. The farm was bought a year ago for $85 an acre and is located three miles from the city. It is highly improved and has fine buildings."

An extract from a local paper says "The movement of farm lands is opening up well this season and there is every indication that a large area of prairie property will be turned over during the months intervening before seedtime.

"The price received for farm lands in each instance is considered as good, particularly for unimproved raw prairie, and shows a considerable improvement on prices for similar properties sold during the years of the war."—Advertisement.

Hunting Laws.

Hunting on Sunday is prohibited in all states and provinces east of the one hundred and fifth meridian except Illinois, Louisiana, Michigan, Texas, Wisconsin and Quebec. Mondays constitute a closed season for waterfowl in Ohio and locally in Maryland and North Carolina; and certain other week days for waterfowl in several favorite shooting grounds in Maryland, Virginia and North Carolina.

In Turkey husbands are deserting their wives and girls are being sold for three shillings.

To keep clean and healthy take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They regulate liver, bowels and stomach. Adv

The blacksmith puts the horse on his metal by shoeing him.

Your Eyes A Wholesome, Cleansing, Refreshing and Healing Lotion—Murine for Redness, Soreness, Granulation, Itching and Burning of the Eyes or Eyelids "5 Drops" After the Movies, Motoring or Golfing will win your confidence. Ask Your Druggist for Murine when your Eyes Need Care. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

eddy Health Talks

IC ACID IN THE SYSTEM

BY LEE H. SMITH, M. D.

ric acid is now generally recog- as the cause of more diseases was heretofore believed. When kidneys are out of order uric acid umulates within the body in super dance. The disordered kidneys ot filter the poisons out of the , as they ought to do, and so the ons remain in the blood and float nd until they find a place to , in form of urate salts. The to remember is that you may rheumatism in any part of the —you may have pains anywhere ur back may ache and your head be dizzy—but the trouble is not e the pain appears.

trouble is in the kidneys, and is the first thing to do? You must at excess uric acid out of your sys- which can be done by taking Anuric is, the splendid remedy which Dr. , of Buffalo, N. Y., has put on sale drug stores at a low price. Anuric ts (made double strength), when into the system as medicine, have peculiar power of dissolving the uric deposited there. Drop a bit of sugar lt into hot water, and it will disap- In precisely the same way do these ic Tablets dissolve uric acid. Of e, after ridding the system of uric it may return again unless you eat ight foods and live the right kind of but Dr. Pierce will advise you fully roper food and correct living if you and ask him. He makes no charge uch advice. Take Anuric Tablets to- by all means, and get that uric acid of your system. Don't, don't, don't, the matter off.

Wonderful Instinct.

Two city fathers were standing in the market place beside a pile of cab- . A naturalist passed by, and ed that a Pieris butterfly had set- down on the hat of one of the al- en.

"Friend," he said, "a butterfly is g on your head."

"Good," replied the dignitary, "that s good luck, if the old saying be believed."

"Yes," the naturalist rejoined; "and reveals to me the wonderful instinct which nature has endowed the ct."

"How is that?" the city father asked, much interested.

"It is a cabbage butterfly," the nat said—and passed on his way.

A TABLET! DYSPEPSIA GONE

DIAPEPSIN INSTANTLY IEVES SOUR, GASSY OR ACID STOMACHS.

meals hit back and your stom- our, acid, gassy, or you feel full outed. When you have heavy of pain or headache from indi- . Here is instant relief!

as soon as you eat a tablet or Pape's Diapepsin all the dys- indigestion and stomach dis- ds. These pleasant, harmless of Pape's Diapepsin never fail e upset stomachs feel fine at and they cost very little at drug Adv.

Dicky's Wish.

was Dick's first day at school the afternoon, he began crying e teacher asked him what the was. Like so many, he was ck.

ll, Dick," the teacher said kind- may go home."

" he sobbed, "I don't want to e, but I wish I was there."

No Doubt of It.

Jones get any damages in that case?" "Did he? You ought e seen his face."

financial plank in the woman's m is pin money.

YSICIAN WAS IN RIOUS CONDITION

Farnsworth Gives Doan's Credit for His Wonderful Recovery.

T. G. Farnsworth, 76 S. Kana- St., Buckhannon, W. Va., retired an of over forty years' experi- ex-State Congressman, ex-City and ex-County Health Officer, Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is rnsworth's experience as he tells It was just a few years after my from practic- edicine that I I was afflicted severe disorder e kidneys and er. I grew steadworse, and some- I was unable to round at all. The y secretions were ded and so pain- passing I would ut in misery. I a frightful con- After I had lost hope in other dies, Doan's Kidney Pills were ht to my attention and I tried I soon noticed a change for the r. I used several boxes and they me completely. Never in my ce did I know a remedy that accomplish what Doan's Kidney did, and I give them my hearty dorsement."

Dr. Farnsworth

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

CHAPTER TEN (Continued.)

"They've arrested the Count," Hardy began, and Anita screamed an interruption:

"Arrested Count Charlier! Put him in jail?"

"Yes," returned the detective. "I found the other one of that pair of gloves, the mate to the one in the lady's hands—where, do you suppose?"

"Where?"

"Rolled up in a pair of socks, in the Count's chiffonier drawer; of course, to hide it, as it is not at all easy to destroy a thing like that while visiting."

"I know it," said Pauline earnestly; "it is hard. I've often notice that when I've wanted to burn a letter or anything. You can't do it unknown to the servants or somebody."

"Rubbish!" said Anita. "It would have been easy for the Count to dispose of a glove if he had wanted to. But he didn't. He never committed that crime! If a glove was found, as you say, somebody else put it there to incriminate an innocent man. It's too absurd to fasten the thing on Count Charlier! Do you suppose he went to the boudoir and gave Miss Carrington poison, and then shook hands good evening, and left his glove in her grasp? Nonsense! The glove in her dead hand was put there by the criminal to implicate the Count, and the glove in the rolled up socks for the same purpose and by the same person!"

"By Jove, Miss Frayne! You may be right!" cried Hardy. "Somehow I can't see the Count's hand in this thing, and yet——"

"And yet, he did it!" put in Haviland. "Have they really jailed him? I'm glad."

"I'm sorry," said Pauline, and her face was white. "Did he—did he—c-confess?" The girl's voice trembled, and she could scarcely pronounce the words.

"Not he," said Hardy; "he semed dazed, and declared his innocence—but he was not convincing. He takes it very hard and talks wildly and at random. But you know what Frenchmen are; liable to go off their heads at any time."

"But look at it," reasoned Anita; "why would the Count kill Miss Carrington? Why, he thought of marrying her."

"Not much he didn't!" and Hardy smiled a little. "I size it up this way: Matters had gone so far that he had to propose to the lady or clear out. He didn't want to clear out, for then she would take back the little matter of $10,000 already marked for him in her will. Moreover, he couldn't realize that tidy little sum, which he very much wants, so long as she lived. To be sure, he would have had far more had he married her, but that was not in 'his nibs' plans. So he resorted to desperate measures. He's a thorough villain, that man! Outwardly, most correct and honorable, but really an adventurer, as is also his friend, the dashing young widow."

"Mr. Hardy," and Pauline spoke calmly now, "do you know these things to be true of Count Charlier, or are you assuming them?"

"Well, Miss Stuart, I know human nature pretty well, especially male human nature, and, if I'm mistaken in this chap, I'll be surprised. But, also, I've set afoot an investigation, and we'll soon learn his record, antecedents, and all that. At present no one knows much about him; and what Mrs. Frothingham knows she won't tell."

"It was very strange for Aunt Lucy to give him that money——" began Pauline musingly.

"Not at all," broke in Gray, "I know all about that. Miss Carrington had a certain bunch of bonds that amounted to just $50,000. In one of her sudden bursts of generosity, and she often had such, she decided to give those bonds to five people. I mean, to devise them in her will, not to give them now. Well, four were Miss Stuart and Carr Loria, Miss Frayne and myself. And then she hesitated for some time, but finally announced that the fifth portion should be named for the Count. I was there when the lawyer fixed it up, and Miss Carrington turned to me and said, laughingly: 'I may change that before it comes due!' Oh, she was always messing with her will. I'm glad there's a tidy bit in it for me, as it is. Her demise might have taken place when I was for the moment cut out."

"Was there ever such a time?" asked Hardy.

"There sure was! Only last month she got firing mad with me, and crossed me off without a shilling. Then she got over her mad spell and restored me to favor."

"You and Miss Frayne have other bequests than those particular bonds you mentioned?" asked the detective.

"Yes, we have each $10,000 beside, which was all right of the old lady, eh, Anita?"

"None too much, considering what I have stood from her capricious temper and eccentric ways," returned the girl.

"Your own temper is none too even," said Pauline quietly; "I'd rather you wouldn't speak ill of my aunt, if you please."

What might have been a passage at arms was averted by the appearance of a footman with a cablegram.

"It's from Carr!" exclaimed Pauline as she tore it open, and read:

Awful news just received. Shall I come home or will you come here? Let Haviland attend all business. Love and sympathy. Carrington Loria.

"He's in Cairo," commented Haviland, looking at the paper; "that's lucky. If he had been off up the Nile on one of his excavating tours, we mightn't have had communication for weeks. Well, he practically retains me as business manager, at least for the present. And Lord knows there's a lot to be done!"

"I don't understand, Gray, why you look upon Carr as more in authority than I am," said Pauline, almost petulantly; "I am an equal heir, and, too, I am here, and Carr is the other side of the world."

"That's so, Polly. I don't know why, myself. I suppose because he is the man of the family."

"That doesn't make any difference. I think from now on, Gray, it will be proper for you to consider me the head of the house as far as business matters are concerned. You can pay Carr his half of the residuary in whatever form he wants it. I shall keep the place, at least for the present."

"Won't Mr. Loria come back to America?" asked Hardy.

"I scarcely think so," replied Pauline. "There's really no use of his doing so unless he chooses. And I'm pretty sure he won't choose, as he's so wrapped up in his work over there that he'd hate to leave unless necessary."

"But won't he feel a necessity to help investigate the murder?" urged Hardy.

"I don't know," and Pauline looked thoughtful. "You see what he says; when he asks if he shall come home he means do I want him to. If I don't request it, I'm fairly sure he won't come. Of course, when he learns all the details, he will be as anxious as we that the murderer should be found. But, if I know Carr, he will far rather pay for the most expensive detective service than come over himself. And, too, what could he do more than we can? We shall, of course, use every effort and every means to solve the mysteries of the case, and he could advise us no better than the lawyers already in our counsel."

"That's all true," said Haviland; "and I think Loria means that when he puts me in charge of it all. But after a week or so we'll get a letter from him, and he'll tell us what he intends to do."

"I shall cable him," said Pauline thoughtfully, "not to come over unless he wants to. Then he can do as he likes. But he needn't come for my benefit. The property must be divided and all that, but we can settle any uncertainties by mail or cable. And, I think I shall go on the trip as we had planned it."

"You do!" said Gray in amazement. "Go to Egypt?"

"Yes, I don't see why not. I'd like the trip, and it would take my mind off these horrors. Our passage is booked for a February sailing. If necessary I will postpone it a few weeks, but I see no reason why I shouldn't go. Do you?"

"No," said Haviland slowly.

Hardy seemed about to speak and then thought better of it, and said nothing.

"Of course I shall not go," began Anita, and Pauline interrupted her with "You go! I should say not! Why should you?"

"Why shouldn't I, if I choose?" returned Anita, and her pink cheeks burn rosy. "I am my own mistress. I have my own money. I am as free to go as you are."

"Of course you are," said Pauline coldly. "Only please advise me on what steamer you are sailing."

"That you may take another," and Anita laughed shortly. "But I may prefer to go on the one you do. Aren't you rather suddenly anxious to leave this country?"

Pauline faced her. "Anita Frayne," she said, "if you suspect me of crime, I would rather you said so definitely than to fling fling out these continual innuendoes. Do you?"

"I couldn't say that, Pauline. But there are—there certainly are some things to be explained regarding your interview with your aunt on Tuesday night. You know I heard you in her room."

"Your speech, Anita, is that of a guilty conscience. As you well know, I saw you come from her room at the hour you accuse me of being there."

"Let up, girls," said Haviland; "you only make trouble by that sort of talk."

"But when an innocent man is arrested, Pauline ought to tell what she knows!"

"I have told, and it seems to implicate you!"

The impending scene was averted by Haviland, who insisted on knowing what word should be sent to Loria.

"May as well get it off," he said; "it takes long enough to get word back and forth to him, anyway. What shall I say for you, Polly?"

"Tell him to come over or not, just as he prefers, but that I shall be quite content if he does not care to come; and that I shall go to Egypt as soon as I can arrange to do so. Put it into shape yourself. You know more about cabling than I do."

Haviland went away to the library, and Hardy followed.

"Look here, Mr. Haviland," said the latter, "what do these ladies mean by accusing each other of all sorts of things? Did either of them have any hand in this murder?"

"Not in 1,000 years!" declared Gray emphatically. "The girls never loved each other, but lately, even before the death of Miss Lucy, they have been at daggers drawn. I don't know why, I'm sure!"

"But what do you make of this story of Miss Frayne's about hearing Miss Stuart in her aunt's room?"

"She didn't hear her. I mean she didn't hear Miss Stuart; what she heard was Miss Carrington talking to herself. The old lady was erratic in lots of ways."

"Why do you all say the old lady? She wasn't really old."

"About 50. But she tried so hard to appear young that it made her seem older."

"She was in love with the Count, of course?"

"Yes; as she was in love with any man she could attach. No, that's not quite true. Miss Lucy cared only for interesting men, but, if she could corral one of those, she used every effort to snare him."

"Is the illustrious Count interesting?"

"She found him so. And, yes, he always entertained us. She made that bequest to attract his attention and lure him on. And then——"

"Well, and then?"

"Oh, then he couldn't withstand the temptation and he shuffled her off to make sure of the money now."

"You think he killed her, then?"

"Who else? Those girls never used a blackjack——"

"But the poison?"

"Had it been poison alone, there might be a question. But that stunning blow has to be remembered. And neither Miss Stuart nor Miss Frayne can be thought of for a moment in connection with that piece of brutality."

"But the snake? The queer costume?"

"The costume wasn't so queer—for a boudoir garb. The snake is inexplicable, unless the man has a disordered mind, and used insane methods to cover his tracks. Then there's the glove, you can't get around that!"

"That glove might have been put in her hand by anybody."

"That's so! By a professional burglar, say! I really believe—"

"Oh, let up on that professional burglar business! No burglar is going off without his loot when he has uninterrupted time enough to kill a person twice, with poison and then, to hide that, with a fractured skull! How do you explain, even in theory, those two murderous attacks?"

"Good Lord, man, I don't know! It's all the most inexplicable muddle. I don't see how any of the things could happen, but they did happen! You're the detective, not I! Aren't you ever going to discover anything?"

"I may as well own up, Mr. Haviland, I am beyond my depth. There is a belief among detectives that the more bizarre and amazing the clues are, the easier the deduction therefrom. But I don't believe that. This case is bizarre enough, in all conscience, yet what can one deduce from that paper snake and that squeezed up glove? It was all up in a little wad, you know, not at all as if it were carelessly drawn from a man's hand, or pulled off in a struggle."

"There was no struggle. The features were composed, even almost smiling."

"I know it. That proves it was no burglar. Well, I'm up a tree I wish you felt inclined to call in Fleming Stone. He's the only man on this continent who could unravel it all."

"I want to get him, but Miss Stuart won't hear of it. I'd have to have either her authority or Loria's."

"But Mr Loria gave you full swing, in that cable."

"Yes, for ordinary business matters. But this is different. I'd have to have assurance that he'd pay the bills before I engaged Stone. I've heard he's some expensive."

"I've heard that, too. But, by Jove, I'd like to work with him! Or under him I say, I wish you could bring it about."

"I might cable Loria on my own, and not mention it to Miss Stuart until I get the permission."

"Do. For, as you say, the two ladies cannot possibly be involved, and I, for one, don't believe that nincompoop Count ever pulled off such a complicated affair all by himself."

"What about the widow he's visiting?"

"Ah, there you have it! Those two are in it, but there's more mystery yet."

"I'd like to have it straightened out," said Haviland thoughtfully. "In a way, I feel responsible to Loria, since he has put me in charge. And if he wants me to get Stone, I'll be glad to do so. As you say, it can't affect the girls—that stuff Anita made up was only to bother Pauline. You see, Pauline came back at her with a counter accusation. They're both unstrung and upset, and they scarcely know what they're saying."

"Then there's that French maid."

"Oh, Estelle. She's a negligible quantity. She's hysterical from sheer nervousness, and she lies so fast she can hardly keep up with herself."

"Well, think it over, and, if you see your way clear to call in Stone, I'll be mighty glad. If the Frenchman is the guilty party, Stone will nail him and prove it beyond all doubt. And, if not, we surely don't want an innocent man to swing."

"That we don't," agreed Haviland.

XI

FLEMING STONE.

"Yes, I have often heard the idea expressed that the more bizarre the clues appear, the easier the solution of the mystery. And this is frequently true."

Fleming Stone looked from one to another of the interested group of listeners. They sat in the library—Pauline, Anita, Gray Haviland and the young detective, Hardy.

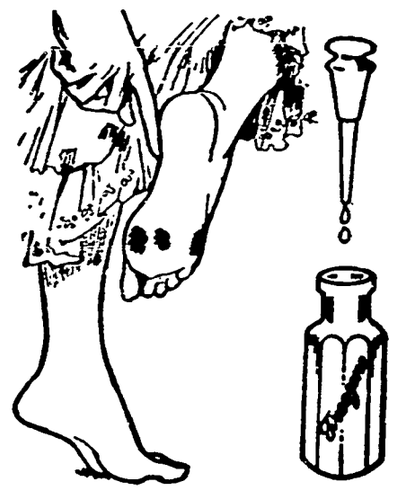
Haviland had carried out his plan of cabling Carrington Loria for authority to employ Mr. Stone, and had received a reply to use his own judgment in all such matters and charge the expense to Loria's account.

(Continued Next Week.)

The state department, which recently refused to issue passports to the three American socialists elected by their party to attend the international socialist congress at Berne, has granted passports to two of the delegates to be said at the request of President Wilson.

"CALLUS CORNS" LIFT RIGHT OFF

Doesn't hurt! Lift any corn or callus off with fingers



Don't suffer! A tiny bottle of Freezone costs but a few cents at any drug store. Apply a few drops on the corns, calluses and "hard skin" on bottom of feet, then lift them off.

When Freezone removes corns from the toes or calluses from the bottom of feet, the skin beneath is left pink and healthy and never sore, tender or irritated.

MUST HAVE BEEN NOSEY PAIR

Or Else Cabman's Imagination Was in Full Working Order on This Festive Occasion.

Two brothers who live in an East Lancashire manufacturing town were noted for being exceptionally well served with nasal organs.

One of the ring spinners at the mill where they worked invited them to a wedding and promised to send a cab for them.

The cab duly arrived and the two brothers entered and planked themselves down one at each window.

In order to create an impression during the drive to the wedding, the two brothers were looking out of the cab, one at each side, so that the people could see them.

All went well until the cab came to a rather narrow railway arch, which our travelers had to pass through. The cabman looked back to take his bearing, and, seeing the two brothers' noses sticking out of the windows on either side, shouted:

"Put them elbows in, please."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

HEAD STUFFED FROM CATARRH OR COLD

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief—no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.—Adv.

Easily Found.

"Any excitement to be found in this moss-grown, dodmolested town?" demanded the hypercritical young guest from the Big Burg.

"Plenty of it, Mr. Snort," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern, "if you just go out on the street and disparage our progressive little city in that tone of voice."—Kansas City Star.

State of Ohio, City of Toledo, Lucas County—ss.

Frank J. Cheney makes oath that he is senior partner of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.

(Seal) A. W. Gleason, Notary Public.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is taken internally and acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Druggists, 75c. Testimonials free. F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

A new-born babe has no past and its future is uncertain.

Don't wait until your cold develops Spanish Influenza or pneumonia. Kill it quick.

HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form—safe, sure, no opiates—breaks up a cold in 24 hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine has Red box with Mr. Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores

Bronchial Troubles

Soothe the irritation and you relieve the distress. Do both quickly and effectively by using promptly a dependable remedy—

PISO'S

CREAKS UNDER SPIRIT VOICES

Conscience Lashed, Chicago Man Clears Crime Committed Last Winter.

TELLS STRANGE TALE

Voices Become Louder and More Insistent—In Terror Man Takes to Whisky and Whisky Loosens His Tongue.

Chicago.—The voice of a murdered man rang in the ears of Joseph Rokawicz. For almost a year after his neighbor, Fred[erick] Papke was found dead on the floor of his home by his own daughter the voice talked to Rokawicz. He confessed to the murder of the traction conductor. He volunteered the statement after he had helped the bereaved family and when the flat below the vacant [one] was moved in next to the [Pa]pke's. Papke was killed the night of January 24, and that time onward he heard the voices.

The voices became louder, more insistent. They accused Rokawicz, in his terror of the supernatural took to whisky—and the whisky loosed a tongue that had talked only sympathy before.

"I would not be surprised if this Rokawicz knew something of your husband's death," said a neighbor to Mrs. Papke not long ago.

The neighbor had heard the voices delivered by Rokawicz. The widow went to Capt. Thomas J. Coughlin of the stock yards police station and Rokawicz was arrested. At first he denied knowing anything of the murder.

Breaks Down and Confesses.

At last he broke down and told Captain Coughlin a strange story.

"I was coming home," he said, "with my full month's pay in my pocket. I had been drinking. I had my long-bladed butcher knife in my hand. As I passed Papke's house I saw a man standing before. His back was to me. I thought he was a holdup man—and I stabbed him. I went home believing I had killed a robber and I did not worry. The next day I found that I had killed Frederick Papke my neighbor. My hand. I was horror-stricken. I did not mean it. I could—but the voices—the voices—" Papke, according to his wife, had taken their pet dog out for an airing after supper. He had been standing in front of the house. The daughter Emma, heard a whining and scratching at the door. She opened it to find that her father had crept that far—dying on the doorstep.

"And I Stabbed Him."

Calls Holdup Story Absurd.

"I do not believe his story," said Captain Coughlin after Rokawicz had been held to the grand jury for murder and was lodged in the county jail. "I think he killed Papke, but his holdup story is absurd. He knew Papke well enough to have recognized him. I am satisfied there was some other reason. The murderer always in his confession tries to justify his act. In the months that we have been investigating this case we have been unable to find a motive. I think Papke's dog must have snapped at Rokawicz. An argument followed. Rokawicz drew his knife and stabbed Papke in the back.

"Rokawicz, I believe, is a victim of a peculiar form of insanity."

CONVICTS USE YARN ROPE

Make 25-Foot Rope From Yarn Furnished by Red Cross and Escape From Prison.

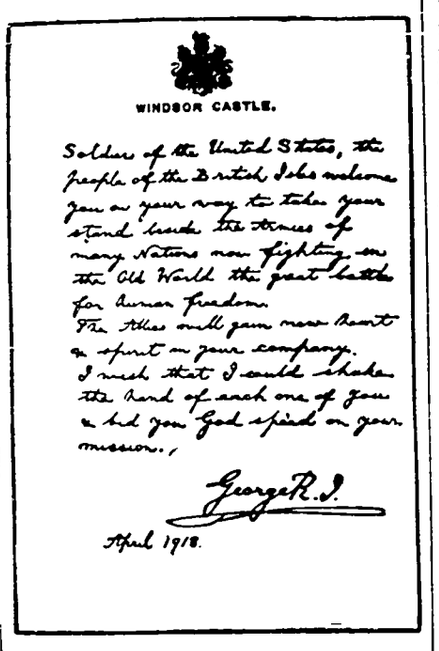
Boise, Idaho.—With the aid of a 25-foot rope braided from yarn furnished the inmates by the Red Cross, Fred George, alias Gruber, and Harry Hinton escaped from the state penitentiary. George has a life sentence for murder hanging over him and Hinton was serving five to fifteen years for robbery. With the aid of the yarn rope they lowered themselves down from the top of the wall surrounding the penitentiary.

The Scrap Book

KING'S LETTER OF WELCOME

Members of American Overseas Forces Got Message of Appreciation From Head of British Nation.

Each member of the American overseas forces who passed through England on his way to the front received a letter of welcome and appreciation from the crown. An envelope bearing the inscription: "A message to you



WINDSOR CASTLE.

Soldiers of the United States, the people of the British Isles welcome you on your way to take your stand beside the armies of many Nations now fighting on the Old World the great battle for human freedom.
The Allies will gain new heart and effort in your company.
I wish that I could shake the hand of each one of you and bid you God speed on your mission.

George R.I.

April 1918.

Facsimile of King George's Letter of Welcome to Yankee Fighters on Way to Front.

from his majesty King George V" was presented to each soldier. It contained a facsimile of a letter written in his majesty's hand on the note paper of Windsor castle.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

HE NEVER TOOK A VACATION.

He never took a vacation, he hadn't the time, he said.
It was off to the "grind" in the morning,
It was home and the papers and bed,
'Twas the desk, or the office, or counter,
Where he fought out his battles with men.
He would work just a few years longer,
Then quit, 'take it easy," and then—?

So he toiled and he moiled and struggl'd,
Nor knew that the gods of gain
Drank deep of the wine he proffer'd,
The blood of His heart and brain,
Nor knew when he piled up his millions,
And gathered his bags of gold,
His friends said at forty "he's aging,"
At fifty they said "he is old."

He never took a vacation, and at sixty they read his will,
His day for "retiring from business"
Death wrote in skrawl
And pinned on the door of his office
Was a notice which grimly read,
"Out of town on a long vacation!—Indefinite" it said.

—John Warren Harper.

The Peanut.

Not only is the peanut a valuable human food, but it has also great agricultural possibilities. It is estimated that more than 2,000,000 acres are under cultivation. The estimated yield this year is 80,000,000 bushels. All the states south of the Tennessee-Kentucky boundary grow peanuts. Many factories now make peanut oil—a keen rival of cottonseed oil for salad and cooking purposes. The oil cake left after pressing is a most excellent cattle food. It has a distinct advantage over cottonseed cake in being entirely free of any toxic ingredient. It can be fed with impunity to young animals. The straw is a roughage rich in protein and very edible, being in this respect wholly unlike cotton stalks. The peanut cake also makes a good meal, giving to wheat flour a generous addition of digestible protein. The aristocratic arachis hypogaea—the plebeian, goober—has rosy prospects of a brilliant future.

The high prices paid for such nuts as almonds and pecans do not afford any encouragement to use this class of nuts as substitutes for meat. Nutritionally, they are substitutes for meat. Economically, they are not. When they are eaten, however, the quantity of meat required is lessened.

Inscription to British Dead.

"Their name liveth forevermore." This is the phrase that will be engraved upon the great memorial stone which is to be erected in each of the cemeteries of British soldiers who have fallen in the war.

It is the suggestion of Rudyard Kipling, who in submitting the phrase to the imperial war graves commission wrote: "It was necessary to find a word of praise and honor which should be both simple and well known, comprehensible and of the same value in all tongues, and also standing as far as might be outside the flux of men and things.

"After search and consultation with all ranks and many races in our armies and navies, as well as with those who had given their sons, it seemed to me that no single phrase could be better than that which closes the tribute to the famous men in Ecclesiastes, 'Their name liveth forevermore.'"

Increase in China's Wood Oil.

An increase in the volume of China wood oil is expected this season, due to the demand for all Oriental oils as the result of the war. China wood oil has a permanent place in the industries of the United States. In China the oil has been used for centuries in waterproofing paper fabrics and in making varnish and ink.

REMINDED "YANK" OF HOME

Georgia Soldier Delighted When He Found Real Cantaloupe in Ruined Town in France.

A fresh-faced, splendidly built lad looked up from the first bite of his melon, crying: "Yes, suh, a cantaloupe, a' honest-to-the-Lawd cantaloupe! I nevah thought they'd heahd of such a thing in France."

They explained to me, all talking at once, pouring out unasked military information till my hair rose up scandalized, that this was their first experience with seminormal civilian life in France, because they belonged to the troops from Georgia—volunteers; that they had been in the front-line trenches at exactly such a place for precisely so many weeks, where such and such things happened, and before that at such another place, where they were so many strong, etc., etc. "So we neveh saw real sto's to buy things till we struck this town. And, when I saw a cantaloupe I mighty nigh dropped daid! I don't reckon I'm likely to run into a watermelon, am I? I suahly would have to be ca'led back to camp on a stretcher if I did!" He laughed out, a boy's cloudless laughter. "But, say, what do you-all think? I paid fo'ty-five cents for this slice—yes, ma'am, fo'ty-five cents for a slice, and back home in Geo'gia you pay a nickel for the biggest one in the sto'!" He buried his face in the yellow fruit.

"How do you like being in France?" I asked the boy who was devouring the melon.

He looked up, his eyes kindling. "Well, I was plumb crazy to get heah, and, now I'm heah, I like it mo' even than I 'lowed I would."

I looked at his fresh, unlined boy's cheeks, his clear, bright boy's eyes, and felt a great wave of pity. "You haven't been in active service yet?" I surmised.

Unconsciously, gayly, he flung my pity back in my face: "You bet yo' life I have. We've just come from the Champagne front and the sehvice we saw theah was suah active. How about it, boys?"—Harper's Magazine.

Saw Spain's Start as Nation.

In the full historical and national sense Covadonga is the name of what is probably the most significant place in the world for Spain, who certainly regards it as such, and now to the utmost of her capacity celebrates the twelfth centenary of the great event that is associated with the beautiful little town that nestles on the sides of the Austrian hills. The king and queen, all the dignitaries of the land, and the people in general joined in a great celebration. It was at Covadonga in 718, says the Madrid correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor, that the Moorish hosts were thrown back and there took place the beginning of the great reconquest which gave Spain back to herself and started her as a nation. The Spaniards say definitely that their nationality dates from Covadonga in 718. This, evidently, is a good reason for great celebrations, and to some people it may seem well that at such a moment the nation and its leaders can completely detach their minds from the somewhat ironical circumstances of the present international political situation of the country. Nothing has been permitted to mar the success of this commemoration.

SUCH STORIES OFTEN YARNS.

Jack told me a capital story last night.

What was it?

How much he was worth.

Losses of Our Merchant Shipping.

From the beginning of the European war on August 3, 1914, to the armistice of November 11, 1918, the authenticated loss of American merchant vessels from acts of the enemy was 145 vessels of 354,449 gross tons, with the sacrifice of 775 lives, as shown by the official records of the bureau of navigation, department of commerce. These returns do not include the losses of vessels of the American navy or of the American army and lives thus sacrificed recorded by the navy and war departments. They do not include several cases of the loss of merchant vessels in which it is not yet established whether the loss was due to acts of the enemy.

Few Gold Miners Die Rich.

Few gold miners ever die rich, according to A. J. Blake, who was one of the first pioneers who staked claims in the Seward Peninsula district of Alaska, before the rich Nome beaches were discovered.

"It's a peculiar fact," said Blake, "that money made in gold mining rarely sticks to the man who makes it. Gold taken from the ground is the cleanest money extant in that it makes no other man poorer, and yet the men who make money in this way generally die poor."

Her Advantage.

"I see where a Frau Schwimmer has been appointed an ambassador from Hungary.

"Then, if necessary, she ought to be able, at least, to float a loan."

Slight Improvement in Taste.

"Do you think war has refined the Hohenzollern family?"

"There are evidences to that effect. I hear they now refuse to speak to one another."

The Scrap Book

AID TO SOLDIERS ON MARCH

Strap Fastened Tightly About Foot Said to Be Valuable for Prevention of Fatigue.

Bonnette (Presse Medicale) calls attention to the value of a strap fastened tightly about the foot to facilitate locomotion when the extremities are tired from prolonged marching and counter-marching. Under these conditions the plantar tissues sag, the nerves are pressed and dragged upon and the ligaments become tender. Immobilization of joints by means of the strap brings relief and permits the making an additional effort to complete the march. The strap is passed in figure of eight fashion under the instep, in front of the foot and behind the ankle—over the shoe. This procedure has proved so effective that some have used the straps for preventive purposes to defer fatigue.

THE ARMISTICE.

And this was Germany—this puff of dust,
This worn gray shoddy, and this iron rust!

This was the Germany where Goethe wrote,
Where Mendelssohn gave forth his golden note,
Where Schiller won our hearts with matchless word,
Where Wagner's greatest triumphs first were heard!
We loved you, when your poets nobly sang
Of Liberty—we heard the sabers clang
These seventy years gone by—and when you hushed
The Voice of Liberty, and when you crushed
Those who dreamed high in 1848,
We welcomed them with open, wide-thrown gate.
"I fought mit Sigel"—and no braver word
Through all our ringing history has been heard!
Franz Sigel, soul of German freedom, you,
Outlawed at home, received with us your due!
We loved you, Germany—and when you turned Upon us like a tiger, and you spurned
A century's devotion—dazed, aghast,
We took the blow, and then we grimly massed
Our bannered legions to the direful task
Of tearing off the Hohenzollern mask.

And this was Germany! Our warriors pressed
Onward and forward, till the battle test
Showed that the Eagle of the western wave
Conquers at will the abject, beaten slave!
And this was Germany—this puff of dust,
In serried ranks above thy vanquished head—
The horror of thy work recoils at last
On thine own land, as when a tempest blast,
Turned in mid course, sweeps murderously back,
Leaving a hideous welter in its track!

And this was Germany—this puff of dust,
This worn gray shoddy, and this iron rust!

—W. A. Phelon, in Cincinnati Times-Star.

Kept Busy Saluting.

There are so many foreigners in New York, wearing uniforms of all descriptions, that it is impossible to tell who is who, but the "doughboys" and the men-o'-warsmen never fail to salute them. One afternoon an American soldier with service stripes on his sleeve and an American sailor similarly distinguished turned the corner of Thirty-fourth street and strolled down Park avenue in front of the Vanderbilt hotel. At the same time a Hindu with head ornamentations and a gorgeous scarf surmounted by a fez turned the corner of Thirty-third street and started north. The soldier and sailor passed the Hindu with the snappiest of salutes and then both turned around to watch him recede. "What is he?" asked the sailor, "a general?" "Lord knows," answered the soldier. They turned back on their course, saluted the gorgeously clad taxicab starter and continued on.

Edward's Opinion of William.

The late King Edward VII of England, according to the London Globe, thus sized up Kaiser Wilhelm: "That fellow is foolish enough and insane enough to fight for the mastery of Europe, and to involve Great Britain among his enemies in the conflict, because he suffers from the delusion that he understands the British people better than anyone else in Europe. He is obsessed with the notion that, should he lose, he will always find apologists and supporters among the leaders of British opinion."

Frightful.

Buck—My papers are inviting suggestions as to what should be done with Bill Hohenzollern.

Wing—I have a great plan.

"What is it?"

"Invent some way of making him see himself as others see him."

Used to It.

"Gas attacks had no terrors for him."

"Why not?"

"He used to read people's gas meters before he joined the army."

POLITE BANDIT WORKS DENVER

Belated Citizens Are Held Up by Hold-Up-Man De Luxe.

WON'T ROB SOLDIER

Modern Raffles Dislikes Old Watches, but He Dearly Loves Coin—Doesn't Use Stronger Word Than Darn.

Denver, Colo.—"Raffles," the gentlemanly cracksman, has nothing on a bandit who has been making free with other people's bankrolls here for over two months. The exploits of Denver's hold-up man de luxe began last summer when a sturdy chap, clad in a dingy mackinaw, stuck a gun under the point of an astonished citizen's nose and ordered him to come across with his valuables.

The astonished citizen complied, passing over a roll consisting of $17.80 cash, a check on a local bank, and an antiquated timepiece. The robber surveyed the latter and then promptly handed it back, remarking as an heirloom it might be a good watch, but that he had no use for it.

The following night the marauder appeared at precisely the same spot and this time two citizens pointed their hands skyward at the sound of his command, and the sight of a huge nickeled revolver.

Stuck Up Four.

His most recent affair occurred on a Saturday night when he stuck up no less than four belated townsmen who were turning their steps homeward, framing excuses as they went. Suddenly the bad man appeared and repeated his usual formula of "Hands up, and darned quick about it!" (being a gentleman, he never uses a stronger word than darn). Anyway, the four late home-goers, or early, whichever way you care to look at it, elevated their hands with all the darned quickness desired by Raffles the Second. Three of them were ordinary citizens; that is to say, they are in civil life. The fourth was a soldier and in Uncle Sam's uniform. The bandit collected from the three civilians, but when he came to the soldier, bowed politely, wished him good evening, and declared his uniform was enough to protect him from any robber outside the marts of trade.

Pointed Their Hands Skyward.

The police are still looking for the man, while belated citizens are going home earlier.

ASKS WIFE TO FREE HUBBY

Affinity Declares That They "Have the Syncopated Love That Never Withers."

Akron, O.—"I love him dearly and feel that he loves me, and that we have the syncopated love that never withers."

This sentence is taken from a letter sent by an affinity to the wife of a local resident, urging that the wife release her husband "from the bonds which hold him from me and happiness."

The wife turned the letter over to officials of the Summit county court of domestic relations with a recommendation that the husband be located and compelled to answer to her accusation of non-support, or some charge, with a view to separating hubby from his affinity and making him take better care of his wife.

DID NOT BELIEVE IN BANKS

Janitor Kept Savings Amounting to $7,600 in Bureau Drawer—Money Disappears.

Chicago.—Joseph Rosinger, a janitor, didn't believe in banks, so he kept his $7,600 savings, with which he hoped to pay a first installment on an apartment building of his own, in his bureau drawer. Someone got into the bureau, and the money is gone—and now Rosinger doesn't believe in anything.

IS COSTLY TO RUN WHISKY BLOCKADE

Three Dead and Twelve Wounded Trying to Take Liquor Across Colorado Line.

Denver, Col.—Running Colorado's whisky blockade has already cost the lives of three more or less prominent citizens and resulted in the wounding of a dozen others. The third man to try conclusions with the state constabulary over his vested rights to transport liquor into dry territory has just been brought back to Denver a corpse.

When the state went dry several years ago the National Guard did its policing of the border between Wyoming and Colorado to see that "bootleggers" crossed into the Sunshine state carrying their forbidden cargo. Then came the war and a state constabulary was created to maintain the liquor drought on Colorado soil. A constable and a high power car were on duty on the border when suddenly three machines shot across the state line and headed full speed in the direction of Denver. The constable yelled for the trio to halt, but for answer one of the men in the last car drew a gun and blazed away twice at the officer.

Blazed Away Twice at the Officer.

The shots went wild, but the constable retaliated with a little display of his own. His aim was true and the fellow who had fired turned down into the bottom of the car and his two companions called upon the other cars to slow up and take him in. They succeeded in escaping, leaving their unfortunate comrade in the machine. By the time the constable drove up to him it was plain the man was dying. He was rushed to the nearest town where he died in a local doctor's office. Sixty-six pints of whisky were found in the machine which was afterward identified as the property of the dead man, a Greek who kept a "soft drink" parlor in Denver.

SHOOTS WOULD-BE SUICIDE

Policeman Forced to Take Drastic Steps to Subdue Man Who Had Cut His Own Throat.

New York.—In order to subdue a man for a trip to a hospital, a New Brunswick policeman recently had to shoot a man who had attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a penknife.

Fred Hood, a clerk in a government shipyard, had stabbed himself in the throat and stomach when his grief attracted the policeman. Hood resented intrusion by the law and stabbed the policeman in the arm. The patrolman fired three shots in the air trying to frighten Hood. No result. Hood again went after the policeman with the knife, whereupon the would-be suicide was shot twice in the leg by the policeman. Hood then surrendered and was taken to a hospital.

Toss Out Dresser, Carry Down Mattress.

Tulsa, Okla.—During a fire in the negro section of Tulsa the occupants of a two-story house which was on fire threw a dresser from the upstairs window and carried a mattress downstairs. Aside from the loss of the dresser the fire damage was slight.

MINING STOCKS WERE BURIED

Musty Papers Became Eyesore to Housewife and She Destroyed Them—Worth Much Money.

Denver, Colo.—An old-fashioned brass-bound chest filled with musty papers became an eyesore in the home of Mrs. Curtis Smith of Denver. Mrs. Smith had the brass removed and the chest and contents burned. That was 15 years ago.

Today action is pending in the district court to have restored to Mrs. Smith the equivalent of 7,500 shares of stock in one of the richest silver mines in Colorado.

The stock, believed at the time to be worthless, was fed to the flames in the ancient chest.

tern States Lumber Co.

umber & Building Material ave some fir Shiplap which we will sell at

. feet $35.00 per M. feet

s a trial and we will do all in wer, conversant with good busi- ethods, to gain and hold your

Olof Brynteson, Agent

The City Dray Line

pared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited
Charges Reasonable.

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

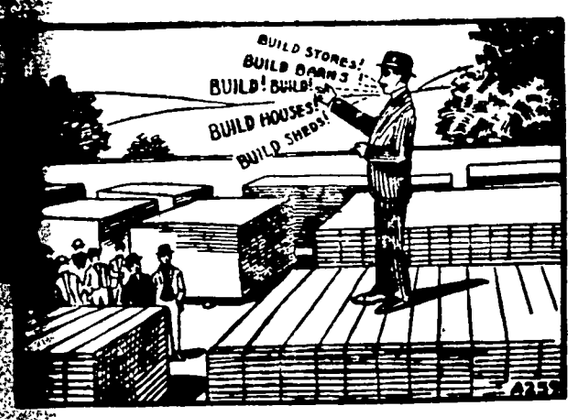
Coal Hauling Done

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy gs every day in the week. Also handle h grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will ow you the RESULTS.

one No. 16. Residence Phone No. 52



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

THERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

HANSON
E AND LIVE STOCK
TIONEER
WA. PHONE 105
D CUSTOMERS
T REFERENCE
TION GUARANTEED
WRITE FOR INFOR-
D SALE DATES AT ONCE

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDER

Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing

Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

OFFICIAL PROGRAM.

FARMERS' SHORT COURSE AND INSTITUTE, GARNER, IOWA, MARCH 3, 4 and 5, 1919.

MONDAY A. M.—PREPARATION.

Entering corn for the corn show. All samples must be in place by 1 o'clock.

MONDAY, 1:00 P. M. HOG CLASS WORK AND JUDGING.

Boys 18 and under, 1st prize, $5.00; 2nd, $3.00; 3rd, $2.00 4th, $1.00; 5th, 50c. Men 19 and over same prizes as for boys
Class of three hogs each. Discussion of good feeding and breed types. Two classes—Duroc and Poland China

MONDAY 2:30 P. M. CORN JUDGING

Placing classes of corn, and discussion of corn growing, types and selection. Preparation of seed bed, depth and thickness of planting and cultivation.

MONDAY 7:30 P. M. SPELLING CONTEST.

Open to anyone who wishes to compete. Prizes offered: Class 1, 6th to 8th grade, inclusive. 1st prize $5.00; 2nd $3 00, 3rd $1.00; 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th, 10th, 50c. Class 2, High School students, 10 prizes as above. Class 3, 30 years and over, prize, suitable.

TUESDAY 9:00 A. M. KNOTS AND SPLICING.

Practice in making knots and splices for men and boys.

TUESDAY 10:00 A. M. SMALL GRAINS

General discussion of different small grains Treatment of oats for smut. Varieties of oats and wheat best adapted

TUESDAY 11:00 A. M. FEEDING HOGS FOR MARKET.

Lecture on feeds, taking up the feeding of the brood sow, and the litter until ready for market Discussion of the best and most economical feeds. Use of rape and other pastures as well as commercial feeds.

TUESDAY 1:00 P. M. BEEF CATTLE AND JUDGING.

Discussion of good beef cattle and breed types Boys 18 and under, 1st prize, $5.00; 2nd, $3.00; 3rd, $2.00; 4th, $1 00; 5th, 50c. Men 19 and over, same list of prizes.

TUESDAY 2:30 P. M. SOIL FERTILITY.

Use of clover, manure and commercial fertilizer. Rotation, use of lime, inoculation material, soil survey, etc. Farmers may bring samples of soil to be tested for acidity if they wish.

TUESDAY 8:00 P. M. DAIRYING

Illustrated lecture on the value of dairy products as a food.

WEDNESDAY 9:00 A. M. ROPE WORK FOR BOYS.

WEDNESDAY 10:00 A. M. FEEDING CATTLE FOR MARKET

Lecture and discussion of kinds of feed and how to feed Methods of cheapening beef making. Feed values, market requirements, etc Bring in your feeding questions.

WEDNESDAY 11:00 A. M. INSECT PESTS

Injurious corn and small grain insects, wire worms, root louse, cut worm, grub, etc. General discussion and life history and methods of control. (Illustrated with chart.)

WEDNESDAY 1:00 P. M. GAS ENGINES AND TRACTORS
A small gas engine will be used to demonstrate the care and best methods of operation. Also tractors will be on exhibit and explained.

LADIES PROGRAM.

MONDAY 1:30 P. M. FOOD LESSON.

Planning of meals, methods of economy, methods of canning and use of canned meats.

TUESDAY 9:30 A. M. FOOD LESSON.

Feeding of the family. Use of stored vegetables, etc.

TUESDAY 1:30 P. M. CLOTHING LESSON

Cutting of garments, short cuts in sewing clothing conservation.

WEDNESDAY 9:30 A. M. FUEL LESSON

Making and use of fireless cooker, use of commercial fireless cooker, use of pressure cooker.

WEDNESDAY 1:30 P. M. HOUSEHOLD ACCOUNTS.

Keeping of a budjet. Study of expense sheet of household accounts, economic methods of buying.

PRIZES ON EXHIBITS.

10 ears white corn any variety, 1st $5.00; 2nd $3.00; 3rd $2.00; 4th $1.00; 5th 50c.
10 ears yellow any variety, 1st $5 00; 2nd $3.00; 3rd $2 00; 4th $1.00; 5th 50c.
Single ear white, 1st $3.00; 2nd $2 00 and 3rd $1.00.
Single ear yellow, 1st $3.00; 2nd $2 00 and 3rd $1.00
Small Grain—Peck of oats any variety, 1st $3 00; 2nd $2.00; 3rd $1.00.
Peck of wheat, any variety, 1st $3 00; 2nd $2.00; 3rd $1.00.

BOYS CLASS IN CORN JUDGING.

For ages 18 and under (Either color of corn) 1st $5.00; 2nd $3.00; 3rd $2.00; 4th $1.00 and 5th 50c. For men 19 and over same prizes as last above.

ADMISSION PRICES.

Men's season ticket.....$1.00	School age day ticket.....25
Boys' season ticket.....50	Farmers' day ticket.....50
Ladies' season ticket.....75	Ladies' day ticket 35

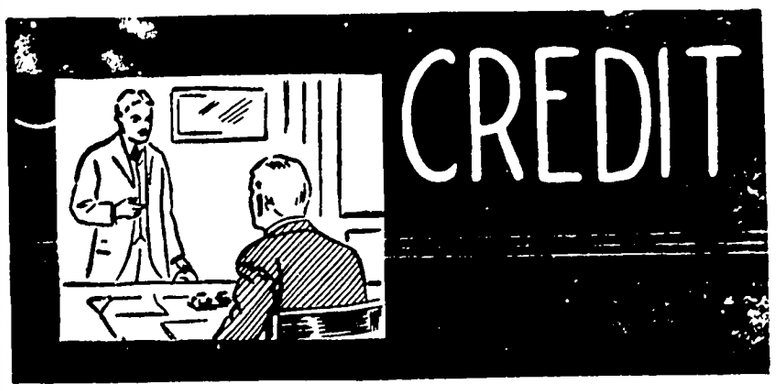
Prizes will consist of due bills from the merchants of Garner payable in merchandise to be chosen by the winner, except in a few cases where cash will be paid.
The corn show classes will be held in the city hall. Stock judging at Kenyon's livery barn. Spelling contest at the High School. The other night programs will be held in the Court House.

G. B. Lawhorn, President. C. R. Conway, Secretary.

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No 19. KLEMME IA:
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

Col. B. A. Reemtsma
General Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA
Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty
Call, write or phone 508 Klemme for dates, terms, etc.
...Satisfaction Guaranteed...

Dr R. W Schultz, of Garner, was a Klemme caller Monday of this week.



There are times in the lives of successful men when

Credit

at the bank is of vital importance. But the time to establish that credit is before its use is required.

Establish Your Credit with us now and in your time of need we will back you to the limits of Sound Banking Practice.

State Savings Bank
WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE YOU LIKE AND LIKE THE SERVICE YOU GET
KLEMME, IA.

SOFT BRICKS

A BUNCH OF SENSE AND NONSENSE AIMED AT NO ONE IN PARTICULAR AND EVERYBODY IN GENERAL

An overseas soldier remarked that the Salvation Army and the K C did great work in France. What is a K. C.? It stands for Klemme Cooties.

Now is the time when all good men should come to the aid of their—well help us build a new school house first!

One on the "hip" is worth two in Minnesota.

G. Washington, dad of Uncle Sam, celebrated his birthday last Friday We wonder if ice cream was served where he is.????

Fine bunch of Boneheads at D M Have a cigarette!

Garner wants a County Memorial, yep, they want it at Garner—we don'

We want a Memorial School at Klemme,

Will we get it?

SURE, a duck likes water—we are ducks!

There is a difference between dough-nuts and fry-cakes, ask Shimall,

The holes are the same, it's in the dough.

If you must "slam" then slam the door!

Town election coming soon, don't all run for 'lady horse" at once.

The editorial "bombardment" from Meservey is taking a rest.

Some people let the Lord do their work. For instance,

They let Him shovel their sidewalks

Good thing it didn't snow much this winter!

Mistakes are hard to cover, But

A doctor can.

It's a great life if you don't weaken

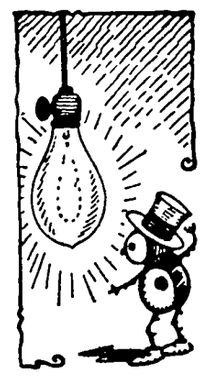
Court next week, you can.

Tell it to the Judge!

Garner Democrat—Oscar Carlson, who lives seven miles southwest of Garner, shipped a carload of hogs last week that topped the Chicago market. The hogs were of his own raising, were nine-months-old hogs and averaged an even 325 pounds. Our claim is that that is not half bad, and Oscar appeared to be well satisfied, too. For a number of years Oscar was one of the best liverymen in the county, being located at Klemme. He had foresight enough to get out of the livery business when the getting was good, and turned his attention to farming. And now he raks as one of the best farmers in the county.

A SHAME.

My what a shame, some one has put a poor glow worm in that bottle.



Important English Port.

In the days before the war Harwich, the seaport on the east coast of England, was well known to every traveler from Britain to northern Europe. For here might he take ship, at the famous Parkstone quay, for the Hook of Holland, for Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Antwerp, Esbjerg, Copenhagen, Hamburg and many other places of lesser note. So the little town of Harwich, crowding up the slopes of Beacon hill, overlooking the estuary of the Stour, was a place of hail and farewell for many It was a peaceful enough place in those days, given over to its passenger traffic and merchant traffic; but the great fort and defense works on the Suffolk shore of the estuary, the batteries at Harwich itself and at Shotley Point, reminded all and sundry that Harwich was regarded as a place of great strategic importance, and was prepared to live up to its responsibilities.

"Scooped" General Allenby.

The story of how Jerusalem was given over by the Arabs, not to General Allenby, but to two army cooks, was told by Maj. Allan Burgoyne at a recent gathering of the Royal Photographic society. It appears that the two men had been sent out to get salad for the officers of their company, and that to these two British Tommies the Arabs came and, with wild gesticulations, handed them the keys of Jerusalem. The astonishment of the men adds to the comedy of a situation worthy of Gilbert and Sullivan. One of the cooks asked what he was supposed to do with the "blinkin' city."

The Movies.

American motion-picture films are produced in sufficient quantities in the United States to encircle the globe at the equator. During the year ended June 30 the total length of films exported was 160,000,000 feet, or more than 30,000 miles, and of these nearly 100,000,000 feet were exposed films, ready for use. The remainder were unexposed. This establishes the United States as the world's largest manufacturer of films. Even this falls below the record of 1917, when more than 230,000,000 feet were sent to foreign countries and to our colonies. More than $1,000,000 worth of foreign films were imported during the fiscal year 1918.

Porcelain Candles.

Porcelain candles are the latest development in the problem of cheap lighting. They consist of a small white hollow cylinder in exact imitation of a candle, filled with a few ounces of petroleum and furnished with a wick, which burns quite like a candle. They are much used in the Scandinavian countries.—Dallas News.

A Precaution.

"I am going to write a book upon the present state of thrones in Europe."

"You had better find out first how you are going to get your royalties."

Eskimo Kayak.

One of the oddest crafts ever seen near Provincetown, Mass., was the Eskimo kayak, in which Explorer Donald B. MacMillan paddled about. The kayak is a man's canoe and is built on a frame on which is stretched skin, water tight. It is handled with a double paddle, is decked over, and, with an expert in it, is one of the safest small craft known.

Everyone Satisfied.

My little daughter, four, loves to treat her playmates. After passing around bread, butter and sugar to all, she came in and took out one peach. Later I said, "June, tell me how you divided one peach." She replied: "Well, mother, Netty said she just loved skins, and I gave Irene the stone, then I ate the peach."—Cleveland Plaindealer.

Marjorie's Good Wishes.

Marjorie's father was away on a journey, and Marjorie deemed it her duty to send him a bulletin as to home affairs. After the expenditure of much labor and ink she produced the following paragraph "My Dear Daddy —Mother is well. I am very well. The baby is very well. and has a lot more sense now. Hoping you are the same."

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc

CHAPTER ELEVEN (Continued)

Pauline had been opposed to the idea of calling Fleming Stone to the case, but, as she seemed unable to put forth any valid objections, Haviland had insisted until she gave her consent So arrangements had been quickly made, and the great detective had reached Garden Steps on Wednesday afternoon, just a week after the discovery of the murder

Previously unacquainted with Stone, the whole household was interested in his personality and this preliminary conversation was by way of introduction

A man of nearly 50, Fleming Stone was tall and well proportioned with a carriage and bearing that gave an impression of strength His clear cut face and firm jaw gave the same character indications as are seen in portraits of Lincoln, but his features were far more harmonious than those of our rugged faced president

Stone's hair, thick and dark, was slightly grayed at the temples, and his deep set eyes were now lustrous, and again, shadowed, like the water of a dark pool His lean jaw and forceful mouth made his face in repose somewhat stern, but this effect was often banished by his delightful smile, which softened his whole countenance and gave him a distinct air of friendliness

His manner was full of charm, and even Pauline became fascinated as she watched him and listened to his talk.

Fully at ease and skilfully directing the conversation, while he seemed merely sharing it, Stone was studying and classifying the new elements with which he had to deal Not yet had he inquired as to the details of the case in hand he was discussing detective work in general, much to the gratification of Tom Hardy, who listened as a pupil at the feet of Gamaliel.

Yes," went on Stone, settling back sociably in his easy chair, while the others unconsciously fell into more informal postures, " yes, bizarre effects do often point the way to a successful quest. Why, once a man was found dead with his feet in a tub of cold water. It was discovered that his feet had been immersed after death had taken place Obviously the tub of water had been used as a blind, to fog up the case. But the very character of the clue led at once to a man who was known as a 'cold water fiend,' and a fiend indeed he was He was the murderer You see, he was clever, but not clever enough. He had wit enough to think of the queer circumstance of the tub of water, but not enough to realize that the clue would lead directly to his own undoing "

Everybody looked thoughtful, but it was Hardy who spoke. "Yes, Mr. Stone, " he said, "but that clue was put there on purpose Do you think these strange effects connected with Miss Carrington's murder were deliberately arranged?"

That I can't tell now, Mr. Hardy In fact, I have not heard a connected and circumstantial account of the discoveries, as yet Suppose we go over the case, leisurely, and let me get a complete account by means of a general conversation. I will ask questions, or you may volunteer information, as seems most enlightening. Tell me first of the character and characteristics of Miss Carrington. Was she timid, or fearful of burglars?"

"Not at all," said Haviland. "She was careful to have the house locked up at night by the servants, but she had no burglar alarms or anything of that sort."

"If a marauder had appeared, would she have been likely to scream out in affright?"

"No, I don't think so," volunteered Anita. "She would more likely demand to know what he wanted and order him out."

"Yet the blackjack clearly indicates a burglar," went on Stone. "I can't imagine an ordinary citizen, of any calling, owning or using such a weapon."

"Have you examined the thing?" asked Haviland

12

" No, I should like to see it "

Tom Hardy at once produced it, having brought it with him from police headquarters for the purpose

"H'm," said Fleming Stone, as he fingered the not very alarming looking affair In fact, it was merely a long, narrow bag made of dark cloth and filled with shot. The bag was tied tightly at one end with a bit of twine to prevent the escape of the contents.

Home made affair," Stone went on Made probably by a professional burglar, but an amateur murderer See, it is merely a bit of heavy cloth, cut from an old coat sleeve or trouser leg, sewed up in a bungling manner to make a bag It is stitched with coarse black thread and the stitches are drawn hard and firm, evidently pulled through by a strong hand. Then, filled with shot, it is tied with a bit of old fish line, which also is pulled and knotted by muscular fingers And— " Stone paused abruptly

'And —" prompted Anita, breathlessly, her eyes fixed on the speaker.

"Nothing much," and Stone smiled, "only I should say the burglar lived in a house recently remodeled "

Hardy nodded in satisfaction This was the sort of deduction he was looking for Next he hoped for the color of the man's hair, and the sort of cigar he smoked. But he was doomed to disappointment.

"We seem to have drifted from the subject of Miss Carrington," Stone said "The evening before her death was she in her usual spirits? Evidently no premonition of her fate?"

"On the contrary," said Gray, "she remarked during the evening that something would happen to her that night which would surprise and astound us all. She said distinctly that 'tomorrow everything would be different.' "

"What did you understand her to mean by that?"

"We couldn't understand it at all It was most mysterious Nor do we yet know what she meant. For surely she had no thought of dying She spent the evening playing cards and listening to music, and conversation with the family guests, quite as usual."

"In amiable mood?" asked Stone

"No," replied Pauline, taking up the talk; "on the contrary, she was exceedingly irritable and ill tempered "

' You saw her after she went to her room for the night?" and Stone turned his whole attention to Pauline.

"Yes, Miss Frayne and I always went to her room with her, to say good night and to receive possible orders or suggestions for the next day's occupations."

"And you say she was unamiable?"

"That is a mild word," and Pauline smiled a little "She was in a high temper, and she told us both that we were to leave this house the next day."

"You both left her in that mood?"

"Yes, we were obliged to do so She dismissed us peremptorily and ordered us from the room."

"And you saw her next, Miss Stuart, when?" asked Fleming Stone gently

Pauline hesitated for a perceptible instant, then she said, with a slight air of bravado: "Next morning."

"I have been told the main facts," went on Stone, "but I want to learn certain details. Please tell me, Miss Stuart, exactly how she then appeared.

"Oh, I can't!" and Pauline flung her face into her hands with a short, sharp cry.

"I should think you couldn't!" exclaimed Anita, and her voice was distinctly accusing

This seemed to rouse Pauline, and she looked up haughtily at the speaker. "I don't wonder you think so!" she cried. "But, since you ask, Mr. Stone, I will do the best I can My aunt was seated at her dressing table, but not in her usual chair—or, indeed, as if she were in any way attending to her toilet—but in an easy chair, more as if she were sitting there in contemplation."

"Was she given to such indications of vanity?" asked Stone in a gentle way.

"Not at all. My aunt was not a beautiful woman, and she had no illusions about her personal appearance I have never known her to look at herself in a mirror more than was necessary for her dressing. Her maid will tell you this."

"Go on, please, Miss Stuart "

' When I saw my aunt she was sitting placidly, even smilingly - and I did not for a moment imagine she was not alive. Then I noticed her large tortoise shell comb was broken to bits, and I noticed, too, her rigid, staring face. The next few moments are a confused memory to me, but I know I touched her hand and felt it cold, then I called to Mr. Haviland and he came."

"Tell me of your aunt's garb. I understand it was most unusual "

"Only in the accessories The gown she had on was a negligee of oriental make and fabric, elaborate, but one of which she was fond and which she had worn several times. Round her shoulders was a scarf, one of those heavy Syrian ones, of net patterned with silver Then, she had on quantities of jewelry. Not only her pearls and a few pins which she had worn during the evening, but she had added many brooches and bracelets and rings of great value."

"She was wearing, let us say, $100,000 worth of jewelry?"

"Far more than that. Her pearls alone are worth that amount Her diamond sunburst is valued at $50,000 and her emerald brooch is equally valuable. My aunt believed in gems as an investment, and, though she usually kept them in a safe deposit vault, she had recently taken them from there, and had them all in the house "

"A strange proceeding?"

"Very I have never known such a thing to occur before unless for some especial social occasion "

"And the paper snake of which I have been told——"

"That is the strangest part of all' My aunt was not only afraid of live snakes, but she had also a perfect horror of any picture or artificial representation of them. She could never, in her right mind, have placed that paper snake about her own neck, nor would she have allowed any one else to do it without screaming out in horror. Yet, the doctors declare, it must have been placed 'round her neck before death Therefore, it is to me entirely unexplainable."

"Is not that a bizarre clue that should make the case an easy one?" asked Anita, with an inquiring glance at Stone.

"It may be so," he replied, with a thoughtful look at her. "Where could such a snake have come from?"

"It was brought by the burglar, of course," said Pauline, quickly.

"I don't mean that, but where could it be bought?"

"Oh, at Vantine's or any Japanese shop," said Pauline, "or at some of the department stores."

"Could you, by inquiry, find out if Miss Carrington purchased it herself at any of those places?"

"I could inquire, but I am sure, Mr Stone, that Aunt Lucy never bought such a thing."

"It would simplify matters somewhat if you would kindly find out," and Stone nodded at her, as if to stamp this suggestion a definite request.

The conversation went on, and no one noticed that so deftly did Fleming Stone guide it that only facts were brought out No sooner did any one begin to formulate an opinion or theory than he skilfully turned the subject or changed the drift of the discussion.

He gathered from facial expressions and manners much that he wanted to know, he learned the attitudes of the various members of the household toward each other, and he came to the conclusion that, as Gray Haviland had engaged him and as he stood as business head of the estate by authority of Carrington Loria, to Haviland should his reports be made.

"Tell me more of Mr Loria " Stone said, at last, after many matters had been discussed

"He and I are children of Miss Carrington's two sisters " said Pauline "Our parents all died when we were young children and Aunt Lucy brought us both up Carr, as we call him, lived with us, except for his college terms, until four years ago Then he had an opportunity to go to Egypt and engage in excavation and ancient research work. He is absorbed in it, and has been home only twice in the four years It was planned that my aunt and I should go to Egypt next month on a pleasure trip, and both he and we looked forward eagerly to it Miss Frayne was to accompany us, and Mr Haviland also "

"Is it your intention to abandon the trip?"

"Speaking for myself, Mr. Stone, no," and Pauline looked determined "I cannot answer for the others, but it seems to me that such a visit to my cousin would be not only right and proper for me, but the only way for me to find relief and distraction from these dreadful scenes."

"You won't go, I assume," said Stone, gently, "until the murderer of your aunt is apprehended with certainty?"

"I cannot say," and suddenly Pauline flushed rosily and looked distinctly embarrassed.

"Rather not'" declared Anita, with an unpleasant glance, and Fleming Stone made haste to introduce a new phase of the subject

XII

ESTELLE'S STORY

At the invitation of Haviland, Fleming Stone was a house guest at Garden Steps Pauline had raised objections to this, but with Carr Loria's authority back of him, Gray had insisted, and Pauline unwillingly consented

Stone himself recognized the fact that Pauline disliked him, or at any rate disliked having him on the case, but he ignored it and showed to her the same gracious manner and pleasant attitude that he showed to all. Anita, on the other hand, seemed charmed with Stone. She lost no opportunity to talk to him, and she used every endeavor to attract his attention to herself. In fact, she tried to flirt with him, and much to the surprise of the others. Stone seemed ready to meet her advances and respond to them

The morning after his arrival, breakfast over, Stone announced his intention of making a thorough examination of Miss Carrington's rooms and asked that he be permitted to go alone for the purpose.

If Mr Hardy comes, send him up, he ordered, as Haviland unlocked the door to give him admittance.

Stone passed through the boudoir to the bedroom and from that to the elaborate dressing room and bath. Quickly he noted the obvious details. Everything had been left practically untouched, and his rapid, trained gaze took in the bed, turned down but not slept in; the toilet accessories laid ready in the bathroom; and the fresh, unused towels, that proved the unfortunate victim had not prepared to retire, but had, for some reason, donned her jewels at that unusual hour.

Back to the boudoir Stone went and made there more careful scrutiny. Carefully he examined the white dust of powder on the floor. At Hardy's orders, this had not been swept away, and Stone stood, with folded arms, looking at it. He saw the place where the powder had been smeared about, —he had been told of this—but he saw other places where faint footprints were to his keen eye discernible Not sufficiently clear to judge much of their characteristics, but enough to show that a stockinged foot had imprinted them.

"Well, what do you make of the tracks?" asked Hardy, coming in upon his meditations

"Their tale is a short one, but clear," returned Stone, smiling a greeting to the younger detective "As you see, they go out of the room, only, they don't come in "

"Proving?"

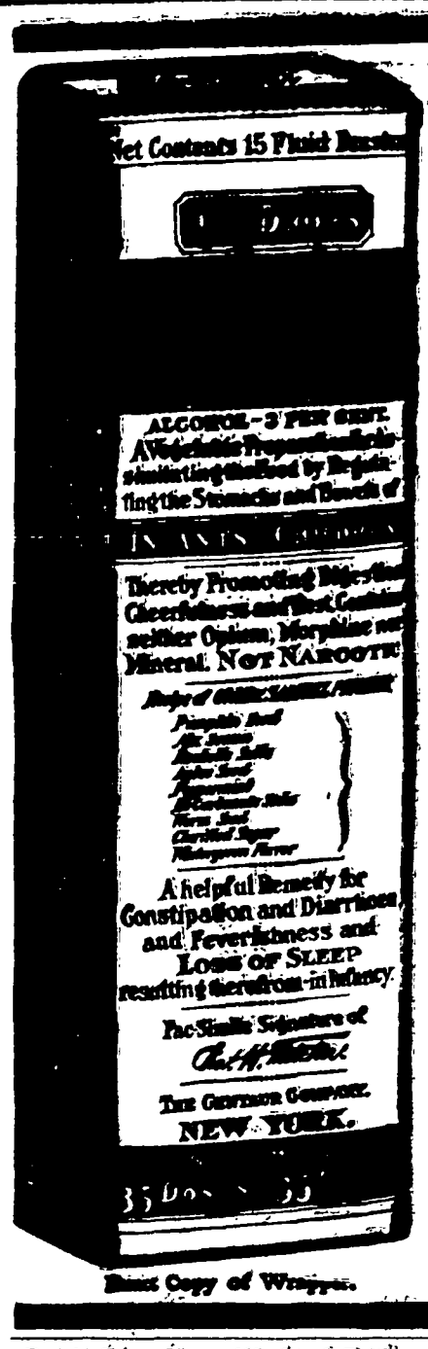
"That the intruder came in at the door, accomplished his dreadful purpose, and then stepped around here in front of his victim—here where the powder is spilt, and then went straight out of the room Why did he do this?"

' He heard something to frighten him off?"

"He saw something that frightened him I doubt if he heard anything. But he dropped his blackjack and fled Did you bring the photographs of the scene"

(Continued Next Week.)

King Nicholas (Montenegro) says he has been gravely disappointed in many respects in his faith in the allies. There are two parties in Montenegro, one favoring full annexation by Serbia and the other supporting King Nicholas. A Montenegrin assembly early last December declared King Nicholas deposed and it for in favor of a union with Serbia. The king replied by saying that the action of the national assembly was illegal later the Montenegrin cabinet resigned and the government supporting the king at present is only a temporary one.



CASTO
For Infants and Mothers Kn
Genuine Ca
Always Bears the Signature of Thirty
CASTO

Paper From Many Kinds of Bark.

Fifty kinds of bark are now used to manufacture paper, besides banana skins, bean stalks, pea vines, coconut fiber, clover and hay, straw, fresh water weeds, sea weeds and over 150 kinds of grasses.

Cuticura Soothes Baby Rashes.

That itch and burn with hot baths of Cuticura Soap followed by gentle anointings of Cuticura Ointment. Nothing better, purer, sweeter, especially if a little of the fragrant Cuticura Talcum is dusted on at the finish. 25c each everywhere.—Adv.

Only one child in every ten in China goes to school.

Fifty Fifty.

The speaker [illegible] self—also very patriotic the children [illegible] help the sold[illegible] he told of [illegible] the close of his [illegible] ward with a [illegible] money," he said [illegible] for every one [illegible] your boy and th[illegible]

One Exceptio

"There is nothing so [illegible] oughly good man [illegible] It's the way our [illegible]

Italy has wom[illegible] drivers.

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin"

"Bayer Cross" on Tablets.

True Aspirin! The "genuine."

SUCCESSOR TO QUININE

For Colds, Grippe, Influenzal Colds

No Discomfort! No Head-buzzing! No Dis

Millions of people take "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" best means to prevent as well as to overcome Colds and Influenzal Colds—being far more efficient than Besides relief comes without discomfort or distress.

"The Master of Colds"—Dependable

Adults—Take one or two "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" water. If necessary, repeat dose three times a day, afte

"Bayer Tablets of Aspi

Buy only the original "Bayer packages." Look for the safety "Bayer Cross" always. 20 cent package—also larger packages.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Sa

Acid-Stomach Ru
Health of Millio

Besides those painful attacks of indigestion; that awful bloated, lumpy feeling after eating and downright stomach misery that you who have experienced it know so well; besides disgusting belching, food-repeating, sour stomach and distressing heartburn —besides all this, ACID-STOMACH undermines the health and saps the strength of millions.

If you don't get rid of those stomach miseries there is no telling where your stomach troubles will end, for it is a well known scientific fact that many serious ailments have their start in an acid-stomach.

Start now—this very day—to get rid of your stomach miseries. Take EATONIC —the wonderful remedy that absorbs the excess acid from the stomach and brings INSTANT relief. You simply have no idea how much better, stronger and brighter you feel at once. It drives out all the gas and bloat, puts an immediate stop to belching and heartburn, ends stomach suffering and [illegible] cool, sweet, comfortable

There can be no further [illegible] you to allow acid-stomach [illegible] your health—pile up misery [illegible] ery until you get to the point [illegible] feel down and out and that [illegible] all the joys. Remember, [illegible] mouth ruins teeth, so [illegible] ruins health.

Take EATONIC. It's [illegible] a bit of candy and makes [illegible] feel fine. You can then eat [illegible] you like and, what is [illegible] mouthful you eat will contain [illegible] power and energy. You'll [illegible] better—have punch and pep [illegible] and will to do things and [illegible] and your stomach misery [illegible]

Take our advice. Get a [illegible] EATONIC from your druggist [illegible] It costs so little. If it [illegible] your stomach distress, he [illegible] your money. That is guaranteed [illegible] here to be satisfied or money

TAKE EATONIC

FOR YOUR ACID-STOMAC

TO BE

...Pinkham's ...ed by ...ion.

...E. Pinkham's ...pondence so freely ...ing the time I ...looking forward ...the coming of my ...le one that I am ...commending it to ...r expectant ...thers. Before ...ing it, some days ...uffered with neu... so badly that ...thought I could ...live, but after ...ing three bottles ...Lydia E. Pink...'s Vegetable ...mpound I was en...ly relieved of ...rstgia, I had ...ned in strength ...I was able to go ...ound and do all ...aby when seven ...pounds and I feel ...r a long time. I ...icine do me so ...EARL MONYHAN,

...y maternity is a ...r to both mother ...letters have been ...E. Pinkham ...Mass., telling of ...this trying period ...Pinkham's Vege...

Every Day

...ducts, with rig ir ...territories now open ...references. W. T ...WON, Freeport, Ill

ZONE

...for Poultry, preventive ...Colds, Canker, Swell... Bowel Troubles; Lim... per package, postpaid ...ld by most dealers in ... Book on diseases, free. ...s, Omaha, Neb. ...EE with package of GERM-

...nt 25 & 50, Talcum 25. ..., Dept. E, Boston."

...HE "DOCTOR"

...Request Should ...Annoying In... ...phone.

...have many party ...on one uses liers ...Often their con... ...ted by a young ...ng the line "to

..., the matron one ...l which followed ...had interrupted. ...the doctor the ...young carpenter. ...friend. Again and ...—the request for ...ysician and then ...th the young car...

...came provoked— ...had one day just ...place in her con... ...sister when came ...n. It brought this ...tron: "Yes, you ...to call him. And ...please tell him ...to stop on his way ...e and repair my ..." — Indianapolis

...that a failure is ...least tried.

...ways— ...will ...big ...t ...man ...s, ...he." ...Nuts ...d for ...and ...in ...ns the ...phos... ...of the ...n) ...Reason"

FARMING

Poultry To Be Important Factor in Work of Reconstruction

By P. G. HOLDEN.

ON the average farm little attention is paid to the raising of poultry and yet nothing else pays so well for the amount of money invested and the amount of care required.

On the 6,000,000 farms in the United States there is an average of only 44 head of poultry to each farm. In some states the average is more than 100. The average hen lays but five dozen eggs a year. She should lay eight dozen. It is not uncommon for a hen to lay 12, 14, and even 20 dozen.

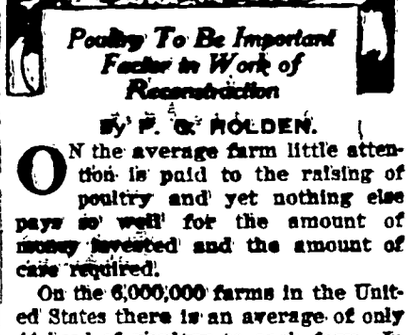
If there were an average of 100 hens on each farm in America and each hen laid eight dozen eggs a year, these eggs at 30 cents a dozen would be worth more than $1,500,000,000. This would be over $30 for every man, woman, and child living in the rural districts of the United States.

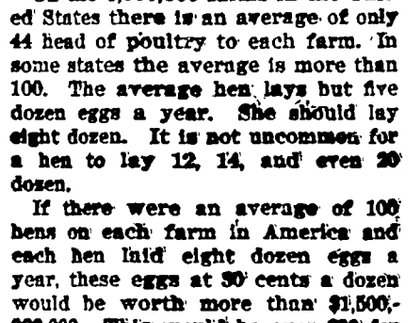
The value of the eggs alone, to say nothing of other poultry products, would be 60 per cent of the value of all the hogs in the United States on January 1 last, at $18 a hundred pounds; it would be 56 per cent of the value of the entire 1918 corn crop at $1 a bushel; it would be 83 per cent of the entire 1918 wheat crop at $2 a bushel; it would exceed the entire 1918 oat crop on the basis of 75 cents a bushel by $375,000,000; it would be five times the value of the products of all the 1917 war gardens and three times the value of the products of the 1918 war gardens, which set a record never before equaled in this country.

The laying hen is deserving of our best care and attention. Every time she lays an egg she deposits nearly three cents in the farmer's bank account, and yet we allow her to roost in trees, do not give any attention to her diet, compel her to seek her drinking water wherever she can find it and do not concern ourselves in the least regarding her comfort in stormy weather.

The hen must be one of the most important factors in reconstruction. There is very little poultry left in Europe. It will take at least five years to restock the allied countries and the American hen must produce the eggs to produce the chickens to restock those farms.

Those farmers who begin now to give the needed attention to their poultry will reap a reward they may never again have the opportunity of securing.





Provide Your Hens With a Home, Not Merely a House to Stay In—Types of Two Buildings That Are Cheap, Sanitary and Comfortable.

Winter Days.

The winter days are with us now, the winds are wild and chill, and my old idiotic cow comes bawling up the hill. To seek the wooden water trough she wandered through the gale, and had her antlers frozen off, likewise her priceless tail. The view outdoors is sad and bleak, the snows heaped by the fence; the arctic winds cavort and shriek, without a lick of sense. And yet I am not woe-begone, as I sit by my fire, and ply my pipe and demijohn, my corkscrew and my lyre. Though at my window tempests beat, one thing I'm thankful for: I do not have to save the sleet to help to win the war. Triumphantly our banners wave, the long ordeal is done; we are not asked to pinch and save, that we may can a Hun. Some griefs and worries, be it said, my spirits have attacked; my car is frozen in the shed, the radiator cracked; I have some fowls which should provide fresh henfruit by the keg, but they just let their duty slide—they do not spring an egg. My stock of coal is getting slim, and when for more I plead, the dealer says, with visage grim, "Your stand-off's gone to seed." But let the winds of winter blow! One thing I'm thankful for; I do not have to save the snow, that we may win the war.

Bones or Pins.

From the Hartford Courant.

There are various kinds of protection exercised by governments for the people. A new one has developed in the state of Maine. The law forbids any one who did not himself catch it to sell a pickerel. The fish are not allowed in market and even the man who caught them must have done that "legally." It is well known to people who, for fear of starving, have eaten pickerel, that their bodies are made up of 90 per cent sharp bones and 10 per cent flesh. When it comes to a choice between frying the family pincushion, and eating a pickerel, most people prefer the pickerel, but it is evident that the legislature of Maine do not mean to expose their constituents to the perils of the diet when it can be avoided. There is no law in Maine against selling pincushions.

The cost of the war of Germany to Germany was $654,000,000, to France $1,580,000,000.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed with Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.—Adv.

VENERATE GOOD MEN'S BOOTS

Chinese Place Peculiar Value on Footgear Worn by Officials of Acknowledged Integrity.

According to Dr. Charles Mackay, author of a curious old volume, "The Memoirs of Extraordinary Popular Delusions," the Chinese believed literally in following in the footsteps of the great and good.

In his interesting chapter dealing with relics and reliquism, he says that among the Chinese no mementos are more valued than the boots which have been worn by an upright magistrate. Whenever a judge of unusual integrity resigns his position the people all congregate to do him honor. If he leaves the city where he has presided, the crowd accompany him from his residence to the gates, where his boots are drawn off with great ceremony, to be preserved in the hall of justice. Their place is immediately supplied with a new pair, which in their turn, are drawn off to make room for others before he has worn them for five minutes, it being considered sufficient to consecrate them that he should have merely drawn them on.

STOP LUMBAGO PAIN, RUB BACKACHE AWAY

Instant relief! Limber up! Rub pain, soreness, stiffness right out with "St. Jacob's Liniment."

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or neuritis has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle of old, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right into the pain or ache, and by the time you count fifty, the soreness and lameness is gone.

Don't stay crippled! This soothing, penetrating liniment takes the ache and pain right out and ends the misery. It is magical, yet absolutely harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Nothing else stops lumbago, sciatica and lame back misery so promptly and surely. It never disappoints!—Adv.

Artistic Endeavor.

"We'll have to take that last scene over again," said the director.

"Good heavens!" exclaimed the emilent tragedian, who was trying his luck in the movies. "I can't go through a scene like that twice in the same day. I've never done it in all my stage career."

"Then there's no place for you on the screen. Why, our comedian, Fat Bill Walrus, tumbled head foremost into a tub of water seven times this morning, trying to do a fall that wouldn't damage his reputation."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP

Why use ordinary cough remedies when Boschee's Syrup has been used so successfully for fifty-one years in all parts of the United States for coughs, bronchitis, colds settled in the throat, especially lung troubles? It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning, gives nature a chance to soothe the inflamed parts, throw off the disease, helping the patient to regain his health. Made in America and sold for more than half a century.—Adv.

The Difference.

"Do you treat your cook like one of the family?"

"Dear me, no! She wouldn't stay with us a day if we didn't treat her like company."

If you use Red Cross Ball Blue in your laundry, you will not be troubled by those tiny rust spots, often caused by inferior bluing. Try it and see.

And sometimes it doesn't pay to believe everything you tell other people.

SAFE FARMING

Hogs Will Produce Meat Quickly for a Hungry World

Production in Year Must Show Increase of Millions of Pounds.

By P. G. HOLDEN.

PORK stands near the top on the list of food needs announced by Mr. Hoover. We need pork more pork, and then—more pork. We need it, Europe needs it, the world needs it.

Mr. Hoover estimates our need into the millions of pounds.

And, most important of all—this need must be supplied within a year!

Pork offers more advantages from a strictly food standpoint than any other meat. Fat must form a part of the average diet. This the hog furnishes in greater abundance than any other animal. Pork is produced more quickly than any other meat except poultry. Pork can be smoked or salted or rendered; does not require refrigerator cars; can be shipped anywhere.

Despite our increased output of pork, it is not large enough.

The problem of more pork must be solved by the farmer. If we are now raising hogs, we should increase the number. If we are not raising hogs, we should do so. We should raise hogs not because it is humane and patriotic, but because they mean a good profit to us. We will be sure of a market.

A Few Pigs Will Settle the Garbage Question in Any Town and Pay a Profit.

We can start with a few, which can be purchased at a very small expense. The sow will litter twice a year, thus increasing by many pounds the amount of lard or bacon. And the pigs are easily cared for. There is no need of losing animals by hog cholera. It can be prevented. By thought and planning, the right feed can be prepared and also the proper protection in the matter of housing and sanitation.

Hog raising means money in the pocket and help to the government and the stricken people who are looking to us for food.

Many of us who have never given a thought to raising animals for the market must think seriously about doing so. City folks will be restricted to other forms of production, although we may see an occasional pig in suburban back yards. Mr. Hoover does not advocate the pig in the parlor, but in many of the small towns and villages hogs may be raised in back lots and utilized to convert table waste into human food.

Every city should have a municipal piggery. It will solve the garbage question and pay a big profit.

Jap Men First.

The submissive attitude of the women of Japan and their relation to men as contrasted with the women of the west is described in the New York Sun by Miss Catherine DuFont, an American dancer who spent seven years in Japan.

I have never known any other women so sweet and gentle as the Japanese are. But to me they seem rather tragic because of their attitude to the men of Japan which we of the western world would consider subservient. When I first entertained them at my home there and had my maid serve the women, first they blushed and laughed and gave me to understand that no woman was ever served before the men of Japan. It was simply the custom of the country, but one that an American woman was quick to notice and resent.

At a wedding party to which I was invited and where there were but two other women, including the bride, they stood when the men left the dining room, and later in the public sitting room they also waited until all of the men were seated before sitting down themselves. Even the bride followed this example. To them this form means nothing very significant. They are accustomed to it, and neither they nor the men of the country look upon it as a reflection upon the women, but to me it seemed humiliating.

WRIGLEY'S

The Greatest Name in Goods-Land

Grow Wheat in Western Canada

One Crop Often Pays for the Land

Western Canada offers the greatest advantages to home seekers. Large profits are assured. You can buy on easy payment terms.

Fertile Land at $15 to $30 per Acre—land similar to that which through many years has averaged from 20 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre. Hundreds of cases are on record where in Western Canada a single crop has paid the cost of land and production. The Governments of the Dominion and Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta want the farmer to prosper, and extend every possible encouragement and help to Grain Growing and Stock Raising.

Though Western Canada offers land at such low figures, the high prices of grain, cattle, sheep and hogs will remain.

Loans for the purchase of stock may be had at low interest; there are good shipping facilities; best of markets; free schools; churches; splendid climate; low taxation (none on improvements).

For particulars as to location of lands for sale, maps, illustrated literature, reduced railway rates, etc., apply to Supt. of Immigration, Ottawa, Can., or

C. A. Cook, Drawer 197, Watertown, S. D.; W. V. Bennett, Room 4, Bee Bldg., Omaha, Neb., and R. A. Garrett, 311 Jackson Street, St. Paul, Minn.

Canadian Government Agents

ICE MACHINES

For making ice and refrigeration for all purposes. Manufactured by

BAKER ICE MACHINE CO.

1911 Nicholas St. Omaha, Nebr.

Poerless Poultry Food and chicken food are the — Best for Chickens —

Ask for prices and samples

Akron Milling Company, Sioux City, Iowa

SONG WRITERS Submit poems and songs for free advice and examination. We guarantee to help you sell them. Song Writers Co-operative Ass'n, 39 Chestnut St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

HEMMY SYRUPINE AND CRAWFORD TONIC for Pneumonia, to consumers. 35c per 12 oz. package, in box of 6 packages or more, postpaid. Sample free if you send 4 stamps for package. Carl H. Becker, R. 1, Green Bay, Wis.

HARPS, Violins, all Orch. Instrument Strings. Fine repairing. Stamp gets list. Voelkel, Lehighton, Penna.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 9-1919.

His Reason.

Ascum—There goes poor old Peck. I understand he took up dentistry after he was married. Strange thing to do, wasn't it?

Tellum—Not at all. He told me he wanted to be in a position to do all the talking himself at least part of the day.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

many women make the mistake trying to beat a gossip at her own

A rene four in t tori desc in a whe: flee wars Re that the Eng pro over est writ two mod lar and it w der solicit your order n

we must make it a

ing Car, $525; Ru

Truck Chasis, $55

Coal Once Prohibited.

From the Detroit News.

In the reign of Edward I the inhabitants of London petitioned the king against the growing use of coal, declaring that it was "a public nuisance, corrupting the air with its stink and smoke, to the great detriment of their health." Whereupon the king prohibited its use, offenders to be punished for a first offense by a fine, and for a second to have their kilns and furnaces destroyed. The practice of using coal was at length made a capital offense and a man was tried, condemned and hanged for burning coal in London.

SAFE, GENTLE REMEDY CLEANSES YOUR KIDNEYS

For centuries GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil has been a standard household remedy for kidney, liver, bladder and stomach trouble, and all diseases connected with the urinary organs. The kidneys and bladder are the most important organs of the body. They are the filters, the purifiers of the blood. If the poisons which enter the system through the blood and stomach are not entirely thrown out by the kidneys and bladder, you are doomed.

Weariness, sleeplessness, nervousness, despondency, backache, stomach trouble, headache, pain in loins and lower abdomen, gall stones, gravel, difficulty when urinating, cloudy and bloody urine, rheumatism, sciatica and lumbago, all warn you to look after your kidneys and bladder. All these indicate some weakness of the kidneys or other organs or that the enemy microbes which are always present in your system have attacked your weak spots. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are what you need.

They are not a "patent medicine," nor a "new discovery." For 200 years they have been a standard household remedy. They are the pure, original imported Haarlem Oil your great-grandmother used, and are perfectly harmless. The healing, soothing oil soaks into the cells and lining of the kidneys and through the bladder, driving out the poisonous germs. New life, fresh strength and health will come as you continue the treatment. When completely restored to your usual vigor, continue taking a capsule or two each day; they will keep you in condition and prevent a return of the disease.

Do not delay a minute. Delays are especially dangerous in kidney and bladder trouble. All druggists sell GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They will refund the money if not as represented. GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories in Holland. They are prepared in correct quantity and convenient form, are easy to take and are positively guaranteed to give prompt relief. In three sizes, sealed packages. Ask for the original imported GOLD MEDAL. Accept no substitutes.—Adv

The Boy's are glad to get back into the old life--and new clothes.

They welcome Mother's dishes and Sister's duets. Fathers old fashioned ideas are great--better than any new model on wheels.

The old town looks better than ever----NOW to change from Chevron to Civilian to rub elbows with silk shrits and feel the fit of a personally selected outfit.

The boy's who come from "Camp Dodge" to "Patton Bros." find that everything has been arranged before hand to give them the best of everything----including the bargain.

Nothing snappier than those Alder---Rochester and Society Brand Suits for our returning Soldiers and Saliors---unless it's these new Victory stripes that just blew in our Madras and silk shirt department.

SILK SHIRTS 1.25 to 12.00
SPRING SUITS 30.00 to 57.50
Everything "is happy" with our neckwear.

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa
Where a dollar does it's duty"

We are now selling

Sweet Home Bread

Try a loaf today; it's sure good!

We also have a fine assortment of Rolls, Bismarks, Buns, Cookies, Dough-nuts, Cakes, etc.

"If It's To Eat---We Have It"

CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, Props.

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in
Groceries Dry Goods
Shoes Ladies Wear
Hardware Paint
Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed.....1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger.....3:03 p. m.
435, Passenger.....8:44 a. m.

South

436, Passenger.....6:17 p. m.
1068, Passenger.....11:25 a. m.
820, Freight.....12 15 p m.

Having received several requests to resume my calls to Klemme, I have decided to accommodate those who desire Osteopathic Treatments and will be at the Klemme Hotel Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Dr. R. W Schultz, Osteopathic Physician.

Mrs. M. O. Hocum is enjoying a visit from her mother.

Mrs. Thompkins visited friends at Miller last Friday.

Nice little sample of winter we had the past week.

Elmer Schmidt spent Sunday with his folks at Garner.

G. A. Pabst was a passenger to Belmond Tuesday noon.

Miss Warnock went to Iowa Falls last Friday evening for an over Sunday visit with her relatives.

Mrs. Lew Lewis, who has been on the sick list the past week is now getting along nicely.

A number of young people from Goodell attended the dance here last Friday night.

APPRENTICE Wanted to learn Millinery. Apply at Mrs. John Josten Millinery Store.

Mrs. Schmidt and daughter, Alma, of Garner visited at the Chas. Schmidt home from Wednesday until Monday of this week.

FOR SALE—Three good building lots. These are high and well located. Will sell at a Bargain if taken before March 1st. Chas. Ax. 2w.

Mr. George Carlson, a brother of O. E. Carlson, was here a couple of days the past week for a visit. He is in the elevator business.

FOR SALE—White Wyandotte cockerels and one "Old Trusty" 240 egg incubator nearly new.
Ralph Ludeke.

Hugo Neff came Monday for a few days' visit with Klemme relatives and friends. Hugo was discharged at Camp Dodge last Saturday. He was in France about six months in a hospital unit.

C. F. Busch returned last Friday evening from a business trip to Valentine and Cody, Nebraska, where he went to look after his ranching interests.

Ben Coobs arrived in Klemme Saturday from Camp Dodge where he received his discharge from the army Ben has been overseas for some time and was gassed in his encounter with the Hun. He has lots to relate of his experience in France.

Walter Lau had a rather painful accident one day last week when he was starting a fire in the kitchen range. The stove pipe came down and he grabbed it with his bare hands and the hot pipes burned his fingers and hands quite severely.

E. G. Ell attended the Auto Show at Des Moines last week. On Friday evening the Ford Motor Company gave all their dealers a big Banquet. A number of the "big men" of the Ford Company were present to give instructions and help to the dealers throughout the state.

C. W. Wiles and F. H. Ridder returned from Minneapolis Saturday. They were there attending the Auto Show. They report that it was bigger and better than ever. There were also several other conventions being held at the Twin Cities at the same time as the auto show.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE INCORPORATED TOWN OF KLEMME

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Office of Mayor. I appeal to those citizens who are interested in a clean administration, good morality and decent citizenship.

Yours truly,
2-12-19 Chas. W. Stiehl

E. G. Ell has an ad in this issue. Look it over

Howard Doyle was at Garner last Saturday afternoon between trains.

Chas. Busch was a passenger to Garner Saturday afternoon.

A. L. Strieby was a Garner visitor between trains Tuesday morning.

C. M. Gram was a passenger to Garner Saturday afternoon.

The Town of Kanawha are having a new town well drilled. J. Becker of Garner is doing the work for them.

Mrs. C. M. Gram visited several days the past week with her parents at Goodell.

FOR SALE—8 H. P. Armstrong gasoline engine, almost new, on trucks A Bargain. Chas. Ax. 2w

Louis Strieby was on the sick list a couple of days the past week with a severe cold.

See the Fine Display of New Spring Millinery—the Latest in Early Trimmed and Ready-to-wear Hats, at MRS. JOHN JOSTEN'S.

R. A. Jorgenson, G. P. McCullough, and Floyd Ollenberg all spent Sunday at their respective homes at Garner.

P. M. Greisemer and M. O. Hocum went to Mason City last Thursday evening where they took the Knight Templar degree of Masonry.

A big nine poond baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fuller Tuesday evening.

Ernest Lewis left Saturday evening for Virginia Beach, Virginia, after a furlough of about a week visiting with his parents here. "Stub" is doing duty at the naval camp now as a cook.

G. W. Kluckhohn returned Saturday evening from Austin, Minnesota, where he has been for some time visiting his son Fred and family, and Wm. Keraus and family.

H. B. Allaben, of Goodell, was a Klemme visitor Monday between trains. Mr. Allaben has recently returned from overseas. He will again resume his duties as a photographer.

F. H. Schlichting has joined Klemme as a permanent resident. Fred and family moved into Klemme last Saturday into the house formerly occupied by the Wm. Trafford family, which Fred purchased of Mr. Trafford some time ago.

Quite a number from Klemme attended the basket social at the Twin Lakes Center School last Friday evening. They report a very good time, a good program and also that the baskets sold well. About sixty dollars was realized from the sale.

W. B. Yahnke moved his household goods and machinery to Buffalo Center Monday in a car. He drove four horses up to Forest City that day and then drove the rest of the way Tuesday. He will locate on a farm near Buffalo Center. This family will be greatly missed by their large circle of friends but who wish them success in their new location.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7:30 p. m.

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

do sooner did any one begin rily formulate an opinion or the m." than he skilfully turned the s
Miss ject or changed the drift of t ing discussion.
He gathered from facial exp ep- sions and manners much that with wanted to know, he learned ext attitudes of the various memb of the household toward e hain other, and he came to the conc t I sion that, as Gray Haviland ails. engaged him and as he stood ex- business head of the estate by thority of Carrington Loria, line Haviland should his reports with made.
"Tell me more of Mr. Lor

Beautiful Names.

"We must have a beautiful name for the baby," said the fond mother. "Something that sounds like poetry and is not at all commonplace." "Well," replied the fond father, "I'm doing my best to help you make a selection. Here's a list of the names of all the apartment houses in town."—Washington Star

"Let Go," Once in a While.

Half the joy of life is in "letting go" every once in awhile, and, if you let go twice every once in awhile, it seems that you have just that much more fun.

Commercial Spies.

Spying is as prevalent in the commercial world as in the political world, though the existence of these commercial spies is not nearly so well known. There are certain classes of manufacturers, however, who habitually employ a regiment of spies—competent men, whose business it is to go to other lands and spy out the new enterprises and inventions being made by the various traders. Individual methods vary very greatly, and are often so subtle as to make it difficult to tackle them.

We have it! What

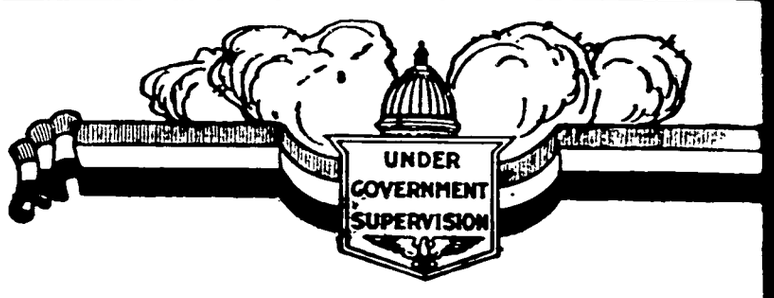
Everything

Which is found in only the best a most up-to-date Meat Markets.

You will always find a comple line of Choice Meats, Hams, Bac Fancy Meats and Canned Goo

Try Our Oleomargarine--It's Fine

J. P. Larsen & Son



To Liberty Bond holders!

It has been reported that many holders of small deno nation Liberty Bonds in need of ready money are se these securities at anywhere up to 25 per cent disco

Perhaps these patrotic investors do not know that t bonds are bought and sold daily on the N. Y. Stock change and that they can always be sold at close t face value.

Do not part with your bonds unless you positively n If money needs be raised use them as collateral on a l If you are obliged to sell them see that you get full m ket value for them--sharpers are at work.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Io

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

All Kinds of Hardware

HARDWARE AND GROCERIES

Stoves and Furnaces

Paints, Oils, Feed, Flour, Cream Separators, Buggi Wagons, Gasoline Engines.

All Kinds of Farm Machinery

GREUTZMACHER BROS

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Telephone No. 14

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days n the week at Highest Market Price.

Successor to W. R. Bloom

DR. L. R. PARSO

DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings
Phone No. 48.
Klemme - Iowa

KLEMME TIMES

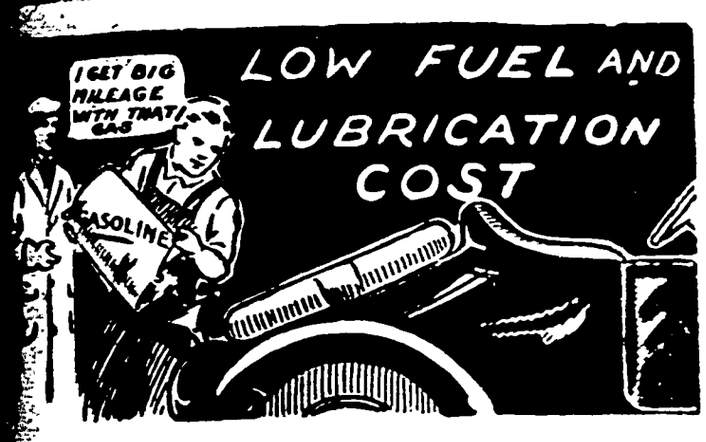
VOLUME XXIII NUMBER 27 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, March 6 1919 — $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

stocks include Pine Tree Brand Seeds, bag tagged in compliance with our Seed Law, showing purity and germ on test, all high grade seed, of which t your most exacting examination.

Stocks include Northern Grown

Walter F. Lau

Clover now on hand. Buy your seed now.



big milage and low cost get your gasoline here know because we use it ourselves.

lubrication of your car is one of the important parts of your running it, No car can do its full duty without correct lubrication.

also our experience is of value to you. We have the high grade oils and greases at low cost to you

When You Are In Need

Of a Good Hair-cut or Shave

Visit

McCullough's Barber Shop

Where Sanitation and Courteous Treatment Go Hand in Hand.

Try for the Best Laundry in the State, basket leaves Wednesday and comes back every Saturday.

G. P McCullough, Prop.

THE KLEMME ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION ORGANIZES

[illegible] number of gentlemen of [illegible] for the purpose [illegible] in the [illegible] for the [illegible] of the [illegible] to Klemme [illegible] at this [illegible] The Association [illegible] people of [illegible] for A Basket [illegible] at Klemme [illegible] that we can get [illegible] something [illegible] Association are making [illegible] gymnasium for [illegible] which we will [illegible] Athletics are very [illegible] with a good school, it [illegible] interested in their [illegible] standard must [illegible] all take part [illegible] Girls, as [illegible] part in athletics [illegible] of Klemme needs a [illegible] also a boys and girls [illegible] They have no place [illegible] present situation But [illegible] with the building of a new school [illegible] to be built the Association [illegible] equip the same and [illegible] a good inducement for [illegible] men and citizens of [illegible] support the [illegible] Klemme on [illegible] at the [illegible] President, [illegible] Secretary and [illegible] next meeting will be held [illegible] Mar 4th [illegible] what is doing [illegible] interested so [illegible]

[illegible] SCHOOL NOTES

[illegible] are [illegible] report good average [illegible]

Dora Stromer has been absent the past week, the reason is unknown

It is reported that Hugh Strain is about to leave us because of farm work The High School pupils lose a good friend and the school a fine scholar

Walter Kaiser Norma Stromer and Lola Newberger were absent Monday

Prof Tompkins became interested with experimenting with mercury Monday afternoon he was [illegible] without his coat We understood to have seen him do this Friday

Without much hesitation we announce Howard Terhufen has [illegible] if not the high [illegible] in High School [illegible] Wednesday in Florida [illegible] at home [illegible] High School [illegible]

[illegible] Charles Gibbs was absent Friday

7th and 8th Grades

The 8th Grade county examinations are over They were reported to be quite easy

Elmer Beer, Howard Wiles, Mabel Schwartz and Marie Blank were absent Monday March 3rd

Donald Stiles fell down in the mud Monday and had to be excused

4th, 5th and 6th Grades

Those neither absent nor tardy during the last six weeks' period are — Andrew Wellemeyer, John Baumgartner, Gerald Koerner, Albert Priebe, Florence Behringer, Mabel Schaefer, Henry Brandt, Harl Gimer, Fred Jahnke, Kermit Koerner and Martha Brandt

Ralph Carolus was absent from school last week.

Donald Gibbs is absent on account of illness.

Florence Behringer was absent last Friday

Ella Lauden was absent last Thursday and Friday.

Primary Room Notes

Those neither absent nor tardy the past six weeks' period are:

Valeria Koerner, Reva Elder, Ethel Johnson, Paul Milligans.

Perfect attendance record for the past week:—Irene Johnson, Paul Milligan, Irwin Schwartz, Elmer Schwartz Ethel Johnson, Lois Church, Elmer Johnke, Arthur Ubben, Charlotte Thiel, Valeria Koerner, Reva Elder and Athniel Thiel

LEO WILKINS DEAD

Leo Wilkins died Monday, March 3, after a brief illness of pneumonia. He leaves to mourn his death his wife and little child Mr Wilkins is a young man about twenty five years old and the news of his death comes as a shock to the people of Klemme and vicinity At this writing we are unable to give further details but the obituary will be published in the next issue of the Times.

CAUCUS

Citizens' Caucus at Town Hall Friday evening, March 7, at 8:00 o'clock for the purpose of nominating Mayor, Five Councilmen, Treasurer and Assessor to be placed on ticket Town Election, March 31st, 1919. Everybody come F J. Wenck, Mayor.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE

The latest Swedish comedy, "The Swede, The Tramp and The Girl" easily takes rank with the former successes, "Ole Olson" and "Yon Yonson" The popularity of the Scandinavian character seems to increase with each production The unapproachable character comedian and dialectician, Mr. CARL M DALTON, has been specially engaged for the title role this season and press and public declare him without a peer.

Many pleasing specialties are introduced and a rare evening of enjoyment is anticipated At Klemme, on Saturday March 8th.

SCHOOL ELECTION

School election will be held on Monday, March 10th, Town Hall. Polls will be open at the usual hours. Don't forget the date

ENGLISH METHODIST CHURCH

Services Sunday as follows: Morning Worship at 10 o'clock, followed by the Sunday School. Song Service and sermon at 7:30 p. m. There will be special music All are cordially invited

A W Barnlund.

STATEMENT OF LEW LEWIS, SECRETARY OF INDEPENDENT SCHOOL DISTRICT OF KLEMME, IOWA

Financial statement of the Independent School District of Klemme for year ending February 19, 1919.

Balance on hand Feb 19, '18	$3229.72
Recd. from County Treas.	3915.99
Recd. from State	280 00
Recd. from Interest	59.11
Recd. from Tuition	395.00
Recd. from Books Sold	270.74
Total Money Received	$8150.56

Disbursements

Paid Teachers	$3331 60
Paid for heating plant, fuel, repairs, janitor and general supplies	3761.39
Paid for Books Bought	418.20
Paid for Library Books	150.00
Paid Secretary's Salary	30 00
Paid for Tuition	50.00
Total Expenditures	$7741.19
Balance on Hand	$ 409.37

Dated this 19th day of February, 1919.

Lew Lewis, Secretary.

For nomination blanks for Director and Treasurer, call on the Secretary.

All income tax returns must be in the hands of the Collector of Internal Revenue, at Dubuque, on or before March 15, together with at least one-fourth of the tax appearing to be due.

Returns for all classes of individual income taxpayers have been distributed--1040A forms for individuals having net income under $5,000, and 1040 for individuals having an income over $5,000

There is no excess profits tax on individuals or partnerships this year, and partnerships will make return as partnership merely for the purposes of information, and the individual members of partnerships will report their share of partnership income on individual forms.

As to those counties where it has been impossible to send an income tax man to assist taxpayers, the Collector suggests that the services of bankers and county agricultural agents be solicited in executing returns. Farmers may have a form especially designed for them by asking for 1040F.

Every individual partnership, or corporation, who last year paid $1,000 or more in salaries, wages, fees, commissions, etc., to another individual, firm, or corporation, must make a return of the amount so paid on Form 1099, and swear to the information on Form 1096. Requests for these forms should be addressed to the Collector at Dubuque. One Form 1096 will cover all Forms 1099 issued by the same person making payment.

Supplies of forms of all kinds, so far available, have been sent to all county agricultural agents, income tax deputies, and banks, and may be obtained from them. The Collector announces that no corporation forms have been received as yet.

The R N. A. will meet with Mrs. Lewis Friday evening, March 14th, to install officers. Neighbors come, supper postponed.

Jim Young, of Garner, was a business caller here Tuesday.

Signers of the Declaration.

The American Declaration of Independence was signed by every member of the continental congress that made it. There were three signers from New Hampshire, five from Massachusetts, two from Rhode Island, four from Connecticut, four from New York, five from New Jersey, three from Delaware, nine from Pennsylvania, four from Maryland, seven from Virginia, three from North Carolina, four from South Carolina and three from Georgia.

Sheep Best Farm Fertilizers.

Sheep produce the most valuable of all farm fertilizers. Their sharp hoofs work this well into the soil This quality has earned for sheep the title of "Golden Hoof." In England land which during Queen Elizabeth's reign produced only six bushels of wheat per acre has been made to yield 30 bushels at present, simply by pasturing the land to sheep.

Good Reasons for Talking.

John talked continually, so one day his mother losing patience said: "I do wish you would keep still. What do wish you talk so much all the time?" He answered quickly: "I's got to talk so I won't forget what I think."

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

There are more than 3,000,000 Ford cars in daily operation in the United States. This is a little better than one-half of of all the motor cars used in America. The Ford is every man's necessity. No matter what his business may be it solves the problem of cheapest transportation. We solicit your order now, because production is limited, and we must make it a rule to supply first orders first. Touring Car, $525; Runabout, $500; Coupe, $650; Sedan, $775 Truck Chasis, $550. These prices f. o. b. Detroit.

E. G. ELL

Authorized Dealer

Want to Be on Record.

I have observed for some time that there is a disease called auto-intoxication. The possibility for pleasantry punning on this word is so great that there's probably not a man in the world that a side-splitting joke has not been made of it. We propose to take the chance of passing it by once, and want to be on record as saying it exists.

Made Quite a Difference.

The meaning of a paragraph depends very much on the punctuation. An editor wrote "When Mrs. Jones lectured on Dress she wore nothing that was remarkable." How the compositor, or the "proof reader," came to the conclusion that this should read, "When Mrs. Jones lectured on Dress she wore nothing That was remarkable," remains a mystery.

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

Lady Londonderry, of the Woman's Legion of Great Britain, is putting forward a scheme for a household service section of the legion There will be conditions and terms of service drawn up by the legion for its members. Hours of duty will be arranged between employer and employe, but the standard of leave is to be Daily—Two hours daily within working hours on or off the premises, irrespective of time for meals. Weekly —A half day every week four hours on Sundays. (In country districts weekly leave may be accumulated and taken consecutively if convenient to both parties.) Yearly—One week after the first six months' service, with full wages, but without board wages, or 14 days in every year, with full wages and board wages, or a proportion of such leave for any broken period after the first six months' service. Recognition of the principle that in exceptional cases, where these minimum hours of recreation cannot be given, there should be a compensatory increase of wages

Joseph Cummins Chase, the portrait painter, has just returned from France with canvasses of 60 allied and American generals and 50 doughboys from the front ranks who have won the distinguished service cross or have been recommended for it, painted life size, for the United States government Mr Chase did his work in dugouts, close to the front. "I had found it lurking in the eyes of the generals But in the faces and eyes of those wonderfully clean Americans, enlisted men commended for extraordinary heroism in action,' I found the soul of the fighter," said Mr Chase, adding that he could think of no better comment on the doughboy than that made by Ludendorff and handed out to his generals for their information "and guidance" It read in part "The American is less of a soldier and more of a hunter" "Ludendorff was right," said Mr Chase, "there is the hunter type in every doughboy After his particular little bit of hell the expression remains about the corner of the eyes"

Aliens found advocating destruction of property or overthrow of the government by force will be deported under the provisions of the immigration act of February 5, 1917 This announcement was made by Secretary of Labor Wilson in a letter sharply rebuking Micrometer Lodge No 460, International Association of Machinists of Brooklyn, for protesting against the deportation of 58 "alien radicals." The secretary denied that the aliens were being deported without due process of law and asserted that they had been given fair trials.

According to a Copenhagen wireless, a man from Kronstadt states he saw a Russian war flotilla, nearly all the ships of which were commanded by German officers in Russian uniform. Some of them were former acquaintances He expressed his indignation to one old friend at seeing him working for bolshevists. The German officer answered "It is quite natural. There will be a revolution in England in June or July You see here the beginning of the German Baltic fleet."

When the bells of the Castle of Weimar tolled the election of the president but 800 people collected outside of it, and the lack of popular enthusiasm, which is explained as resulting from the fact that the population of the place is divided between loyalty to the old regime and to the Spartacides, made a speech by the new president impossible. One storekeeper told the correspondent he was afraid any enthusiasm for a socialist president might cost him customers.

Russian bolshevists have a well equipped and disciplined army of 1,000,000 men and will have doubled its size and effectiveness in another six or seven months, says the Rev Cyprus Richard Mitchell, American Young Men's Christian Association secretary, who has returned after 15 months of service in bolshevist Russia. If the bolshevists can feed Russia for the next six weeks, they will continue in power indefinitely, is the conclusion reached by Dr Mitchell.

Three thousand negro warriors jazzed their way up Fifth avenue, with a chicken dinner at the end of the trail to lure them on, last Monday, when New York's old 15th now the 369th infantry, came home. Of the troops in line 171 wore the croix de guerre Chicago greeted her colored regiment the 307th, on the same day and in the same uproarious manner Chicago's troopers displayed 67 croix de guerre 25 distinguished service medals, and 750 citations

Posing as Henry Johnson, negro hero who is said to have killed 36 Germans single handed with a bolo knife, Albert Parker, of Mobile, Ala., was arrested in Chicago when he appeared at the coliseum to tell 12,000 negroes his experiences while under fire. The arrest was made after detectives read an Associated Press dispatch from New York saying Johnson had just arrived from overseas

Eighteen of the 56 members of the crew of the United States gunboat Scorpion, interned at Constantinople from April 11, 1917 until last November, married Turkish women and have been left behind there. One of the crew's benedicts was Joseph Darley, commander's yeoman aged 66, who requested permission to remain in Turkey because he wanted to marry "a beautiful Turkish girl about 20 years old."

A prominent librarian told the Missouri Valley Library Association last week that he would introduce the study of the bible in every school, entirely apart from any religious consideration, and that he advised school teachers not to waste time trying to stamp out slang, which is the expression of the vitality of the language, but to try instead to prevent its running wild.

Continuation of the economic blockade of the central powers through the control of exports to border neutrals is desired as a guarantee of acceptance by Germany of the terms of peace, the war trade board has informed the House interstate commerce committee.

A report from Innsbruck says former Emperor Charles of Austria is prisoner in the castle outside of Vienna, guarded by socialists, and that he desires to emigrate to America with his family. Most of his fortune is said to have been placed in the United States.

Speaking of exports, the New York Evening Sun says the exportation of malignant aliens is one of the most profitable enterprises in which the United States can engage at the present time.

The Russian bolshevist government is an "autocracy of the worst order," Roger W Simmons, former American commercial attache in Russia, told the Senate committee probing bolshevism.

A committee has been appointed by the colonial secretary to deal with the problems of emigration which are likely to arise during the period of reconstruction reports London.

APOPLEXY FATAL TO A SIBLEY MAN

Charles M. Brooks, 73, Was Stricken While at Dinner and Died In Few Minutes.

Sibley, Ia., March 3 Charles M. Brooks, attorney, died suddenly at a local hotel, death being due to apoplexy. Mr. Brooks had been in his accustomed good health and had just finished his dinner when he suddenly fell back into his chair. He was removed to the lobby of the hotel and Dr Winkler was summoned, and upon examination found he was breathing his last He lived but a few minutes after the attack.

Attorney Brooks was 73 years old. Before locating in Sibley he was married to Ella Robinson, who survives him. For over 40 years he has practiced law in Sibley For several terms he served as county attorney, and was mayor of Sibley for two terms.

CLARK ACCOUNTS FOR THE PARDON MONEY

Ida Grove, Ia., March 3.—Checks showing where all but $900 of the $5,000 given George Clark, attorney for Ernest Rathbun, by W. C. Rathbun, the boy's father, were submitted to the grand jury of Ida county by Mr. Clark at the request of Attorney General H M. Havner Mr. Rathbun on Monday gave an affidavit in which he said Clark said part of the $5,000 was to go to Governor W. L. Harding.

All of the money was used for expenses of Clark's home and his business, the checks showed. Officers of the bank where Clark placed the money were called before the grand jury to testify They introduced their books showing when the money was deposited by Clark and also how it was drawn.

Mr. Clark, himself, turned over the cancelled checks to show how he had used the money. None of it was given to Governor Harding, the records tended to show.

Mr Clark told the members of the Ida county grand jury that the $900, not acounted for by the checks, had been used to cancel a promissory note. He produced the papers showing that the note had been cancelled by a cash payment

WANTS DIVORCE JUST BECAUSE HUSBAND SHOT HER

Sac City, March 3.—Through her attorney Mrs Anna M Chandler asks for a dissolution of her marriage relations with Abner L. Chandler This is a sequel of the shooting affair on January 31 last which created such a sensation at Odebolt The petitioner alleges that she conducted herself as a "loving and obedient wife," but that her husband has been guilty of inhuman treatment by shooting her with a revolver, the bullet lodging in the shoulder creating a painful wound and causing a serious nervous shock She asks for $600 temporary alimony and for permanent alimony of $10,000 and attorney fees Attachment against certain personal property of the defendant was sought and was granted by the district judge.

DOG INSTINCT SEEMED TO GUIDE THIS ONE

Marshalltown, Ia., March 3.—How Hoover, a fine shepherd dog, knew his master had returned to this city from a long absence in a southern military camp is a problem for naturalists and those interested in dog life However, the fact remains that Hoover did know, and reached this city Thursday after a tramp of nearly 200 miles, coming from Postville, in Allamakee county, in the extreme northeastern part of the state

McGuire entered the army last June and sent his dog to the home of his wife's parents, near Postville Arriving home a few days ago, McGuire expected soon to send for the dog Imagine his surprise when the animal showed up Thursday, tired and footsore and covered with mud from head to foot, but happy over the thought that he was back home.

What explanation may be accepted as the cause of the animal's sagacity is only one of surmise, but the most logical is that the dog heard the McGuire name mentioned in his Postville home and assumed that the McGuires were back in the old home here. It is not yet known when the dog left Postville

BIG DONATION TO DUBUQUE COLLEGE

Dubuque, Ia. March 3.—At a banquet given in celebration of Dr C M Steffen's 17th anniversary as president of Dubuque college and seminary announcement was made that the school had received the sum of $89 100 from a "friend in Texas." The identity of the donor was not disclosed at the banquet and officials also refuse to say where the money came from.

Dr Steffen and his wife, together with Prof. Mark C. James, treasurer of the institution, were the honored guests at the affair, which was given by members of the faculty and the student body Professor James leaves for other fields on April 1.

ROCKWELL—After playing in more than 150 public appearances in England, including a concert at Buckingham palace at the time of President Wilson's visit to London, James F. Prindle, of Rockwell, has returned home Since August, 1918, he has been with the United States naval headquarters band. The band arrived recently in New York and Prindle is home on a furlough.

ALLEGED DESERTER IS TAKEN IN TOW

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 13.—Chester Hunt, a deserter from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., who left there January 22 without leave, was arrested by the Council Bluffs police when he was going to the hospital to get his wife, who has been in the hospital for a number of weeks to take her to his home in Omaha He was going under the name of Fred Smith in Omaha.

IDA COUNTY GRAND JURY IN REPORT

Two Secret Indictments May Have Bearing on Rathbun Pardon Case—Governor Makes No Comment.

Ida Grove, Ia., Mar. 1.—The Ida county grand jury, which investigated the Rathbun pardon case, finished its work yesterday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock, after having been in session more than a week. Only two indictments were made public, neither had a direct bearing on the Rathbun pardon case.

However, it was learned that two secret indictments were returned Neither Attorney General Havner nor County Attorney Macomber would discuss the nature of the indictments

Many citizens of Ida Grove were disappointed over the apparent failure of the grand jury to vote indictments in connection with the Rathbun episode.

Indictments Made Public.

One of the indictments made public was against Ellis Piper, who it is alleged, attempted to assault Ferne Sammons, of Battle Creek, also involving young Rathbun and Roy O'Meara. This occurred a week previous to the assault upon Elsie Hargens. The second indictment made public was against an alleged bootlegger.

Attorney General Havner has returned to Des Moines and the famous case now has apparently ended temporarily Governor Refuses to Talk.

Gov. W. L. Harding, who is at Carroll, upon hearing of the insinuations of William Rathbun, father of Ernest Rathbun, that the governor had been paid to pardon young Rathbun, announced that he had no statement to make. Attorney General Havner secured an affidavit from the senior Rathbun, in which he said he had paid George Clarke, attorney for Rathbun, $5,000, a part of which, Clarke told him, was to go to the governor

MARRIED WOMAN HELD FOR MISUSE OF THE MAILS

Creston, Ia., Mar. 1.—A sensational trial, it is indicated, will be heard in the federal court here soon, as shown by the testimony brought out at the preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner J. C. Hunt, of Charles T. Gibson and his wife, Emma C Gibson, of Thayer, Ia., both of whom were bound over by the commissioner, the former on a bond of $5,000 and the latter on a bond of $1,000. Their cases will be presented to the next federal grand jury.

Mr and Mrs. Gibson were arrested and brought into court upon the complaint of a postoffice inspector, and the pair is charged with misuse of the mails. Gibson also was held on the additional charge of obtaining mail under a fictitious name, renting a postoffice box in the name of the "Brown Book Company," with "Cora Brown" receiving the mail. It is charged that "Cora Brown" was Mrs. Gibson.

The charge under which the pair is held under the heaviest bond is that of carrying on a business of selling books or pamphlets pertaining to birth control, the nature of which, it is charged, was illegal, in that it was represented to prevent conception. It also is charged that they advertised to sell accessories and drug formulas.

WOOD SHINGLES ARE TO BE FORBIDDEN

Mason City, Ia., Mar. 1.—No kind of a shingle or roof covering unless it is made of fireproof material will be permitted on buildings constructed after January 1, 1921, according to a building code which has just been adopted by the city council here. The year's time for the adoption of the measure is given to permit dealers here to dispose of wooden shingles and other kinds of combustible roofing material. B. L. Stratton, a practical contractor here, has been named building commissioner.

ATTORNEY THOUGHT OLD REVOLVER NOT LOADED

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 28.—Park Tourtellot, a leading lawyer of eastern Iowa, is in a hospital here as the result of a bullet wound said to have been inflicted accidentally while examining a revolver that had been in his desk 17 years.

The bullet struck below his right eye and ranged over the forehead, coming out at the back of the left eye. No one saw the accident but Tourtellot maintains it was caused by examining the revolver. He thought it unloaded. He was conscious last night but physicians say that death is certain.

BIG MONEY IS MADE FEEDING SHEEP IN IOWA

George, Ia., Mar. 1.—Schulte Bros., two well known young farmers of the neighborhood northwest of George, have proof there is money in sheep. The boys bought 225 head along about the first of November and fed them out. They shipped the sheep to market last week and after paying themselves interest on their investment, paying for the feed the animals consumed, and for the freight and all other items of expense directly chargeable to the sheep, they netted $700. The 225 head of sheep represented an investment of around $1,600, and though the boys lost a few head, they did so well they are friendly for sheep.

HANDS NEAR GEORGE FARM LANDS CHANGE

George, Ia., Mar. 1.—Last fall Al Jansen, formerly of George, bought a farm northwest of Rock Rapids, the Rohde place, we believe, at $240 an acre for the 300 acres. Last week he was offered $265 for the farm.

Tuesday George Jeffers bought the half section farm he sold a little more than two years ago to Jesse J McGuire, of Rock Rapids, at $175 an acre paying $210 per acre for the farm. This is located in Allison township

WHITE SLAVE ACT WILL BE INVOKED

Confessed Deserter and General All Round Crook to Be Prosecuted For Transporting Iowa Woman.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 28.—James Monroe, alias James Love, who is alleged to have confessed to Chicago police that he killed Josephine McDonald there last January by running over her with an automobile, is held here today.

Federal Marshal Healy received Monroe here yesterday. According to Healy, Monroe will face trial for violation of the Mann act in transporting Mrs. Ruth Jochuman from East Dubuque, Ill., to this city.

IOWA LEGISLATORS TAKING A RECESS

Adjourn to Meet Again Next Wednesday—Bill Provides Money For Members of Rainbow Division.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb 27—The 38th general assembly adjourned yesterday evening for the March recess, to reconvene on Wednesday, March 5. Most of the members have hurried to their homes and will be busy most of the time they are at home getting the views of their constituents on matters that are pending or that may be considered during the remainder of the session.

IOWA SOLDIER HAS RECORD FOR WOUNDS

Washington, D. C, Feb. 28 —War department records contain no more thrilling account of the activity of American soldiers in France than the casualty record of Private James H. Burns, of Company G, 168th infantry, of the Rainbow division, a doughty Irish youth of Ottumwa, Ia. Here is his casualty record

March 8—Slightly wounded in action

May 27—Wounded in action, degree undetermined

July 15—Wounded in action, degree undetermined.

September 16—Suffering from psycho-neurosis neurasthenia (shell shock.)

Young Burns was discharged from the hospital on November 13, according to the last report received by the war department, and was stationed at the base depot at Blois, France, doing partial military duty. He is one of two sons of Mrs. Mary Burns, 122 North McLean street, Ottumwa, Ia., who served with Iowa forces in France.

MONSIGNOR GRIFFIN IS GIVEN NEW HONOR

Fort Dodge, Ia., Feb. 28.—Bishop Philip J. Garrigan, of Sioux City, and 100 priests gathered in Fort Dodge for the investure of Monsignor James A. Griffin as domestic prelate. It is the third time the honor has been given to the shepard of Corpus Christi church. Following the ceremonies, a banquet was given at the Commercial club.

Rev. Thomas McCarty, of Carroll, toastmaster; Mayor Ford, Rev. A. E. Zimmerman, of Sioux City; Rev. J. T. Finnigan, of Early; Rev. Darcy, of Clare, chaplain; Rev. C. P. Sweeney, of Denison; Rev. P. M. Dobberstein, of West Bend, and M. F. Healy, were on the program. All expressed praise of Monsignor Griffin's loyalty and patriotism. Rev. Father Dobberstein, of West Bend, builder of the famous West Bend grotto, struck a key note and was warmly applauded when he urged Catholics against joining in the current criticism against the Y. M. C. A. He praised the work of the "Y" and said as Catholics had suffered unjust lies, let them do as they would be done by Priests of the deanery of Fort Dodge presented Monsignor Griffin with a purse. The occasion was a noteworthy one.

IOWA FLYER COMING BACK HOME SOON

Colfax, Ia., Feb. 28.—Iowa will soon greet another war hero in Capt. James Normal Hall, of Colfax, ace of the Lafayette escadrille, who is expected home in the near future. In his last letter home he declared he would be home soon, and his family and friends are expecting every day to hear that he has sailed from France or arrived in this city.

Captain Hall, who was shot down behind the German lines and made a prisoner, was freed three days before the armistice was signed, made his way into Switzerland and from there to Paris, where he has been since.

CRESTON TO HAVE NEW MODERN HOTEL

Creston, Ia., Feb. 28.—Creston sold a new hotel by subscription. The mass meeting was held at the Elks club and more than $100,000 worth of stock was sold in one hour and 15 minutes.

Plans for a modern fireproof six-story hotel are now under way and the meeting assured success of the enterprise.

AID FOR FARM AGENTS.

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 27.—Iowa senate passed the county farm agent bill, which had previously passed the house, 41 to 7. It provides for $5,000 annually in counties of 35,000 or over for crop improvement purposes.

The house fought over the regular shot firers' bill, and finally ordered it placed on the calendar despite the efforts of speaker McFarlane to kill the measure It was a personal defeat for the speaker, so legislators claimed.

Training Little Children

How the Children Keep a Weather Calendar When dren See All Nature Doing and Making Something They Long to Join in the Work of This Busy World

Suggestions by mothers who have been kindergartners. Issued by the United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., and the National Kindergarten Association, 8 Fortieth Street, New York.

If nature-study is to be begun for the first time, either in school or in the home, the easiest introduction is by the time-honored topic of the weather in conjunction with the day. A weather calendar naturally follows, the days being marked with appropriate colors and symbols, yellow for the sunshine, grey for cloudy, kite for windy, umbrella for rainy, etc. The calendar may be decorated to represent the main nature study idea for the month, a snow scene for January, skating for February, etc.

Daddy has a newspaper every morning; why should not the children have one of their very own? Theirs can be a sheet of drawing paper hung beside the calendar, on which one of the children may draw a flower, etc. These drawings may not be works of art from the grown-up standpoint, but they aid the child to observe and to tell, as well as he is able, what he has seen. He should be shown where he can improve his work, but the original sketch should never be interfered with or criticised. A more accurate representation can be given in a separate lesson after the child has had a chance for further observation, but in no way connecting this with his first drawing on the calendar, lest he become discouraged or self-conscious and try to express something which he has not really seen.

To adopt a tree in springtime is another good plan. Have the children give the tree a name and so make of it a companion. Always include the family name of the tree. Frequent visits must be made to the tree because it cannot come to the children. Notice how the buds are arranged on the branches, which of them grow most rapidly, and what they turn into, leaves, flowers or branches. Try to discover if the tree has any other visitors; bright eyes will soon discover many. Play a game around the tree; sing to it some such rhyme as the following:

"Time is never wasted listening to the trees;
If to Heaven we arose as grandly as these,
Holding to each other half their kindly grace
Haply we were worthier our human place."

Because the child, after making mud pies is told that his face is dirty, he naturally concludes that all soil is dirt. Point out to him that it is only when out of place, that it is dirt, for in its right place it is the home of miracles, the matrix from which comes that wonderful force we call life. Let the children make experiments with different kinds of soil—clay, sand, loam.

In this way they will become familiar with the names and texture as well as the best uses of each.

Have the children notice changes in the air, that it is cold in summer, cold in winter dry in weather, damp in rainy weather, calm, breezy or very windy. Tell why we should be careful to breathe only good air, to breathe deep to expand our lungs; that we live in air as the fish live in the water birds fly up and down in the air fish swim up and down in the water that air is all above us just as water is above the little water animals that crawl on the bottom of a river.

Every child is familiar with ice in many forms, but perhaps the readers of its forms are so common he has not noticed how interesting they are. "We cultivate the power ation of our children by tales of prince who became invisible when put on his cap of darkness and made far journeys through the air his magic carpet, and yet no darkness ever wrought more astonishing disappearances than that when this most common of our natural elements disappears from under our very eyes, dissolving into thin air What child has not noticed the mist rising from the damp pavement when the sun comes out after a shower The drops of water are donning their magic caps and flying off into the atmosphere to become invisible to our eyes. The next time we see the mist may be as part of the white clouds sailing across the blue sky there is the magic power which calls back the vapor spirit to sight and touch. This magician's name is Frost or Jack Frost, who transforms the water drops again and gives us many fancy shapes, such as may be seen on frosted window panes or in shallow ice, or in the snowflakes.

When the child sees so many things smaller and weaker than he, doing something and making some noise he, too, longs to join this busy world He may well use such occupations as cutting, pasting, weaving and modeling, for the birds, trees and animals in their way do all these things and the flowers are painted with the colors taken from the sunbeams and the earth.

Stories of animals and insects may be appropriately told to emphasize the nicety and exactness of work done by creatures so much more skilful than we, and in this way a desire to do good and accurate work may be stimulated.

Please pass this article on to a friend and thus help Uncle Sam and all the mothers of the country.

WILSON "CZAR" DECLARES PAPER

Teuton Writer Considers Characteristics of Peace Conference Delegates From German Viewpoint.

London Times cable service (Copyright 1919, by Public Ledger Co.) to The Sioux City Tribune.

London—Special—Under the heading "The Lords of the World" the Frankfurter Zeitung publishes a rather lively sketch of the peace delegates in Paris. It wonders whether any of them will turn out to be a Metternich, a Talleyrand, a Hardenberg, a Nesselrode, or a Castlereagh, but thinks that none of them at present can be compared with Bismarck, Disraeli or Gortschakoff. It is added:

Wilson, Clemenceau and Lloyd George are already characters with sharply and firmly outlined features. What they have done for their countries during the war raises them high above middle stature. But their greatness as statesmen has still to undergo the tests of fire at the green table. The war is over The peace work, which is to tame the wildest nationalism of great states and of small and to create a future full of rest, is still more terrifying than the tasks of the war.

Wilson "Stubborn."

Has Mr. Wilson, the author of "a few points," and the possessor of "stubborn energy," the diplomatic skill which is necessary to carry his program undiminished through the changes and chances of debate? If not, perhaps he can make good a lack of diplomatic skill "by the unbending doctrinairism of which he and his first aid, Lansing, have already given many proofs."

Colonel House may be expected to bridge differences, "but he must not erase by his suppleness what his two friends want to write in firm characters in the book of history" M. Clemenceau is described as a reactionary playing the Metternich to Mr Wilson's Czar Alexander M Pichon is described as "mason's labourer" to Mr Clemenceau, and "weak as wax in the fingers of the master" M Tardieu has "more independence," and the Frankfurter Zeitung looks benevolently on his possible ambitions. M. Klotz is "a clever and determined arithmetician who will doubtless produce his indemnity bill with all the French cunning."

Bonar Law Called Ruler.

Turning to the British delegates the Franfurter Zeitung discovers that Bonar Law is the real ruler of England and thinks he ought to have been first delegate. It is he who "will present the British World-Empire" Lloyd George's best point is said to be his unfailing habit of discovering "the weak points in his opponent's position." Mr. Balfour is a very able dialectician, "slippery as an eel." The Franfurter Zeitung is rather jealous about Baron Sonnino, but rejoices in the belief that Italy cannot get such solid support as M. Clemenceau finds in France and Mr. Lloyd George in Great Britain. As to the Germans the Frangfurter Zeitung observes:

"They will not come until the second act. We don ot yet know what the first act they will bear. But is already clear what they will have to do, we Germans are only ones who ask from the peace conference nothing but justice Germany cannot be a better soil for statesmen who wrestles with the lords of the world. There is no room there for haggling. Our good right must speak only word and our last."

"Czarina Not Pro-German"

Sir George Buchanan, in Fortnightly Review.

I have so recently vindicated the memory of the late emperor's (the czar's) memory as regards certain unfounded charges and misrepresentations that I need not refer to them. I said on that subject at the Russian state dinner. I should like, however, to add a few words about the empress. Whatever the reports which we have received have suffered so greatly confirmed, has suffered so greatly we can think of her with only pity and commiseration.

The emperor, it is true, was so much under her influence that history will hold her responsible for having inaugurated a policy disastrous alike to the dynasty and to Russia, but, in spite of all that has been said to the contrary, she was never a pro-German working in German interests, nor did she, any more than the emperor, contemplate the conclusion of a separate peace with Germany. She had a strong personal dislike for Emperor William, and it is quite untrue that she ever acted as his agent.

She was a reactionary who wished to hand down the autocracy intact to her son, and she consequently persuaded the emperor to choose as his ministers those on whom she could rely to carry out a firm and unyielding policy, quite regardless of their other qualifications Those were, however, German agents in the background who pulled the strings and used her majesty as well as others of the emperor's entourage as their unconscious tools for the purpose of influencing the emperor to pursue a reactionary policy, while they themselves preached revolution to his subjects, in order that Russia might be so rent by internal disorders as to be forced to make peace.

The empress believed to the last that the army and the peasantry were on her side, and that she could count on their support.

SELF RELIANCE.

From Ohio State Journal.

If possible, find something to do without depending upon others. Anything, anything is to be doing, if it only keeps soul and body together for a while. But it will not be for long, for the very effort, mixed with a little self denial, is what produces results. We are on the eve of a serious situation something that only manhood can solve. Laws, institutions, customs, will not avail. Men must depend upon themselves and not upon others for work or subsistence. It happens in the logic of events that there must be more or less social reliance But at the same time it must not be an absolute dependence The solution of the future social and industrial problems is in the man, and that manifests itself where no man is cut off from self support, which is the crowning feature of our civic life We are at that point now when this high estate is reached and the opportunity opens to reveal the [illegible]

Oil Lease to Charity.

From the Oklahoman

Charles Page, oil man, who recently won the famous Tommy Atkins suit in which he was involved a $3,000,000 oil lease has announced that as soon as the title to it is cleared he intends giving the entire property over to philanthropic purposes, the feature being a 10-story building with all features, to be erected for working [illegible]

Voted as Their Leaders Should.

From the Baltimore American.

The two prominent factors in the reelection in England are said to be the soldiers and the women who voted together There is food for thought in this significant fact It was the soldiers and the women who appreciated the facts of the war

...S. BOYD VOIDED AN OPERATION

Ohio.—I suffered from ... which caused me much suffering. ... doctors told me that I would have to go through an operation before I could get well.

"My mother, who had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, advised me to try it before submitting to an operation. It relieved me from my troubles ... my house work without any ... advise any woman who is ... with female troubles to give ... Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it will do as much for ..." Mrs. MARIE BOYD, 1421 5th ... Canton, Ohio.

... there are serious conditions ... a hospital operation is the ... but on the other hand ... have been cured by this ... and herb remedy, Lydia E. ... Vegetable Compound, after ... said that an operation was ... every woman who wants ... operation should give it a ... before submitting to such a ...

... exist, write to Lydia ... Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., ... The result of many years ... is at your service.

Practice Patience.

... can never wait until ... right. It lights the fuse ... mine is properly laid. ... start building before the ... is constructed. It wants ... with the world before it ... its problems. It explodes ... friend before it learns ... for his actions. The whole ... folly, but it's only human ... Patience is apt to err on the ... but it never sacrifices ... to passion. It never re... ones by demanding the ... It just waits for the ... spares what can't be ... those who don't understand ... regard it as a mark of weak... this because they do not ... Patience is the very es... the best that is in the gods ... the best into human life. ... have it.

...'S AUGUST FLOWER

... used for all ailments that ... by a disordered stomach ... liver, such as sick head... constipation, sour stomach, ... indigestion, fermentation of ... nation of the heart caused by ... stomach. August Flower ... laxative, regulates digestion ... stomach and intestines, cleans ... the stomach and alimen..., stimulates the liver to se... bile, and impurities from the ... in all civilized countries. ... trial.—Adv.

True.

... in ancient Rome, to ... selves popular, gave free ... the people."

"... like poor politics."

"... you can't deny that those ... ally tried to reduce the cost ..."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

... Soap for the Complexion.

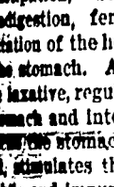
... better than Cuticura Soap ... Ointment now and then as ... make the complexion clear, ... and hands soft and white. ... the fascinating, fragrant ... Talcum and you have the ... Toilet Trio.—Adv.

... and economy should now ... American motto.

...Lame and Achy?

... and grip leave thousands with ... eys and aching backs. The ... have to do most of the work of ... all our germ disease. They ... ney, up, and you feel dull, ir... or nervous—have headaches, ... backache, sore joints and ir... kidney action. Then the kid... prompt help. Use Doan's ... Pills. Thousands praise Doan's ... satisfactory results.

A Nebraska Case



Delevan Bates, Burkett, Neb., says: "I don't know of any medicine I can recommend more highly than Doan's Kidney Pills. They have been an old standby with me ever since I came out of the army. I think the hardships endured during my military campaign had a lot to do with kidney complaint and attacks of backache. I have used Doan's Kidney Pills when my kidneys needed attention and they have greatly helped me."

... at Any Store, 60c a Box.

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

...alonna Is a New CORN REMEDY

... by two druggists, after many ... experimenting; and is guaranteed to give ... and according to directions. If you are ... with corns or bunions, do not fail to try ... Sold by leading druggists or sent ... receipt of price, 25 cents.

... Mfg. Co., P. O. Box X, Newell, S. D.

...ating Coughs

... coughs, colds, bronchitis ... further inflamed and irritated ... the throat with a tasted remedy

...ISO'S

PARTIES WAGE WAR OVER NEW VICTORY LOAN

Congressional Feudists Whet Knives and Plunge Into Action —Bill May Be Defeated By Republican Filibuster.

By United Press

Washington, March ... fierce turmoil raged today on Capitol Hill where the 65th congress is expiring. A mass of legislation choked the legislative channels while a bitter partisan fight was on between republican ... and President Wilson.

The session ends at noon ... and in the interim the following ... measures are in doubt.

Victory loan bill, army, navy, ... agricultural, sundry, civil and ... appropriation bills.

Democratic leaders contend that some of these will not pass. The big question with them was: Will the Victory loan bill be blocked?

This loan provides $... through notes and certificates ... carrying on the government ... new taxes come in. Some republicans heartily favored filibustering against the bill while others were afraid that they defeated it President Wilson would tell the country that his political opponents, for political purposes, ... fit to stop the wheels of government. The effect of such a statement, republicans felt, would be disastrous.

Lodge Calls Meeting

Minority leader Lodge today issued a call for a conference of republican senators at 5:30 o'clock this evening to consider whether concerted action should be taken in an effort to prevent an extra session by opposing the Victory loan bill authorizing $4,000,000,000 of new securities.

To give time for the republican conference, an agreement was reached between the democratic and republican leaders for a recess of the senate from 5:30 to 7 p. m.

"Division of republican sentiment on the question of opposition to the Victory loan bill, Senator Lodge said, so pronounced that a conference of the full republican membership of the senate was deemed advisable. The administration plans to force the passage of an extra session by calling up the loan measure.

La Follette in Filibuster

Senator La Follette announced to the senate that a filibuster against the leasing bill conference report was on.

While La Follette was speaking republican leaders called a conference for 5:30 to decide what to do. They made it plain that the La Follette filibuster was in no sense a party movement by the republicans but was his own idea upon which he had acted more than 10 days ago when the conference report on the oil bill was first presented.

La Follette declared that he intended to stay on through this session and every other session of which he was a member, no important piece of legislation will get through if it is possible to stop it when the conference report is brought in in the closing hours of the session."

This announcement clearly means senators said, that La Follette has no intention of letting the bill pass.

If the filibuster is not broken it means that the victory loan and all other appropriation bills will fail of passage this session.

Bill Up Tonight

Senator Simmons, finance committee chairman announced he would do all he can to pass the loan bill tonight. Senator Lewis, administration whip said, if necessary, the Senate would be kept in continuous session.

If the fight on the loan bill proves to be long drawn out as now appears probable, the army and navy bills to which the republicans are opposed may not be called up.

Administration democrats agreed to forego speeches on the league of nations so that nothing might hamper the progress of the loan bill. Democrats hostile to the president however plan to speak on the league.

The Senate Interstate Commerce committee today reported favorably on the bill introduced by Senator Cummins, of Iowa, amending the existing railroad control act so as to restore the all-rate making powers of the Interstate Commerce commission. Consideration of the measure was requested up, but it was believed that an attempt would be made to add it as a rider to the $27,000,000 general deficiency bill to which already has been attached the $750,000,000 railroad appropriation amendment.

Repeal Luxury Taxes

The House today passed without a record vote and sent to the Senate the resolution providing for the repeal of the luxury tax clause of the war revenue bill. It imposed a 10 per cent tax after May 1 on higher priced women's apparel and many other articles.

No Wire Control Action

No effort will be made in the House before adjournment of congress to pass the resolution ending government wire control on December 31 next. Representative Pou, chairman of the House rules committee, announced that the measure would not be pressed because action in the Senate was regarded as impossible.

In reporting favorably the general deficiency appropriation bill passed yesterday by the House the Senate appropriations committee today added as a "rider" the House bill authorizing $75,000,000 additional for the railroad administration.

Confirm Palmer.

The Senate judiciary committee today by unanimous vote, ordered a favorable report on the nomination of A. Mitchell Palmer, alien property custodian, to be attorney general. Absence of republican opposition foreshadowed prompt confirmation by the Senate.

The House late last night passed the last of the annual appropriation measures, the $850,000,000 sundry civil bill. The measure now goes to the Senate.

Clothes Question Makes Antis Out Of Russian Women

By Associated Press

[illegible]

DENIES REPORT ON THIRD TERM

President Says He Has Not Discussed Question, Approves Fifteen Important Congressional Bills.

By Associated Press

[illegible] President Wilson [illegible] who [illegible] for [illegible] a third term [illegible] Approves Bills [illegible]

FRENCH LAUNCH FIRST BIG CEMENT FREIGHTER

Building Cement Fleet to Carry Coal From England, Utilize Metal From Battlefields.

[illegible] the first [illegible] ships to be built in France [illegible] more to follow. [illegible] these ships are of steel [illegible] about 1,000 tons displacement [illegible] the material used in the construction [illegible] year of their [illegible] as produced in France [illegible] ghout the smallest detail. The steel used in the construction [illegible] scrap metal from the battlefields.

CHARGE STEEL FIRM WITH PROFITEERING

Government Alleges Boston Company Used Inferior Steel Castings on War Contracts.

By Associated Press

Boston, March 3. An alleged conspiracy which is charged resulted in the use of inferior steel for castings and forgings for the ships engaging the attention of the federal grand jury here for several days, it was disclosed yesterday when five men were indicted on a secret indictment returned by the grand jury yesterday. The defendants are Alexander P. Lockwood, president and treasurer, and Edward A. Lockwood, vice president and treasurer of the Lynn Steel Casting Company of Boston, and employees of the same company. All are charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States. The Lockwood Company presented high grade steel for inspection and tests, but used inferior stock in making castings for gun mounts and other important parts of destroyers.

SPURN ARMISTICE.

By United Press

Stockholm, March 3. The Lithuanians have refused the request of the bolshevists for an armistice, it was stated in an official dispatch from Kovno today.

The bolshevists were said to have asked for cessation of hostilities, following an advance of more than 13 miles from Vilna by the Lithuanians in which several towns were taken. The Lithuanians command refused, demanding immediate retirement of the [illegible] from Lithuania.

SEND EDITOR TO JAIL.

Helena, Mont., March 3.—W. F. Dunn, editor of the Butte Bulletin and a member of the legislature, was in jail here today after he had been sentenced in the district court to pay a fine of $5,000, the penalty fixed by the jury that found him guilty of sedition in connection with an editorial in the Butte Bulletin. The editorial was alleged to have been calculated to incite resistance to the orders of the Montana council of defense.

The supreme court late yesterday granted Dunn's application for a writ of probable cause and fixed Dunn's bail at $5,000. His hearing in the supreme court will be held March 8.

SUFFRAGE GETS ANOTHER CHANCE

Louisiana Senator Shifts and Gives Opportunity For Passing Compromise Resolution If Two-Thirds Is Available.

By Associated Press

Washington, March 3. With announcement today by Senator Gay, of Louisiana, democrat, that he would support the new compromise woman suffrage resolution proposed in the Senate yesterday by Chairman Jones of the women suffrage committee, hopes of champions of the equal franchise measure for its adoption before congress adjourns were raised.

The Susan B. Anthony draft was defeated recently by one vote. With Senator Gay supporting the new resolution it was believed that if time for consideration of the resolution could be secured it might pass and later get the approval of the House.

A meeting of the Senate woman suffrage committee was planned late today to support the compromise resolution which would leave enforcement of the proposed constitutional amendment largely to the states.

A resolution similar to that of Senator Jones was reported favorably today by the House woman suffrage committee. Chairman Raker said he would attempt to bring it up before adjournment.

WANTS DIVISION OF HEMISPHERES

Senator Knox, Speaking on World League, Advocates Non Interference of U. S. In Europe.

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., March 3.—Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, former secretary of state, speaking today in [illegible] the league of nations as striking down American constitutional principles and proposed a new world organization which, he said, would preserve the Monroe doctrine and save America from the rocks of Europe in intrigue and aggression.

Senator Knox who attended the White House dinner conference last Wednesday with other members of the Senate foreign relations committee, said the constitution of the league as presented to the peace conference sanctions, heeds and commands war; and after criticising various clauses of the document, asked:

Why this feverish anxiety for the adoption of this plan? Why this racing up and down the land by propagandists urging its adoption? What benefit is to come from such a sale of the country as is urged upon us? Who are the beneficiaries of this betrayal of our people?"

The Pennsylvania senator said that if the people of the United States desired what he termed a real league of nations to prevent war and "not merely to build a coalition to further trade or preserve and expand territorial possessions" it might be secured through the formation of an international organization comprising all the nations of the world.

Senator Knox said the constitution of such an international coalition should primarily declare war on international crime and stipulate that any nation engaging in it, except in self defense, be punished by the world as an international criminal. He also suggested that the constitution provides that international disputes be decided by an international court according to an international code defining war, that no nation could summon another before the court unless the subject under discussion was of common concern to the contending nations, and that jurisdiction of the court not extend to matters of governmental policy.

Under such a code, Senator Knox declared, America would not, as under the present plan, be called upon to arbitrate "the policy involved in the Monroe doctrine, our conservation policy, our immigration policy, our right to expel aliens, our right to repel invasion and to maintain military and naval establishments, our right to make necessary fortifications of the Panama canal or on our frontiers and our right to discriminate between natives and foreigners in respect to rights of property and citizenship."

Among other suggestions for the constitution Senator Knox said it should provide that the countries of the two hemispheres be called upon to enforce decrees of the international court only in their respective hemispheres.

"A league framed on these broad lines," he continued, "would carry with it a minimum loss of our sovereignty, would relieve us from participation in the broils of Europe, would preserve the Monroe doctrine and save America from the results of European intrigue and aggression."

CHANGES FROM ORIGINAL PLAN ARE FORECAST

Movement For Important Amendments to League Constitution Under Way at Paris —Naval Terms Settled.

BY LOWELL MELLETT.

Paris, March 3.—Returning from the United States, President Wilson will find a movement under way to incorporate several important amendments in the league of nations constitution.

France and Japan particularly wish to obtain a greater measure of protection for their special interests. Japan will be ready to present her views regarding immigration, but indications today were that she will not make a real fight for their acceptance, allowing the matter to rest after it is on record. The French will again put forward their plan for an international army, stating their case in the strongest possible terms, since they firmly believe it would greatly strengthen the league. However, it is learned from an authoritative source that she will not make acceptance a condition of her ratification of the league, since reports of opposition in America have practically wiped out all opposition here. The French point out that they want above all security of a certain definite degree, which is provided by the league. While new "balance of power" arrangements might for the moment seem very tangible they feel the present state of disorganization in Europe makes any "balance" that might be achieved precarious. For instance, it would necessitate dependence in east Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, potentially strong states, but also potentially, failures.

Significance of France's newly warm endorsement of the league. Lejournal presents a plan whereby the league would undertake the pensioning of all soldiers who participated in the war. The newspaper suggests that this be made the league's first budget. The apportionments would be based. First, on the number of men mobilized, second, on the number killed, third on the length of participation in the war; fourth, on the material damage suffered; fifth, on population, and sixth on war expenses.

The total amount to be disbursed would be $320,000,000, of which the United States would be expected to furnish 36 per cent, Great Britain 9 per cent, France, 4 per cent, Italy, 4 per cent, and the remainder would be divided among Japan and the smaller nations. The Americans here find the scheme interesting, at least.

Watch United States Fight.

The French are displaying intense interest in Wilson's fight for the league of nations at home. All newspapers carried at least a column on the president's dinner to the foreign relations committees. Officials also are interested in former President's Taft's tour. The French expect the president to receive a "vote of confidence" in congress on his league plans before his return.

The meeting of the various league of nations societies, scheduled to be held in London this week, was postponed until March 10. Ten nations will be represented.

ENGLAND HAS HER OWN SERVANT PROBLEM NOW

London—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Time was when Americans, harrassed by the servant problem, came to England to live. Here they could keep house in peace and sing the virtues of English domestics, making comparisons based on experience in the United States with servants of every race and color. They declared that from housekeeper and cook-general to nurse and betweenmaid the English serving women had no pers; they worked harder, better, longer hours, and with more willingness and for less pay than servants in any part of the world.

How many of these Americans are returning home. They have not modified their notions about English servants, but they simply cannot hire them any more. England as a result of the war, is having her own servant problem.

The trouble began when the servant girls flocked into war work. Householders were greatly inconvenienced and large numbers closed up their dwellings and moved into hotels. Others did their own work, expecting the servants would return when the war ended. But the fighting has been over a long time now, scores of munition factories have closed, and still the girls have favorite subject of gloomy speculation at many a tea table.

NEW GRAIN EMBARGO.

By Associated Press.

Chicago, March 3.—The railroad administration today placed an embargo on shipments of bulk and domestic grain to New York harbor points. Exceptions may be made by the freight traffic committee.

OSCAR PRICE RESIGNS.

Washington, March 1.—Oscar Price has resigned as assistant to the director general of railroads to become president of a new corporation organized to distribute the films of a group of prominent moving picture actors, it was announced here today. He will leave the railroad administration April 1, and will make headquarters in New York.

HEIRS GET $75.30 EACH.

New York, March 3.—The estate left by Charles Frohman, theatrical man, who was lost on the Lusitania, amounted to $461.78, according to the appraisal of the state comptroller filed here. Frohman's gross estate was $919,383, but debts and other deductions cut it down. The heirs are to receive $75.30 each.

SECURE FARM NOW

Western Canada Offers Opportunity to the Ambitious.

Fertile Land at Moderate Cost, With Social and Other Advantages That Mean So Much, Will Soon Be Taken Up.

The desire to have a piece of land of one's own is a natural instinct in the heart of every properly developed man and woman. In earlier years, on account of the great areas of land available in the United States, no great difficulty was experienced by any ambitious settler who wished to become his own landholder, but the rapid increase in population, combined with the corresponding rise in the price of land has completely changed this condition. Land which a generation ago might be had for homesteading, now commands prices ranging to $100 an acre and over. At such prices it is quite hopeless for the city man with limited capital, to attempt to buy a farm of his own. To pay for it becomes a lifelong task, and the probability is that he will never do more than meet the interest charges. If he is serious in his desires to secure a farm home he must look to countries where there is still abundant fertile land available at moderate cost, and where these lands are to be purchased on terms which make it possible for the settler with small capital to become a farm owner as the result of a few years' labor. He will also want land in a country where the practices of the people are similar to those to which he has been accustomed; a country with the same language, same religion, same general habits of living, with laws, currency, weights and measures, etc., based on the same principles as those with which he is familiar. He wants a country where he can buy land from $20 to $40 an acre which will produce as big or bigger crops as those he has been accustomed to from lands at $100 an acre. He wants this land where social conditions will be attractive to himself and family, and where he can look forward with confidence to being in a few years independent, and well started on the road to financial success.

All these conditions he will find in western Canada. The provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba provide the one and only answer to the land hungry. The land is there; it is the kind of land he wants; the conditions are as nearly ideal as is possible, and the prices and terms are such that the man of moderate capital has an opportunity not available to him elsewhere. Land values are going to increase, but it will largely depend on how well the soil can be used, and the modern farmer is using it each year to better advantage.

But those who are on the ground and come closest to the heart of the farming sections are convinced that no material decrease in value is in sight. Indeed, they are almost unanimous in believing that we shall see a strong real estate market for fertile land, with prices maintained; and as development and further equipments are added the prices on the open market may be expected to show a further increase as the years go on—up to the limit of income plus what men are willing to pay to possess an attractive home.

Someone once said: "Never sell short on the United States. You will lose every time." And this applies to those who are inclined to believe that the future of farm values is in doubt. The American farmer is going forward not backward, and the same may be said of the Canadian farmer. —Advertisement.

Even Thoughts Are Dangerous.

It was one of the rainiest nights in Indiana for a long time. The teachers were getting ready to go home when a telephone message summoned them to a called teacher's meeting at the superintendent's office. With faces cloudier than the sky they silently started on their way. The silence continued for several blocks, then the irrepressible teacher of the building burst out: "Girls, I could be fired for what I'm thinking of our superintendent right now."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Mucous Surfaces.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

All Druggists 75c. Circulars free.

F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

Acquired by Practice.

Fiancee—How did you guess there were a lot of nice young men where I spent my vacation?

Fiance—You've learned to kiss so nicely.

For your daughter's sake, use Red Cross Ball Blue in the laundry. She will then have that dainty, well-groomed appearance that girls admire. 5c.

If you would retain your friends don't remind them of their faults.

Western States Lumber Co.

Lumber & Building Material

We have some fir Shiplap which we will sell at per M. feet $35.00 per M. feet

Give us a trial and we will do all in our power, conversant with good business methods, to gain and hold your trade.

Olof Brynteson, Agent

The City Dray Line

Expert and to do your hauling carefully and promptly.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited
Charges Reasonable

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

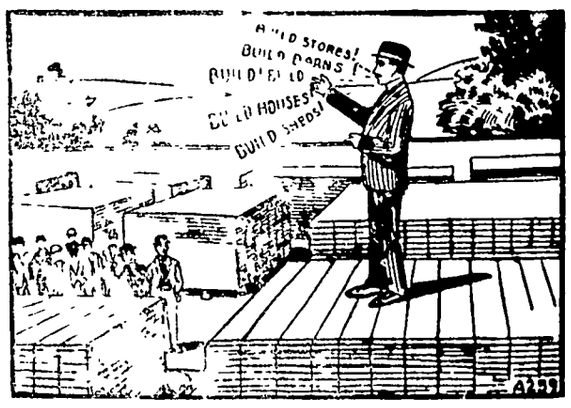
Coal Hauling Done

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16 Residence Phone No. 52



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

E. P. HANSON
REAL ESTATE AND LIVE STOCK
AUCTIONEER
GARNER, IOWA. PHONE 105
SATISFIED CUSTOMERS
MY BEST REFERENCE
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
PHONE OR WRITE FOR INFORMATION AND SALE DATES AT ONCE

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDER

Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing

Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

SKY CAMERA MEN DID GREAT WORK

Photographers in British Air Service Had Important Part in War.

WERE AWKWARD AT FIRST

"Spy Dropping" Another Feature of Work of Aviation Section Developed Toward End of War—Much Information Gained.

London.—Taking tremendous risks, the British air force camera men played to perfection in the war the part of the spy in the enemy's camp.

A month or so after our first very attenuated and ill-equipped flying squadron had gone over to France with the "Old Contemptibles," an observer flying one sunny day over the enemy lines took with him a much-cherished pocket camera and exposed some films over the enemy's ground beneath him.

He wanted them only to send home to his people as souvenirs. When they were developed he found they formed an excellent pictorial map of the Boche front lines.

Then it was that Lieutenant Colonel Moore-Brabazon, the "father" and organizer of the photographic section of the Royal Air force, realized the enormous possibilities of air photographs as an aid to the intelligence staff.

He began to agitate for permission to carry on the work of photographing the German activities from the air. The early experiments turning out to be of first-rate value, Colonel Moore-Brabazon was sent home to start organizing a photographic branch of the flying corps.

Gradually Improved.

And so the army spying service went on improving month by month.

As the work of the flying arm of the service extended ashore and afloat so did the work of the air spies extend. They photographed U-boats resting on the bed of the Adriatic and Mediterranean; they pictured the oil patches on the seas which betoken the sudden end of a submarine.

To dodge successfully the Hun flyers and the ever-present "Archie," the pilots had invariably to fly at fairly high altitudes—rarely at less than 10,000 feet, and always on a zigzag course.

The "mosains," as they were called—picture maps pieced together something like a jigsaw puzzle—were made from thousands of pictures taken with a lens pointing vertically toward the ground.

A brigade intelligence officer, having got a complete set of prints, taken an hour before, sat down to deduce, Sherlock Holmes like, a lengthy indictment of the Huns' overnight activities.

Signs of an impending attack on a big scale usually could be deduced by the plainly apparent newly made roads for tanks and by the massing of men in large numbers in support trenches and on roads leading from back area billets.

One of the most enterprising methods of aerial intelligence was the dropping of spies in the Hun lines and picking them up after they had completed their work. In this way much information of vital importance was gained.

These secret service agents were mostly Frenchmen who knew the country thoroughly and had a full inside knowledge of the Hun military organization.

If there were any signs of activity in any particular sector of the line about which the high command was anxious, one of these agents was detailed to report to headquarters for instructions. Here he was also supplied with the necessary papers, and was then sent by car to a certain aerodrome.

Used Special Machine.

At this aerodrome was a specially constructed machine. The pilot was usually a well-known Birmingham motor cyclist racer, who specialized in this particular work. He was brilliantly successful at what was undoubtedly a very risky game. His efforts were rewarded by many decorations, and he is still flying.

The spy having reported to his pilot, details would be arranged between them, and frequently there was a rehearsal in the form of a flight over the spot where he was to land. Sometimes the work would be undertaken by day, but if the weather was favorable, it was mostly done by night.

The spy would get into his basket seat, so constructed that he could easily slip off; the engine would be thoroughly tested, and they would get into the air.

They would make straight for the appointed spot, heedless of all searchlights and shells, and would then land. The landing spot was a good-sized field with an even surface.

At an appointed time two or three days later, earlier if necessary, the machine would return to the same spot and pick up the man again. Sometimes, if his investigations were of particularly lengthy nature, he would return to our lines by another means.

To Reproduce Accident.

Stamford, Conn.—Reproduction of an automobile accident in which a car operated by Frank Prezloski ran down Bernard Blum and killed him was ordered by County Coroner Phelan in order that he might better fix the blame for the fatality.

HUGE SUB CRUISERS

British Admiralty Lets Out Secret of Craft.

Have Two Funnels and Make 24 Knots on Surface Under Steam.

London.—The admiralty has permitted to be made public the real story of the submarine cruisers the British successfully constructed at the time the Germans were boasting of their super-submarine.

The British craft have two funnels and make 24 knots an hour on the surface under steam power. They carry from eight to ten torpedo tubes, two or three four-inch guns and also are equipped with internal combustion motors for surface cruising. The batteries for the undersea power can be charged from both the steam and combustion engines and an ingenious scheme has been devised for quickly dismantling the funnels for the purpose of submerging.

The vessels displace 2,000 tons on the surface and 2,700 tons submerged. They are 340 feet long, have a beam of 26 feet and a cruising radius of 3,000 miles. They are designed to be even a match for torpedo-boat destroyers in surface fighting.

It is also known that the British have successfully built a submarine carrying a 12-inch gun, although the details of this craft have not been made public. The new ideas embraced in the construction of the craft include the "cushioning" of the boat to withstand the terrific concussion of the gun. This idea is represented unofficially as having been successful. So far as is known the new craft was never employed against any enemy vessel.

FAMOUS BLIND EDUCATOR

Sir Arthur Pearson, famous blind publisher and educator, arrived in America recently to lecture for the Red Cross on his methods of educating the blind, a task to which he has committed his life and fortune. Sir Arthur founded the St. Dunstan's hospital for blinded soldiers and sailors in Regent's park, London. Despite his affliction he reached the highest pinnacle of English journalism, owning the London Daily Express, Pearson's Monthly and 19 other publications, all of which he has recently sold. He will tour America, lecturing for the benefit of the American blind, to stimulate interest in the training of those unfortunates according to the St. Dunstan hospital plan.

LAUNCH 26 STEEL VESSELS

All Records for Shipbuilding Broken by Skinner & Eddy's Big Plant at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash.—Smashing all records for shipbuilding, the Skinner & Eddy corporation's plant No. 1, in this city, launched 26 steel steamships in the year 1918. The vessels had an aggregate tonnage of 232,400 deadweight tons.

As the plant has five shipways the average tonnage for each way was 46,480 tons. Nothing approaching this average has been accomplished before in the history of the world's shipbuilding.

No other five shipways at one plant have averaged more than 40,000 deadweight tons in a year, according to marine experts.

There have been records of a single way of more than 40,000 tons in a year, but that was where one large ship was built in a year.

The last of the vessels constructed at this plant for the year was the steamship Edgefield that was delivered on the last day of the year. She is a 9,600-ton vessel.

Careful Man Injured; Reckless One Escapes.

Alliance, O.—Conductor Edward Johnson is a careful man. Employed on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne & Chicago railroad for years, he has carefully observed all of the "safety first" rules and avoided accident.

A few days ago he was standing alongside his train when a sudden jerk of the engine threw a brakeman standing atop a box-car into space. He landed on Johnson.

The brakeman, a careless fellow, is uninjured. Johnson, the careful, is in the hospital.

Do not cripple your Chances of Success

by spending all of your income. Without a bank account and a systematic savings plan will be limited. Be a live one--one who can take advantage of all opportunities. An account started now will help.

Your Opportunities

State Savings Bank

WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE YOU LIKE AND LIKE THE SERVICE YOU GET

KLEMME, IA.

The following gentlemen were subpoenaed to appear before the Grand Jury at Garner Wednesday morning on the Knapp case: N. G. Moberly, Elko Buss, Dick Goodell, Henry Thieman, Frank Glanville, Joe Johnson, G. A. Goll, Albert Fuller, Lew Albers. They went up on the morning train Wednesday.

A man and a team of horses were drowned at Crystal Lake the other day. A couple of men were driving across the lake with a load of ice when the ice broke under the load and the two men and the team broke through the ice into the water. One man escaped, but the other man and the team were drowned before help could reach them.

A runaway occurred here last Saturday afternoon. We did not learn whose team it was but they hit a few electric light poles before they stopped running. We heard they became frightened of a Goodell man who was looking at our high buildings and had a sad look on his face.

Mrs. Emerson, Mrs. Barr, Mrs. Fuller and Miss Blanche Lilljenberg were the ladies who went on the stage last Thursday evening to try their luck being hypnotized. They sure "went under" and the way they could wash clothes and play imaginary pianos was remarkable.

Col. B. A. Reemstma held a combination sale at Busch's barn last Saturday. It is reported the sale went good and there was a good crowd present. The sale was to have been held on the Wednesday prior to that date but on account of the storm was delayed until Saturday.

TO THE VOTERS OF THE INCORPORATED TOWN OF KLEMME

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the Office of Mayor. I appeal to those citizens who are interested in a clean administration, good morality and decent citizenship.

Yours truly,
Chas. W. Stiehl

2-12-19

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7:30 p. m.

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

Nothing Good Made in a Hurry.

No great thing is created suddenly, any more than a bunch of grapes or a fig. If you tell me that you desire a fig, I answer you that there must be time. Let it first blossom, then bear fruit, then ripen.—Exchange.

Geo. ZINN

Physician & Surgeon

Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA.

Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.

Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

Col. B. A. Reemtsma

General Auctioneer

KLEMME, IOWA

Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty

Call, write or phone 508 Klemme for dates, terms, etc.

...Satisfaction Guaranteed

Confidence in the Cause.

The champion optimist of Ameri is private B——, now on active du with his regiment somewhere France. The regiment, after a tu in the trenches, was whiling away time in a rest camp, and the office were seeking to get the men to u some of their spare minutes in t study of French. The men did n take very kindly to the idea, and o of the officers sought to chide them f their lack of interest. Private B— cut him off with the following quer "What in h— do I want to lea French for? They don't speak th in Berlin, do they?"

Pickling Olives.

A new method of pickling ripe oliv which, it is claimed, will increase t capacities of the factories over 2 per cent has been discovered by t University of California. Heretofo it has taken 15 days to pickle ri olives. By this new method it can done in six days or less. The proce is a result of four years of expe ments.

His Opinion.

Willis—What do you think of th plan of turning all the clocks ahead hour each day?

Gillis—Just another foxy scheme the bankers to make a man's not come due sooner, I think.—Judge.

Some Satisfaction.

"How did the shortage of gasoli affect you?"

"Well," replied Mr. Chuggins, was a kind of comfort to know o hand exactly why the old machi wouldn't run."—Washington Star.

Inexorable Law.

The law of reaping as we sow ru through the universe. The man w sows pennies will reap a penny cr The man who sows dollars will re dollars.

Success and Defeat.

Success is so hard to endure. W can endure ten defeats better th one victory. Success goes to the he and defeat goes to "de feet." It mak them work harder.—Ralph Parlette.

SPECIAL

aturday and Monday

MEN'S

Corduroy Trousers

All sizes regular $5.00 and $6.00 values selling

aturday and Monday at $4.15

Get to know

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

"IOWA'S LARGEST CLOTHIERS"

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Cloths

ourteen Stores. Garner, Iowa.

Idle Hour Theatre

One Night Only

Saturday March 8

An absolutely Guaranteed Attraction

The Great Comedy Drama

The Swede THE Tramp AND THE Girl

With that funny Swedish Dialect Comedian

CARL M DALTON

as "OLE"

laugh from start to finish.

All our own special scenery.

Good singing and dancing Specialties.

eserve seats on sale at Dr. Parsons office adults plus war tax children 25c.

Spring Millinery Opening

Friday and Saturday March 7 and 8

Please call and see the Elegant Display of Cleverly Trimmed Hats for the woman who wants the Best. We have just the Hat you want at the price you want to pay.

Yours to please,

Mrs. John Josten

...'s Worth Recognized.

...the many valuable plants, ...getables and medicines which ...has given to the whole race ...d it is proper to include the ...Perhaps it has not conquered ...ld like tobacco, yet it has made ...e impression on a very large ...mankind. Its popularity has ...far beyond the region of its ...

...ach Children to Be Kind.

...been truly said that any per... deliberately tortures a dumb ...would commit any crime not re... courage. Teach children kind... animals.

...Destroys Plant Worms.

...may be killed in jars of ...ts by taking a dozen horse ... and pouring over them two ... of hot water. Let stand over ...ight with this water thoroughly ...the earth in the jars. It will ...ture the plants, but the worms ...dead in a few hours.

Biblical War Bread.

The Scriptures give us many lessons in thrift, according to a writer in Thrift Magazine. Ezekiel warned the children of Israel that during the siege of Jerusalem they would have to be thrifty. He said: "Take thou also unto thee wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and fitches, and put them in one vessel, and make thee bread thereof."—Ezekiel 4-9. The Bible shows that Ezekiel ordered the children of Israel to eat their meat by weight, and even thus only "from time to time."

Have a Heart, Judge.

In the long run an automobilist doesn't gain time by making too much of it in the city limits. The chances are he'll have to do some.

Giving Herself Away

A spinster of uncertain age when asked if she had read Aesop's fables set her friends a-wondering by stating that she had read them when they first came out.

HAVE THEIR OWN TROUBLES

By No Means an Easy Task for Stokers to Hit the Furnace Door When Ship Rolls.

It was while I was being initiated into the technique of stoking by shoveling coal under the boilers that a change of course brought the swinging seas dead abeam, and set the ship rolling even more drunkenly than before, writes Lewis R Freeman in Popular Mechanics Magazine. After failing to hit the "dark spots" and "hollows" two or three times as I staggered to the roll, and once even missing the furnace door itself, one of the stokers, taking compassion, relieved me of the scoop and put the trouble right with a half-dozen quickly tossed shovelfuls. I was frankly glad to work over to where I could take a "half nelson" round a bar by the starboard bunker.

A heavy slam-banging from the opposite end of the boiler room indicated that things were not going quite so smoothly there, and edging cautiously along, I was presently able to get some hint of the cause from the words of a volubly cursing stoker who limped out to tell me that the "blinkin' skip 'as took charge." Rubbing a bruised shin and glowering balefully from a blackened eye which appeared to have been bumped against a boiler he explained in language more forceful than elegant, that some impractical theorist had encouraged them to experiment with wheels on the side of the skip, with the idea of making it easier to push about over the coal-cluttered deck. In the picturesque language of the sea, it had "taken charg" and so effectually that one swift, straight rush to starboard, followed by a "googly" progress back to port, put every man who, either by chance or intent, barred its way, more or less hors de combat.

Straight down the one-in-three incline from the port to the starboard bunkers lolloped the juggernaut, dashing the protesting anatomies of the stokers to left and right as it went. Spitting blood and oaths indiscriminately, one man clung to it all the way, however, and he also it was who—taking advantage of the tilt—finally rendered it harmless by pushing it over on its side, where it was left wiggling impotently like an overturned turtle.

Primroses.

I was at the railroad station in London, England, when the ambulance train came, says a correspondent, and as the stretchers were gently lifted out I idly picked up a damp little bunch of primroses and wood anemones which had fallen at my feet.

A pair of quick eyes, slightly dimmed with pain, noticed "They're mine, miss, if you don't mind—must have fallen off of my blanket—arms no use at present, as you see."

I made the posy quite safe this time, near enough to his face for the fresh smell of the moss which still clung about the stalks to reach him. I wish that whoever had gathered and tied up all these little posies in some peaceful woodland spot, and sent them with such care to Waterloo labeled, "For the Wounded," could have been standing by my side that night.

Malaria Attacks Army.

The Annales de Medicine says, on the authority of Delille and his coworkers, "that the epidemic of malaria that has affected the armies operating in Macedonia forms, if not the most important, at least one of the most important, epidemics known in history. Not since the armies of Xerxes were decimated by malaria in that same region has there been a situation comparable to that of these modern forces in the Macedonian valleys and marshes. The extreme gravity of the infection, the early and large proportion of pernicious cases, the apparent failure of preventive doses of quinine, the prevalence of malignant tertian malaria and the frequency of hemoglobinuria were special features.

Little Bread Winners.

Before the war 250,000 British schoolchildren under fourteen years of age were working for wages out of school; since the war the number has largely increased. Here are a few instances: A boy of ten working forty-seven and three-quarter hours a week in addition to attending school; a boy of eleven years working two and a half hours before school, two and a half hours after school, and thirteen hours on Saturday; a boy of twelve working one hour before school, one hour at midday, four hours after school, and thirteen hours on Saturday.

Saving Ice.

In response to a request by the food administration that the use of artificial ice be reduced to a minimum, a large hotel of New York city has posted a notice in each room asking that guests use ice sparingly. The result has been a reduction in the calls for ice water. Ammonia is used in large quantities in making artificial ice and, because of the demand for this important chemical in the manufacture of explosives, a shortage has been created.

Appropriate.

Mr. Bacon—Are you through with that bonnet you wore last winter, dear?

Mrs. Bacon—Why, yes.

"May I have it?"

"I suppose so. But what do you want it for?"

"I want to use it on the scare-crow I'm going to put out in the cornfield."

PLAN CLOSER UNION

Movement to Draw English-Speaking Peoples Together.

First Branch of Union to Be Established in America Is in Philadelphia.

Washington.—It is the general feeling that the foundation on which the proposed League of Nations must be built is a complete understanding and friendly co-operation between the two great English-speaking peoples; that on the Americans and the British will fall largely the task of making the world safe for democracy. Realizing this, a group of Americans and Britishers have started a movement to draw the English-speaking peoples of the world closer together in the bond of comradeship and have organized the English-Speaking Union.

The aim of the union is, briefly, to make the English-speaking peoples of the world better known to each other, whether they be Americans, Australians, Canadians, New Zealanders, South Africans, Newfoundlanders or the inhabitants of the British isles and their dependencies. It does not aim at formal alliances, nor is it concerned with the relationship of governments; it is solely and simply a good fellowship movement among the people "who speak the tongue that Shakespeare spake."

The aim of the promoters, American and British, is that no citizen of the English-speaking world should ever feel lonely again after the war, that no American visiting the old country should ever want a friend, and that no Britisher should ever want one in the great republic. They plan to make these peoples better known to each other in various ways—by the interchange of visits, by correspondence, by the printed word, by lectures, by an interchange of professors and preachers, by sporting contests and by every other possible means.

It was Admiral Sims who said the other day that "if only an interchange of 100,000 young men from our leading schools on both sides of the Atlantic could be made annually there would be no possibility of future misunderstandings between us." In 95 per cent of the things that matter the English-speaking peoples, whether they come from the United States, from the British dominions in the far antipodes, or from the mother country, have the same outlook, the same ideals, the same conceptions of right and wrong, the same laws, the same literature. It is only in the remaining 5 per cent of superficial things that they differ.

The first branch of the English-Speaking Union to be established in America is in Philadelphia and the first European branch is in London. Its monthly magazine already has been started.

BRITISH DEFY FOE'S MINES

Invention of Naval Officer Enabled Ships to Push Into Helgoland Bight.

London.—Mines and mine fields were rendered obsolete by the development of the "paravene," the invention of Lieutenant Burnley and consistently urged upon the British navy by Admiral Sir Hedworth Meux. This instrument was officially adopted by the navy early in 1916 and was so successful that special factories were built for its construction.

It is now learned that the British grand fleet on several occasions pushed right into the bight of Helgoland, which, if mines mean anything, would have been a death trap for ships. German experts never solved the mystery. From the time of its adoption to the close of the war only two warships were reported having been sunk by mines. The most recent use of the "paravenes" was on the occasion of British warships entering the Baltic through a closely mine-strewn area. The steel wire mooring ropes of the mines are said to have been cut by the paravenes as a string is cut by scissors.

RAIL RELIC IN JUNK HEAP

Wheels of Locomotive Built by Stephenson for First Railroad in Maine Are to Be Preserved.

Waterville, Me.—On the lawn of the home of Col. Frederick E. Boothby, for many years general passenger agent of the Maine Central railroad, is the wheels of the tender of the first locomotive of the first railroad in Maine—the Bangor, Oldtown & Orono railway, better known as the "Veazie Railroad." The wheels are of oak, with a half-inch iron tire and iron flange. The original engine was called the Pioneer and was imported from England, where it was built by Stephenson. The wheels of the tender were found recently in a junk shop and were turned over to Colonel Boothby.

Arrests Dead Man.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"I thought he was intoxicated," explained Policeman Rapp when the man he had hauled to the police station was found to be dead. The man had slipped and fell on the icy sidewalk, hitting his head on a stone step.

Dead or Alive?

Findlay, O.—Nevada, Wyandot county, calls itself a live town. There are 1,357 dead bodies in the cemetery and only 1,126 live ones in the town.

CONCRETE NOSE ON EAGLE BOATS

New Type of War Craft Equipped With Powerful Light Guns.

CARRY CREW OF EIGHTY MEN

Long, Gaunt Weapon of War, of All-Steel Construction, With the Exception of the Concrete Base—Vessel Is Compact.

Detroit, Mich.—A long, narrow wedge, with a steel-incased nose of solid concrete, tapered to a knifelike edge, forming a considerable part of its total length of 204 feet, and declared to be capable of crushing any submarine—such is the Eagle, designed originally to help rid the seas of the menace of the German U-boats.

Contrary to popular belief, the Eagle is not a motorboat, but an oil-burning, steam turbine-driven craft with a cruising radius of 5,000 miles. The Eagle is not a thing of beauty; beauty was not contemplated in its construction. It is a long, gaunt weapon of war, of all-steel construction, with the exception of the concrete nose.

Another popular impression that has been shattered is an idea that the Eagle boat is equipped with torpedo tubes. The submarine chaser was not intended to combat the major instrument of German ruthlessness with its own weapons. It was designed to depend rather upon its maneuvering qualities, its powerful light guns and a new American invention for directing its fire at unseen objects.

Has Crew of Eighty Men.

Its crew, including operating and fighting complement, numbers approximately 80 men. To the observer, the first impression of the Eagle boat is one of wonder that a craft so narrow can possess buoyancy sufficient to keep it upright in heavy seas. Despite its length of more than an average city block, the craft has a beam of only 25 feet, and draws when fully equipped less than ten feet of water.

Its seaworthiness has been demonstrated in the official trials, according to reports to the navy department. While it is admitted the Eagle does not make the speed of the average destroyer, it is claimed that it can outdistance most submarines and the razor-like edge of the bow silently but eloquently tells what would have happened had it come in contact with the German undersea pirate.

Vessel Is Compact.

Built with utility as its prime purpose, seemingly not an inch of space is wasted in the fitting of the vessel, and not an ounce of superfluous weight enters its construction. When dropped into the water ready for the installation of its engines, guns, etc., less than 200 tons of material have been riveted together to shape the Eagle boat.

The plates that form the shell of the submarine chasers vary in thickness from one-fourth to three-eighths inch, and not a single forging or rolled beam enters their makeup. Everything is pressed from sheet metal, cold, by means of machinery that cuts every piece to an exact pattern, punches rivet holes and bends the interior part to required shape.

Amidships rises the deckhouse, topped by the pilot-house, with radio quarters, and above all the conning tower, with the crow's nest at the highest point. Except for this superstructure, the deck of the Eagle carries always the "stripped-for-action" appearance.

GERMANS COULDN'T KILL HIM

Yank's Name on Casualty List Eight Times, Now He's Home Safe and Sound.

Fitchburg, Mass.—Sergt. Gordon W. Hardy is one of Uncle Sam's soldiers that the Huns couldn't kill. Eight times his name was on the casualty list, but now he's back home safe and sound. Seven times he was wounded. Twice he was gassed by mustard gas. He spent nine weeks in a German prison camp, from which he made a daring escape. Hardy was one of the first 30,000 American soldiers on the firing line in France and he served with two United States divisions which were practically wiped out. This twenty-three-year-old lad has been complimented by General Pershing for bravery. He declined to try for a commission. "I wanted to be in action all the time and not scratching my desk with spurs," he said.

SEA CAPTAIN GIVEN MEDAL

Capt. William Finch of the White Star Line Honored by King George for Brave Work.

Boston.—Hundreds of marine friends in this country of Capt. William ("Foggy") Finch of the White Star line, will be interested to learn that he is the recipient of the medal of the British empire, presented by the king for brave work during the war. Captain Finch went down with the liner Arabic when she was torpedoed, but was rescued. In command of the Adriatic and Baltic he transported thousands of American soldiers overseas.

END TERROR BY ZEPPELIN RAIDS

Explosive Bullets Fired by British Airmen Conquer Hun Airships.

HAD OWN WAY FOR WHILE

Until Invention of New Weapon German Gas Bags Roamed About Over England at Will, Weather Permitting.

London.—Britain conquered the Zeppelins with explosive bullets. Until the invention of this weapon Zeppelins roamed about over England at will, weather permitting. The air raid upon London was a Zeppelins. This was May 31 1915 until the explosive bullet defense work the Germans used in their rigid gas bags as the ure dictated. The British Zeppelins then for counter ...ed the airplanes they found helpless because they could not high enough quickly enough.

On one occasion when Zeppelins were above the city Britishers ...ed, as usual, went up to engage them. But the British fliers could only attain 15,000 feet altitude. There ...ere looking up at the Zeppelins above them the machine guns on airplanes hung as useless as toy pistols. That is the real reason why Britain built fast, high-climbing airplanes. She had to outdo the Zepps. She won, soon having airplanes that could reach 20,000 feet or more, above which distance Zeppelins could not work effectively. These high-climbing fighting planes, together with the explosive and incendiary bullets, made England too hot for the airing of a Zepp.

Lead Zeppelin Raids.

The leader of the Zeppelin raids on London was Commander Peter Strasser, who had unbounded hatred for England. He had an iron nerve and in Germany was regarded as an authority on air raids against England. He met his death on August 4, last year, in the Huns' largest Zeppelin, off the English coast. An explosive bullet ended his journey.

To keep out of range of ordinary anti-aircraft fire the Germans enlarged their Zeppelins from 750,000 to about 2,500,000 cubic feet, thus increasing ascent abilities. But this was quickly countered by improved defense methods in Britain. The Zepps carried about 4,500 pounds of bombs each.

The first time the Zeppelins visited London the people took it as a great joke, flocking to the housetops to see the incendiary bombs that were dropped. Only six persons were killed in the initial raid, although 90 incendiary bombs were heaved overboard.

The men in the later type of Zeppelins were provided with parachutes. The captain and navigating personnel were supposed to jump from the forward gondola and the crew, generally about twenty men, from the engine and midship cabins. In the face of disaster, however, there is no record of any member of a Zeppelin crew having saved himself by this means, either because the machine became too quickly enveloped in flames or fell too rapidly for the parachute to open out.

The Zeppelins usually set out from Germany in the morning and timed their arrival off the English coast about dusk. The fate of Strasser's ship was sealed because he arrived too early, being spotted above the horizon by a British lookout.

Penetrate Heart of England.

There evidently was no concerted action among the Zeppelin raiders, each acting more or less independently. They selected targets upon which they could unload their bombs uninterruptedly, if possible, and then flee. They often penetrated into the heart of England.

Six Zeppelins were brought down in England, the first by Lieut. L. ... Robison at Cuffley. He was awarded the Victoria Cross. The incendiary machine gun bullets which he used had been issued for the first time on the day before the raid, September 2, 1916. The second Zeppelin brought down in flames at Great ...sted. Out of 13 Zeppelins which ...ed England October 19, 1917, the Germans lost four. One descended almost intact near Mersea island at the northeast corner of Essex. Another was brought down in ... near Potter's Bar, and two others ...pelins were forced to land, but the crews destroyed their ships.

After Germany saw the futility of sending Zeppelins against explosive bullets (and Zeppelins could not be protected against that device) she instituted Gotha raids.

But Britain beat her at her own game.

Beware of Stocking Bank.

Tarentum, Pa.—Grocers who feared thieves and had little faith in their strong boxes were sometimes known to hide their receipts overnight in the beans, but it took a local man to disclose that dry goods merchants sometimes use stockings for the purpose. As usual, the stocking as a bank proved a failure. The store doors were thoughtlessly opened too early one day recently and a customer made away with a real Christmas stocking with $117 concealed in the foot.

DANDRUFF MAKES HAIR FALL OUT

A small bottle of "Danderine" keeps hair thick, strong, beautiful.

Girls! Try this! Doubles beauty of your hair in a few moments.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine for a few cents at any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all—you surely can have beautiful hair and lots of it if you will just try a little Danderine.—Adv.

Remarkable, Indeed

The other evening the little girl in question suddenly seeing one of Charleston's "finest" coming down the street said to her mother:

"Oh, mother, did you know that policemen have wives?"

"What's that, dear?" queried the mother in a tone that implied to the child's ears disbelief.

"Well, they have," said the little one, "'cause I saw a woman and she was a policeman's wife. I didn't know they had wives either until I saw her."—Charleston (W. Va.) Mail.

CREAM FOR CATARRH OPENS UP NOSTRILS

Tells How to Get Quick Relief from Head-Colds. It's Splendid!

In one minute your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffling, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night, your cold or catarrh will be gone.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh—Relief comes so quickly.—Adv.

Magnificent Royal Residence

The most notable architectural feature of Buckingham palace is the grand staircase of white marble, which leads to the state apartments. These magnificent suites are filled with priceless objects of art and historical interest presented to the British monarchs by the royal visitors of many generations.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use for Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

Mean Rejoinder.

Mrs. Benham—"Some women suffer in silence." Benham—"If they keep silent they certainly suffer."

The success of one man is sometimes due to the failure of many.

When Your Eyes Need Care Try Murine Eye Remedy

No Smarting—Just Eye Comfort. 60 cents at Druggists or mail. Write for Free Eye Book. MURINE EYE REMEDY CO., CHICAGO

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

CHAPTER TWELVE (Continued.)

"Yes, here they are." Hardy handed over a sheaf of the gruesome pictures, and Stone scanned them eagerly. Yet their gruesomeness lay largely in the idea that the subject of them was not a living person—for in appearance they were by no means unpleasant to look at. The face of Miss Carrington was serene and smiling, her wide open eyes, though staring, were filled with a lifelike wonder, not at all an expression of fright or terror.

"You see," volunteered Hardy, "she was sitting there, admiring herself, and happily smiling, when the villain sneaked up behind her and gave her that crack over the head."

"But she was already dead when she was hit on the head."

"So the doctors think, but I believe they're mistaken. Why, there's no theory that would account for hitting a dead person!"

"And yet, that is what happened. No, Hardy, the doctors are not mistaken about the hour of death, and about the poison in her system and all that. But the most obvious and most important clue, for the moment, is that blackjack. Just where was it found?"

"Right here, Mr. Stone, under the edge of this couch. Hidden on purpose, of course."

"No, I think not. Dropped by the burglar, rather, when he was startled by something unexpected. You see, he doubtless stood here, where the powder is dusted about, and, to drop the thing quickly, it would fall or be flung just there where it was found."

"Yes, but what scared him if he didn't hear anything?"

"Something that frightened him so terribly that he fled without taking the jewels he had come for. Something that made him make quick, straight tracks for the door and downstairs and out, by the way he had entered."

"Good, Lord! Say, Mr. Stone, you think it was that make believe Count, don't you?"

"Why make believe?"

"Oh, somehow, I feel sure he's a fake. He's not the real thing—or I'm greatly mistaken!"

"Let me see that glove found in her hand. Have you it with you?"

Hardy had brought some of the exhibits held by the police, and, taking the glove from his bag, he handed it to Fleming Stone.

Stone looked at the glove hastily, but, raising it to his nose, smelled of it very carefully.

"No," he said, returning it, "no, the Count is not the man who wielded the blackjack. I'm fairly certain of that."

"Well, I'm blessed if I can see how you know by smelling! By the way, Mr. Stone, I suppose you heard all about the conversation that Miss Frayne related as taking place in this room after 1 o'clock that night?"

"Yes, I've read the full account of it. What do you think about it?"

"Oh, I think it was the Count talking to Miss Carrington before he killed her. He has a very low voice, and speaks almost inaudibly always. Then, you see, he is down in her will for $10,000 of those bonds, and he's very fond of pearls——"

"What's that? Who said he was fond of pearls?"

"Oh, maybe you didn't hear about that. Why, Miss Frayne remembered afterward that another sentence she heard Miss Carrington say was: 'I know how very fond you are of pearls.' She forgot that speech in her evidence, but found it afterward in the written account she had of what she overheard at the door. And his countship is fond of pearls. He talked a lot about those the lady wore that last evening. He says himself pearls are a hobby with him."

"So you really think the Count was in this room that night?"

"Surely I do. It's no insult to the lady's memory to say so. She had a right to receive him in her boudoir if she chose to do so. It's no secret that she was trying to annex him, and he was not entirely unwilling. You see—the way I dope it out—she had him up here to show off her stunning jewels, and so tempt him on to a declaration that she couldn't seem to work him up to otherwise. You know she said, 'Tomorrow these may all be yours, if you will only ——' or some words to that effect. What could all that mean, except as I have indicated? And she said, 'You are the game I'm after'—those weren't the words, I know, but it meant that."

"However, I can't think the Count struck that awful blow that fractured her skull. Villain he may be, even a murderous one, but that blackjack business, to my mind, points to a lower type of brain, a more thick skinned criminal."

Stone spoke musingly, looking about the room as he talked.

"Could it be," he went on, "that she was talking to herself? Or, say, to a picture—a photograph of somebody? I don't see any photographs about."

Both men looked around, but there were no portraits to be seen.

"Funny," said Hardy: "most women have photographs of their family or relatives all over the place. Not even one of Miss Stuart or of her nephew, Loria."

"No, nor any of absent friends or schoolmates." Stone looked over all the silver paraphernalia of the dressing table and other tables for even a small framed photograph that might have escaped notice, but found none. On the walls hung only gilt framed water colors or photographs of famous bits of art or architecture in dark wood frames. Many of these were of old world masterpieces, Italian cathedrals or Egyptian temples. Others were a well known Madonna, a Venus of Milo, and one at which Hardy exclaimed: "She's a sure enough peach! Who's she?"

"That's Cleopatra, starting on her Nile trip," said Stone, smiling at Hardy's evident admiration.

"'Tis, eh? Then Loria brought it to her. He's daffy over anything Egyptian. And he's mighty generous. The house is full of the stuff he brings or sends over, and it's his money, Mr. Stone, that pays your damages. Miss Stuart, now, she's none too free handed, they say."

But Fleming Stone paid little heed to this gossip. He was studying the photographs of the dead lady as being of far more interest than pictures on the boudoir walls.

"Where's that maid?" he said suddenly; "the one who brought the breakfast tray——"

"She's in the sanatorium," returned Hardy; "we told you that, Mr. Stone."

"Yes, yes, I know. But where? Can I see her? Now, at once!"

"Yes, I suppose so. It's right near here. A small private affair, only a few patients. They needn't really have sent her, but she carried on so Miss Stuart wouldn't have her about any longer."

"Come, let us go there." As he spoke, Fleming Stone left the room, and, without waiting for the hurrying Hardy, ran downstairs and was in the hall getting into his great coat when the other joined him.

So great was Hardy's faith in his superior, and so anxious was he to watch his methods, that he donned his own overcoat without a word, and the two set forth.

It was only a short walk, and on the way Stone looked about in every direction, asking innumerable questions about the neighboring houses and their occupants.

After passing several large and handsome estates they came to a district of less elaborate home and after that to a section of decidedly poorer residences. At one of these Stone stared hard, but not till they were well past it did he inquire who lived there.

"Dunno," replied Hardy; "it's a sort of boarding house, I think, for the lower classes."

"Is it?" said Stone, and they went on.

At the sanatorium they found Estelle. She was not hysterical now, but was in a sort of apathetic mood, and listless of manner.

Stone spoke to her with polite address and a manner distinctly reassuring.

"It will be much better for you, Estelle," he said pleasantly, "if you will speak the truth. Better for you, and better for——you know whom."

His significant tone roused her. "I don't know who you mean," she exclaimed.

"Oh, yes, you do! somebody whose name begins with H, or B, or S."

"I don't know any one beginning with S," and Estelle frowned defiantly.

"But some one with——" Stone leaned forward, and in the tense pause that followed Estelle's lips half formed a silent "B."

"Yes," went on Stone, as if he had not paused. "If you will tell the whole truth, it will be better for Bates in the long run."

Estelle began to tremble. "What do you know?" she cried out, and showed signs of hysteria.

"I know a great deal," said Stone, gravely, "and unless assisted by what you know, my knowledge will bring trouble to your friend."

"What do you want me to tell you?" and Estelle, now on her guard, spoke slowly and clearly, but her fingers were nervously twining themselves in and out of her crumpled handkerchief.

"Only your own individual part in the proceedings. The rest we will learn from Bates himself."

"How do you know it was Bates?"

"We have learned much since you left Garden Steps," and now Stone spoke a little more sternly. Hardy looked at him in wonder. Who was this Bates, clearly implicated in the murder, and known to Estelle?

"You see, Mr. Haviland saw you go down to open the window for him to come in," Stone went on, as casually as if he were retailing innocent gossip. "Did you go down again and close it?"

"I haven't said I opened it yet," and Estelle flashed an irate glance at her questioner.

"No, but you will do so when you realize how necessary it is. I tell you truly, when I say that only your honesty now can save your friend Bates from the electric chair."

Estelle shuddered and began to cry violently.

"That only makes matters worse," said Stone patiently. "Listen to me. This is your only chance to save Bates' life. If I go to the police with what I know, they will convict him of the murder beyond all doubt. If you tell me what I ask, I think—I hope—between us, we can prove that he did not do it."

"But didn't he?" and Estelle looked up with hope dawning in her eyes.

"I think not. Now there's no time to waste. Tell me what I ask or you will lose your chance to do so. You opened the living room window for Bates to come in, at about 3 o'clock?"

"Yes," admitted the girl.

"And went down and closed and fastened it at——"

"Five o'clock," came in lowest tones.

"Not knowing that Miss Carrington was dead?"

"Oh, no!"

"For Bates went there only to steal the jewels?"

"Yes."

"And so, when you took the breakfast tray, and found the lady—as you did find her—you were frightened out of your wits, and dropped the tray?"

"Yes."

"And so, to shield Bates, whom you thought had killed her, you lied right and left, even trying to incriminate Miss Stuart?"

"Yes, sir.'

"Have you seen Bates since?"

"No, sir."

"And until now you have thought he killed your mistress?"

"I didn't know."

"Another thing, Estelle; you put bromide in the glass of milk in order that Miss Carrington might sleep soundly, and not hear Bates come in?"

"She didn't drink that milk!"

"But you fixed it, thinking she would?"

"Yes."

"That's all. Come on, Hardy," and somewhat unceremoniously Stone took leave, and made for the nearest telephone station.

After that, matters whizzed. Stone had called the police headquarters and asked that an officer be sent with a warrant for the arrest of Bates.

"How do you know where he is?" asked Hardy, nearly bursting with curiosity.

"I'm not sure, but at least I know where to start looking for him," Stone replied, as the two went back the way they had come.

Stone stopped at the boarding house he had noticed on the way to the sanatorium, and rang the bell.

Sure enough, Bates lived there and Bates was at home.

At Stone's first questions he broke down and confessed to the assault with the blackjack.

"But I didn't kill her!" he cried, "she was already dead! Oh, my God! can I ever forget those terrible, staring eyes! The saints forgive me! I was half crazy. There she was, dead, and yet smiling and happy looking! Oh, sir, what does it all mean?"

XIII.

BATES, THE BURGLAR.

Brought before the magistrate, Bates told a coherent though amazing story.

It seems he was Estelle's lover, and had long ago persuaded her to let him know when Miss Carrington had a quantity of jewelry in the house, that he might essay a robbery. The plan was simple. Estelle had promised to slip downstairs at 3 o'clock and raise a window for his entrance, and later, but before any one else was about, she was to slip down and lock it again. In the meantime, they assumed, the burglary would be quietly accomplished, their supposition being that Miss Carrington would be asleep in her bedroom, and the boudoir easy of access.

"You entered by the window, then, at what time?" asked Stone, who was doing most of the questioning.

"At 3:45 in the morning," replied Bates, and all noted that this was shortly before the hour when Mrs. Frothingham saw through her field glass a man leaving by the same window.

"You went directly up the stairs?"

"Yes; Estelle had often told me the lay of the rooms, and I went straight to the lady's boodore."

"You carried with you a blackjack. Did you have murder in your heart?"

"That I did not! I took that, thinkin' if the lady woke up and screamed, I'd just give her a tap that would put her to sleep without hurtin' her at all, at all. I'm no murderer, sir, and I'm confessin' my attempt at burglary, and—and assault, so I won't be accused of a greater crime."

"That's right, Bates, it'll be better for you to be perfectly truthful. Now, what did you see when you entered the room?"

"I had stepped inside and shut the door before I saw anything, and then I turned to see the lady's face, but in the mirrow. I was behind her, and in the glass I saw her smilin' face, and, of course, I thought she was alive, and that she saw me. I knew she'd scream in a minute, and the sight of all the jewels gleamin' on her neck drove me fair crazy with greed, I suppose, and I up with my sandbag and hit her head, not meanin' to hit hard enough to kill her, but only to knock her unconscious like."

"And then?"

"The blow smashed the big comb she was wearin', but she didn't move nor fall over. She was leanin' back in her big chair, and she jest sat there, and kept on smilin'. My knees shook like the ague, for I thought it was magic, or that my eyes was deceivin' me. There was no sound anywhere, and I stood starin' at that smilin' face and she starin' back at me! I nearly screamed out myself! But I bucked up, and thinkin' that she was struck unconscious so quick her face didn't change, I made to take off some of the jewels I was after. I touched her neck and it was cold! The lady was dead! Had been dead some time, I was sure, 'cause she was so cold and stiff. I trembled all over, but my only thought then was to get out. Not for $1,000,000 would I touch them sparklers! There ain't often a burglar who is ghoul enough to rob a corpse! Leastways, I'm not. I wouldn't! I wouldn't! I'm a tough and a bad egg generally, but I wouldn't steal from no corpse! Not I!"

"So you left the house at once?"

"That I did, as fast as my tremblin' legs could get me downstairs. I was clean daft. I couldn't make it out and I didn't try. I thought it was the devil's own work, somehow, but how, I didn't know. My mind was full makin' my escape. I ran like the old boy was after me, and, reachin' home, I hid under me bedclothes and groaned all night. Full a week went by, and I begun to breathe easy, thinkin' I'd never be suspected of a hand in it, when up comes this gentleman and says I done it. Well, I've told the truth now, and I'm relieved to get it off my chest."

(Continued Next Week)

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERI

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels needs a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach ache, throat, diarrhœa, full of cold, give teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of little bowels without griping and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative" they love its delicious taste, and always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

WHERE HER DADDY BELONG

Evidently a New Fraternal Order Which Little Has So Far Been Heard.

Helen Perry, age eleven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Perry, [illegible] Windale avenue, had a tooth pulled. She was sitting in the dentist's chair, pale of both fright and pain and soon tears rolled down her cheeks. A moose head on the wall of the office caught her attention and she confided to the dentist that her papa belonged to the same order.

"He's an Eagle, too, and a——" she could not recall the name of the other order to which her father belonged, the Stags.

She sat in a quandary for a few moments, probably trying to recall the names of all wild animals and birds she had ever heard. Finally she had an inspiration.

"He's a skunk," she announced, pleased at the infallibility of her memory.—Indianapolis News.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! Nobody can possibly tell that you darken your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.—Adv.

Had Heard It Before.

"Mrs. Woppit, could I persuade you to wait another week for your rent?"

"I don't know, Mr. Filbbit. How do I know if you'll keep your promise and pay me next week?"

"I'm a gentleman, ma'am."

"That sounds nice, now, don't it? My husband calls himself a gentleman. My husband calls himself a gentleman. That's why I have to run a lodging house."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and leave a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

The Sort.

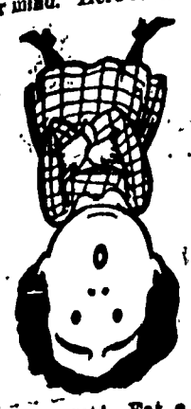
"He is using strong arguments against the use of natural gas."

"Ah! Illuminating speeches?"

STOMACH UPSET?

's DIAPEPSIN AT ONCE ENDS DYSPEPSIA, ACIDITY, GAS, INDIGESTION.

r meals hit back! Your stomach , acid, gassy and you feel bloat- after eating or you have heavy e of indigestion pain or headache, never mind. Here is instant relief.



n't stay upset! Eat a tablet of 's Diapepsin and immediately the stion, gases, acidity and all stom- distress ends.

's Diapepsin tablets are the sur- quickest stomach relievers in the . They cost very little at drug . Adv.

Corsets for South Sea Belles.

ere is a big demand for corsets the natives of the South seas, ac- to the head salesman of a corset firm in the United States, left for Tahiti recently. The mer carried a consignment of 00 corsets, which will be stocked the various dealers scattered the South Pacific. The demand this belt has more than doubled in years.

pimples, headache, bad breath by taking Also, Jaisp rolled into a tiny sugar called Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Adv.

he man who forgets a favor seldom gives an injury.

ty of exercise, fresh air, ular hours—is all the pre- ription you need to avoid nfluenza—unless through glect or otherwise, a cold s you. Then take—at nce ld cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet —safe, sure, no opiates—breaks up a cold hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money fails. The genuine box has a Red top Mr. Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.

HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

TED OFFICIAL PRAISES THE NEW STOMACH RELIEF

best ho fill the C. P. Grandfield's Testimonial EATONIC Is Evidence of Its Real Worth

Not often does a Postal Service Official put himself on record in this way. And that no less a personage than Hon. C. P. Grandfield, the first Assistant Postmaster under Taft, is the one who testifies to the value of EATONIC and its beneficial results, places EATONIC above the ordinary so-called stomach cures and indicates that here, at last, is something that will relieve all forms of stomach misery—indigestion, flatulence, heartburn, acid or gassy stomach. The letter, free of all unnecessary words, is printed below. It hits the nail squarely on the head. Any sufferer from stomach misery should do as he tells them.

Washington, D. C.

"Too much praise cannot be given EATONIC. Its beneficial results are astonishing.

Very truly yours,
C. P. GRANDFIELD."

The secret: EATONIC takes up the acidity, drives the gas out of the body and the Heartburn Goes With It! It is guaranteed to bring relief or you get your money back! Only a cent or two a day to use it. Get a box from your druggist.

n't Ruin Your By Neglecting a Retained Afterbirth

Many ews but many are ruined by such Give DR. DAVID ROBERTS' Cow Cleaner before and after freshening. It will positively prevent and overcome this trouble. At our dealers or Postpaid $1.00. Consult Dr. DAVID ROBERTS about all animal ailments. Information free. Send for price list of medicines and get a FREE "The Cattle Specialist" with full information. DR. DAVID ROBERTS VET. CO., 100 Grand Ave., Waukesha, Wis.

rning Soldiers particulars how to make $10 day selling Rawleigh's Products. Old established demand. Business healthy, pleasant, permanent. Give references. W. T. RAWLEIGH Department WUN; Freeport, Ill.

One Treatment with Cuticura Clears Dandruff

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 & 50. Talcum 25. Sold throughout the world. Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston.

FARMERS HAIR BALSAM

A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair. 60c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

Western Canadian Wheat Lands—This English Company has for sale retail or otherwise at reasonable prices 30,000 acres raw land in the famous Goose Country; write for particulars to Kindersley Lands, 717 Lindsay Bldg. Winnipeg, Manitoba.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 10-1919

PROHIBITION'S AFTERMATH.

When the wave of ratification of the prohibition amendment was sweeping the country the statement was made that prohibition would increase the use of opium and cocaine. This statement is incorrect. The effect will be just to the contrary. The succession of drug habits is as follows—tobacco, alcohol, opium, cocaine.

A man generally starts the use of drugs by smoking cigarets. Presently that drug loses the kick and he goes to a larger, stronger dose of tobacco. That leads to alcohol. After a while he wants a stronger kick than he can get from alcohol and he takes on opium or some of its derivatives. When opium no longer gives the sensation that is satisfactory he goes to cocaine.

Not every drug addict follows in these steps in their regular order. Many shortcut and some begin differently, or having begun differently progress differently. Some opium users do not and never have used alcohol, but the fact that there are exceptions does not disturb the rule. The institutions which treat the morphine and cocaine habits stress the necessity of keeping away from the use of alcohol. Some authorities who treat the whisky habit insist upon the discontinuance of tobacco.

Prohibition of the use of alcohol practically has been operative for several years. For a number of years there has been practical prohibition of the use of opium. The opium user now depends on the bootlegger.

Now we are to have prohibition of the use of alcohol. The opponents of the prohibition amendment would have us think that making whisky difficult to get will cause men to take up a new habit calling for a drug not as more difficult to get. The answer is, first, that it is not good physiology. The science of the thing teaches us that when we break the alcohol link we throw the links beyond that out of operation. When we shorten one step in a progression the tendency is for the progression to stop. Some of the people who, having become hardened to whisky, take up morphine under the old order, under the new will not become addicted to anything.

The second part of the answer is that it has not worked out that way. The prohibition of cocaine and opium has not increased the amount of alcohol addiction. Nor has it increased the number of opium and cocaine addicts.

The states and cities where there has been prohibition of alcohol for a number of years have had no increase in the use of opium and its derivatives and cocaine. That there will be an increase in bootlegging is of course true.

Snow.

The snow is deep as thunder all round me, as I write the lands apes buried under a dazzling robe of white. And harshly I berate it, and wish that it would go, for I detest and hate at the dreary driven snow. I view the snow with loathing, it gives me gumps and blues; it gets into my clothing and slides into my shoes. It hides the slippy places upon the concrete walk I fall and bust my traces, and slide around a block. It brings back old diseases, the worst that ever grew, it stirs me up to sneezes, and resurrects the "flu." It is because I'm aging, my hourglass running low, that I am vainly raging against the white some snow. I'm getting old and cranky and fits I often throw, that's why I blink the blanky and blitzenstated snow. I'd give a million dollars if I could be the boy who whoops and hollers in wild ecstatic joy. He thinks the snow a blessing, he gurgles with delight, as down the street he's pressing, neck deep in spotless white. And once like him I liked it, and wished 'twould never melt, and through the drifts I hiked it, and didn't freeze my pelt. But now my brains are kinks from years and work and woe, and so I blank the blinky and everlasting snow.

Woodrow and the King.

From Sunset Magazine.

Man is a queer critter. Apparently he loves to make him a fetish and then of it on his belly and beat his fool on the ground in abject submission. See the dawn of history men have made and unmade kings as easily as a child makes mud pies. They have lifted each to the number on the throne worshiped him, trembled at his power, kissed his feet and, tiring of him, they have often slain him as the ox is slaughtered. Again and again they have proved that kings are common clay depending for their prerogative solely upon the acquiescence of their equals, yet the worshiping of individuals as though they were personages of the Deity has continued to this day.

Woodrow Wilson's greatness as a humble subject of the mighty British king. Woodrow Wilson sat at the king's table, the elected representative of the richest, most powerful nation on earth. Woodrow Wilson addressed the king. But he did not say "Your majesty" or "Your royal highness." Knowing that the elected head of 100,000,000 people occupies a more exalted position than the hereditary, titular and nominal ruler of 40,000,000, knowing the hollow emptiness of royal pomp and trappings, knowing the character of the common clay of which kings are made, Woodrow Wilson declined by humble speech to give homage where none was due and smashed another precedent and addressed the king as plain "Sir" and "You."

Italy's Gift.

From the Christian Science Monitor.

A gift, a combination of beauty and rarity, is to be made to President Wilson by the Italian government. If reports speak true, the gift consists of an antique and beautiful painting which has only just come to light. The rarity, for a newly discovered painting (even if beautiful) is not exactly an uncommon thing in Italy, consists in the extraordinary fact that this painting was made on a piece of the sail of the caravel on which Christopher Columbus embarked on the voyage which resulted in his discovery of America. Nothing more appropriate could have been presented to President Wilson; certainly no discovery of a buried bit of antiquity was ever more apropos.

A Permanent Arrangement.

From Bindery Talk.

Two colored men, comparative strangers, were in the same seat of a day coach en route to a penitentiary.

"How long you goin' up for, boy?" inquired the first one by way of making conversation.

"Three years," was the reply.

"What was it you done?"

"Oh, they claimed I took some money. What'd you do?"

"I got mixed up with a fellow who was trifflin' with mah wife."

"And how long they sent you up for?"

"From now on."

RHEUMATISM IS PAIN ONLY, RUB IT AWAY

Instant relief from pain, soreness, stiffness following a rubbing with "St Jacobs Liniment."

Stop "doctoring" rheumatism.

It's pain only—not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St Jacobs Liniment" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. "St Jacobs Liniment" enquers pain! It is a painless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache, neuralgia and reduces swelling.

Limber up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Liniment" from any drug store, and in a moment you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.—Adv.

Forest Waste.

We have used up about half the forests we originally possessed. Although there are forest associations in nearly every state, supplemented by the work of the national forest service, we are using up timber faster than it grows. The saw mill wastes amount to 50 per cent of the tree. Forest fires cause a loss of $275,000,000 to $500,000,000 yearly. There are 147 national forests in the United States, consisting of [illegible] acres.—Thrift Magazine.

WHY WOMEN DREAD OLD AGE

Don't worry about old age. Don't worry about being in other people's way when you are getting on in years. Keep your body in good condition and you can be as hale and hearty in your old days as you were when a kid, and every one will be glad to see you.

The kidneys and bladder are the causes of senile afflictions. Keep them clean and in proper working condition. Drive the poisonous wastes from the system and avoid uric acid accumulations. Take GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules periodically and you will find that the system will always be in perfect working order. Your spirits will be enhanced, your muscles made strong and your face have once more the look of youth and health.

New life, fresh strength and health will come as you continue this treatment. When your first vigor has been restored continue for awhile taking a capsule or two each day. They will keep you in condition and prevent a return of your troubles.

There is only one guaranteed brand of Haarlem Oil Capsules, GOLD MEDAL. There are many fakes on the market. Be sure you get the Original GOLD MEDAL Imported Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are the only reliable. For sale by all first-class druggists.—Adv.

All Laid Out.

"Yes," said the Englishman, about to visit America, "I'm going over country rights, Old Top."

"Indeed and what is your part?" asked the clubman.

"Well, I think I shall [illegible] New York, take my fub, don't you know, put in the morning at Colorado Springs and Yellowstone Valley, do Yellowstone Park and Point Beach in the afternoon and spend the evening at Atlanta City. Any space to see I have don't you know, I suppose around Chicago and Duluth, eh?"—Atlanta Constitution.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Full directions for making and use come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked faded gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

Some men are regular as the hands of a clock, but their habits are bad.

He who has to seek the help of a lawyer has to pay for it.

Weekly Health Talks

What Is the Cause of Backache?

BY DOCTOR CORNELL

Backache is perhaps the most common ailment from which women suffer. Rarely do you find anybody free from it. Sometimes the cause is obscure, but Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., a high medical authority, says the cause is very often a form of catarrh that settles in the delicate membranes of the feminine organs. When these organs are inflamed, the first symptom is backache, accompanied by bearing down sensations, weakness, unhealthy discharges, irregularity, painful periods, irritation, headache and a general run-down condition. Any woman in this condition is to be pitied, but pity does not cure. The trouble calls for Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which is a separate and distinct medicine for women.

It is made of roots and herbs put up without alcohol or opiate of any kind, for Dr. Pierce uses nothing else in his prescription. Favorite Prescription is a natural remedy for women, for the vegetable growths of which it is made seem to have been intended by Nature for that very purpose. Thousands of girls and women, young and old, have taken it, and thousands have written grateful letters to Dr. Pierce saying it made them well. In taking Favorite Prescription, it is reassuring to know that it goes straight to the cause of the trouble. There is but one way to overcome sickness, and that is to overcome the cause. That is precisely what Favorite Prescription is intended to do.

Send 10c for trial pkg. of Tablets. Address Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Constipated women, as well as men, are advised by Dr. Pierce to take Pellets. They are just splendid for [illegible] tiveness.

PYORRHOEA.

Replying to a request to discuss receding gums, their cause, treatment and relation to pyorrhea, I may say that pyrrhoea alveolaris cannot be completely covered in an article of 500 words. It was formerly known as Riggs' disease, which means that it was known long before it was understood. If this were the only reason for changing the name, however, we would still be calling it Riggs' disease.

Children lose their teeth because of decay. Adults lose theirs because of pyorrhea. Ask the next person you meet whom you know to be wearing a plate how he lost his teeth. The chance is that he will answer pyorrhoea.

There is no connection between pyorrhoea and decay, for the former is just as liable to cause the loss of a good tooth as of a decayed one—in fact a little more so.

It is a disease of the gums. It generally starts around some one tooth and remains local for a considerable time. It usually spreads from the starting point to the gums around other teeth, but not by continguity of gums—for instance, having started around a lower second molar on the left side, instead of next appearing in the adjacent first molar as likely as not it will next manifest itself in a canine on the upper right side.

Primarily, it is not a suppurative process. But suppuration of the infected gums is a prominent symptom in a well developed case of pyorrhea. The starting point is not tartar on the teeth or deposits on the roots below the gum margin. But in a well developed case of pyorrhea such deposits are much in evidence and no case of pyorrhoea can be cured without cleaning of the teeth and their roots as an early start treatment.

Looseness of the teeth is a prominent symptom. In some cases it is an early symptom. I have in mind now a woman with even, clean, well kept teeth who had her mouth gone over in the autumn, according to her habit, without having any evidence of pyorrhoea, yet who found a tooth "loose enough to drop out" two months later.

Pyorrhoea was important enough when we knew of no harm resulting from it except the loss of sound teeth. Now we accuse this disease of the teeth of being responsible for much anemia, some pernicious anemia, a fair share of the rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia.

Pyorrhoea is somewhat in the same category as consumption and cancer, in that it is curable if taken early, but it is hopelessly incurable if it has been neglected for a long time.

The treatment of pyorrhoea consists above all else in local treatment of the teeth and gums by dentists. Emetine and preparations of mercury are injected around the roots with advantage. An ipecac mouth wash is of service.

The New History.

From the Hartford Times.

In a time when history was not omitted even from the secondary grade of education, there were textbooks known as "universal histories." Superficial they were, of necessity. They began with some conscientious attempt to locate and describe the cradle of the race, and sought to cover the ground to the end of the presidential administration which the author found in operation when he got to his last chapter. They couldn't get any depth, but they did give a general sort of view of what has happened on the old earth in the time of man. What history did repeat in them was consecutive and in a manner illuminating.

Of course they were too much for our specialized age to endure. With the elective model of education in fashion, with every shaper of his own educational destiny determined "to cut out nonessentials" and drive for one end, universal history went to the discard. The crusader for the classics, his shadow growing less, delved in the history of Greece and Rome and the nations which led up to them, and deemed it permissible to get the rest of his historical information from the newspapers. The elector of an "English course" eliminated everything but the history of the United States, if he might. The technical student might hap on English or European, or possibly American history, but of necessity he specialized. No spreading out for him.

But now the professor of political science of the University of London brings us up with a round turn. The events of four centuries, or some such matter as that, crowded into four years, have made so much history that this can no longer be an incidental study of the schools. We must give it serious attention. All the world has been jammed together, shaken up and jumbled. It all comes out of the process, or will come now, and we must in any reasonable sort of education, give serious attention to getting acquainted with it.

Yes, we have had a war. It has brought the world into one manner of thought made it small, brought its people together. They must proceed to get acquainted, whether we call the process history or whatever we call it.

Ocean Shore for Lake.

From Publicity Bulletin.

The movement "to bring the shore of the Atlantic ocean to the center of the continent," which had its inception in Superior three years ago, will see its first definite progress toward realization at the annual rivers and harbors congress to be held in Washington February 5 to 7. Laid aside due to the war, and not forgotten although dormant during the years the conflict has raged, the coming of peace has found new vigor in the original supporters and a rapidly growing list of backers. Cities and states throughout the middle west and west which would directly benefit by the deepening of the waterways between the great lakes and the ocean are evincing an interest which those most active expect to take the form of representation at the Washington conference.

An organization having for its sole purpose the improvement of the canals between the great lakes and the sea, so that trans-Atlantic freighters may readily traverse them, will be launched at the February meeting as a nation-wide body. Vice presidents appointed for each participating state will head organizations in their own commonwealths. These will secure speakers and engineer such other activities as may be needed to create the needed interest in the project.

Paging.

From the New York American.

A bellhop passed through the hall of the hotel, whistling loudly.

"Young man," said the manager, sternly, "you should know that it is against the rules of this hotel for an employe to whistle while on duty."

"I am not whistling, sir," replied the boy. "I'm paging Mrs. Jones' dog."

Wild boar hunting has become a popular sport among officers of the American army of occupation in the hills along the Rhine in the region of Remagen.

Relieved of Catarrh Due to La Grippe, Thanks to

PERUNA

Mrs. Laura Berberick, 69 years old, of 1205 Willow Ave., Hoboken, N. J., writes:

"Four years ago I had a severe attack of La Grippe. After my sickness I was troubled with hoarseness and slime in the head and throat, and was told I had Catarrh. I took some medicine but without much benefit. Every winter for four years, I have had LaGrippe (last winter three times).

The Catarrh grew worse. I could not lie down or sleep at night. Was always troubled with slime, pain in my back and a terrible headache every morning, when I woke up, and had no blood.

I got a Peruna calendar in Danish, my native language, and I read it through, every testimony, and then I bought a bottle of Peruna. To-day I can truthfully testify that Peruna has been a great benefit to me. It has given me blood and strength. I can lie down and sleep without being troubled. I have no pain, headache, or noise in my head. I have gained in weight three pounds, which I think is good for my age. I will be sixty-nine years old next summer. I have used Peruna since I started in February, and I use it yet. I feel cheerful and happy, thanks to Peruna. It will always be in my home and I recommend it to those who need it."

LIQUID OR TABLET FORM — FOR SALE EVERYWHERE

SPOHN'S DISTEMPER COMPOUND

HORSE SALE DISTEMPER

You know that when you sell or buy through the sales you have about one chance in fifty to escape SALE STABLE DISTEMPER. "SPOHN'S" is your true protection, your only safeguard, for as sure as you treat all your horses with it, you will soon be rid of the disease. It acts as a sure preventive, no matter how they are "exposed." At all good druggists, horse goods houses, or delivered by the manufacturers.

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Chemists, Goshen, Ind., U. S. A.

Out of Pain and Misery to Comfort!

WHOLE DAY SAVED!

A day or night's suffering is often saved those having "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" handy

Safe to take! Such quick relief! So why suffer?

For Headache	Rheumatism	Joint Pain
Neuralgia	Gout	Teeth Pain
Toothache	Lumbago	Stiff Neck
Colds	Backache	Earache
Influenzal Colds	Sciatica	Fever
Grippe	Neuritis	Pain! Pain!

Proved safe by millions! American owned!

Adults—Take one or two "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" with water. If necessary, repeat dose three times a day, after meals.

Bayer-Tablets OF Aspirin

The "Bayer Cross" on Genuine Tablets

20 cent Bayer packages—also larger Bayer packages.
Buy Bayer packages only—Get original package.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

All Smoking Tobaccos are Flavored

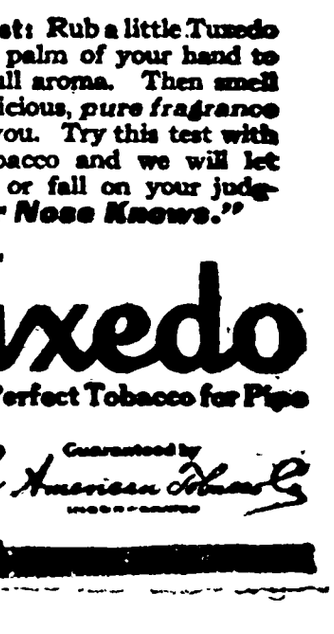
"Your Nose Knows"

The Encyclopaedia Britannica says about the manufacture of smoking tobacco, " . . . on the Continent and in America certain 'sauces' are employed . . . the use of the 'sauces' is to improve the flavour and burning qualities of the leaves."

Your smoke-enjoyment depends as much upon the Quality and kind of flavoring used as upon the Quality and aging of the tobacco.

Tuxedo tobacco uses the purest, most wholesome and delicious of all flavorings—chocolate! That flavoring, added to the finest of carefully aged and blended burley tobacco, produces Tuxedo—the perfect tobacco—

"Your Nose Knows."



Try This Test: Rub a little Tuxedo briskly in the palm of your hand to bring out its full aroma. Then smell it deep—its delicious, pure fragrance will convince you. Try this test with any other tobacco and we will let Tuxedo stand or fall on your judgment—"Your Nose Knows."

Tuxedo
The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe

Guaranteed by The American Tobacco Co.

BE WATCHFUL

In these times it requires the keenest watchfulness in buying to see that "our standard of quality" does not get a wallop

Our clothing today as formerly is the best that can be obtained at the price.

Attractive patterns.

Easy sellers, in low priced but unreliable fabrics are a temptation we have to constantly guard against.

New fabrics, patterns and models at the lowest market price.

We are showing spring suits for boy's as well as the men and have been just as watchful about the quality as with the men's Money's worth is what you get here

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

"Where a dollar does it's duty"

We are now selling

Sweet Home Bread

Try a loaf today; it's sure good!

We also have a fine assortment of Rolls, Bismarks, Buns, Cookies, Dough-nuts, Cakes, etc.

"If It's To Eat---We Have It"

CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, Props.

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105

RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ra, Radiographs Electrical Treatments

Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in

Groceries Dry Goods

Shoes Ladies Wear

Hardware Paint

Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North
821, Mixed	1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger	3:03 p. m.
435, Passenger	8:44 a. m.
South
436, Passenger	6:17 p. m.
1068, Passenger	11:25 a. m.
820, Freight	12:15 p. m.

Having received several requests to resume my calls to Klemme, I have decided to accommodate those who desire Osteopathic Treatments and will be at the Klemme Hotel Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Dr. R. W Schultz, Osteopathic Physician.

Fred Musfelt was a business caller at Estherville last Friday.

Chas. Ax was a Garner caller between trains Monday.

C. F. Busch was a Garner visitor Monday between trains.

Elmer Fuller was on the sick list a few days the fore part of this week.

Mrs. C. W. Wiles is able to be out again after a weeks illness.

Mrs. H. Church is reported to be listed with the ailing ones this week.

Mrs. C. W. Wiles is entertaining company from Iowa Falls this week.

Mrs. C. H. Thompkins is enjoying a visit from her mother of Fort Dodge

Prof. Thompkins was a Goodell caller last Saturday between trains.

Mrs. Sadie Turgeson was a Goodell visitor between trains last Friday.

Miss Freda Schuldt was a passenger to Garner last Thrusday afternoon.

Wm. Trafford is enjoying a visit from his mother this week.

"The Swede, The Tramp and The Girl" will make you laugh at the opera house, Saturday evening, March 8

A dance was held at the Idle Hour Theatre last Friday evening after the show.

Henry Lewis was a Garner caller between trains last Thursday afternoon.

Ed. Wellemeyer, of Garner, was a Klemme visitor last Thursday between trains.

Mr White, the Standard Oil man, of Garner, was a business caller here last Thursday between trains.

C W. Wiles attended the Mason City Auto Show last Thursday and Friday.

Miss Warnock went to Iowa Falls to spend Sunday with relatives and friends.

Miss Sarah Lewis returned to Garner Tuesday morning. She has been taking care of Leo Wilkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Mann, of Boone, Iowa, came Monday for a visit at the C. W. Wiles home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Mann, of Boone, Iowa, are moving onto the C. W. Wiles farm this week.

R. A. Jorgenson returned Monday evening from a several days visit at Ottumwa, Iowa.

FOR SALE—8 H. P. Armstrong gasoline engine, almost new, on trucks A Bargain. Chas. Ax. 2w

This part of the State was visited by a rather severe blizzard last Thursday evening and Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Gram spent Sunday evening at the C. F. Keraus home.

Madam and Miss Hope Emerson were guests at the A. Emerson home Sunday afternoon.

Tom Redding, of Garner, was in Klemme a couple of days the fore part of the week doing some painting.

The little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Baack has been quite ill the past week.

Mrs. Washburn, of Garner, was a Klemme visitor between trains Tuesday.

Miss Linde, of St. Paul, came last Wednesday evening to trim hats for Mrs. Josten.

Elko Buss returned from Minneapolis Tuesday evening where he recently underwent an operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Davis and children of Iowa Falls came last Saturday for a visit at the Henry Freie home.

Mrs. Bernard Reibe, of Garner, came Monday evening for a visit at the A. L. Strieby home.

Mrs. A. Fuller is spending the week with her son Albert and family, and getting acquainted with her new grandson.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hitt, of Clinton, Illinois, arrived in Klemme last Thursday. Mr. Hitt will work for Clarence Arnold the coming year.

FOR SALE—White Wyandotte cockerels and one "Old Trusty" 240 egg incubator nearly new.

Ralph Ludeke.

Ye Editor received a post card from "Scoop" Larsen. He is enjoying a vacation in Italy and is on his way to Rome and other points of interest.

Mr. Wm. Hempel's sister returned to her home Saturday after a visit here with her brother and other relatives and friends.

News came Friday telling of the death of the little six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Fuller who reside southeast of Klemme.

FOR SALE—Three good building lots. These are high and well located. Will sell at a Bargain if taken before March 1st. Chas. Ax. 2w.

Geo. Kluckhohn is doing a lot of remodeling on his house in the south part of town. J. B. Mack is doing the painting and decorating.

Mrs. Henry Lewis left last Thursday afternoon for Clear Lake for several days visit. She returned to Klemme Tuesday night.

Miss Arvella Emerson entertained her Sunday School Class at her home last Friday evening A good time was had and refreshments were served.

Dave Anderson returned from Minneapolis last Friday evening. Dave has been there about a week on business.

Miss Iva Christie and Miss Ina Ahrenkiel, of Goodell, were in Klemme the other day having some dental work done by our local dentist, Parsons.

Mr. John Opsal, of Estherville came last week to work in the Wellemeyer Department Store. Mr. Opsal is an experienced man and will be a valuable asset to the store

The Misses Blanche Lilljenberg and Arvella Emerson and the Messrs. Billy Busch and John Etchen drove over to Mason City in Johnny's car last Thursday afternoon.

J. P. Larsen & Sons started to put up ice Monday. They are cutting ice at the Allie White pond south of town. The ice is of a good quality and is about twelve inches thick.

Floyd Ollenberg drove over to Garner last Thursday evening in his car. He came back on the train Friday night as the blizzard kept him from attempting to drive back here.

Harvey Stille is now traveling with the Prof. Caruthers Co. as a hypnotic subject for the Professor The company are playing at Humboldt this week.

The Misses Hope Emerson, Aravella Emerson and Blanche Lilljenberg enjoyed a sleigh ride last Sunday afternoon. Alvin Freie was the gentleman who furnished the means of transportation for the girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schuldt, of Garner, have moved to Klemme and are now living in the Ell house near the park. Mr. Schuldt is an expert mechanic and has gone to work for Ed. Ell.

If you enjoy a hearty laugh, good singing and dancing, and a funny Swede play see "The Swede, The Tramp and The Girl, at the opera house next Saturday evening March 8. Aye tank she bane gude fallar.

Wm. Bemis, of Garner, was in Klemme Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning in the capacity of Deputy Sheriff serving subpoenas for the Knapp case which went before the Grand Jury Wednesday morning.

J. E. Baumgartner changed his occupation for a few days this week and Tuesday went out to hang some wall paper for Elmer Arnold. We bet "Baum" can sure lather up the paper and stick it on the ceiling.

Monday a code message was received at the local station from Ispaha Russia, and was addressed to Seviell, Russian Consul, Klemme, Iowa. Up to the present time the message has not been delivered to the Russian addressed.

J. W. Berggren came down from Traer last Thursday afternoon to pack up his household goods to ship back to Traer. Walt reports that business is good in his new location and that he likes the town fine.

We have it! What?

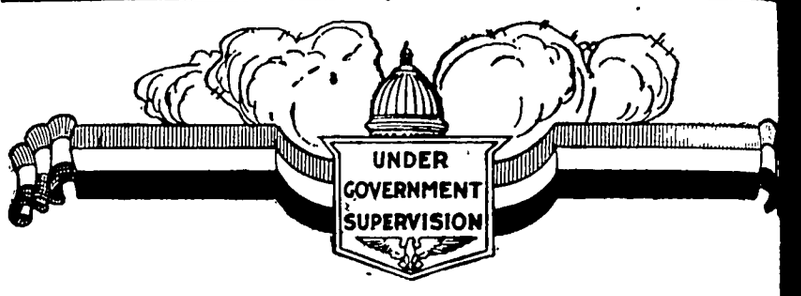
Everything

Which is found in only the best and most up-to-date Meat Markets.

You will always find a complete line of Choice Meats, Hams, Bacon, Fancy Meats and Canned Goods.

Try Our Oleomargarine---It's Fine!

J. P. Larsen & Sons



Income Tax Returns Due March 15.

Persons whose incomes are subject to Federal Income Tax should not forget that returns must be made by March 15

If you experience any trouble in filling out the necessary blanks you are welcome to call on us at any time for assistance

Our experience will save you time and trouble perhaps money.

This service costs nothing and the details of your affairs will be held in strictest confidence.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

All Kinds of Hardware

HARDWARE AND GROCERIES

Stoves and Furnaces

Paints, Oils, Feed, Flour, Cream Separators, Buggies, Wagons, Gasoline Engines.

All Kinds of Farm Machinery

GREUTZMACHER BROS.

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Telephone No. 14

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price.

Successor to W. R. Bloom

DR. L. R. PARSONS

DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank

Phone No. 48.

Klemme - Iowa

KLEMME TIMES

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER 28 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY, March 13 1919 — $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

My stocks include Pine Tree Brand Seeds, ch bag tagged in compliance with our ate Seed Law, showing purity and ger- ination test, all high grade seed, of which olicit your most exacting examination.

Stocks include Northern Grown

Walter F. Lau

t of Clover now on hand. Buy your seed now.

Every customer of our must be satisfied.

That is a rule of this shop.

Tell us your car requirements.

We have been in this business long enough to know how best ho fill them. Before you buy a car of us we will so thoroughly to demostrate that car that you will know its every quality.

Besides, we personally stand back of each sale.

Miles Garage
PHONE 8
THE REST · NOW TRY THE BEST
KLEMME, IA.

When You Are In Need

Of a Good Hair-cut or Shave

Visit

McCullough's Barber Shop

Where Sanitation and Courteous Treatment Go Hand in Hand.

Agency for the Best Laundry in the State, basket leaves Wednesday and comes back every Saturday.

G. .P McCullough, Prop.

Just to Be on Record.

I have observed for some time that there is a disease called auto-in- fection. The possibility for pleas- ure and panning on this word is so wonderful that there's probably not a man in the world that a side-split- ting joke has not been made of it. We will not take the chance of passing it by, however, and want to be on record as knowing it exists.

Made Quite a Difference.

The meaning of a paragraph de- pends very much on the punctuation. An editor wrote "When Mrs. Jones lectured on Dress she wore nothing that was remarkable." How the com- positor, or the "proof reader," came to the conclusion that this should read, "When Mrs. Jones lectured on Dress she wore nothing. That was remark- able," remains a mystery.

Fatal Accident

MAN AND HORSE DROWN AT LAKE OKOBOJI

Last week Tuesday morning anoth- er fatality occurred when a gang of men working for the Deibner Ice Co were taking a short cut across the lake to the place where they were to cut ice for the day The men left the town shortly bfore seven o'clock in a bus drawn by two horses They were but a few rods from the shore when the horses broke through the ice and almost immediately the bus also went under the water but rested on cakes of ice which held it up a little so the water did not completely cover it. The driver was the only man who had a chance to leap and he was instru- mental in the saving of the other men in the bus, who he helped out. Deib- ner was farthest in the bus near the front end and that end was clear under water and he could not get out. His body was recovered a couple of hours later a few feet from the bus. One horse was also drowned, the other managing to get a footing on the edge of the ice and breaking the harness There were thirteen men in the fatal bus

This makes th scond drowning we have heard of this winter when par- ties attempted to cross a frozen lake The other accident happened at Crys- tal Lake a few weeks ago, which we gave an account of in a recent issue of the Times

SCHOOL NEWS

We ask you to reserve Friday eve, March 28th for us Our Declamatory Contest is held that night and we expect the whole town to be there.

The shut-down for the Flu, and fol- lowing sickness on the part of many, has made it necessary to attend to our studies very closely, hence we have not had as many public programs as we would like However, we want everybody at this because we feel this is a good work that should be en- couraged Watch for further an- nouncements.

We admire the boy or girl who will not give up. If you sidestep difficul- ties today, you will tomorrow Let us go "over the top" instead of around We need lots of this spirit during the remaining days of school to finish up properly. Come on! We'll do it!

The Approval Certificate for our eleven grades of school work arrived last week What about a 12 grade, fully accredited, fully approved school? This would not be an im possibility with a new building erect- ed Klemme needs a new school house Klemme deserves a new school house Klemme can build a new school house Let's do it! Let's go—

It is a sorry thing for a town finan- cially, morally, physically and edu- cationally when the school house is the "eye sore" of the town What do you say?

—C H Thompkins, Supt.

Lulu Neuberger is pianist this week.

A number of pupils are absent from high school on account of sick- ness.

Minnie Blank, and Mabel Water- man were absent from school Mon- day Goodell must have some at- traction?

Bernice Gimer was on the sick list Monday.

Mildred Anderson, Emery Schaefer, Arthur Johnson and Erma Prebie are absent from school on account of sickness.

Miss Shaver and Miss Warnock pent Sunday with their parents.

Ethel Baack re-entered school after an absence of several weeks due to illness and bad weather.

We enjoyed visits from Mr. D. B. Anderson, Denzel Tompkins and Lu- cile Ubben the past week.

Perfect attendance record this past week:—Pearl Ubben, Lois Lenz, Lela Bachman, Charles Busch, Paul Milli- gan, Irwin Schwartz, Allan Klotzbach, Arthur Ubben, Elmer Yahnke, Donald Turgasen, Ethel Johnson, Ilo Klotz- bach, Arlene Ell, Valeria Koerner, Reva Elder, Vivian Kerschner, Ath- niel Thiel

Irene Johnson has been absent on Monday and Tuesday of this week on account of illness

Arlene Ell is out of town.

Married

MR. W. H. NOLAN AND MISS ERN- ESTINE SCHULDT MARRIED

Tuesday, March 4th, 1919, at Ma- son City, Iowa, occurred the marriage of Mr Wm. H Nolan, of Mason City, to Miss Ernestine Schuldt, of this city The affair was a quiet marriage and no guests were invited.

This announcement comes as a hap- py surprise to the many friends of this young married couple and, who in token of their best wishes, gave them a pleasant surprise at the Joe Schuldt home on Sunday when the many friends and relatives came with heavy laden baskets of good things to eat and made merry the noon hour The afternoon was spent in general visiting and good times and the guests departed early in the evening.

A few words of introduction are appropriate and we will say that Mr. Nolan is an ideal young man, a farm- er by trade, and a most worthy fellow. Miss Schuldt is very well known in Klemme nd vicinity and those who know her best praise her high quali- ties as a lady who will make a home an ideal place

They will remain in Klemme for a few weeks when they will go to Ma- sonville, Iowa, where the Groom has a farm and will go to house-keeping at that place The best wishes of the community go with them and we wish them happiness and prosperity wher- ever they may go

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank all those who so kindly assisted in the illness and death of my late husband, to those who con- tributed floral offerings, and spoke words of cheer in the hour of bereave- ment. Mrs. Leo Wilkins.

Caucaus

HOW THEY WERE LINED UP AT THE CAUCUSES

Last Friday evening a caucus was held at the city hall and the following candidates were lined up for the city offices:

Frank Gruetzmacher for Mayor
Tom Nelson for Treasurer
Louis Sampson for Assessor
For Councilmen: F H Ridder, M. D. Hocum, C. W. Wiles, Joe Johnson, Al Koerner

But in order to make things lively and to make the election good and exciting a number of citizens got to- gether Monday morning and held an- other caucus and put up an equally strong bunch of men on their ticket. Here is the line up on that ticke:

Valentine Josten for Mayor
E. H. Lenz for Treasurer
Paul Grange for Assessor
For Councilmen: W F. Pavey, Ed. G. Ell, M. Bachman, C. Larsen, M. Croner.

The election which will be held on Monday, March 31st, promises to be a real one, and exciting, and also close for the men on both tickets are all good men for town offices. As far as we know now the above ticket will be the one on the ballot, unless some candidate should withdraw, which is unlikely. Come on, let's go, get your hat in the ring and boost for the candidats. It will be a hot time in the old town tonight. (March 31st).

SURPRISE PARTY

Last Saturday night a number of neighbors and friends gathered at the Chas. Hitt place southeast of town to give them a royal reception. Mr. and Mrs. Hitt have just moved here from Clinton, Ill., and the neighbors thought a surprise party would be a good way to get acquainted. They brought baskets well laden with good things to eat and the evening was spent in playing games, visiting and getting acquaited.

Church Notes

FIRST M. E. CHURCH

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Sunday, March the 16th, 1919

Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock we will have the privilege to listen to the Centenary team consisting of Rev. L. J. Brenner, District Superintend- ent of the Sioux City District, and Dr. Quick, of Omaha, Neb. On Sunday afternoon there will be a meeting for men only at 2:30 o'clock. At this time Dr. Quick and Rev. Brenner will be the speakers. No man in Klemme should fail to hear these men and their message. Let every man come.

Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock, these same men will again speak at a union service of the churches.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock there will be an illustrated lecture given by Rev. J. E. Benz, of Sioux City, and on Friday evening at 8 o'clock another illustrated lecture given by Rev. F. O. Barz of Cincinnati, Ohio. There will be no admission charges. So come and enjoy the good things that these Brethren have for us on the Centen- ary. Special music at every service.

ENGLISH METHODIST CHURCH

Services Sunday, March 16th as follows:

Morning Worship at 10:00 followed by Sunday School. In the evening at 7:30 there will be a union service at the German Methodist Church, to be addressed by a special representative of the Centenary Movement in the Methodist church of America. There will be special music.

Also on Thursday and Friday even- ings union services at the German church at 8 o'clock a stereopticon lec- ture in interest of the Centenary. All should attend these services.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

There are more than 3,000,000 Ford cars in daily oper- ation in the United States. This is a little better than one- half of of all the motor cars used in America. The Ford is every man's necessity. No matter what his business may be it solves the problem of cheapest transportation. We solicit your order now, because production is limited, and we must make it a rule to supply first orders first. Tour- ing Car, $525; Runabout, $500; Coupe, $650; Sedan, $775 Truck Chasis, $550. These prices f. o. b. Detroit.

E. G. ELL

Authorized Dealer

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

"Trotzky has assumed an exalted military attitude," writes a correspondent. "He holds frequent reviews, riding on a horse and wearing a high sheepskin cap, and calling out to his men 'Good morrow, my little soldiers!' To which they reply 'Good morrow, comrade. There are special corps of women in the red army whom Trotzky is endeavoring to win over to his cause, although up to the present time they have been its bitterest enemies, due to the bolshevist plan to suppress marriage. The commissioners are attempting to employ women in the ministries and other offices, but the majority of them leave soon A fight against religion is going on The celebrated church of St. Basil, in Moscow has been closed, and the statue of 'Our Lady' covered with a cloth on which is printed 'Religion is opium for the people.' But," adds the correspondent, "Trotzky's sable overcoat was stolen by a comrade recently while Trotzky was enjoying his usual sumptuous meal."

A Paris cable says Fresh proof of the ingenuity and resourcefulness of the American soldier in France was given the other night at La Rochelle. An army quartet had been billed to play for the soldiers at the Young Men's Christian Association hut The train failed to come, after the manner of trains in France and the Y M C A secretary at La Pallice, near La Rochelle, explained the matter to the audience Immediately an impromptu jazz quartet was organized One performer played on two pieces of sand paper, another on a piece of tin, the third with an automobile horn, and the fourth tried to make music with a leg of a chair With these instruments the jazz band "played" the popular music of the United States, to the great amusement of the audience. Heated disputes as to what they were playing occupied large place on the evening's program.

The world is to be searched by officers of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police to locate former members of the "Scarlet Riders" and bring them back to the fold When the European war broke out the mounted police were not permitted to enlist as a unit As a consequence some of the men "disappeared" and were not heard from until they distinguished themselves on the battle fields. Investigation has just disclosed that some of the best known "Scarlet Riders" have not returned to Canada Some are in the Holy Land, others in Africa, Australia and the orient. The government intends to send broadcast notices that the nation wants its "Scarlet Riders" back, and will do its share to bring them home.

Mandeville J. Barker, jr, a Y M C A worker, has returned from France wearing the only distinguished service cross awarded to a civilian with the American forces overseas He won the decoration by crawling through a heavy barrage and machine gun fire, and bringing in five wounded doughboys. He went back the sixth time and got a German prisoner He was gassed four times, once losing his voice for six weeks, was wounded twice and never was in a hospital. Mr Barker is rector of an Episcopal church at Uniontown, Pa. He is going to Arizona for a while to try to recover from the effects of his frequent doses of gas.

A report is being circulated in Germany that the Americans have women soldiers and even women officers, for the Germans have seen them marching with the troops. The day the first division of Yanks entered Coblenz a group of Y. M C. A girl canteen workers marched at the head of the troops at the special request of their units, from which incident the report about "Damenoffizieren" grew And the Germans, excepting those who have met him professionally, understand clearly that "any soldier who would submit to domination by a 'domenoffizier' cannot be much of a soldier"

While the idea has seemed to prevail in some quarters during the past few days that the proposed conference with the Russian faction leaders on Prinkipo island has been definitely abandoned, it is announced that nothing has been abandoned except the first invitation issued by the council Another invitation for a conference is said to be under consideration, says a Paris cable. The American representatives in the proposed conference are George D Herron and William Allen White.

Disregarding all German protestations there is, I believe, now sufficient weight of allied testimony to the fact that in many German industrial towns men and women are actually physically and mentally incapable of doing a fair day's work even for more than a fair day's wage I doubt whether this can be considered a universal feature, but it is certainly sufficiently extensive at the present time to demand an account," cables a correspondent to The Tribune.

F J. Hanson, of Kansas suspected of being pro-German, has brought suit for $120,000 damages against some of his neighbors. Although wealthy, and a resident of the community since the early '80s Hanson refused to contribute to the Red Cross or buy Liberty bonds After being arrested for defying the food laws, he was made to buy $2 500 worth of bonds and give $200 to the Red Cross He now thinks he might have invested his money more profitably

Of the original "Princess Pat" regiment of Canadian light artillery only two officers and 42 men remain to be reviewed by the princess before they embark for home. She embroidered with her own hands the colors she presented to them, and which, stained by the battles of St Eloi, Ypres, Sanctuary wood, the Somme, Vimy Ridge, Passchendaele, Amiens, Arras, Cambrai and Mons, they will carry back with them.

The first special leave train departed from Coblenz for recreation centers in France, Sunday night, carrying 1,000 enlisted men of the American Third army The soldiers will be permitted to spend a week in Annecy and Aix-Les-Bains, where various welfare organizations have prepared their entertainment. A special leave train will be run every night for soldiers of the army of occupation.

Appealing for steps to purify the atmosphere in the Senate chamber, Senator Owen, of Oklahoma, said he believed the poor ventilating system had contributed greatly to the mortality among members of the Senate. "I think the Senate is suffering more from 'hot air'," said Senator Thomas, of Colorado.

An American submarine chaser has been sent to Sweden for the purposes of demonstration with the object of selling a number of craft of the same type, the London Times informs us.

Approximately 1,450 Isle of Wight men have been killed or have died of wounds and other causes in the war. This number represents nearly 40 per 1,000 of the population of the island.

Acquisition and improvement of the Cape Cod canal by the government would be authorized under an administration bill introduced recently by Senator Fletcher, of Florida.

MAKE WALL LAKE INTO STATE PARK

Movement On to Preserve One of Iowa's Natural Beauty Spots to Future Generations.

Lake View, Ia., March 10.—A movement has been started here to have Wall lake and adjacent land made into a state park A resolution to this effect was passed at the meeting of the Farm Association, and County Agent Earl Maharg and W. M Dean, of Lake View, were appointed to attend a conference at Ames. The state is planning to make the lakes of the state into public parks and appropriate money to improve them.

There is sentiment here in favor of changing the name of the lake and naming it in honor of one of the boys who gave their lives in the world war.

HOMEOPATHS ARE TO BE BENEFITTED

Bill In Iowa Senate Would Establish Department In State University at Iowa City.

Des Moines, Ia., March 8.—The senate today passed the Foster bill, which limited the commencement of an action for recovery of an interest in real estate based on claims arising prior to 1900, unless notice of such claim is filed within a year after the bill becomes a law.

The establishment of a department of homeopathic materia medica at the college of medicine, state university, is asked in a bill introduced by Senator Byngton, of Johnston county.

BILL AIMED AT I. W. W.'S.

Des Moines, Ia., March 8.—With a view of closing the doors in advance against any move in the nature of bolshevism in Iowa, the senate has adopted the Evans bill by an unanimous vote Senator Evans' bill defines the doctrine advocating unlawful methods of terrorism as a means of accomplishing industrial or political reform as "criminal syndicalism" such advocacy by word of mouth or writing is made a felony punishable by a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison, or a fine of $5,000, or both OPPOSE LANGUAGE BILL.

Waterloo, Ia. March 8.—Representatives of Lutheran churches in Iowa, meeting here, protested against the Dean "one language" bill now before the general assembly.

While the churchmen favor the provision of the bill which makes the English language the medium of instruction, they ask that there be an exception in the question of religious ceremonies.

FARM AGENTS' OFFICE GOES TO LAKE VIEW

Lake View, Ia., March 10.—The county farm agent will move his office to Lake View in the near future. For a year his office has been located at Sac City but this week at the meeting of the farm association it was voted to move to Lake View for the year. The Commercial club will furnish office rooms, telephone, and garage

METHODIST BISHOP FEARS ANOTHER GREAT WAR

Des Moines, Io., March 10.—"Unless a policy of cooperation and justice is pursued in the dealings with the yellow races another and more serious conflict than the war now ending in Europe is in store for the white race," Bishop Wilson S. Lewis, of China, told the all-Iowa world program centenary convention of the Methodist church here.

"One of the great causes that may lead to difficulty with the yellow races is the past injustices of the white man toward other races," the bishop continued. "Europe owns the black man's home in Africa, except the Sahara desert Europe owns India, and the white man controls Malaysia.

"Even now the white man seeks to control China and threatens to carve up China as a sailor carves up a whale. The United States alone stands for nonaggressiveness among the yellow people. The yellow man is trembling with fear in every joint, and fear is a forerunner of war"

EXAMINING BOOKS OF ENGINEER MERRILL

LeMars, Ia., March 10.—G. W. Kyte, of Osceola, one of the state examiners, is in LeMars making an examination of the books of the county engineer, who resigned a few days ago under charges of irregularities in conducting his office.

As the books of the Plymouth county officials have not been checked over for two years, Mr. Kyte began checking from that date and it may be some time before he gets down to investigation of the items upon which the board of supervisors demanded Mr. Merrill's resignation.

Mr. Merrill has sold or stored his household goods and moved to Sioux City, where he is said to have employment.

ICE HARVEST PROVING TO BE GOOD ONE

Lake View, Ia., March 10.—The ice harvest is turning out to be the best for many years. In spite of the poor season, more ice has been shipped already than in ordinary years. The ice is 12 inches thick and of good quality. The work of loading and shipping is being rushed and crews are working day and night and Sunday. There is great demand for it, the orders are coming in faster than they can be filled.

RELATIVES TO PUT UP STIFF FIGHT

Estate of Soldiers' Home Inmate to Be Contested For In Iowa Courts.

Marshalltown, Ia., March 8.—When Edward Padelford, aged and eccentric, made his will 25 years ago he probably realized that upon his death a legal battle would result The first step in this legal battle was taken yesterday, after the years of a generation had passed since the will was made.

Padelford, a veteran of the civil war, lived to be 94. He fell from a second story window of the soldiers' hospital last December. His will was entered for probate a few weeks ago, and it was found that an estate of about $15,000 in cash and Liberty bonds had been left in full to P E. Wanberg, a local shoemaker, who, in years gone by, had befriended Padelford and given him a home. The will named Wanberg as sole beneficiary and executor of the estate without bond.

Padelford came into his money through the death of a relative at Fall River, Mass. The Massachusetts law provides that where a decedent dies intestate his estate falls to the oldest nearest of kin. It was not presumed that Edward Padelford was living, as he had not been heard from for these many years, but when the Massachusetts court undertook to settle the estate it became necessary to prove the death of Edward Podelford, and this, for a very good reason, could not be done.

But now that Edward Padelford has no more use for the money left to him by Massachusetts relatives, the relatives who are left behind do not propose to see the money remain in Iowa without a fight. So Miss Carrie Padelford, a granddaughter, of Fall River, Mass., has started suit to have the will set aside, claiming that her grandfather not only was incapable mentally of making his will in 1894, but that he was unduly influenced. Padelford has a son, Amos C. Padelford, living at Rall River, now a man in his 70s, and also a veteran of the civil war. Edward Padelford becomes enstranged from his family before the war, when he wanted to settle in Iowa, where he had bought a farm, and his wife, it is said, refused to leave the east.

RESISTED OFFICER WHO WAS FORCED TO SHOW GUN

Salix, Ia., March 8.—Gun play by Marshal Sardesen checked bolshevistic tendencies on the part of Roman Miaalofsky, an unnaturalized Russian, when he resisted arrest after running amuck on the Herman Fortin farm. Miaalofsky tried to dispossess Ed Lamoreaux, the outgoing tenant, regardless of the illness of Mrs. Lamoreaux. Judge Patterson required him to furnish bonds to keep the peace.

Neither Miaalofsky nor his wife seem to have got beyond the rule of tooth and claw. Marshal Sardesen drew his gun after being attacked by both and thrown against a partition, he asserts. When the man raised a chair to strike down the officer, he faced the six shooter. Miaalofsky then tried persuasion, but reinforcements arrived from Salix and the pair, with their two small children, were locked in the one cell of the town jail.

The trial of the case in Judge Patterson's court was featured by the crying of Mrs. Miaalofsky and her two children, who had spent a bad night in jail. The man readily furnished bond and agreed to remain away from the Lamoreaux home until Dr. Amthor permits the removal of Mrs. Lamoreaux. Until that time the Miaalofsky family is staying at the hotel.

Sympathy for the wife and small children is in evidence. When food was offered the mother, she dashed it to the floor of the cell. When the husband told Judge Patterson that Mrs. Miaalofsky had not been supplied with drinking water since the night before, Marshal Sardesen asserted that she had refused water as well as food.

Questioned by Judge Patterson, Miaalofsky said that he had not taken out naturalization papers, although he had been seven years in the United States. Deportation was suggested.

METHODISTS GATHERED FOR MISSION CENTENARY

Des Moines, Ia., March 8.—Ministerial and lay delegates from virtually every congregation of the denomination in the state were present at the opening here of the all Iowa world missionary centenary of the Methodist Episcopal church, in convention two days at the First Methodist church.

Dr. E. C. Hickman, of Chicago, associate executive secretary of the national campaign committee, is presiding at the sessions, and the principal speakers include Bishop W. S. Lewis, of China, and national leaders from New York and Chicago.

The centenary movement is a campaign to raise $105,000,000 in five years for reconstruction work at home and abroad, and to recruit 53,000 workers for the cause.

IOWA AVIATOR KILLED IN FRANCE FEBRUARY 22

Boone, Ia., March 8.—First Lieut. Roy Gustafson was killed in an airplane accident in France February 22. Word was received by his mother, Mrs. Charles Vangorder. He was a graduate of the University of Illinois, and a prominent man in this city.

SISTERS OF MERCY TO IMPROVE THEIR HOSPITAL

Marshalltown, Ia., March 8.—One of the most important building projects of the season was announced yesterday by the Sisters of Mercy, who operate St. Thomas hospital in this city, whom beginning May 1 will erect a four-story addition in the shape of an "L," 96 feet one way and 98 the other. The addition will when completed and equipped, become the hospital proper, while the present hospital building will be fitted up as a nurses' home.

FLAG PRESENTED BY THE BELGIANS

Emblem Given By Liberated Natives to Iowa Boys, Has Arrived In Council Bluffs.

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 8.—The American flag presented to the 168th infantry when it marched through Belgium on its way to Germany by the inhabitants of that liberated country, has arrived in Council Bluffs and will soon be on exhibition. The flag, which was made of pieces because of the scarcity of materials in that section of Belgium from which it came, has but nine stars stitched into a field of light blue. It is about 18 inches by 24 inches in dimension, and was made by little Georgetta Tilzz, who lived in Rachecourt, Belgium. She wrote her name in ink on the white of the flag.

The presentation of the flag was made November 22 by the mayor of Musson. He, many of the inhabitants and the school children and their teachers, came out to meet the Americans who had helped liberate them from four years of German rule. They sang the "Star-Spangled Banner" in broken English, after which the mayor presented the flag. Col. Matt Tinley, of the 168th, made a speech of acceptance in what he terms "a kind of French." The Belgians then accompanied the Iowa boys to the next town singing the "Star-Spangled Banner" and the Belgium national air

The flag was sent to Council Bluffs by Colonel Tinley, of Council Bluffs.

SIOUX CITY BANKERS PROTEST EXTRAVAGANCE

Washington, March 8.—Sioux City Bankers, aroused over extravagant expenditures of the congress just ended, have adopted resolutions calling for economy in government appropriations and have sent copies to members of the Iowa delegation. Senator Kenyon, who received the resolutions and who is on the Senate appropriations committee, said he was glad the public was waking up to the waste of government money and that he intended to make a fight for economy in the new congress.

WHICH DIED FIRST QUESTION FOR COURTS

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 8.—The Blisck tragedy at Oxford Junction last January, is in the courts of Jones county now to determine whether the father or the son died first, and on the decision depends the distribution of the estate.

It will be recalled that the Blisek home was burned at noon early in January and when neighbors got to the house the charred bodies of the father, mother and three children were found. While the coroner's jury returned an open verdict it was the expressed opinion of the neighbors that Mr. Blisek murdered his family, set fire to his home and killed himself while mentally deranged. The case has got into the courts through the filing of two separate probate notices. Vit Blisek filed one, as administrator of Frank Blisek, the father, and Park Chamberlain filed the other as administrator of Martin Blisek, the son. The contest hinges on who died first, the father or son.

IOWA NURSE UNIT IS ENROUTE HOME

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 8.—The first Council Bluffs organization in war to return to the city is expected here within the next two weeks when the nurses of Unit K arrive in the city. Twenty of them are now on the Atlantic on the way to the United States.

The nurses now on their way here are Elizabeth Swingle, Bertha Boyer, Julia Douglas, Mathilda Gilson, Mary W. Leonard, Kline Mathiason, Clar Rossman, Ella McMannigall, Sarah C Miles, Sena Nelson, Agnes Richardson, Mattie Ruggles, Jennie B. Sunderland, Emily Vaugnlaaux and Sarah Swingle, all of Council Bluffs, and Pearl Gary, of Denison, Elizabeth Green, Peru, Ill.; Mertie Johnson, Grand Island, Neb; Christine Satter, Boone, Ia., and Elizabeth Young, Omaha, Neb.

KINGSLEY, IA., GIRL MARRIED IN FRANCE

Kingsley, Ia., March 8.—Announcements has been received here of the marriage of Miss Hazel Titus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W C. Titus, former residents of this place, to Capt. Albert Wood Ghoreyeb. The wedding took place in Paris, France, January 1, 1919. Miss Titus had been in France in the capacity of a nurse.

The bride was born in Kingsley and lived here with her parents for a number of years.

ROBBERS MAKE HAUL IN BURLINGTON HOME

Burlington, Ia., March 8.—After drugging an entire family, burglars entered the home of William Cup, owner of a general merchandise store at Birmingham, took $1,400 from under Mr. Cup's pillow and departed without arousing any members of the family.

American travelers in Europe will be expected to become familiar with the new series of "Blue Guides," intended to replace the familiar red made in Germany "Baedekers." The editor of the "Blue Guides," the first of which—a handbook of London—has just appeared, prepared the volumes on England, Canada, and the United States of the old "Baedekers."

The London Mail states that Andrew Bonar Law, floor leader of the government in the house of commons, has promised to ask British peace delegates to consider uniform hours for British and American miners, adoption of which would aid in granting the demand of British miners.

One of the most terrible indictments against the Bulgarians during the war has been pronounced here by Mihailo Natetch, Serbian metropolitan for Pirot district, who declared to the Associated Press that, of 206 Serbian priests deported by the Bulgars, 156 were shot or hanged and 27 others died of starvation or disease.

Training Little Children

There Should Be More Directed Handwork in the Home—This Supplies the Imperative Need Which the Child Feels for Self-Expression.

Suggestions by mothers who have been kindergartners. Issued by the United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., and the National Kindergarten Association, Fortieth Street, New York.

WE often hear mothers lamenting the fact that there is no kindergarten in their neighborhood. They are intelligent enough to know what a benefit a kindergarten training would be to their children, but are not aware that many of the methods used in the kindergarten may also be employed in the home.

This is particularly true of kindergarten hand-work, which composes a sort of elementary manual training course. For hand-work in the home it is not necessary to expend much time, labor or money for materials; indeed, they may nearly all be obtained in the home.

Plastic clay or equal portions of flour and salt worked into a plastic dough may be used to advantage. The child should begin by reproducing simple objects he sees about him, or he can create from his own imagination. Give the clay into the child's hands and let him do what he pleases with it. He will find plenty to do and greatly enjoy this occupation, besides unconsciously expressing some of his own ideas concerning which it will be valuable for the mother to know. Later on the child may be led to organize his ideas of form by being shown how to make a ball or other geometric form and with slight remoulding change it into an apple, pear or other similar shape. This should never become drill work and the adding of bits of clay is more easily done than the pressing into shape of a mass of clay. But a perception of the geometric structure of all form is a part of the art world.

Paper-folding is simple, and an occupation which the child can easily manipulate himself. Give him a small, square piece of colored wrapping paper, have him bring opposite edges together, and then fold through the center, once. This will make a book which he can play he is reading or singing from, or he can call it a scrap-book and paste pictures in it. Folded twice, the piece of paper makes a nice little square handkerchief which has just been ironed and is ready to put away. Next the paper may be opened out, and it will be seen that the two folds cross at the center. The corners may be folded to this center, one at a time. When three corners are folded in, it looks like an open envelope; after the last corner is folded in, the envelope is closed, and the "letter" is ready for mail. With a little ingenuity many other objects may be made by folding paper in different ways Cutting pictures from old magazines is one of the joys of childhood. To be able to do this well the child must learn to use his eyes and his hands skilfully It is speed training, and cultivates both concentration as well as skill If the pictures are mounted in a scrap book it adds to the pleasure. Painting is also a joy to the boy or girl Through the medium the different colors may be taught and appreciation of color may be developed.

Drawing becomes a source of great pleasure and profit to a child Suggest that he begin by drawing something with which he is perfectly familiar. In the kindergarten the little child generally wishes to draw a ball, which he can do with simple rotary motion It very soon occurs to him to make two balls on his piece of paper, perhaps two large balls, or one large and one small one. Because the ball he plays with has a string attached to it he may next add a string to his drawing Then someone discovers that it is possible to use different colors, one for the ball and one for the string And marvellous discovery, turned upside down the balls with their strings are like flowers on stems. It is not surprising to see the next step quickly follow, of adding little leaves to the stems. After this perhaps a bird or butterfly may be included in the drawing, and so on. These are merely suggestions as to how to help him vague beginnings to become definite objects.

Stringing beads, buttons, seeds, spools, or anything else which can be strung will always hold the child's interest, and familiarize him with color, form and number, separately and in combination. A long bodkin is a good needle for this purpose

With a little time and ingenuity spent in getting these various occupations started, any mother can direct the activities of her child into many educational channels, and supply the imperative need which the child feels for self-expression.

Please pass this article on to a friend and thus help Uncle Sam reach all the mothers of the country

The Soldier's National Anthem.

George F. Lumb, late sergeant, Co. M, Ninth U. S. Infantry, in the Rotarian

There is only one American national anthem to me, to the soldier—and I feel about it as a French officer, visiting a Rotary Club, recently expressed himself about "The Marseillaise." They had stood to the playing of "America," and the French officer remarked

"Ah, in ze Washington 'Ze Star Spangled Banner,' in ze Atlantic ees ze 'Dixie,' in ze Harrisburg ees ze 'America.' In La Belle, France we stand for 'La Marseillaise' and for nossing else, because, mon ami, beside it zer ees nossing else."

I was pacing up and down on guard duty in front of the old Spanish custom house at Manila.

The turbulent splash of the Pasig river as it dashed itself petulantly against the old sea wall seemed to be purging it of the blood of the night before.

As the first grey streaks of dawn broke over the distant palace of the governor, who was in the walled city, the rain stopped, leaving me wet to the skin, weary with the long night of vigilance and—well I don't believe anyone else in the world ever felt hungrier.

Distant objects began to take form in the grey light, the tramp of the corporal and his welcome relief sounded as they turned the corner, and across the Pasig I saw a little dark ball slowly creeping up the old Spanish flagstaff of the governor's palace.

As the band of the 10th Pennsylvania sent the stirring notes of "The Star Spangled Banner" across the bay, to waft the thrill of the soldiers ashore to the sailors of Dewey's fleet, the little ball on the flagpole broke and the red and white stripes for which we had offered our lives the day before rippled out into the early sunlight.

My heels clicked together, the trusty old "Krag" came from the right shoulder to the "present" as if I were on parade, and for once I willfully broke the regulations by calling out to the oncoming patrol

"Look, fellows! She's up over old Manila!"

And the corporal exclaimed: "Thank God! Fall out! Three cheers for 'Old Glory.'"

That's why there is only one national anthem for me.

That's why every soldier stands at "attention" every morning and every night in every camp, not while the band plays "America" or "The Stars and Stripes Forever," but "The Star Spangled Banner," and the soldiers know about as much about patriotism as any of us. Anything more than this to me is either morbid sentiment or, as Shakespeare said. "Methinks he doth protest too much."

Wages and Living Cost.

From the New York Post.

Prof. Irving Fisher has made an investigation, of which the results are published by the bureau of labor statistics, showing that the number of establishments which vary wages with the fluctuations in the cost of living, scientifically computed, is growing. The Evening Post listed some time ago—the Bankers' Trust Company, the Oneida Community, the Kelley-How-Thompson Hardware Company of Duluth, the Worthington Hardware Company of Cleveland, and others. Professor Fisher adds a clothing company in New Haven, and various northwestern flouring mills which have raised wages, according to an "index number" calculated by professors at the University of Washington But he points out as the chief use of index figures that by the shipbuilding labor adjustment board and the national war labor board in settling wage disputes. The former has adopted the plan of making semi-annual wage adjustments in all shipbuilding centers on the basis of living cost figures presented by the bureau of labor statistics, and the latter was recently considering the introduction of quarterly adjustments. The substitution of a scientific for a rule-of-thumb treatment of wage changes is certainly to be encouraged. It has one advantage for the employer: rule-of-thumb changes must be upwards, or the employe is keenly dissatisfied, while the use of index numbers may show why reductions have to be made.

Nothing More Needed.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

"I got a girl show this season," said the first manager

"Got any good music?" asked the second

"Nope

"Any good stunts?"

"Nope What do I want with them things I tell you I got a girl show"

Enlarging His Vocabulary.

From the Washington Star

"Couldn't you have fixed up the flivver yourself?" asked Mrs. Chuggins.

"Yes," answered her husband, "but I like to take it to the shop once in a while The repair man has a harsh temper and the way he talks about it gives me some new ideas."

ERMANY WINS POINT; TO GET FOOD SUPPLIES

erican Delegates Recommend Concession In Return For Ships—Washington Diplomats Suspect Trickery.

By Associated Press.

ris, March 10.—The supreme council when it met today expected to set- the difficulty over the German mer- nt ships by arranging for the food pplies asked for by Germany, which American delegation regard as part the armistice pledge to Germany.

he supreme council, it is understood, will appoint an inter-allied com- tee of four members to investigate thods by which the states of the mer Austro-Hungarian empire can y for the food sent by the allied wers.

Among the incidental matters under sideration by the council, is some thod for the improvement of ports, railway and telegraph systems, in ria, eastern Germany and parts of sia. The council probably will rec- mend that the allies supply essential terials for this work to the amount approximately $100,000,000.

The conferees already have approved s for feeding the people of dis- mbered Austria, whereby the block- will be lifted. This principle may extended to Germany, it was under- od, through adoption of a resolution ting the supreme economic coun- to carry out the provision of re- alling that country contained in armistice.

From authoritative sources it was rned the program now being dis- sed, under which the Germans will able to buy food, provides;

First, for permission for the Ger- s to engage in export trade, par- ularly with such commodities as al and potash, of which they have plentiful supply. The money thus ained would be applied on food pay- nts.

Second, for establishment of neu- l credits by Germany.

Third, for use of gold assets if nec- ary.

By United Press.

Washington, D. C., March 10.—Ger- ny's refusal to turn over her mer- nt ships for shipment home of erican troops has aroused the wid- speculation and comment among icials and diplomats here.

In the absence of details of her ac- n at Spa, officials here know only t Germany has broken the contract officials signed with Chairman rley, of the United States shipping rd, and other allied representatives, t January to turn over her mer- ntmen.

Possible motives for Germany's ac- n are believed to be:

First, her internal condition, partic- rly as regards food, may be such t her present government is afraid turn over the vessels for fear of giv- the Spartacus group a cry of pro- .

Second, the strong sailors' councils Germany's ports may have served ce on their governments that the ips could not leave unless they were anned by German sailors (not pro- ed in the contract Hurley offered had accepted), or,

Germany may be resorting to her trickery and, seeing discontent wing in England at the delay in pping troops home, has thrown a ch into a program of turning thou- nds of tons of shipping over to Great tain as well as the United States troop transport, thus aggravating unrest.

In all events, it is held certain here t her action is timed to end, if pos- e, the allied delay in sending food Germany.

Cabinet on Hand.

To meet any situation which may se out of the present "serious prob- " most of the United States govern- t will be in France. President Wil- n is on his way over, Secretary Lan- g is already there, Secretary Dan- s will be there within a couple of eks, Secretary Baker will arrive in rance probably before the middle of April, and Chairman Hurley, of the hipping board, is expected to sail bout the same time as Baker. Food dministrator Hoover is on the spot.

Thus far the principal worry of of- ials here as to what may grow out the German action is the possible owing up of troop shipments home. The British will want their own ships ore than ever now for transport of their colonial and dominion troops. So far as American troop shipments are oncerned, it was planned to reach a te of 250,000 men a month by the d of April, when all of the eight erman liners promised would have en in commission. As refitted by is government, they would have had capacity of 50,000 to 60,000 troops a onth.

WOULD BAR IMMIGRANTS.

Washington, D. C., March 8.—Repre- tative Albert Johnson, of Washing- , who has been elected by repub- ans as next chairman of the House migration committee, today an- unced he would reintroduce the ur-year immigration exclusion bill rly in the next session.

Johnson also favors adding to the a provision for deportation of ens who turned back their first pers to escape the draft law.

HEAVILY DECORATED.

Paris, Thursday, March 6.—Foreign edals to the number of 9,388 had been arded to members of the American peditionary farce up to Febbruary 26, according to a compilation made by the Stars and Stripes. Of this number, 4,000 were French war crosses, 51 medals of the Legion of Honor; 124 military medals and 98 the Honneur Des Epidemics.

BRITISH SUPER-ZEPPELIN MAY BE USED FOR INITIAL TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT

View of New British Super Zeppelin, Showing Separate Gas Bags or Balloonets.

Among the photographs just released for publication by the British officials and dealing with evelopments in war machinery is the one shown above, showing the super Zeppelin. It is the equal in size and stability of the German Zeppelin. The balloonets shown clearly in the picture, are covered, however, when the Zeppelin is ready for use. It is expected that the dirigible will be flown to England for the first trans-Atlantic flight.

AMERICANS FILE DAMAGE CLAIMS

Demand $750,000,000 From Teutonic Allies as Reparation For War Losses of Life and Property.

By Associated Press.

Washington March 10.—Claims filed by American citizens and concerns w the state department against Germany and Austria-Hungary total about $7 000,000, the state department announced today. Additional claims are expected

The claims are divided into two classes, those arising from submarine atrocities and those due to food needs of the central empires. The state department for several months has had a large force engaged in compiling American losses.

Included in the items comprising claims growing out of submarine warfare are losses alleged for death and injury of American citizens, losses suffered in the destruction of food stuffs to American vessels. Loss suffered in connection with American cargoes lost in American and foreign bottoms and the loss of much valuable personal property other than cargoes.

Losses due to other acts of Germany and Austria-Hungary in addition to destruction and requisition of American properties, both in enemy territory and territory occupied at various times by enemy forces.

The state department's statistics show that American citizens at the outbreak of the war had about $500 000,000 worth of property in enemy countries and in those which have been under enemy occupation. Heavy losses have resulted in connection with this property as a result of war measures taken by the central powers.

PRIMARY BILL IS SAVED FROM DEFEAT

Nebraska House Had Light Attendance and Supporters Prevented Vote

Lincoln, Neb., March 10.—Because of the light attendance at the Saturday session the supporters of the Hoskins-Byrum amended primary bill here felt put it to a test and succeeded in keeping the house in committee of the whole all morning.

Considerable time was devoted to an effort to revive two senate bills to hold decrees of divorce in abeyance for two years and bar the party at fault from remarriage before three years. It failed.

MOONSHINE WHISKY IS BEING SOLD AT NORFOLK

Norfolk, Neb., March 10.—State booze hounds, who made four arrests here Friday, left the city after two persons were convicted for having illegal possession of liquor and after Herman Boche pleaded guilty to selling whisky. The state agents declare that Boche's whisky was of the old time "moon shine" variety. A search for a still is said to have been started.

CUBAN CONDITION BETTER

Washington, March 10.—Advices to the state department today from Havana say the strike situation in Cuba which paralyzed industries and tied up transportation in half the island, is improving.

SEE TRADE POSSIBILITIES

New Orleans, La., March 8.—With a view to studying trade possibilities, a committee of Mississippi valley business men will visit Central and South America this fall, according to an announcement by a local trade bureau. The committee plans to visit the West Indies, Argentine, Brazil and several of the Central American countries.

UNCLE SAM'S MERCHANT MARINE SAILORS WILL GET SPECIAL UNIFORM

[illegible] adopted by Uncle Sam for officers [illegible] those worn by [illegible] navy sailors but [illegible] insignia have been [illegible] shipping board for [illegible] apprentices training [illegible] nautical school ships. An [illegible] and anchor under [illegible] is worked into the [illegible] pocket [illegible] stripes on [illegible] instead of three [illegible] worn by the [illegible] wear the insignia [illegible] discrimination [illegible] men of the [illegible] will be men [illegible] of the navy.

BERLIN STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK

Strike Officially Called Off Last Night—Government Suppress Spartacan Revolt In City

By Associated Press.

Berlin March 10.—The spartacan strike in Berlin was called off last night. The labor federation at a meeting early in the evening recommended that the workmen return to work Saturday.

Government troops have suppressed the Spartacan revolt and the now proceeding wood [illegible] to return to their jobs.

The fighting ended at noon Friday, and government troops now occupy all public buildings and squares and a number of factories.

DEATH FOR SPARTACANS.

London March 10.—A great number of Spartacans were taken prisoner in the fighting in the center of Berlin [illegible] will be sentenced to death, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen.

PRUSSIAN DIET OPENS

By United Press.

Berlin March 10.—A Weimar agency dispatch received in Berlin Thursday and received here today announced that the Prussian diet would open next week. This was accepted as proof of the government's contention that the revolution had failed.

TAKE POLICE HEADQUARTERS.

Copenhagen March 8.—German government troops have captured the police headquarters at Berlin and have completely cleared Alexander Platz of strikers, according to a Berlin dispatch received here.

Fighting is centered in the center of the city but continues in the Moabit section. The government troops suffered slight losses and captured many prisoners. To relieve the garrison of the police headquarters the government troops turned their heavy artillery against the houses nearby and three shells hit a house which was used as machine gun headquarters scattering the occupants in all directions. Gas was used effectively in the attack on the strikers according to the German Gazette of Berlin.

CONCESSIONS GRANTED.

By Associated Press.

Weimar March 8.—Social democrats who began a consultation with the German cabinet yesterday relative to the Berlin strike and what concessions the Berlin strikers could be offered the end that strikers left for Berlin this morning. The conference is reported to have been satisfactory.

The terms which were decided upon were to be laid before the strikers at Berlin Friday afternoon and are said to provide for the recognition of the soldiers and workmens councils by the new constitution. This is looked upon as a most radical step. It has been urged heretofore but has been rejected. It is known that the entente allies do not favor it.

U. S. TO TAKE OVER ARMENIA

Probable Apportionment of Peace Conference Mandataries Announced—French-British Dispute Delays Work.

By Associated Press.

Paris, March 10.—The mandates for administration of the German colonies and the territories of Asiatic Turkey will not be apportioned among the powers by the peace conference until President Wilson returns, according to the Temps today. Prevailing opinion in conference circles, the newspaper declares, is that the United States is ready to accept a mandate for Armenia. It is expected that Smyrna will be allotted to Greece; the mandate for Syria, including Damascus and Alexandria, to France and that for Mesopotamia and Palestine to Great Britain, according to this authority.

Must Decide Dispute.

The American peace commissioners in pursuance of their effort to hasten the conclusion of a preliminary treaty of peace, are now in a position where they must take sides on the conflicting views of the British and French regarding reparation.

The British feel that the Germans must be enabled to receive at the earliest possible moment food and raw materials and even credits with which to start business so that out of the proceeds of that business they might pay their debts.

The French do not believe that the German business interests should be permitted to get back into their prewar activity until the stricken business interests of France and Belgium have caught up with them. They fear that otherwise Germany will be able to regain possession of world markets.

The Americans, it is understood, have decided finally to adhere to the British position which appears likely to be the one adopted.

New Job for Hoover.

The supreme war council has decided to give Herbert C. Hoover, director general of allied relief, complete control of the railroads in the old Austrian empire and to make him the mandatory of the council in demanding locomotives freight cars from each of the new states of old Austria, with which to create a food and relief service.

WILSON MAKING SPEEDY VOYAGE

Weather Clear and Calm so Far—President Takes Hike on Decks and Tires His Volunteer Escort.

BY CARL D. GROAT.

United Press Staff Correspondent.

Aboard the U. S. S. George Washington, March 10.—The George Washington was 1,200 miles out from New York today. The weather continued clear and the ship was maintaining her fast time.

President Wilson was still resting and slept late again today. He walked five miles about the decks yesterday, setting a pace that made his volunteer escort of marines and secret service men puff to keep up with him. He attended the ship's movies during the afternoon and again last night.

The president presented the officers and crew with a framed autographed portrait of himself, in appreciation of their efforts for his comfort and safety. He also gave individual autographed photographs to Captain McCauley and Captain Perkins.

A representative of the American Express Company says that before the war the annual loss of his company by thefts was $1,000,000, whereas the losses now amount to $1,000,000 a month.

HALF MILLION YANKS TO BE HELD IN ARMY

General March Announces Policy of No Reduction Below 500,000—New Casualty Report Issued.

By Associated Press.

Washington, March 10.—General March announced today that the army would not be reduced under any circumstances below the figure mentioned in the reorganization bill, which failed in congress, a total of 509,909 officers and men. He said this total would be maintained until some law was passed providing for a permanent forch which would "permit the military necessities of the United States to be handled."

The statement was made in connection with the information that General Pershing had been authorized to resume enlistments for the regular army. Men now overseas who desire to enlist in the regular establishment, General March said, would be accepted and assigned to regular organizations in the army of occupation, releasing other men to be discharged.

Casualties 240,197.

Battle casualties of the American army in France, as shown by revised divisional records announced today by General March, totaled 240,197. These include killed in action, wounded, missing in action and prisoners. There probably will be some slight further revision as final reports are received.

The Second regular division showed the greatest losses in the revised list, with 24,429. The First division came next, with 23 973. The 28th (Pennsylvania) led national guard and national army divisions, being fourth in the list with 14,417. The 32nd (Michigan and Wisconsin), was fifth with 14,268.

Rainbow Lost 12,252.

In the new list the 42nd division (Rainbow) reported a total of battle casualties of 12,252, the 77th (New York Metropolitan national army), 9,423, the 26th (New England), 8,955; the 27th (New York), 7,940, the 30th (Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina), 6,893.

Battle casualty figures include the following. 89th (Kansas, Missouri, South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona), 7,093, Seventh (regular), 1,546, 92nd (negro national army), 1,399; Sixth (regular), 285, 88th (North Dakota, Minnesota, Iowa, west Illinois), 63.

American troops actually participating in engagements against the enemy numbered 1,390,000 men. General March announced the figures today, showing that 1,100,000 comprised divisional troops and divisional replacements; 240,000 corps and army troops and 50,000 service of supply troops.

354,824 Back Home.

Demobilization reports made public today by General March showed 1,361,528 officers and men discharged to date while the number ordered released had reached 1 613,500. Up to March 3 departures of soldiers from France numbered 419 555, of whom 354,824 had landed in the United States up to yesterday.

Abandon 13 Camps.

A reduction in the number of demobilization camps from 33 to 23 was announced today, the purpose being to enable the war department to releas thousands of men who, under the original plan, would have been held at the 10 additional camps as demobilization personnel.

Thirteen of the original 33 camps designated as demobilization centers will be abandoned. Three new camps, Forts Bliss, Oglethorpe and D. A. Russell, have been added, bringing the total to 23.

Hospital records from the expeditionary forces, General March said, showed 81,231 patients on February 20, a big reduction from the 112,217 total when the armistice was signed.

When questioned regarding whether drafted men would be held in the army contemplated, March explained that the war department hopes resumption of enlistments will provide the specified strength. In event they do not, he added, the war department will have to determine what troops will be held to supply the deficiency, no decision on that point having been reached as yet.

FARM TRAINING TO BE OFFERED EX-SOLDIERS

Government Plans Free Schooling In Farm Management For Returning Veterans.

By Associated Press.

Washington, D. C., March 10.—Returning soldiers who, previous to their entrance into military service, were farmers will be given training in farm management at the expense of the government, the federal board for vocational education announces. The training, it was said, will be offered particularly to those disabled to the extent that they would be unable to resume active farm work.

STRIKE LOSS $10,000,000.

Buenos Aires, March 8.—Shipping agents estimate that their losses resulting from the strike during the past two months amount to $10,000,000, according to a statement issued today after a meeting at which measures for combatting the port strikers were discussed.

SAYS JACK INNOCENT.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 8.—A statement soon to be made public by attorneys for Jack Pickford, motion picture actor, will completely clear him of charges implicating him in the recent navy scandal at New York, Mrs. Charlotte Pickford, his mother, declared today.

OPEN NOSTRILS! END A COLD OR CATARRH

How To Get Relief When Head and Nose are Stuffed Up.

County fifty! Your cold in head or catarrh disappears. Your clogged nostrils will open, the air passages of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more snuffling, hawking, mucous discharge, dryness or headache; no struggling for breath at night.

Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist and apply a little of this fragrant antiseptic cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothing and healing the swollen or inflamed mucous membrane, giving you instant relief. Head colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable. Relief is sure.—Adv.

Airplane Newspaper Delivery.

Am Mittig, a Berlin journal, is the first paper to employ air service in newspaper distribution. It sent its issues to Leipzig and Weimar. Herr Ulistein decided to supply the national assembly at Weimar with a regular service of newspapers and chartered a number of airplanes, the first of which left with the Vossische Zeitung.

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP

Why use ordinary cough remedies when Boschee's Syrup has been used so successfully for fifty-one years in all parts of the United States for coughs, bronchitis, colds settled in the throat, especially lung troubles? It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning, gives nature a chance to soothe the inflamed parts, throw off the disease, helping the patient to regain his health. Made in America and sold for more than half a century.—Adv.

To avoid criticism, say nothing, do nothing, be nothing.—Hubbard.

FRANTIC WITH PAIN

Long Suffering From Kidney Trouble More Than Words Can Describe. Doan's Brought Health and Happiness.

Mrs. Anna Thorson, 290 South St., Stamford, Conn., says: "I hadn't any more strength than a child, and after sweeping my back hurt me more and more. My headaches were so bad it seemed as though my skull were being torn into shreds and I would finally lose track of everything and lie in a stupor for hours. I felt I had to keep going or lose my mind and I kept up often when I trembled all over with weakness. My feet were swollen and every bone in my body seemed to ache.

Mrs. Thorson

My fingers got almost as rigid as pieces of wood and the knuckles swelled. The kidney secretions were dark colored, scanty and terribly burning. I suffered more than words can describe. I finally began using Doan's Kidney Pills and I believe with all my heart that they kept me out of the grave. I am well and happy after going through enough pain to drive me frantic. Doan's saved my life."

Sworn to before me this 13th day of Sept., 1915.

BENJAMIN M. AYRES,
Notary Public.

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

To Preserve and keep all household linen spotlessly white and in perfect condition use in the laundry every week.

Red Cross Ball Blue

Nothing else will take its place and nothing else is just as good. All grocers, 5c

Men With Rig

Wanted to sell Rawleigh's Products. Established demand. Large profits, healthy, pleasant, permanent. Give age, occupation, references. W. T. RAWLEIGH CO., Department WUN, Freeport, Ill.

Salonna Is a New CORN REMEDY discovered by two druggists, after many years of experimenting; and is guaranteed to give relief if used according to directions. If you are troubled with corns or bunions, do not fail to try Salonna. For sale by leading druggists or sent postpaid upon receipt of price, 25 cents.

New-Well Drug Co., P. O. Box X, Newell, S. D.

Old Folk's Coughs

will be relieved promptly by Piso's. Stops throat tickle; relieves irritation. The remedy tested by more than fifty years of use is

PISO'S

Combination Sale

Klemme Iowa

Almost everyone has something he does not use or need and others need just that article. I have decided to appoint myself the central figure in an

"Exchange Emporium"

for the accomidation of the public in general and myself in parricular. If you have anything to sell bring it in.

List your surplus with me, tell me your troubles

Bring in that table or rocker or if you have cows, horses or goats you don't want list them with me or at the State Savings Bank on or before the 22 of March in order to have everything on the bill for the sale which will be Sat. March 29.

Col B A Reemstma

Phone 508 Klemme Iowa

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly.
Your patronage is respectfully solicited.
Charges Reasonable.

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

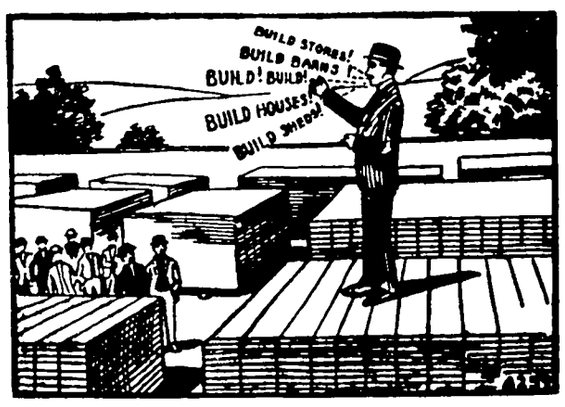
Coal Hauling Done

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16. Residence Phone No. 52



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

E. P. HANSON
REAL ESTATE AND LIVE STOCK
AUCTIONEER
GARNER, IOWA. PHONE 105
SATISFIED CUSTOMERS
MY BEST REFERENCE
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
PHONE OR WRITE FOR INFORMATION AND SALE DATES AT ONCE

W. F. PAVEY
The Practical Blacksmith
OXY-ACETYLENE WELDER
Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing
Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

RED CROSS GIFTS $400,000,000

War Council on Retirement Announces Cash and Supplies Contributed.

WORKERS WILL "CARRY ON."

Five Big Societies in World Wide Plan. H. P. Davison Heads International American Red Cross Commission. Dr. Livingston Farrand Permanent Leader of Peace Organization.

Washington.—(Special.)—Henry P. Davison as chairman issues the following statement on behalf of the War Council of the American Red Cross:

"To the American People:

"The War Council of the American Red Cross appointed by President Wilson on May 10, 1917, to carry on the work of the American Red Cross during the war, at their request and by vote of the Central Committee, ceased at midnight, February 28.

"Immediately the armistice was signed the War Council instituted studies to determine when the strictly war work of the organization would have been sufficiently matured to enable the direction of affairs to be resumed by the permanent staff. Henry P. Davison, being in Paris when the armistice was signed, summoned a conference there of the heads of all the Red Cross Commissions in Europe to canvass the situation. After considering all the factors it was concluded to make the transition on March 1. The very fortunate choice of Dr. Livingston Farrand as the new chairman of the Central Committee, and thereby the permanent chief executive of the Red Cross, makes possible the consummation of this plan under the most favorable conditions.

Accounts Audited by War Department.

"Detailed reports to Congress and a complete audit of its accounts by the War Department will constitute the final record of Red Cross activity during the war. Although it has been the rule to make public all expenditures when authorized and to give detailed information relative to all work undertaken, the War Council in turning over its responsibilities to Dr. Farrand and his associates desire to give a brief resume of Red Cross war time activities to the American people, to whom the Red Cross belong, and whose generous contributions have made possible all that has been accomplished.

"During the past nearly twenty-one months the American people have given in cash and supplies to the American Red Cross more than $400,000,000. No value can be placed upon the contributions of service which have been given without stint and oftentimes at great sacrifice by millions of our people.

"The effort of the American Red Cross in this war has constituted by far the largest voluntary gifts of money, of hand and heart, ever contributed purely for the relief of human suffering. Through the Red Cross the heart and spirit of the whole American people have been mobilized to take care of our own, to relieve the misery incident to the war, and also to reveal to the world the supreme ideals of our national life.

"Everyone who has had any part in this war effort of the Red Cross is entitled to congratulate himself. No thanks from anyone could be equal in value to the self satisfaction everyone should feel for the part taken. Fully 8,000,000 American women have exerted themselves in Red Cross service.

Has Over 17,000,000 Adult Members.

"When we entered the war the American Red Cross had about 500,000 members. Today, as the result of the recent Christmas membership Roll Call, there are upwards of 17,000,000 full paid members outside of the members of the junior Red Cross, numbering perhaps 9,000,000 school children additional.

"The chief effort of the Red Cross during the war has been to care for our men in service and to aid our army and navy wherever the Red Cross may be called on to assist. As to this phase of the work Surgeon General Ireland of the U. S. Army recently said: 'The Red Cross has been an enterprise as vast as the war itself. From the beginning it has done those things which the Army Medical Corps wanted done, but could not do itself.'

"The Red Cross endeavor in France has naturally been upon an exceptionally large scale where service has been rendered to the American Army and to the French Army and the French people as well, the latter particularly during the trying period when the Allied World was waiting for the American Army to arise in force and power. Hospital emergency service for our army in France has greatly diminished, but the Red Cross is still being called upon for service upon a large scale in the great base hospitals, where thousands of American sick and wounded are still receiving attention. At these hospitals the Red Cross supplies huts and facilities for the amusement and recreation of the men as they become convalescent. Our Army of Occupation in Germany was followed with Medical units prepared to render the same emergency aid and supply service which was the primary business of the Red Cross during hostilities. The Army Canteen service along the lines of travel has actually increased since the armistice.

"As for work among the French people, now that hostilities have ceased, the French themselves naturally prefer as far as possible to provide for their own. It has accordingly been determined that the guiding principle of Red Cross policy in France henceforth shall be to have punctilious regard to its every responsibility, but to direct its efforts primarily to assisting French relief societies. The liberated and devastated regions of France have been divided by the government into small districts, each officially assigned to a designated French relief organization.

"The American Red Cross work in France was initiated by a commission of eighteen men who landed on French shores June 18, 1917. Since then some 9,000 persons have been upon the rolls in France, of whom 7,000 were actively engaged when the armistice was signed. An indication of the present scale of the work will be obtained from the fact that the services of 6,000 persons are still required.

"Our American Expeditionary Force having largely evacuated England, the activities of the Red Cross Commission there are naturally upon a diminishing scale period. Active operations are still in progress in Archangel and Siberia.

"The work in Italy has been almost entirely on behalf of the civilian population of that country. In the critical hours of Italy's struggle the American people, through their Red Cross, sent a practical message of sympathy and relief, for which the government and people of Italy have never ceased to express their gratitude.

Supplies and Personnel to Near East.

"The occasion for such concentration of effort in Italy, England, Belgium and even in France having naturally and normally diminished, it has been possible to divert supplies and personnel in large measure to the aid of those people in the Near East who have hitherto been inaccessible to outside assistance, but whose sufferings have been upon an appalling scale. The needs of these peoples are so vast that government alone can meet them, but the American Red Cross is making an effort to relieve immediately the more acute distress.

"An extensive group of American workers has been dispatched to carry vitally needed supplies, and to work this winter in the various Balkan countries. In order to coordinate their activities, a Balkan commission has been established, with headquarters at Rome, Italy, from which point alone all the Balkan centers can be reached promptly.

"A commission has just reached Poland with doctors and nurses, medical supplies, and food for sick children and invalids. An American Red Cross Commission has also been appointed to aid in relieving the suffering of Russian prisoners still confined in German prison camps.

"An important commission is still working in Palestine. Through the war special co-operation has been given to the Armenian and Syrian Relief Commission, which was the only agency able to carry relief in the interior of Turkish dominions.

Red Cross Will Continue.

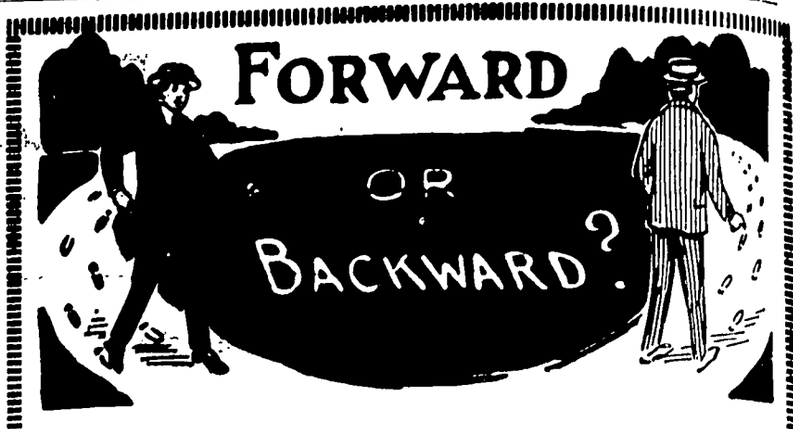
"Red Cross effort is thus far flung. It will continue to be so. But the movement represented by this work has likewise assumed an intimate place in the daily life of our people at home. The army of workers which has been recruited and trained during the war must not be demobilized. All our experience in the war shows clearly that there is an unlimited field for service of the kind which can be performed with peculiar effectiveness by the Red Cross. What its future tasks may be it is yet impossible to forecast. We know that so long as there is an American army in the field the Red Cross will have a special function to perform.

"Nothing could be of greater importance to the American Red Cross than the plans just set in motion by the five great Red Cross societies of the world to develop a program of extended activities in the interest of humanity. The conception involves not alone efforts to relieve human suffering, but to prevent it; not alone a movement by the people of an individual nation, but an attempt to arouse all people to a sense of their responsibility for the welfare of their fellow beings throughout the world. It is a program both ideal and practical. Ideal in that its supreme aim is nothing less than veritable "Peace on earth good will to men," and practical in that it seeks to take means and measures which are actually available and make them effective in meeting without delay the crisis which is daily recurrent in the lives of all peoples.

"For accomplishing its mission in the years of peace which must lie ahead of us the Red Cross will require the ablest possible leadership, and must enjoy the continued support, sympathy, and participation in its work of the whole American people. It is particularly fortunate that such a man as Dr. Livingston Farrand should have been selected as the permanent head of the organization. The unstinted fashion in which all our people gave of themselves throughout the war is the best assurance that our Red Cross will continue to receive that co-operation which will make its work a source of pride and inspiration to every American."

Mr. Davison, as chairman of the International Commission of the American Red Cross, has undertaken to represent the American Red Cross in the preparation of the program for extended Red Cross activities, and will spend the next several months in Europe in consultation with other Red Cross societies for that purpose.

THE WAR COUNCIL OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS.
Henry P. Davison, Chairman.



Which way are you going? Are you saving or are you

Running Behind?

You can't begin to go forward financially until you learn to save your money.

An account at this Bank is a long step Forward.

State Savings Bank

KLEMME, IA.

DR A H WEBER

DISEASES OF THE EYE, EAR, NOSE AND THROAT TREATED WILL BE AT HOTEL VICTORIA IN GARNER ON
TUES FORENOON MARCH 18
EXAMINATION FREE

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA;
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

Col. B. A. Reemtsma
General Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA
Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty
Call, write or phone 508 Klemme for dates, terms, etc.
...Satisfaction Guaranteed...

Disposing of Jean.

Enoch, of the age of seven, was discussing with his grandfather the exciting details of an imaginary trip of adventure, including all hazards of land and sea and air. They had just summarily dispatched a lion which might spring upon them unawares from the jungle, when grandfather suddenly asked: "Enoch, what about Jean?" (his little playmate). "You can't take her on such a dangerous journey." "Oh," said Enoch, complacently, "Jean —I'd kiss her and leave her at home."

Women and Housecleaning.

When a woman returns from a month's visit she says, "Oh, how I dread to begin cleaning up this house." But she doesn't. You can tell by the glee with which she seizes the broom and the duster and stirs up a great cloud of dust that she is now realizing that which she has eagerly anticipated all the time she was away. There is nothing a woman enjoys so much as kicking up a dust. For the dust is sure to come down again, and the source of it is never exhausted.—Kansas City Star.

Some Famous Italians.

Volta and Galvani made great contributions to the science of electricity, but Garibaldi was not a scientist. His energies all ran in the direction of battle for the social and political emancipation of humanity, especially of his own countrymen. If you have not already done so you should read the life of Garibaldi—the most popular name in the history of modern Italy.—Chicago Examiner.

Have No Silly Belief in Luck.

All successful men have agreed in one thing—they were causationists. They believed that things went not by luck, but by law. Belief in compensation—or, that nothing is got for nothing—characterizes all valuable minds.—Emerson.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH
A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7 o'clock.

Preaching service at the close of Epworth League service at 7:30 p. m.

Prayermeeting each Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Everyone is invited to all of our church services.

Nothing Good Made in a Hurry.

No great thing is created suddenly, any more than a bunch of grapes or a fig. If you tell me that you desire a fig, I answer you that there must be time. Let it first blossom, then bear fruit, then ripen.—Exchange.

Confidence in the Cause.

The champion optimist of America is private B——, now on active duty with his regiment somewhere in France. The regiment, after a turn in the trenches, was whiling away its time in a rest camp, and the officers were seeking to get the men to use some of their spare minutes in the study of French. The men did not take very kindly to the idea, and one of the officers sought to chide them for their lack of interest. Private B—— cut him off with the following query:

"What in h— do I want to learn French for? They don't speak that in Berlin, do they?"

Pickling Olives.

A new method of pickling ripe olives which, it is claimed, will increase the capacities of the factories over 200 per cent has been discovered by the University of California. Heretofore it has taken 15 days to pickle ripe olives. By this new method it can be done in six days or less. The process is a result of four years of experiments.

His Opinion.

Willis—What do you think of this plan of turning all the clocks ahead an hour each day?

Gillis—Just another foxy scheme of the bankers to make a man's notes come due sooner, I think.—Judge.

Some Satisfaction.

"How did the shortage of gasoline affect you?"

"Well," replied Mr. Chuggins, "it was a kind of comfort to know offhand exactly why the old machine wouldn't run."—Washington Star.

Inexorable Law.

The law of reaping as we sow runs through the universe. The man who sows pennies will reap a penny crop. The man who sows dollars will reap dollars.

Success and Defeat.

Success is so hard to endure. We can endure ten defeats better than one victory. Success goes to the head and defeat goes to "de feet." It makes them work harder.—Ralph Parlette.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

Spring Clothes

WE Wish to announce the arrival of Hart Schaffner & Marx line of clothes for ring. They're here in all the new models fabrics. You will be pleased with the offering---it's erent in many ways---waist line seams in single and ible breasted being the strong favorite for young men. re conservative styles for the older men.

Call in anytime and see the new Spring Hats, Neckwear, Dress Gloves, Hosiery, Caps, and numerous styles of the new Soft Collars.

See window for some of the new things

Special Hosiery Sale!

For Saturday and Monday

100 Dozen Men's black and tan hosiery, solid colors we will sell 4 Pairs for - - - - 85c

Two days only. These are regular 30c and 35c values.

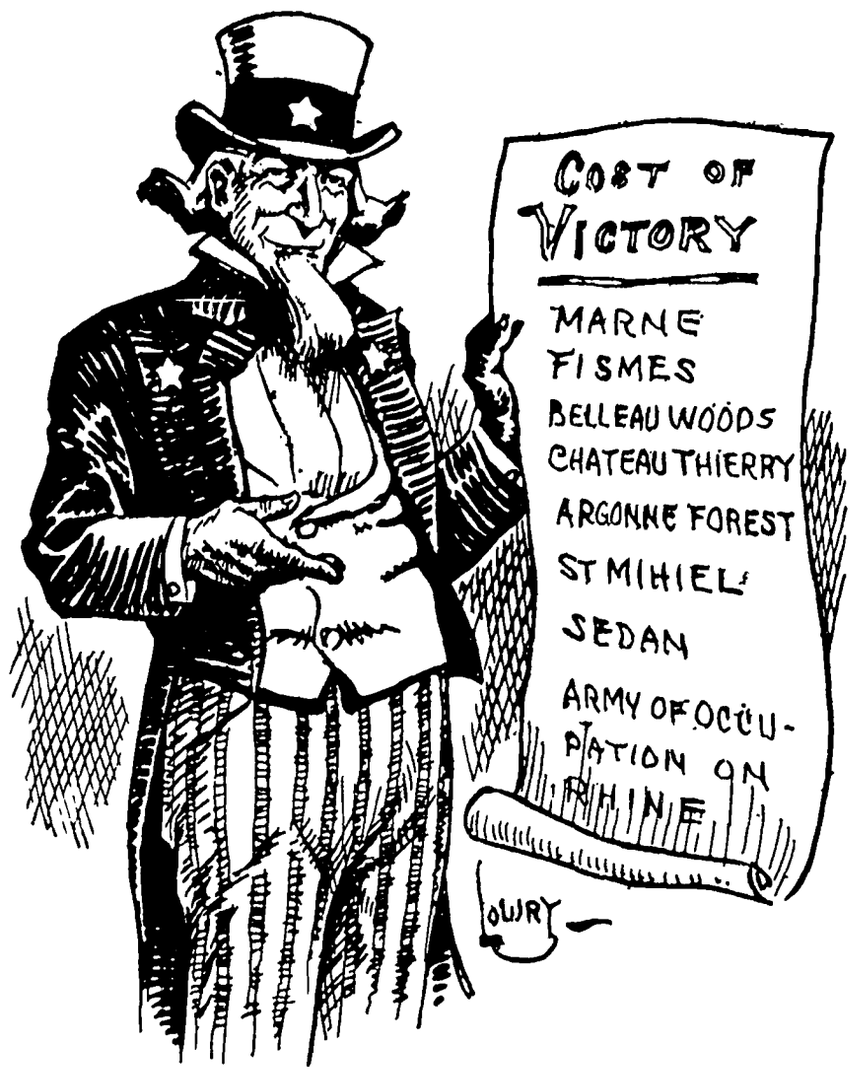
Get To Know

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

Stores Garner, Ia.

UNCLE SAM: "HERE'S THE BILL! YOU MUST PAY IT THROUGH VICTORY LIBERTY BONDS."



A Business Proposition

By WILL PAYNE.

Secretary Glass said the Victory Liberty Loan should appeal to the patriotism of the people of the United States and not be merely a business proposition

Isn't that so? It was no business proposition that sent two million young Americans to France and made nearly two million more gve up their time for more than a year to train for going. This Victory Loan is to pay for equipping them, sending them over, keeping them there and fetching them back Will you look one of them in the face and say, "As soon as you stopped fighting and I had given you three hearty cheers you became just a business proposition?"

But the loan is a business proposition, too—this way:

You are Uncle Sam—a hundred odd million of you, individually. Says Uncle Sam to himself, "I owe several million dollars—owe it now on due and maturing obligations that must be met to the last cent. My credit is practically unlimited. I can borrow that money of the banks. They've got to lend it to me. That will mean a huge inflation of bank credit—bank loans all swollen up with my paper—banks consequently in a poorer condition to take care of the ordinary business of the country.

But if I do horrow the money of the banks I've got to pay them back some time. There are only two ways in which a man can finally get out of debt. One way is to sell some property and pay up; the other way is to earn more than he spends, saving the difference. I have no property to sell. Can't sell the White House or the national forests. The second way is the only way for me. "Shall I borrow the money from the banks now and thereby put off the real settlement, or shall a hundred million individual Uncle Sams right now save out of their incomes and lend the saving to the collective Uncle Sam, thereby enabling him to pay the bills and wipe the slate, with no inflation, leaving the banks in sound condition to meet the needs of ordinary business?"

That is the question. It is your debt. You owe the money. Finally you've got to pay it in some fashion. To lend in on the banks now is the most expensive way temporarily to dispose of it. To save, individually, is the best and cheapest way. Even waiving patriotism, it comes down to a business proposition. Only the savings and subscriptions of the whole public can take care of the loan without inflation.

——HELP "FINISH THE JOB."——

THE FUN OF SAVING MONEY.

The fun of saving money! Best fun in the world, once you get started. Great game, isn't it, where every player wins, always, and no one could possibly lose.

What's the fun consist of? What constitutes the fun of any good game? The planning, the struggle, the contest; the spirit of competition, emulation, excitement; the rush, the climax, the triumph of making goal.

What's the cost, the price of admission? Just the cost of any good game; time, energy, the letting go of nonessentials for the joy of realized ambition and success.

What's the reward? The game and its gaining. The bliss of fighting, climbing, fighting and climbing to win.

What's the method? Begin and keep going. Make a start, set a goal and attain it. Start again and make the same goal in shorter period. Set a new and sterner goal and time limit and beat the record again.

Uncle Sam can't be beat as a partner, game credits foot up before you know it, and it doesn't cost much to sit in.

VICTORY LOAN AN APPEAL TO OUR BUSINESS SENSE

As a Business Proposition No Man Can Afford Not to Subscribe to Full Limit of His Ability.

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS, Author of "Tarzan of the Apes."

There are an infinite number of excellent reasons why we should support the Victory Liberty Loan.

The finest sentiments we possess must prompt us to subscribe to this loan even more freely than we did to the others. The government must get money or it would not ask us for it The man who was prompted to lend in the past through fear that if he did not the Germans might get over here and make it unpleasant for him is mighty "yellow" if he will not subscribe, now that the danger is past.

Our response to previous loans indicated that we were thoroughly in accord with the principles for which we were fighting, and by our response we authorized the expenditure of the sums necessary properly to prosecute the war. These enormous expenses must continue for some time. The obligations involved must not be repudiated. They are our obligations as individuals and we must look upon them as such. It is not only a matter of necessity; it is a matter of personal honor for us to meet these obligations promptly and gladly.

On the other hand, there is in the Victory loan an appeal to our business sense as well as to our patriotism There is the appeal to self-interest, for the loan is not to be without profit to us. We are given an opportunity to invest in an absolutely safe security, and we will receive a good rate of interest. As a business proposition no man can afford not to subscribe to the full limit of his ability.

And there is another reason why we should subscribe every cent that we can rake and scrape together. It is this: If the government cannot raise the necessary funds by the sale of Liberty bonds, it must do it by direct taxation. The government has the power to tax us to meet these obligations, and if we are taxed we not only will get no interest but we will never get the principal back again.

It seems to me that both the wisdom and necessity for fully and immediately subscribing this Fifth Liberty Loan must be obvious to anyone whose mentality is greater than that of a child of ten. We are supposed to be an intelligent people, capable of governing ourselves and others. We pride ourselves upon our business acumen, upon our energy and upon our patriotism. In the Victory Liberty Loan we shall have an opportunity to prove to the world that we are better than vain boasters, and that we are fully deserving of the estimate which we have placed upon ourselves as a people.

The time is here. The opportunity is here. The eyes of the world are upon us—upon you. What the world shall think of us depends not upon the action of others but upon what you do—YOU.

——HELP "FINISH THE JOB."——

To Bring Soldiers Back.

Part of the proceeds of the Victory Liberty Loan are to be used to bring our soldiers and sailors back and restore them to the useful occupations of peace. Every true-blue 100 per cent American should have a part in this work.

——HELP "FINISH THE JOB."——

It's Not Time to Quit.

The Germans, not the Americans, were the quitters, but our work is not finished until we have brought the victors home. Let's finish the job by oversubscribing the Victory Liberty Loan as we did all its predecessors.

KEEP THE LOAN FIRES BURNING, WORKERS!

"Finish the Job" Should Be the Slogan of Victory Liberty Loan Leaders of Seventh District.

SOLDIERS STICK TO POSTS

Chairmen and Their Aids Must Not Quit Until All the Government's War Obligations Have Been Discharged.

Returns at the five state headquarters in Chicago show that the committee chairmen and other important workers in the Seventh Federal Reserve district are signing up for the fifth big loan. They are actuated by the same sense of duty, it is reported fills the breasts of the soldiers still held in France The soldiers are there long for home, but they realize that their work is not done Garrisons must be held along the Rhine until peace has been formally signed and the terms of the peace treaty have been carried out

In the same way it is generally recognized by chairmen and other workers throughout the Seventh Federal Reserve district, the men who are responsible for the financial part of the war, cannot quit until the financial obligations are discharged. The big bills for any undertaking come in immediately after the completion of that work It would be an irresponsible business man, it is conceded on all hands, who would refuse responsibility for that part of his contractor's bills that came in after the driving of the last nail.

The Fourth Liberty Loan paid off the then outstanding treasury certificates of indebtedness and furnished enough new money to carry the government until mid December Since that date the treasury department has been borrowing from the banks at the rate of $300,000,000 a week, and by the time the Victory Loan is offered will owe nearly six billion dollars. The Fifth loan money will pay off these bank loans and carry the government until the money raised under the 1918 revenue act begins to come in.

The sudden termination of the war brought an increase in the day to day military expenditures. The total for December passed, for the first time, the two billion mark. The January total was slightly less, but exceeded any other month except January February promises to show a considerable decrease. The high daily outlays since the end of fighting have been due to the liquidation of the war machine, and were unavoidable. There is still a great mass of contract obligations to be cleared away—contracts entered into by business men for the rush production of munitions that would have been absolutely essential had the war gone on for a few weeks or months longer.

Chairmen and workers who happen to hear of anyone who is declining to participate in the next loan have ready to their hands a set of the best possible arguments against this sort of conduct.

In the first place the man who refuses to work in the next loan or to buy bonds of the next issue can be charged with being a quitter or a coward. Neither is an especially [illegible] can attribute. As a nation America have the reputation of seeing a thing through. And the fields of France proclaim that they are not cowards.

But the infrequent loan worker is saying that he cannot find time to participate in the Victory drive or does not feel any obligation to do so may be charged with cowardice. It is generally recognized where such an attitude is encountered that the man fears the fifth loan will not be a success. The man who is preparing to quit now, it is pointed out, is doing so because he does not want to be identified with a failure. The answer to this is that none of the 6,000 marines who stopped the victorious German march on Paris at Chateau Thierry asked to be excused from going into the fight because he expected it to be a failure. Yet all the foreign military men thought that the Americans could not stop the Germans at this point.

Another argument answers a good deal of half-hearted comment which maintains that it makes no difference whether the banks have to take the loan. But the business man or the wage earner who thinks that it makes no difference to him is decidedly mistaken. If the public does not take the bonds the banks, as everyone knows, must do so. Now on December 31 the national banks of the country had resources of $20,042,224,000 This was the first time in the nation's history that the total ever got above the twenty-billion mark.

This enormous banking power shows, for one thing, that the nation can take another six billion loan with ease if the organization gets out and works. But it also shows something else. The twenty billion, of course, is greatly more than the total that is actually available for credit operations. If the banks should have to take the greater part of the next loan, and to add this burden to the more than two billion now tied up in Liberty loans, and the additional treasury certificates

FOLLOWS SAFE PLAN

...ys and Holds Her Investment Grows by Accumulating Safe Bonds.

...e story of Miss Mary E. ... for forty-five years previous worked in a Chicago store:

...s Hallam began to earn ... had the same qualifications that everyone has—health and average intelligence she had none. But ...thing else as good if not ...preciation of the advantage and an unswerving ...mood.

...store salaries are not ...ded as the best stepping ... prosperity. Yet Miss ...ved. She saved a part ... each week and invested ... never speculated. She ... only into such investments would yield a sure interest ... her death she left an ... at $70,000.

...allam, during the earlier ... progress toward prosperity the advantage of investing ...ds, her pace would have ...e rapid. In her younger ...ars no government bonds ... order to be sure that ...nds were safe she carefully ... the investment field and ...omparatively low rate of ... she succeeded in spite ...

...men and women, starting ...ave a great advantage. ...for the first time since ...government bonds of the ... available to the small ...Before 1917 the small gov...ds were snapped up by ... their own special uses. ...rty bonds may be bought ...and at a higher rate of ... would ever have been possible had it not been for the war

The government soon will offer to the people one more chance to participate in a great loan. By that time the nation will have contracted a floating debt of more than $5,000,000,000, which must be provided for

Miss Hallam's story shows that anybody can save and accumulate And common sense shows that everybody who is saving can find no investment quite as good as Uncle Sam's Victory Liberty bonds.

——HELP "FINISH THE JOB."——

SAVE NOW FOR OLD AGE

Where Will You Stand at Sixty-five—What You Do Now Provides for the Future.

Do you want to be dependent on friends, relatives or charity when you are sixty-five years old? If not, get ready to buy Victory Liberty bonds to the utmost of your present ability, and lay them away against old age.

This advice is founded upon the researches of the statisticians employed by the life insurance companies. They have devoted much study to the problem of dependency, and they know. They have found that of one hundred healthy average young men who start out in life at the age of twenty-five years:

Thirty-six will be dead before they reach the age of sixty-five, most of them leaving families unprovided for.

Of the remaining sixty-four men, at the age of sixty-five years:

One will be rich.

Four will be fairly well-to-do.

Five will be supporting themselves by working.

FIFTY-FOUR will be dependent upon friends, relatives or charity.

IF YOU DO NOT WANT TO BE NUMBERED AMONG THE FIFTY FOUR, FORM THE HABIT OF SAVING AND THRIFT. THE BEST AND SAFEST INVESTMENT FOR YOUR SAVINGS IS IN UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BONDS

——HELP "FINISH THE JOB."——

Get Behind the Victory Liberty Loan.

"Peace must be financed as well as war, and the initial stages of peace may be found ever more expensive than war Therefore, get behind the Victory Liberty Loan when it comes."
—Secretary Glass.

——HELP "FINISH THE JOB."——

THE MISER AND THE WOMAN.

A miser, born in a land afar,
Who'd gained a fortune over here,
Where Liberty is the guiding star,
Looked up from his gold with a bitter leer
"I got it by pinching and going without,
They call me greedy; I am," said he,
"The Nation's call to lend I flout.
For bonds theyll get no gold from me."

A woman gazed on a star of gold.
She'd given all she had to give,
And sacrificed to lend 'twas told,
That Liberty and Land might live.
"And I'll lend again and again," she said.
"To help to remedy war's ills,
And to keep true faith with our hero dead
By helping pay our wartime bills."

Weekly Health Talks

A Single Remedy Often Cures Many Diseases

BY VALENTINE MOTT M D.

It is almost impossible to give a list of the endless diseases that follow indigestion. Perhaps a whole column in this newspaper would be required to print them all. You eat to keep alive—to supply blood and flesh and bone and muscle and brain. It is easy to see that if your food is not digested and taken up by the delicate organs and distributed where it is needed a disease of some sort is sure to come. Dyspepsia is a common symptom, and so are [illegible] complaints of the nervousness [illegible] neglected, indigestion [illegible] throat diseases, [illegible] more dangerous [illegible] disorders arise because the food is not properly digested [illegible] plain even to a [illegible] are to be had [illegible] by confusion in [illegible] of Buffalo, N. [illegible] a number [illegible] temperance [illegible] called at [illegible] Medical [illegible] It is probably [illegible] ever made [illegible] of simple all er [illegible] countless ills [illegible] Golden Medical [illegible] total of thou-

[illegible] better than this [illegible] to play with this [illegible] me. It will show [illegible] you what it will [illegible] Golden Medical Dis- [illegible] assured of one very [illegible] contains neither alco- [illegible] There is nothing in [illegible] and herbs that possess [illegible] of a high order. A [illegible] he only kind you can afford to take.

All That Is Necessary.

So your frock [illegible] will be no difficulty about modifying the daring display in [illegible] evening attire?"

"None whatever" answered Miss [illegible] "In order to dispose of objectionable gowns all that is necessary is [illegible] and declare them unfashionable."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

[illegible] as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Mucous Surfaces.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

All Druggists 75c. Circulars free.
F. J. Cheney & Co. Toledo, Ohio.

Peppery Pulchritude.

"Bob's fiancée is pretty, but she has an awful temper."

"Is that why they say she's a raving beauty?"—Boston Transcript.

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for Infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

In Use for Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

And there never was a woman who knew it guessing as she acted.

Spanish Influenza can be prevented easier than it can be cured.

At the first sign of a shiver or sneeze, take

HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form—safe, sure—no opiates—breaks up a cold in 24 hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine box has a Red top with Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.

U. S. CONGRESSMAN QUICKLY FINDS STOMACH RELIEF

Georgia Taggart, M. C., from Kansas, Declares EATONIC Best for Indigestion He Ever Used.

A congressman hears many arguments for and against different propositions. His mind is open to conviction, but before he casts his vote on any measure he insists upon evidence that, on its own weight, carries conviction.

In the case of "EATONIC" Joseph Taggart, Congressman from the 2nd District, Kansas City, Kans., decided that a trial of the remedy, itself, would furnish the most conclusive proof. He did his decision and do what he tells you. "One box of EATONIC will convince the most skeptical. It is the best remedy I have ever tried for indigestion.

Respectfully,
JOSEPH TAGGART,
M. C. 2d Kan. Dist., Kan. City, Kans."

Nearly all stomach trouble is caused by too much acid in the stomach.

EATONIC neutralizes the excess acidity and enables you to eat what you like and digest what you eat in comfort. It keeps the stomach in a state of perfect health.

Then it takes away the gas out of the body—and the headache goes with it. Costs only a cent or two a day to use it. Get a box today from your druggist.

ICE MACHINES

For making ice and refrigeration for all purposes. Manufactured by

BAKER ICE MACHINE CO.

2211 L. Nicholas St. Omaha, Neb.

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

CHAPTER XIII (Continued)

Bates heaved a deep sigh, as of a man eased of a great burden. His whole story bore the stamp of truth, and his manner of telling it was straightforward and earnest. There was no reason for doubt. Though a startling tale, it entirely explained many of the strange conditions that had seemed so bewildering. It would never have occurred to Bates nor to any one to connect the poison and what it was could be gleaned from the unrelated robbery, but the superstition that makes even the most hardened criminals refuse to steal from a dead person? Therefore the narrative was accepted as probably true, and Bates was taken to the Tombs to await further proceedings against him.

"You're a wonder," said Gray Haviland as that same afternoon, he discussed the matter with Fleming Stone. "Would you mind telling me how you went straight to the criminal and walked him off to jail?"

"That was practically a bit of luck," and Stone smiled. "It was the blackjack that gave me the clue. If the fellow hadn't dropped that in his fright, we might never have traced him. Though we would perhaps have found him eventually, through the maid, Estelle. She is not good at keeping things secret. However, he did drop the weapon, and it led straight to him."

"But how?"

"Well, the thing smelled strongly of creosote. Now, it was made from a bit of old cloth that looked like a piece of some discarded garment—a man's coat, say. If the odor had been camphor or moth balls, I should have assumed a garment laid away in storage, but creosote is not used for that purpose. So I deduced a house recently remodeled by use of a certain kind of shingles. I know that the odor of those shingles clings to everything in the house for months. It is almost ineradicable. So I looked about for a house lately reshingled."

"Why not a new house?" asked Hardy, who was present.

"A point well taken," said Stone, nodding approval, "but in a new house the odor often is dispelled before the people move in. In a remodeled house the furnishings stay there during the work and so are deeply impregnated with that unmistakable smell of creosote. At any rate, I worked on that, and, when I found that a newly shingled old house was a boarding house of the type Bates would be likely to live in, I went there to see, and found him."

"Yes, but how did you know there was such a person as Bates? Where did you get his name?"

"From your cook," returned Stone, simply. "I concluded there was no doubt that Estelle had let the man in and relocked the window afterward. So I deduced a friend of the girl's so dear to her that she would do this for him. I asked the cook, Mrs. Haskins, as to Estelle's admirers and learned that there were two—Bates and Higgins. Mrs. Haskins couldn't say which one Estelle more favored, so I decided to try both. Bates, the cook told me, lived in a boarding house near here, and Higgins over in New York. So when I asked Estelle a few leading questions I pretended to greater knowledge than I really had. I spoke of a name beginning with either B, H, or S. She fell into the trap and said quickly that she knew no one initialed S. Then I said 'but beginning with——' and waited. She said no name, but involuntarily her lips formed a silent 'B,' and I knew she had Bates in mind. The rest was easy. Bates, the boarding house and the shingles formed a combination too indicative to be merely coincidence. And so we found him. And I, for one, believe his story. I know the strong superstition that imbues those people concerning a corpse, and the unexpected discovery that he had attacked one was enough to make that man beside himself. Indeed, it's a wonder that he didn't make an outcry in his terror and fright."

"I have heard of your prowess in these matters," said Haviland, "but I didn't look for such quick work as this. Why, you hadn't even interviewed Estelle when you came to your conclusions about Bates."

"No, but remember, I have seen a full account of all the evidence, not only at the inquest, but all that has been gathered by the police and by Mr. Hardy here. Last night I read all this carefully, and it was enlightening on these points that led up to today's work. But, now, I don't mind telling you, Mr. Haviland, that a much more difficult and complicated problem faces us, to discover who gave to Miss Carrington the poison that killed her."

"Have you any suspicions?" and Gray looked the detective straight in the eyes.

"I have not, as yet," and Fleming Stone returned the steady gaze. "Have you?"

Gray Haviland hesitated. Then he said: "I would rather not answer that question, Mr. Stone. If I should have suspicions, and they should be unjust or ill founded, is it not better to leave them unmentioned, even to you? You are here to discover the criminal. I cannot think my suspicions, if I have any, could help you, but they might easily hinder you by wrong suggestion."

"Very well, Mr. Haviland, just as you please. But I assume you will tell me frankly anything you may know or learn in the way of direct evidence bearing on the matter?"

"That, certainly." But, though Haviland's words were a definite promise, his tone and manner seemed hesitant and a trifle vague.

"Am I to have the privilege of working with you, Mr. Stone?" inquired Hardy, his heart beating tumultuously lest he receive a negative answer.

"If you care to. And if you are willing to work in my way. I am somewhat impatient of interference or questioning. But, if you want to assist in investigating, under my absolute orders, I shall be glad to have you do so."

Nothing was further from Hardy's mind than to interfere or to show any undue curiosity concerning the work or methods of the great detective. He was more than content to watch silently, to run errands, and to make himself useful in any way desired by his superior. He said this, and Stone nodded indulgently.

"I shall begin with this matter of the arrest of Count Charlier," said Stone, as he looked over his note book. "Either that man is the guilty party or he is not. If not, he must be released. If so, it must be proven. What do you know of his history, Mr. Haviland?"

"Very little, Mr. Stone. In the first place, I doubt his right to the title he assumes."

"You do? And why?"

Haviland looked a little embarrassed. "I'm not sure I know why. But he doesn't act like a real Count."

"Yes? And how do real Counts act, I mean in ways that differ from this man's habits?"

"You're having fun with me, Mr. Stone," and Gray blushed like a school boy. "But I mean it. It's this way: I'm not a Count, but if I wanted to pretend I was I'd act just as Count Charlier does. There!"

"Good! That's definite, at least. Now make it a little more so by describing some of these actions."

"Well," and Haviland's brow wrinkled; "well, to begin with, his manners are too slick and polished."

"A traditional trait of Frenchmen."

"Yes, if real. But his seem artificially, purposely—oh, fakely polished! Have you seen him, Mr. Stone?"

"No, not yet."

"When you do, you'll see what I mean. He has shifty eyes, and he rubs his hands together, and if he's standing he half bows with every sentence he utters, and he smirks instead of smiling, and his whole attitude is a 50-50 of apology and bumptiousness."

"Bravo! You've given a graphic picture of him at all events. I'll reserve further consideration of his personality until I have seen him."

"You believe implicitly all that story of Bates, do you, Mr. Stone?" and Haviland looked dubiously at the detective.

"Yes, I do, at present. If anything turns up to disprove any part of it, I may have to revise my ideas. But, just now, it seems to me that Bates told the simple truth. To be sure, he only told it because he feared an accusation of murder, and he knew that to confess to the lesser crime would go far to help him deny the greater."

"You may be right. But might there not be collusion between Friend Count and Bates?"

"Collusion?"

"Just that," and Gray shook his head doggedly. "I've a vague idea that Frenchy is mixed up in this thing somehow. Now, he couldn't possibly have administered the poison himself personally, nor could he have struck the blow personally, but couldn't he have hired the man Bates to do it for him?"

"On the face of things, Mr. Haviland, does that look plausible? Is the Count, as you describe him, a man who would engage a burglar of the Bates type to commit a brutal crime? Again, if Bates were merely the Count's tool, would he not, when caught, pass the blame on to his employer?"

"He sure would! You are right, Mr. Stone, those two never hooked up together! It's out of the question. But, as Estelle and Bates are in cahoots, why didn't she give Miss Carrington the poison herself?"

"Well, she did fix the bromide, hoping to make her mistress sleep soundly. But the lady never took it. Now, if the maid had given or expected to give the poison, why the bromide at all?"

"But, look here," broke in Hardy, "mightn't it be that Estelle did do the poisoning and arranged the bromide as a blind, to put us off the track, exactly as it has done?"

"There's small use speculating about that poison," said Stone thoughtfully, "we must go at that systematically. We must find out where it was bought and by whom. People can't go around buying deadly poison without a record being made of the sale. We must inquire of druggists until we find out these facts."

"There's no druggist about here who would sell aconitine," said Hardy; "it doubtless was bought in New York."

"That, of course, adds to the difficulty of tracing the sale, but it must be done. Mr. Hardy, I will ask you to do all you can to find out about that."

"You want to look up a French apothecary," advised Haviland. "That Count is at the bottom of this, as sure as shootin', and he's full clever enough to hide his tracks mighty closely. Why, that man is a fortune hunter and an adventurer, and he wanted that $10,000, and he poisoned Miss Lucy to get it! That's what he did! And he was on deck that night, after the jewels, that's where he was! It was he in that room talking, it was he who left his glove there—of course, he didn't know it—and now you've got him under lock and key, I hope you'll keep him there, and not let this Bates discovery get him the slip. If the two were not working together, then, surely they are incriminated separately, and you want to look into the case of little old Mr. Count!"

"You may be right, Mr. Haviland," and Fleming Stone smiled at him, "but I think you are assuming a lot because of your prejudice against the Frenchman. Was he very attentive to Miss Carrington? Had he proposed marriage to her?"

"That we don't know. Of course, we had all been afraid he would——"

"Why afraid?"

"Oh, we didn't want my cousin to marry an adventurer. Of course, he only wanted her fortune, and, as her business manager, I had a right to interfere, or at least to look after her interests enough to prevent that."

"But was she not a capable woman, who could be supposed to know her own mind?"

"Ordinarily, yes. But, there's no use mincing matters. Miss Carrington greatly desired to marry. However, she paid no attention to men whom she did not consider interesting. There were several such, and she sent them packing. The Count, though, she took to at once, partly because of his title and partly because—well, he has a way with him. He flattered her, and she took the bait like a hungry fish!"

XIV.

WHO GAVE THE POISON?

Though Fleming Stone's acumen and quick perception had led to a swift apprehension of Bates, his next steps were not taken so rapidly. He spent much time in the boudoir of Miss Carrington, as if striving to make the walls tell what their traditional ears had heard.

The upset breakfast tray had been removed, but nothing else disturbed. Estelle had owned up, after Bates' arrest, that she did drop the tray, in her fright at the sight of the dead lady, and that she afterward denied it lest she be suspected of wrongdoing.

The plate that had contained sandwiches was still on the bedside table, but the glass of milk, with bromide in, had been carried away.

Stone looked at the empty plate, and wondered. Had the poison been placed in the sandwiches? By anybody else? Who had had opportunity? Estelle had brought the sandwiches and milk to the bedroom, according to her usual custom, when she prepared the bed for the night. A tiny serviette had been over the sandwiches, and was still there beside the plate. Stone looked at it. A mere wisp of fine linen, with a monogrammed corner. The few wrinkles in it showed clearly to Stone's sharp eyes the dainty touch of fingers that had held the caviarre sandwich. It undoubtedly denoted that Miss Carrington had eaten the sandwich. Had any one merely removed it, the napkin would have been uncreased. He had been told that she rarely ate this night luncheon, though it was always placed for her. Why had she partaken of it on that particular night? Had some one advised her to? Or urged it? Had the Count really visited her in the boudoir and, having previously arranged the poisoned sandwiches, made sure that it would perform its deadly mission? Could he have entered the room unknown to the rest of the household?

Stone went to the window. Yes, that matter was easy enough. A balcony outside the long French window was connected with the lower veranda by a spiral staircase. Any one could run up the steps and be admitted to the boudoir in perfect secrecy. Stone wondered for a moment why Bates hadn't entered that way, and [illegible] realized that for a marauder to appear at the window would have frightened Miss Carrington and caused an outcry. The entrance of the Count, however, whether expected or not, would be easily effected.

If the Count were really guilty, the circumstances were all explicable. Suppose Miss Carrington had made the appointment. Would she not, in her vanity, have donned the beautiful boudoir gown and the jewels to appear attractive in his eyes? And, supposing she had playfully caught his glove as he removed it, and had half unconsciously continued to hold it. Then the conversation alleged to have been overheard by Miss Frayne would have been addressed to him, and the remarks would be, at least, intelligible.

The snake? Ah, yes, the snake. As to that there was no hint, no clue of any sort. But then, the thing was so inexplicable that the explanation must be easy. A clue so strange, so bizarre, must lead somewhere. That could be left to the future. Now, he must decide on his first steps.

The decision took him to call on Dr. Stanton, and the physician welcomed him warmly.

"Glad to see you, Mr. Stone," he said; sit down, sir, sit down. I've been wanting a talk with you ever since I heard of your arrival. So you've ferreted out the burglar already! Great work, great work indeed! And now for the real murderer. You see, sir, I'm up to the minute in my information regarding this case."

"Glad to know it," returned Stone. "Now, Dr. Stanton, I hope you can help me. I don't mind admitting the thing has its baffling aspects. The burglar was easily traced, and easily disposed of. The real work, as you say, is just beginning. Will you, sir, tell me all you know of the poison that killed Miss Carrington?"

(Continued Next Week.)

Maj. John W. Huffer, a native of the United States and one of its war heroes, last week set foot on his native soil for the first time in his life. Major Huffer, who is 23 years old and the son of Americans who have been in business in Paris for a period covering his lifetime, served from the beginning of the war, first in the American ambulance corps, then the Foreign Legion, the French aviation service, and the United States air force. He was the teacher of Raoul Lufberry, and has been awarded two war medals, one being the croix de guerre with six palms.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS

Don't Stay Gray. It Darkens Naturally that Nobody can Tell.

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied. Those whose hair is becoming faded have a surprising way of restoring them, because after one or two applications the gray hair disappears and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray, faded, unattractive folks are not wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound to-night and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and youthful appearance within a few days.—Adv.

Forest Waste

We have used up [illegible] half of the forests we originally [illegible] possessed, though there are [illegible] supplies in nearly every state [illegible] natural forests. The excellent work of the forest service [illegible] growing faster than they are [illegible] cut. When a tree is cut [illegible] than one. It reaches the consumer [illegible] The mill wastes amount to [illegible] per cent of the tree. Forest fires [illegible] annually $25,000,000 to $50,000,000. There are 147 national forests in the United States, consisting of 619 acres.—Thrift Magazine.

FREE INFORMATION FOR HOMESEEKERS.

The U. S. Railroad Administration has assembled information regarding [illegible] opportunities in the several states, and will furnish it to homeseekers [illegible] The work will be done through the established homeseekers' bureau at quarters in Washington.

"We are receiving about 1,000 letters a week from persons who wish to engage in farming," said J. L. Edwards, director of the Agricultural Section of the Railroad Administration. "They come from every state, asking agricultural advantages in [illegible] tory. We furnish dependable [illegible] through our service many [illegible] been able to find just what they are looking for.

"Our information is put out in the form of illustrated booklets, by states, to those sufficiently interested to write us and tell us what kind of a farm they have in mind, and naming the opportunities in which they desire to investigate. Homeseekers can find in the United States productive land at reasonable prices and on liberal terms, favorable markets, excellent transportation facilities, a satisfactory climate and good growing conditions. Now that the war is over I look for a revival of farm development beyond that of any pre-war period." Correspondence from homeseekers is invited. Address, Room 2000, Homeseekers' Bureau, U. S. Railroad Administration, Washington, D. C.—Adv.

Fame's Sliding Scale

Landlord of County Hotel—You can have the bedroom in which Charlie Chaplin slept—two guineas—or the one once occupied by Mr. Parnell—one guinea and a half—or the one Mr. Gladstone used when electioneering—one guinea.

Visitor—Thanks. But might I ask, you think, have a look at the room in which Robinson, or Jones, or Brown put up when down this way?—Bystander Show, London.

COUNT FIFTY! PAINS AND NEURALGIA

Instant relief! Rub this nerve pain and misery right out with "St. Jacobs Liniment."

Rub this soothing, penetrating ointment right into the sore, inflamed nerves, and like magic—neuralgia disappears. "St. Jacobs Liniment" conquers pain. It is a harmless "nerve relief" which doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

Don't suffer! It's so needless. Get a small trial bottle from any drug store and gently rub the "aching nerves" and in just a moment you will be absolutely free from pain and suffering.

No difference whether your neuralgia is in the face, head or any part of the body, you get instant relief with this old-time, honest pain destroyer—it can not injure.—Adv.

Averting a Difficulty.

"Has the fact that your wife has made any real difference in your life?"

"A little," admitted Mr. Meekton. "I used to have mild ambitions to run for office. But now I wouldn't think of tempting Henrietta to arise and publicly express her conscientious opinion of my abilities."

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

To half pint of water add 1 oz. Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 1 oz. of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at little cost. Full directions for mixing come in each box of Barbo Compound. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Adv.

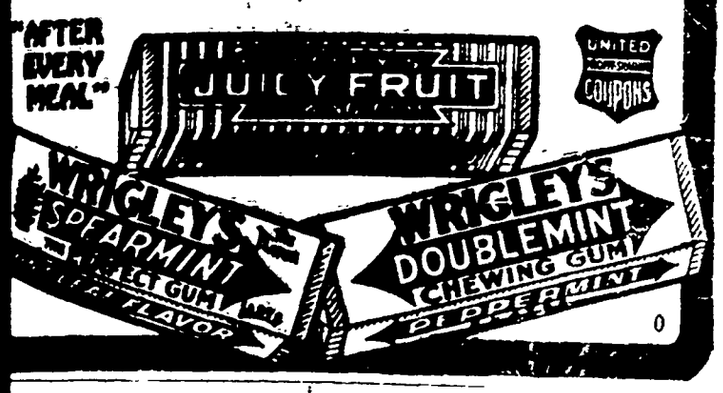
There's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip, but there is only a step between a man and the sidewalk.

Your Eyes Granulated Eyelids, Inflamed Eyes, Sore, Itching Eyes quickly relieved by Murine Eye Remedy. No Smarting, just Eye Comfort. Your Druggists or by mail 60c per Bottle. For Book of the Eye free write Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago.

WRIGLEY'S

The Flavor Lasts

All three kinds sealed in air-tight, impurity-proof packages. Be SURE to get WRIGLEYS



Itching Skins th Cuticura

Soap, Ointment 25 & 50, Talcum 25. Sample, Address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. T, Boston."

...on your money, no more, no less. Secure good land, $10 or any multiple. Bank Home Land & Cattle Co., Fresno, Mont.

CITY PTG. CO., NO. 11-1319.

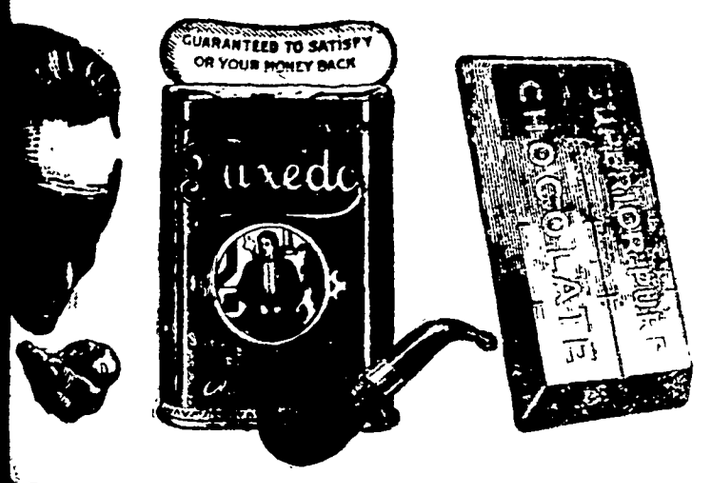
An Exception

"Is it possible for a man to acquire a reputation for wisdom by saying nothing?"

"Not if he happens to be in charge of an information bureau."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Peppery Pulchritude.

"Bob's wife is pretty, but she has an awful temper. Is that why they say she's a raving beauty?"



"Your Nose Knows"

All smoking tobaccos use some flavoring. The Encyclopaedia Britannica says about the manufacture of smoking tobacco, "... on the Continent and in America certain 'sauces' are employed ... the object of the 'sauces' is to improve the flavour and keeping qualities of the leaves."

Tuxedo uses chocolate—the purest, most wholesome and delicious of all flavorings! Everybody likes chocolate—we all know that chocolate added to anything as a flavoring always makes that thing more enjoyable. That is why a dash of chocolate, added to the most carefully selected and properly aged burley tobacco, makes Tuxedo more enjoyable—

"Your Nose Knows"

Try This Test: Rub a little Tuxedo briskly in the palm of your hand to bring out its full aroma. Then smell it deep—its delicious, pure fragrance will convince you. Try this test with any other tobacco and we will let Tuxedo stand or fall on your judgment—

"Your Nose Knows"

Tuxedo

The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe

Guaranteed by The American Tobacco Company

A GOOD PRAYER.

From the Meccan

A [illegible] God Teach me not to complain at [illegible] take an [illegible] [illegible] And [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] I can [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] under [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] from I have [illegible] [illegible] I [illegible] [illegible] I [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and in doing thereof that [illegible] [illegible] stick the gift where [illegible] [illegible] belong

But [illegible] to the faults of the [illegible] fellow but reveal to me [illegible] [illegible]

Help me so that each night when I look across the dinner [illegible] at [illegible] also has [illegible] a [illegible] [illegible] I will have such [illegible] to reveal

Keep me young enough to laugh with my children and to lose myself in their play

And then, when comes the smell of flowers, and the treading of soft steps and the coming of the hearse wheels the gravel out [illegible] [illegible] make the [illegible] [illegible] and the epitaph [illegible] [illegible] Man

SMOKED TO DEATH.

[illegible] [illegible] a few minutes after 7 a.m. [illegible] [illegible] took out of the [illegible] [illegible] by was bright [illegible] [illegible] The sun was [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to be up [illegible]

Twenty minutes later I happened to look eastward again. This time the sun was a ball of red fire. We were entering a medium sized manufacturing city and hundreds of chimneys were belching smoke into the air. The sun was less than an hour high and the ordinary beam was unable to penetrate the pall of smoke dirt and dirt which hung over the city.

I watched the sun as we pulled away from the station, traversed another section of the city and reentered the country. The redness of the ball of fire was gradually transformed into the radiant whiteness of the unobscured sun and presently we were out into the whole again.

The sun rays so powerful in many ways are not much in the curing power. A few feet below the surface of the ocean eternal darkness prevails and the animal life found resident there are without eyes. A few feet just below the earth's surface we reach a zone to which light does not penetrate. The amount of dirt in a cubic yard of air is supposed to be about equal to the ocean bottom proposition after all and the sun becomes powerful enough to filter out the germs.

In the early morning and late afternoon the sun rays penetrate many miles of air to reach the section of earth in which we live and work or play. If the air is dirty enough much of the ray gets through and when does is without power to kill germs.

This winter the air has been exceptionally dirty. For one thing we have had to burn whatever the mine have seen fit to sell us, and they have run in all sorts of slag dirt and general trash that they had no more profitable use for and sold it to us as coal. Some of them should be indicted as profiteers and grafters.

There are other sources of dirt in the air and smoke only carries a part of the blame but between them I suspect they have added to the death rates this winter.

The busy season for the city doctors is the late winter and the spring. It is during these months that he spends most of his time [illegible] a long list of patients [illegible] sickness which he combats is [illegible] borne in the main. On the other hand the busy season for the country doctor in most sections at least is the summer and autumn. During these months the people get out to attend [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] kind of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] to contend are not [illegible] born.

[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [

And we can prove it!

We are selling Alder-Rochester and Michaels, Stern & Co. Suits at $5.00 less than is usually asked for clothes of the same make and manner.

We are giving the men of Northern Ia. not only one of the biggest values we have ever given—but the longest run for their money they have ever given themselves.

We are taking less profits then we are entitled to and for our reward we are brining the business of this territory into our fold, and having the time of our life doing it.

351 Spring Suits and every one a Value.

$35 to $45

"That good kind."

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

"Where a dollar does it's duty"

We are now selling

Sweet Home Bread

Try a loaf today; it's sure good!

We also have a fine assortment of Rolls, Bismarks, Buns, Cookies, Dough-nuts, Cakes, etc.

"If It's To Eat—We Have It"

CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, Props.

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105

RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments

Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in

Groceries Dry Goods

Shoes Ladies Wear

Hardware Paint

Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed.....1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger.....3:03 p. m.
435, Passenger.....8:44 a. m.

South

436, Passenger.....6:17 p. m.
1068, Passenger.....11:25 a. m.
820, Freight.....12:15 p. m.

Having received several requests to resume my calls to Klemme, I have decided to accommodate those who desire Osteopathic Treatments and will be at the Klemme Hotel Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Dr. R. W Schultz, Osteopathic Physician.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ax were Garner visitors between trains Saturday.

Ray Miner, of Garner, attended the masquerade dance here Friday night.

G. W. Kluckhohn was a Garner visitor Saturday between trains.

E. C. Ford, of Garner, was a business caller here last Friday.

Pete Becker, of Garner, was a business caller in Klemme Friday.

FOR RENT—A three room house. Inquire at First National Bank. 2w

Earl Ellsworth, of Garner, was a Klemme business caller last Friday.

G. P. McCullough spent Sunday with his folks at Garner.

Floyd Ollenberg has resigned his position at the E. G. Ell garage.

Oscar Musfelt spent Sunday at Garner.

Elmer Fuller was over to Garner between trains Tuesday morning.

Mr. Carolus was a Garner business caller between trains Monday.

Dwight Smith of Garner was transacting business in Klemme Tuesday.

J. S. Wesson, of Garner, was in Klemme Monday doing veterinary work.

FOR SALE—12 months' old Red Scotch Topped Short-Horn Bull, ready for service. Emil W. Lau. tf.

It was reported to us the other day that Holly Lewis was on his way home from France.

Dr. R. W. Schultz, of Garner, was a Klemme visitor Monday between trains.

FOR SALE—Some fine Turkeys, Bourbon Reds. Inquire of Mrs. Frank Sandrey.

C. C. Tessier, of Garner, came over last Friday evening to play for the Masquerade dance at the Idle Hour Mart Bachman was over to Garner on business last Saturday between trains.

Mr. P. M. Griesemer spent Sunday with his parents at Garner, returning to Klemme Monday noon.

Mr. W. H. Nolan went to Mason City on business Monday, returning to Klemme Tuesday evening.

Miss Celia Brouwer, of Ventura, visited over Sunday with Miss Ella Schuldt of this city.

Mrs. A. L. Emerson and Mrs. F. H. Ridder were Garner visitors between trains Tuesday afternoon.

Dr. R. W. Schultz, Osteopath of Garner, will be at the Klemme Hotel on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 11:30 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. adv.

Chris Blumer has accepted a position in the Wellemeyer Dept. Store in he new repair department. He began work there last week.

FOR SALE—White Wyandotte cockerels and one "Old Trusty" 240 egg incubator nearly new.

Ralph Ludeke.

Messrs. A. Kelley, D. D. Ross, and Aug. Katter, of Garner, were Klemme visitors last Thursday on a business mission.

Lieut. Grover Cleveland Dailey, of the 32nd Engineers A. E. F. who recently returned from overseas, visited with Klemme friends last week.

Burr Church returned from Miller Saturday evening where he has been the past week assisting Alvin Stokesberry to move onto a farm near there.

F. H. Ridder was a business caller in Des Moines a couple of days last week, returning to Klemme Saturday morning.

The Misses Gretchen and Minnie Blank and Mabel Waterman visited at the A. Ahrenkiel home at Goodell over Sunday.

Mrs. Wilkins and Mrs. Meinderts moved into the rooms over the Kirkwood Boarding House, Monday, where the ladies will go to housekeeping.

A baby boy arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Nelson last Friday night. Andy is doing some tall stepping now-a-days.

Daily Thought.

Nothing is impossible to industry.—Periander of Corinth.

Fred Ridder and Aug. Lau left on Monday evening for various points in Oklahoma. We understand they went down there to look over some oil fields.

Harry White was seen on our streets again Saturday after a couple of weeks' wrestle with pneumonia. Harry says he is feeling pretty good but a little shaky yet.

C. L. Blumer has his new house completed now and informed us that he drove the last nail last Thursday. The work is all completed with the exception of varnishing some of the wood work.

The report reaches us that Dr. R. M. Thomas has safely arrived in New York from overseas duties as a veterinary. Dr. Thomas was one of the first to enlist and go across when the war was declared on Germany. He was commissioned 1st Lieutenant.

Henry Yahnke, of Garden City, Minn., was here last week to attend the funeral of Leo Wilkins. Henry says he likes Minnesota fine, that he is living in town at the present, but soon expects to move onto his farm. He returned to Garden City Saturday morning.

The masquerade at the Idle Hour Theatre last Friday night was well enjoyed by all who attended. All who were on the floor were masked and some very good costumes were in evidence, both well dressed and comical. The music was also of the best. Remember that there is a dance at the Idle Hour on every Friday night.

Ben Katter was in town Tuesday and we wondered why he was so hilarious. After questioning him for a while he informed us that a great big eleven pound baby boy had arrived at his home Saturday. Ben was setting up the smokes and telling everybory he saw of the wonderful event. The young son and mother are both doing well

Mr. Will Payne, who takes subscriptions for the Cedar Rapids Republican, was a business caller in Klemme Tuesday. Mr. Payne also writes stories for the Saturday Evening Post and doubtless you have read many of his stories. He get ideas for his stories and character sketches while out among the people taking subscription. While here he was a pleasant caller at the Times office.

George Lenz arrived in Klemme Saturday from Camp Funston for a visit with his sister, Mrs. A. H. Meyer. Mr. Lenz has just returned from overseas service where he was fighting the Hun for about a year. He was in a snipe-shooters company and was among those who did such excellent work in driving the Prussians out of the Argonne Forest where some of the heaviest fighting has occurred during the war. He has two decorations, one for snipe-shooting and one for being a sharpshooter. Mr. Lenz has his gas mask, helmet and automatic pistol and also a number of war relics which he brought with him.

Monday we received a letter from "Scoop" Larsen who is at Gondrecourt, France. In the letter he enclosed a copy of the Overseas Edition of the Camp Dodger which we looked through and discovered that it was dated Monday, February 17th, and also that it stated that the 88th Division would be on it's way to the United States in about a month, that means that the Division is perhaps on it's way over the old pond now. There are several Klemme boys in this division, viz.: "Scoop" Larsen, Albert Etchen, Wilkins, and Henry Lienne. The 88th Dvision will be mustered out at Camp Dodge, according to the Overseas Camp Dodger.

Jekyll and Hyde Plant.

It seems strange that the products needed for the feeding and clothing of our bodies can be used also for destroying us and our property. Take cotton for instance. In times of peace this product of the southern farm is woven into clothing, its seeds furnish us oil, feed and fertilizer. It is transformed into the moving picture film that entertains and instructs us. But when international disputes arise this same cotton is turned into an explosive that destroys and mutilates all that it comes in contact with.—Indiana Farmer's Guide.

Tact Always Wins.

Of this truth we may rest assured: The tactful person never gets into trouble. She may go anywhere, mingle with all types of people, and then pass onward leaving only a most favorable impression in their minds. Therefore, the truly practical one will gladly put herself out a wee bit in order to retain the good will of others. For this attitude will not only help her immeasurably, but will certainly make easier and smoother the ways of all with whom she comes in contact.

We have it! What?

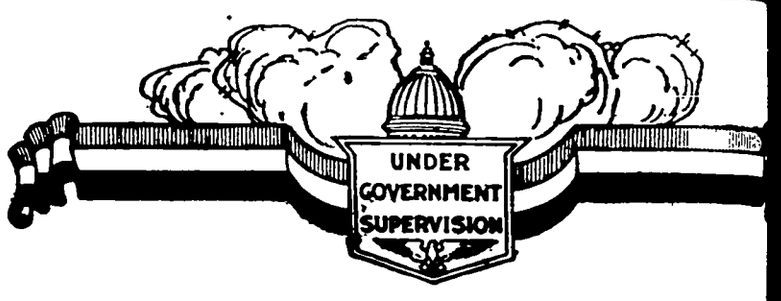
Everything

Which is found in only the best and most up-to-date Meat Markets.

You will always find a complete line of Choice Meats, Hams, Bacon, Fancy Meats and Canned Goods

Try Our Oleomargarine---It's Fine!

J. P. Larsen & Sons



Why go without this Protection

Considering that a modern, fire, and storm-proof deposit box may be for $1.00 per year, it seems poor policy indeed for anyone to be without this protiction bonds, stocks, insurance policies and other valuables.

If your valuables are valuable protect them. The cost is nothing compared with the trouble, inconvience if out-and-out finicial loss you may suffer by keeping your insecrely protected at home.

We still have a few boxes for rent but very few. Make your reservation early.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Iowa

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

All Kinds of Hardware

HARDWARE AND GROCERIES

Stoves and Furnaces

Paints, Oils, Feed, Flour, Cream Separators, Buggies, Wagons, Gasoline Engines.

All Kinds of Farm Machinery

GREUTZMACHER BROS.

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Telephone No. 14

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days a the week at Highest Market Price.

Successor to W. R. Bloom

DR. L. R. PARSON

DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savings

Phone No. 48.

Klemme Iowa

KLEMME TIMES

VOLUME XXIII NUMBER 29 — KLEMME, IOWA, THURSDAY March 20 1919 — $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County

High School Declamatory Contest

The Local High School Declamatory Contest will be held at the "Idle Hour" Friday evening Mar. 28. Following is the program:—.

ORATORICAL DIVISION

Meaning of America's entry into the War	Fred Arnold
America First	Fern Church
The Great European War	Lulu Newberger
What Democracy Means	Earl Josten
Needed—A United Country	Emery Schaefer

DRAMATIC DIVISION

Across the Border	Mable Waterman
The Advcates First Plea	Edith Haupt
The Going of the White Swan	Bernice Gimer

HUMOROUS DIVISION

Jathrop Lathrop's Cow	Mildred Johnson
A Case of Fits	Viola Sampson
Aunt Janes Lecture on Motorcycles	Adna Church
An Automobile Ride	Annabelle Carlson

Tires --- Tires --- Tires

We have the most complete line of es in the city. Goodyear - Fisk and iamond and Standard Four guaranteed om 4000 to 5000 miles in reach of
.

We can sell you tires at following ices–

30 x 3 $12.50	31 x 4 $26.66
30 x 3½ $17.14	32 x 4 $27.15
32 x 3½ $20.25	33 x 4 $28.76

34 x 4 $29.21

ok your car over and see what you need so you will ready for the Spring Driving.

Come in and look our line over.

Miles Garage — PHONE 30 — WE BEST NOW TRY THE BEST — KLEMME, IA.

When You Are In Need

Of a Good Hair-cut or Shave

Visit

McCullough's Barber Shop

Where Sanitation and Courteous Treatment Go Hand in Hand.

ncy for the Best Laundry in the State, basket leaves Wednesday and comes back every Saturday.

G. P McCullough, Prop.

KLEMME ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION BEGINS WORK

The Klemme Athletic Association is growing rapidly and each meeting is bigger than the preceeding one. Last week on Tuesday evening the members of the Association met at the Odd Fellows Hall where the plans were again outlined by the President. The minutes of the preceeding meeting were read and then the meeting was open for discussion One of the important subjects brought before the meeting was the problem of erecting a new school house in Klemme. A committee was appointed to investigate the problem. Another very important subject brought up was the question of entertainment for Klemme during the summer After discussing the situation from both sides it was finally decided that we would put on a free street attraction in Klemme one every week instead of having boxing contests only A committee was appointed to lay plans along this line. Other interesting subjects are also brought up at the meeting and all should plan to attend them They will be held every Tuesday evening. Don't get the idea that the meetings are held for athletics alone, that was the original idea, but since that time the Association has practically become a Booster Club for a bigger Klemme. Come out to the meetings on every Tuesday night You are missing something very good by not being there. Every citizen of Klemme and vicinity are invited to come, also we want all to have their name down on the list as a member

WHAT ABOUT A NEW SCHOOL HOUSE

We haven't heard anyone make a very great noise about a new school for Klemme Isn't it about time to get busy on that proposition? Are we going [illegible] in the dark always? No! W[illegible] we going to see our [illegible] a new school? Now

Kle[illegible] school, needs it the[illegible] Without a new school [illegible] ssible to have a complet[illegible] ool with twelve grades. A[illegible] situation is at the present time [illegible] necessary for the students to [illegible] rner or elsewhere to complete [illegible] gh School education—at [illegible] pense. The school we hav[illegible] ded, in fact the teacher[illegible] re students under their sup[illegible] now than the State Laws of Iowa allow. What are we going to do about it? Are we going to go along in the same old rut, with a shortage of teachers and over-crowded with students? There is not room enough in the old building to have more teachers and do justice to the pupils at the same time. What's the answer?

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD

Garner Pays Last Respects To Venerable Woman

GARNER, Ia., March 17th—Funeral services for the late Mrs. Cecil Reed Ryan were held in the Congregational church yesterday at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Geo. Baker officiating. Appropriate music was sung by Mesdames Baker, Healey, Clark and Miss June Wildman, accompanied by Mrs. Alice Hahn The church was filled to its capacity with sympathetic friends.

The pall bearers were Carl O. Roe, John Love, Chas. Bailey, Roy Sinclair, Sam Wesson and Chester Moe.

Mrs. Ryan was born in Goodell, in 1891, moved to Garner with her parents while a small child, graduated from the Garner high school and was married to James Ryan eight years ago. There are left to mourn her loss three little ones, Kenneth aged six, Doris four and Lucile two, also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Reed, three sisters, Mrs. Mary Reed, teacher in state teachers' college, Miss Lucile, music teacher at Greenfield, Mrs. Chas. King of Council Bluffs, an uncle Mr. Spruse, with his wife, at Fort Dodge, all of whom were in attendance at the funeral.—Globe-Gazette.

His Time Had Come.

Again that ringing in his ears! It was the warning he had dreaded. He knew his time had come. Yet, although he had started at the sound, he seemed half-dazed and wholly careless of the consequences. But still the ringing in his ears! "Drat it!" he finally said, and springing from bed the careworn commuter shut off the alarm clock and proceeded to dress for the 7:10 train.—Puck.

Married

LIEUT. DIEHL AND MISS MARIE SCHAVER MARRIED

Last Friday afternoon a quiet little wedding was held at the First Methodist Church when Lieut. Edward Diehl of Cedar Rapids and Miss Marie Schaver, at present of this city as a teacher in our schools, were united in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony. Rev. A. H. Meyer performed the marriage ceremony. Only the immediate friends of the contracting parties were present.

Lieut. Diehl has just received his discharge from the army shortly before coming here to claim as his bride the ideal lady of his choice. The Bride has taught in our schools since last Fall and has shown her ability as a good instructor, also being talented in other lines and taking active part in social and church circles.

They left on the six o'clock train for Iowa Falls, Cedar Rapids, Waterloo and other points for a week's honeymoon trip before returning to Klemme, where Mrs. Diehl will continue her school work until the close of school when the couple will go to housekeeping

The Times joins the many friends of the happy young couple in wishing them lots of good luck thru-out a long married life of happiness.

Mr. Price and Miss Heginer, both of Liberty Township, were married at the First Methodist parsonage last Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Meyer. We are not acquainted with the happy young people and therefore cannot give the details as we would like to do. However we wish them happiness and prosperity.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all our neighbors and friends for their kind and willing assistance, and for the many and beautiful floral offerings presented in Memory of our loving husband and father.

Mrs. J. C. Kershner
Mrs. J. B. Spittler

TO THE INVESTOR

When your banker is contemplating making a loan, his first move is to learn the security he is to hold to insure the safety of his money After his investigation he finds the security sufficient to cover his loan he then proceeds to execute the loan.

The Iowa Cord Tire Co., of Des Moines, only ask that the same precaution be used when contemplating investing in their securities they are offering at par, and after having satisfied yourself that the following is true, Viz: Is it a good safe, conservative investment? Yes. Is your money secured by 35 acres of real estate in Des Moines and a modern plant and equipment covering 45,000 feet of floor space? Yes. Then good things require quick action. No other representations made other than those that exist, a square deal co-operative company. Think it over.

Smith & Willoughby,
(adv) Representatives

We want to inform our readers that Harry White is NOT Harry White. Harry White is Harry Smith! Now Harry Smith does not object to being called Hary White once or twice, but we have called him by that name quite often and we are not quite sure if we will ever be able to get Harry White and Harry Smith separated into a state where we can recall them readily. Anyway Harry White is not Harry White, Harry White is Harry Smith from now on, and we will not try to change his name to Harry White. He will go by the cognomen of Harry Smith only.

The obituary of J. C. Kershner will appear in the next issue of the Times. We were unable to get it at this time, due to a mistake in sending it to another paper and leaving no copy.

Source of Republic's Strength.

Government in a well-constituted republic requires no belief from man beyond what his reason authorizes. He sees the rationale of the whole system, its origin and its operations, and, as it is best supported when best understood, the human faculties act with boldness and acquire, under this form of government, a gigantic manliness. —Thomas Paine.

Church Notes

ENGLISH METHODIST CHURCH

Services Sunday, March 23rd, as follows:

Morning worship at 10:00 o'clock
Sunday School at 11:00.
Song service and sermon at 7:30 p. m. Male quartette and other special music.
Everyone come.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH, SUNDAY, MARCH 23, 1919

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10.00 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11.00 o'clock.

Sunday Evening Epworth League at 7:00 o'clock.

Preaching Service in the evening at at 7:30 o'clock.

Midweek prayermeeting on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Choir practice each Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

GARNER PREACHER ALMOST GETS IN BAD

Signal—Rev. Gauger got off the train here last Wednesday morning, the porter carrying his suit case for him. After the train pulled out Mr. Gauger discovered that the suit case he had did not belong to him. He wired to the conductor and had the proper suit case put off at Britt. The suit case that was left here was opened and found to contain several bottles of whiskey. It is lucky that there was none of Attorney General Havner's special agents on the job here that morning or the Reverend might have had some fun explaining matters.

Delay Is Fatal.

When a marraige is put off, the probability is that it will never occur. The fine burst of courage which enables a man to face a marriage service comes to him only once or twice in his lifetime.—Topeka Daily Capital.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

Ford cars have become such a world utility that it would almost seem as if every family ought to have it's Ford car. Runabout, Touring Car, Coupe, Sedan, (the latter two have enclosed bodies), and the Truck Chasis, have really become a part and parcel of human life. You want one because its service will be profitable to you. We solicit your order at once because, while production is limited, it will be first come, first supplied.

E. G. ELL

Authorized Dealer

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

National thought in Japan has become unbalanced of late years, asserts Dr. Sawayanagi, president of the Imperial Education Society and member of the house of peers. For ages past, he asserts, Japan's thought was dominated by Buddhism and Confucianism, but now they have lost their control over the minds of thinking Japanese and these persons have no further ground on which to stand. Since Japan was opened to foreign intercourse new ideas have come in and disturbed the thought of the people, but a foreign thought has supplied no substitute for Confucianism and so has failed to unify Japan's foreign ideals. Until some great leader arises who can inspire his countrymen with great ideas, such as are natural to them the problem will not be satisfactorily solved.

Custom authorities have encountered the first case of an airplane imported into the United States under its own motive power. An American bought a Canadian plane and it was flown across the border near Detroit. The question then arose as to whether it was dutiable particularly since airplanes are not mentioned in any tariff acts. Customs officials finally decided that if it remains permanently in the United States it should be taxed as a "manufactured article" at the rate of 30 per cent and if it flies out of the country again within six months it will be regarded as "on a tour" and will not be taxed.

Government operation of the merchant marine was opposed as "utterly impossible" in an address in New York by J. H. Rosseter, director of operations of the United States shipping board, who favored "a sort of franchise system" under which privately owned lines would be encouraged, and supported, if necessary, by the government." He said that government operation of ships would be destructive to our aspirations, and disapproved federal management of the railroads, as well. He advocated that federal authorities maintain control "as to maximum rates."

Initiative and dash of the American troops brigaded with the British in the campaign which began September 29 last for the St Quentin canal, and resulted in breaking the Hindenburg line were held to have been the "deciding factors" in the war by Brig Gen Palmer E. Pierce, who arrived on the Mauretania. He said the Germans now were commenting on the "wonderful new discipline" shown by the Americans, whom they previously regarded as "bushwhackers." General Peirce was appointed to West Point from Traer, Ia

Miran Sevasly, chairman of the Armenian National Council of America, has been in Washington conferring with officials regarding the question of the United States becoming the mandatary for Armenia under the proposed League of Nations. Mr Sevasly said the people of Armenia, as well as Armenians in America and Europe, desired that the United States act as mandatary for their country and that, while they would have to accept the will of the majority nations, they did not wish to have a European nation as a mentor

Only 1 per cent of the shell shock cases had to be returned to the United States for treatment. Of the remaining 99 per cent, 65 per cent recovered in field hospitals, 30 per cent in evacuation hospitals, and 4 per cent in special hospitals for the treatment of nervous diseases. The recoveries in the American army are attributed to the high standard of physical examination required for all soldiers going abroad. There was less insanity in the American army than in any of the allied armies.

A German wireless message picked up in London alludes to a "threat" made by General Nudant, Marshal Foch's representative on the joint armistice commission at Spa, because the Germans have failed to turn over to the allies industrial and agricultural machinery. The message explains that German firms constructing the required material have been unable to complete deliveries, owing to strikes and a shortage of railway cars

The correspondent of the London Times in Buenos Aires writes The increasing signs of rapprochement between Spain and Argentina suggests the likelihood of the formation of a group composed of Spain and Spanish-speaking South American countries, perhaps with the vague idea that it is necessary to counter the union of English speaking races. King Alfonso's announced visit is the latest symptom of this tendency

Thompson's renomination for mayor of Chicago is interesting in a national as well as local aspect. His great pluralities were won in German districts and among the negroes. His support by the latter has no national significance, but it will be a shock to the country to find that at the present moment it pays to cultivate the German vote.—New York Evening Post.

Maj C T Williams, of Baltimore, a medical member of the relief expedition to Russia, says "All Americans are popular with the Russians, but none more so than the American soldiers billeted in peasant homes, who by their friendly attitude, particularly to the children are winning their way straight to the hearts of the populace."

An attempt to have the conference of governors indorse government ownership of railroads was defeated by acclamation.

In Petrograd alone the deaths from famine three weeks ago numbered 200 daily. Typhoid, or "hunger typhus," is carrying off young and old everywhere and in Moscow glanders is epidemic, says a dispatch.

The corporation of the city of Brussels has decided to propose to the city council that it offer Egmont palace, formerly the Arenberg palace, as the seat of the League of Nations. Before the war the palace contained a valuable collection of paintings of the Flemish and Dutch schools of the Seventeenth century.

One of the largest German business houses in Yokohama before the war, dealing in machinery, drugs and other imports, announces that its buildings and lands are for sale.

Charles H. Smith, an American railway expert now in Vladivostok, cabled to Acting Secretary of State Polk his acceptance of appointment as American representative on the inter-allied committee supervising operation of the Siberian and Chinese eastern railroads.

On his word of honor to return to prison after visiting his dying wife in Monterey, President Carranza recently allowed the former Diaz general, Ignacio Morelos Zaragoza, to leave the military prison at Santiago Tlalteloo. After his wife's funeral the aged general returned to his cell.

The employes' demand for abolition of piece work was not granted by the national war labor board, but it was recommended that piece workers be guaranteed minimum hourly rates for time lost waiting for materials and under other circumstances beyond the workers' control

QUICK ACTION ON AUTOMOBILE BILL

Governor Signs Measure to Transfer License Business to Office of State Treasurer.

Des Moines, Ia March 17.—Governor Harding yesterday afternoon signed the bill which takes the automobile department of the state out of the secretary of state's power and places it in the hands of the state treasurer.

GET TO THE BOTTOM.

Des Moines, Ia. March 17.—The house judiciary committee in its investigation of the Ernest Rathbun pardon case wants to get at the very bottom of the case. Chairman T. P. Harrington contemplates repeal of the laws which require secrecy in grand jury proceedings so he can get evidence not now available. The contemplated repeal is Harrington's answer to the refusal of J. L. Kennedy, Sioux City, to act as assistant counsel for the committee, and his plea that he would not make a good witness.

GIVE THE PAROLE BOARD MORE POWER

Des Moines, Ia., March 17—Representative Rogers' bill making it the duty of the governor to receive recommendations from the parole board before issuing pardons has passed the house unanimously Eighty-five votes were cast. The bill also provides publication in a Des Moines paper and a paper in the county of conviction in all cases where a pardon is sought when sentence is death or life imprisonment.

The bill proposing recording of discharges of soldiers and sailors without charge by county recorders has passed the house.

Davidson's bill, which makes it possible for cities to erect community centers as memorials to soldiers in the late war has passed the house. The bill provides that upon petition of 15 per cent of the legal voters of a community, an election must be held on all such memorials.

In an effort to reduce freight rates down to the tariffs charged before June 25, 1918, when the United States railroad administration granted a general increase in rates, McGhee, of Cerro Gordo county, has introduced a joint resolution in the house to be used as a memorial to congress.

PLENTY OF ROOM FOR TREATMENT OF ADULTS

Iowa City, March 17.—Adult cripples entitled to treatment at state expense under the extension of the Perkins law can be accommodated easily at the University of Iowa hospital, declared Dr. W. T. Graham, superintendent of the hospital. The opening of the new children's hospital has left in the general hospital four floors of one wing vacant

SHORTHORN CATTLE SELL WELL AT MARSHALLTOWN

Marshalltown, March 17.—Fifteen thousand eight hundred dollars worth of Shorthorn cattle were sold at auction here yesterday when the 73 offerings of members of the Marshall County Shorthorn Breeders' Association brought an average of $216. The price of the sale was $1,025 paid for 7-year-old cow. The best price received for males was $625 for a 5-year-old bull Young stock sold exceptionally well, heifers bringing $115 to $295, and bulls from $115 to $300.

MRS. F. F. FAVILLE IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Fort Dodge, Ia., March 17.—Mrs. F. F. Faville, of the Iowa Federation of Woman's Clubs, is critically ill with pneumonia. She is not expected to live Mrs Faville was taken suddenly ill Thursday Her husband, F. F Faville, a prominent attorney partner of Robert M. Healy, is also dangerously ill with influenza and erysipias. There is hope for his recovery, however

NECK BROKEN BY FALL DOWN STAIRS

Marshalltown, Ia., March 17.—Samuel S. Partlow, aged 48, former hotel owner of Grinnell, Ia., but in more recent years a traveling salesman out of this city, fell down a flight of stairs yesterday while on his way to his room and broke his neck He was dead when passersby discovered him lying at the foot of the stairway. His body will be taken to Grinnell for burial.

CEDAR RAPIDS—At the annual sale of the Aberdeen Angus Association of Iowa, now on in this city, 45 cows and heifers have been sold at an average price of $518. The highest price so far paid for a single animal was $1,775. The cow was the property of Carl Rosenfield, of Kelly, Ia., and the purchaser was Ray Plummer, of Marshalltown.

COUNCIL BLUFFS—The Western Iowa Editorial Association closed its session here last night with a banquet at the Council Bluffs Chamber of Commerce. Election of officers resulted. President, C. W Morley, Treynor Record, vice president, Hardy Howe, Sidney Argus; secretary-treasurer, L. C. Hatch, Council Bluffs.

WASHINGTON — Representative Towner, of the Eighth Iowa district, who is the new chairman of the house committee on insular affairs, will depart soon with the committee for Porto Rico, where the legislators will be the guests of the Porto Rican government for three weeks. Mrs. Towner will accompany Congressman Towner.

SHENANDOAH—John Walker, detective for Mayor J. M. Glone, to search out booze venders, was sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Frederick Fischer when he refused to tell where he found a supply of which it was said he had imbibed too freely

GLIDDEN—Mrs. Walter Bennett, wife of a farmer living east of town, is in a Carroll hospital near death from burns. While sitting with her back to the stove at home, her dress caught fire and she was badly burned over the back, arms and chest and portions of her face and neck

SENATOR KENYON IS BACK IN IOWA

Comes For Rest and to Recuperate—To Give Views on the League of Nations Soon.

Fort Dodge, Ia., March 14.—Senator William S. Kenyon arrived in Fort Dodge late yesterday from Washington He is much run down and is resting up before resuming his duties. He would not be interviewed. He has gone to the country for a short rest. A statement from him on his views on the League of Nations is expected soon.

DECLARES IOWA'S SUPPORT CERTAIN

Iowa Banker Tells Conference State Ready to Do Its Share to Put Over New Victory Loan.

By United Press.

Chicago, March 12.—Representatives of banks and trust companies in 16 states, whose institutions control approximately $12,000,000,000 of America's wealth, were here yesterday to discuss plans for floating the Victory loan. The central states conference of bankers was in session.

M. H. Calderwood, Eldridge, Ia., president of the Iowa Bankers' Association, declared the loan will be successfully sold, though not easily.

"The country has done it before," said Calderwood, "and I know we can do it again Iowans are richer than ever. They now hold $475,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds, but they will buy more for they know the loan must go over and they will do their share."

M. R. Denver, of Wilmington, Ohio, president of the Ohio Bankers' Association, expressed a similar belief.

IOWA SUPREME COURT HANDS DOWN DECISIONS

Des Moines, Ia., March 14.—The following decisions have been handed down by the Iowa supreme court:

Jensen et al, appellants, vs. Seurhuhlen, mayor et al, Pottawattamie county, affirmed.

Braland vs. Christenson, appellant, Hamilton county, affirmed.

Ney, appellant, vs. the Eastern Iowa Telephone Company, Johnson county, reversed and remanded.

Gruwell et al vs. Gruwell et al, appellants, Wapello county, reversed.

Stevens, administratrix, vs. Peoples Savings Bank et al, appellants, Monroe county; reversed and remanded.

Central Life Assurance Society, appellant, vs. City of Des Moines et al, Polk county; affirmed.

Lunde vs. Town of Slater, appellant, Story county; affirmed.

Ersland vs. Town of Slater appellant, [illegible] county; affirmed

[illegible]man vs. Mason City Auto Com[illegible] et al, appellants, Cerro Gordo [illegible]unty; reversed.

[illegible]ves Pump and Planter Company, [illegible]ant, vs. Sears et al, Van Buren [illegible]ty, affirmed.

[illegible]ones, administratrix, appellant, vs. City of Fort Dodge et al, Van Buren county, affirmed.

Consolidated school district of Ellsworth vs. Thompson, appellant, Hamilton county, affirmed.

CHILD SUFFOCATED IN CARELESS MANNER

Ocheyedan, Ia., March 14—The 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Ebbenga, residing about six miles northeast of Ocheyedan, was smothered while the family was moving to a farm near Bigelow, Minn. The child was bundled up and put among the mattresses for the 19-mile drive and was dead when the family reached the end of the journey.

UNDERTAKER DIES FROM A SLIGHT SCRATCH

Jefferson, Ia., March 14—Mark Wood, a furniture dealer and undertaker of this city, died from blood poisoning which developed after he had scratched his hand a few days ago in preparing a body for burial. He is survived by his widow and three daughters, Mrs. Homer Duncan, of Jefferson, Mrs. Elmer Delaplane, of Carroll, and Mrs. Fern Masters, of Omaha, Neb

WESTERN UNION HEAD QUITS HIS JOB

Dubuque, Ia., March 14.—F. J Kearney, for many years manager of the Dubuque office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, has announced his resignation, to take effect in April Mr. Kearney will go to La Crosse, Wis., where he is interested in a manufacturing concern.

TO FREE ENEMY ALIENS.

By Associated Press.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 12.—Approximately 200 enemy aliens, inmates of the war prison barracks at Fort Douglas, near here, will be released during the next 10 days, it was announced today by R. M. Price, of the United States bureau of investigation. All of the enemy aliens released will be given transportation from Salt Lake to the place, where they were taken into custody.

The balance of the men confined at the prison barracks will probably be deported to Germany and Austria.

Within the past year 6,000 Americans in France have married French women, according to the Petit Journal The brides, for the most part, says the newspaper, were country girls or employes of town establishments.

The American Federation of Labor delegates, headed by Samuel Gompers, declared themselves in agreement with the French and British labor interests as to holding the proposed labor conference at Berne, but they indicate it would be impossible for the American Federation of Labor to send delegates to such a conference unless it was postponed to August or September

Training Little Children

The Real Mother Is as Careful to Train Her Child's Character as to Provide for His Physical Wants.

Suggestions for Mothers issued by the United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., and the National Kindergarten Association, 8 West 40th Street, New York.

A YOUNG mother recently related an ocurrence which had repeated itself on several occasions in her home and which she had found most trying She said "My children go and get their clean stockings and tie knots in them in connection with a game they play, and often when I start to dress the children I can't find a single stocking that hasn't been tied tight several times. One hot summer afternoon, I lost patience. 'Anne,' I exclaimed to the eldest, 'Why do you cause me such annoyance, day after day?' 'What are mothers for?' she asked, and I saw that she was right."

I gravely asked this thoughtless mother if it would not have been better for Anne to aid in the task of untying the stockings, being led, by sharing the toil, to feel grateful for the many times her mother's patient hands had done it for her.

"Oh, she couldn't untie them," she answered, with a shake of her head.

"Had she tried, and found it impossible, she might, of her own accord, have stopped knotting the stockings," I replied

"But I wanted to take the children to pay a visit, and there wasn't time enough to let her try!"

"Then oughtn't she to have forfeited the pleasure of going with you?"

She stared aghast, then, with a pitying look, burst out "It's easy to see that you are not a mother! No mother could do that—her mother-heart would not let her!"

I was silent for a moment, then remembering that physical and spiritual motherhood are not necessarily embodied in the same person explained without impatience the effect such indulgence would have on the child, and pointed out that the most loving mother takes as great pains to train her children's characters as to provide for their bodily wants, and that the greatest love is that which is most far-seeing. But to the end the mother stoutly held to her conception of the "mother-heart."

A scene observed at a later hour in the day revealed this mother, regardless of her "mother-heart," in a fit of ill temper administrating a violent shaking to the said Anne.

"Nora," complained a mother to her sister, "your namesake spoils all of our rides in the new car. She just will go, and then she wants to come home immediately, and kicks and screams all the way. Sometimes we set her out on the road and ride on, but she knows that we will have to come back, so that doesn't do any good! You're a kindergartner, Nora, you must break her of it."

"Leave her at home until she shows that she understands that she should not spoil the enjoyment of others," advised the aunt. But this the mother flatly refused to do, and the miserable rides continued.

Some time later the mother went on a visit and the aunt was left in charge of her refractory niece. I saw her riding in the automobile several times without the offender. Then one day the small figure sat in its usual place and in the aunt's arms was the two-year-old brother. They called at the door. "Are you having a pleasant outing?" I asked little Nora. "Yes," she beamed. "I used to spoil our rides; now I'm showing little brother how to make everybody have a good time."

"We had to go without Nora for a few days," remarked the aunt quietly, "but now she is trying to think of others as well as of herself."

In this case the aunt was more truly the mother than the child's own parent. For she understood that mother-love should be something more than the gratification of a passion, and this insight gave her the courage to face the child's passing disappointment for the benefit of her future welfare.

What seems of slight importance at the moment assumes a quite different aspect when considered in the light of its future results.

Please pass this article on to a friend and thus help Uncle Sam reach all the mothers of the country.

A Moral Boycott.

By Newell Dwight Hillis.

Captain Tupper, organizer of "The British Seamen," has just completed a tour of the United States. He represents 70,000 British sailors. Four and a half years ago there were nearly 90,000 British seamen on English steamers and sailing ships, but Germany has torpedoed and murdered 17,000. When their steamers went down and the sailors took to their frail boats, the German submarines turned machine guns on the British sailors, or took them upon the deck of the submarine and then submerged, leaving them to drown. Captain Tupper has asked the American Seamen's Union to enter into an agreement not to carry a ton of German freight, nor hire a German seaman, nor carry a German passenger for the next [illegible] years. All United States seamen have agreed most earnestly, as h[illegible]men's unions of Scandinavia, Denmark, Belgium [illegible]rance, Ital[illegible]ls is the only memorial that can be erected to 17,0[illegible] murdere[illegible] Britain and 5,000 of other allied and neutral countries. Anyth[illegible]reason to the noble dead."

This refusal b[illegible]men to carry any German freight or men for seven years is th[illegible]y reason of one fact When the war broke out, in 1914, it fo[illegible]nd German sailors and officers working on British ships. Fe[illegible]mans might damage their ships, the English government interne[illegible]sailors. In the belief that these men were not traitors to humanity, [illegible]ish Seamen's Union sent their officers to the German internment cam[illegible] England, for a conference on the whole situation. Now, it so happened [illegible]e news had just come of the sinking of the Lusitania, with the murd[illegible]dreds of women and children as well as hundreds of neutrals. In th[illegible]es that day the officers of the British Seamen's Union showed the G[illegible]e importance of a resolution by German sailors condemning the cri[illegible]sitania as an outrage upon international law, upon humanity an[illegible]an honor, but, to their astonishment, all the German sailors liste[illegible]te silence, and refused to repudiate the Lusitania outrage.

One hour later, when the British delegation had left the camp, the German sailors immediately started to celebrate the Lusitania outrage.

Good American Talk.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

In reply to an impudent protest from an evidently disloyal body against the deportation under the law of a batch of alien radicals, Secretary of Labor Wilson gave a straight from the shoulder American reply.

The people to be deported—and others who will follow—are getting their living among us by stirring up strife and seeking to start in this country just such a revolution as they are having in Russia, with all its result of human misery. Secretary Wilson, upon whom rests the duty of enforcing the law of 1916, states squarely that now that sea transportation is available he proposes to rid the country of every one of these emissaries he can lay hands on Presumably he will investigate the nationality of those who are responsible for the letter to which he replies.

But he also states a fundamental American principle which deserves quotation in full, as follows

> Where our own citizens desire to change the form of government they can do so peaceably in the manner provided by the constitution. If we cannot make progress by the peaceable process of discussing and voting, we are not likely to make any progress by the riotous processes of cussing and shooting The man who cannot be depended upon to vote right cannot be depended upon to shoot right

New Time Zones.

Thomas F. Logan, in Leslie's Weekly

To define zones of standard time, as recently directed by congress, a general investigation was conducted by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Clyde B Aitchison, assisted by J. T Money and F. C. Smith, also of the commission, and by Assistant Astronomer H R Morgan, of the United States naval observatory. The results of this investigation are given in an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission, defining in detail the three lines, crossing the states from north to south, where time changes by one hour, and making the law effective at 2 a. m., January 1, 1919. The time changing points for all railroads are given in the order, and all railroad time tables and clocks for public use. The clocks in all postoffices and other federal buildings now conform to the new limits. Standard eastern time will be used in all of the United States east of a line through Toledo and Columbus, Ohio; along the eastern line of Kentucky, through Norton, Va., Bristol, Tenn.; Asheville, N C Atlanta, Ga., and Apalachicola, Fla. Standard Central time will be used in all of the United States west of this line and east of a line through Bismarck, N D., Pierre, S. D., North Platte, Neb., Dodge City Kan along the western line of Oklahoma and south through Texas Standard mountain time will be used in all of the United States west of this line and east of a line through Helena, Mont., Pocatello, Id., Salt Lake City Utah and Yuma, Ariz Standard Pacific time will be used in all of the United States west of this line

England Lost Most Tonnage

From the New York Tribune

Archibald Hurd's table of shipping losses called from London contains nothing really new, but makes possible interesting comparisons. The total sinkings reach almost 13,250,000 tons gross, of which Great Britain's share is 9,060,000. Translated into deadweight tonnage, the total loss would be roughly 21,500,000 tons, and Great Britain's share of it about 14,750,000 tons—this against a total merchant tonnage when the war began of 73,640,000 tons for the world. Our whole government shipbuilding program as originally outlined exceeded this British loss by no large margin.

In outright sinkings Britain has lost about a fifth of the world's tonnage, and more than eight times as much as Norway more than 11 times as much as France or Italy, 17 times as much as the United States, and almost 40 times as much as Holland. But in computing the net deficit due to the war it is usual to include an estimate of about 15,000,000 deadweight tons that would have been built above all losses if the war had not occurred, and Britain's share of the world's shipbuilding varied in 1911-1913 between 55 and 63 per cent. It is easy to understand why England should be troubled, why Hurd and others should urge hurried rebuilding, and why a heavy bill to Germany should be talked of Warning to "Trespossers."

From the Los Angeles Times.

A sign in the San Fernando valley reads

"Tresposers will be persekuted to the full extent of 2 mean mongrel dorgs which ain't never been oranly soshibil with strangers and 1 dubbel barelt shotgun which aint loaded with no soft pellers Dam if I aint tired of this [illegible] rasin on my proputy

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVE[illegible]

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE [illegible] SONS FROM LITTLE STOMA[illegible] LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF [illegible] AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that [illegible] little one's stomach, liver and [illegible] needs a gentle, thorough cleans[illegible] once.

When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act rally, or is feverish, stomach breath bad; has stomach-ache, throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, teaspoonful of "California Syrup Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, undigested and sour bile gently moves out of little bowels without griping, and have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children take this harmless "fruit laxative" they love its delicious taste, and always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle "California Syrup of Figs," which directions for babies, children of ages and for grown-ups plainly on bottle. Beware of counterfeits here. To be sure you get the genuine ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

A Fall in the Spring.

Mrs. Gadabout—How do you like my new fall hat?

Mrs. Gabalot—Whatdya mean fall hat? Don't you know this is spring?

Mrs. Gabalot—Well, you should have seen my husband fall over in a faint when he saw the bill

UPSET STOMACH

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN AT ONCE RELIEVES SOURNESS, GASES, ACIDITY, INDIGESTION.

Undigested food! Lumps of gas, belching gas, acids and sourness, your stomach is all upset, here's instant relief—No waiting!

The moment you eat a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin all the indigestion, pain, dyspepsia misery, the sour gases and stomach acidity ends.

Pape's Diapepsin tablets cost you at any drug store but there is no surer or quicker stomach relief known.

The Difference.

"What a queenly figure your neighbor's wife has, and such a splendid carriage!"

"Yes, but we've got a new auto."

Lives 200 Yea[illegible]

For more than 200 years, Harlem the famous national remedy of Holland has been recognized as an infallible from all forms of kidney and bladder orders. Its very age is proof that it have unusual merit.

If you are troubled with pains in the back, feel tired in the morning headaches, indigestion, insomnia, or too frequent passage of urine, irritation or stone in the bladder, you will certainly find relief in GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. This is the old remedy that has stood the test hundreds of years, prepared in the quantity and convenient form to take. It is imported direct from Holland laboratories, and you can get it at any drug store. It is a standard, well-known remedy and needs no introduction. Each capsule contains one dose of five drops and is pleasant and easy to take. They will quickly relieve those aching joints, that backache, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gall stones, gravel, dizziness, etc. Your money promptly refunded if they do not relieve you But be sure to get the genuine GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil In boxes, three sizes.—Adv.

"Let me take your check," is the most popular after-dinner speech.

The flirt and her conscience are divorced.

Your Eyes

A Wholesome, Cooling, Refreshing and Delightful Lotion—Murine relieves Redness, Soreness, Granulation, Itching and Inflammation of the Eyes or Eyelids. "Murine Eye Drops" after the Movies, Motoring, Golfing, Tennis, Sailing, Bathing, Motorcycling, Baseball, Reading, Sewing, Fishing, Aviating, Etc., will win your confidence Ask Your Druggist for Murine when your Eyes Need Care. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Kelly Tells How Lydia Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health.

ark, N J.—"For about three I suffered from nervous breakdown and got so weak I could hardly stand, and had headaches every day. I tried everything I could think of and was under a physician's care for two years. A girl friend had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she told me about it. From the first day I took it I began to feel better and now I am well and able to do most any kind of work. I have been recommending the Compever since and give you my perion to publish this letter."—Miss KELLY, 476 So. 14th St., Newark, reason this famous root and herb dy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable ound, was so successful in Miss 's case was because it went to the of her trouble, restored her to a al healthy condition and as a result ervousness disappeared.

l education is not so much the ing of what we do not know as oing of what we do not now do.

OSE CLOGGED FROM A COLD OR CATARRH

ply Cream in Nostrils To Open Up Air Passages.

What relief! Your clogged nospen right up, the air passages of head are clear and you can e freely. No more hawking, ng, mucous discharge, headache, ss—no struggling for breath at your cold or catarrh is gone. 't stay stuffed up! Get a small of Ely's Cream Balm from your ist now. Apply a little of this ant, antiseptic cream in your nos- let it penetrate through every air ge of the head; soothe and heal swollen, inflamed mucous mem- , giving you instant relief. Ely's m Balm is just what every cold atarrh sufferer has been seeking. just splendid.—Adv.

e more dollars you get together ouder they talk—so do you.

rrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

cal applications as they cannot reach diseased portion of the ear. There is one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, that is by a constitutional remedy. LL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts gh the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces he System. Catarrhal Deafness is ed by an inflamed condition of the ous lining of the Eustachian Tube. n this tube is inflamed you have a bling sound or imperfect hearing, and it is entirely closed, Deafness is the t. Unless the inflammation can be re- d and this tube restored to its nor- condition, hearing may be destroyed ver. Many cases of Deafness are ed by Catarrh, which is an inflamed dition of the Mucous Surfaces. E HUNDRED DOLLARS for any of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot cured by HALL'S CATARRH DICINE.

Druggists 75c. Circulars free. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

lot of us feel like saying: "Tres- company always suspected."

Blue" and Worried?

"Blue," worried, half-sick people uld find out the cause of their trou- . Often it is merely faulty kidney ion, which allows the blood to get ded up with poisons that irritate the ves. Backache, headaches, dizziness d annoying bladder troubles are add- proofs that the kidneys need help. e Doan's Kidney Pills. Thousands ak them for relief from just such ubles.

A South Dakota Case

Mrs. M. H. Johnson, Spearfish, S. D., says: "I suffered from backache and other kidney trouble. There was a steady, dull ache over my kidneys and I felt so bad, I could hardly do my housework. My back ached so at night I couldn't sleep. When I was told about Doan's Kidney Pills, I used them. I felt better after taking just a w. By the time I had finished one x of Doan's I was cured entirely d I have never been bothered since."

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

STER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

op Losing Calves

n Stamp Abortion Out

YOUR HERD and Keep It Out

By the use of

DR. DAVID ROBERTS'

"Anti-Abortion"

Small Expense—Easily Applied. Sure Results. Used successfully for 20 years. Consult Dr. DAVID ROBERTS about all animal ailments. Information free. Send for FREE of "The Cattle Specialist" with full information on Abortion in Cows. DR. DAVID ROBERTS HART CO., 160 Grand Ave., Waukesha, Wis.

olds Grow Better ingly soon, throat inflammation disp- r, irritation is relieved and throat tick- stops, when you use reliable, time-tested

PISO'S

WHEAT TRADERS NOT SEEKING FOR ACTION

Content to Have Grain Pit Remain Closed Until Receipt of Further Crop Reports.

By United Press.

Chicago, March 17 Dealers here in grain futures are content to leave the wheat pit vacant a while longer, they said today. They would like to see wheat trading resumed but are content to await more definite knowledge of the coming crop Likewise they would rather see the other grains swung into a more definite course

Under the wheat price bill it was made mandatory for the president at the first seasonable opportunity to consider means of resuming normal methods of handling wheat Dealers here believe it will be mid summer before he acts.

A settled hog price would do much to steady the grain markets it is held Rumors here that a maximum hog price is being considered had a bearish effect. Removal of the minimum price on hogs the first of March shot quotations up With [illegible] out of the way men on the [illegible] board of trade would jam [illegible] wheat pit, it was said

VILLA HOLDS 5 AMERICANS

Juarez, Mex, March 17 - A report was received here today Bishop Joseph Bentley president of the Mormon state of Colonia Juarez together with Joseph Spencer Joseph Williams and two other Mormon missionaries, was being held by Francisco Villa and Felipe Angeles somewhere south of El Valle Chihuahua [illegible] the Mormon church officials in American Consul Dow have received any information about the capture of the Mormon bishop and four missionaries

A message was received here from Bishop Bentley, Wednesday morning that Martin Lopez Ramos [illegible] 500 Villa men had just left Colonia Juarez, the headquarters of the Mormon stake taking a number of horses and a quantity of supplies but leaving none of the Mormon settlers

CLAIMS "HONOR" OF STARTING WAR

Austrian Draftee at Camp Sherman Tells Officers He Fired "Shot Heard Round the World"

Camp Sherman, Ohio, March 17 Intelligence officers at Camp Sherman took the deposition today of Private Frank Hobel an Austrian of Lorraine Ohio, concerning a statement he is said to have made to another private that he was one of the three Austrians who assassinated Archduke Ferdinand of Austria in 1914 precipitating the world war.

According to Hobel's story his father gave him $300 to flee from Austria after the assassination He then went to Constantinople and later to New York, landing in this country in October, 1914 He was working in the ship yards at Lorraine when he was drafted and taken to Camp Sherman He is now in the hospital suffering from tuberculosis

GERMANS ACCEPT NEW FOOD TERMS

Get Monthly Ration of 370,000 Tons In Return For Turning Over Merchant Ships to Allies

By Associated Press

Brussels, March 17 The German delegates to the conference here regarding the taking over by the allies of the German merchant fleet and the provisioning of Germany for yesterday definitely accepted the conditions imposed by the allies

A monthly ration for Germany of 370,000 tons of foodstuffs was fixed by the allied commission German owned securities will be turned over in payment for food shipments, in addition to the merchant shipping required by the allies.

The allied program provides for immediate food shipments into Germany continuing until the new German crops are available in August The rentals for the German merchant fleet will be applied on payments for the food

A board of control for German exports will be established under the terms of the agreement This board probably will have its headquarters at Rotterdam. The Germans will be permitted to buy fish from Norway and resume their own fishing in the North sea.

The German representatives asked for a modification of the blockade and while no promises were given them in this connection, steps in that direction as a matter of fact have already been taken.

TO ELECT SUCCESSOR TO MURDERED PREMIER

By Associated Press.

Basel, March 17 The Bavarian diet will convene on Monday March 17, and will be asked to elect a new premier to take the place of Kurt Eisner, who was assassinated last month.

Birches, Alaska, where the temperature goes to 87 and 88 below zero is believed to be the coldest place in the world.

BEGIN TEST OF WAR "DRY" LAW

New York Brewery Stockholders Allege Measure Is Unconstitutional Since No National Emergency Now Exists.

By Associated Press.

New York March 17.- Preliminary [illegible] testing the constitutionality of the war time prohibition act was taken in the filing here today of a stockholders' suit in the federal court against the James Everard's Breweries.

The complainant Joseph E Everard, asked the court for an order restraining the defendant from suspending its manufacturing activities May 1, next and its sales July 1, as required by the federal statute

The complaint alleged that the emergency prohibition clause of the agricultural [illegible] adopted November 21, 1918, is unconstitutional as a measure intended to safeguard the national security and defense [illegible] armistice having been signed [illegible] ceased and [illegible] reduction.

Root Chief Counsel.

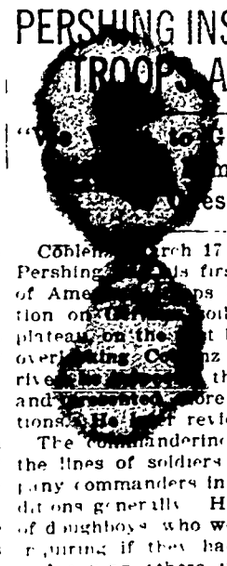
The [illegible] with Elihu Root chief counsel alleged that [illegible] presumed the [illegible] during the war thus [illegible] directed cessation [illegible] munitions [illegible] and announced [illegible] of normal peace [illegible] was no emergency, [illegible] otherwise calling for the prohibition [illegible] United States for the use of grains fruits or other food products in the manufacture of beer [illegible] forbidding the sale of [illegible] order to conserve the [illegible] and carry on the [illegible] It is charged, [illegible] arbitrary and [illegible] conferred on [illegible] constitution

Attack Revenue Ruling

The [illegible] attacks the regulations of the internal revenue department restricting the manufacture of near [illegible] or prior to May 1 to products not exceeding 2½ per cent in alcoholic content with a reduction to one-half of [illegible] commodity is offered for sale [illegible] and limiting the alcoholic content of all brewed beverages after May 1 to one-half per cent

It is claimed that beer containing 2½ per cent alcohol is not intoxicating and that congress has no authority for the half per cent limitation.

PERSHING INSPECTS TROOPS AT COBLENZ



"Go Home" Soldiers In Answer To Questions

Coblenz, March 17 —General John J Pershing [illegible] his first sight yesterday of American troops in combat formation on German soil On a 600-acre plateau on the west bank of the Rhine overlooking Coblenz and the winding river [illegible] the Second division and [illegible] more than 80 decorations. He [illegible] reviewed the division

The commander-in-chief walked along the lines of soldiers questioning company commanders in reference to conditions generally He talked to scores of doughboys who wore wound stripes, inquiring if they had fully recovered, and asking others if they wanted to go home Without exception they were eager to return to America as soon as possible for family and business reasons but all were perfectly willing, they said, to serve as long as it is necessary for the United States to keep an army in Europe

MEN WHO THREATENED MUTINY REACH PORT

Ex-Soldiers to Be Furnished Transportation By British Consul at New York

By Associated Press.

New York, March 15 -Americans [illegible] British residing in the United States discharged from the British army who made trouble aboard the transport Tula because they were not put ashore and sent to their homes from Halifax arrived here today on a special

Three officers and 319 men made up the contingent and they will be dispatched to their homes with transportation furnished by the British consul in New York

POLICEMAN WOUNDED IN REVOLVER DUEL

Enters House In Chicago to Arrest Negro and Steps Into Death Trap Gun Battle.

By United Press.

Chicago, Ill., March 15—Policeman James Buttimer was wounded in a revolver duel last night in a pitch black room with Charles Kent a negro, who also was hit by a bullet and captured.

The battle occurred after Buttimer, who was in plain clothes, followed Kent into the house to arrest him. Nothing but the gun flashes were visible. Police outside, attracted by the shots broke into the house and captured Kent Buttimer will recover

An incident of this miserable civil war came under my own observation cables a London Times correspondent from Berlin. A soldier of the inner guard went to [illegible] a man who wished to proceed to [illegible] of business within the danger [illegible] A few minutes later the soldier [illegible] carried out on a stretcher having been shot by the supposedly innocent [illegible] as soon as he turned the corner

WORLD LEAGUE IN PEACE PACT

Wilson Cables "Positive Decision" of Council as Answer to Rumors—To Urge League In Preliminary Treaties.

New York March 17—Joseph P Tumulty secretary to President Wilson, announced here today that he was in receipt of a cablegram from the president stating that "the plenary council had positively decided that the League of Nations is to be part of the peace treaty."

This cablegram was sent in response to one sent by Mr Tumulty inquiring whether there was any truth in certain newspaper stories that the league was not to be incorporated in the peace treaty

By United Press.

Paris March 17 —President Wilson [illegible] to urge inclusion of the [illegible] of Nations in the preliminary [illegible] treaty with Germany It is understood he believes that such a [illegible] not only is possible, but advisable

The president's position in this regard was to be made known, it was understood at the session of the supreme war council called for 3 o'clock this afternoon At a noon meeting he was officially acquainted with progress made in the peace work during his absence

Despite the activities of the various committees while he was away, his return has given new impetus to every department of the peace conference There will be an early meeting of the League of Nations committee, of which President Wilson is Chairman, and various nationalities, including neutrals, will be sounded for suggestions and ideas.

The meeting of the supreme council this afternoon was called for the purpose of discussing military terms of the treaty preparatory to drawing up the complete pact next week.

Lloyd George Wants Speed.

Speedy completion of the preliminary peace treaty is understood to be the main endeavor of Premier Lloyd George when the peace conference resumes full swing The British premier is said to be firm in the conviction that the finishing of a preliminary pact should be the first consideration of the conference

The preliminary compact would not include any proposition for a league of nations according to the Lloyd George plan It would be left for consideration with the final treaty

REPORT BIG JANUARY SALES OF WAR STAMPS

S Dakota Sixth In Per Capita Buying—Vermont Led and New York Trailed In Rear.

By Associated Press.

Washington, March 17.—War saving stamps were sold in January at the rate of 45 cents for every [illegible] in the United States with total [illegible] of $48,399,000, according to reports from headquarters today. Vermont led in per capita sales with $1.20, or a total of $438,000.

Montana, with a total of $519,000 and $1.05 per capita, was second. Utah, with a total of $432 000 and 94 cents per capita, was third.

Idaho was fifth with a per capita of 81 cents, while South Dakota, Oregon and Colorado ranked sixth, seventh and eighth with per capitas of 81, 75 and 72 cents.

New York state was last with a per capita of 15 cents.

NEW ARGENTINE STRIKE.

By Associated Press.

Buenos Aires, Friday, March 14.—A general strike has been declared at Mendoza, affecting 36 unions including food purveyors The situation is reported to be grave

LUMBER PRICES MAY DROP.

Washington D. C, March 17.—Steps to reduce the price of lumber will be taken in a conference of leading lumbermen with the new industrial board, department of commerce, which has been called for Friday, March 21

ALL DRESSED UP, BUT UNCLE SAM WON'T LET HIM GO

John M. Work.

John M. Work of Chicago, a prominent Socialist, has been named by his party as one of the delegates to the international conference at Lausanne. Up to the present time these delegates have been denied passports by the state department.

VOTE FOR BREAK WITH AMERICAN FEDERATION

Canadian Labor Leaders Favor Formation of Separate Canadian Affiliation By Unions.

By Associated Press.

Calgary, Alberta March 17—Delegates to the interprovincial conference of Canadian labor unions voted unanimously yesterday to sever affiliations with American labor organizations and to form a Canadian federation to be known as "The One Big Union"

The resolution which was declared by labor leaders to mark one of the most momentous moves in the history of organized labor in Canada will be referred to the various unions for ratification

SECRET TREATIES ROUSE AMERICANS

Delegates See Victory For Star Chamber Diplomacy In Action By Grecian Boundaries Commission.

By Associated Press.

Paris, March 17 —It has been learned that the status of secret treaties and conventions made during the war again has arisen Information obtained today from some of the American delegates to the peace conference was that the action of a majority of the commission dealing with Grecian boundaries in declaring that the treaty of London of 1915 was effective, will not be permitted to go unchallenged and could not become effective unless ratified by the council of 10, which they asserted would refuse its approval

The subject matter of the decision is not of essential interest to Americans, but the decision relative to the treaty of London, which is one of those secret conventions made during the war, is regarded as of the gravest importance, it being declared to be in direct conflict with one of President Wilson's 14 points concerning such agreements and the one relative to the right of self determination of small nations.

It is held that if the decision of the majority of the commission were upheld it would of necessity carry with it affirmation of Italy's claims to nearly all the eastern shore of the Adriatic, as well as of other agreements for the disposition of colonial possessions which have been regarded as proper subjects for action of the peace conference itself.

A point of special interest is that the action was taken by the commission through a combination of Great Britain, France and Italy.

The supreme war council will meet at 3 p m today to consider the definite military and naval conditions to be imposed on Germany.

One of the first questions to be considered by the council, with President Wilson participating in the discussion, will be the boundary between Poland and Germany The Polish boundary commission and the general territorial commission have virtually agreed uanimously on this boundary

While no official announcement has been made, it is known that Danzig is included in Poland, and that the commissions have agreed upon a boundary which would give Poland strategic points which should make her an effective barrier between bolshevism and western Europe.

British Program.

The British program at the peace conference is understood to contemplate the signing of separate preliminary treaties with the central allies as soon as possible after Germany is disposed of Next would come the consideration of any amendments to the present constitution of the League of Nations, and then the league would be whipped into permanent shape. The final peace treaty would follow and would include the League of Nations plan.

The leading thought among the British at the present moment seems to be to strip the preliminary peace terms of all unnecessary encumbrance and secure the signature of that document so that the world can begin to settle back to normal.

Accept Invitation.

The invitation sent by the peace conference to neutral states to participate in a discussion of the league of nations has brought responses from Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden. These countries have forwarded statements on their views to the secretary of the conference.

STRIKE OF NEW YORK HARBOR MEN BROKEN

70 Per Cent of Workers Resume Operations After Boat Owners Meet Wage Demands.

By United Press.

New York, March 15.—The New York strike dwindled rapidly today as the boat owners met the men's demands for an eight-hour day and higher pay, and operations were resumed.

According to the estimate of President Delahunty, of the Marine Workers' affiliation, 4,000 men were still on strike this morning. This is about 30 per cent of the number that originally quit.

Conciliator Hughes today made a further effort to mediate between strikers and private boat owners, who have not yet agreed to the union terms.

RESERVE STILL GROWS.

By Associated Press.

New York, March 17.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they hold $58,783,510 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $8,872,419 from last week

GIRLS! LOTS OF BEAUTIFUL HAIR

A small bottle of "Danderine" makes hair thick, glossy and wavy.

Removes all dandruff, stops itching scalp and falling hair.

To be possessed of a head of heavy, beautiful hair; soft, lustrous, fluffy, wavy and free from dandruff is merely a matter of using a little Danderine.

It is easy and inexpensive to have nice, soft hair and lots of it. Just get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine now—it costs but a few cents—all drug stores recommend it—apply a little as directed and within ten minutes there will be an appearance of abundance, freshness, fluffiness and an incomparable gloss and lustre, and try as you will you cannot find a trace of dandruff or falling hair; but your real surprise will be after about two weeks' use, when you will see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—sprouting out all over your scalp—Danderine is, we believe, the only sure hair grower, destroyer of dandruff and cure for itchy scalp, and it never fails to stop falling hair at once.

If you want to prove how pretty and soft your hair really is, moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair—taking one small strand at a time. Your hair will be soft, glossy and beautiful in just a few moments—a delightful surprise awaits everyone who tries this. Adv.

Out of Date.

"Mamma, don't you think that Shakespeare is quite out of date?"

"I certainly do."

"I'm so glad I just smashed his statuette in the drawing-room."

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.—Adv.

When a man starts out to live down his salary he usually succeeds.

Oh! My Face

People who have impure or impoverished blood should be careful to take only a temperance remedy made of wild roots and barks such as Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is and has been for nearly 50 years Ingredients printed on wrapper.

The first day you start to take this reliable medicine, impure germs and accumulation begin to separate in the blood and are then expelled through the eliminative organs.

In place of the impurities, the arteries and veins gradually get fresh vitalised blood and the action of this good blood on the skin means that pimples, boils, carbuncles, eczema, rash, acne and all skin blemishes will disappear. Then you must remember that when the blood is right, the liver, stomach, bowels and kidneys become healthy, active and vigorous and you will have no more trouble with indigestion, backache, headache.

Get Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to-day at any medicine dealers, in tablet or liquid form, or send 10c for trial package to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y.

Occasionally one should "clean house" with castor oil or tiny pills made up of the May-apple, leaves of aloe and root of jalap, first put up by Dr Pierce and now sold by almost all druggists in this country as Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Always convenient to take.

Combination Sale

Klemme Iowa

Almost everyone has something he does not use or need and others need just that article. I have decided to appoint myself the central figure in an

"Exchange Emporium"

for the accomidation of the public in general and myself in parricular. If you have anything to sell bring it in.

List your surplus with me, tell me your troubles

Bring in that table or rocker or if you have cows, horses or goats you don't want list them with me or at the State Savings Bank on or before the 22 of March in order to have everything on the bill for the sale which will be Sat. March 29.

Col B A Reemstma

Phone 508 Klemme Iowa

The City Dray Line

Is prepared to do your hauling carefully and promptly
Your patronage is respectfully solicited
Charges Reasonable

Henry P. Yahnke, Prop.

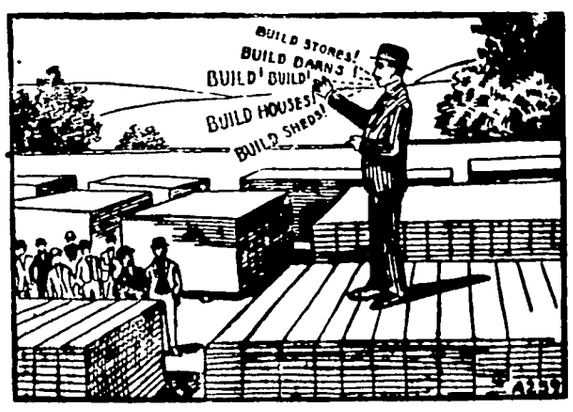
Coal Hauling Done

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

Office Phone No. 16 Residence Phone No. 52



BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

NORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

E. P. HANSON
REAL ESTATE AND LIVE STOCK
AUCTIONEER
GARNER, IOWA. PHONE 105
SATISFIED CUSTOMERS
MY BEST REFERENCE
SATISFACTION GUARANTEED
PHONE OR WRITE FOR INFORMATION AND SALE DATES AT ONCE

W. F. PAVEY

The Practical Blacksmith

OXY-ACETYLENE WELDER

Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing

Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

ISLAND OF GUAM IS LOYAL

Voluntary Universal Training Has Helped Immensely in Americanization.

How far the people of the Pacific island of Guam have progressed in the process of Americanization is indicated in the current issue of the Guam News Letter, copies of which have recently reached Seattle. The island, which is our cable outpost for the Philippine islands and the Orient, is governed by Capt. Roy C. Smith of the American navy, under the oversight of the navy department. Captain Smith seems to be developing a very ardent band of Americanism among the island people, who are known as Chamorros and have a strong admixture of Spanish blood.

The News Letter describes the celebration of Washington's birthday in Guam, to which the people flocked from all parts of the island, coming by launch, owing to the absence of any island highway system. The proceeds of the various enterprises, amounting to $1,370.55, were donated to the Red Cross, and we gather that the program of amusement was purely American. For instance, the "hot dog" stand realized $108.04; Butler's soda $158.50; knock the cat down, $112.07; the moving picture show, $75.90; the jitney dance, $45.69; wheel of fortune, $350.10; lemonade stand, $772.93; baseball game, $16.40. From all sources the Red Cross received $1,500, and subscriptions were given for $50,000 in Liberty bonds.

More than this, the island militia had its first parade. Some time ago Governor Smith put into effect a universal military training law at the request of the people, this being the first portion of American territory in which such a law has been made effective. There are 1,000 militiamen, the government supplying guns and ammunition and the regular khaki uniform of the United States army. Seven per cent of Guam's population is in the militia, at which rate, if we of the mainland kept up with the Chamorros we should have an army of 7,000,000 The flags and floats of the parade induced a tremendous enthusiasm in the populace.

Officer Once Stable Boy.

We have ceased to be surprised at the amazing social upheaval brought about by the war, but the shock which a gentleman received recently at a very exclusive club of which he is a member can be easily understood. On the staircase he was hailed by a resplendent young officer of the guards attired in one of those gray coats whose color and cut are the envy of all "subs." Not recognizing the young officer, there was a pause, whereupon the soldier said: "I'm afraid you've forgotten me. My name is ——." The gentleman still failed to identify the officer. "I'm —— of Newark," added the guardsman. Whereupon the astounded gentleman recognized the grownup boy five years ago had saddled his at a hunting box he visited stable hand had enlisted in the won a commission in the field, finally been transferred to a guard regiment, and carried himself as if to the manner born.—London Mail.

Polish Army in France.

The flag of Poland was lifted on the battle line when the Polish legion, 15,000 strong, recruited mostly in the United States, took its place among the allies in France. It is only a little army that the ancient emblem of a free Poland is flying over now, but every Polish volunteer in France and every patriotic Pole in the United States and scattered elsewhere throughout the world, is confident that ultimately the flag will wave over a free and strong and reunited Poland, and every Pole understands that it is only through a triumph of the allies in this war for justice and right and world freedom that the restoration of Poland can be brought about.—Springfield Union.

Wartime Wall Street.

Before the war Wall street was just a thoroughfare, the brownest and busiest in the world.

Now, as it draws its slight bow up to Trinity, it has lost something of its dusty absorption. Like Fifth avenue and Broadway, it has undergone a transformation, and the long flags that hang from the windows of its offices swing in gay lines of energy up to the sunlit spires of the church.

Even here, where all is generally so quiet, so undemonstrative, the war has reached with bright fingers and brought out the love of country symbolized by these banners in the wind. —New York Times.

Dodging the Draft.

A man in the draft who would much rather have stayed at home complained of having poor eyesight. After being put through the eye test the doctor told him to go in the next room for further examination. The man gave a sigh of relief. When he came to the door he noticed a black thread running across and dodged it, whereupon the eye doctor said: "Come back, cutey; you're all right."

Cotton Seed's Rise in Value.

Cotton seed, formerly thrown away, is now bringing $75 a ton. A ton yields 280 pounds of crude oil, 800 pounds of meal animal food and 125 pounds of ammonia.

His Summer Job.

"Going away this summer?"

"No, siree. I'm going to stay right here and camp on the coal dealer's doorstep until I get next winter's coal in my cellar."

GOT AWAY WITH IT

Young Captain Disobeyed Orders and Won Out.

Possibly Admiralty Had Sense Enough to See That It Was Poor Business to Discourage Such a Man.

There was a certain young officer—John Chisholm call him—who played poker occasionally. He commanded a "flivver," which is the service term for the smallest class of destroyers, the 750-ton ones.

In the navy there are plenty of people who will tell you that they never built destroyers which keep the sea better than that same little flivver class, James B. Connolly writes in Collier's Weekly. Young Captain Chisholm of the 323 was one.

One morning, having convoyed a fleet of merchant ships safely to their port, the 323 was one of a group of destroyers making the best of their way to their base port. Officers and men who have been hunting U-boats for a week or so do not like to linger along the road home. So it was every young captain giving his ship all the steam she could stand and let her belt. It was moderately rough when they started. It grew a bit rougher. Chisholm in the 323 was going along at 20 knots when a fellow he very well knew came along in his big 1,000-ton destroyer. His nose hauled up on the quarter of the 323; up to her beam; up to her bridge. As she passed the 323 her commander megaphoned across: "What you making, Chiz?"

"Twenty knots'" hailed back Chisholm.

"I'm seeing your twenty knots and raising you five!" returned the other, and passed into the lead.

"All right," said Chiz, "but wait!"

The sea grew rougher. The 323 was bouncing pretty lively, but hanging on to her twenty knots. "And at twenty you let her hang if she rolls her darned crow's nest under!" said Chisholm to his watch officer—"and we won't be acting rudder to this bunch going into port'"

They were still going along at 20 knots when from out of the drizzle ahead they saw the stern and funnels of a destroyer. It was the big destroyer that had passed them, and the tough little 323 breasted her stern, her waist, her bridge and as he passed her (and he [illegible] quite close to let all hands [illegible] ing) young Capts[illegible] out from his brid[illegible] yuh'"

This same yo[illegible] was headed for por[illegible] and was already w[illegible] channed just outside [illegible] signal was whipped out [illegible] nal tower. It was for [illegible]: "West channel mined last [illegible] Proceed to sea and [illegible] by east channel."

Chiz did not proc[illegible] he did not come in by [illegible] The harbor saw him co[illegible] on to his mooring.

Said Chiz: "I was well into that channel when I got the signal. And, of course, the first instinct was to obey orders. But I stop and think: 'This ship of mine, she's 300 feet long and under her stern there's two big propellers. If ever I turn this 300 foot ship in this channel with those two propellers churning and there's any loose German mines around, there won't be a blamed one of them she'll miss. But if I keep her straight on there's a chance.' So 'Hell's fire!' I says to myself, 'the only thing to do is to keep straight on!' And I kept straight on, and we made our mooring."

After that they waited to hear what the admiralty had to say. But they heard nothing; whereupon some said that was due to the admiralty concluding that it is poor business to scold an officer who carries through a nervy piece of work.

All Reminded Him.

A soldiers' chorus created some amusement at a Liverpool station recently. A man had just put his wife into a train, and was walking briskly down the platform. Suddenly his wife's head appeared at the window, shouting in a high key: "Charles, don't forget the meat." But he walked on, without hearing. The lady raised her voice and fairly yelled: "Charles, don't forget the meat'" Still he didn't hear, and so a group of soldiers let off a stentorian bellow: "Charles!" The husband turned. And then the soldiers, in solemn chorus proclaimed: "Don't—forget—the—meat!"

Voluntary Rationing.

Controller Hoover congratulated a Washington gathering on the success of the voluntary rationing system.

"The observance of voluntary rationing has been universal," he said. "I heard the other day of a tiny urchin on a picnic in the country who ran to his mother with tears in his eyes.

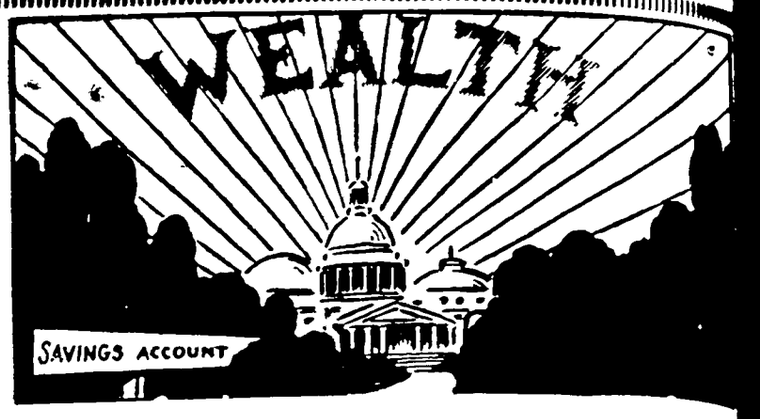
"'What's the matter?' his mother asked.

"The urchin held out a swollen finger and sobbed, indignantly:

"'Them bees! Today is a meatless Tuesday and them bees ain't observin' it!'"

Need Not Go to Europe.

Here is another thing this war has shown. In the past thousands of Americans have gone to Europe for the "baths" and "springs." Now it is found that the waters at every one of the famous European places can be duplicated in this country.



The path to at least moderat wealth is open to you, b you will have to enter

By Way of the Savings Account Route

No man has ever attained even moderate wealth witho the aid of a bank account.

If you really have the ambition to acquire wealto you w start an account at once. It is the only way.

State Savings Bank

WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE YOU LIKE AND LIKE THE SERVICE YOU GET

KLEMME, IA.

Western States Lumber Co.

Lumber and Building Material

We are still doing business in a way that will be satisfactory to you and we will treat you the way you want to be treated. Our prices are fair and will compare very favorably with former prices in this trade territory.

We think this yard will always be a factor in the business community of Klemme and while we strive to help you we expect you to consider the source of our opposition before you join with them in their methods of competition.

We are always willing to learn, but when we want someone to teach us where to head in at, it will have to be some one better than we.

Olof Brynteson, Agent

Col. B. A. Reemtsma

General Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA

Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty

Call, write or phone 508 Klemme for dates, terms, etc.

...Satisfaction Guaranteed...

Origin of "Torpedo."

The word torpedo is said by the authorities to owe its designation to the Latin verb "torpere," to be stiff, owing to its inauspicious appearance; probably also from its resemblance to the species of fish known by the same name.

Not Even at Fat Man Chasing Hat.

It is said that laughter will cure indigestion; but the trouble is when a man has indigestion he doesn't feel like laughing.

Wants to Get Even.

"When a lazy man has to work," said Uncle Eben, "de first job he wants is dat of a policeman to keep other folks fum violatin' antiloafin' laws."

Geo. ZINN

Physician & Surgeon

Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA.

Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop.

Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

No Need for Disarmament.

Some enthusiastic reformer has suggested disarming the farmers of their shotguns and squirrel rifles. Our observation and experience is that a farmer's gun rarely goes off accidentally, and a good citizen is as safe from it as he is from the Constitution of the United States.—Ohio Farmer.

When It Becomes Interesting.

After sober deliberation one becomes convinced that the only time the masculine ankle is interesting is when it is sprained.—Chicago News.

NEW

Spring Styles

Hart Schaffner & Marx

Suits — Are here for your inspection.

Top Coats — Many beautiful models and fabrics from which to make your selection.

Rain Coats — Prices $22.50 to $50

Longley and Star Hats

See the new shades in Green Tan and Gray

$3.00 to $6.00

Howard and Foster Shoes

Black, Tan and Mahogany, in the English and Modified English models. Prices $6.50 to $10.00 Other good makes at 4.00 to 5,50.

All the new creations in neckwear 50c to 2.50

Arrow Brand Shirts and Collars

You'll have to see them to appreciate them. Beautiful materials in shirts and several new styles in soft collars.

Special for Saturday 10 dozen, flowing en... Four in Hand Ties

Get To Know

Gildner Bros. & John...

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes

14 Stores — Garner, Ia.

E. W. HARR

OIL STOCK---LEASES

Base Hospital, M. D.
Fort Sill, Oklahoma

For the last 19 months I have been stationed here at Fort Sill, just a few hours ride from Burkburnett, Ranger (Texas), Walters, Cement and Lawton (Okla). The oil fields that have set the world talking. I have seen leases jump from $10.00 an acre to $3,000 and $4,000 per acre—oil stock that sold for a few dollars at par, sell for 100 or 200 times it's par value, besides paying 100 per cent dividends. Oil papers state that Burkburnett fields are making aproximately 5,700,000 barrels monthly, and at present price of $2.35 would net $13,335,000.00 per month—ARE YOU GETTING A DIVIDEND OUT OF THIS?

If you are in the market for oil stock, leases or royalties write me for information and particulars. It may mean your fortune.

Is oil stock a gamble?—No argument is needed to convince those who have investigated—that oil is the greatest money maker of all the industries of the world. Write for particulars, then have your banker investigate. These fields are your chance of life-time. A few dollars may make you rich.

Yours for a square deal,

E. W. Harr

NOTE. The above E. W. Harr is the son of J. L. Harr who was formerly druggist here in Klemme. Wayne was born and raised here.

IOWANS PAID FOR SAVING

More Than $9,000,000 Will Be Turned Over by U. S. for Thrift in One Year, If Stamps Are Held.

More than $9,000,000 will be paid to the people of Iowa by the United States government for their thrift during 1918, if the War Savings and Thrift stamps sold in the state last year are held by buyers until maturity, according to an estimate made at state headquarters of the Iowa War Savings committee.

This sum representing the interest on war savings alone, shows the great importance of aggregate saving in small amounts, and as well, the individual advantage to the person who invests a part of his savings in interest-bearing securities.

The people of Iowa in 1918 bought nearly 47,000,000 Thrift and War Savings stamps, and it is reasonable to believe the lessons of thrift and saving learned then will result in a far greater amount of sales this year. If this is the case, the government will be called to pay to the people of the state for their thrift in 1919 probably a good deal more than $10,000,000.

Budget Plan Popular.

The budget plan for both individuals and families, through which the Iowa War Savings committee expects to build up a savings system in the state which will enable it to go "over the top" in War and Thrift stamp sales this year without any forced drives, is taking root rapidly in many sections of the state.

Some of the leading newspapers have taken up the budget idea and are showing their readers with figures just what certain incomes should permit in the way of savings, basing estimates on local costs of food, clothing, rents and incidental expenses for the ordinary wage earner or family. These newspapers are giving the public valuable information and at the same time helping to build up a community in which the spenderr are gradually being turned into savers.

State headquarters of the Iowa War Savings organization, 208 Sixth avenue, Des Moines, is receiving daily inquiries regarding the budget system and sample budget covering incomes from $900 to $4,000.

Savings Societies Important.

Organized effort along the lines of thrift and wise spending by the thousands of war savings societies located in all cities and towns of Iowa will be, in the opinion of members of the Iowa War Savings committee, one of the big factors in keeping the state's name well toward the top of the list on sales of Thrift and War Savings stamps this year.

The early organization of hundreds of additional war savings societies in the industrial concerns of the state, through which employees are induced to compete in saving and the elimination of needless expenses, is now being actively planned.

In the schools of the state war savings societies generally are keeping up the good work started last year. In some of the city schools the year's campaign has been opened with a week's drive to sell stamps and arouse interest in the thrift educational effort.

Indorse Savings Idea.

Educators, bankers, business men and political economists all over Iowa are interesting themselves actively in the government's great 1919 thrift campaign and the Iowa plan of putting a household budget in every home in the state. Turned from habits of wasteful spending by the experiences of wartime, thousands of persons who never before saved anything now are investing weekly and monthly a certain and sure part of their earnings in Thrift and War Savings stamps, upon which investments the government pays an unusually high rate of interest.

The value to any community of these savers and these thrifty families is readily recognized by business men and students of community prosperity In all parts of the state leading men have indicated their desire to aid in the state's campaign to increase the thrift and saving habits of its people.

Keeping Dollars at Work.

Interest coupons on Liberty bonds of the third issue, payable on March 15 will be accepted in payment for Thrift or War Savings stamps at all post offices in Iowa. The coupon on a $100 bond calls for the payment of $4.25. This coupon, representing the interest paid to the bond owner by the government for the use of his money for the past six months, will pay for one $5 War Savings stamp and entitle the holder of 11 cents change.

Many owners of bonds of the third issue are planning to convert their coupons into War Savings stamps on March 15, thus making their interest earn more interest.

Postoffices heretofore have been permitted to accept only cash for Thrift and War Savings stamp purchases.

Writes for the Home.

Economies in the home, cutting down of expense and trimming of the family finances to meet increased living costs in order to provide for a stated percentage of saving for investment are now being given much prominence in leading magazine articles written by well-known economists.

Among these Ruth Wardell, head of the home economics department of Iowa State university, is being widely quoted as an authority on matters of interest to the thrifty housewife. Some of her articles are to be given distribution in Iowa through the daily papers conducting home and household pages.

Seed Potatoes

FOR SALE—Seed Potatoes, late Rural New Yorkers. U. G. Smid.

FOR SALE—Several bushels of extra early Seed Potatoes, while they last at $1 25 per bushel. Chas. Ax.

CENTENARY TEAM AT FIRST M. E. CHURCH

The team for the great Centenary Drive of the Methodist Episcopal Church, appeared in Klemme last Wednesday afternoon, consisting of J. E. Benz of Sioux City, Iowa, F. O. Barz of Cincinnati, Ohio, L. J. Brenner, District Superintendent of the Sioux City District and Dr Tompkins from Omaha were the men that appeared on the program On Wednesday night J. E. Benz spoke in the Liberty Township church and on Thursday night he spoke in the First Methodist Church in town, at both places he gave a very strong address and told the audiences the real meaning of the Centenary movement and what part the local churches should take in the great movement. On Thursday night F. O. Barz gave his splendid Stereopticon Lecture in Liberty township and on Friday evening in town In his lecture he showed [illegible] things had been accomplished by the Boards of Foreign and Home missions, but also brought to the [illegible] nce the fact that there is a great work for the church [illegible] if the church does not avail itself of its splendid opportunities but [illegible] about through the war such opportunities may never come again for the Evangalization of the entire world

Sunday was the great closing day of the program In the morning Rev. J. L. Brenner spoke to a fine attentive audience on the call to life service. He brought out the thought that if the church is to meet the present day demands it needs 53000 consecrated young men and women who will go out into the great harvest fields of our Lord. In the afternoon a meeting for men only which was well attended by the men in town, and Dr. Tompkins of Omaha spoke to them on the subject, "The Centenary A Man's Job." This was a very strong address and no doubt made a lasting impression on all that heard him He told them if the church was to carry out the program of the Centenary it must be financed in such a way that every demand may be met. Sunday night at the closing service Dr. Tompkins spoke again. At this service he spoke on the subject of "Giving the Tithe," showing that it was more blessed to give than to receive, and appealed to the audience to get under the load and put the Centenary drive over the top.

ORCHARD AND POULTRY DEMONSTRATION A SUCCESS

Last week an orchard and poultry demonstration was held at the home of W. H. Greiman, and a large crowd was in attendance.

The orchard work was taken up by Prof. Herrick, who demonstrated just how a tree should be pruned, and gave an opportunity to ask any questions that anybody chose, which he answered both by explanation and by actual demonstration. He also gave evidence that spraying was necessary to all apple trees in order to raise fruit free from worms. He said if an orchard is not worth taking care of better chop it down and use the land for other purposes.

Prof. Lapp, the poultry man, took up the poultry demonstration where he showed how to pick out the layer and also the slacker, so that anyone could see which are the ones to sell and which to keep in order to get many eggs in proportion to the size of the flock. He says that many people are poor judges of chickens and in the Fall when they market their poultry, that by not knowing any better, sell the layers and feed the slacker, which is a mistake, that by a little assistance anyone can understand how to cull out the slackers, which cost 15c per month for feed and do not produce anything

Any questions on disease, houses or management of poultry could be asked and he answered them

A farm demonstration is instructive and profitable to anybody who attends them and all are cordially invited.—Contributed by "A Farmer."

Advice Soldiers Need Not Take.

Sergeant, the French for which is sergent, the Italian sergente, comes from the medieval Latin word serviens, meaning a servant, a vassal, or a vassal soldier who seems to have acted as an orderly or striker. Tell this to your sergeant some warm day when he criticises your appearance on parade in his coarse, unfeeling manner. It will soften him. It may even melt him.—New York Evening Post.

Tiny Malayan Coin.

A New Yorker has what he says is one of the smallest coins in the world. It was used by the natives of the Malay peninsula, and was made from the resinous juice of a tree.

Any Honest Task Attractive.

Any honest task is capable of being so largely conceived that he who enters into it may see, stretching before him the promise of things to do and be, that will stir his enthusiasm and satisfy his best desires.—Phillips Brooks.

STATEMENT

OF THE CONDITION OF THE

STATE SAVINGS BANK

Organized under the laws of Iowa, located at Klemme, in the County of Hancock, at the close of business on the 4th day of March, A D 1919.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$403,785 94	$403.785 94
United States Bonds
United States certificates of indebt'ness
War Savings Certificates and Thrift Stamps actually owned	830 00	830 00
Overdrafts
Banking house	1,300 00	1,300 00
Due from banks and bankers	119,197 80	119,197 80
Gold coin and certificates
Silver coin and bullion	1,060 10
Legal tender and National bank note and subsidiary coins	6,354 00
Exchanges for clearing house and checks on banks in same place	1,306 56
Foreign checks and items in transit		8,720 66
TOTAL RESOURCES		$533.834 40

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock	15,000 00
Surplus fund	25,000 00	40,000 00
Undivided profits, expenses deducted	2,633 71	2,633 71
Deposits due to banks and bankers on demand
Individual deposits subject to check	194,256 96
Time certificates of deposits	285.303 67	479,560 63
Bank overdrafts
Bills payable other than with Federal Reserve Bank	11,640 06	11,640 06
Rediscounts
TOTAL LIABILITIES		$533.834 40

STATE OF IOWA } ss.
HANCOCK COUNTY }

We. P. M. Griesemer, President, and F. J. Wenck, Cashier of the Bank above named, do solemnly swear that the foregoing statement is full, true and correct, to the best of our knowledge and belief, that the assets therein set forth are bona-fide the property of said Bank in its corporate capacity, and that no part of the same has been loaned or advanced to said Bank for the purpose of being exhibited as a portion of its assets.

P. M. GRIESEMER, President.
F. J. WENCK, Cashier.

{ SEAL } Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence by P. M. Griesemer and F. J. Wenck this 13th day of March, 1919.

F E. BLACKSTONE
Notary Public in and for Hancock County

Attested by
H J STILLE
JOE E JOHNSON } Directors.

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

CHAPTER XIV.—(Continued)

"Surely, Mr. Ston The autopsy showed a fatal dose of aconitine. Aconitine, as you of course know, is the herb—wolfsbane of the Hellebore tribe, all the species of which are poisonous. Aconitine is an intensely poisonous alkaloid obtained from aconite. Taken in a moderate quantity, it acts as a powerful sedative, but the dose absorbed by Miss Carrington was undoubtedly fatal within half or three-quarters of an hour."

"And she died at what time?"

"About 2 o'clock."

"Proving she took the poison at about 1 15 or 1 30."

"Yes, thereabouts. It is not possible to fix these hours precisely, but the poison was administered positively between 1 and 2 o'clock."

"Administered? You do not think, then, that she took it herself?"

"Most certainly not! Miss Carrington has been in my care, professionally, for many years. I knew her very well, and I know nobody more opposed to medicine in any form or drugs of any sort. It was a most difficult task to persuade her to take even the simplest remedy, and then she had to be assured over and over again that it was harmless. No, Mr. Stone, nothing could have made her take that dose of her own accord, nor could any one have persuaded her to take it consciously. It was without doubt, given to her secretly, by the clever ruse of the murderer. Of course it could not have been an accident. The marvelous part is to my mind how any one secured the poison. It is not an easy matter to buy aconitine."

"Then that ought to make it easier to trace. If the public could easily procure it at will, there would be greater difficulty in running down the purchaser."

"That is so, and yet, I think your search will be a hard one. How shall you go about it?"

"Begin canvassing the drug shops of the city and of the small towns as well."

"It may be you can trace the sale. But if it was bought under promise of secrecy, and if that secrecy was well paid for——?"

"There is the difficulty. But what is a detective for if not to find out secrets?"

"Quite right. May your quest succeed."

"And now, a little more about the action of this poison. What are the immediate effects of a fatal dose?"

"In a few moments there occurs a tingling numbness of lip and tongue and pharynx. The numbness increases and affects all the muscles, and death ensues inside of an hour. This paralyzing effect renders it impossible for the victim to cry out, and there are no convulsions. The body remains calm and undisturbed, and the eyes open. A dilatation of the pupil takes place, but the expression on the face remains as in life. This is why Miss Carrington continued to look happy and smiling——"

"And proves that when she took the poison she was happy and smiling, and therefore in no way terrorized or frightened into it."

"Exactly so. And that indicates that she didn't know she was taking it——"

"Or, that it was administered by some one she knew and loved and had all confidence in."

"It would seem so," and Dr. Stanton's fine old face showed a sad apprehension.

"How was it taken—in what medium?"

"That we can't tell to a certainty. There were traces of the sandwiches discovered at the autopsy, but, though the poison could have been given her, concealed in a sandwich filling, it is improbable."

"Why?"

"Because the white granules or powder, which are soluble in water, would be more easily discerned in solid food."

"But, on the other hand, it could be unostentatiously placed in a sandwich, with little fear of detection; but to prevail on her to swallow a solution—it is bitter, is it not?"

"Yes, slightly so. I admit, I cannot imagine any one inducing Miss Carrington to swallow such a draught. Therefore, it may well be it was placed in a sandwich. The filling, they tell me, was caviare, which would disguise the bitterness."

"And does not all this, if true, point to some one exceedingly familiar with all the details of Miss Carrington's affairs? Some one who knew of her nightly sandwich? And, also, does it not imply the presence of some one who could and did insure her consumption of that sandwich?"

"It would indeed seem so, Mr. Stone; but, when it comes to discussing such a question as that, I must ask to be allowed to retire from the field. It is my duty to tell all I know, from my medical experience, but further than that I am not obliged to express any opinions or voice any suspicions."

"You know, however, that Count Charlier is held pending investigation?"

"Yes, I know it. I have no opinion to express."

Fleming Stone rather admired this gentleman of the old school, whose courtesy was evident, but equally so his determination to say only what justice demanded of his profession.

And then, like a flash, the reason came to him. Dr. Stanton suspected, or at least feared to suspect, some member of the Carrington household.

Of course, this was not a new idea to Fleming Stone. He had mentally gone over the possibility of every one in the family and all of the servants at Garden Steps, but so far he had held his mind open for impressions rather than to formulate theories himself.

"Then, to sum up, doctor," he said, as he rose to go, "you assure me that you consider it out of the question that Miss Carrington took the aconitine herself, say, as a headache cure, or something, intending only a small curative dose?"

"Absolutely impossible, sir!" exclaimed the old gentleman, almost angrily. "To begin with, Miss Carrington never had headaches, and if she had she would have borne any amount of suffering from them before she would have touched a drug or a medicinal remedy of any sort. And, aside from that, how could she get aconitine? It is not to be bought for the asking at any druggist's! No, sir, my conscience makes me insist on that point; Miss Carrington never took that poison knowingly—either by accident or design. It was given to her, without her knowledge, by a very, very clever villain."

"Again, then, could it have been given her innocently, by mistake? I mean, if some one, her maid, or any friend, had wanted to give her a sedative, and meant only a light dose, but by error in quantity——"

"No, sir! Not a chance! The amount given was too great to be an error. And every one in that house knows better than ever to have attempted to give medicine in any form or degree or for any purpose to Miss Lucy Carrington."

"It was crime, then," said Fleming Stone, "black crime. And as such it must be discovered and punished."

"Yes," agreed Dr. Stanton, but he spoke with deep sadness and as one who feared where or toward whom such discoveries might lead.

From the doctor's house Stone went to see the Count.

That elegant gentleman was highly irate at being detained against his will in such plain quarters as the Tombs furnished, but he was not as belligerent or vindictive as Stone expected to find him.

Hasty work on the part of the detectives from the district attorney's office had resulted in his imprisonment, but the later development of Bates' share in the matter made it extremely probable that the Count might soon be released from custody.

Pleasantly enough the two men conversed, and Count Charlier gave the impression of one glad of help from an outside source.

"It is such absurdity," he declared, "to think I would in any way wish harm to the lady. Why, I admired her above all, and it was my hope that she would do me the honor to accept my hand."

"Honestly, Count Charlier?" and Stone looked at him with a man to man glance that caused the Count to hesitate in his protestations.

"Well, I was considering the matter in my own mind. You know, Mr. Stone, it is a great responsibility, this seeking a wife. And Miss Carrington was not—not in her first youth. Of a fact, her years outnumbered my own. So, I asked myself was it wise, was it altogether just to the lady to——"

"Never mind all that, Count," said Stone, a little impatiently, "just give me a few details of that evening, so far as your actions were concerned. You were at the house till midnight?"

"Yes, Mr. Illsley and I left together. We had spent the evening there at cards and music."

"You had had any private conversation with Miss Carrington during the evening?"

"Yes, we walked alone in the conservatory for a time——"

"You proposed marriage?"

"Not exactly that—but I have hinted at such an event."

"And the lady seemed agreeable?"

"Entirely so. If I may say it, she met my advances half way, and I could not misunderstand her feelings toward my unworthy self."

"She spoke to you of money matters? Of her will?"

"Yes, to my surprise, she told me she had bequeathed to me $10,000."

"Was not this a strange bequest to a casual acquaintance?"

"Oh, we were more than casual acquaintances. I have known Miss Carrington for two or three months."

"Which? Two or three?"

"Perhaps nearer two," and the Count showed a slight embarrassment.

"Do your friends often leave you large sums of money on such short acquaintance?"

"It has never happened before," and now the Count's dignity was touched and he spoke shortly and coolly.

"Then, of course, it struck you peculiar," and Stone's smile [illegible] med an acquiescence.

But the Count returned: "Not at all. Miss Carrington was an unusual woman, and I never expected her behavior to be entirely conventional. When she told me of this I was simply and honestly grateful, as I should have been to any one who showed me such a kindness."

"You were glad to get the money then?"

"Yes, indeed!" the Count exclaimed, with sparkling eyes, then realizing his slip, he hastily added: "That is, I was glad of the knowledge that it would come to me some day. Surely I did not want the lady to die, that I might receive it, but I was pleased to know she thought enough of me to make the direction."

"What did she mean by saying: 'Tomorrow all will be different?'"

"That I do not know. Could she have meant——"

"She did say it, then? You admit she said it to you?"

Breathlessly, Fleming Stone waited the answer. Miss Carrington had said this to the person who was with her behind her closed door at 1 o'clock! Could the Count be going to incriminate himself?

"Not to me only. She said it to all who were present. It was while we were playing bridge."

"She said it again to the man who killed her!"

"Of that I know nothing," said Count Charlier, politely.

"Bother!" said Fleming Stone, inaudibly.

XV.

PAULINE'S PURCHASE.

Alone, Fleming Stone wrestled with the problem of the giving of that poison.

The library at Garden Steps had been turned over to him for a study and no one entered the room unless summoned. Stone sat at the mahogany table desk, but his eyes rested unseeingly on the beautiful fittings of polished silver and glass. On a memorandum block he wrote down the names of possible and probable suspects. To be sure, he thought, every one in the house might be deemed possible, as well as some who were not in the house. But each one must be taken into consideration.

To begin with the most important, Miss Stuart. It was possible that she poisoned her aunt, but so improbable as to make it exceedingly unlikely. True, she was heir to half the fortune, but well bred, well nurtured young women do not commit crime to inherit their money sooner. Except for that conversation reported by Anita Frayne, there was not a shred of evidence against Miss Stuart. And Stone did not place implicit confidence in that story of the talk behind closed doors. He had discovered that the two girls were not friendly and he knew Anita capable of making up or coloring a tale to suit herself. Pauline had told him that she was in the hall window seat at 1 o'clock that morning and had seen Anita coming from Miss Carrington's room. Or, to put it more carefully: She had seen her with her hand on the door knob, in the act of closing the door after her. This Pauline had told to Stone with an air of such verity and truthfulness that he was fain to believe her. However, in all honesty, he had to admit to himself that Miss Stuart could have given the poison in some secret way, had she so desired. The same was true, though, of Miss Frayne, of Haviland and of the various house servants. But where could any of them get it?

Again there were the Count and Mrs. Frothingham to be considered. In fact, there were too many suspects to decide among without further evidence.

"Any luck?" Stone asked of Hardy, who came in to report.

"No, Mr. Stone. I've raked the drug shops thoroughly, and there is no trace of a sale of aconitine. It's practically impossible to buy such a substance. I mean, for the ordinary customer."

"Yet somebody did."

"I suppose so. But doesn't it limit the field of search to realize that it couldn't have been a servant or either of the young ladies?"

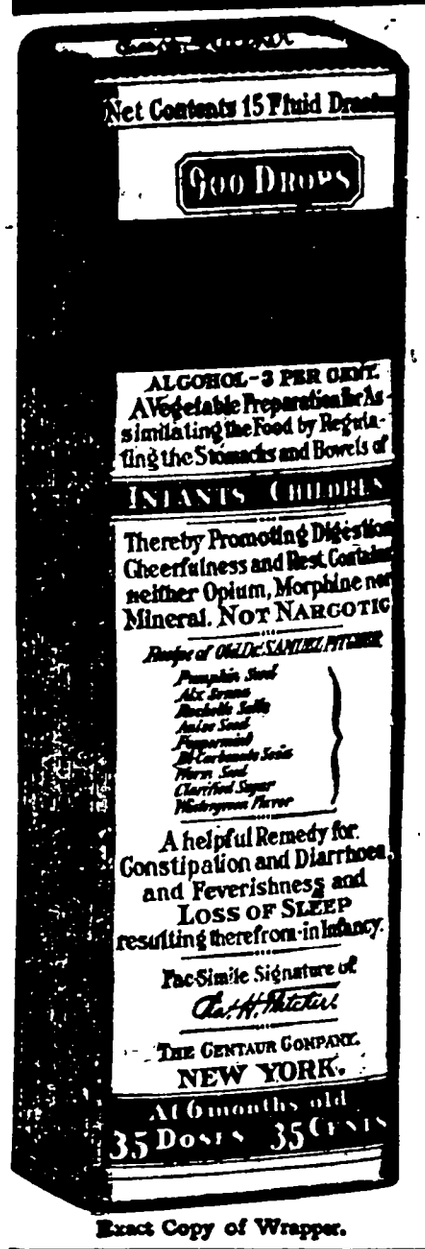
"Why neither of the young ladies?"

"But how could they get it?"

"Why not as well [illegible] one else? And somebody [illegible] Then somebody bought it! [illegible] of that, now I've [illegible] impossible it is to [illegible] purchase. And how [illegible] girls steal it?"

"I don't know, [illegible] but my point is: Why co[illegible] steal it if anybody cou[illegible] denying their ability [illegible] poison because you [illegible] to suspect them. An[illegible] o I, but we must look [illegible] thing squarely in the face. Somebody managed to get that aconitine and administer it to Miss Carrington secretary, and it is for us to find out who did it—who could do it in the face of almost insuperable obstacles. But it is futile to say this one or that one could or couldn't do it. Now, since you've found no trace of the poison sale, let's start from some other point. Surely, this case, with its unique circumstances, offers many ways to look for evidence. What strikes me most forcibly is the costume of the lady. Not so much the gown—I believe she was fond of elaborate boudoir robes—but the array of jewelry, the glittering scarf and the snake. Most of all, the snake. That, of itself, ought to point directly to the true solution, and I believe it does, only we're too blind to see it. I'm going to work on that snake clue, and, to help, I wish you'd go at once to all the possible shops where it might have been bought. It may not be traceable and then, again, it may. And, the strange fact of her sitting idly before the mirror when she died! Whoever gave her the poison was there on the spot, must have been, for it's sure enough that she didn't take it herself, according to the doctor's statements. Well, if the murderer was right there with her, and she not only made no outcry, but continued to look smiling and happy, it was surely some one she knew and in whom she had all confidence. Perhaps this person urged her to eat the sandwich—oh, pshaw, that's all plausible enough—but, the snake! That's the bizarre clue that must lead somewhere. And it shall! I'll ferret out the mystery of that paper snake or my name's not Stone! Go to it, Hardy! Rake the Japanese shops and department stores but find out who bought it. It isn't old. I observed it was fresh and new. Those flimsy paper things show handling mighty quickly. Find out who bought the thing, and we've a start in the right direction."

(Continued Next Week)



Exact Copy of Wrapper.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children
Mothers Know That Genuine Castoria
Always Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher
For Over Thirty Years
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Sympathetic.

"Has he a sympathetic nature?"

"Very. I have never met him when he wasn't sorry for himself."

The world is kept busy and wears out many a good pair of boots boosting men up to do their duty.

Look out for Spanish Influenza.

At the first sign of a cold take

HILL'S CASCARA BROMIDE QUININE

Standard cold remedy for 20 years—in tablet form—safe, sure, no opiates—breaks up a cold in 24 hours—relieves grip in 3 days. Money back if it fails. The genuine box has a Red top with Mr. Hill's picture. At All Drug Stores.

Farm Opportunities in United States

If YOU are interested, write to the Home Bureau, U. S. Railroad Administration, Washington, for free information, naming the [illegible] advantages of which you desire to know and giving full particulars about your requirements.

The Homeseekers' Bureau is NOT a real estate. Its mission is to furnish data by states regarding land values, [illegible] markets, climate, schools, churches, etc., to those who wish to engage in farming, raising, dairying, gardening and kindred [illegible]. A letter will bring a free booklet which will help in solving your problems of living.

Address J. L. EDWARDS, Manager, 2000, Agricultural Section, U. S. Railroad Administration, Washington, D. C.

GASOLINE 16c A GAL

Gasvim, a marvelous discovery cuts gasoline one third, increases mileage and power, eliminates carbon. Formulas for making Gasvim, Kelmax radiator mixture, Kilmax puncture plugger, carbon remover, and $1.00 box of Gasvim, all postpaid for $1. GASVIM CO., Washington, D. C.

MEN Cut Your Own Hair with the SELF HAIR CUTTER. Cuts your hair. Cuts hair any desired length. Improves appearance, leave "cut steps." Lasts a lifetime. Instructions postpaid. KIZERMAN, 110 N Main, Wilkesbarre, Pa.

GET 8% on your money, no more, no less. Security, good land. $10 or any multiple. Bank reference. Fresno Land & Cattle Co., Fresno, Cal.

DRUGGISTS! VICK'S VAPORUB SHORTAGE OVERCOME AT LA

The Deal Scheduled for Last November, Which Was Postponed on Account of the Influenza Epidemic, Is Now Re-instated—Good During the Month of March.

OVER ONE MILLION JARS OF VAPORUB PRODUCED EACH WEEK

It is with pride that we announce to the drug trade that the shortage of Vick's VapoRub, which has lasted since last October, is now overcome. Since January 1st, we have been running our laboratory twenty-three and a half hours out of every twenty-four. Last week we shipped the last of our back orders, and retail druggists, therefore, are no longer requested to order in small quantities only.

NOVEMBER DEAL RE-INSTATED

This deal, which we had expected to put on last November and which had to be postponed on account of the shortage of VapoRub, is re-instated for the month of March. This allows a discount of 10% on shipments from jobbers' stock of quantities of from 1 to 4 gross. 5% of this discount is allowed by the jobber and 5% by us.

We advise the retail druggists to place their orders immediately, so that the jobbers will be able to get prompt shipments to them.

THANKS OF THE PUBLIC DUE THE DRUG TRADE DURING THE INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC.

The thanks of the American public are certainly due the entire drug trade—retail, wholesale and manufacturing—for what they accomplished during the recent influenza epidemic. The war caused a shortage of physicians—nurses were almost impossible to obtain—the demand on the drug trade was unexpected and overwhelming, and to this demand they responded nobly. Retail druggists kept open day and night and slept where they dropped behind the prescription counter. Wholesale druggists called their salesmen off the road to help fill orders—hundreds wired us to ship Vick's VapoRub by the quickest route, regardless of expense.

A TREMENDOUS JOB TO INCREASE OUR PRODUCTION

In this emergency we tried to do our part. We secured the country for materials—our Traffic Manager [illegible] his days riding freight cars [illegible] shipped raw materials in carload by express and pleaded with manufacturers to increase their deliveries.

But it was a slow process. Some of our raw materials are produced in Japan—supplies in this country were low and shipments [illegible] months to come from the far [illegible] Then we had to recruit and train skilled labor. We brought our men into the factory and trained them as foremen. We invented new machinery, and managed to install it Christmas Day, so as not to interfere with our daily production.

143 JARS OF VAPORUB EVERY MINUTE DAY AND NIGHT

By January 1st we had everything ready to put on our night shift, and since then our laboratory has been running day and night. To feed the automatic machines, which drop one hundred and forty-three jars of VapoRub a minute or one million eighty thousand weekly, has required a force of 500 people. Our Cafeteria department, created for the benefit of these workers, served 7,000 meals during the month of January alone.

13 MILLION JARS OF VAPORUB DISTRIBUTED SINCE OCTOBER

An idea of the work we have accomplished this fall may be had by our production figures—13,000,000 jars of VapoRub manufactured and distributed since last October—one jar for every two families in the United States.

During the influenza epidemic VapoRub was used as an external application in connection with the physician's treatment, and thousands of people, unable to obtain a doctor, relied on Vick's almost exclusively.

Literally millions of families all over the country, from California to Maine, and from the Great Lakes to the Gulf, have found Vick's VapoRub the ideal home remedy for croup and cold troubles.

VICK'S VAPORUB
30¢ 60¢ $1.20
"Your Body Guard"

The Mother of Eight and Never had a Doctor

Reared Her Family —WITH— SIMPLE HOME REMEDY

An American Mother Beats Them All

There are few families in which the record of Mrs. Gustave Koch, Box 24, Kewick, Keokuk County, Iowa, has been surpassed. Not in the fact that she ...ed a family of eight is her story ...markable. Thousands of families ... larger. The history of the Koch ...ily is unique in that the mother, ...th all her loving care, pinned her ...th to a simple home remedy and ...er had a doctor for her children. ...re is what she says: "Peruna has ...e my children good. I have a ...ily of eight and never had a ...ctor, only your medicine. We all ...nk Peruna a splendid tonic."

...o far as we have learned, Pe...a is the only known remedy for ...ich such a wonderful claim can ... made. Like Mrs. Koch, there ... thousands upon thousands of ...thers who place their entire de...idence upon Peruna.

...hat Peruna has merited this ...idence is attested by the words from such mothers as Mrs. Gustave Koch. Long life to her! Peruna is indicated for coughs, colds, catarrh of the head, nose and throat, or disorder of the stomach, bowels or other organs due to catarrhal inflammation of the mucous linings.

If you are sick and suffering, write the Peruna Company, Dept. S-30, Columbus, Ohio, for Dr. Hartman's Health Book. It is free and you may find that Peruna is what you need. Dr. Hartman's World Famous Peruna Tonic comes in either liquid or tablet form. Ask your dealer. If you are seeking health, do not accept "something just as good." Insist upon Peruna. Your dealer will give you a Peruna Almanac.

COLT DISTEMPER

You can prevent this loathsome disease from running through your stable and cure all the colts suffering with it when you begin the treatment. No matter how young SPOHN'S COMPOUND is safe to use on any colt. It is wonderful how it prevents all distempers, no matter how the colts or horses at any age are "exposed." SPOHN'S is sold by your druggist.

SPOHN MEDICAL CO., Sole Mfrs., Goshen, Ind.

Musical Valuations.

...great-grandmother could have ...t that piece of ground for a ...

...d now?"

..."u couldn't buy it for a grand ... singer's annual income."

The Cuticura Toilet Trio

...g cleared your skin keep it clear ...aking Cuticura your every-day ...preparations. The soap to cleanse ...urify, the Ointment to soothe and ...the Talcum to powder and per... No toilet table is complete ...ut them. 25c everywhere.—Adv.

Can You See It?

...onel Roosevelt hated the bolshe... and one day in New York he said ... reporter:

...e've got a disreputable tramp bol...i in Oyster Bay. He held me up ...ont of the general store the other ...ng.

...he world's all wrong, colonel,' he ... 'If us bolsheviks had our way ... make a law compelling the rich to ...e up with the poor. Then all ...d be equal. Wouldn't that be ...?'

...Grand? No, you ignorant fool,' ... I. 'In ten years after that equal ... there'd be the same inequality ... is now.'

...Then,' said the bolshevik cheer...—'then we'd divide up again. Di...up every ten years. It's as easy ...lling off a log. Can't ye see it, ...el?'"

Overcautious.

...hree-Fingered Sam has quit play...ooker."

...es," replied Cactus Joe. "Us Crim...Gulch citizens decided he'd better ...playin'. He's too cautious."

...ut a man has a right to be cau...."

...e carried it too far. He wouldn't ... unless he could get hold of the ... in advance an' make arrange...s so that he could locate all the ... and picture cards every deal."

Not Satisfactory.

...id you find any one in the house ...te at your scheme?"

...Oh, yes; the family dog."

ONE AT LEAST WAS ALIVE

Small Boy Evidently Had Taken Dignified Justices for a Kind of Wax-works Exhibition

Commenting before the Milwaukee Press club on the popular idea concerning judicial dignity and the supposed aloofness of judges Justice Martin B. Rosenberry of the Wisconsin supreme court, claimed that it is the public who hold aloof from the judges.

"Friends with whom I was very intimate before I took my supreme court duties, became distant soon after," he said. "I found it necessary to go even more than half way to re-establish our old relations."

Judicial dignity especially as seen in the supreme court was in for the following story.

"Hundreds of visitors daily visit the supreme court chambers to look us over. We feel like the animals in your Milwaukee zoo. One day while cases were being argued, a fly lighted on the forehead of one of the justices, all of whom were sitting still and unmoved as the arguments were being made. The justice finally raised his hand and brushed the pestiferous insect away.

"A small boy among the spectators leaned over and in a hoarse whisper said: 'Look, pa, one of 'em's alive.'"

Not Nervous.

In the same compartment is a well-known comedian was one of those nervous old ladies who travel in fear of collisions.

At every jolt or sudden stop she cried out: "Have we left the metals? Is it an accident? Are we going to be killed?"

Presently she addressed the comedian: "And, you, sir are you not afraid of railway accidents?"

"Not I," replied the funny one reassuringly. "It has been foretold that I'm to die on the scaffold."

The nervous lady changed carriages at the next station.—London Tit-Bits.

Statesmen Killed in War

Eighteen members of the British house of commons lost their lives in the recent war.

Cheap Source of Nitric Acid.

American Review of Reviews.

It is a very healthful reconnaissance that the nation now is making of its resources and industries in relation to national preparedness for defense. For the first time in this country it has become recognized that successful wars are to be fought as much with mine and factory and skilled labor as with gun and battleship and armies. The nation finds itself peculiarly independent of foreign sources of materials essential to a state of preparedness—of food materials, the metals, fuels, fabrics, and likewise explosives.

Since for the manufacture of the various explosives for munitions purposes we have been using nitric acid obtained exclusively from sodium nitrate imported from Chile, the impression has come to prevail that we have no domestic source of nitric acid, and, therefore, that in case of war with a nation of sufficient maritime strength to enforce a blockade, we should be seriously embarrassed.

Upon investigation it develops that we have a domestic source of raw materials from which nitric acid may be prepared, that this source is now large and rapidly growing, and that it is susceptible of a practically unlimited development should necessity or public exigency demand. The source meant is the ammonia recovered as a by-product in the distillation of coal for the production of coke and gas. This readily may be converted into nitric acid by an inexpensive method.

That it has not become generally recognized as a source of nitric acid is because it has found a ready market in that other great industry dependent on cheap nitrogen compounds, the fertilizer industry, to which it contributes about 40 per cent of the nitrogen now consumed therein, and because commercial methods of converting ammonia into nitric are new and imperfectly understood. The explosives industry has been content with its abundant and convenient supply of raw materials obtainable from Chile, and therefore, has not demanded the development of an additional supply. The question has never before arisen in a popular way, hence the popular misconception.

In time of blockade with Chilean nitrate no longer available, ammonia would be the main nitrogenous compound available in this country for munitions and fertilizer purposes.

Our Ship.

"When our ship comes in." How oft
We've said the words in happy jest,
Meaning some visionary bark
Home bound from far off treasure quest.

We pictured it piled high with casks
Of jewels fair as flashing foam,
And so we built our castled heights
From spoils our ships would bring us home.

But now—no thought of jewels rare
Is in our hearts as we repeat
The old time dream gauge of the sea
That winged our fancies fair and sweet.

For this time when our ship comes in—
O speeding [illegible], ahoy!
This new time the ship comes in Its treasure-trove will be our boy!
—Sara Beaumont Kennedy, in the Cincinnati Enquirer.

[illegible] Is Unscientific.

The Milwaukee Journal

The committee on immigration has reported favorably a bill which would prohibition, with certain specified exceptions, for four years.

The American Federation of Labor strongly urges the bill on the ground that it is necessary to prevent a surplus of labor from here to compete with labor already here, and to drive down its standard of living. There is no new attitude of organized labor. It always has been against an open door immigration policy.

It is not clear, in the first place that there will be a resumption of immigration on the scale of the years before the war. In fact, authorities conversant with the situation say that many thousands of the foreign born now in this country will as soon as they can do so return to their native countries.

Besides being unscientific in that it takes no account of facts the bill insults the thoroughgoing patriotism of our foreign population thousands of whose names appear in our overseas casualty lists. Congressman Burnett of the House immigration committee says that America's turning out is a delusion and a snare. Whose fault is that if not our own? What is the meaning of the widespread movement for Americanization if not a confession of our own neglect, our own shortcomings, our own lack of responsibility for the immigrants welfare?

Representatives of the American Federation of Labor are now in Europe pleading for international standards for the welfare of the working classes, but that does not hitch up with their attitude toward immigration at home. To set up artificial barriers against immigration will prevent the labor surplus of one country from going to fill up the void in other countries and this will make for the very evils which labor leaders desire to cure.

In the Quiet Places.

In the quiet places we shall walk again
I shall hear your footsteps coming through the rain

Where the arc lights glimmer on the shining street
I shall find you waiting, whimsical and sweet

Eyes that dance with laughter, lips beyond compare,
Scented drops that sparkle in your lovely hair

With the gentle shower you will come to me,
Stretching slender fingers full of wizardry

Through the pulsing shadows full of misty rain
We shall walk the old ways quietly again

We shall smile and whisper in a holy way
Of the rain and darkness, of the night and day.

We shall smile and murmur through our happy tears
Of the dear, departed, everlasting years.

With the silver lances of the summer rain
Like remembered music you will come again.
—Herbert S. Gorman, in the Outlook.

A Paris dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph says: "It has more than once been pointed out that, owing to the strict censorship exercised over the news from America at the president's request, we have been insufficiently informed as to the trend of public opinion in the United States. This lack of news undoubtedly has had the effect of facilitating the acceptance of the league proposals as presented here by the American delegation."

It is estimated that the citizens of the United States spend about $10,000,000,000 a year on automobiles and the maintenance of them.

GRANDMA USED SAGE TEA TO DARKEN HAIR

She mixed Sulphur with it to Restore Color, Gloss, Youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

Same Occupation.

"I suppose the hospital doctor and the Red Cross nurse who are engaged were drawn together by similar tastes."

"How so?"

"When they met she was knitting sweaters and he was knitting bones."

SPRAINS! RUB PAINS AND SWELLING AWAY

Don't suffer! Go about your duties—Relief comes the moment you Apply "St. Jacobs Liniment."

Don't stay crippled! Rub this soothing penetrating liniment right into the sprain, ache or strain, and out comes pain, soreness, stiffness and swelling.

Nothing else penetrates, heals and strengthens the injured muscles, nerves, tendons and ligaments so promptly. It doesn't burn or discolor the skin and can not cause injury. Don't suffer! Get a small trial bottle from any drug store now—limber up! Rub the misery right out. A moment after "St. Jacobs Liniment" is applied you can not feel the slightest pain or soreness, and you can go about your regular duties.

"St. Jacobs Liniment" conquers pain. It has been used effectively for sprains, strains, soreness and stiffness for [illegible] years—six gold medal awards.—Adv.

No Lectures for Him.

"Where's your wife these days, Flubdub?"

"On the lecture platform."

"That lets you out, doesn't it?"

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER

Has been used for all ailments that are caused by a disordered stomach and inactive liver, such as sick headache, constipation, sour stomach, nervous indigestion, fermentation of food, palpitation of the heart caused by gases in the stomach. August Flower is a gentle laxative, regulates digestion both in stomach and intestines, cleans and sweetens the stomach and alimentary canal, stimulates the liver to secrete the bile and impurities from the blood. Sold in all civilized countries. Give it a trial.—Adv.

What does it profit a man if he gets the world by the tail and then can't swing it?

Out of Pain to Comfort! Proved Safe by Millions!

MERCY'S GIFT

For Pain
Headache
Toothache
Earache
Rheumatism
Lumbago

BAYER

Colds
Grippe
Influenza-Colds
Stiff Neck
Joint Pains

Adults—Take one or two "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" with water. If necessary, repeat dose three times a day, after meals.

Ask for and Insist Upon

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin"

American owned—Entirely!

20 cent Bayer packages—also larger Bayer packages. Buy Bayer packages only—Get original package.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

Calf Enemies

WHITE SCOURS BLACKLEG

Your Veterinarian can stamp them out with Cutter's Anti-Calf Scour Serum and Cutter's Germ Free Blackleg Filtrate and Aggressin, or Cutter's Blackleg Pills.

Ask him about them. If he hasn't our literature, write to us for information on these products.

The Cutter Laboratory
Berkeley, Cal., or Chicago, Ill.
"The Laboratory That Knows How"

Skin Tortured Babies Sleep After Cuticura

All druggists; Soap 25, Ointment 25 and 50, Talcum 25. Sample each free of "Cuticura, Dept. X, Boston."

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 12–1919.

He Changed His Mind.

"I can't eat this stuff."

"Never mind, dear. I have some fine recipes for making up leftovers."

"In that case I'll eat it now."

Keep your liver active, your bowels clean by taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets and you'll keep healthy, wealthy and wise. Adv.

One of the proud boasts is "All our family have to pay an income tax."

There are no golden-tongued orators because it is silence that is golden.

Only the sympathetic are entitled to sympathy.

SMOKING TOBACCO FACTS FROM THE ENCYCLOPAEDIA

The Use of Flavorings Determines Difference In Brands

The Encyclopaedia Britannica says about the manufacture of smoking tobacco: ". . . on the Continent and in America, certain 'sauces' are employed . . . the use of the 'sauces' is to improve the flavour and burning qualities of the leaves." Which indicates that a smoker's enjoyment depends as much upon the flavoring used as upon the tobacco.

Your nose is a sure guide in the matter of flavorings. Try this simple test with several tobacco brands: pour some tobacco into your palm, rub briskly, and smell. You will notice a distinct difference in the fragrance of every brand. The tobacco that smells best to you will smoke best in your pipe, you can rest assured.

Carefully aged, old Burley tobacco, plus a dash of pure chocolate, gives TUXEDO Tobacco a pure fragrance your nose can quickly distinguish from any other tobacco. Try it and see.

Salonna

Is a New CORN REMEDY discovered by two druggists, after many years of experimenting; and is guaranteed to give relief if used according to directions. If you are troubled with corns or bunions, do not fail to try Salonna. For sale by leading druggists or sent postpaid upon receipt of price, 35 cents.

New-Well Drug Co., P. O. Box X, Newell, S. D.

The Proper Method

"These are very rude waiters in this place. There is one system they should be put under."

"What is that?"

"Civil service rules."

Red Cross Ball Blue should be used in every home. It makes clothes white as snow and never injures the fabric. All good grocers, 5c.

When some people talk it is a waste of time to yawn.

Responsibility educates. — Wendell Phillips.

The Same Delicious Satisfying Drink

Used for years instead of coffee by families who value health.

The Original

POSTUM CEREAL

Boiled just like coffee

—15 minutes after boiling begins.

Rich in aroma. Pleasing in flavor. Economical. No table drink has ever taken the place of Postum.

"There's a Reason"

Get it at grocers. Two sizes 15c & 25c.

Bake More Save More

More and more, thoughtful women are decreasing the cost of living by increasing the variety of their home baking. They have learned to bake the Royal way with fewer eggs. They have found that more baked foods mean less meat. They have further discovered that their baking keeps fresh longer when made with

ROYAL Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

In many recipes, only half as many eggs are required, in some none at all, if an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder is used, about a teaspoonful in place of each egg omitted.

Try it with your favorite recipes

Royal Contains No Alum—
Leaves No Bitter Taste

The Jokes on You

If you part with your good money for a suit that transfers its affection from the back of your neck and loses interest in the set of your sleeve, three weeks after the honeymoon.

And the kind of stores that sell Divorce Suits ---usually refuse to pay alimony if anything goes wrong.

Better look around well this Spring and make sure of the store as well as the clothes before you leap.

If you follow our advice-----you'll come here. If you come here you'll be positively protected, coat, vest and pants.

Some stores can't use fair figures until the seasons over then for Special Sales! No "special sales here in their place we use low figures at the seasons opening

PATTON BROS.

Mason City, Iowa

"Where a dollar does it's duty"

We are now selling

Sweet Home Bread

Try a loaf today; it's sure good!

We also have a fine assortment of Rolls, Bismarks, Buns, Cookies, Dough-nuts, Cakes, etc.

"If It's To Eat---We Have It"

CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, Props.

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105

RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs Electrical Treatments

Eyes Tested Glasses Fitted

We have it!

If you want the very best in

Groceries Dry Goods

Shoes Ladies Wear

Hardware Paint

Buy it of

J. W. WATERMAN

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North

821, Mixed ---------- 1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger ---------- 3:03 p. m.
435, Passenger ---------- 8:44 a. m.

South

436, Passenger ---------- 6:17 p. m
1068, Passenger ---------- 11:25 a. m.
820, Freight ---------- 12:15 p. m

Having received several requests to resume my calls to Klemme, I have decided to accommodate those who desire Osteopathic Treatments and will be at the Klemme Hotel Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. Dr. R. W Schultz, Osteopathic Physician.

FOR RENT—A three room house. Inquire at First National Bank. 2w

Chris Jacobs, our County Auditor, was a Klemme caller last Friday.

C. C. Tessier, of Garner, was a business caller here last Friday.

Frank Kellogg of Garner, was here Tuesday doing electric work.

Ed. Kudje, of Garner, was a business visitor here Monday.

Nels Anderson, of Goodell, was a Klemme caller Monday between trains

E. G. Ell was a Belmond caller on Monday.

Mrs. Trafford, of Illinois, is here visiting her son, William, and family.

Lee Klotchbach is again able to be at work at Gruetzmacher Bros. after a week's illness.

Little Nova Koerner is on the sick list this week with an attack of pneumonia.

How are the roads? Fine, if you don't care if Geo. Washington told the truth.

Mrs. A. Kirkwood was a Garner visitor between trains last Thursday afternoon.

FOR SALE—Some fine Turkeys, Bourbon Reds. Inquire of Mrs. Frank Sandrey.

Miss Grace Ruka, of Goodell, came last week to assist Mrs. Kirkwood at the boarding house.

Alex Ross, of Garner, was visiting with Klemme relatives and friends a fw days the past week.

The Misses Katherine and Emma Wille were Garner visitors between trains Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Rice arrived in Klemme Tuesday afternoon for a visit with relatives and friends.

Fred Ridder, August Lau and Mr. Culverson returned Monday morning from a week's trip in Oklahoma where they went to look over the oil fields.

R. W. Schultz, Osteopath of ...ner, will be at the Klemme Hotel on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 11:30 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. adv.

Clarence Johnson drove over to Garner Sunday afternoon for a short visit with his sister, Hulda, who is nursing there.

...s. R. M. Thomas left last Thursday for Chicago to meet her husband who has just returned from overseas.

L. R. Roberts and son, Harry, of Mason City, came Monday evening and will begin work with Croner & Suckow.

NOTICE—There will be work at the Red Cross Rooms here Wednesday, March 19th. Let us all turn out and help. Chairman.

Messrs Smith and Willoughby were here on business the fore part of the week. They were here in the interests of the Iowa Cord Tire Company, of Des Moines.

FOR SALE—White Wyandotte cockerels and one "Old Trusty" 240 egg incubator nearly new.

Ralph Ludeke.

Ernest Henschen has received his discharge from the service. He returned from Camp Dodge last Wednesday. Ernest has been overseas about five months.

NOTICE—I have raised the price on cement blocks to the following prices: Rock face 20c, Smooth face 19c, which will be the price for the coming year. Chas. Stiehl.

Frank Kershner, of Goldfield, Iowa, came Friday to accompany the body of his brother, Jake Kershner to Clarion. The rest of the party joined them at Dows and Clarion.

Anyway, It's No Use.

"De man dat's always kickin'," said Uncle Eben, "ain' got any real trouble on his mind. When real trouble comes you is ginerally too stunned to kick."

Islands Once Pirate Stronghold.

Recent archaeological researches in the Virgin islands, indicate that the ancient Indian inhabitants of the islands were pirates who made long voyages in their canoes in search of loot.

The Difference.

"A great difference between the human mouth and a city street," observed the facetious filosofer, "is that a street is closed for repairs, while a mouth is opened."

The State Savings Bank have a statement in this issue of the Times.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Goll were Garner visitors between trains Tuesday.

Mrs. A. H. Meyer is enjoying a visit from her sister this week.

J. N. Day and family spent Sunday in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Keraus spent Sunday at the C. M. Gram home.

Master Wayne Pavey is on the sick list this week.

visit at Fort Dodge Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Blumer spent

Mrs. Thompkins returned from her Sunday at the C. F. Keraus home.

Miss Anna Kelley and Delores Koerner were Belmond callers last Friday.

Miss Rose Schuldt, of Garner, spent Sunday at the home of her brother, Walter Schuldt, of this city.

FOR SALE—12 months' old Red Scotch Topped Short-Horn Bull, ready for service. Emil W. Lau. tf.

Hugo Neff came over from Garner Monday morning for a short visit with Klemme relatives and friends.

Preacher Meyer did quite a rushing business last week in the marriage line. He married two couples.

The dance at the Idle Hour was postponed last week on account of the bad weather.

Miss Maude Wenck, of Garner, was an over Sunday visitor at the home of her brother, F. J. Wenck.

Miss Celia Brouwer, of Garner, visited with Miss Ella Schuldt over Sunday.

E. G. Ell and son were at Mason City last Friday and Saturday, returning to Klemme Sunday.

Ben Goll returned last week Wednesday from Camp Dodge, having received his discharge from service overseas.

Ed. Wellemeyer, ... a Klemme caller bet... s-day. He was a gu... ur Wellemeyer home w...

Edwin Josten, Fr... chen, Clark Bredbenner a... mith were summoned to C... to do jury duty.

Our "devil," Cha... n the sick list one day ... He has rubbed his name off th... st and is again on the job raising—type.

Harry Edwards, of Mason City, came Monday noon to begin work with Croner & Suckow, the contractors.

Well, the robins are back on the job again. We saw a couple of them Sunday afternoon so that must be a sure sign of Spring.

Mrs. E. G Ell and daughter, Arline, returned Tuesday morning from Minnesota where Mrs. Ell was taking care of her sister, Mrs. Palmby. Mr. Ell met them at Belmond.

FOR SALE—10 Head of Heifers, coming 2 years old, will come in in the Spring and som in Summer. 15 ewes, will lamb in April, also 1 buck for sale. Chas. Ax. 2w.

Lube Albers, Albert Fuller, N. G. Moberly, Gotlieb Goll, Geo. Glanville and Joe Johnson all journeyed over to Garner Tuesday morning to appear on the trial of the Knapp case which was up before the jury.

Miss Anna Kelley and Delores Koerner attended the Telephone Operators' School at Belmond on last Thursday and Friday. This operators' school is conducted by the Engineering Extension Department of the Iowa State College.

Tuesday morning Lieut. Dr. R. M. Tohmas arrived in Klemme from nineteen months' service overseas. He was accompanied by Mrs. Thomas, who joined him at Chicago. Lieut. Thomas has seen a lot of service, took all his training over across and was in active service as veterinarian while he was there He has many interesting accounts to relate of his experiences and it is very interesting to hear him talk.

Crowd Them Out.

If we wish to overcome evil at all, we must overcome it with good; there is no other way. Even in our own hearts, the easiest way to cast out wrong and unkind thoughts is by so crowding them out with generous purposes and pleasant memories that there is no room for them.

We have it! What?

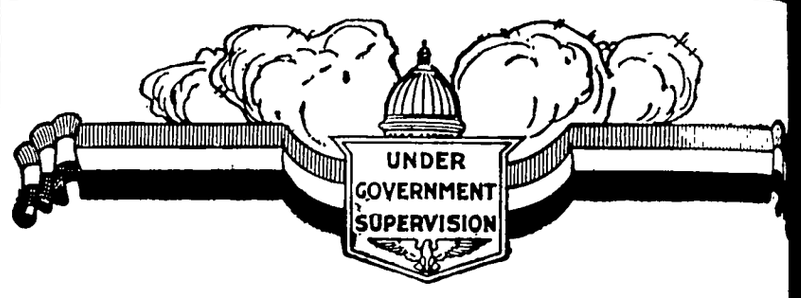
Everything

Which is found in only the best and most up-to-date Meat Markets.

You will always find a complete line of Choice Meats, Hams, Bacon, Fancy Meats and Canned Goods.

Try Our Oleomargarine---It's Fine!

J. P. Larsen & Sons



Prompt Loans

This bank, because of its complete facilities and ample resourses, is prepared to meet all requirements in the matter of farm loans.

Those whose need of funds is immediate will find our services decidedly helpful free from red-tape and unnecessary delay.

Farmers of this community are especiallo invited to investagate this service. Our transactions with the farmers in the past have been so uniformally satisfactory that we know we are unusally well qualified to serve them

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Iowa

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

All Kinds of Hardware

HARDWARE AND GROCERIES

Stoves and Furnaces

Paints, Oils, Feed, Flour, Cream Separators, Buggies, Wagons, Gasoline Engines.

All Kinds of Farm Machinery

GREUTZMACHER BROS.

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefully.

Coal Hauling Done Promptly

Telephone No. 14

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days in the week at Highest Market Price

Successor to W. R. Bloom

DR. L. R. PARSONS

DENTIST

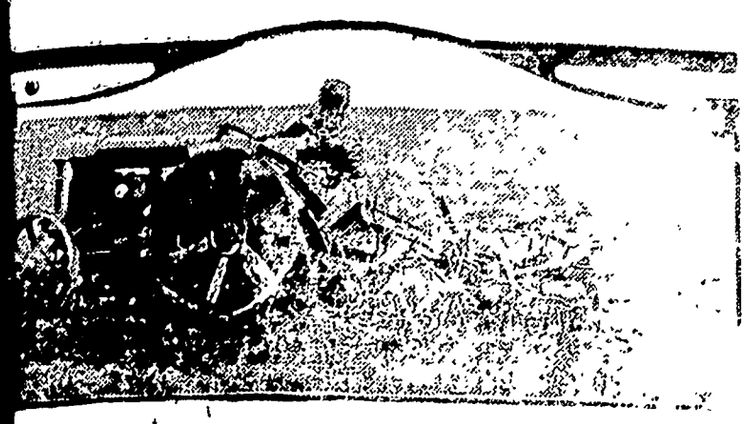
Office 1st Floor State Savings Bank

Phone No. 48

Klemme - Iowa

KLEMME TIMES

nty-third Year Number 30 | Klemme, Iowa, Thursday, March 27, 1919 | $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County



tractor that will fit your farm—the Fordson

YOU can make your farm produce more at less cost—and with less effort on your part by using the Fordson tractor. Not only will it help you prepare your land and cultivate the crops, but it furnishes power for many other farm jobs.

The Fordson tractor is the result of long study of farming conditions and it has proved a success. Burns kerosene—easy to operate and care for—practically trouble-proof.

There's an Oliver No. 7 Plow for your Fordson

Just as the Fordson tractor gives ideal power, the Oliver plow means ideal plowing. It is scientifically designed for tractor service—and is backed by a half century of experience in making plows. It buries all trash and weeds at the bottom of the furrow—maintains an even depth of furrow—and is controlled from the tractor seat.

Come in and let us show you this remarkable farm team.

Ed. G. Ell

Authorized Dealer Klemme, Iowa

Tires -- Tires -- Tires

We have the most complete line of es in the city. Goodyear-Fisk and iamond and Standard Four guarante-from 4000 to 5000 miles in reach of
.

We can sell you tires at the follow-
g prices---

3 $12.94	31x4 $26.66
31½ $17.14	32x4 $27.15
31½ $20.25	33x4 $28.76

34x4 $29.21

ok your car over and see what you need so you will ready for the Spring Driving.

Come in and look our line over

PHONE, 30

Wiles Garage

YOU HAVE TRIED THE REST - NOW TRY THE BEST

KLEMME, IA.

Town Election Monday

Everybody should take a lot of interest in the Town Election next Monday. All the voters are urged to be at the polls and cast their voe.

The election promises to be a real exciting one and as far as we can dope out none of the candidates are going to have a walk-away at the polls, more reason why every voter should cast his vote as every vote is going to count and will count big.

Both parties have some good men on their tickets and no doubt candidates will be elected from both tickets. Of course there are bound to be some disappointments, there always is at an election, but it's great sport while the thing lasts. It's about time to get ogether on the street corners and get things talked over so we will know how to vote.

School News

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

There will be no school Monday and Tuesday on account of teachers' institute at Garner.

Mildred Johnson is pianist this week.

We have received several new maps this week, and they are dandies

Dalia and Norma Stromer were absent from school Tuesday.

Lulu Neuberger and Mildred Johnson were absent from school Tuesday morning.

Don't forget the Declamatory contest Friday evening, March 28th.

Mrs. Diehl returned from Cedar Rapids Monday to finish teaching the rest of the term.

Mrs. Satterfield arrived Monday and took up her duties as coach for the Declamatory Contest

Mildred Anderson and Clifford Lenz are editors of the school notes this week.

April 1, 2, 3, are the dates for the six weeks' test.

Miss Mildred Hardcastle from Iowa Falls was substitute last week, in the English and History department.

7th and 8th Grades

The 8th grade children passed in their county examinations except two who failed in music

Blanche Medaus is an out of town visitor

Clarence Elder is sick today.

Harold Johnson is absent today.

Miss Warnock was out of town on Wednesday to another wedding. One of the high school students substituted for her

2nd Room

Awalt Jahnke is quite sick at this writing with pneumonia. We hope for a speedy recovery.

Ellen Lauden was absent Tuesday on account of sickness.

Anna Keeper was absent from school last week.

Gertrude Johnson and Neota Ridder were absent from school last week on account of sickness.

Asa Arnold is absent this week.

Primary Room

Lillian Beeler visited in Mason City over Sunday.

Rohlin and Waldo Anderson are ill with the "Flu" at present writing.

Athniel Thiel is back to school after a week's absence due to illness.

Paul Milligan is back again after a week's illness.

Blanche Gimer, Lucile Ubben and Denzel Tompkins were Primary Room visitors Friday afternoon.

Nineteen members of the first three grades were neither absent nor tardy last week.

We have just discovered why it is that the roads in the south part of Garner are always impassable. The people of Garner figure that a stone wall on the south of their little city would help to keep their good people from journeying over to Klemme to do their trading. A stone wall is a great expense but they figured that bad roads were better, that's why the roads in south Garner have been in such poor condition for the past couple of years. Klemme uses a better method. We do not have to shut our people in, they know a good thing when they see it so they stay in Klemme and enjoy prosperity. We grade up our roads leading to the gates of the city and lo, and behold, the passersby flock into Klemme like flies flock to a candy kitchen. Sure our roads and streets are in A No. 1 condition.

Obituary

J. C. KERSHNER CALLED

J. C Kershner was born August 26, 1851, at Calpaska, Virginia, and died at his home in Klemme, Iowa, at about 15 minutes past three o'clock the 12th day of March, 1919, having reached the age of 67 years, 6 months, 14 days During the year 1874 he was united in marriage to Miss Emma Jane Moon. To this happy union two children were born, one son and one daughter. After his marriage he lived for some time in Kenny, Illinois. From this place he moved his family to Goldfield and after remaining in Goldfield for some years came with his beloved family to Clarion, and here made their home until four years ago when they moved to the town of Klemme where he lived until the time of his death.

Mr. Kershner had been endowed with a strong and rugged constitution which enabled him to endure hardship and toil when others fell by the wayside. He was a man with sunny disposition, always looking on the bright side, having a pleasant word for every one he chanced to meet. At the time he was stricken with pneumonia he was employed on the Rock Island railroad company on section at Klemme. All that medical skill and loving hands could do was done to save his life, but all to no avail, his Heavenly Father having planned otherwise, and on Wednesday afternoon he quietly and peacefully slumbered into the Great Beyond, there to awake in the presence of his Saviour, the Christ.

He leaves to mourn his death, his dear wife, his only daughter, Mrs. J. B. Spitler, of Klemme, four sisters, Mrs. John Riley of Webster City, Iowa, Mrs. Solomon Braden of Moroa, Ill., Mrs. Horace McIntyre of Byers, Colorado, Mrs. Richard Blewett of Eugene, Oregon, three brothers, George and Jim of Eugene, Oregon, and Frank, of Goldfield, Iowa. The grand-children are Howard Spitler, Joe Spitler, Johnie Spitler, Vivian Kershner; his only son having gone on before about four years ago. Besides these loved ones a host of friends and acquaintances deeply mourn his loss and truly sympathize with the bereaved family in their sorrow.

The body was taken to Clarion on Saturday afternoon and taken direct to the Methodist Episcopal church, where the pastor, Rev. J. W. LaGrone had charge of the funeral services, reading many passages of scripture designed to comfort and to cheer the bereaved family. The choir sang, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and "Will There Be Any Stars In My Crown?", these being the favorite hymns of Mr. Kershner. Many beautiful flowers were brought as a token of the high esteem in which he was held by those who knew him best.

The remains were laid away in their final resting place in Clarion cemetery.

"Two hands laid over his breast,
Two feet laid down to rest,
Two eyes in slumber closed,
And Oh, the hearts bleeding,
none but God knows."

Church Notes

FIRST M. E. CHURCH, SUNDAY, MARCH 30

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7:30.

Preaching service at 8:00 o'clock.

Midweek prayer meeting on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A hearty welcome to all who come and worship with us.

ENGLISH METHODIST CHURCH

Services next Sunday at the usual hours—10 a m., 11 a m and 7.30 p. m.

There will be special music at both services. Everyone will be heartily welcome.

EVERYBODY KNOWS

When your banker is contemplating making a loan, his first move is to learn the security he is to hold to insure the safety of his money. After his investigation he finds the security sufficient to cover his loan, he then proceeds to execute the loan.

The Iowa Cord Tire Co., of Des Moines, only ask that the same precaution be used when contemplating investing in their securities they are offering at par, and after having satisfied yourself that the following is true, viz: Is it a good safe, conservative investment? Yes. Is your money secured by 35 acres of real estate in Des Moines and a modern plant and equipment covering 45,000 feet of floor space? Yes. Then good things require quick action. No other representations made other than those that exist, a square deal co-operative company. Think it over.

Smith & Willoughby,
(adv) Representatives
F. H. Ridder, Dealer

A New Way

MESERVEY MAN INVENTS NEW SYSTEM FOR LEAVING THIS WORLD

The other day a man hung himself over at Meservey. Well, we can't exactly blame the man—look at the town he had to live in. He probably figured that it was better to be dead than to live in that own all his life. He was a clever man, that is plain, for he figured out a new way to depart from this world. Now the man owned a good stair way and a ball of twine and he used them in departing from Meservey and the cold, cold world He tied the string around his neck and also to the top of the stairs, kissed himself good-bye and walked down The further he walked down the tighter the rope went around his neck and when he reached the last step he found himself to be a dead one. Some scheme, can you beat it? That man should have a monument erected in his honor, he is a hero, it isn't everybody in that moss backed town would have brains enough to think of such an elegant plan for leaving the town.

ARE YOU ATTENDING THE MEETINGS?

Most of our readers already know that every Tuesday night is Booster Night Meeting in Klemme. We have given you the facts of the meetings in late numbers of the Times and so it is not necessary to go into detail of the purposes of the meetings. The meetings can be put into a nut-shell and described in the following manner: "The Klemme Athletic Association is a booster club formed for the promotion of Athletics, Amusements and in general A Bigger Klemme by formulating plans for drawing the people to Klemme by giving them high class, free entertainments once a week."

There are a lot of good things in store for the people of Klemme and vicinity for the summer entertainments, but it is not advisable at this time to give out the program of the coming events. All we can say is, if you want to know what is going on at the meetings, we invite you to attend them every Tuesday night in the Odd Fellows Hall. Come out to the meetings and help Boost for Klemme.

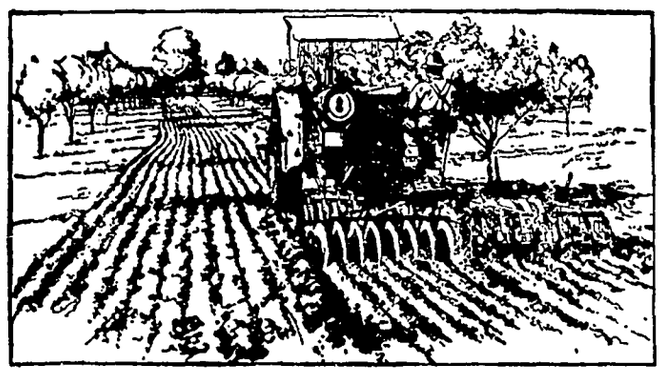
Roller skating seems to be quite a popular sport here now and most any night you can hear the skaters go whirring by. A warning: the speed laws in Klemme are fifteen miles per hour, look out skaters for the cop.

Messrs. Smith & Willoughby, of Iowa Cord Tire Co., of Des Moines, were in Klemme Tuesday and advised us that they have sold a lot of stock in the Company here. F. H. Ridder has been appointed dealer for this territory.

A basket social will be held in Dist. No. 8, Liberty township, on Friday evening, April the 4th. The program will commence at 8:00 p. m. Ladies please bring baskets.

Drusilla Stromer, Teacher
C C. Shafer, Director

CASE KEROSENE TRACTORS



For Field or Orchard

Case 10-20 Features

1—Pulls three 14-inch plows anywhere a team can continuously pull one plow.

2—Most powerful tractor in the 5000 pound class. Delivers 14 7-10 per cent more drawbar horsepower than rated.

3—Has 4-cylinder Case valve-in-head motor—head removable. Burns kerosene successfully and economically. Efficient air strainer prevents dust and grit entering cylinders.

4—Cut steel heat treated transmission gears, enclosed and running in oil. Hyatt Roller Bearings.

5—When plowing, all wheels travel on unplowed ground. Combined tire width 32 inches. Absolutely no side draft.

6—Friction clutch pulley with brake, regular equipment. Drives 20x36 Case Thresher with blower, feeder and grain handler, Case No. 15 silo filler and other machines requiring similar power.

7—The 10-inch idler can be clutched in with a lever and used as an extra driver

THIS Case 10-20 Kerosene tractor pulls two 8-foot double disc harrows. With it a field can be harrowed in a jiffy.

You'll never go back to the old, slow way, once you use this outfit.

For every farm duty, either draft or pulley, this Case 10-20 is ever ready, day and night. Ready to plow, to disc, to seed, to harvest, to thresh. It can run a 20x36 Case Thresher, or a Case No. 15 Silo Filler with 40-foot blower. You can use it throughout the year.

We'll be glad to show you what this tractor can do, and go over the specifications with you. You'll want no other, once you know this Case 10-20.

W. F. Pavey

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

The portable kitchens being used in Berlin and other German cities for distributing hot cooked food in the poorer districts at a low price are the maximum of economy and efficiency Their shape has given them the name of "goulash cannon," but underneath the cannon is a small charcoal fire which keeps the hot stew at a boiling point. A boxlike contrivance below gives space for the storage of the pieces of bread served with each order The kitchen is mounted on wheels similar to those of a small express wagon and in many instances is drawn by a dog. Occasionally a boy or an old man or woman will supply the motor power.

Up California's Tamalpais runs the crookedest railroad in the world. Of the eight miles of track the longest tangent is only 418 feet. In one instance the road makes five complete loops and ties two complete bow knots to attain an elevation of 90 feet. The end of the line is about half a mile higher than the starting point, and there is not one particularly steep grade in the entire system.

Since the outbreak of the war practically the only means by which a large variety of articles can be imported into Persia is the parcel post, according to a report from Commercial Attache Baker at Petrograd. It is the practice to ship goods of many sorts destined for Persia to Norway, whence they are reshipped in smaller packages through Russia to Persia.

Although the average American may think that ragtime is the most popular kind of music in this country, figures recently collected by a player piano concern show that from two to three times as many classical pieces are sold as popular airs Rhapsody No. 2, by Franz Liszt, is said to be more in favor than any other composition.

A nurse entering Holland from Germany had a "broken" arm that was encased in plaster of paris. Arriving at the frontier, where every one has to submit to search, the military guard demanded that the casing be ripped open. When the cast was broken some 80 letters lay exposed The arm was perfectly whole and healthy.

There now rests in the Paris museum the grapeshot ball which struck Napoleon before Ratisbon, April 28, 1809. The bullet, which caused but a trifling flesh wound, was picked up by an officer and treasured by him and his descendants, until one finally gave it to the institution, where it is now on view. That was Bonaparte's only wound.

America's longest double-decked reinforced concrete bridge is nearing completion at Cleveland and will be 3,880 feet long, 80 feet wide and at its highest point 591 feet above the river it crosses.

An automatically operated trap door that bridges the gaps between passenger cars and station platforms on the same level has been adopted by an eastern railroad to prevent accidents.

The Swiss government decided to favor the single-phase system for electrifying its railways in preference to the third rail, because it costs 10 per cent less to make the change.

Widely separated settlements in the Congo Free State have been linked and connected with civilization by a system of wireless telegraphy which covers 3,000 miles of African jungles.

A new portable electric light resembles a tape measure, as the lamp is on one side of a case containing a coil of wire that can be extended to a source of current.

Melted paraffine as a dressing for open wounds is used by a Paris surgeon, as it does not burn the flesh, and when it solidifies retains heat and aids in healing

It has been estimated that 90 per cent of industrial accidents can be eliminated, 60 per cent by safety devices and 30 per cent by proper training of workers.

A patent has been granted for a twisted wire support with which an incandescent lamp can be hung on the head of a bed or upon almost any piece of furniture

With a view of improving the quality of Philippine tobacco the insular government has put into force a law requiring the inspection of all that is exported

Mounted on a window shade roller and brackets, a new automobile awning protects the wind shield from rain and lessens the glare when the sun is shining

At the end of the handle of a recently patented broom is a hinged box which permits the insertion of new broom corn when the old has been worn out.

Some language students maintain that Irish brogue is the ancient way of pronouncing English preserved in its purity by residents of the Emerald Isle.

Australia avoids orphan asylums by sending parentless children to private families, which are paid for their care until they reach the age of 14 years.

With a yearly average temperature below zero, Verkoyansk, in northeastern Siberia, is believed to be the coldest inhabited place in the world.

Edward Francis asked to be jailed in Philadelphia the other day on the ground that he felt an uncontrollable desire to steal something.

Population of the Argentine republic has almost doubled during the last 20 years. Most of the increase is due to immigration.

The German pound is exactly one-half a kilogram or about one-tenth more than the American or British pound.

The Spanish city of Seville, once the most famous in the world for its silk, is planning to revive the industry.

Electric burglar alarms surround the treasury at Washington and are tested every 15 minutes, day and night.

H. B. Meissner, former office boy, is now president of the St Louis (Mo.) Car company. He is 31 years old.

An electrically heated coffe percolator made of earthenware has been patented by a New York inventor.

An Englishman has invented a collapsible lifeboat with a rubber skin that automatically closes punctures.

What is said to be a satisfactory method for plating aluminum on iron has been invented in France.

East Orange, N. J., has added a woman to its police force

D. A. R. OF IOWA IN ANNUAL MEET

Mrs. Carrie Mann, of Onawa, Is Reelected Regent—Mrs. G. H. Bliven, of Sioux City, Named Auditor.

Sheldon, Ia., March 24.—The 20th annual conference of the Iowa Daughters of the American Revolution closed its sessions in Sheldon Friday afternoon. The state conference was entertained here by the Mary Ball Washington chapter, of this city, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The opening session was held Wednesday evening in the Methodist church and the remainder of the meetings in the Masonic temple.

There were 83 visiting regents and delegates from the state at large present at the conference. The state officers present were as follows: Regent, Mrs. Carrie Mann, of Onawa; vice regent, Mrs. Frank B. Thrall, Ottumwa, recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Miner, Des Moines; treasurer, Miss Amy E. Gilbert, of State Center, consulting registrar, Mrs. Lue Prentiss, Iowa City; auditor, Mrs. F. E. Frisbee, Sheldon.

The officers elected Friday afternoon were as follows: Regent, Mrs Carrie Manna, Onawa, reelected; vice regent, Mrs. Edward Schoentgen, Council Bluffs, recording secretary, Mrs. F. E. Frisbee, Sheldon; treasurer, Miss Amy Gilbert, State Center, reelected; corresponding secretary, Mrs. George Ross-Clarke, Des Moines; historian, Mrs. F. B. Thrall, Ottumwa; consulting registrar, Mrs. Sue B. Prentiss, Iowa City; auditor, Mrs. G. H. Bliven, Sioux City.

The Sheldon Commercial Club cooperated in entertaining the visitors in the decoration of the streets and business places, furnishing conveyances, etc.

AN AUTO STALLS ON CROSSING; ONE KILLED

Modale, Ia., March 24.—The engine on a big truck went dead just as it was directly across the Northwestern tracks in front of a train near Modale late yesterday.

There were five men on the truck, Frank Poole, 18-year-old son of H. W. Poole, and Bert Lewis, were injured so badly that Poole died just as the train carrying the injured men reached Council Bluffs. Lewis is not expected to live. Lewis is a Council Bluffs man. Several of the others sustained minor injuries. The men were engaged in moving household goods to the Poole farm.

Almost Another One.

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 22.—The train which hit a truck near Modale yesterday almost caused another tragedy as it was crossing Broadway in this city An auto carrying several people was stalled on the track It was pushed off by men who were quick to see the danger. The engine scraped the paint off the rear of the car as it whizzed by

FAMOUS IOWA REGIMENT TO PARADE IN WASHINGTON

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 24.—Official information has been received here by the committee on arrangements for the reception of the returning members of the 168th infantry that the war department has made the following arrangements and official orders with refence to the arrival home of the Rainbow division.

The New York regiment will be reviewed in New York and the 168th infantry will be reviewed in Washington, a distinction that is regarded here as significant. The Iowa boys will not parade in New York.

The department has made this ruling with reference to the invalided soldiers who are to be sent to New York by the state of Iowa to meet their returning comrades. The Iowa boys on their arrival in New York will receive a hearty welcome, and on the day before the 168th is to be reviewed will be permitted to rejoin their old companies, will march with them in review, and will be permitted to remain with them and return home with them. The order specifically states that the invalided soldiers are not to rejoin their old companies until the day before the review.

NEVELIN AGAIN HEADS LEMARS SCHOOLS

LeMars, Ia., March 24.—At the annual meeting of the LeMars school board S. T. Nevelin, who has been superintendent of the city schools for the last three years, was reelected at a salary of $2,500 I J McDuffee, who has been a member of the school board for more than a quarter of a century and retired this year, was presented with a gold headed cane.

WESTERN UNION MAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Woodbine, Ia., March 22.—Rex Palmer, 21 years old a Western Union lineman, was killed near here by a North western train. Palmer, who was working near the track, bent over a cross arm and was struck on the head by the heavy beam on the engine front His home was in Kansas.

DESPONDENCY CAUSE OF FARMER SUICIDE

Dubuque, Ia., March 24.—The dead body of Ambrose Brown, aged 45, well known Dubuque county farmer, was found hanging in the barn on his farm several miles west of Dubuque. He is believed to have been despondent because of ill health. He is survived by his mother, one brother and three sisters.

BURNS RESULT IN THE DEATH OF MERRILL WOMAN

Merrill, Ia., March 24.—Mrs. W. J Lawrence died at her home here of pneumonia following severe burns received while she was taking a bath several days ago. Mrs. Lawrence was born near East Dubuque, Ill., August 20 1854 She removed with her husband to LeMars in an early day About 20 years ago they came to Merrill. Mr Lawrence is cashier of the bank of Merrill

IOWA MAN GIVEN IMPORTANT PLACE

Leo J. Flyn, of Dubuque, Becomes Assistant to Chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Washington, D. C., March 22.—Leo J. Flynn, of Dubuque, has been made assistant to Interstate Commerce Commissioner Aitchison, who is the new chairman of the commission. Mr. Flynn, who is a graduate of Iowa State university, and is well known among Iowa lawyers, has for several years been attorney to the commission. Mr. Aitchison himself is a native of Iowa.

IOWA SOLDIER MAY GET NEW SET OF EARS

Woodbine, Ia., March 22—It is doubtful if there is a man among the hundreds of Iowa soldiers who were disabled in the war with Germany and who lived to return home, who was as badly or more thoroughly disabled than was George Bolt, son of Mr and Mrs. J. H. Bolt, of Woodbine, who was a member of Company M, of Red Oak. It is also a question if any passed through a more harrowing experience than did Private Bolt and lived through it. His friends, who have seen him and have learned of his remarkable experience, look upon him with wonder and amazement.

Private Bolt had both ears burned off close to his head and he lost both his hands, a small portion of one hand only being left, when a dugout he was in was struck by a high explosive shell. His face was also scarred with burns.

He was in hospitals at Baccarat, Vittel and Savonay and sailed for home from Brest, August 19. He landed at Newport News and was taken to a hospital at Cape May, N. J., where he has been for months receiving treatment and where he will return to have new ears drafted upon his head and where he will be given artificial hands. The remarkable reconstruction work of the American surgeons is already visible in Bolt's case, and it is declared that when he has received his final touching up of nature he will be to all outward appearances a normal man.

HOLD CONNOLLY IN AIR SERVICE

Washington, D. C., March 22.—Maj Maurice Connolly, former congressman from the Third Iowa district, and also former postmaster at Dubuque, but now in the air service, will remain in the army some time longer, at the request of General Mitchell, the new air service head. He will be engaged in important special work in the development of machines and trial flights. Major Connolly has made a fine record in the air service, but had been asked to be allowed to quit on April 1. It has been rumored he was slated to be reappointed postmaster at Dubuque, which place he gave up to enter the service two years ago.

WEALTHY FARMER IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Dunlap, Ia., March 22.—W H Reddick, 60 years old, a wealthy farmer, was killed by a Chicago & Northwestern train in the yards of Dunlap Mr. Reddick was walking on the track and, stopping a moment to allow an automobile to pass him, walked directly in front of the fast train He was killed instantly.

Mr Reddick had moved to town this spring. He leaves a widow

OTTUMWA WOMAN IS GIVEN BIG ALIMONY

Ottumwa, Ia., March 22 - Elizabeth B. Simmons was granted a decree of divorce from Frank W Simmons by Judge F. M Hunter in the district court Saturday.

The terms of the divorce grant the plaintiff permanent alimony to the extent of $40,000 for the support of herself and the support and education of the 11-year old daughter, Martha Elizabeth Simmons, until she attains her majority.

SMOTHERED TO DEATH IN A SAND PIT

Mason, City, Ia. March 22--Frank Caliguiri, 41 years old, was smothered to death when an embankment at the plant of the Ideal Sand & Gravel Co. caved in on him. Sam Crawford and H. Cook, other employes, also buried were rescued and will recover Caliguiri had a wife and two children in Italy

"FLU" CAUSES YOUNG MAN TO SUICIDE

LeMars, Ia., March 21—Henry Ruedy, 20 years old, while delirious from the effects of influenza, shot himself through the head with a revolver Death is believed to have been instantaneous. The affair occurred at the home, southwest of here But a few minutes before the shooting the young man was talking to a sister and appeared to be in good spirits. He is survived by two brothers and six sisters, one of them being Mrs. Ernest Hubert, of Sioux City.

AN AGED IOWAN DIES NEAR MONDAMIN WEDNESDAY

Logan, Ia., March 21.—Donald Maule, agend 98 years, died at the farm home northwest of Mondamin Wednesday as a result of illness incident to advanced age.

COUNCIL BLUFFS WORLD WAR VETS ORGANIZE

Council Bluffs, Ia. March 22 --Rainbow Post No. 2 was organized here last night and application made at once for membership in the proposed world war veterans organization Delegates were elected to attend the meeting to consider the organization of a national body Three overseas officers, Col Matt Ta[illegible] of Donald Mc Rae tentative [illegible] were chosen as

WEALTHY IOWAN "JOBBED" IN WEST

Dan Froehlich, of St. Benedict, Parts With $8,500 In Oil Deal With Four Strange Men.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 22.—Although he lost $8,500 in what the police declare is a bunk oil stock deal, Dan Froehlich, wealthy farmer of St. Benedict, Kossuth county, Iowa, today refused to believe the two men whom the police are seeking guilty of robbing him

Froehlich, who was here for the winter, met two strangers who offered to "let him in" as a member of an alleged fraudulent stock exchange in San Diego, Cal They took Froehlich to the southern city where two other men were met After Froehlich was made a member of the "firm" he was sent to Portland, Ore., on an alleged trumped-up business trip. While he was there one of the bunko suspects telegraphed him that the business venture in San Diego had met with disaster and his money was gone. They claimed one of the promoters had lost $15,000 and another, $20,000. When Froehlich reported the case to Captain of Detectives, George K Home, he declared his belief in the integrity of the first two men he met, but suspected the other two. The alleged bunko game occurred March 9 but just came to light today when Froehlich went to Captain Home for his advice as to how to get back his $8,500.

HEARS FROM BROTHER BELIEVED TO BE DEAD

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 20 —A sister of Sergt. Anton Paluka, of Council Bluffs, fainted when she received a letter from her brother, written in France under date of February 24, 1919, in which the brother told his sister he was well and expected to be sent home soon.

Early last July the members of the family were officially notified that young Paluka had died overseas, and the shock and joy of receiving news now months after he had been first mourned as dead, caused the young woman to collapse.

KENYON PLANS ON VISIT TO RUSSIA

Fort Dodge, Ia., March 22.—Senator W S. Kenyon will go to Russia this spring to study bolshevism if developments within the next two weeks indicate that an extra session of congress is not to be called before the middle of the summer. Senator Kenyon plans on leaving this country April 5, and would be gone three months.

Senator Kenyon would take the eastern route, stopping in Paris to get information about the peace conference and then go by transport to Archangel.

SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT AT FORT DODGE RE-ELECTED.

Fort Dodge, Ia., March 22.—L. H. Minkel has been elected superintendent of schools here. He enters his ninth consecutive year as head of the Fort Dodge schools. His salary was raised to $4 800 and in addition to that he is given the use of an automobile.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS SENT MANY TO FRONT.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 22.—With 3,600 members in the service, or about one-fifth of the entire membership in this state, Iowa Knights of Columbus claim to have established a record which is perhaps unequaled by any other fraternal organization. Figures recently compiled by Joe McCormick, of this city, state secretary, show that each of the 52 councils in Iowa furnished a liberal quota of men as defenders of democracy.

Des Moines, with a membership of 700 at the time the armistice was signed had 260 knights in the service. Dubuque had 223, Carroll 200 Sioux City 125, Cedar Rapids 110, Cascade 112, Algona 110, LeMars 116 and some of the smaller places sent as many as one-third of the membership to the front.

MANY LETTERS WRITTEN, BUT NONE DELIVERED

Fort Dodge, Ia., March 22—Not a word from home did Tom Kelley receive during his six months' service overseas. Mr Kelley arrived home today He was with the army of occupation, and his moving from place to place accounts in a measure for his failure to receive letters, cards or cables. A message published in the Paris Tribune to the effect that all his family was well was the only word he had His wife, to whom he was married shortly before his departure, wrote 135 letters in the six months. These are now beginning to come back.

CLINTON STRIKERS AGREE TO ARBITRATE

Clinton Ia., March 22—Striking employes of the Item Biscuit company agreed today to return to work Friday morning pending a decision by the war labor board of their dispute with the company, the board's finding to be effective as of that date.

ALTA—The Alta Advertiser has been sold on contract to a number of Alta business men who will take charge of the newspaper plant August 1. New equipment, including a typesetting machine and other machinery, will be added to the plant.

IOWA ICE DEALERS HOLD A CONFERENCE

Waterloo, Ia., March 22.—Ice dealers from Des Moines, Davenport, Cedar Rapids, Oskaloosa, Mason City, Marshalltown Dubuque, Cedar Falls, West Liberty Boon and Waterloo held a conference here It was found that these dealers formally put up 218 000 tons, but this winter the pack amounted to but 77 000 tons A shortage of 66 per cent is shown, much greater than anticipated Most of the ice was harvested at high costs, it was shown.

Training Little Childre

"Come Let Us Live With Our Children"—To Live With Children Means to Be Interested in Them and With Them, to Be Honest With Them, and to Have Faith in Them.

Suggestions by mothers who have been kindergartners. Issued by the United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., and the National Kindergarten Association, Fortieth Street, New York.

I AM a mother of three children; Betty, aged six; Bob, four, and Jack, who is two. Up to the time Betty was four years old she had always been a very nervous child and needed constant entertaining. I hesitated to send her to kindergarten, but after reasoning with myself, I finally decided to send her. The concentration required in the two years she spent in kindergarten made a different child of her, and she can amuse herself now for many hours at a time.

Bob entered kindergarten about three months ago. He is a quiet child and needs to be brought out of himself. He seems to be getting needed help in the kindergarten, for, in the short while he has been there, he has become more talkative and active. He now enjoys being with other children whereas before he preferred to play alone.

There is nothing more necessary in bringing up children than to have them feel that we are interested in them. Try always to answer their questions. If you cannot satisfy their curiosity, they will surely go elsewhere for their information. When the children come home from school, I ask what they did, what song they sang, what pictures they looked at, etc. They live the two or three hours spent in kindergarten over again by telling me what they have done. I had to leave the children for a week, not long ago. When I returned they could not talk fast enough to tell me all that had happened. The habit thus formed of caring to share their experiences with you is a great safeguard as they grow older.

A story at bedtime is always welcomed by the children, and I find that it is not only enjoyable and beneficial to them, but also to myself. They never tire of good fairy stories. Nature stories are always interesting, too. My children will choose the same stories over and over again until they almost know them by heart.

Several nights ago I was called away and could not read a story, so I promised one for after breakfast next morning. When breakfast was over and I thought of all I had to do, it seemed as if I were wasting time to sit and tell stories. However, as the children became absorbed in the story and their happy faces looked up into mine, I realized that time could not be better spent. The story was that of Hans and the Four Big Giants, the keynote of which is helping others. I knew that the children had absorbed the point of the story which helped me afterward to [illegible] breakfast table.

The kindergarten is a great [illegible] making children independent. [illegible] child is taught gradually and [illegible] playful way, to help himself [illegible] class of forty, John does not [illegible] be the only one who cannot put [illegible] rubbers or button his coat. [illegible] you will say you can teach [illegible] dence at home. Granted, [illegible] The trouble at home is that [illegible] often do too many things [illegible] children. At home too, we [illegible] group work so beneficial in the [illegible] garten. It develops the social [illegible] a child as well as his ability [illegible] service.

Orderliness is another aim [illegible] kindergarten. It should also [illegible] aim of every household In the [illegible] garten all the material is kept [illegible] order. It is given out and collected [illegible] an orderly way and each child [illegible] taught to pack up his material [illegible] he has finished with it There [illegible] ways a place for everything in the [illegible] degarten, and the child learns [illegible] everything in its place

If your child is not orderly at [illegible] do not blame him until you [illegible] yourself in his place and see [illegible] are expecting the impossible. [illegible] discovered in our family that [illegible] ing things convenient, the child [illegible] will keep things in order [illegible] coat closet we have a box for [illegible] and another for toys We have [illegible] within reach two hooks for [illegible] child's clothing. On the door [illegible] a bag of several pockets for [illegible] Even the two-year-old boy puts [illegible] things away and I have never had [illegible] him to do so. He learned by [illegible] the others. Just the other day [illegible] cried while I was undressing him [illegible] cause he remembered he had left [illegible] his train away. Let each child [illegible] a separate place for his toys and [illegible] so enjoy being owners If [illegible] neat and another careless, it is [illegible] very discouraging for both to [illegible] their things together.

Not long ago I spent a most [illegible] joyable afternoon coasting with [illegible] children. A neighbor who [illegible] said: "You surely are a child with [illegible] children." She unconsciously paid [illegible] a compliment. If I can only make [illegible] children feel that I am interested [illegible] everything they do I am certain [illegible] will have and keep their confidence

Please pass this article on to [illegible] friend and thus help [illegible] Santa [illegible] all the mothers of the country.

How to "Get On" in the World

(Copyright, 1919, 21st Century Press.)
By Newell Dwight Hillis.

Slowly, step by step, society is climbing to new times and to a golden [illegible] First, good things were gained for kings' families; then barons won [illegible] prosperity; then land owners achieved good fortune; then, though [illegible] veniences were multiplied for the middle classes and farmers now tenants [illegible] "common laborers" are getting the good things. It is the last section of [illegible] to be redeemed from poverty. Many institutions will have to be reorganized [illegible] but the important point is this: In the proposed international conference [illegible] workingmen, to be held next spring, the leaders announce that the time has [illegible] come when common laborers must wake up; that the era of ignorance [illegible] that sloth, drink and petty thefts must go. No more holding the hand [illegible] more wasting raw materials in the factory! Every common laborer must [illegible] come a high grade, intelligent worker, and this must be the motto for the [illegible] ference: "The common laborer must make himself indispensable and [illegible] while."

Now this call to workingmen marks a new era. It is the beginning of [illegible] entirely new epoch for industry. It means that at last the "common man" [illegible] has wakened up. There was a time when the barons could not read or write [illegible] and they waked up, there was a time when the land owners were utterly [illegible] ate and enjoyed less comforts than the common laborer of today, and [illegible] waked up; now it is the common laborer whose eyes have been opened. [illegible] this time on the new plan is, not to hold the land, but to hasten the tools; [illegible] waste the material, through a jealousy of the employer, but to save it; [illegible] drown troubles in drink, but to keep the eye clear, the nerve firm, the [illegible] steady, and the result will be success. There will be a doubling of the wages [illegible] of factories, and then a quadrupling of the wage of the workingman.

The more food there is in the farmer's granary, the more goods there are [illegible] the warehouses and stores, the more wealth there will be to exchange and [illegible] tribute. This is the path that leads toward the workingman's ownership of his [illegible] own house and garden. We ought to be able to abolish poverty in the [illegible] future, and with it the jails and the gallows.

This war has taught our 2,000,000 boys many lessons. Battles are won [illegible] by the machine gun alone, but by the man behind the gun. Not machines [illegible] mind! It is the soul that wins battles and produces wealth. Pig iron is [illegible] ton, but skill will turn the pig iron into horseshoes worth $500 a ton; skill [illegible] will turn the pig iron into the hair springs of watches worth $10,000. Food [illegible] and raw material, $40; skill and intelligence in the workingman added. [illegible] The way to increase the wage is to increase the skill! Put your foot in the [illegible] spade, $2 a day for the gardener; put your hand into a spade as an expert [illegible] dener, $5, put your head into a spade in that hothouse down in central [illegible] Jersey, where a boy grows cucumbers, and a certain New York hotel pays the [illegible] boy $10 a day. Not the spade, but skill!

The most thrilling page in the history of the self made men of this country [illegible] is the story of poor boys who have, through skill, learned how to do their particular piece of work better than anyone else. Wendell Phillips could entertain [illegible] an hour with his lecture on the lost arts. But Wendell Phillips says that success [illegible] came about by getting "One hundred nights of lecturing behind me." Little by [illegible] little and there a little, constant study, daily practice, tireless industry, and [illegible] last the golden key is fashioned that fits the lock that opens the golden door of [illegible] success.

Canned Music.

From London Tit-Bits.

Have you ever thought, when listening to your favorite phonograph record, of the multitudinous and complex processes it has gone through from start to finish before being sold to you? In making a record the singer or instrumentalist sings or plays into a tin horn. When a band record is being made the players sit on chairs of varying heights, with the lowest one nearest the horn and the highest ones—six feet tall in some cases—at the rear of the semi-circle, so that each instrument will focus on the horn without interference of any sort.

Should there be a discordant note the wax record is ruined and the work must start all over again. Once in a while, in the middle of a selection, a sneeze or cough breaks out triumphantly, and no matter how much time may have been expended on the record up to that point it is now wasted work and must begin again.

A Record Meat Producer.

A 50-ton whale will furnish as much edible and highly nourishing meat as a herd of 100 steers, of one-half ton weight each; or as 500 sheep of 200 pounds each, or 300 hogs of 350 pounds each. One-fifth of a whale is good meat It is also all uniform, I mean, that it is boneless, and consists entirely of roasts and steaks Its sirloin section, which in an average whale measures some 15 tons, is entirely lacking in those tough, and almost inedible, parts found in a beef carcass Its tongue, though coarse, is good meat throughout—and a single tongue will sometimes weigh 3,000 pounds.

According to a writer in the Scientific American, "Whale meat has every advantage over beef, mutton or pork; first place, the whale is a diseases animal and its salt water bath is a tribute to its freshness, [illegible] digestibility and health [illegible]

Seven solid trains of [illegible] cars are being shipped by the government from [illegible] ama canal to Alaska for the railroad [illegible] government is building between [illegible] and Fairbanks.

Robin on the Parapet.

Look here, you nervy little chap,
I've slept through all this bloomin'
Through enfilade and bursting shell
And all the fearful dugout smell,
And now you, redthroat, come and
And wake me with your reckless

I've seen a bird like you before,
Perched in the rose bush by my door,
I've seen a scarlet necktie glow
Where mother's honeysuckles grow
(God! How it all comes back to me!)
The smell of clover through the D'you know what heaven means to me?

A robin in an apple tree,
And my old dad with snow white hair
And rapt eyes lifted at ending prayer,
The sunset rainbowed on his face
(And you can sing in such a place!

When I go west I know I'll see
The old chap waiting there for me
Under some heavenly apple bough
God! I can almost hear him now:
Jack, come and hear this feller sing
Pogsone his boots He knows it's spring

Helen Topping Miller, in Everybody's Magazine.

W RAISES 600 CHICKENS

Being Relieved of Or- Trouble by Lydia E. nkham's Vegetable Compound.

n, Ill.—"I took Lydia E. Pink- egetable Compound for an or- ganic trouble which pulled me down until I could not put my foot to the floor and could scarcely do my work, and as I live on a small farm and raise six hundred chickens every year it made it very hard for me.

"I saw the Compound advertised in our paper, and tried it. It has restored h so I can do all my work and rateful that I am recommend- my friends."—Mrs. D. M. R. R. 4, Oregon, Ill.

omen who have suffered the tor- uch troubles and have dragged m day to day, can realize the ich this famous root and herb Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable d, brought to Mrs. Alters. n everywhere in Mrs. Alters' should benefit by her recom- n, and if there are any com- write Lydia E. Pinkham's Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice. t of their 40 years experience r service.

AKS Films and Photo Supplies
Finishing for Amateurs
Enlarging
Prices on application
AN BROS., EASTMAN KODAK CO.
Pierce St., Sioux City, Iowa

Everything for the Sportsman and Athlete
TING GOODS Co.
Ask for Catalogue
Street, SIOUX CITY, IOWA

AWAKENING IN SIGHT

ming When Hubby Would Dis- That His Bride Was Not Altogether Spiritual.

tched her daintily nibbling her ndwich
w what it is," he cried, sud- I know why you appeal to me n any other girl I ever met. use you're the perfect combi- f the spiritual and physical. esh, plump beauty and your appetite—" er did eat much, even as a he murmured, idyllically. "A toast in the morning, a sip of noon, a sprig of celery or a parsley at supper and I'm As mother always says, 'the pays my board bill will be in deal!" he cried.
hat night she repaired to the d consumed seven hard-boiled r cold pork chops, half a potato salad, three tomatoes e slices of pie fearful strain," she thought, land him this week or die in mpt!"

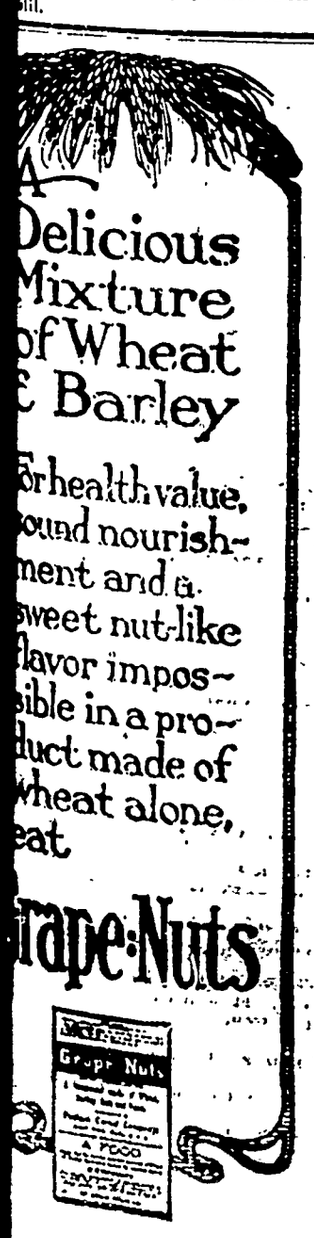
ct that "faint heart ne'er won " must be a source of much on to old bachelors.

aughs less at locksmiths than t papa when he pays the lock- bill.



FRENCH REFUSE TO FIGHT REDS

Troops Near Odessa Mutiny When Ordered to Attack Bolshevists—Protest to Officers Against Fighting "Brothers."

By United Press.

Paris, March 24 Reports reached both socialist and Russian representatives here today that two French regiments in the Odessa region mutinied when they were ordered to attack the bolshevists.

The French troops were said to have sent a delegation to their officers, declaring they "were ready to fight for France, but not to fight our brothers." Reminded that this was mutiny and that the penalty was death, the soldiers were reported to have said they recognized this, but that their decision could not be altered No executions were reported

NEED BIGGER ALLIED FORCE IN HUNGARY

By Associated Press.

Berlin, March 24 Colonel Vix head of the allied military commission to Germany, according to a dispatch, was declared to have said that the allies would be obliged to occupy additional territory in Hungary, because the government was too weak to master the boishevist movement

BURLESON TAKES POSTAL BY STORM

"Fires" Company President and Board of Directors and Puts Hand Picked Manager In Charge.

By Associated Press.

Washington, March 24—Clarence H Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company, was removed today by Postmaster General Burleson.

The postmaster general issued an order relieving, besides Mr Mackay, W W Cook, general counsel William S. Deegan, secretary, the board of trustees, or directors, and the owners of the Mackay companies operating the postal systems "from all duties appertaining to the control and operation of service under government control"

A. F. Adams, president of the Kansas City Home Telephone Company and a member of the general telegraph and telephone operating board, was appointed by the postmaster general to supersede the postal officers in the management of the systems Mr Adams presented the order today to Mr Deegan and immediately took over control.

Charges On Both Sides

In relieving the Mackay group from connection with their company, Burleson asserted that they "have failed to carry out the orders and instructions of the postmaster general and have conducted themselves before the public and with the operating force in such manner as to disadvantageously affect the interests of the government

President Mackay, of the Postal Company, in a statement recently charged Burleson was attempting to ensnare his company under Western Union control by bringing it under the telegraph operating board, composed largely of former Western Union officials.

CALLS IT "OUTRAGEOUS."

By Associated Press.

New York, March 24—Postmaster General Burlesons act in removing Clarence H. Mackay and other Postal Telegraph and Cable company officials from duties relating to the operation of the systems, was characterized as most "outrageous" by William S Deegan, removed as secretary, in a brief statement issued here

GERMAN AMBASSADOR SPEEDS TO NEW YORK

Route Kept Secret and Train Guarded — Von Eckhardt Seeks Secrecy.

By United Press.

Laredo, Tex., March 22—German Minister von Eckhardt, with his family and suite, was speeding toward New York today, his 23 trunks and innumerable bags left behind at Laredo, to follow later

Von Eckhardt's route to New York was not made public It is understood he desires to reach New York unannounced.

Reports issued at Mexico City yesterday stated that Von Eckhardt had started for Havana, "so the minister would not be harrassed on his way through the United States" He arrived here yesterday.

IMPERATOR TO SAIL.

Berlin, March 22.—The crew of the Imperator, the largest vessel which the Germans will hand over to the United States, has expressed willingness to take the ship to sea The wages of the seamen on the Imperator are 490 marks a month.

WILSON COMING EARLY IN MAY

Hastens Return to Spend Extra Session For Passing Appropriations and Considering Peace Treaty.

Washington, D C, March 24.—President Wilson is expected back in Washington about May 1

This fact was disclosed today in high administration circles, where it was said that the president probably would leave Paris immediately after reaching an agreement on the principles of the peace treaty, without waiting for the actual signing of the document

While it is said there has been no decision as to the date of the extra session of congress, it is assumed the president will time it closely with the date of his return to the capital

The full facts as to needs of the departments and the railroads have been laid before the president by cables from Secretary Glass and other advisors

Appropriations Needed.

Government departments by resorting to various expedients are meeting to work in harmony with a view to cutting the expenditures authorized by the new congress to the bone.

Almost appalled by the vast expenditures which threaten the nation in the next fiscal year, republican leaders in the House are declaring that the knife will have to be put to appropriations in the most remorseless way If the House does this, the Senate will be disposed to do likewise It will be possible to do it if there can be something like concert of action among the committees which are charged with the shaping of the bills which carry appropriations While the House appropriations committee will be an important factor such committees as military, naval, public buildings, rivers and harbors, Indian agriculture and postoffices will be factors

Talk of Budget.

Increasing talk is heard of a strong effort to devise some workable budget system though the practical difficulties in the way are great

Many of the republicans at both ends of the capitol declare the public is primarily interested in seeing the huge government expenditures cut down and having its taxes reduced and that such things come closer home to the average man than the League of Nations and the beneficent guardianship of the weak peoples of the rest of the earth

Kennedy Sounds Keynote.

Representative Kennedy of Iowa, who will be the new chairman of the rivers and harbors committee, today sounded a keynote on economy

MUST CHOOSE, SAYS ITALIAN.

By Associated Press.

Halifax, N S March 24—The allies must choose between Italy and the Jugo Slavs, General G Ghelmotti, military attache of the Italian embassy at Washington declared in an address before the Canadian Club here last night

"You in Canada have law he said "You trust it because you made it You have just, wise judges and policemen but you shut the doors of your houses Italy also relies upon the justice of the League of Nations but first she wants the door of her home shut France feels likewise and asks the allies to give her a strong frontier A choice must be made between Italy and the Jugo Slavs As Italy has been loyal to her allies in the common cause until the last so her allies must be loyal to Italy We look upon France and the United States but especially upon England"

General Ghelmotti left today for Washington.

GERMANS PRODUCE MONEY DEMANDED

Required By Americans to Deposit 3,000,000 Marks to Cover War Material Illegally Sold

By Associated Press.

Coblenz March 24 The American military authorities yesterday required the Rhineland government to deposit 3,000,000 marks with the army of occupation as a guarantee of payment for war material illegally disposed of under the terms of the armistice

When the German army evacuated the American bridgehead it left more than 1,000 horses many trucks and other war material which it was unable to remove This material automatically became the property of the American army Instead of turning the property over several of the local governments sold it, especially the horses to individuals The American army held the Rhineland government responsible and until the 3,000,000 marks were deposited yesterday the American forces the government to dispose of all of its funds

The note, was forthcoming only after the German officials had lodged protests with Major General Dickman

PLEADS NOT GUILTY; COURT REFUSES BAIL

By United Press

Mineola N Y., March 24—Dr Walter K Seidons was remanded to the Mineola jail without bail pending trial after he pleaded not guilty late yesterday to an indictment charging him with the murder of his wife, Mrs Julia Wilkins.

His attorney upon entering the plea declared it incredible to believe his client had killed his wife, and counted the rumor that the doctor had been friendly with other women as maintained more than one apartment in New York

Half Million Hun Helmets Now Grace American Homes; Tons of Souvenirs Mailed by Doughboys

By Associated Press.

Washington, March 24—Since the American troops overseas have stopped fighting they have taken to letter writing and remembering friends at home with souvenirs from the battlefields of France. This was indicated today by a postoffice department announcement that the amount of mail from the American expeditionary forces had increased more than 20 per cent since cessation of hostilities.

The volume of souvenirs sent back to the United States by parcel post may be measured by the ton, the department asserted, and they consist of all manner of odds and ends. Curios sent mostly by the soldiers are shell cases, parts of rifles and revolvers, bayonets, uniform buttons and small fragments of demolished airplanes. Captured German helmets, however, are the most prized token. Nearly 500,000 of these have come through the mails since the war began.

During November nearly 18,000,000 letters were dispatched from Bordeaux and many millions more from Brest. Since then the mail shipments have been increasing steadily, and in February nearly 22,000 000 letters were sent from Bordeaux alone.

Mail from this country to the troops overseas is now being delivered with few delays, the officials said, since addresses of soldiers are not changed as often as before the armistice.

MINERS POSTPONE CALLING STRIKE

British Labor War Temporarily Averted By Decision—Railroad Workers' Conference In Deadlock.

London Mach 24—The miners' strike scheduled for today, which was to precipitate a sympathetic walkout of railway and transport workers, paralyzing British industries, has been postponed indefinitely.

Under a day to day agreement, the miners will continue at work while their representatives take up with the government proposed modifications of Justice Sankey's report. Sankey, who represented the government on the parliamentary commission investigating the mining situation, recommended concessions to the miners regarding wages and hours, but suggested that the commission continue investigating nationalization of the mines reporting in May The miners' report flatly favored nationalization, while the owners were unanimously opposed.

The executive committee of the miners which adjourned to March 26, decided to defer the strike after Andrew Bonar Law, government spokesman in commons, again assured them that the ministry favored the Sankey report

"The chances of a strike are lessened. Robert Smillie, head of the miners, said today "I can't say definitely that we will not strike but I am extremely hopeful."

Representatives of the miners, railway men and telephone workers conferred with government leaders today in an effort to end the deadlock between the railway men and the employers. After the conference the railway men's leaders went to report to their conference, declaring that the situation was grave.

According to one report, the railway men rejected an offer of an increase in wages which would cost £90,000,000 annually and insisted on demands which would cost £120,000,000.

POLAND AWARDED PORT OF DANZIG

Corridor Through Germany Included In Supreme Council Decision—Germans Make Strong Threats.

By United Press.

Paris, March 24.—The supreme war council today definitely decided to award Danzig to Poland, with a corridor running from the Posen district to the Baltic it was learned from an authoritative source

GERMANS MAKE THREATS.

By Associated Press.

Copenhagen, March 24—Berlin newspapers have been protesting in strong terms against the reported proposals of the allied supreme council to give Poland a corridor through Germany to the Baltic.

The Zeitung Am Mittag says it is certain that an attempt to land Polish troops at Danzig will be opposed by military force. Theodore Wolff, writing in the Tageblatt, says that if the landing of Polish troops cannot be prevented, no German delegates should go to the peace conference. The Germania declares that no German government would sign a peace treaty containing the reported condition

BELGIUM FACES BIG DEBT.

Brussels, March 22—The liabilities of Belgium total more than $9,500,000,000 francs, 8,000,000,000 of which are war expenses. This announcement was made by Premier Delacroix in the chamber of deputies Friday in giving out figures for the annual budget. He said that the budget henceforth would be 1,100,000,000 francs.

SIX PER CENT UNITED STATES BONDS OF 1861.

These bonds, issued at the beginning of the civil war, steadily increased in value. Keep your Liberty bonds

1861	83
1862	87½
1863	91¾
1864	102
1865	103½
1866	103¾
1867	106½
1868	108¾
1869	109
1870	113
1871	110¼
1872	114½
1873	111½
1874	116⅝
1875	118¼

500 EMPLOYMENT OFFICES CLOSED

Lack of Funds Causes Suspension of Activities Today—Cities Urged to Aid War Veterans.

By United Press.

Washington, D. C., March 24.—Approximately 500 United States employment service offices closed their doors today for lack of funds to continue their work.

At least 200 of the 696 offices ordered closed will continue in operation, and more are expected to open again, as a result of municipal, state or private appropriations. Fifty-six others will be kept open by the government and, in addition, 2,000 emergency bureaus for soldiers will be maintained.

State Votes Fund.

The first state to appropriate funds to perpetuate the work was Ohio, which voted $18,000 to continue 19 of the 37 offices.

All of the offices maintained locally will be coordinated with the skeleton of the federal service which is being maintained

"Figures for the week ending March 8," says a statement of the service, "show that a total of 74,126 were placed by the service Of this number 58,398 were men and 15,728 women. At the same time 126,194 registered for employment and 126,380 applications for help were filed."

Urges Action by Cities.

Col. Arthur Woods, war department official in charge of emergency employment for service men, today urged the establishment of emergency bureaus in every locality because of the soldiers and sailors.

"The bureaus for returning soldiers and sailors must be maintained and increased, and all public and private efforts of every community to assist soldiers and sailors to suitable employment must be coordinated and centralized through these bureaus if the employment problem is to be solved," he said.

Crawford Optimistic.

Due to liberal public responses the employment service will continue its work only slightly handicapped until congress convenes and makes an appropriation for its operations, Mark L. Crawford, federal director, announced today. Mr. Crawford said he desired to correct the impression that the service will cease its activities. He said that 300 offices throughout the country would be financed by public and private subscription

CHURCHES TO HELP.

Washington, March 24.—The general war time commission of the churches, representing more than 20,000,000 church members, announced today that it had undertaken the organization of its 150,000 churches for cooperating with the United States employment service in obtaining jobs for returning soldiers, sailors, marines and civilians war workers. Plans of the commission provide for cooperation of the individual churches with agents of the employments service.

"Members of the churches will be asked to report vacancies and the jobs will be classified according to the qualifications required of the men to fill them.

LETTS THREATEN RUSSIAN CAPITAL

Trotzky Calls For Additional Mobilization to Stop Rapid Advance of Column Towards Petrograd.

By Associated Press.

Paris, March 24.—The Esthonian-Lettish offensive against the bolshevists is menacing Petrograd so seriously that Leon Trotzky, the bolshevist minister of war and marine, has ordered the general mobilization of all men up to the age of 46, according to a Zurich dispatch to the Matin.

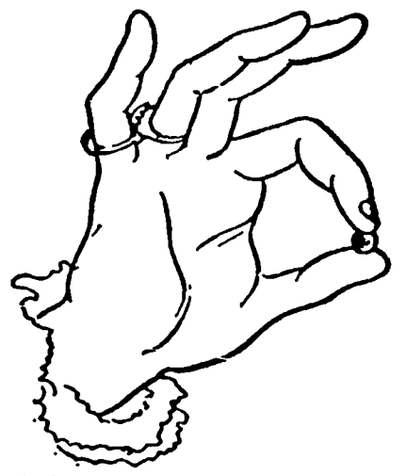
SWISS WANT REFERENDUM.

Berne, March 22.—Several Swiss newspapers are urging that a plebiscite be taken on Switzerland's entry into the League of Nations. They expressed the fear that Swiss neutrality eventually would be endangered.

A Cincinnati man advocates a year of 13 months of 28 days each. This would make 364 days. As there are 365¼ days in a year, the odd day could be placed anywhere in the calendar and be known as "Universal Thanksgiving Day" The other day would come every fourth year. Under this plan Monday would always come on the 1st, 8th, 15th and 22nd days of the month; Tuesday on the 2nd, 9th, 16th, 23rd, Wednesday on the 3rd, 10th, 17th, 24th, etc. Everybody would know upon what date any day of the week would fall

WITH FINGERS! CORNS LIFT OUT

Freezone is magic! Corns and calluses lift right off—Doesn't hurt a bit



A few cents buys a tiny bottle of the magic Freezone at any drug store. Apply a few drops of Freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly that troublesome corn or callus stops hurting, then shortly you lift it out, root and all, without any pain, soreness or irritation. These little bottles of Freezone contain just enough to rid the feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and the calluses on bottom of feet. So easy! So simple. Why wait? No humbug!

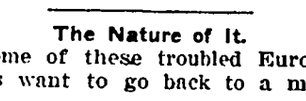
Clocks That Speak.

Clocks without hands or faces are now common in Switzerland. The timepiece stands in the hall, and, when a button is pressed, by means of phonographic arrangements it calls out: "Half-past five," or "Five minutes to nine," as the case may be.

END INDIGESTION. EAT ONE TABLET

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN INSTANTLY RELIEVES ANY DISTRESSED, UPSET STOMACH.

Lumps of undigested food causing pain. When your stomach is acid, gassy, sour, or you have flatulence, heartburn, here is instant relief—No waiting!



Just as soon as you eat a tablet or two of Pape's Diapepsin all that dyspepsia, indigestion and stomach distress ends. These pleasant, harmless tablets of Pape's Diapepsin never fail to make sick, upset stomachs feel fine at once, and they cost very little at drug stores. Adv.

The Nature of It.

"Some of these troubled European states want to go back to a monarchy"

"They would find that a crowning mistake."

Important to Mothers

Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, that famous old remedy for infants and children, and see that it

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use for Over 30 Years.

Children Cry for Fletcher's Castoria

His Reason.

Judge—"Why did you steal this gentleman's purse?" Prisoner—"I thought the change would do me good."

Cuticura for Pimply Faces.

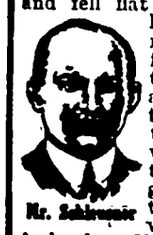
To remove pimples and blackheads smear them with Cuticura Ointment. Wash off in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Once clear keep your skin clear by using them for daily toilet purposes. Don't fail to include Cuticura Talcum.—Adv.

An ape may chance to sit among the doctors.

COULD NOT SLEEP

Mr. Schleusner in Misery From Kidney Complaint. Doan's Gave Complete Relief.

"Heavy work brought on my kidney complaint," says Wm. Schleusner, 6408 Suburban Ave, Wellston, Mo. "One morning when shoeing a horse I was taken with a sudden pain in my back and fell flat on the floor. If I had been hit with a trip hammer, I couldn't have suffered more. I stayed in the house for five weeks and the pain was wearing the life out of me. At times, I couldn't get a wink of sleep because of the misery and I had to get up every few moments to pass the secretions that were highly colored, of foul odor, filled with sandy sediment and terribly scalding. My bladder felt as though it were afire. The pain brought stupor and a reeling sensation in my head; the torture of it cannot be described. If I got onto my feet I couldn't walk but felt dizzy and all in a flutter and everything would turn black. My head ached so it seemed as though my eyes were being dragged out. I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and I was soon rid of all the trouble."



Mr. Schleusner

Subscribed and sworn to, before me.

C. H. COGGESHALL,
Notary Public.

Get Doan's at Any Store, 60c a Box

DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS

FOSTER-MILBURN CO., BUFFALO, N. Y.

W COMPANY IS ARRANGING TO DRILL

ganized barely a month, the er-Rock Island Oil & Refining any has already arranged every- to start drilling five test wells in anger district, Duke pool, Iowa field and on a block in Parker ty, se l of the rigs now being y for the tools Rock Island rail- employes and officials form the rity in the company so far and cheerfully taking the stock to pro- money to carry on the work.

he company has forty acres in the nwest corner of the Norwood sur- west of Ranger, where the Nor- well is performing and expects a good well when the one it is rt a mile is completed The Park Pass of 189 acres is well ed close to the Zink and Watkins and the deep test sand should be able The Eastland county block 800 acres has been approved by ogist H H Adams of Ranger, lo- west of Weatherford and near and of

J Green, who has been pro- on stock dent for the Pierce several years, has sociation with the er R & I land company, and is financially The man- is going to make a and not a promoted to ephone call by The Record to exas Pacific Coal and Oil com- office at Thurber elicited the the Norwood well west of between 12,000 000 barrels, slightly increas- rom Tuesday of last week. One tank was flooded over by the gush l, which flowed on the ground the tank could be reset he Norwood well is certainly a y and steady producer, holding better than any other ever drilled Eastland and Stephens counties, such as about fifteen feet in the Being about a mile further west than the good wells to the north and south there is room for more gushers along a two-mile front for some distance.

More Klemme Locals

Frank Gruetzmacher, Henry Griewe and Rev. A. H. Meyer drove over to Garner Tuesday morning to arrange the time for the Camp Meeting to be held there next summer. The Camp Meeting will open on Tuesday evening, June 10th.

The Klemme Kids took advantage of the steady breezes the past week and we noticed several kites adorning the clouds ovrhanging this vicinity.

FOR SALE—3-year-old black colt, weight 1200. Young cow 3 years old, fresh soon H. Beck 2w.

Mr and Mrs. Edward Diehl returned Monday from their week's honeymoon trip at Iowa Falls, Cedar Rapids and Waterloo. Mr. Diehl left Monday afternoon to be gone a few days Mrs. Diehl has resumed her duties as teacher in the Klemme schools.

Mr. Mitchner, the blacksmith working at the W F Pavey shop, enjoyed a visit from his son of West Liberty, last Thursday and Friday. Saturday morning the Messrs. Mitchners went to Estherville for an over Sunday visit with relatives.

A. C. Lau and Fred Ridder returned last week from Oklahoma and Kansas oil fields. August says they went over a lot of oil fields and that it looked good to him. In many places the oil covered the ground and the rivers and small streams have an oily appearance from running through the oil fields. He also stated that the fall wheat crop in the south wasl ooking fine.

Dr. Parsons has had a big rush in dental work this winter and as a result is badly in need of a good rest. He informed us the other day that he intended to take a vacation as he thought he had one coming o him. Well "Doc" the fishing isn't exactly in season yet, but we will overlook that.

We cordially invite you to inspect our complete display of Sping and Summer Millinery. Our hats have that touch of style and originality so desired. Let us serve you.
Mrs. John Josten

RED CROSS--There will be work at the Red Cross rooms every Wednesday.

Pretty Chinese Legend.

Canton is one of the oldest cities in China. According to Chinese tradition, it was in existence more than three thousand years ago, when it was visited by five deified beings, each mounted on a huge ram and carrying an ear of corn, who pronounced their blessing on the spot and prayed that no famine should ever visit it. Because of this the city is sometimes referred to in Chinese classics as the "City of Rams" or the "City of Genii or Angels."

Iceland's Fisheries.

Iceland has excellent fisheries, among the best in the world, and her fishing industry is growing rapidly.

Daily Thought.

He serves his party best who serves his country best.—Rutherford B. Hayes.

"Wet Moon."

A "wet moon" is when one horn of the crescent of the new moon is much lower than the other, like a bowl turned up on edge and unable to hold water. The wet moon is a popular but fallacious sign of coming wet weather.

Names of South American Countries.

Mexico is a Spanish rendering, or combination, of Aztec words meaning the place of the war god. Brazil seems to have derived its name from the legendary island of Brazil (later identified with one of the Azores), because it was found to produce a red wood resembling brazil wood. Chile and Peru are of aboriginal origin. Argentina is an invented name based on the Latin word for silver, as Rio de la Plata, the name of its chief river, means silver river in Spanish.

Japanese Taught to Repress Emotion.

Until late years the repression of any appearance of strong emotion was carefully drilled into the mind and life of every Japanese child of the better class. There is much more freedom now than formerly, but the influence of past training is seen everywhere—in art, in literature, on the stage and in the customs of daily life. Artists paint the autumn moon, which every Japanese adores, but he wraps the brilliant disk within a veil of cloud.

Civilization's Restraints.

Wise laws and just restraints are to a noble nation not chains, but chains of mail, strength and defense, though something of an incumbrance.—Ruskin.

Domestic Diplomacy.

Brownsome—"To keep peace in the family a man must occasionally give in to his wife." Wilkie—"That's right. There are times when I let my wife make me do exactly as I please."

Always Busy.

A girl roomer always has a batch of finery to wash.—Kansas City Journal.

All He Knew About His Meal.

Having finished his meal the diner called for his check. "Let's see," said the waiter, "what did you have?" "Can't tell for the life of me," was the reply, "but what I ordered was minced chicken."—Boston Transcript.

No. 6659 Report of the Condition of

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK

At Klemme, in the State of Iowa, at the close of business, Mar. 4, 1919.

RESOURCES

Loans and discounts		$233,170 22
Overdrafts, unsecured		23 23
U. S. Bonds to secure circulation		25,000 00
U. S. bonds and certificates of indebt'ness owned and unpledged
Liberty bonds, unpledged		2,150 00
Bonds, Securities, etc.		4,876 60
Subscription to stock of Federal Reserve Bank		1,000 00
Banking house	8,302.00
furniture and fixture	2,700.00	11,002 00
Other checks on banks in same city or town as reporting bank		196 68
Lawful money reserve with Federal Reserve bank:		17,000 00
Cash in vault and net amounts due from national banks		154,966 70
Interest earned but not collected (approximate)
Checks on banks outside of city or town and other cash items		233 12
War Savings Certificates & Thrift Stamps owned		834 00
Redemption fund with U S. Treasurer (5 per cent of circulation)		1,250 00
Total		$451,702 55

LIABILITIES

Capital stock paid in		25,000 00
Surplus fund		10,000 00
Undivided profits	$7,045 66
Less current expenses interest and taxes paid	$3,885 68	3,159 98
Interest and discount collected but not earned
Circulating notes outst'ding		24,995 00
Individual deposits subject to check		116,899 76
Certificates of deposit payable within 30 days		61,776 20
Certificates of deposit (other Than for money borrowed)		209,871 61
Total		$451,702 55

STATE OF IOWA, Hancock County, } ss

I, F. A. Arnold, Cashier of the above-named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

F. A. ARNOLD, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 10th day of Jan., 1919.

J. F. W. VREBA
Notary Public.

[SEAL]

Correct—Attest:

C. A. ARNOLD
AUG. BARZ
C H. WEIGMANN
} Directors

Friendship's Obligations.

I must feel pride in my friend's accomplishments as if they were mine—and a property in his virtues.—Emerson.

WOMAN COUSINS IN ST. LOUIS "MARRY"

Live Together Very Happily Until the Police Interfere.

St. Louis.—How they lived together as man and wife and how the "husband" for two years had concealed the fact from neighbors and friends that "he" was a woman, was disclosed following the arrest here of "Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bert Schmidt."

Smoking a cigarette when arrested and denouncing "his" arrest as "damned ridiculous," the "husband" kept up "his" bravado for some time after "he" had told a story which Chief of Detectives Hannegan declared "one of the most remarkable in his experience."

The "husband" is really Mrs. Bertha Schmidt, twenty-five, who came to this country 12 years ago from Hungary. The "wife" is Miss Mary Asset a cousin of the "husband."

Kept Up "His" Bravado for Some Time

"I always hated men, as did Miss also, so we both decided to get married. The ceremony was performed by a justice of the peace and we bought a nice little home in South St. Louis. We were living together very happily until the police interfered."

Seed Potatoes

FOR SALE—Seed Potatoes, Rural New Yorkers. U. G Smid.

FOR SALE—Several bushels of extra early Seed Potatoes, while they last at $1.25 per bushel. Chas. Al

SEASONABLE APPAREL

That Is Priced Right

During the Great World War we endeavored to keep prices down as low as possible and still maintain our usual high standard of merchandise. That our efforts were appreciated is indicated by the business we enjoyed. Prices are fluctuating at this time, but we are going to give you the benefit of our CHAIN STORE BUYING FOR FOURTEEN STORES, and this means a big saving to you.

Shoes! Shoes!
Mens Bluchers, tan, chrone leather work shoes $3 and $3.50
Mens outing style Barnyard stock $2 95 to $3.25
Mens extra haavy sole veal stock a Bargain at $5 00
The famous "Gildner Special" triple-stitched, all leather work shoe blucher and outing styles
$2.60

Work Shirts
We are selling the Jumbo size work shirts in all colors and in all sizes—14 1-2 to 17 at 95c or 3 for $2.75

Work Hose
Those heavy weight sox in blue and tan mixtures, our price 20c
3 pairs for 50c

Cotton Gloves
Mens Cotton gloves at 15c or 2 for 25c, retail elsewhere for more money. Our price
$1.50 per doz

Overalls
Oshkosh and Headlight overalls none better made. Our price $2.50. Also another Blue Denim, 220-count overall at $2.00

Corduroy Trousers
Headlight and Duchess make. good, roomy, substantial trousers, just the kind for farm work during spring. Medium and heavy weights
$4.85

Heavy Work Rubbers
These rubbers are lined and have a dull finish, are of good weight and well made. Very durable. Priced Reasonable at $1.95

Rubber Boots
Nearly every farmer is familiar with the SNAGPROOF and LAMCO Brands. They've been sold through us exclusively for the past eighteen seasons. They are re-enforced in every possible manner and guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. Price
$4.50 to $6.50

IF IT IS NOT CONVENIENT FOR YOU TO CALL, PHONE US AND WE WILL MAIL YOUR ORDER TO YOU THE SAME DAY

Get to Know

Gildner Bros. & Johnson

FOURTEEN STORES — GARNER, IOWA

STATEMENT
OF THE CONDITION OF THE

STATE SAVINGS BANK

Organized under the laws of Iowa, located at Klemme, in the County of Hancock, at the close of business on the 4th day of March, A. D. 1919.

RESOURCES

Loans and Discounts	$403,785.94	$403,785 94
United States Bonds
United States certificates of indebt'ness
War Savings Certificates and Thrift Stamps actually owned	830 00	830 00
Overdrafts
Banking house	1,300 00	1,300 00
Due from banks and bankers	119,197 80	119,197 80
Gold coin and certificates
Silver coin and bullion	1,060 10
Legal tender and National bank note and subsidiary coins	6,354 00
Exchanges for clearing house and checks on banks in same place	1,306 56
Foreign checks and items in transit		8,720 66
TOTAL RESOURCES		$533,834 40

LIABILITIES

Capital Stock	15,000 00
Surplus fund	25,000 00	40,000 00
Undivided profits, expenses deducted	2,633 71	2,633 71
Deposits due to banks and bankers on demand
Individual deposits subject to check	194,256 96
Time certificates of deposits	285,303 67	479,560 63
Bank overdrafts
Bills payable other than with Federal Reserve Bank
Rediscounts	11,640 06	11,640 06
TOTAL LIABILITIES		$533,834 40

STATE OF IOWA } ss.
HANCOCK COUNTY }

We, P. M. Griesemer, President, and F. J. Wenck, Cashier of the Bank above named, do solemnly swear that the foregoing statement is full, true and correct, to the best of our knowledge and belief, that the assets therein set forth are bona-fide the property of said Bank in its corporate capacity, and that no part of the same has been loaned or advanced to said Bank for the purpose of being exhibited as a portion of its assets.

P. M. GRIESEMER, President.
F. J. WENCK, Cashier.

{ SEAL } Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence by P. M. Griesemer and F. J. Wenck this 13th day of March, 1919.

F. E. BLACKSTONE
Notary Public in and for Hancock County

Attested by
H. J. STILLE
JOE E. JOHNSON
} Directors.

F SEALED BIDS FOR JOINT DRAINAGE DISTRICT NO 1, O GORDO, HANCOCK AND FRANKLIN COUNTI OWA

bids will be received at the County Auditor's o in M. on Gordo County, until 2 o'clock P. M. on the 9th day . A il, 1 2, me and place the construction of Sections 4 and 5 of Joint Drain- t No. 1, Cerro Gordo, Hancock and Franklin Counties, Iowa, ac- the plans and specifications on file in said County Auditor's office to the lowest responsible bidder, Sections 4 and 5 being divided

Section No. 4

Length	Size
3500'	36"
3700	34
1100	32
1700	28
3600	36
2800	24
1600	22
4200	20
2300	18
350	16
2500	14
4900	12
2400	10
5050	9
5000	8
5550	7
6000	6

Section No. 5

2000	18
1300	16
4900	14
3000	12
6800	10
500	9
2720	8
3900	7
2850	6

Nine 18" Inlets
Four 14" Inlets
Two 18" Inlets
One 24" Inlet

k on construction shall commence thirty days after date of letting ind contract to be completed on or before June 1, 1921.
bids must be by section, specifying section of sections, also bids eparately made for main drain and each lateral; also separate bids nade showing price bid for tile per 100 feet delivered along side of o, separate bids must be made showing price bid per 100 feet for laying and backfilling for sizes and depths as advertised; also, bid feet for each additional foot of depth above and below the depth d. Bids may be submitted for entire drain or improvement complete be submitted for entire drain or improvement complete. The Supervisors reserves the right to accept any part or all of any one rd of Supervisors reserves the right to accept any part or all of any and rserves the right to reject any part or all of any one bid, or re- ids.
bids must be accompanied by cash or certified check in an amount ten per cent of the amount of the bid. The successful bidders required to execute bond with sufficient sureties in favor of the n an amount equal to twenty-five per cent of the cost estimated by neer. All bids to be on a form of tender furnished by the County

And for

E. D. HAECKER,
Auditor of Franklin County Iowa
CHRIS JACOBS.
Auditor of Hancock County, Iowa
PAUL WEIGAND,
Auditor of Cerro Gordo County, Iowa

NOTICE OF SEALED BIDS FOR JOINT DRAINAGE DISTRICT NO. 1, CERRO GORDO, HANCOCK AND FRANKLIN COUNTIES, IOWA

Sealed bids will be received at the County Auditor's office in Mason City, Cerro Gordo County, Iowa, until 2 o'clock P. M. on the 9th day of April, 1919, at which time and place the construction of Sections 4 and 6 of Joint Drainage District No. 1, Cerro Gordo, Hancock and Franklin Counties, Iowa, according to the plans and specifications on file in said County Auditor's office will be let to the lowest responsible bidder.

Section 4 and 5 are divided as follows:

Section No. 4

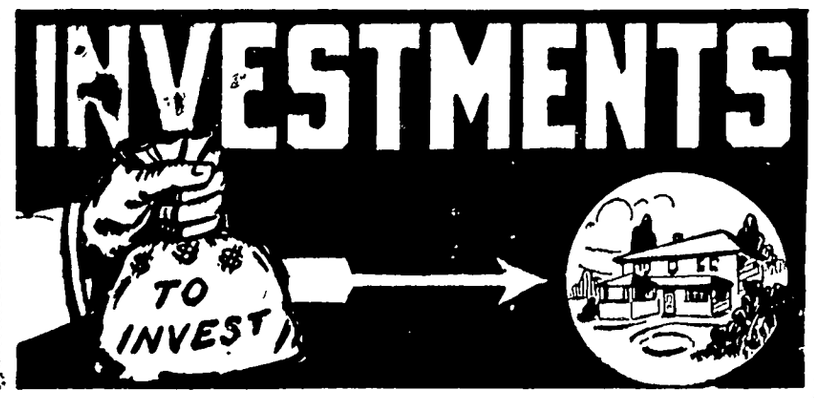
Line	Length	Size	Av. Dep.	Max. Dep.
Lateral No. 2	3500'	36"	7.6	8.7
	3700	34	7.3	10.0
	1100	32	7.8	9.5
	1700	28	10.5	14.7
	1500	26	9.7	10.4
	1400	24	8.5	9.5
	2100	26	7.8	9.5
	1400	24	7.7	9.0
	1600	22	8.0	9.0
	2900	20	7.2	9.0
	1300	20	7.3	9.5
	2300	18	7.2	10.0
	500	14	5.8	7.0
	600	12	5.0	6.0
	2000	14	5.8	6.5
	1800	9	5.4	6.0
	600	12	5.6	7.6
	500	10	5.0	6.0
	650	9	5.5	6.5
	Nine 18 inch Inlets
Lateral No. 2 A	600	8	5.5	5.8
	600	7	5.0	5.4
Lateral No 2 B	600	7	5.0	5.5
Lateral No 2 C	600	7	5.5	5.9
Lateral No. 2 D	700	7	6.0	6.2
Lateral No. 2 F	350	16	5.4	6.8
Lateral No. 2 F	500	9	3.0	7.0
	500	8	5.0	7.0
Lateral No 2 G	1000	6	4.0	4.5
Lateral No. 2 H	500	6	4.0	4.5
Lateral No 2 I	500	12	6.0	6.0
	1000	10	6.5	7.0
	One 14 inch Inlet
Lateral No 2 I 1	700	6	4.0	4.5
Lateral No 2 J	800	6	4.0	4.5
Lateral No. 2 K	800	6	4.0	4.5
Lateral No. 2 L	500	10	5.0	5.2
	1500	9	4.8	6.0
	1200	8	5.0	6.8
	350	7	4.4	5.0
	One 14 inch Inlet
Lateral No 2 L 1	300	6	4.0	4.5
Lateral No 2 M	300	6	4.0	4.5
Lateral No. 2 N	500	6	4.5	5.0
Lateral No. 2 O	500	7	5.5	6.0
	900	6	4.5	5.0
Lateral No. 2 O 1	400	6	4.5	5.0
Lateral No. 2 P	1000	12	5.2	5.8
	400	10	4.5	6.0
	1100	8	5.0	6.0
Lateral No. 2 Q	300	12	5.0	5.5
	600	9	5.0	5.5
	1200	12	5.5	6.0
	300	8	5.0	5.2
	500	7	4.5	5.5
Lateral No. 2 R	700	12	6.0	6.5
	400	7	5.0	5.4
Lateral No. 2 S	400	7	4.5	4.8
Lateral No. 2 T	1300	8	4.8	5.5
	900	7	5.5	6.0
	Section No. 5
Lateral No. 3	1000	14	6.0	7.5
	700	10	6.0	7.0
	1400	12	9.0	11.0
	400	10	8.0	9.0
	One 18 inch Inlet
Lateral No. 3 A	400	6	4.0	4.4
Lateral No. 3 B	100	10	6.0	6.5
	450	7	4.5	6.0
	150	6	4.0	4.6
Lateral No. 4 A	1300	18	6.0	8.5
	600	14	6.3	7.3
	1000	10	5.5	6.5
	1600	12	7.7	10.0
	8400	10	8.2	10.2
	Two 14 inch Inlets
Lateral No. 4 A 1	500	9	4.5	5.6
	1500	7	4.0	4.5
	400	6	4.0	4.6
Lateral No. 4 A 2	500	7	4.0	4.5
Lateral No. 4 A 3	300	6	4.0	4.5
Lateral No. 4 A 4	700	6	4.0	4.5
Lateral No. 4 A 5	500	7	4.5	5.0
	900	6	4.5	5.0
Lateral No. 4 A 6	950	7	5.0	6.0
Lateral No. 4 B	400	14	6.0	7.0
	800	10	6.5	8.5
	1950	8	6.6	9.5
Lateral No. 5	1000	14	6.7	8.0
Lateral No. 5½	1000	14	6.0	7.0
	One 18 inch Inlet
Lateral No. 6	700	18	9.0	10.6
	1300	16	7.0	9.0
	900	14	6.5	8.0
	400	10	5.0	5.5
	770	8	5.0	6.0
	One 24 inch Inlet

Work on construction shall commence thirty days after date of letting contract and contract to be completed on or before June 1, 1921.

All bids must be by section, specifying section or sections also bids must be separately made for main drain and each lateral; also separate bids must be made showing price bid for tile per 100 feet delivered along side of ditch; also, separate bids must be made showing price bid per 100 feet for digging, laying and back filling for sizes and depths as advertised; also, bid per 100 feet for each additional foot of depth above and below the depth advertised. Bids may be submitted for entire drain or improvement complete. The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to accept any part or all of any one bid, and reserves the right to reject any part or all of any one bid, or reject all bids.

All bids must be accompanied by cash or certified check in an amount equal to ten per cent of the amount of the bid. The successful bidders will be required to execute bond with sufficient sureties in favor of the County in an amount equal to twenty-five per cent of the cost estimated by the engineer. All bids to be on a form of tender furnished by the County Auditor.

E. D. HAECKER,
Auditor of Franklin County, Iowa
CHRIS JACOBS,
Auditor of Hancock County, Iowa
PAUL WEIGAND,
Auditor of Cerro Gordo County, Iowa



Some folks apparently are getting rrch with great ease In fact, they are the ones who commenced

By Laying aside a fixed Portion of their Income Each Week and depositing it in a reliable bank. Then when opportunity offered they had the necessary funds for taking advantage of it.

State Savings Bank
WHERE YOU GET THE SERVICE YOU LIKE AND LIKE THE SERVICE YOU GET
KLEMME, IA.

Sell Your Grain To

Walter F. Lau

And receive the highest price and correct weight. Will buy Hogs every day in the week. Also handle high grade COAL. Give me a trial and I will Show you the RESULTS.

ice Phone No. 16. Residence Phone No. 52

Western States Lumber Co.
Lumber and Building Material

We are still doing business in a way that will be satisfactory to you and we will treat you the way you want to be treated. Our prices are fair and will compare very favorably with former prices in this trade territory.

We think this yard will always be a factor in the business community of Klemme and while we strive to help you' we expect you ts consider the sour e of our opposition before you join with them in their methods of competition.

We are always willing to learn, but when we want someone to teach us where to head in at, it will have to be some one better than we.

Olof Brynteson, Agent

BUILDING RESTRICTION LIFTED

The War Industries Board has lifted the building restriction on farm and city construction, cost not exceeding $10,000. This order went into effect November 12th. Farmers, you can now get busy on that new barn, etc., or you who move to town can now build a new house.

ORTHERN LUMBER CO.

N. L. PALMER, Manager

Col. B. A. Reemtsma
General Auctioneer
KLEMME, IOWA
Farm and Stock Sales a Specialty
Call, write or phone 508 Klemme for dates, terms, etc.
...Satisfaction Guaranteed...

Geo. ZINN
Physician & Surgeon
Phone No. 19. KLEMME IA:
Office in Building East of Gruetzmacher Harness and Shoe Shop
Eyes Tested.
Glasses Fitted

E. P. HANSON
ESTATE AND LIVE STOCK
AUCTIONEER
ER, IOWA. PHONE 105
ATISFIED CUSTOMERS
Y BEST REFERENCE
TISFACTION GUARANTEED
NE OR WRITE FOR INFOR-ION AND SALE DATES AT ONCE

W. F. PAVEY
The Practical Blacksmith
OXY-ACETYLENE WELDER
Wagon, Buggy and Machine Repairing
Horse Shoeing and Plow Work a Specialty

Origin of "Torpedo."

The word torpedo is said by the authorities to owe its designation to the Latin verb "torpere," to be stiff, owing to its inauspicious appearance; probably also from its resemblance to the species of fish known by the same name.

Not Even at Fat Man Chasing Hat.

It is said that laughter will cure indigestion; but the trouble is when a man has indigestion he doesn't feel like laughing.

Wants to Get Even.

"When a lazy man has to work," said Uncle Eben, "de first job he wants is dat of a policeman to keep other folks f'um violatin antifoolin laws."

No Need for Disarmament.

Some enthusiastic reformer has suggested disarming the farmers of their shotguns and squirrel rifles. Our observation and experience is that the farmer's gun rarely goes off accidentally, and a good citizen is as safe from it as he is from the Constitution of the United States.—Ohio Farmer.

When It Becomes Interesting.

After sober deliberation one becomes convinced that the only time the masculine ankle is interesting is when it is sprained.—Chicago News.

The CURVED BLADES

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Chain of Evidence," "The Gold Bag," "The Clue," "The White Alley," Etc.

CHAPTER XV—Continued.

Hardy went off on his errand and Stone went over to have a talk with Mrs. Frothingham.

The widow was available, but noncommittal. She was highly incensed at the arrest of the Count, but felt confident he would be liberated in a few days. She replied wisely to Stone's questions, but admitted her presence in the house on the fatal evening.

"Yes," she said in a confidential way, "I was lonely. The Count had gone so often of late to Garden Steps, and I was never invited, that I think I was a little jealous."

"Of Miss Carrington?" asked Stone, quickly.

"Yes," said Mrs. Frothingham, frankly, "and of Miss Stuart, and of the Count's intimacy over there. I had never even been in the house. So I went over there and looked in the windows. I saw them playing cards and later strolling about the rooms. The great door stood a little ajar and I cautiously stepped inside. It was vulgar curiosity, but it was no crime. As I stood in the hall I saw [illegible] approaching, and I stepped a few steps of the stairway. It was all so beautiful that I [illegible] and decided [illegible] looking that [illegible] I should [illegible] that I was a neighbor [illegible] to do. [illegible] of the case [illegible] to stick to facts [illegible] stairs?"

"No, I [illegible] up four or five steps just to the turn of the stairway."

"But Mr. Hardy saw you coming down."

"Only those few steps. He couldn't have seen me coming from the top of the stairway, for I didn't go up so far."

"You spoke of being jealous of Miss Carrington. Why?"

"Because Count Charlier is in love with her."

"With Miss Stuart?"

"No. He was making up to Miss Carrington for her money, but really in love with Miss Stuart."

Mrs. Frothingham shook her head decisively, as if determined to tell the truth though it should reflect on the Count's discredit. And it did.

"I suppose," said Fleming Stone, "that is [illegible] to the theory of the Count's guilt. If he is in love with Miss Stuart, might he not have been tempted to put Miss Carrington out of the way that Miss Stuart should inherit the fortune, and be the bride of his choice?"

"Indeed, yes, that is a possibility," and Fleming Stone saw at last that this woman either suspected the Count's guilt or wished to make it appear so.

Again, the sudden thought struck him. Suppose she was so jealous of the Count's attentions to Miss Carrington that she went to Garden Steps with the intent of killing the lady. Suppose she did go upstairs although she denied it, and put the poison in the sandwich. Surely, she had opportunity. Surely, she would now deny it.

Fleming Stone sighed. He hated a case where the principal witnesses were women. One never could tell when they were lying. A man, now, was much more comparable, and his evidence more easily weighed.

However, if this woman desired to turn suspicion toward Count Charlier, it was either because she suspected him or was implicated herself. In either case her word was not worth much, and Stone took his leave to hunt a more promising field.

Returning to Garden Steps, he found that Pauline had received a letter from her cousin in Egypt.

"I am afraid," she said, as she handed Stone the letter to read, "that my cousin Carr will think we are not accomplishing much. Read the letter, Mr. Stone, and, if you say so, I will ask Mr. Loria to come home."

Glad to read the letter from this half heir to the Carrington fortune, Stone took the sheet. It ran:

16

Dear Polly:

The awful shock of Aunt Lucy's death leaves me without words to tell you what I feel for you in your dark hours. What can I say in the face of such a horror? I wish I were there with you to help you bear it all. For on you comes the brunt of the publicity and all the harrowing details that must be attended to. If you say so I will return to America at once. But unless I can be of definite assistance or real comfort to you, personally I would rather not go over just now. I'm just starting on a wonderful piece of work here. No less than excavating—but I won't take time to tell of it now. I'll write you about it later, if I don't go to you. This is a short note to catch the mail, and reach you as soon as possible. Remember, as I write, I have only your first two cables, and know nothing of details. I eagerly await your letters. Why don't you follow out your plan of coming over here in February? Leave all business matters in Haviland's hands, and get away from the scene of the tragedy. Of course, as I cabled Gray, get the best possible detective experts on the case. Spare no expense, and charge all to me. Surely, we want to find and punish the slayer of Aunt Lucy and I repeat, if you, for any reason, want me to, I will come over at once. Cable, and I will take the next steamer. If you don't do this, do write me long letters and tell me everything that is happening. Poor Aunt Lucy. I know your life with her wasn't all a bed of roses, but I know how saddened you are now, and my heart goes out to you. Dear Polly, command me in any way. I am entirely at your service here or there. If you come over here I advise Haviland to stay there and look after things. I know the bulk of Aunt Lucy's fortune is divided between you and me, and I want Gray to see to all matters connected with my share. When he gets around to it, he can send me some money to further this work I am engaged on here. But let me know if you want me to come to you. With all loving sympathy and affection.

Carr.

Fleming Stone pondered over this letter. He had felt a certain curiosity concerning this absent cousin who was heir to half the great fortune, and so would have a possible motive for a crime that would secure his inheritance to him at once. But there was no possible way of connecting a man in Egypt with a deed committed in the victim's boudoir. Vague thoughts of Loria's employing somebody to do the deed for him formed themselves in Stone's mind, but were soon dismissed as untenable. The man Bates could not be a tool of anybody, and, besides, he didn't kill the lady. The poison did that. The Count couldn't be a tool of anyone. He was too evidently his own master, and, whether guilty or not, was entirely on his own initiative. Oh, the whole idea was absurd. The letter itself was sufficient exoneration for Loria. He was absorbed in his research work and, though thoughtful enough of Pauline's wishes, he was apparently not anxious to have his plans over there interrupted. He wrote like a good all 'round chap, and Fleming Stone could find no peg on which to hang a suspicion in his case.

"A good letter," he commented, returning it to Pauline; "what's your cousin like?"

"In looks? A little like me, but bigger and darker. He's a fine looking man, and a kind hearted one. I shall advise him not to come home, for I know how interested he is in his work, and he can do no good here. Can he, Mr. Stone?"

"Frankly, Miss Stuart, I don't see how he can. I may as well admit to you, the case seems to me a most baffling one. The assault with the blackjack is, of course, accounted for, but we have made no progress in the matter of discovering the poisoner. I feel that the solution of the mystery is closely connected with that paper snake. Can you give me any idea where the thing could have come from? Do you think Miss Carrington bought it herself?"

"I am sure she did not," returned Pauline, but her voice and intonation were such that Stone turned quickly to look at her. She had gone pale, and her eyes looked frightened. "Oh, no," she went on hurriedly, "Aunt Lucy would never buy such a thing. She hated snakes."

"I know that, but she must have gotten it somewhere. It is easier to think she put it 'round her throat herself than to think she let some one else do it."

"Why do you say that?" and now Pauline looked angry. "It is incredible that she should have put that thing 'round her own neck! What could have induced her to do it?"

"There seems to be no theory to fit the facts," said Stone, wearily, "so we must try to get some facts that may suggest a theory. You think, Miss Stuart, that you saw Miss Frayne leaving Miss Carrington's room late that night?"

"I know I saw her with her hand on the doorknob," returned Pauline steadily, and just then Anita burst into the room. "That is a falsehood!" she cried, and her big blue eyes flashed angrily; "how could you see me when you were yourself in Miss Carrington's room?"

This was what Stone had wanted, to get these two girls at variance; and he helped along by saying: "Were you, Miss Stuart?"

"Certainly not!" cried Pauline.

"You were!" Anita flung back. "Miss Carrington was talking to you! She said she wished her face was as beautiful as yours! To whom else could she have said that? Surely not to the Count! One doesn't call a man beautiful. And we all know that Miss Carrington admired your looks and lamented her own lack of beauty."

"All that applies equally well to yourself," and Pauline gazed steadily at the blonde beauty of Anita. "Why wasn't all that speech addressed to your own attractive face, and you repeat it to incriminate me?"

Here was an idea. Stone wondered if it could be that Anita was in the boudoir and, to turn suspicion from herself, tried to pretend she had heard Pauline in there.

"And she said you were fond of pearls!" went on Pauline. "Your admiration for my aunt's pearls is an open secret!"

It was. Often had Anita said how much she preferred the soft luster of pearls to the dazzling sparkle of other gems.

"And she left you $10,000 in her will," continued Pauline, more as if thinking these things aloud than as if accusing Anita of crime.

"Wait, Miss Stuart," cried Stone, "what are you doing? Implying that Miss Frayne had anything to do with the tragedy?"

"I am implying nothing. I am trying to see how far the accusations she makes against me will fit her own case. You remember she said my aunt proposed to leave my share of the fortune to someone else, but Carr's share must remain untouched. Well, to whom else could she think of giving my share but to this scheming girl who tried her best to get my portion, but did not succeed?"

Anita struggled to reply, but words would not come. So furious that she could not articulate, she gurgled hysterically, when into the room came Haviland and Hardy. Both looked exceedingly grave, and Gray went at once to Pauline and put his hand kindly on her shoulder. Then he suddenly caught sight of Anita and her evident distress, and leaving Pauline he went over to the other and put his arms gently 'round her.

"What is it, Anita?" "What has upset you so?"

"Pauline!" was all Anita could say, when she was interrupted by Hardy.

"Let me speak first," he said, for he saw there was dissension between the two girls. "I have made a discovery. At Mr. Stone's directions I have been investigating shops where the paper snake might have been bought, and I have learned that one was bought at Vantine's recently by Miss Stuart."

"Ah," said Fleming Stone gravely, "did you buy one, Miss Stuart?"

Pauline hesitated. She was white as chalk, and her lips quivered.

"Of course she did!" screamed Anita, greatly excited; "she did, and she was in there talking to Miss Carrintgon, just as I said! And she put that thing 'round her neck to frighten her! And then she gave her the poison, and then she came away and left her to die! All alone by herself! The fiend!"

"There, there, Anita, hush," and Haviland tried to soothe the frantic exclamation of the girl.

Pauline stood waiting in silence. At last she said: "When you remove that ranting woman I will answer your question, Mr. Stone."

"You'll answer it now!" cried Anita. "In my presence, and at once."

"I think you must answer, Miss Stuart," said Stone, gently. "Did you buy a paper snake?"

"I did," said Pauline, and added in a low tone: "A long time ago—this can't be the same one."

"The date of the sale is about a week before the death of Miss Carrington," went on Hardy, merciless in his statements.

"For what purpose did you purchase it?" asked Stone, a little sternly.

Pauline now drew herself up proudly. "I bought it," she said in clear, distinct tones, "because my aunt instructed me to get it for her."

There was a silence, and then: "Oh, come now, Pauline, you can't expect us to swallow that!" Gray Haviland said, with a tolerant smile at her. "Try again."

"That's the truth," said Pauline, but her voice trembled, and with a half stifled exclamation of despair she ran out of the room.

"Stop, Pauline, where are you going?" cried Haviland as he ran after her.

"Don't touch me!" she cried. "I'm going to cable Carr to come home! He's the only one who can help me! You're so wrapped up in Anita that you can't tell truth from falsehood. Carr will know what to do, and I will send for him."

"Wait, Miss Stuart," said Fleming Stone, gravely, "you may cable Mr. Loria, if you choose, but for a few moments I must claim your attention. It is, to my mind, of the greatest importance to learn the details of the purchase of that paper snake, and I must ask you to tell us the circumstances of your aunt's request for it."

"There is little to tell," said Pauline, in a hesitant way. "It was one day when I was going over to New York that Aunt Lucy just said, casually, to get her one of those Japanese paper snakes from Vantine's, and I did."

"That's enough!" cried Anita. "Miss Carrington never sent for a snake! Never in the world! You'll be saying next she told you to get her some aconite to poison herself with!"

XVI.

THE TWO GIRLS.

Miss Stuart," and Fleming Stone's voice, though gentle, had a ring of decision, "if I am to go on with thise case, I must insist on your entire confidence, and absolute——" he hesitated over the word, "truthfulness."

The two were alone. After the altercation between Pauline and Anita, Stone had requested the others to leave them, and he determined to get at the truth of this marvelous statement about the purchase of the snake.

"I understand, and you are quite right," murmured Pauline, her manner quiet, her tone even, but in the dark eyes raised to his Fleming Stone saw fear—definite, unmistakable fear.

"Then explain, for I am sure you can, why you suppressed the fact of your own purchase of that paper snake until forced to admit it."

"I was afraid." The beautiful face was of a creamy pallor and the scarlet lips quivered. But this evident agitation on Miss Stuart's part did not deter Stone from his probing queries.

"Why were you afraid? Afraid of what?"

"Afraid that if you knew I bought the snake you would think I was in some way connected with—with the crime——"

"But don't you see that to attempt to conceal the fact of your purchase makes any suspicion more imminent?"

"You don't think I would—would——"

"I don't want to think anything about it, Miss Stuart. I want to know, and I want you to tell me all about your aunt's strange request for you to buy a thing she so feared and abhorred."

"I don't understand it myself. But Aunt Lucy was full of vagaries and would often ask me to buy strange or outlandish things for her."

"But not of a reptilian nature?"

"No, she had never done such a thing before."

"Did she give no reason for the request? Make no apology or explanation?"

"No, I was just leaving her when she called me back and said: 'Won't you stop in at some Japanese shop and get me a paper snake? And I exclaimed in surprise at the request. Then she lost her temper and said she supposed she knew what she wanted and for me to get it without further to-do. So I did."

(Continued Next Week.)

WRIGLEY'S

In the sealed package

All of its goodness sealed in—
Protected, preserved.
The flavor lasts!

ASK for, and be SURE to get WRIGLEY'S. It's in a sealed package, but look for the name—the Greatest Name in Goody-Land.

UNITED COUPONS

WRIGLEY'S SPEARMINT

WRIGLEY'S DOUBLEMINT CHEWING GUM

JUICY FRUIT

Sealed Tight—Kept Right

Stock Raising in Western Canada is as profitable as Grain Growing

In Western Canada Grain Growing is a profit maker. Raising Cattle, Sheep and Hogs brings certain success. It's easy to prosper where you can raise 20 to 45 bu. of wheat to the acre and buy on easy terms.

Land at $15 to $30 Per Acre —Good Grazing Land at Much Less.

Railway and Land Companies offer unusual inducements to home seekers to settle in Western Canada and enjoy her prosperity. Loans made for the purchase of stock or other farming requirements can be had at low interest.

The Governments of the Dominion and Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta extend every encouragement to the farmer and ranchman.

You can obtain excellent land at low prices on easy terms, and get high prices for your grain, cattle, sheep and hogs—low taxes (none on improvements), good markets and shipping facilities, free schools, churches, splendid climate and sure crops.

For Illustrated literature, maps, descriptions of lands for sale in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, reduced railroad rates, etc., apply to Superintendent of Immigration, Ottawa, Canada, or

C. A. Cook, Drawer 197, Watertown, S. D.; W. V. Bennett, Room 4, Bee Bldg., Omaha, Neb., and R. A. Garrett, 311 Jackson Street, St. Paul, Minn.

Canadian Government Agents

The Difficulty.

Mistress—You must really break off that dreadful habit, Norah, of always wanting the last word."

Norah—But how am I to know, ma'am, that you have nothing more to say?—Boston Transcript.

DON'T DRUG KIDNEYS RUB BACKACHE AWAY

Instant relief! Rub pain, soreness and stiffness from your back with "St. Jacobs Liniment."

Kidneys cause backache? No! They have no nerves, therefore can not cause pain. Listen! Your backache is caused by lumbago, sciatica or a strain, and the quickest relief is soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Liniment." Rub it right on the ache or tender spot, and instantly the pain, soreness, stiffness and lameness disappears. Don't stay crippled! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Liniment" from your druggist and limber up. A moment after it is applied you'll wonder what became of the backache, sciatica or lumbago pain. "St. Jacobs Liniment" stops any pain at once. It is harmless and doesn't burn or discolor the skin.

It's the only application to rub on a weak, lame or painful back, or for lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, sprains or a strain.—Adv.

Ability is the art of doing only what we are capable of doing.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets put an end to sick and bilious headaches, constipation, dizziness and indigestion. "Clean house." Adv.

A good appetite does not want sauce.—Italian Proverb.

When Your Eyes Need Care Try Murine Eye Remedy

No Smarting—Just Eye Comfort. 50 cents at Druggists or mail. Write for Free Eye Book. MURINE EYE REMEDY CO., CHICAGO

What Did He Mean?

Mrs. Weeds—The last thing my husband did was to kiss me.

Mr. Widder—Then I suppose he was ready to die.

"O Happy Day" sang the laundress as she hung the snowy wash on the line. It was a "happy day" because she used Red Cross Ball Blue.

It is usually the forward boy who is backward at school.

Farm Opportunities in United States

If YOU are interested, write to the Homeseekers' Bureau, U. S. Railroad Administration, Washington, for free information, naming the state or advantages of which you desire to investigate and giving full particulars about your requirements.

The Homeseekers' Bureau is NOT selling real estate; its mission is to furnish dependable information by states regarding land values, products, markets, climate, schools, churches, roads, etc., to those who wish to engage in farming, stock raising, dairying, gardening and kindred pursuits. A letter will bring a free booklet which may help in solving your problems of living.

Address J. L. EDWARDS, Manager, Room 2000, Agricultural Section, U. S. Railroad Administration, Washington, D. C.

ICE MACHINE

For making ice and refrigeration for all purposes. Manufactured by BAKER ICE MACHINE CO. 1011 Nicholas St. Omaha, Neb.

SEED WANTED

Red Clover, Timothy, Alsike and Sweet Clover.

WERTZ SEED & BIRD CO. 314 Fourth Street SIOUX CITY, IA.

Coughing

Is annoying and harmful. Relieves irritation, tickling and get rid of colds and hoarseness at once by taking

PISO'S

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin"

"Bayer Cross" on Tablets.

BAYER

For Pain
Neuralgia
Earache
Toothache
Colds
Grippe
Rheumatism
Lame Back
Neuritis

EADACHE

DOSE! ...can take ...two genuine ...Tablets of As... ...with water. If nec... ...repeat dose three times ...after meals.

Proved Safe By Millions"

...the original "Bayer packages." ...package—also larger Bayer packages.

Ask for and Insist Upon Only Genuine

...ayer Tablets of Aspirin"

—Owned by Americans Entirely.

...the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid

Very Short.

...nger Boy—Gee. Dis is a ...

...Messenger Boy—Naw. Yer ...is three messages.

Poor Fellow

The Professor ... been dead 2,200 years.

The Girl—Gracious! ... wonder he wasn't buried long ago.

D-BYE BACKACHE, KIDNEY ND BLADDER TROUBLES

...ches all over the world ...DAL Haarlem Oil has af... ...f in thousands upon thou... ...ases of lame back, lumbago, ...rheumatism, gallstones, grav... ...other affections of the kid..., stomach, bladder and al... ...It acts quickly. It does ...it cleanses your kidneys ...the blood. It makes a ...new woman, of you. It ...wards off attacks of the ...fatal diseases of the kid... ...also completely cures the ...diseases of the organs of ...filled with the bladder and ...cloudy or cloudy urine, sedi... ..."brickdust" indicate an un... ...condition.

...delay a minute if your back ...or you are sore across the loins ...difficulty when urinating. Go ...to druggist at once and get a box of imported GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are pleasant and easy to take. Each capsule contains about one dose of five drops. Take them just like you would any pill. Take a small swallow of water if you want to. They dissolve in the stomach, and the kidneys soak up the oil like a sponge does water. They thoroughly cleanse and wash out the bladder and kidneys and throw off the inflammation which is the cause of the trouble. They will quickly relieve those stiffened joints, that backache, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica gall stones, gravel, "brickdust," etc. They are an effective remedy for all diseases of the bladder, kidney, liver, stomach and allied organs. Your druggist will cheerfully refund your money if you are not satisfied after a few days' use. Accept only the pure original GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. None other genuine—Adv.

...T HIMSELF A BARGAIN

...Youngster Certainly Is ...dowed With Any Undue ...ount of Modesty.

...price of labor was under ...at the Rotary club the ...and Manager Chamberlain ...per's remarked:

...has been so much boosting ...of the laboring man dur... ...that a great many people ...to overrate their impor... ...the boy we hired the other ...seemed to think he was fa... ...him by deigning to work ...was flagrantly loafing on ...a department head re... ...with him.

..."now,' he finished; ...have some snap around ...amazement when the ...a feller try size at $5 ...a snap for any store, I ...what 'is.'"—Los Angeles

Probably Not.

..."I haven't anything to oc..." Geraldine—"Can't you ...small enough?"

Fashionable.

..."a fashionable wedding?" ...The groom wore his army

The Modern Method

Mrs. Patterson called upon an acquaintance and found that the latter's ten-year-old son had developed a face that was considerably too large for him. "So Willie has the mumps," remarked the caller, with a critical glance at the victim. "What are you doing for him?" "We sent for the doctor," answered the mother. "That's the medicine he left on the table yonder." "How times have changed," remarked Mrs. Patterson. "When I was a little girl we used to treat mumps by taking a strip of salt pork, plentifully sprinkled with salt and pepper, and binding it around the throat." "Yes, we thought of that, but at the present price of pork we decided it would be cheaper to get a doctor!"

Matter of Titles.

"Will yo' have some mo' coffee g...ral?"

"Don't call me 'general,' Sam. I'm just a plain captain."

"But, boss, ain't you in de army?"

"Of course."

"Well, we's got majors an' colonels all aroun' here dot ain't never seen no army. You's boun' to outrank 'em sah."—Birmingham Age-Herald

Ever notice that a lot of inventions are better than the originals?

A man may easily mistake his prejudice for principle.

No Table Drink Has Ever Taken The Place Of

The Original POSTUM CEREAL

...ld just like coffee—15 minutes after ...boiling begins. Its delicious flavor, rich ...seal brown color and fine aroma make it ...such a satisfying cup that Postum is the ...ideal drink with meals for both children ...and grown people.

Used in place of coffee it provides a real ...health drink. Contains no drugs, no caffein ...as does coffee; doesn't make you nervous, ...sleepless or fretful.

...12 ...cups

"There's a Reason"

At Grocers—two sizes 15c & 25c.

War Tools for Trade Schools.

From the Brooklyn Eagle.

...What is known as the Caldwell bill should be passed by ...gress at once. It should be such a stimulus to vocational and ...trade training as never known in this country.

The government has accumulated something like $100,000,000 worth of tools and machinery in its rush to produce munitions and war materials. Now that there is no further use for most of this stock it would naturally be scrapped or thrown on the market for whatever it would bring. The Caldwell bill provides that instead the tools be used for training workers, particularly crippled soldiers home from the war, and to replace equipment which in some cases colleges have worn out in their rush of war work.

Dr. David Snedden, president of the National Society for Vocational Education, is supporting the Caldwell bill, on the ground that it would make possible the training of a considerable number of trade workers for whose education there has been no provision heretofore. He is joined by manufacturers of machinery who say that if the stock is sold it will bring the government little. The most lasting effect of the bill, however, would come from putting the congress of the United States definitely behind vocational training. Heretofore the advocates of that form of education have been enthusiasts, trying in vain to overcome the inertia of boards of education whose members were satisfied with the old academic type of school training. Since the war the demand for a practical education has been growing, and this may...value for any other purpose, would do something to ...ward.

Stronger Economic Orders.

Alexander Dana Noyes, in Scribner Magazine.

Politically and economically, what we correctly enough describe as the transition period is necessarily obscure in its trend and tendencies. It is a confusing and contradictory and not always easy to interpret and with the exact conditions to which it is leading Europe and the world at large very much a matter of conjecture. At such a stage of political and economic reconstruction it is always difficult to avoid the overengrossing of attention on the difficulties which arise and the obstacles often unexpected which are encountered. Comparison of the existing situation with what it might have been and what prediction had foreseen it would be grows less easy as the immediate perplexities have to be confronted. When the question has yet to be settled not only of political relations, but of national currencies, of national debts and of international trade, and when, in at least a considerable part of the world, the whole problem of the relationship of labor to capital is being considered a sense of groping in the dark is natural.

Nevertheless, as the world as we know it maintenance of orderly processes of exchange, in politics or industry, is so absolutely essential to the peace and welfare of human happiness and security, that such a period can be only brief. Within a very short time one may be sure that events will be moving in a common direction to the new basis of permanent stability. The highly reassuring fact of the present situation is that the world is taking up its task of readjustment neither in the spirit of 1865, when perpetuation of some of the most dangerous war time economic expedients was demanded because it was not convenient to dispense with them, nor in that of 1815, when outright political reactionism had the right of way.

The purpose of establishing a stronger and sounder political system, which is governing the deliberations of the Paris peace conference, is only another aspect of the purpose which equally inspires the guiding minds in finance and industry—to see to it not only that the abnormal economic conditions of war time are removed as soon as may be possible, but that, along with the removal of them, the weaknesses or abuses of the old economic order shall be remedied.

VACCINE HAS MADE GOOD.

Vaccination has made good in this war. The man who still opposes it in the light of the experiences that have accumulated is either crazy, a fool, or a knave. For about four years almost 20,000,000 men were protected against certain diseases by vaccination. For the first time in history smallpox and typhoid fever have not hampered the movements of the fighting men. The result of experiment involving 20...men and lasting four years is set aside because of the hon...ly balanced long haired men of science who make their ...of human ills.

...that the armies of the ...been freer from smallpox ...an population in any ...is a reason for call... ...attention to the fact that there ...a few cases among well ...people. The facts are ...any one wishing them.

...of the American Med... ...association recently reported an ...in which there were a few ...The explanation given was that ...protection instead of being of the ...prevalent in this country ...was severe and the dose ...received by the sick was ...severe.

Probably those of us more frequently subjected to smallpox should follow the example of attendants at smallpox hospitals and get vaccinated once a year or thereabouts.

The same journal has recently reported two small epidemics of typhoid fever. In the first epidemic there were 38 cases, five of which were fatal. The probability seemed to be that this group of soldiers received massive dosages of typhoid bacilli while bathing in a polluted lake. All of the men had been vaccinated against typhoid fever within a year.

In the second epidemic there were 18 cases. All had been vaccinated within a year. The most probable source of infection was food purchased in outside restaurants, and especially ice cream bought in outside ice cream parlors.

Several years ago there was considerable discussion between officials of the California state board of health and officials of the United States army as to why California had more cases of typhoid fever among those vaccinated against the disease than they had in the army. The army people contended that it was because of the superiority of the army vaccine. The California people contended that their vaccine was all right, but that no vaccine would produce an immunity strong enough to withstand a heavy dosage of bacilli. For instance, if a man drank badly polluted water, as mountain stream water sometimes is, or ate ice cream filled with typhoid he would go down, regardless of the type of vaccine used to vaccinate him. The experiences quoted seem to prove that the California people knew what they were talking about.

The reporters who told of the little epidemic at Camp Greene last year showed that even though men are vaccinated against typhoid they must not be careless about their food and drink. They say care should be taken that cooks and food handlers are not changed without examination for carriers of typhoid. Persons who apply for jobs as cooks and waiters should be questioned as to whether they have ever had typhoid or any illness like typhoid. Those who give such a history should be examined with great care.

A Vital Economy.

Department of Agriculture Bulletin.

Why does the public stand for the mountains of empty produce containers? Why does the public allow itself to pay $250,000,000 each year for empty crates and boxes? If milk cans and milk bottles can be returned and used over and over, there is no reason why fruit and vegetable containers should not be made of substantial material, such as metal, and used as many times. In fact, there is no reason why returnable cases of suitable steel construction should not be made to replace virtually all of the wooden cases now used for dry goods and other merchandise. Every essential feature incorporated in a flimsy wooden carrier can be duplicated in a metal container. The steel container can be made in any shape or capacity. It can be made pilfer proof, rodent proof and moisture proof. It can be made to carry not alone the weight of the contents of the package, but a heavy load from the outside, as in stacking packages for transportation. Its initial cost would be more than a wood container, of course, but, instead of making a single trip, the metal container would make hundreds of trips—witness the milk cans and oil barrels—so that the cost per trip would be insignificant.

Some Enduring Ecstacies.

From the New York Sun.

Someone has cried out for a "new ecstacy."

What is the matter with the old ones?

Have we forgotten

That we live on a star?

That no one has ever found out why two and two make four?

That the sun is just as much of a miracle today as it was when it was first seen?

That no one has yet found out where the music is when the violin is silent?

That no Darwin has yet discovered how a beefsteak creates one kind of thought and pumpkin pie another?

That love is more rapturous to the civilized man and more of a mystery to him than it is to a savage?

The Water Lily.

O star on the breast of the river,
O marvel of bloom and grace,
Did you fall right down from heaven
Out of the sweetest place?
You are white as the thoughts of an angel,
Your heart is steeped in the sun;
Did you grow in the Golden City,
My pure and radiant one?

Nay, nay, I fell out of heaven;
None gave me my saintly white;
It slowly grew from the darkness,
Down in the dreary night,
From the ooze of the silent river
I won my glory and grace.
White souls fall not, O my poet,
They rise—to the sweetest place.

—M. F. Putts, in Minneapolis Tribune.

Drink to me only with thine eyes,
And I will pledge with mine;
Or leave a kiss out in the cup,
And I'll not look for wine.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive. —Adv.

Sound Family.

"Have you any avuncular relatives?"

"Not a one. There ain't no disease of any kind in our family."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Mucous Surfaces.

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.

All Druggists 75c. Circulars free.
F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

No Estimate.

"Tell me, is he such a fool as he looks?"

"No, indeed; more so."

BOSCHEE'S SYRUP

Why use ordinary cough remedies when Boschee's Syrup has been used so successfully for fifty-one years in all parts of the United States for coughs, bronchitis, colds settled in the throat, especially lung troubles? It gives the patient a good night's rest, free from coughing, with easy expectoration in the morning, gives nature a chance to soothe the inflamed parts, throw off the disease, helping the patient to regain his health. Made in America and sold for more than half a century.—Adv.

There is more or less dead wood in every family tree.

Warning as to Our Waning Vitality

(By Lee Hendrick Smith, M. D.)

Every man should take stock of his physical condition just as frequently as he takes stock of his financial condition, thereby learning his weak spots and taking measures to repair them before it is too late.

In the winter or spring is the best time to take stock of one's condition. If the blood is thin and watery, face pale or pimply, generally weak, tired and listless, one should take a tonic. One that will do the spring "house-cleaning," an old-fashioned herbal remedy that was used by everybody nearly 50 years ago is still safe and sane because it contains no alcohol or narcotic. This blood tonic, extracted from wild roots and barks, was first put out by Dr. Pierce in ready-to-use form and since then has been sold by the million bottles as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It's always efficacious in the winter or spring when the blood is run down and you need a wholesome tonic. This is nature's tonic, which restores the tone of the stomach; activity of the liver and steadiness to the nerves, strengthening the whole system. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N.Y., for trial package of tablets.

Then to keep the liver and bowels regular and to carry away the poisons within, it is best to take castor oil or a vegetable pill, made up of May-apple, aloes, jalap, and sugar-coated, to be had at most drug stores, known as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

Salonna Is a New CORN REMEDY

discovered by two druggists, after many years of experimenting; and is guaranteed to give relief if used according to directions. If you are troubled with corns or bunions, do not fail to try Salonna. For sale by leading druggists or sent postpaid upon receipt of price, 35 cents.
New-Well Drug Co., P. O. Box X, Newell, S. D.

Chicago Dye Works
823 4th STREET, SIOUX CITY
Fancy French Dry Cleaners and Dyers. Hats Cleaned & Reblocked. Dye Work given special attention.

Every Car Has Our Personal Attention
Acme Hay & Millfeed Co.
Receivers and Shippers of
Flour, Mill Feeds, Tankage, Potatoes
Wholesale and Retail
All Kinds of Hay and Straw
301-303 Pearl St. Sioux City, Iowa

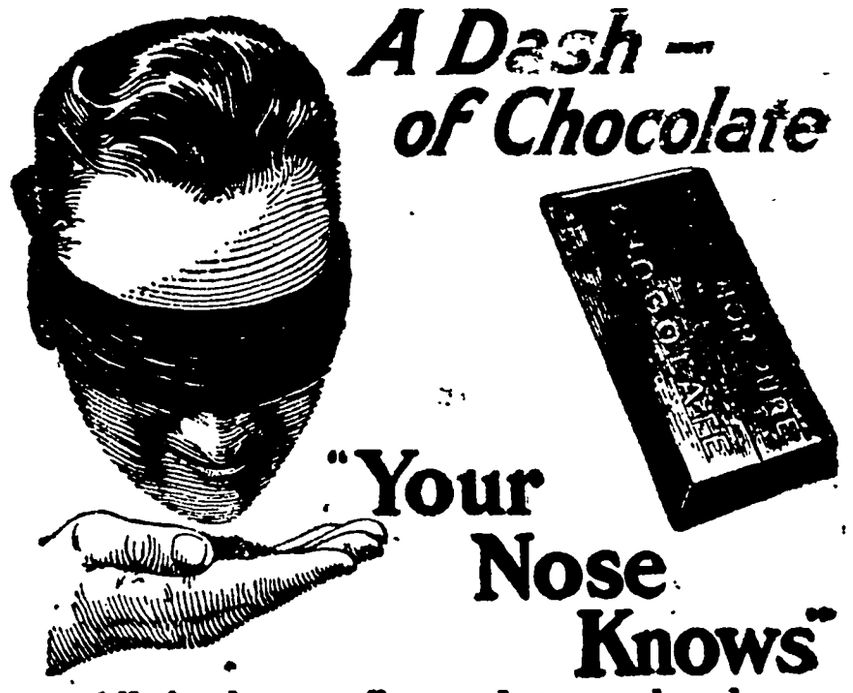
Ship Your HIDES, WOOL and FURS TO Bolles & Rogers, 1st & Iowa Sts., Sioux City, Ia.
Highest price at all times.

GET 8% on your money, no more, no less. Security, good land. $10 or any multiple. Bank reference. Fresno Land & Cattle Co., Fresno, Cal.

SIOUX CITY PTG. CO., NO. 13-1-318.



A Dash — of Chocolate

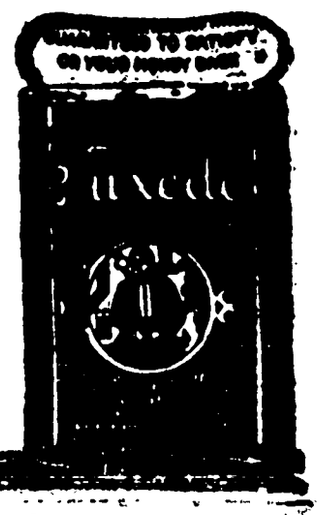
"Your Nose Knows"

All foods are flavored to make them palatable. All smoking tobaccos are treated with some flavoring for the same reason. But there is a big difference in the Quality and kind of tobacco flavorings. Tuxedo, the finest of properly aged burley tobacco, uses the purest, most wholesome and delicious of all flavorings—chocolate! That is why "Your Nose Knows" Tuxedo from all other tobaccos—by its delicious pure fragance.

Try This Test: Rub a little Tuxedo briskly in the palm of your hand to bring out its full aroma. Then smell it deep—its delicious, pure fragrance will convince you. Try this test with any other tobacco and we will let Tuxedo stand or fall on your judgment.

"Your Nose Knows"

Tuxedo
The Perfect Tobacco for Pipe
Guaranteed by
The American Tobacco Company
INCORPORATED



Don't Miss This!

High School Declamatory Contest

The Local High School Declamatory Contest will be held at the "Idle Hour" Friday evening Mar. 28. Following is the program:—

ORATORICAL DIVISION

Meaning of America's entry into the War — Fred Arnold

America First — Fern Ulrich
The Great European War — Lulu Newberger
What Democracy Means — Earl Josten
Needed—A United Country — Emery Schaefer

DRAMATIC DIVISION

Across the Border — Mable Waterman
The Advcates First Plea — Edith Haupt
The Going of the White Swan — Bernice Gimer

HUMOROUS DIVISION

Jathrop Lathrop's Cow — Mildred Johnson
A Case of Fits — Viola Sampson
Aunt Janes Lecture on Motorcycles — Adna Church
An Automobile Ride — Annabelle Carlson

We are now selling

Sweet Home Bread

Try a loaf today; it's sure good!

We also have a fine assortment of Rolls, Bismarks, Buns, Cookies, Dough-nuts, Cakes, etc.

"If It's To Eat---We Have It"

CRYSTAL CAFE

Elder & Fuller, Props.

DOCTOR MISSMAN

PHYSICIAN SURGEON

OFFICE--State Savings Bank Building, 'Phone No. 1105
RESIDENCE--North of Park, 'Phone No. 1109

X-Ray Radiographs — Electrical Treatments
Eyes Tested — Glasses Fitted

Now is the time to make a noise like Spring!

Now is the time to make plans for this year's garden. We have everything you need in that line:-

Garden Spades Forks Hoes
Rakes Plows Garden Seeds
Don't overlook your Lawn or Flowers
Better get some of our Grass Seed and Flower Seeds. Buy a Lawn Mower.

J. W. WATERMAN

Don't forget the Declamatory Contest at the Idle Hour Friday evening.

Read Pavey's Tractor ad in this issue of the Times.

Declamatory Contest at the Idle Hour Friday night. Come!

Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party.

Walter Schultz and family spent Sunday with his mother at Garner.

E. G. Ell received another car load of Fords last week.

G. P. McCullough spent Sunday with his folks at Garner.

Ray Miner, of Garner, was a Klemme caller Monday between trains.

The First National Bank have a statement in this issue.

Jim Young, of Garner, was a Klemme caller last Thursday.

Mrs. A. Ahrenkiel, of Goodell, visited Klemme relatives last Saturday.

One of D. B. Anderson's little boys was quite ill the first part of the week

The Hotel was connected to the city water Tuesday of this week.

Dr. and Mrs. Parsons and daughter Dorris, drove over to Garner Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Croner and Mrs. Schroeder autoed over to Garner Sunday afternoon.

Marlin Croner is the owner of a new Ford which he purchased of E. G. Ell.

J. T. Griggs, of near Goodell, was transacting business in Klemme on Tuesday.

G. A. Pabst and family autoed over to Belmond Sunday for a short visit with relatives and friends.

Jim Young, of Garner, was in Klemme Tuesday of this week doing veterinary work near town.

Mrs. A. H. Meyer left Saturday noon for Dows for a week's visit with her sister, Mrs. Frank Heuer.

. August Lau left Monday for Tracy, Minn., for a visit with his son, H. C. Lau.

NOTICE—Royal Neighbors will meet at the home of Mrs. Lew Lewis on Friday evening.

Nearly everyone who owns a car were out Sunday to shake the winter's dust from the wheels.

Frank Carpenter has moved into the rooms over the Kirkwood boarding house.

Miss Slinde and Miss Blumer spent Sunday with the latter's sister in the country.

Miss Margaret Dickinson of Crystal Lake, came Monday for an extended visit at the A. Kirkwood home.

Arthur Schultz, of Garner, visited with his brother, Walter, last Friday evening.

Harold Gruetzmacher of Iowa Falls came last Friday for a week-end visit with his parents.

Floyd Ollenburg, of Garner, drove over here Monday morning. G. P. McCullough accompanied him over.

We make a specialty of Children's Hair-cutting and Bobbing. McCullough Barber Shop. Adv-tf.

Rev. A. H. Meyer visited over Sunday with relatives at Dows, returning to Klemme Monday morning.

Elmer and Albert Fuller were out on their mother's farm Monday trimming the orchard trees.

"Abe" Opsal, Wellemeyer's popular grocerman has been suffering the past week with a sore jaw. "Abe" says he never feels good when he's sick.

Miss Grace Ruka left Tuesday for her home at Belmond. She has been assisting Mrs. Kirkwood at the boarding house.

Levi Ridder, George Musfelt and the Misses Arvella Emerson and Bernice Gimer autoed over to Garner on Sunday evening.

H. W. Barnabee was in our office the other day and advised us to change his address to Godell. Mr. and Mrs. Barnabee will move to the Harry Sanders place on Goodell, Route 2, as Mr. Barnabee will work for Mr. Sanders this year.

FOR SALE—12 months' old Red Scotch Topped Short-Horn Bull, ready for service. Emil W. Lau. tf.

G. A. Pabst made some improvements on his store building the past week in the way of having the front fixed up.

Tom Redding, of Garner, was in Klemme several days the past week assisting J. B. Mack on some rush work painting.

Mrs. C. N. Reese and Mrs. Bohning, of Belmond, visited with Mrs. Pabst a couple of days the latter part of last week.

Mrs. George Gruetzmacher and daughter, Lillian, visited with relatives and friends at Mason City from Friday until Monday night.

Mrs. Turgeson and Mrs. Clarence Kluckhohn and little son visited at the Frank Kluckhohn home at Garner from Monday until Tuesday noon.

Dr. R. W. Schultz, Osteopath of Garner, will be at the Klemme Hotel on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 11:30 a. m. to 2:00 p. m. adv.

FOR SALE—10 Head of Heifers, coming 2 years old, will come in in the Spring and som in Summer. 15 ewes, will lamb in April, also 1 buck for sale. Chas. Ax. 2w.

Elmer Fuller, Billie Busch and M. O. Barr drove over to Belmond Sunday night to gaze on the high buildings.

The Klemme streets rae in fine shape now as they were dragged last week an dare now nice and smooth and in a good condition to withstand the spring rains.

We are printing some new Telephone Directories for the Koerner Telephone Company and they will be delivered to the patrons of the Company in about two weeks.

E. C. Ford, of Garner, was in Klemme on business last Friday. Ed is writing a lot of life insurance now for the Cedar Rapids Life. They are very prompt in paying their claims.

John Henschen, Charlie Lewis and R. A. Jorgenson autoed over to Garner Saturday night in the former's Ford and took in the show at that place.

The Misses Rose Schultz and Miner of Garner, accompanied Donna Baumgartner to Klemme last Friday evening for a visit with her. They returned to Garner Saturday.

Mrs. Washburn and her nephew, Frank Kluckhohn, of Garner, drove over here Sunday with "Old Dobbin" for a visit at the Geo. W. Kluckhohn home.

"April showers bring May flowers" is all very true, but we think the shower Tuesday was a little in advance of the usual date.

Spring sure must be here The women always know when spring is here, it is very much in evidence this season by the looks of all the new gowns and cloaks we have seen the past week.

C. W. Wiles repaired his lawn a little Tuesday by sowing some new grass seed on it. Clarence expects to get quite a crop of hay from it this year.

Take your laundry to McCullough's Barber Shop, agency for New Process Laundry where they wash everything but the kids, and return everything but the dirt. Adv-tf.

It is reported to us that there will be quite a few new houses erected again this year. That's what we like to hear because we like the slogan: WATCH KLEMME GROW!

The old Wellemeyer store has disappeared from the street and another ramshackle eye-sore has been removed. The new building looms up like a church on fire now and sure looks fine.

Last week Mrs. Fuller sold her residence, just west of the Eng. M. E. church, to Mrs. Meinderts. Mrs. Meinderts and her daughter, Mrs. Wilkins, moved into the house the latter part of last week.

Holly Lewis has landed on this side of the pond and is expected home soon. We received a letter from "Stub" Lewis saying that he saw Holly on parade but could not get a chance even to speak to him.

Mrs. E. J. Thompson and daughter, Mable, of Waterloo, were in Klemme the latter part of last week looking after their Hotel here. We understand they have leased it to a Des Moines lady who will run it this year.

We have it! Wha

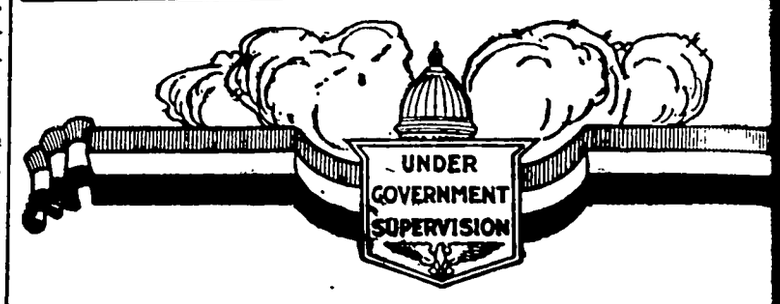
Everything

Which is found in only the best a most up-to-date Meat Markets.

You will always find a compl line of Choice Meats, Hams, Bac Fancy Meats and Canned Goo

Try Our Oleomargarine--It's Fin

J. P. Larsen & Son



Taxes Due

Taxes for 1918 are now due and must be paid by A 1st to avoid penalty.

You can save time by paying them here. If you an account here you can dispose of the whole matt simply writing or telephoning us. We will look aft details.

It costs money to become dilinquent in tax paym The thing to do is to arrange at once for their pr payment.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

Klemme Io

MEMBER FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

All Kinds of Hardware

HARDWARE AND GROCERIES
Stoves and Furnaces
Paints, Oils, Feed, Flour, Cream Separators, Bugg Wagons, Gasoline Engines.
All Kinds of Farm Machinery

GREUTZMACHER BRO

KLEMME DRAY LINE

LLOYD LAU, PROPRIETOR

A share of your patronage is solicited.

All work attended to promptly and carefull

Coal Hauling Done Promptly
Telephone No. 14

M. O. HOCUM

The Grain, Coal and Live Stock Man.

We will buy Hogs and Grain six days n the week at Highest Market Price

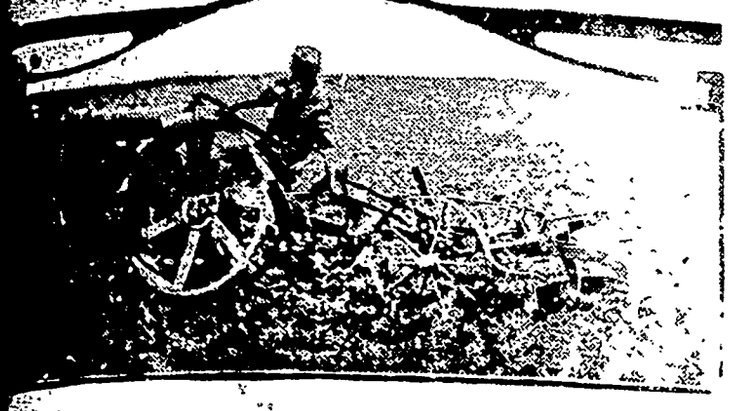
Successor to W. R. Bloom

DR. L. R. PARSO
DENTIST

Office 1st Floor State Savin Phone No 48.
Klemme Iowa

KLEMME TIMES

Year Number 31 — Klemme, Iowa, Thursday, April 3, 1919 — $1.50 In Advance. $2.00 Outside of County



tractor that will fit your farm—the Fordson

YOU can make your farm produce more—at less cost—and with less effort on your part—by using the Fordson tractor. Not only will it help you prepare your land and cultivate the crops, but it furnishes power for many other farm jobs.

The Fordson tractor is the result of long study of farming conditions and it has proved a success. Burns kerosene—easy to operate and care for—practically trouble-proof.

There's an Oliver No. 7 Plow for your Fordson

Just as the Fordson tractor gives ideal power, the Oliver plow means ideal plowing. It is scientifically designed for tractor service—and is backed by a half century of experience in making plows. It buries all trash and weeds at the bottom of the furrow—maintains an even depth of furrow—and is controlled from the tractor seat.

Come in and let us show you this remarkable farm team.

Ed. G. Ell

Authorized Dealer — Klemme, Iowa

satisfactory now-a-days a car must run smoothly, and without coaxing.

you start anywhere you must know that you are to get there and back again.

This is the sort of satisfaction we guarantee to even the most inexperienced driver of the Overland. You cannot well ask more.

Miles Garage

KLEMME, IA.

will be held in Dist. township, on Friday the 4th. The program at 8:00 p. m. Ladies

Stromer, Teacher
C. Shafer, Director

W. F. Pavey and family autoed over to Garner Sunday. Their intentions were to drive to Mason City but the roads were almost impasasble at one point between Garner and Ventura, so Wallace turned around and came back.

Election Results

IT'S ALL OVER, EVEN THE SHOUTING

Monday was a big day in Klemme for on that day Klemme held her City Election The polls opened promptly and the voters came in regularly until the closing time when a large gathering of anxious males was at the Hall to hear the count and find out how things went. Gruetzmacher defeated Johnson 63 to 44; Waterman for Treasurer won over Nelson by 6 votes; Sampson was declared Assessor with 79 votes against Grange who drew 28, the councilmen elected were Ridder, Johnson, Wiles, Koerner and Blank It will be noted that the Citizens' Ticket carried straight thru with the exception of Treasurer when the voters switched over to the Peoples' Ticket. Following is the line up and the result of the 107 ballots cast:

Citizens' Ticket	People's Ticket
For Mayor—	For Mayor—
F Gruetzmacher 63	Val. Josten 44
For Councilmen	For Councilmen
A G Koerner 56	Mart Bachman 46
Joe Johnson 68	Ed. Ell 39
C W Wiles 66	C E Larsen 31
F. H Ridder 84	W F Pavey 23
T Blank 66	Marlin Croner 35
For Assessor—	For Assessor—
Louis Sampson 79	Paul Grange 28
For Treasurer—	For Treasurer—
Tom Nelson 50	C. G. Waterman 56

School News

Norma Stromer is back to work at school after several days absence.

The ninth grade took their final examinations in English and General Science.

The students that are exempt in ninth English test, are Viola Sampson, Bernice Gimer, Earl Josten and Clifford Lenz.

There was no school Monday and Tuesday because of teachers' institute at Garner.

The county Declamatory Contest will be held at Corwith, April 11th. Prof. Tompkins is planning to enter several contestants

The Declamatory Contest was a great success. The winners are: Oratorical, first Lulu Neuberger, second Fred Arnold; Dramatic, first Mable Waterman, second Edith Haupt; Humorous, first Adna Church, second Mildred Johnson.

At the present writing Mabel Beier is ill with what threatens to be pneumonia. We hope for a speedy recovery

Minnie Blank has been absent from school several days, on account of illness. We hope to see her at school again soon.

Clarence Elder has been ill with the 'Flu" but is improving rapidly

DR. R. M. THOMAS BACK ON THE JOB

Dr. R. M. Thomas is sure a busy man these days and the farmers are after him all the time. "Doc" intended to take a little vacation after his strenuous duties over-seas, but nothing doing. "Doc" officially informed us that we could anounce to the public that he will answer all calls now and if you farmers have a sick horse, cow, mule or pigs, just call on Tommy and he will hustle right out there. He has gained a lot of experience in Franc where he was in active duty for about nineteen months and has had all kinds of cases under the sun and the experience he has gained fits him as one of the best veterinarians in this part of the State. We are glad to welcome him back as one of the business men of Klemme, to the farmers we will say that if they want the best man and best service, then call Tommy.

NEW ROCK ISLAND TIME

North
821, Mixed	1:35 p. m.
1069, Passenger	3:03 p. m.
435, Passenger	8:44 a. m.
South
436, Passenger	6:17 p. m.
1063, Passenger	11:25 a. m.
820, Freight	12:15 p. m.

Chinese Observe Boat Festival.

The Chinese have observed their annual dragon boat festival since 450 B. C. wherever streams in China will permit use of long dragon boat paddles with which the boats are propelled.

Obituary

JOE SPITTLER, SON OF MR. AND MRS. J. B. SPITTLER, ANSWERS FINAL SUMMONS

We regret to make the sad report this week of the untimely death of Joe Spittler, the eighteen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Spittler. Joe answered the call of his Master last Saturday and the funeral services were held from the First Methodist Church on Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock.

The news of this young man's death comes as a sad blow to his wide circle of friends for he has been ill only a short time and after a hard battle with life finally succumbed to pneumonia. He was highly thought of by all who knew him and in his family was a bright, cheerful young man whose absence there will be strongly felt.

OBITUARY

Joe Leo Spitler was born May the 27th, 1900, at Clarion, Wright county, Iowa, and died at the parental home, March 29th, 1919, at the age of 18 years, 11 months and 29 days.

He spent his childhood days with his parents at Clarion, Iowa, until four years ago last January when he came with his parents to Klemme, Iowa, and located with them on a farm four and a half miles east of town where he remained until his death He was a boy that was very fond of home and loved to spend his spare moments within the shadows of this place he so dearly loved. It was his greatest joy to know that as the day passed by he had accomplished some thing or done some good deed that would make his parents and brothers happy. He tried to scatter sunshine, not thorns, along the pathway of life, hoping that the flowers he planted would send their sweetness to some other life's traveler who perchance might be passing his way. His was the smile that drives away the gloom from a dreary world. He had a talent for music and after taking his last music lesson when he came home on Friday night before taking sick he went to the piano and said to his mother, "My teacher wants me to learn to play 'Home Sweet Home' by heart." It was the last piece his parents heard him play. Today he has reached the realization of that last message he sent out from the instrument to brighten the parental home—he is at home with God.

He leaves to mourn his death his father and mother, two brothers and two grandmothers, and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. A. H. Meyer from the First Methodist church on Tuesday afternoon and interment was in the Klemme cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend an appreciation of thanks to the friends and neighbor who have been so kind and sympathetic to us in our recent bereavement when our loving son and brother was called to his Master. We want to thank all those who contributed to the many and beautiful floral offerings. Mr. and Mrs. J B Spitler and family.

Church Notes

FIRST M. E. CHURCH, SUNDAY, MARCH 30

A. H. Meyer, Pastor

Preaching service Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Sunday School at the close of the preaching service at 11 o'clock.

Epworth League Sunday night at 7:30.

Preaching service at 8:00 o'clock.

Midweek prayer meeting on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

A hearty welcome to all who come and worship with us.

ENGLISH METHODIST CHURCH

Services next Sunday as follows:

Morning worship at 10 o'clock. All members of the church especially are desired present as the subject will be "The Great Centenary of the Methodist Church."

Sunday School at 11 o'clock.

Song Service and Sermon at 7:30 p. m. There will be good music at both services. The time of service indicated is according to that heretofore observed. Everyone cordially invited.

A. W. Barnlund,
Minister

Letter From France

Fwd. Camp, March 8, 1919

Miss Emma Wille,

Dear Sister and all:—

As I haven't written for some time, I thought I would drop you a few lines to let you know that I am pretty good. But have been feeling kind of bummy, had a cold, but am pretty good again. Hope you are all fine and dandy as that is the main thing in life.

Well, I have a little news to tell you. We are not in Division 30 any more, and don't know now when I will get to go home—not for a few months anyway. We were transferred yesterday, but don't let that bother you any, as when my time comes to go, I guess I will go.

Well, I received your letter a few days ago and Leslie's also. Was glad to hear that you were all pretty good. And also received Rev. Thiel's letter and must say was glad to get it, and hear from him. I guess I won't get any mail now for a month, but that time will soon fly past.

It is a very nice day out here today. About like April weather in Iowa, but most every day it rains.

Well, if or when George Lawhorn gets home you can ask him and he will tell you how I am getting along. Well the 30th Division is moving for St. Nasair. Some have gone and are moving every day. Would liked to have went along, but it couldn't be done as it seemed. The Sanitary Train where I was in is going to leave Tuesday, March 11th.

Say, have you been sending the Klemme Times lately? I only received it once. I think it was the print of December 11th. George Lawhorn said he had been getting his right along, a while back.

An old friend of mine said he was going to stop there some time when he got back. His home is at Forest City, and his name is Ruben Olson. So if he ever gets there you will know who it is, an old friend of mine that went across with us. I don't suppose Fred Diedrich is back yet. I wouldn't doubt it but that he is somewhere near here.

Well, I guess I must close for today as it is five o'clock and supper time, and intend to write a few more tomorrow. So good bye to yourself and wish to all good luck till we meet again.

From your brother,
Elmer Hartbeck,
Med. Det., 4th P. R.
A. P. O. 726, Fwd. Camp
American E. F., France
Serial No. 3806407.

Trees Many Centuries Old.

Probably the oldest trees in England are yews. There is, for instance, one in the churchyard at Burrington Coombe, where the famous hymn, "Rock of Ages," is said to have been written, which is estimated to be at least sixteen hundred years old, and there is also a very ancient one in the churchyard at Stoke Poges, where Gray wrote his "Elegy."

Submarine Valley.

The channel of the Congo can be traced for 100 miles out to sea as a remarkable submarine valley, having a depth of 1,432 feet just at the river's mouth.

CASE KEROSENE TRACTORS

For Field or Orchard

Case 10-20 Features

1—Pulls three 14-inch plows anywhere a team can continuously pull one plow.

2—Most powerful tractor in the 5000 pound class. Delivers 14 7-10 per cent more drawbar horsepower than rated.

3—Has 4-cylinder Case valve-in-head motor—head removable. Burns kerosene successfully and economically. Efficient air strainer prevents dust and grit entering cylinders.

4—Cut steel heat treated transmission gears, enclosed and running in oil. Hyatt Roller Bearings.

5—When plowing, all wheels travel on unplowed ground. Combined tire width 32 inches. Absolutely no side draft.

6—Friction clutch pulley with brake, regular equipment. Drives 20x36 Case Thresher with blower, feeder and grain handler; Case No. 15 silo filler and other machines requiring similar power.

7—The 10-inch idler can be clutched in with a lever and used as an extra driver.

THIS Case 10-20 Kerosene tractor pulls two 8-foot double disc harrows. With it a field can be harrowed in a jiffy.

You'll never go back to the old, slow way, once you use this outfit.

For every farm duty, either draft or pulley, this Case 10-20 is ever ready, day and night. Ready to plow, to disc, to seed, to harvest, to thresh. It can run a 20x36 Case Thresher, or a Case No. 15 Silo Filler with 40-foot blower. You can use it throughout the year.

We'll be glad to show you what this tractor can do, and go over the specifications with you. You'll want no other, once you know this Case 10-20.

W. F. Pavey

THE KLEMME TIMES

RAY A. JORGENSON, PUB.

KLEMME, IOWA

The News and Post, London, commenting editorially on the inclusion of the League of Nations in the preliminary peace treaty took opposite views. "President Wilson and the minority in his own country are trying to force the league down the Senate's throat," says the Post. "In the same way they are trying to compel the peace conference to accept it. The league means that England's foreign policy would be directed by an international committee. This would necessitate a change in the British constitution, and it ought to be considered by parliament before adoption." "No one wants to delay peace, but it is a profound mistake to omit the League of Nations from the terms," said the News. "If the opposition to President Wilson in America succeeds the league fails, for it will be impossible to have the league without America."

President Wilson's return to Paris is contrasted with his reception in December in a dispatch from Paris to La Prensa, in Buenos Aires, as follows: "The people of France no longer are disposed to make noisy demonstrations after watching months pass with nothing substantial done. France takes little interest in the league of nations which is not a popular subject. France sees in it only a more or less problematical guarantee of future peace. The people of France are more interested in the present than in the future, and demand peace at once, after which they are willing to consider measures for the future."

"We are told," says Senator Lenroot, "that the president will not permit peace with Germany unless there is made as part of the peace treaty the constitution of the league as drawn. We are told that this will be done to force the Senate to accept without amendment this constitution, revolutionizing our government and its foreign and domestic policies, which the Senate would not do, and public opinion in America is thus to be coerced into demanding ratification. In my judgment President Wilson has once more misjudged the temper of the American people and the Senate."

A Peking dispatch says: The premier, members of the cabinet and allied ministers attended ceremonies at Central park today, initiating the rebuilding of the monument erected to Baron Von Ketteler, which was torn down last November. The monument will celebrate the victory of the allies and will bear a new inscription, and "remind future generations of China's part in the allied cause." The Von Ketteler monument was erected by the Chinese by way of expiation for the murder of Baron Von Ketteler, German minister to China, by the Boxers in 1900.

Representative Longworth, of Ohio, has issued a statement asking former republican floor leader Mann to "keep his hands off the organization and legislative control of the new House of Representatives." "That is the way," said the Ohio representative, "to bring about harmony in the party. That is the way to make success in 1920 certain. Such an assurance from Mr. Mann will be greeted with acclaim by the vast majority of republicans and by patriotic Americans generally."

Robert Big Thunder, full blooded Winnebago Indian, is on his way to the government reservation at Wittenberg, Wis. In his opinion these are degenerate days for warriors. "There is too much system, too much discipline, too much red tape," he said. "The Indian prefers to be more informal in his fighting and would rather fight in the open. For this reason all Indians in the A. E. F. were assigned to scout or patrol duty. They were especially good at this."

Thomas F. Blewitt, division superintendent of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, was acquitted by a jury in supreme court of a charge of manslaughter growing out of the wreck on the company's Brighton line last November, in which 98 persons were killed. The indictment on which Blewitt was tried charged that he had been guilty of "culpable negligence" in placing Anthony Lewis, a "green" motorman, in charge of the train which was wrecked.

Secretary of War Baker and General March rode from Ames to Des Moines recently on a two-coach local train. When Major Swing, aid to General March, requested the brakeman to "save a seat for the secretary of war and the chief of staff," he was met with: "Save nothing; I ain't got no authority to save no seats for nobody. If you got any secretaries with you, they'll have to take their chances on seats just like anybody else."

Foreign Minister Puerreydon has informed Frederic J. Stimson, United States ambassador to Argentine, that that country will support the league of nations in principle. Persistent rumors in government circles in Argentine are to the effect that Argentina is making suggestions for amendment to the league of nations covenant to allow the admission of the defeated states as original members.

The rumor is continuing unrefuted on the Princeton campus that when President Wilson was an undergraduate, he "flunked" in French. A fellow classmate says: Wilson refused a close study of foreign languages, as he feared it would mar his English style. History and English literature were his favorites, but he received his lowest marks in astronomy and scientific branches."

Details of a cannibal orgy in West Africa, in which natives are reported to have eaten members of opposing tribes after a battle, were received by the Presbyterian board of foreign missions in a message from Dr. G. C. Beanland, of Louisville, Ky., a missionary stationed at Metet, West Africa.

Medical officers at all army camps throughout the country have been ordered by Surgeon General Ireland to obtain one or more specimens of every species of mosquito found in the vicinity of their camps. The mosquitoes will be classified and placed in the army medical museum.

Under the agreement reached at Rotterdam, a dispatch from Berlin says, Great Britain will receive 30,000 tons of potash from Germany. The proceeds of the potash will be credited to Germany in payment for food supplies.

Savings of German workers who profited by the high war wages increased from a total of 25,000,000 marks in 1914 to 48,000,000 marks in 1918, as shown by Cobienz bank reports.

Elihu Root was named chairman of a committee of 15 of the bar association of the city of New York to consider all questions of international law arising in connection with the peace conference.

An exodus of Korean students attending Japanese universities is reported by Nichi Nichi, following the recent national disturbances in Korea. Half of the 800 students have already returned to Korea.

Full discharges were granted Tuesday to 26 men confined in the United States disciplinary barracks at Fort Leavenworth. The men had been serving sentences for military offenses committed during the war.

WORLD WAR VETS HAVE ORGANIZED

Movement Started at Spencer, Ia., Has For Object a National Society of Those Who Saw Service.

Spencer, Ia., March 31.—The "World War Veterans," an organization of returned soldiers and sailors is now a reality. Post No. 1 was organized in Spencer the past week at a banquet attended by 100 veterans of the war. The new organization patterns somewhat after the idea of the Grand Army of the Republic and bears the same relation to the veterans of the world war that the G. A. R. bears to the veterans of the civil war.

The intention is to apply to congress for a charter and to organize along national lines. Lieut. Rush Smith has been named commander and Lieut. Maris E. De Wolf has been named secretary. Already these men, with others, are looking to the perfection of a state and national organization. The several constituted bodies of the order will consist of county posts, state organizations, and a national organization. The county posts will be divided later into branches after the plan of the Red Cross.

Temporary rules and regulations may be had by application to headquarters at Spencer. The desire is expressed that as many temporary organizations as possible be formed within the next few weeks. As soon as 25 posts are organized, a state convention will be called and a state organization perfected.

The plan is to have the veterans organized in time for them to do efficient work in connection with the Victory loan which opens April 26.

"We want a post in every county in Iowa," said Lieutenant DeWolf this morning. "It is right and proper that the boys who took part in this world war take a definite part in the memorial exercises for their comrades this year. They, and not some other organization, are the ones to do this."

Those interested in securing copies of temporary rules and regulations should communicate without delay with Lieut. Maris E. DeWolf, Secretary World War Veterans, Spencer, Ia.

YOUNG WOMAN SENT TO THE COUNTY JAIL

Creston, Ia., March 31.—Judge Martin J. Wade, of the United States court, whose well known abhorrence of law breakers has made him a terror to evil doers in the southern district of Iowa, over which he presides, had a case before him while holding court in Creston this week, which was probably one of the hardest he has ever been called upon to settle. Not that the issues were so involved: The accused admitted her guilt.

Mrs. Myrtle Woodward, 19 years of age, was the principal figure in the story. She had been employed in the family of Roy Hines near Leon, and while thus employed went to the postoffice and asked for the Hines mail. That she was a member of the Hines household was known at the postoffice and the mail was given to the young woman without question, and included two packages that had arrived by parcels post, one containing a coat valued at $38, and addressed to Mrs. Akes; the other package containing silk waists and other articles, the property of Mrs. Roy Hines. The Akes family received their mail in the Hines box.

Immediately afterward Mrs. Woodard disappeared. She was traced to Nebraska and then to Missouri, finally returning to Diagonal, Ia., where she was arrested and brought to Leon and later to Creston.

Mrs. Woodard was arraigned in federal court before Judge Wade where she plead guilty to taking the articles, and was sentenced to four months in the county jail at Ottumwa.

U. S. DAUGHTERS OF 1812 IN ANNUAL MEETING.

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 31.—The annual meeting of the national society, United States Daughters of 1812, state of Iowa, was held in this city this week. Various matters of interest to the society were cared for and officers elected as follows: President, Mrs. D. W. Bushnell, Council Bluffs; vice presidents, Mrs. Montgomery, Marshalltown; Mrs. N. J. Smith, Marshalltown; Mrs. Burt, Burlington; Mrs. Russell, Des Moines; recording secretary, Mrs. Trisbee, Sheldon; corresponding secretary, Miss Mary C. Key, Council Bluffs; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Johnson, Humboldt; auditor, Mrs. Morgan, Humboldt; registrar, Mrs. Denny, Council Bluffs; historian, Mrs. Spangler, Winthrop; librarian, Mrs. J. J. Sullivan, Council Bluffs; directors for two years, Miss Lake, Independence; Mrs. Huertis, Dubuque; Mrs. Wood, State Center; Miss Mary Ferguson, Dubuque; for one year, Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Fricke, Dubuque, Mrs. Pingrey, Estherville.

COUNTY AGENT HOLDS NUMEROUS MEETINGS

Cherokee, Ia., March 31.—County Agent Mills, of Cherokee county, has been holding orchard and poultry meetings throughout the county, and reports that they proved popular. In spite of the bad condition of the roads, fair crowds attended at each place.

GRAND JURY FAILED TO RETURN INDICTMENT

Cherokee, Ia., March 31.—The grand jury of Cherokee county completed its work in short order for this term of court and was dismissed without having returned a single indictment. This establishes a very unusual record for the county.

Tons of souvenirs are coming to the United States from France these days, the postal authorities say. They estimate that approximately 500,000 German helmets have arrived thus far and that none of the boys over there have writer's cramp.

The Hungarian government apparently attempted what some people in Germany have been steadily threatening, namely, to throw up the sponge and surrender the country to the bolshevists and leave the entente to deal with the situation arising. Karolyi's surrender of the government to the bolshevist element is admitted by even the German press to be largely a bluff, says the Berlin correspondent of the London Times.

GREEK HERO BACK FROM WORLD WAR

On Furlough From Hospital He Finds Friends In LeMars—Recovers Watch He Feared Lost to Him.

LeMars, Ia., March 29.—George Kallas, Greek railroad laborer, enlisted with the LeMars militia company about the time America entered the European war and went away with the company to Camp Dodge, where he became a member of the famous 168th regiment, a part of the Rainbow division, which distinguished itself by the acts of heroism and bravery of its men during the last year of battling. A few days ago he was here on a short leave of absence from the government hospital at Fort Des Moines. He is still far from recovered from numerous wounds received and it is feared one great wound in his breast will leave him permanently incapacitated for his accustomed work.

While here the young soldier-fighter-hero had occasion to realize he has many friends that he did not recognize before his departure for the war. One incident probably impressed this on him more than anything else.

Some time before leaving LeMars in 1917, Kallas purchased from F. A. Berner, then engaged in the jewelry business here, a fine watch. While in camp here with the members of the company, Kallas accidentally stepped on the watch and so badly damaged it that it was necessary to send it to the factory for repairs.

Before it was returned to Mr. Berner, Kallas had been called to Camp Dodge and finally to Camp Mills, New York. On its arrival here Mr. Berner forwarded it to Kallas at Camp Mills, but before its arrival there he had sailed with the Rainbow division to France. The express company notified him in France that it held the watch for him at Camp Mills. He returned the notice to Mr. Birner who had the watch returned to him here and he put it in his safe for safe keeping.

Soon thereafter Mr. Berner's ardor impelled him to enter the service and he disposed of his store and stock to Webb Freeman, at the same time giving instructions about the ownership of the watch.

While Kallas was here, a few days ago, Mr. Berner, now returned to civil life and employed in a Sioux City jewelry store, was also here on a visit. They accidentally met on the street, Kallas recognizing Mr. Berner. He had recovered his watch and was so sincere in his appreciation of Birner's honesty that he cried in expressing his thanks.

The wounded soldier has now returned to the hospital at Fort Des Moines. His plans for the future have not been made, but there is probability he will, as soon as his health and his financial condition permits, return to Greece to hunt for his relatives, whom he has not heard from since the opening of the great war.

MISSISSIPPI RIVER TOWNS TASTE THE LAW

Clinton, Ia., March 29.—Results of a series of liquor raids made by special agents of the department of justice in Clinton were announced, when the first consignment of defendants was taken to Davenport to face Federal Commissioner Bush.

The six arraigned include a number of prominent business men, as does the remainder of the 21 persons apprehended in the raids, which included forays into private homes.

Liquor seized by the government agents includes 80 cases of whisky, four barrels of whisky, 16 sacks of bottled beer, two cases of wine and a miscellaneous assortment of other varieties of liquor.

RECOVERED WIFE AND CHILDREN, IS SATISFIED

Red Oak, Ia., March 29.—Accompanied by a Pinkerton detective, A. Williams, a Belgian of Moline, Ill., arrived here and persuaded his wife, who has been living here for the past six weeks with another man, Pete Stevens, also a Belgian, to return home with him. Mr. and Mrs. Williams and their two daughters, 10 and 12 years old, who have been here with their mother, returned home with the father.

The woman appeared to be surprised that she had violated any law of the land and asserted that in her native land women were privileged to go with other men when they tired of the ones to whom they are legally married. Williams appeared perfectly satisfied to recover his wife and children and refused to prosecute the one who had broken up his home.

RETURNED SOLDIERS BOYCOTTED BY GERMANS

Cedar Rapids, Ia., March 29.—Numerous complaints have been received by United States Deputy Marshall M. L. Healy of the renewed activities of the pro-German element in different sections of the state.

The protests of loyal Americans are so pronounced that Mr. Healy is considering the advisability of calling a conference of federal officials for the purpose of taking steps to put a stop to the disloyalty.

The Russellites are busy. They are circulating a petition here asking that the members of their sect who were convicted for publishing and distributing "The Unfinished Mystery," be pardoned by the president.

Healy also has been informed that in Hardin county returned soldiers are being boycotted by the German element. He will make a personal investigation of this report.

REVOKE CITIZENSHIP OF DES MOINES MAN

Des Moines, Ia., March 28.—Devocation of the citizenship papers of George Tones, of Des Moines, is to be asked on the ground that when he entered the United States he did so in irregular manner, having procured a vaccination certificate in England through fraud. The exposure came when Tomes resisted having his children vaccinated.

PLAN RECEPTION FOR UNIT K. MEN

Council Bluffs Ready to Do Honor to Hospital Organization Made Up From Western Iowa.

Council Bluffs, Ia., March 29.—Plans for the return home of the members of Unit K, Col. Donald Macrae's famous medical organization, which aided greatly in putting Iowa an the map in the war with Germany, have progressed to the point that little is left to be done. A special train will be provided the men from Camp Dodge to Council Bluffs. From here the men residing in various parts of western Iowa will scatter to their homes after the local reception. Advices received from the officers of the unit today state the unit is ready to sail from St. Nazaire.

Mobile Hospital No. 1, which is the official designation of the organization of which Unit K is a part, will be demobilized in two sections. The men from the eastern states will be discharged at Camp Upton, N. Y., while those from the west and middle west will be sent to Camp Dodge. There will be 83 men in the Camp Dodge contingent. Thirty-nine are from Council Bluffs and about as many more reside in various sections of western Iowa. A monster reception will be given here. It is planned that about 200 Council Bluffs people will go to Des Moines to meet the unit and accompany it to this city.

MEX. WAR VETERAN HAD A MUD BATH

Nearly Lost Life When He Became Mired Near Soldiers' Home at Marshalltown.

Marshalltown, Ia., March 27.—Becoming mired in low ground back of the soldiers' home came near proving a fatal experience yesterday to Phineas Case, aged 96, a member of the home from Osage, Ia.

Case, who is the only survivor of the Mexican war now enrolled as a member of the home went out for a walk, expecting to go over to a boat landing on the Iowa river bank. Land which he had to cross had been covered with water only recently, but gave no evidence from the surface of being soft. The ground proved to be filled with quicksand, and the farther Case walked and the more he struggled the deeper he sank. It was only when some one from the bluff below saw him struggling in the mud that help was secured and the old man recued by means of a rope thrown out to him. He was almost exhausted when he finally was removed and taken to the hospital, where he is suffering from shock and exposure.

IOWA SOLDIER WAS NEARLY BURIED ALIVE.

Charles City, Ia., March 29.—A soldier from here connected with airplane service in France, Oren Wilcox, came near being buried alive while in service there.

Two returned soldiers who were visiting here chanced to speak of their work in the Argonne region before Mr. Wilcox's sister, who remarked that she had a brother in that section, when one of the soldiers said he must have been the soldier who came so near being buried alive, and this was all the family learned until he returned and was asked about it.

Wilcox's duties were observation man and tester of instruments and on one ascension the airplane fell to the ground and the pilot was killed and Wilcox was unconscious for some time.

His companions, believing him dead prepared him for burial, wrapped in the American flag and placed in a rough box, with a cross to mark his grave. While the chaplain was praying, Wilcox regained consciousness and stopped the proceedings. He was taken to the hospital and after three months was out again.

After his recovery he was shown the burial preparations for him and the cross that would have marked his last resting place.

FARMERS COMPLAIN SONS HELD IN THE ARMY

Blencoe, Ia., March 29.—When the draft took hundreds of farm lads into the army and made soldiers out of them, farmers in this vicinity let their sons go to war. Now, with the discharge of hundreds of soldiers, Blencoe farmers are rebelling when their sons are not released. They declare that the war department has kept them in the service and turned aliens loose.

One farmer here has two sons in the service and is trying to farm a half section. One boy, at Camp Dodge, twice has made application for release, but has been turned down.

Another farmer, with a mechanical turn of mind, enlisted in the motor transport corps. His farm is unplowed and his stock scattered. His efforts to secure a release have been ignored.

Farm help is scarce and, with the spring seeding work on, farmers are short handed.

ROCK VALLEY—The H. R. Siemonsma farm of 300 acres north of town has been purchased by E. D. Mock and William Davelaar. The consideration was $303.50 per acre.

RETURNED SOLDIER IS MARRIED AT CORRECTIONVILLE.

Correctionville, Ia., March 27.—Louis M. Michaelson and Miss Iva M. Mumford were married at the T. J. Mumford home at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. Mark Masters. Only the immediate relatives were present. The groom who is a son of Henry Michaelson, recently returned from overseas service. The bride is a daughter of T. J. Mumford, and has been teaching school here.

Training Little Children

Suggestions by mothers who have been kindergartners. Issued by The United States Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., and The National Kindergarten Association, New York, N. Y.

It Makes the Mother's Tasks Easier If She Learns to Love What She Has to Do.

IF I were a Fairy Godmother, I would wave my wand and say to all mothers, "Love what you have to do." Children's wants are so numerous and a mother has such constant demands made upon her that she needs to retire within herself often and, no matter how tired she may feel, repeat again and again, "I love what I have to do." Then suddenly she will feel better, and it becomes easier to go on with the task of caring for and training the children. It pays in dollars and cents, as well as in peace of mind and satisfaction of spirit, to devote much thought toward starting the children right.

What are some of the simple ways in which we can help our little ones? Let us begin the day happily, no matter how we feel, and never be discouraged nor allow the children to become so. Together, mothers and children can learn to be honest, obedient and faithful.

It should not be forgotten that all virtues thrive best in a healthy body. Therefore, give the child plenty of fresh air, have him sleep in a well-ventilated room, wear clean, whole clothes, and eat simple food.

Let Little Ones Help at Home.

Let the children take hold and help about the house a little. At 4½ years old they can wash dishes, and they love to do so. An oilcloth apron will keep them dry. They can also help make beds, brush up crumbs and do many other things. But we must not nag the children at their tasks, remembering that interest in useful work may be most successfully developed by keeping it in the realm of the play spirit.

We have churches and schools to help in our work with our children, but it comes back every time to the parents and the home to develop in the children the simple practices which lead to right and happy living.

We must be patient in answering questions, and if we do not always know the answer, let us try to find out with the children. Fun is as natural as breathing to most children. Try to laugh with them at their simple jokes.

Let us take a little time at the end of the day, if we can, to tell a story. The quiet will do us all Perhaps we may have seen a squirrel or a child do some a thing as we glanced out of the while at work. The wind may been chasing the pretty leaves, sun playing hide-and-seek amo clouds. Stories are not all to be in books. It is a big accompli to learn to do things in the child —things they like to do but we have often denied them b we felt we didn't have time bothered.

If the little ones see hat and father are trying to find thing to love in all their trying before we know it the h me ways be full of sunshine. If a fretful child to deal with, fi first if he is being properly nou then try telling him stories wh take his mind off himself.

Many children are often di able because they haven't en the right things to do, such as and songs, that provide activi stimulate the mind and occu that answer the child's need doing and making something.

A most important point fo mother to realize is the neces sticking to the lessons she ne teach every single day until th habits are permanently formed child.

No one can tell us exactly th it is best to do with children. we begin to watch and think when we can and exchange ences with other mothers ma gestions will be found to m needs. Take a glimpse backw your own childhood and man will occur to you in that wa through it all we will find t children are helping to bring too. Courage and joy prolo and we can well afford to st wait, feeling sure that if our have been right and we c something to love even in t things of life our little ones and know and will "rise up t blessed."

Please pass this article on to and thus help Uncle Sam reac mothers of the country.

Liberty Bond Swindlers.

Richard Spillane, in Philadelphia Public Ledger.

At every industrial plant in America placards are to be posted, pr several languages, warning the workers against the schemers who are stories tending to lessen faith in Liberty bonds.

The government has determined organized or selfish propaga tends to spread doubt as to value of Liberty bonds or results in ge bonds out of the possession of the people must stop or the offenders the heavy hand of justice.

It is time such action was taken. The "pirates of promotion" her adelphia and no doubt in other cities have even stooped to preying u who work in offices.

A gentleman connected with one of the largest banks in Americ to the attention of the Public Ledger a case in his office where a gir was about to buy stock in a copper mining company which copper they never heard about.

Another girl, a friend of the banking official's clerk, had been ind broker to part with her $50 Liberty bond in exchange for stock in th company. A few days after she parted with her bond the broker info she was entitled to a dividend, and thereupon the broker paid $20 to

This influenced her imagination so much that she went about t remarkable story to her girl friends and advising them to sell the bonds and buy the wonderful stock that paid $20 in dividends three she bought it, and which, the man said, was going to pay so much m

"What are you going to do?" the bank official asked of his girl cl

"Give my Liberty bond to the broker for the mining stock," answer.

"You will do no such thing if I can prevent you," said the offici bold faced robbery."

Then he went on to explain that copper mines are making lit money now, and not one in all the world is earning enough to pay ich to stockholders. He told her the broker who "sold" that stock to the ded her out of her Liberty bond, less the $20, and that he paid the $20 she would spread the story far and wide and influence other girls to

It was an old trick of the swindlers, he told her, but he had not k had stooped so low as to rob working girls.

The girl was reluctant to believe what he said. Unfortunately, t unusual. Speculation appeals more to women, old and young, even th They believe in their luck, and they do not believe men will swindl th erately. But the breed of scamps operating today is of the lowest jobbing game has had. And that is saying a good deal.

Belongs to World.

From the Dallas News.

It has been said of M. Clemenceau that he revived the hope and courage of France at the moment when it tottered over the abyss of despair. That judgment may somewhat exaggerate the effect of his elevation to the place of direction, but that he defeated German intrigue and arrested the processes of demoralization at a critical moment is hardly to be questioned by any one who observed the course of French affairs closely. Before his stern methods sedition, defeatism, corruption and treason skulked back into the dark corners from which they had been emboldened to issue by the temporizing and supinity of his predecessors, and France again turned her face to the foe, freed of the fear that her heroism would be undone by treachery. The anarchist who attempted to destroy a life which rendered that incalculable service made all civilized society the victim of his assault. He did this at a moment, too, when the world has hardly less need of the splendid intelligence and stout heart than it did in that momentous hour when M. Clemenceau rallied the spirit of France. But little of that great life remains unspent, in all likelihood, but the remainder of its allotment is one of the world's precious possessions, and it will count it a providential intervention that miscarried the murderous bullets that were aimed at it.

The Language Bugaboo.

From the New York Post.

Indiana is uncertain whether to be more diverted or disgusted over the way in which her legislature is wrestling with the problem of German in the schools. Her statute books contain a law passed in 1869, making the teaching of German compulsory upon the petition of the parents or guardians of 25 children in the school district. The simple repeal of this law would seem to be the natural first step. But legislatures have their own little ways of doing things. The bills that have been introduced upon the subject at Indianapolis led the News of that city to call for a rule that nothing but English may be used in the legislature. One bill sweepingly provided that nothing but the English language could be tau schools, thus excluding arithme phy, and so on. Some of the l appear to be unaware of the between "elementary" and schools. It is not reported members pleaded that when to school they had to spend so upon German that they are a in English.

Wifey Scores.

From Saturday Journ

Husband—It is a strange true, that the biggest fools ha beautiful wives.

Wife—Oh, you flatterer!

A Preference.

But yesterday I met a man
Who to the lexicon was bro
In dipping, dactyls, he could sc
Theocritus, or any other
He could discourse upon eart
Or on what made the dodo
Than such a dreary dry-as-du
I'd rather be an ignoramus!

He knew by rote each churc
And he could diagnose con
He could translate a Chinese
Or strange Assyrian inscri
He could dilate on birds or
Or legends from the land o
Than such a facile fund of f
I'd rather be an ignoramus!

Clearly could he elucidate
The manners of the men
